GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 86.

December 31, 1917.

To County Councils of Defense:

It has been suggested by the National Council that aid might be given to the Treasury Department in connection with the collection of income tax, by the appointment of a very representative man in each county who would work with the collectors of internal revenue. The government is going to send a special man into each county in Indiana to aid individuals in making their report, and the representatives of the county councils could probably be of some service to this man. More especially however, they could carefully watch the situation, and doubtless by their efforts bring considerable amount into the treasury.

It is not, of course, the purpose that the County Councils provide tax ferrets, or that action be taken by the County Councils which would embarrass or hinder the general situation, but rather that a real, strong, levelheaded and fairminded, substantial citizen be appointed, one interested in patriotic matters, who would make it a point to see that honesty in these matters prevails.

You will know the kind of a man that ought to be appointed, and he should be selected with great care. We have thought it might be best not to give any publicity to his appointment; simply pick a fair, strong man and let him, with his knowledge of local men in the county, watch things very carefully.

There is no assumption that there will be tax dodgers, but word comes sometimes that there are men who do not support the war as liberally as they might, and who might perhaps not overstate their incomes. You will understand. And the right kind of a man could be of much service to the government in this connection.

He can get in touch with the representative of the revenue collector when in the county, and also get in touch with the revenue collector himself if necessity warrants it.

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Patriotic Press Comment

Conscience Salve.

Every day or two some newspaper goes a long way in disproving charges against the Red Cross. The same story about sweaters donated to the Red Cross being sold appears everywhere.

We don't believe its denial is worth the rhetoric which is expended. People who believe such a story are only trying to find an excuse for not doing their share. Their consciences becoming painful, they go out hunting for arnica to put upon the sore spots, and lies about the Red Cross fill the bill.

No woman doing her duty in Red Cross work is troubled by such lies. Only those who are doing nothing are being so horribly shocked.—Gary, Ind., Tribune.

* * * * *

Wiping Out an Atrocity.

Evansville clubs are disturbed over the question: What shall we do with the banquet in wartime?

There can be but one answer: Hold the banquet at such a time that it will take the place of a meal, and then serve no more than would be served at a meal at home.

Evansville organizations should make it a point to set an example to the homes in conservation. It is easy enough to substitute fish or fowl for meat. It is easy to serve rye or cornbread, and only a little white bread.

The ordinary American banquet has been an atrocity of peace. Let us hope that war has banished it never to return. There is no reason why a banquet should ever consist of more than four courses: soup, fish or fowl, with a vegetable salad, and dessert.—Evansville Press.

* * * * *

A Traitor of the Soil.

The action of the Indiana Food Administration in serving notice upon a Boone county farmer who refuses to cultivate his 500-acre farm or to rent it to others for the purpose at less than an exorbitant rental, that he must either put his farm under cultivation or turn it over to others to that end. It appears that this particular farmer is also holding 3,000 bushels of corn which is in danger of ruin. Happily there are few such gluttonous copperheads among the farmers of Indiana. Almost without exception our tillers of the soil have risen to the emergency and have served the country well. Such creatures as this Boone county farmer should not be permitted to escape with the mere contempt of the people. Such gross natures would not suffer under contempt. They deserve the governmental lash and if there is no way to properly reach this form of treason it is the manifest duty of the congress to find a way.—Goshen Democrat.

The Carol of Liberty Clan.

By Walter S. Greenough.

Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man!
Borne in the manger of Liberty-clan!
Strength to your arm, lad! bend you the bow,
That shall strike terror to heart in the foe!
Strong be your soul, lad—mighty your heart!
You, that shall finish—and you that shall start.
Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man!
Nursed in the bosom of Liberty-clan.

Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man
Schooled in the temples of Liberty-clan!
Stout be your spirit, lad—straight be your aim!
Bear you the burden, lad, into the flame!
Sturdy your fight, lad—you that have known
Fruits of the seeds that your fathers have sown.
Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man!
Nurtured—'till now—in the Liberty-clan!

Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man!
Fraught with the prayers of the Liberty-clan!
Stand to the front, lad—more are behind!
Be you the first, lad—such is your kind!
Strike from the brain, lad—you, with a soul!
Play the game fair, lad—clean—to the goal!
Soldier of Somewhere—hail to you, man!
Guard you the Christ child of Liberty-clan!

Tippecanoe County Council of Defense Sheep Club

County Agent Otis Crane and Members of the Tippecanoe County Council of Defense Sheep Club.

The Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation and the State Council of Defense have encouraged the organizing of sheep clubs throughout the state. As a result of the drive for more sheep in Indiana, it is known that several thousand head have been added to the breeding stocks on hand.

Tippecanoe County claims to have organized the first County Council of Defense Sheep Club. Under the rules of this Tippecanoe County organization any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 20 years can become a member. The size of the club is limited only by the number of ewes which it will be possible to obtain. The rules by which the club members are governed are fixed. It is necessary for each member to keep an accurate account of the cost of maintaining, shearing and feeding the sheep. Each member must bring his lambs to the county fair to be judged in competition with those of other members of the club. The registered sheep and the grades each are given a class.

County Agent Otis Crane assisted the members of the sheep club to secure three breeding ewes. The Shropshire breed was selected as being the most popular in their section. The pure bred sheep cost $30 per head, and the grades $20.

One of the Club Members Leading His Ewes Into the Auto Trailer.

A number of prizes have been promised by clothing men and bankers of Lafayette, such as sweaters, hats, suits, in addition to cash prizes. Every boy of the club is assured of some kind of a prize.

It is felt that this club work will stimulate interest among the boys who will be the future mutton and wool producers of Tippecanoe County and at the same time help to meet the needs of our government. Tippecanoe County is to be commended upon her undertaking.

Merchants' Economy

Goshen retailers have agreed to close their stores every evening in the week except Saturday. Heretofore they have been open on Monday evenings and in some cases other evenings. They expect thereby to conserve fuel and light.

*****

Bartholomew county grocers have organized by electing John Trembly, of Columbus, president and Irvin King secretary. They plan to inaugurate a system of two deliveries a day, abandon promiscuous delivering and by concerted action in other particulars effect economies that will be handed on to the consumers.

*****

Merchants on Main and Second streets, Vincennes, have voluntarily banded together in an agreement to open their stores at 8 o'clock mornings and close at 5, thereby cutting off two hours of the winter schedule. They hope thereby to save coal and light, without seriously depressing their volume of business.

*****

Kokomo grocers have organized and will inaugurate a union delivery system. They will also co-operate with the federal food administration in the regulation of prices, cash and carry system and such other ways as directed. J. E. McKee will represent them at a conference of retail grocers to be held in Indianapolis January 15. The Kokomo membership includes the following: C. M. Anderson, T. F. Jones, J. W. Carothers, C. E. Jolliffe, C. L. Wood, Lacy Allbright, J. J. McInturf, W. A. Weddell, Frazer Bros., M. P. Stibbins, U. G. Garritson, J. E. McKee, Frank Ulrick, Moore & Ford, Edward Nicholas, Polk Redmon, George M. Cordoza, Ed. Echelborger, George Myers, A. F. Rhodes, C. H. Renie, Scott Crane, J. H. Daughert, Martin Coady and Matthew Miller.

*****

South Bend merchants have adopted a rule whereby any article which for some good reason is to be returned to a store, must be returned within three days after purchase. They also agree that only two deliveries per day shall be made, beginning January 1, and only such articles as are too bulky to be carried will be hauled back to the stores.

Hereafter the following articles for legal, sanitary or other reasons, can not be accepted for return: Bedding and mattresses; garments that have been altered for the purchaser; shoes which have been altered; combs, hair brushes and tooth brushes; hair goods, hair ornaments and veils; rubber goods sundries; women's hats which have been made specially to the customer's order, or which have been worn; all goods cut from the piece at the request of the customer; all merchandise which has been made to order or specially ordered, and which is not regularly carried in stock.

All customers in habit of making unjust claims will be posted in a record accessible to all members of the organization and credit ratings will be made. The following have adopted these regulations and agree to abide by them: Brandon-Durrell Co., Chas. B. Sax & Co., Robertson Bros. Co., Geo. Wyman & Co., The Ellsworth Store, T. S. Garland & Co., Shermans Store, South Bend Floral Co., Warner Bros., Electric Service Co., Ries Furniture Co., Max Adler Co., Chard & Tompsett, A. H. Heller Furniture Co., Smith & Wherritt, Barney Frank, Fox Clothing Store, O. K. Cash Grocery, The Gately Co., Bushler Bros., Alexander & Goldberg, The People's Store, Louis Frank, Platt & Perkey, The Frances Shop, C. N. Copp, H. Lemontree, Chas. M. Schuell, A. C. Murdock, J. P. McGill Co., Geo. H. Wheelock & Co., E. E. Mangold, Chas. Dolph & Son, National Cash Register Co., Modern Shoe Store, Sailors Bros. Co., Public Drug Store, Coffee Ranch, Applegate Drug Store, John Parker, Grand Leader, Adler Bros., Sam'l Spiro & Co., Royal Women's Garment Co.

George A. Robertson is chairman and George H. Wheelock vice-chairman of the organization.

*****

Elkhart merchants are planning to conserve coal and light by reducing their day to eight hours during January and February. They will open at 8:30 a. m. and close at 5:30, with an hour for noon. A. A. Poorbaugh is president, C. M. Lounsberry vice-president, C. W. Kantz, secretary and Harley Himebaugh treasurer of the retail grocers who contemplate dispensing with unnecessary deliveries, curtailing credits and enforcing other economies. They are a unit in conforming with the recommendations of the federal food administrator for the county.

A campaign to limit the use of string and wrapping paper has been inaugurated by the Merchants' Economy Section of the Illinois State Council of Defense. Where merchandise is sold in clean, attractive packages, it will be the policy of the members of the Illinois organization to insist that it be delivered without wrapping of any kind. It is believed such a policy will be the means of saving thousands of wasted dollars.

Bureau to Place Women in the War Industries

The problem which concerns the placement of women in positions held by men released for war service as well as the placement of wage-earners made idle through industrial changes will be simplified by a new plan now being put into effect by the Labor Department. This plan includes the transfer of the United States Employment Service from the Bureau of Immigration to the office of the Secretary of Labor and will also centralize the work of the various employment bureaus throughout the country. In addition to $250,000 placed in the hands of the Secretary of Labor for war emergency employment work by the urgent deficiency bill, a further sum has been made available by President Wilson from his $100,000,000 appropriation to carry on the service pending further action by Congress.

APPOINTED ASSISTANT MANAGER.

Significant of the importance of women in industry is the appointment of Miss Hilda Muhlhauser as assistant manager of the newly organized Employment Service of the Department of Labor. For the last ten years Miss Muhlhauser has devoted her time and energy to all the phases of the employment problem, making intensive studies as well as practical investigations. She is identified with many organizations, being a member of the Board of the Consumers' League of Ohio, the Woman's Suffrage Association and the Woman's City Club of Cleveland and New York. She is vice-president of the American Association of Public Employment Bureaus.

General Apathy and Private Interest are two enemies of our national welfare. Each is as dangerous as a Kaiser's agent and should be excluded from every American home and industry.

Farmers Asked to Save Their Old Corn for Seed

Survey Planned for Every County in Indiana to Meet Demands for Next Year's Seeding.

The problem of securing seed corn for the 1918 crop is serious and complicated. The seed corn situation was discussed at a special meeting December 28, called by G. I. Christie, State Food Director, and attended by various state leaders and the crops committee appointed in October at the conference of agricultural extension workers. It was pointed out at this conference, which was held at Purdue University, that a great amount of the 1917 crop gathered for seed purposes had been ruined recently by the zero weather.

This special meeting was called as a result of a conference with the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Food Director, December 19 and 20. It was recommended at the Purdue meeting that a county and state-wide campaign for seed corn testing should begin about February 1. The time between now and then should be used in making plans and preparations for this big work. Some preliminary testing could be taken up by the county agents and good corn growers to determine the present condition of the seed and give information to interested farmers. The low germination which will undoubtedly result from these tests will mean much in arousing the people to the real need of this work.

The committee expressed itself in a very clear way that a seed survey should be taken of every farm in the state. The State Food Director is taking up at once with the United States Department of Agriculture the matter of printing the cards necessary for such a survey. When the survey is undertaken it will be conducted systematically in every county so that complete data on the sources of seed can be secured.

In an effort to organize the counties, the following, which contains the main points considered at this special conference, was sent to the county agents by the State Food Director:

OLD CORN.

"The hope for seed for the 1918 corn crop lies in the use of a large amount of old corn. In some sections the 1916 crop was well matured and dry. Although it has been kept in the crib, it is in fairly good condition and will likely test out a high per cent. of ears fit for seed. In many cases this will be found to be only fair quality and not of the best type, but this year, if it will grow, it will be necessary for farmers to overlook some of these points which have been considered most important in the past. Crib corn as a general rule is wholly undesirable for seed. This year we have to take what we can get. The amount of old corn is limited. It is desirable, therefore, to proceed at once to locate every bushel of old corn suitable for seed. It is suggested that you call at once a meeting of your crops committee of your association, together with grain dealers, bankers, millers and other interested people. A notice in the newspapers asking people to notify your office of old seed, or a request through the schools, having each child report, together with a special search by members of your committee, will do much to get early information. It was suggested by the committee that counties will do well to organize every township and arrange to have some interested man in every two to four square miles make a search for good old corn.

"The price of this corn was given consideration. It is the general feeling that on the basis of merchantable corn, farmers should be willing to sell old corn, crib run, at not to exceed $2.50 per bushel. If this corn is selected and individually ear tested, then the seed secured would be worth considerable more, but should be sold at not to exceed $5.00 per bushel. This information should be given to your people and every effort made to have this corn sold at reasonable prices. Profiteering was denounced in the strongest terms and efforts of a few farmers to hold seed corn for $10.00 to $20.00 per bushel was scorned.

A Patriotic Monument in 1918

The sign "SAVE FOOD" is shown on the sacred precincts of Monument Circle, Indianapolis. Its patriotic significance is as pertinent and as forceful as the countless other reminders of valorous sacrifices in the immediate vicinity. In front of the Federal building in Indianapolis are similar signs. The State House grounds, for the first time, have been ornamented with patriotic appeals to the people to save food and help win the war. School yards all over Indiana have been freely and eagerly offered for the purpose of exploiting the importance of the conservation campaign, now so all-compelling.

NEW CORN.

"While new corn is in a serious condition, yet there are many who have saved early seed and by careful testing can get from this a very large amount of good seed. If with labor and time twenty to sixty ears can be secured from one hundred saved, this is better than discarding the whole lot and taking to something that is new and untried.

"Every effort should be made to save our best varieties. It will be easy now to discard good varieties and lose the work of many years and good qualities of corn which cannot be equaled by new seed secured from other parts. For this reason seed corn testing must play an important part on every farm. Your committee should plan a most extensive campaign. Every school must be enlisted, trustees must be urged to get suitable equipment for the schools. The State Food Committee will secure authority for such schools as you desire so that the trustees may use special funds to give the necessary assistance. Grain men will gladly install germinators and give help. Leave no stone unturned. Make this the big thing of the year.

SECURING SEED FROM OTHER COUNTIES.

"The State Food Committee, the State Seed Stocks Committee, the United States Department of Agriculture and Purdue University will take immediate steps to locate seed in other counties and other states. If your county wishes to buy some seed, we will give every help that we can. It may be desirable for your grain men or other interested seedsmen to buy a car or more of good seed for distribution to your farmers. If this is decided upon, places should be taken up at once to get this corn. Do not advise securing of corn from the south, nor from eastern states. A small amount of this corn may be used for silage purposes, but this should be carefully guarded.

"If you have any difficulties in organizing and forwarding the plans suggested above, you will please notify this office at once.

"The Secretary of Agriculture has issued orders that provision must be made immediately for seed for the 1918 crop. This is considered now a war measure and activities will be watched closely by the government. We are urged to take such steps as will get results. Every help will be given to bring this about. If you have any questions we shall be glad to hear from you at once so as to put this under way successfully."

Reports from all parts of the state indicate that a very low per cent. of the new corn is suitable for seed. This situation is especially critical in northern Indiana. The following report from A. J. Hutchins, county agent of Allen county, is typical:

"Our county corn show was a decided success. It brought home to the farmers who attended the seriousness of the seed corn situation. Many went home to test their corn and are reporting that corn picked from the stalk is growing, while about 50 per cent. of that saved at husking time was dead. Corn stored in the house is reported all right, but open-stored corn suffered from the hard freezing weather."

It is evident that the seed corn tester must be used on every ear of corn planted in 1918 in order to secure a good stand.

Those who attended the conference were Prof. G. I. Christie; Dean J. H. Skinner, of the experiment station; T. A. Coleman, state leader of county agents; C. Henry, assistant; Prof. A. T. Wiamcko; Prof. G. M. Frier; J. A. McCarty; J. C. Beavers; C. O. Cromer and R. S. Thomas of the extension department; T. L. Wheeler, Huntington, editor of the Indiana Farmers' Guide; Walter Rogers, Nashville; L. O. Chasey, Marion; Charles Brown and George Kirlin, Franklin; C. E. Troyer, Lafontaine; E. B. Moore, Scircleville; E. R. Diry, Le Roy, Mich.; Roscoe Fields, Winchester, and James Kline, Lagrange, all corn growers and extension workers; J. S. Bordner, South Bend; D. D. Ball, Washington; Otis Crane, Lafayette; T. S. McCulloch, Mt. Vernon; Russell G. East, Shelbyville, and W. R. Zechiel, Shoals, all county agents.

Food Conservationisms.

"If we discontinue exports we will move the German line from France to the Atlantic seaboard." That is the sententious way in which the Food Administrator puts the situation. Tons of statistics and argument could add nothing to it. "My husband will not eat corn bread and insists he must have meat every day as usual," says a troubled housewife. "What can I do?" This being war time, we are not in a fair mood to advise. But every such selfish man is doing his part to "discontinue exports" and "move the German line from France to the Atlantic seaboard."

Corn and potatoes, America's two bumper crops for 1917, are eligible to the bill of fare three times a day seven days a week. Who will be the first American housewife to so ingeniously camouflage these products as to tempt the family appetite 21 times in succession?

Report of Coal Production Committee

The coal production committee of the State Council of Defense met at the Claypool Hotel Thursday, December 13, and had a full and satisfactory meeting. The members present were Frank J. Hays, International President of the U. M. W. of A.; Ed. Stewart, President; James Shiel, Vice-President; William Mitch, Secretary, and Jack Grange and Arch Forbes, board members of District 11 U. M. W. of A., P. H. Penna, M. L. Gould, H. M. Ferguson, Wm. Johnson and W. J. Freeman, Coal Operators.

The general labor situation at the mines was discussed and analyzed. It disclosed that there has been a great improvement in the situation within the last few weeks, and that in most instances labor disturbances are caused by misunderstandings, and mistakes on someone's part rather than from discontent on the part of the mineworkers, or vicious agitation of trouble makers. It is true that in some few instances friction has occurred that did not have the sanction or approval of the executive officers of the Union, but this has not been persistent or continued. Some stoppages have occurred at the mines, not on account of grievances against the operators, but as a protest against train service in getting miners to and from their work on the miners' trains. Some cases where the miners have gone out to the mines and then find that the railroad failed to get in cars for working the mines that day have resulted in the miners refusing to work the next day as a retaliation. Such failure of the railroad should never occur except in case of a wreck or other cause absolutely beyond their control. The railroads should use the greatest care not to fool the miners out, and, on the other hand, if anything unforeseen should occur, preventing the mine being served with empties after the miners report for work, the miners should not use the failure as a reason for laying the mine idle the next day, as that only punishes, first, the public more than anyone else affected, and next the operators who are in no way to blame. It does not punish the railroad, as they have all they can do anyway, and laying a mine idle is actually a relief to them rather than a punishment.

The worst feature of the labor situation was found to be the individuals staying away from work, which is being done to such an extent that the average working force in the mines during the past month was only 85 per cent, according to records kept by the operators. For 15 per cent. of the miners to be idle all the time is certainly doing a wrong to the public, which looks to the miners to do their full part during these times of stress. This laxness on the part of the few who do the laying out is in all probability due to thoughtlessness and ignorance of the consequences.

During the time of car shortage last summer and fall, or up to about thirty days ago, the production of coal was not affected by individuals staying away, but when the mines began running every day on account of better car service, every miner that laid out reduced the production of coal by just as much as he could have mined should he have been at work. Just think what ten tons of coal, or the product of one miner in one day, will do for a community that is out of coal.

To get home to each miner just how important it is for him to work and work every day, this committee is intending to endeavor to hold a series of meetings in each mining center of the state, the meetings to be addressed by such national and district miners' officials as can spare the time, who will urge and appeal to all miners to patriotically do their bit to support the boys in the trenches by keeping the production of coal speeded up to the highest notch. We are also going to carry on a campaign of advertising by posting in the miners' trains and near working places such advice and counsel as appears to suit the purpose best. One circular adopted reads as follows:

WHAT DOTH IT PROFIT A MAN?

Germany is working, by every scheme that ingenuity can devise and money can put into operation, to make American workingmen traitors to their country in its hour of need.

What doth it profit a man if he sends his sons and brothers to the battlefields, and after he gets them there he betrays them to the enemy by stopping the industrial home work without which they can neither win nor escape?

The courses of nations—the lives of millions—are changed by very small events. Had the Monitor not been ready for the Merrimac exactly when she was, the Union fleet would have been rendered useless and the Civil War might have had a different ending. Had someone then succeeded in making serious trouble in a mine, a foundry, or a shop—had someone then succeeded in delaying transportation while the Monitor was under construction, what would have become of the whole Union fleet of wooden ships which was blockading the Southern ports?

Germany wants us to be unready or confused when a similar crisis comes.

Our whole nation is preparing for the turning point in this war which is to determine whether every man shall have a chance to work out his destiny, or whether he and his country are to become subject to the dictation of a Prussian group.

If we are not fully ready when the test comes it will be easier for German armies and German ships, German submarines and German aircraft, to kill the men that go out from your community to protect you and your rights.

Whoever, from any motive, delays work bearing directly or indirectly on the war, will be an accessory to the murder of his fellow Americans.

Every strike in the United States, while this war is in progress, is a blow in favor of Germany.

What doth it profit a man to increase his wages or decrease his working hours if by so doing he contributes to the victory of a nation that makes slaves of white men and scourges them as they work?

The condition of the blacks in America before the Civil War was far better than the condition of the whites of Belgium who today are carried off like cattle, are overworked, underfed, beaten and, sick or well, must labor incessantly, often under the fire of their own guns.

What doth it profit a man to aid a monarch who in this manner has shamelessly re-established the slavery of white men? The workingman in America who obstructs the cutting of wood, the mining of fuel, the weaving of cloth, the turning of wheels in factories or on rails while this war is in progress—he is helping the slave masters, the destroyers of civilization, the murderers of women and children.

What doth it profit a man who has lived in a land of incomparable liberties, of advantages unparalleled in all the history of the world, to contribute by any act, however small, to the success of an autocracy to whom a common man is but a clod of earth?

The workingman who stands faithfully by his duties day by day, allowing no person and no thought to get between him and an honest performance of his work, is rendering the highest kind of patriotic service to his nation and to his family.

What doth it profit a man to sell his manhood, his self-respect, perhaps his soul, for a little selfish gain in such an hour? When life's services are measured up at the end, those who have faithfully labored through the war shall be entitled to their credit as well as those who have led the charges in battle.

What doth it profit a man who wants to improve the condition of laboring men if he gains a little but in so doing prolongs the slavery of Belgian workingmen, who now cannot gain their freedom but by death, or through the victory of the Allies?

Stand by your work for your own honor and safety, for the safety and success of your fellow countrymen who go forth to fight, as well as for the sake of workingmen who are now in actual slavery beneath German slave drivers.

This committee feels that the effort just outlined will, to some extent, reduce the idle time that is now affecting the output of coal.

Respectfully submitted,
COAL PRODUCTION COMMITTEE,
By W. J. FREEMAN, Chairman.

Let's Save the Proverbs

By George Ade.

We must win the big war or else revise all moral codes, rewrite all proverbs and adopt a brand new set of rules to govern conduct.

We have accepted certain time-honored adages as self-evident truths.

We found them in our early copy-books and we grew up on them and repeated them so often that naturally we came to think they could be relied upon.

Then Germany came along with an intensely modern variety of Ethics bearing the label of Kultur.

The new medicine is not taken internally or rubbed on as a liniment, but you have it shot into you by a large gun.

Unless we refuse to take the treatment everything we ever believed will be overruled, discarded and thrown into the alley.

If Germany is not licked to a standstill we might as well begin to memorize and humbly accept the following:

Dishonesty is the best policy.

Be as mean as a skunk and you will be happy.

Blessed are the children murderers, for they shall inherit the earth.

Be sure you are right handy with firearms, then go ahead.

An evil reputation is better than riches.

Truth crushed to earth will not rise again if the crushing is done in a superior and efficient manner.

Be virtuous and you will be miserable.

Thrice armed is he who goes around picking quarrels.

Might makes right.

Hell on earth and hatred for all men.

Do unto others as you suspect that they might do unto you if they ever got to be as disreputable as you are.

God helps the man that helps himself to his neighbor's house and his fields and his unprotected women.

Those don't sound right, do they? The old ones that we learned first of all are not yet out of date.

Suppose we don't revise them.

Loyalty League in Schools of America.

The Loyalty League of American Schools, just organized in New York under the direction of the American Defense Society, plans to have school teachers in that city sign "loyalty pledges," it has been announced. The new society also contemplates the formation of a junior loyalty league among public school pupils.

The proposed "loyalty pledge" for teachers reads:

"I solemnly pledge my unqualified loyalty to the President and the Congress of the United States of America in this war against the imperial German government and the government of Austria-Hungary.

"I pledge myself to teach my pupils that it is their duty not only to obey the laws of our government, but to respect those in authority.

"I declare myself to be in sympathy with the purposes of the government of the United States in its effort to make the world safe for democracy and shall try to inculcate this same spirit of loyalty and sympathy in my pupils.

"I shall do all in my power to aid the government in prosecuting this war to a victorious and successful end."

The league's executive committee also announced that it would work for the following amendment to the State education law of New York State:

"It shall be the duty of teachers actively to inculcate obedience to the laws of the nation and the State or municipality in which they teach."

Food Administration

County food administrators are advised of the receipt of a ruling from the Federal Food Administration, dated December 22, that all grocers or persons who supply hotels with any licensed foods, are required to have a license, the same as retail firms doing a business of $100,000 a year.

All wholesale and retail grocers are to be made a part of the Federal Food Administration. After January 20 this organization is to be turned over to the Federal food administrators for counties. County administrators will be asked to see that every retail grocer signs the pledge card and displays the pledge poster. It is important that the names of all grocers be enrolled by county administrators at once.

Reports of any dealer asking more than three-fourths to one and one-fourth cents per pound profit on sugar are asked by the Federal Food Administration. County administrators are urged to report to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal food administrator, at once, the following data, where there is an overcharge: Wholesaler supplying sugar; quantity purchased; freight and drayage; retail selling price. These facts will be of assistance in preventing and stopping profiteering.

Retailers may consider themselves trustees of sugar, flour and other licensed foodstuffs, rather than individual owners thereof. Under the Federal Food Administration's policy they will be permitted reasonable pay for handling these commodities, but the old-time privilege of charging "all the traffic will bear" is taboo.

KEEP CLEAR OF A BUZZ SAW.—The American Miller has one piece of very trite, but nevertheless very good advice, to tender to all who in any way come under the Federal food regulations: "Don't monkey with the buzz saw." Federal laws are something like a buzz saw in motion. They usually operate so quietly that they don't look as if they were moving. More than one innocent bystander has lost a finger or two by touching a saw to see if it were going. The knowledge so obtained is hardly worth a finger. The safe course is to assume that the saw and the Federal laws are in motion.

In a time of world crisis, it is a poor thing to allow illogical criticism to take the place of constructive help. Save wheat and meat because that's your duty. You don't stop praying because your neighbor plays golf on Sunday.

There is just so much food in the world. There is not enough of some kinds to go around among the allied nations, except through assistance from our supplies. We hold the balance of food. Our allies are helping us fight the battle for democracy and liberty. We must share our food with them, or else we shall have to fight Germany on this side of the Atlantic instead of the other. We have only to substitute and stop waste to have enough wheat, meat, sugar, and fats to supply the needs of our allies. There is no chance for argument or excuse. We simply must do it. This is a duty to perform with alacrity and cheerfulness. Our people are rising to it in the true American spirit.

FOOD CONSERVATION PROVERBS.

"He that wasteth today will be hungry tomorrow."
 "He that wasteth in his own house increases the price of his neighbor's dinner."
 "Wasted materials belong to no one, but might belong to all."
 "If I could have what the Nation wastes in one day, I would be rich for life."
 "The mother of a family who does not economize today is taking tomorrow's bread out of the mouth of her children."
 "The man who laughs at you today for saving may envy you tomorrow."
 "The stomach is a greater cause of poverty than the sword."

A leader of one of the fraternal orders recently advised its members that it was contrary to the principles of the order that there should be dire want in nineteen of the warring countries and wanton waste in our own land. And he pointed out that a conspicuous and prolific source of waste is the banquet, which ought to be omitted, and the saving thus effected be given for speedy and needed relief. This is the common-spirit in which the fraternal orders have accepted the food-conservation suggestions and requests. Will the religious organizations do less?

THE FOOD ADMINISTRATOR SAYS:

"Conservation of food will win the war; waste will lose it."

"Every pound of fat is as sure of service as every bullet, and every hog is of greater value to the winning of this war than a shell."

"My vision of war is not of an academic problem to be solved by discussion and guarantees of profits; to me it is a vision of brave, dying men and suffering women and children, for service on whose behalf the greater exertion of the American farmer comes as a direct necessity and a direct plea. The American farmer who sees war as I see it needs no inducement and no inspiration but the thought that every spadeful of earth turned and every animal reared is lessening human suffering and guaranteeing the liberty of the world."

Wholesalers of Indianapolis and vicinity have been directed to refrain from supplying Chris Baumbach, 2602 North Capitol avenue, by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal food administrator for Indiana. Baumbach was reported by Federal agents to be selling canned goods that cost him eight cents per can, for fifteen cents. This is the first instance where the food control law has been invoked against a grocer in Indiana. The effect is to put him out of business for what the law terms "profiteering."

Announcement that confectioners and manufacturers of nonessential foodstuffs would be permitted to have 80 per cent. of their normal sugar requirements, instead of 50, to which they were restricted in October, were premature, says a dispatch to the Federal food administrator. The allowance is expected "within a few weeks" with an increased sugar supply, and to continue only so long as the confectioners and manufacturers co-operate to secure a minimum consumption and a maximum of conservation of the sugar supply.

The use of potato flour as a wheat conservation measure, recommended by George A. Prescott, food administrator of Michigan, is endorsed by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal food administrator for Indiana. Mr. Prescott recommends the following potato bread recipe, which, he says, will serve a double purpose in conservation, disposing of a surplus potato crop and saving wheat:

Three cakes compressed yeast,
 One-fourth pound salt,
 Twelve ounces sugar,
 One-half pound of hardened vegetable fat,
 Fifteen pounds flour,
 Eight quarts liquid,
 Five pounds potatoes, after having been put through a ricer.

Mix ingredients in a stiff, hard dough. Allow to raise until double its size; tin and when light, bake. This will make about thirty-one one-pound loaves of bread.

It's the Farmer's Business.

The farmer may not feel that he individually is called upon with his money and his services to protect the American flag on the high seas, but just wait until the war is over when it may become a question of whose wheat and whose corn and whose cotton are shipped to foreign ports for higher prices and it will be another matter. But the latest Liberty Loan and Red Cross campaigns demonstrated that the farmer is rapidly becoming alive to his personal responsibility in the national crisis.

Try a rye-bread cottage cheese and tomato cat-sup sandwich. It will give your palate a thrill, one you'll probably repeat.

Indiana State Council of Defense

Will H. Hays, Chairman.
 Frank C. Dailey, Secretary.
 George Ade.
 A. W. Brady.
 Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle.
 Dr. Chas. P. Emerson.
 Charles W. Fairbanks.
 Charles Fox.
 Will J. Freeman.
 Wm. G. Irwin.
 J. L. Keach.
 H. R. Kurrie.
 A. E. Reynolds.
 N. E. Squibb.
 Rev. Albert B. Storms.
 Isaac D. Straus.
 Thomas Taggart.
 Frank Wampler.
 E. M. Wilson.
 Evans Woollen.

Form of the Organization.

Public Policy—C. W. Fairbanks, Chairman.
Advisory Committee—Thos. Taggart, Chairman.

Finance—Evans Woollen, Chairman.

Publicity—George Ade, Chairman.

Legal—Frank C. Dailey, Chairman.

Co-ordination of Societies—Wm. G. Irwin, Chairman.

Sanitation and Medicine—Medical Section—Dr. Charles P. Emerson, Chairman.

Food—Will H. Hays, Chairman.

Industrial Survey and Preparedness—N. E. Squibb, Chairman, Indiana Representative on National Safety Council.

Survey and Organization of Man-Power—Isaac D. Straus, Chairman, Indiana Representative on United States Boys' Working Reserve.

Labor—Charles Fox, Chairman.

Military Affairs—E. M. Wilson, Chairman.

Protection—Colonel Harry B. Smith, Chairman.

Transportation—

Steam—H. R. Kurrie, Chairman.

Electric and Motor—A. W. Brady, Chairman.

Communications—Frank Wampler, Chairman.

Shipping Interests—A. E. Reynolds, Chairman.

Public Morals—Rev. A. B. Storms, Chairman.

Coal Committee—W. J. Freeman, Chairman.

Educational Section—Dr. Horace Ellis, Chairman.

Women's Activities—Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle.

Employers' Co-operation Committee—Frank Wampler, Chairman.

Commercial Economy Committee—Fred M. Ayres, Chairman.

"Four-Minute Men"—Philip T. White, Chairman.

Scientific Research Committee—A. L. Foley, Chairman.

Training Camp Activities and Recreation—Hugh McK. Landon, Chairman.

Illinois War Conference.

Illinois war workers have been called into a state-wide conference, such as was held in Indianapolis December 13 and 14. The meeting will be held in Chicago January 14 and 15. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, will be one of the principal speakers, and it is expected that Sir Frederick E. Smith, attorney general of England, will be present.

Take that twenty-five cents you did not spend for pork chops and buy a thrift stamp with it. You will be doing a double service—aiding in the conservation of red meats and giving the government money with which to carry on the war.

"The food economies and sacrifices which are today practiced in millions of Canadian and American homes are helping to win the war just as surely, and just as concretely, as the production of munitions."—LORD RHONDDA, British Minister of Food.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., JANUARY 11, 1918

Number 22

Council Makes Clear Position on Elevation

No Recommendation to Higher Officials Until There Has Been Hearing on Facts—Other Matters.

Preliminary to a discussion of the resolution previously adopted by the Indiana State Council of Defense, calling upon the city of Indianapolis and the railroads concerned to confer with a view to suspending the work of track elevation during the progress of the war, at the meeting of the Council January 9, Chairman Will H. Hays read the following prepared statement:

"In order that our discussion may relate to the matter that is really before us, I would suggest that we all bear in mind that the State Council of Defense has not directed the postponement of track elevation in the sense of controlling the situation at all, and that this Council has no authority as a matter of law, of course, to alter the contracts that have been made relating to track elevation.

"Acting under the policy recommended by the Council of National Defense, what the Council has done is to suggest that, in the light of the statement as to the number of railroad cars suitable for the transportation of coal and other commodities that would be employed in this construction work in the next two years, and the number of men that would be employed therein, and the declaration above referred to, of the Secretary of War, as to the national policy, which was made by him in his letter to us of October 1, 1917, that: 'During the period of the war any new enterprises or undertakings should be tried and justified by the test: will the men, money and material so applied better contribute in this way to the winning of the war?' in view of all of these things it was the idea of the Council that in the passage of the resolution, that the patriotic thing for the city and railroads to do would be to get together with a view of postponing, as far as it might be done in its general aspect, the continuance of this construction.

"It was made clear by the statements which were made when this resolution was under consideration, and should now be understood, that it was not the expectation of the Council that all work would be immediately stopped. It was realized, and particularly stated, that it would be necessary, in the interests of the general situation, to complete certain parts of the work in order immediately to utilize the construction which has been done, and that there would necessarily be a great amount of detail with reference to the things which might and might not be put off, which details the city and the railroads would be able to work out between themselves, that nothing should be allowed to prevent, hinder or discourage the ultimate completion of the improvement, the need for which is recognized by all, and that the intent of the Council was to bring the parties together and to recommend—following the policy of the National Council—that the work in its larger aspects should be postponed.

"The purpose of all is to do that which will add the most to the sum total of war good. By no other criterion should our action be measured."

By motion this statement was declared the attitude of the Council, which then heard from Charles W. Jewett, mayor; W. T. Patten, representing organizations of citizens interested in track elevation; Ernest Smith, secretary of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce; Tom Snyder, representing wholesalers and teamsters and others. The Council agreed to make no recommendations to the director-general of the railroads as to track elevation without affording all interested a hearing, and to inform the interested and concerned parties to the proposition fully as to its present declaration of attitude and policy.

A plan to add one ewe to every existing flock of sheep in Indiana to the total of the soldiers who have gone from the State was presented to the Council by William Holton Dye and referred to the food committee of the Council. Mr. Dye asked the support of the Council in a comprehensive scheme for the distribution of these extra sheep, which he declared are essential to an adequate wool supply.

A representative of a Chicago mail order house, explaining how his firm had distributed "Christmas stockings" made of mosquito bar and including in addition to toys and novelties, flags of enemy nations, said the "stockings" formerly had been supplied his firm by German manufacturers and that with the outbreak of the war they had been imitated by Japanese, who conformed to the same composition. When the firm discovered the enemy emblems, he said, they had been removed and strict orders given to discontinue them from the "stockings." He said there would be no more of the practice and that his firm "apologizes for the affair."

A plan for maintaining in agricultural productivity the men exempted from military service for agricultural reasons will be worked out by the Committee on Food Production and Conservation for the consideration of the Council. It was reported that in one county where 400 men had been exempted for the above stated reasons many of them had afterward "been found loafing at the livery stable." The county agricultural agents are taking the lead in an organized effort to keep these exempted men working on farms, seeking to influence them to do so by reporting their delinquencies to the exemption boards, which have power to recall them for examination.

A report from a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, that many farmers are quitting the dairy business because of a shortage of help, was met with the statement from G. I. Christie, Indiana Food Director, with the statement that there is a demand for dairy cattle in the State and that an agent is now endeavoring to buy thirty car loads of milk cows for Indiana milkers, in Wisconsin. Mr. Christie said that the situation was not one to be alarmed about inasmuch as the supply of milk cows is being maintained and increased in this State.

The effort of the Vigo County Council of Defense to make a drive for subscriptions to a general fund, payments into which are to be made monthly, in order to meet all demands made upon the citizenship for voluntary war contributions, was reported to the State Council. The result of the experiment, the first of its kind in Indiana, will be watched with interest by the State Council and other County Councils contemplating a similar step. A committee consisting of Will Irwin, Dr. C. P. Emerson, the Rev. A. B. Storms, Arthur W. Brady and Evans Woollen, was named by the chairman to censor all solicitation of war relief funds. It was stated as the further purpose of the Council to request the chairmen of County Councils to name committees of five in each county to serve a similar purpose of local solicitations. In keeping with a report from a special committee, recently adopted by the Council, an effort will be made through this censorship to prevent duplication and duplicity in the collection of money from patriotic citizens.

The report of the publicity committee, George Ade, chairman, recommending the purchase and distribution of thirty reels of war films, as re-

(Continued on Page 3.)

War Service Session of Indiana Editors

Men Who Make Newspapers Will Discuss Patriotic Activities and the Best Methods of Helping.

The war service session of the Indiana City Editors' Association will be held at the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, January 19 and 20. This is the fourth annual meeting of the organization of active city editors of the State and the program, aside from a few short professional papers, will be devoted to presentation of various causes looking to the support of Federal and State governments in winning the war.

The meeting will open with a "Hooverized" dinner January 19, in the evening. President C. T. Jewett of the Terre Haute Star will preside. The speakers will include Mayor Charles W. Jewett of Indianapolis, Adjutant-General Harry B. Smith and Oswald Ryan of Anderson.

The session of January 20 will open at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Following the reports of officers and an address by Hassel T. Sullivan of Indianapolis, president of the National Association of City Editors, the meeting will be devoted to a round-table discussion of methods of co-operation in winning the war. Representatives of the Federal Food and Fuel Administrations, State Council of Defense, State Militia, United States Boys' Working Reserve and other branches of government service.

The round-table discussion will be continued through the afternoon session, during which Governor Goodrich will be heard. Among the city editors who will present papers and participate in the discussions are B. H. Hawkins, Newcastle Courier; Hugh Donaldson, Elwood Call-Leader; Earl Williams, Connersville Times; William Robertson, Lafayette Journal; A. M. Groves, Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette, and Allen C. Hiner.

Three former officers of the Indiana City Editors' Association are now in military service, one in France, and every man who remained on the job has taken assignment from some branch of the State or County Councils of Defense.

Meatless Days

There are a million luckless jays who are observing meatless days six times a week or more; deserving men, who lack the price to buy a pork just off the ice, at any butcher's store. And countless people go their ways who find some thirty wheatless days in every month that flies; hard luck and sickness and despair have stripped their humble larders bare of doughnuts, loaves and pies. And they must heave a sickly smile when they observe the buoyant style in which we make our boast, that once a week, with martyr zeal, we cut out mutton, pork and veal, and shoo away the roast. And they must shed a weary sigh when we inform the passersby how we, with courage high, eschew the loaf of snowy bread, and fill ourselves with bran instead, and make the corn cakes fly. Cheer up! The worst is yet to come! Before the voice of war is dumb we may be eating hay; we'll doubtless know what grief is then, and wish we might observe again the old-time meatless day. For meatless days don't represent a sacrifice to any gent in this, my neighborhood, man passes up the "red meat" dish to eat a turkey or a fish, or something just as good.

WALT MASON.

Honey and syrups instead of sugar will make victory just as sweet—and bring it much sooner.

I 355
I 385 ed.

Patriotism in Indiana

Bartholomew County.—Mrs. O. P. Patterson of Columbus has been named by Mrs. Herriott C. Overstreet of the women's section of the Bartholomew County Council of Defense to act as county chairman of the campaign to register women for war work. Mrs. Patterson is to have a woman in each township to assist in the movement. The new service cards will be offered for the signatures of the women in a state-wide canvass to come later, probably in April. The cards do not obligate the women for any service, but the purpose is to take a census which shall indicate what work each woman is best fitted to do on behalf of the country in the war. The mender, the knitter, the Red Cross worker, the gardener, the poultry raiser, all these will be classified under the new card system.

Judge W. C. Duncan has been made enrolling agent for Bartholomew county of the United States Public Service Reserve, and will serve under Nat E. Squibb, director for the State of Indiana. The reserve is being organized to get volunteer workers as needed to supply emergency demands for labor during the war. Drives are to be made from time to time, as directed by the national organization, which is under the Department of Labor at Washington, the plan being to get men for certain specified lines as those lines are called on.

G. L. Reeves, chairman of the big Y. M. C. A. War Fund canvass in Bartholomew county, believes thoroughly in team work, and apparently knows how to get team work in his county. Further, he knows how to give credit where credit is due for good work well done. He issued a statement to the press following the big drive congratulating every person taking part and expressing his appreciation of the team work performed.

Benton County.—Business men of Benton county have organized for patriotic work. At a recent important county-wide meeting at Fowler the business men organized and unanimously voted to support and urge the rules and regulations set by the county food and fuel administrators. The business men decided to close all places of business at 6 p. m., except Saturdays, and to open at 7 a. m., and no earlier. This is done in the effort to save fuel.

The following merchants have been named to draw up a constitution and by-laws for the business men's county organization and to get additional members: Fowler, Elmer McKnight; Oxford, Ed Morris; Otterbein, Harry Kretschmann; Earl Park, Ezra Hackley; Freeland Park, Tom Gassaway; Raub, Ed Keefe; Boswell, Roy Miller; Talbot, R. S. Laughlin; Wadena, George Mitten; Lochiel, Mr. Spaulding; Barce, Charles Stewart; Swanton, Mr. Embleton; Ambia, James McCormick; Atkinson, Henry Rommel; Dunn, Mr. Turner; Templeton, Will Killen.

Rev. William H. Taylor of Otterbein, chairman of the public morals and religion section of the Benton County Council of Defense, at the suggestion of the Defense Council, has taken up with all the ministers of the county the matter of asking the members of their congregations to do their shopping early in the day on the cash and carry system to help in the general economy and conservation movement. It is being urged that labor now employed in delivery work can better be used in war work or in taking the places in useful labor of those men who go to the colors.

Blackford County.—George Swalm has been made chairman for Blackford county of the United States Boys' Working Reserve in place of M. M. Dunbar, who resigned. This part of the war work is given to organizing high school boys to do farm and shop work out of school hours in the places of men who have gone to the colors.

The Blackford County Council of Defense is urging that citizens pay proper respect to the United States flag by not only flying the colors, but by taking the flags in at night. Attention has been called to the fact that many flags have been left out until they have lost color and have become soiled and tattered. It is being suggested that worn-out flags be taken down and bright new flags be flown.

The Royal Embroidery Club gave a benefit at Montpelier and turned in $41.34 to the Red Cross fund.

Boone County.—Lebanon merchants not only have been observing the early closing rule on all nights except Saturday and Monday nights as a fuel-saving measure, but they maintained the rule through the holiday rush. . . . Roy W. Adney is Boone county chairman of the movement to encourage thrift and the savings habit in the United States. With Mr. Adney on the War Thrift and Savings Stamp Committee are: T. O. Beck, W. J. DeVoll, E. M. Servies, J. A. Hogsaire, L. J. Akerman and A. E. Lewis. For the county campaign for the sale of thrift certificates and war savings stamps township chairmen were named as follows: Guy Chavers, Jay Campbell, R. W. DuVal, Joe Shultz, William Kincald, A. M. Lewis, R. H. Gates, J. H. Stonecipher, Buren Sullivan, O. M. Pratt, A. C. Kibbey, Carl Bowman and Clarence Hull. . . . Working with the food administration, the Ladoga Canning Company recently helped in a substantial way to relieve a Boone county sugar shortage. Dealers in Lebanon, New Ross and Ladoga received from the canning concern a large quantity of sugar, the consignment to Lebanon being 11,000 pounds, the sugar to be sold at the rate of two pounds to a customer. . . . At a recent meeting of the Boone County Red Cross the executive committee elected B. F. Coombs to succeed himself as chairman. B. C. Gullion was made secretary and Morris Ritchie treasurer. Virgil Runkin was selected as a member of the executive committee, the other members being Mrs. Ben F. Coombs, Mrs. J. C. Darnall, Miss Mayme

Sheridan, W. T. Hooton, Judge W. H. Parr, E. C. Gullion, John L. Wade and Phil Adler. The chairman of the chapter becomes ex-officio member of the executive committee.

The following committees have been named: First Aid—Dr. Mary VanNuy, Mrs. E. M. Adney, Dr. J. H. Black, Dr. W. H. Stephenson, Nelle Thornberry. Civilian Relief—Ivory C. Tolle, Ben F. McKee, John W. Jones, Miss Jean Morris, Mrs. Mark Adler, Mrs. Lester F. Jones.

Hospital Supplies—Mrs. B. F. Coombs, Mrs. William J. Kelly, Mrs. J. C. Darnall, Mrs. Lester F. Jones, Miss Ruth Campbell, Mrs. R. C. N. Cook, Mrs. Claude D. McKee, Miss Maude Witt, Mrs. Walter Perkins, Mrs. L. M. Beavan, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. Elza O. Rogers.

Purchasing Committee—Mrs. B. F. Coombs, Mrs. W. J. Kelly, Mrs. J. C. Darnall.

Carroll County.—Young women of Carrollton township, Carroll county, earned $24.80 by hauling gravel and gave the money to the Y. M. C. A. war fund. Those who joined this work were: Misses Helen Guard, Ruby McCain, May McCain, Gretchen Smiley, June Shanks, Margaret Guard, Nina Foust and Mrs. Carl Flora, all of Flora. . . . Comfort kits for Delphi soldiers in France were sent as Christmas gifts. A reserve of twelve comfort kits, made by the women of the D. A. R. of Delphi, is held to be used as needed. Pittsburg folk sent a comfort kit to Joseph Hasegrove of that place. The Newly-Weds Club of Delphi sent an outfit to John O'Connor. Others getting the kits from Delphi were: Major Larry McAfee, Leo Ulm, Andrew Musselman, Lloyd Armstrong, O. R. Smith, Henry Crone, James Weldner and Stewart Martin. The Auxiliary of the Eastern Star has made a number of comfort bags for soldiers. The girls of the Presbyterian church of Delphi are doing Red Cross work under Mrs. Ed Baum. The boys of the Fluke Club are helping the Red Cross by service rendered out of school hours. . . . Roy Lane of Bringham, Carroll county, postmaster, obtained a leave of absence in order that he might enlist in the army. Mr. Lane sent in his resignation as postmaster, but the resignation was not accepted. Mrs. Lane was put in charge of the postoffice. Mr. Lane also disposed of his restaurant at Bringham. . . . Carroll county people congratulated themselves warmly when the county went over the top for the Y. M. C. A. war fund with a total contribution far in excess of the quota set for the county. W. A. Roach of Delphi, chairman for the county in the work, put a strong organization actively in the field and got big results.

Cass County.—M. W. Collett, who has been serving as county fuel director in Cass county, has been made chairman of the Cass County Council of Defense, succeeding Judge John C. Nelson, resigned. Judge Nelson withdrew because of the fact that his duties as a member of the board of managers of the National Military Home called him away. . . . Logansport and Cass county people raised a fund of $400 by giving a big benefit entertainment, and out of this fund athletic equipment and camp comforts have been supplied to Cass county soldiers in the camps. In addition to holiday cheer packets and Christmas supplies such as the letters suggested. . . . Cass county raised its $1,000 quota for the War Library fund. The final sum needed was supplied by the Wahabasa Camp Fire Girls, who held a market in the Tritt drug store at Logansport and realized $11.34. . . . Patriotic Day was observed recently at the English Lutheran church, Logansport. A service flag carrying nineteen stars was presented to the Sunday-school, the flag being the work of Mrs. F. H. Wipperman, mother of Lieut. Frederick B. Wipperman, now at Camp Taylor. The service flag and an American flag were carried into the meeting by two young men in khaki, followed by fifty other men. Rev. W. L. Siffert delivered a stirring patriotic address and the men sang America. . . . Three war mothers from Cass county recently made a trip to Camp Taylor to visit the Cass county soldiers, the journey being made possible by the Logansport Pharos-Reporter, which newspaper conducted a voting contest, in which the war mothers were selected to make the trip. In the party were: Mrs. Margaret Rankin, Mrs. Belle Overpeck and Mrs. J. L. Osborne. Others in the visiting delegation were: J. T. Overpeck, Marion Swadener, Mrs. Swadener and Miss Margaret Hetherington.

Clay County.—Women of the W. C. T. U. in Brazil, who have been supplying comfort kits for soldiers through the Red Cross, recently employed the moving picture as an agency for raising funds as well as the means for teaching a strong and urgent patriotic lesson. The picture entitled "A Man Without a Country," based on Hale's famous classic story of that name, was given at the Sourwine theater, Brazil, the proceeds going to the comfort kit fund. . . . Pupils and teachers in the city schools of Brazil recently bought Liberty bonds to a total of $9,400. The showing is said to be due to a two-year thrift campaign made in the schools under the leadership of Superintendent Keller. Pupils took $7,000 worth of bonds, and many were able to pay outright for their bonds with money saved as a part of the thrift movement already under way. The showing made by the various Brazil schools was as follows: Senior High School, $4,100; Junior High School, $2,100; Meridian School, $1,550; Lambert School, $500; Pinckney School, $500; Jackson School, $250; Zeller School, $250; Alabama School, $150.

Clinton County.—School teachers and pupils in Clinton County have been doing their part recently in a patriotic spirit of helpfulness. M. D. Boudin, county superintendent of schools, reported to the exemption authorities that the teachers of the county were subject to call for volunteer duty in connection with the clerical work needed to be done for the exemption board under the selective enlistment law. School children of the county cheerfully gave up the usual holiday treats in order to help Hoover save sugar. . . . Clinton county soldiers enlisted in Battery C, 825th Field Artillery, Camp Taylor, are to have a mess fund raised by the folk back home, a large part of the fund being derived from an "old rubber" campaign. Old tires were contributed in large numbers and the campaign was a success. Captain Edward B. Abbott, in whose command the Clinton county soldiers are serving, wrote a letter approving the mess fund plan. The movement was started at the suggestion of the State and County Councils of Defense that mess funds amounting to $2 for each soldier be raised by the counties for the benefit of the men in camp. . . . George T. Dinwiddie of Frankfort is chairman for the Ninth district in the organization to push the sale of thrift certificates and war savings stamps. T. R. Spray is chairman for Clinton county in Mr. Dinwiddie's organization. . . . The Ross Township Farmers' Institute at Rossville, January 7 and 8, took on a patriotic air when it got in touch with the State Council of Defense speakers' bureau and arranged to have on its program a speaker on war work to be sent by the bureau. Clinton county farmers are especially anxious to keep well informed as to war service to be performed on the farms.

Davess County.—Mrs. Ezra Mattingly of Washington has been named as president of the food clubs being organized in Davess county by patriotic women. Mrs. Mattingly was recommended by the County Council of Defense and was appointed by the food administration. Food clubs are being organized in townships, wards and precincts. The food clubs are to get before the people directly all methods urged by the government to stimulate crop and food production, to encourage substitution of other good foods for wheat and meats, the conservation of sugar and other supplies, and general activity in war work. First of all, the food clubs will make another drive to get signers of the Hoover food pledge cards, which cards now are thoroughly understood. . . . Davess county is organized by districts and localities for a census of seed corn, and plans have been developed recently for community storehouses, where an expected surplus of seed corn over and above the county's needs can be held to be disposed of to planters from other counties. Part of the campaign takes in the publication of the location and ownership of fields of matured corn fit for seed for the information of farmers who wish to buy a supply of seed corn.

DeKalb County.—January 22 is the day set for the big county-wide war conference to be held in DeKalb county under the auspices and direction of the DeKalb County Council of Defense, co-operating with commercial, civil and patriotic bodies of the county, under the supervision of the State Council of Defense and in co-operation with the Council of National Defense. The DeKalb county war conference is to be at Auburn. Rev. A. J. Polson of Ft. Wayne is to be one of the orators. . . . Soldiers now in the camps have written to Allen township, DeKalb county, people to thank them for the Thanksgiving and Christmas boxes. These packets sent to Allen township soldiers contained useful articles to the value of $2.25 each. . . . William E. Byers is acting for Waterloo in co-operation with Howard W. Mountz of Garrett, DeKalb county's fuel director. Officers of towns and cities are working with the fuel administration to save coal and to see to the proper distribution of coal needed in the county.

Delaware County.—Organization of the "close" sort, reaching down into and embracing the precincts, after the method of political party organizations, is being perfected in Delaware county for war work. The women of the county already have formed such an organization, and the results have been remarkably good. For example, a report made early in December showed this organization of loyal women had obtained 11,250 signers to food pledge cards. More than this, the women got the records of 300 persons who declined to sign the pledge cards, and it is part of the business of the patriotic organization to find out why these persons refused to do their parts in the war. . . . Will F. White of Muncie, who recently was appointed as chairman of the Delaware County Council of Defense, in place of George B. Lockwood, who resigned because his business affairs required his absence from the county, is actively at work on a complete precinct, ward and township organization modeled after the political party organizations used in campaigns. This organization is intended to take charge of various patriotic drives for funds and other war purposes. It is the purpose to list all the men and women of the county for war service and to keep tab on those who give and on those who are evasive or inactive. . . . The County Council of Defense is now in new quarters, the three rooms being donated by Mrs. Fred Heath. The Muncie Electric Light Company has donated light and heat for the new headquarters. The Delaware County Council provided $200 for clerk hire up to the new year. Sons of Veterans and Spanish War veterans are active in promoting the state militia in Delaware county. Fred Puckett of Muncie, in charge of protection work in the county, has been active and has been instrumental in conveying warning to several potential disloyalists.

Dubois County.—Jasper young women have organized a club with the prime purpose of assisting in every possible way in adding to the comfort of the soldiers from Jasper and Dubois counties who are in the training camps and at the front. The club includes the following: President, Miss Esther Hagen; secretary, Miss Claire Gerber; treasurer, Miss Ruth Gasser, and editor, Miss De La Doane. Other members are: Genevieve Krempf, Florence Daugherty, Willa Schmidt, Hilda Rumbach and Helen Backman. The organization is called "Columbia's Daughters." . . . Mrs. Marie C. Hopkins, warehouse inspector for the Red Cross, recently paid a high and deserved compliment to Dubois county women and to their work done for the Red Cross. Mrs. H. C. Knapp of Huntington, leader in the work, came in for special commendation. . . . Portersville women are actively engaged in Red Cross work and are turning out large quantities of supplies of high quality. Among those who have been taking the lead in actual work are the following: Mrs. Mary Geisler, Mrs. John Frank, Mrs. John Webber, Aunt Lizzie Webber, Mrs. John Hautsch, Mrs. Ed. Breidenbaugh, Mrs. Susan Krodol, Mrs. Barbara Hoffman, Mrs. Hiram McDonald, Mrs. Susan Krodol, Mrs. Chris Hoffman, Mrs. Ed. Breidenbaugh, Lizzie Frank, Anna Brittain, Mrs. John Frank, Rachel Brittain, Mrs. Julia Cox, Annie Brittain, Clara Rudolph, Mrs. Sarah Wiscever, Iola Webber, Edith Reed, Etta Schnarr, Mrs. Kelly Brittain, Mrs. Peter J. Schnarr and Mrs. Tom Iuman.

Elkhart County.—Nappanee people recently organized the Nappanee Council of Defense. Superintendent Charles F. Miller is president, Dr. E. T. Playne secretary and Fred E. Coppes treasurer. A committee on arrangements for future meetings included R. E. Zeigler, J. D. Coppes, Mrs. Jesse Stuckman and Charles P. Ratzburg. The defense organization for Nappanee is the outgrowth of a public meeting recently held, at which Frank Coppes, E. T. Playne and F. H. Bayles were made a committee to enlist the personnel of the new Defense Council. This committee obtained pledges of active service on the Defense Council from the following: Religious—Revs. R. E. Zeigler, J. W. Miller, F. H. Baylis. Educational—Superintendent Charles F. Miller, Miss Bessie Brown. Professional—J. O. Kantz, Drs. C. A. Inks, W. A. Price, E. T. Playne. Women—Mesdames Elizabeth Zook, H. R. Stauffer, Jesse Stuckman. Manufacturers—Charles Mutschler, John Coppes, Walter Ullne, George Preece, Frank Coppes. Merchants—Roy Huffman, Charles P. Ratzburg, Carl Clemmer, Herbert Weygand. Banking—Fred Coppes, Harold Zook. Factory Employees—Charles F. Gentzorn. Farmers—E. E. Fleher, Alex Wilson, Jesse Stump, John Bainter. Judge J. S. Dodge has been named to head the organization of Four-Minute Men in Elkhart county in place of Judge J. L. Harman. Both Goshen and Elkhart have organized companies of state militia under the direction of Capt. I. H. Church of Elkhart, who is chairman of the committee on military affairs of the Elkhart County Council of Defense. Liberty Guard companies are being organized at Nappanee and Middlebury. * * * Headquarters for the Elkhart County Council of Defense have been established in the Hawks-Gortner building at Goshen.

Council Makes Clear Position on Elevation

(Continued from Page 1.)

quested by the Committee on Public Information, was adopted. Mr. Ade's recommendation that Robert Lieber, a moving picture man of Indianapolis, assisted by an auxiliary committee of fifty men in the business from over the State, be authorized to proceed in co-operation with the chairman of the Council and the chairman of the Publicity Committee in arranging for a showing of the pictures on a basis where the Council will realize the cost of the pictures and expense of showing them, only, was approved by the Council.

The matter of collecting photographs of cantonments and Indiana soldiers, and others such as may have historic value and significance, was declared a matter for private enterprise, on the recommendation of Mr. Ade and will be so regarded by the Council.

The matter of preparing patriotic propaganda in foreign languages for the benefit of part of the State's alien population not now familiar with the war aims of the government, was referred to the educational section on recommendation of the Rev. Storms.

The Council gave its approval to a plan proposed by Professor Christie for a survey of the farms of Indiana for the purpose of ascertaining definitely the seed corn shortage, which Professor Christie declared is daily becoming more serious. The survey was requested by the United States Department of Agriculture, to occupy the week of February 4. During this week the State, which will be divided into six districts, each district to be in charge of the most capable man available for the work, will be thoroughly covered. Each township will be under the observation of from six to eight patriotic, practical farmers, who will determine exactly what the seeding needs are for 1918.

The State Council agreed that an emergency exists for this survey, and it will, upon motion of Will Irwin, ask the County Councils of every county to co-operate in whatever measure is necessary to insure its success.

Professor Christie pointed out to the Council that upon the success of this effort to anticipate the seed corn needs depends very largely the prosperity of the State and the ability of Indiana to do her part in assisting the government in prosecuting the war during the year 1918.

The more fats we can send to the Allies, the slipperier will be the skids placed under Germany autocracy.

Campaign for More Poultry and Eggs

Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation Adopt Report of Special Committee.

The Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation met at the Polk Sanitary Milk Company's plant, January 3, 1918. Ralph Polk and Samuel Dungan, officials of the plant, were hosts to the committee.

The following report of the Poultry Committee was considered and adopted:

Your committee appointed through G. I. Christie, State Food Director, held a meeting at the State House, Indianapolis, December 20, 1917. As a result of a study of poultry conditions and needs in Indiana, the following statement is made:

Indiana must help win the war by producing more poultry and eggs during 1918. The great shortage of red meat can be lessened by an increased home consumption of its substitutes, poultry and eggs. No other products can as well take the place of pork and beef, or be as quickly produced, hence increased production of poultry and eggs should be encouraged and aided in all ways possible.

POULTRY CONDITIONS IN INDIANA.

At present the average poultry flocks of the State are very poorly managed. There is an enormous annual waste of both chickens and eggs, which can and must be saved. As the success of the year's poultry work depends so largely on the results of the spring hatching season, a special effort must be made to save the thousands of chicks which are usually lost during the next few months.

This great loss of spring chicks is due to a number of causes, the most important of which are the following:

1. Poor quality of breeding stock used, consisting too often of weak vitality, under-sized males and unselected hens.
2. Lack of good equipment for early hatching and brooding of the early chicks. The lack of sufficient brooding equipment is especially noticeable.
3. Wrong feeds and methods of feeding both young chicks and growing stock during the summer.

In addition to the losses of chicks, the egg production of Indiana hens is considerably reduced by poor management; by not sorting and selecting the fowls kept through the winter; and by lack of suitable winter rations, especially the lack of milk or other animal food to supplement the grain ration.

IMPROVEMENTS DESIRED.

In view of these adverse poultry conditions now existing, it seems very desirable that the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation should give seasonable publicity to an educational campaign to increase the amount of poultry and eggs available for consumption. And as the hatching season is almost at hand, the beginning of this campaign cannot be made too soon.

In order to aid in making this campaign get results quickly, the following suggestions are made:

1. Encourage the farmer and the back-lot poultryman in the production of more poultry and eggs, either by increasing the number of hens kept and chicks raised, or by preventing all possible loss and waste in flocks already kept, or by both means where conditions permit.
2. By publicity, help to overcome the unfounded prejudice against cold storage poultry and eggs, and encourage the use of these products.
3. Encourage early hatching as one of the quickest ways of increasing production. Be definite by calling attention to the fact that March is the best month for hatching dual purpose chicks, April for Leghorns.
4. Stress the fact that good brooding devices are a necessity and just as essential as good incubators.

5. Recommend that all early hatched pullets, and a few good early hatched cockerels for breeding purposes, be retained instead of being sold for broilers.

6. Stress the importance of sufficient and proper feeding of both fowls and growing stock during the summer months.

7. Recommend the segregation of all male birds during the summer months, as a means of conserving the great loss in summer eggs.

8. Advocate rigorously culling out and disposing of all early molting hens, old fowls, runts, surplus cockerels, late hatched pullets, and every other fowl which has no definite purpose in the flock.

9. Recommend that housing conditions be improved, and houses enlarged if necessary, that proper care may be given the increased number of pullets raised.

10. Stress the necessity of an annual by-product in the winter ration as a means of conserving the grain feed and increasing its efficiency.

METHODS OF IMPROVING CONDITIONS.

As a means of accomplishing desired results in a general publicity campaign, the following definite suggestions are offered:

1. At least two definite campaigns are recommended, one on Early Hatching to be put on before the spring hatching season in January, and one on Culling to be put on early in the fall, in August or September.

2. It is recommended that all possible use be made of the Purdue Poultry Department as one means of publicity for educational poultry work, in co-operation with the Poultry Division United States Department of Agriculture.

3. It is recommended that through the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, and in co-operation with the county agricultural agents, all counties of the State be organized in such a manner that the poultry interests of each county will be cared for in the best possible way, and these interests co-ordinated with the general poultry interests of the State.

4. It is recommended that Poultry Clubs among the school boys and girls be encouraged, as a means of increasing and encouraging poultry production.

5. It is recommended that the co-operation of the poultry produce buyers of Indiana, who are in close touch with the producers of poultry and eggs, be secured. They are a valuable means for the dissemination of education to the producer.

The special attention of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation is called to the hard coal situation as it affects the poultry industry. In the past few years the brooder stove, burning hard coal, has almost revolutionized the brooding of chicks. Unless such coal can be obtained for the mammoth incubators and brooder stoves, the poultry industry of this State, and hence the supply of poultry and eggs available as food, will receive a serious setback. Assurance that this coal can be obtained should be given at once.

Mr. U. R. Fishel of Hope, and LeRoy L. Jones of Purdue University are elected president and secretary respectively of the poultry sub-committee, and the support of each member is pledged to aid in carrying out the above program. (Signed)

U. R. FISHEL, President,
H. PFEIFFER,
A. G. PHILIPS,
M. A. KENNER,
S. E. SHIREY,
A. D. GREENLEE,
S. P. SMYTH,
L. J. BROSEMER,
H. A. McALEER,
LEROY L. JONES, Sec'y.

To Our Mother, America:—We, your children, have now reached full maturity. We are willing and able to help you to the full extent of our ability. Will you not use us freely?

INDIAN CORN,
IRISH POTATO.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 22

Editorial Comment

A PECULIAR OBLIGATION.

It is up to the American citizen of German extraction, in a very personal sense, to take every opportunity to show his loyalty to America, his whole-hearted devotion to American ideals, and his energized purpose to do his full part in helping America to win the war and make the world safe from oppression.

This kaiser-begotten war puts sacrifice and hardship on all. It places on the American citizen of German descent a peculiar burden and a particular duress. He is called on not only to renounce kaiserism and the brutal piracy which grows out of it, but he is required by the circumstances of ancestry to go out of his way to prove that he fully realizes his individual obligation to the United States Government, to the flag which gives him freedom and to the just and worthy cause in which the United States has enlisted.

The Americans are a patient, tolerant, sympathetic people. They have done their part. The citizen of German extraction rests under a direct and ever-increasing compulsion to do his present duty without fail and without complaint, to throw off unwarranted suspicion because of natural patriotic alliances.

The American citizen of German extraction who deliberately lays himself open to the charge of inactivity, indifference, resistance, sedition, treasonable words or acts, or pro-kaiser activities, not only puts himself in line for summary treatment at the hands of an outraged people, but he makes it increasingly difficult for all other citizens of German extraction to continue to live in the enjoyment of undisturbed American privileges, immunities and liberties.

In short, it is time to warn all persons who are inclined to dodge their war obligations, shirk their duties or to obstruct the war work of loyal men and women, that American patience must not be tested too far.

MR. NICHOLSON'S OBSERVATION.

Meredith Nicholson, the well-known Indiana author, makes a timely suggestion in a recent letter, in which he discusses in a fair and sympathetic spirit the loyalty of the Indianapolis Independent Turnverein, which organization, following a clash with Uncle Sam, is now going through the processes necessary to change its name, to Americanize its title and its policies.

Mr. Nicholson says that the "atmosphere of suspicion" created by the conduct and speech of certain Germans of Indianapolis, working hardship on many innocent persons, "could have been dispelled at any time since last April by a public demonstration of loyalty by persons of German birth and ancestry."

In line with this practical and helpful suggestion, the Independent Turnverein, with the co-operation of the Marion County Council of Defense, the food administration and other patriotic agencies, is giving a very emphatic public demonstration of its loyalty by Americanizing itself thoroughly and whole-heartedly.

Members of the Turnverein individually have proved to be thoroughly American, and it is encouraging to note that they are to divest themselves of the false name and un-American atmosphere which since last April have caused the organization to suffer under general suspicion as to its Americanism. The example is a good one, and probably will be emulated all over the State.

Mr. Nicholson's letter, sent to President George Seidensticker of the Turnverein, is as follows:

"A month ago I resigned my membership in another club with a German name, and I was at the point of resigning from the Turnverein. I found, however, on inquiry among friends as thoroughly American as I am, that the spirit of the clubhouse is soundly loyal to America and against the kaiser's pretensions; that in a particular instance that you had expelled from the house, with considerable asperity, a solicitor for German magazines. I rarely visit the club, but the last time I was there I was struck by the great number of men present in uniform, soldiers of the republic. The service flag of the society is an eloquent expression of its Americanism.

"There are Germans in Indianapolis whose conduct and speech have created an atmosphere of suspicion that has worked hardship among many innocent persons. This might have been dispelled at any time since last April by a public demonstration of loyalty by persons of German birth and ancestry. Germans in Indianapolis who have suffered from this suspicion and hostility have to thank for it leaders among them who have refused to initiate any movement for a public expression that would have set at rest forever any question of the loyalty of persons of German blood living in Indiana.

"The pretense that no one has any right to question the loyalty of any member of the community is preposterous. I question the loyalty to America of a number of persons of Teutonic blood living in Indianapolis, and I shall continue to question it until I have reason to change my opinion.

"I am sincerely anxious that we may all live together here in Indianapolis in peace and amity, in a neighborliness keyed to the spirit of our common fellowship as citizens of America, unhampered by divided allegiance and animated by common hopes and aims for the perpetuation and widening influence of American democracy.

"When this war is done and world democracy is victorious, it will be our business to purge the human race of the poisonous hatreds which the kaiser has malevolently injected into it. Here I am confident you and I stand on the same platform.

"The incident at the Turnverein will prove fortunate if it shall have the effect of definitely establishing the club as an institution controlled wholly by the American national spirit. I very much hope that you will continue in the presidency. My only suggestion would be that the name be changed so that the last hint of Teutonism be removed."

Peat Tells How It Starts.

Those yarns beginning, "A woman told me that a woman told her," about Red Cross sweaters being "sold" to soldiers have just about run their course, being entirely refuted, disproved, discredited and traced to enemy sources.

Private Peat, returned from the battle front, a speaker of reputation and a writer of unusual power, has explained in a few words how mistaken reports may have been started, and how stories of sweaters "sold" to soldiers might have originated in camp. Said Private Peat in a speech at Orchestra Hall, Chicago:

"I remember once I got broke in a little game and had to make a raise somehow, and so I sold my sweater, and the little son-of-a-gun who bought it wrote home to his maw he had bought a sweater, and she told it to Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Jones told Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith told somebody else that the Red Cross is selling sweaters."

The next time you hear one of those "a woman told me that a woman told her" stories of the Red Cross selling sweaters, remember Private Peat's words.

Potato and onion. What a salad for Saturday night when you don't expect company!

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 87

January 3, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

We are communicating today with the Chambers of Commerce and Commercial Clubs throughout Indiana, urging them to co-operate with the County Councils in making the War Conferences successful.

In many places this is being done already and the Chambers of Commerce are the most active influences. In others this is not yet done. Closer co-operation with the Chambers of Commerce is desirable, and they can be especially effective in aiding in these county conferences.

Use your good judgment in this, and have them aid as fully as possible in the efforts of the Council.

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 89.

January 8, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

We know you are familiar with the necessity for holding county war conferences. It is the request of the Committee on Public Information and the Council of National Defense, in which judgment the State Council concurs.

The dates of the county conferences will be fixed very soon tentatively by the State Council and put up to the county councils for approval. The desirability of having the dates tentative is in order to help us route the speakers, as heretofore suggested, as it is our purpose to aid in securing speakers of national note.

Special organizers are to be sent out under the auspices of the State Council to go into each county to aid in the organization of the county conferences. Sixteen men have volunteered their services and expenses for this purpose, and it is possible they may be of some aid to you in coming into the county. The date of their coming will be announced very soon. These organizers will explain in further detail the purpose and methods of the county conferences. Enclosed is a tentative sketch of the plan and program with which we wish the chairman of each County Council would become familiar before the arrival of the special organizer. After the date is fixed the work of organization, publicity, etc., must be assumed by the County Council. The responsibility for the success of the conference rests on the chairman of the County Council in each county.

Following is the suggested plan:

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ORGANIZERS OF COUNTY WAR CONFERENCES.

1. Purpose of county war conferences.
  1. To bring results of the state war conference to local communities.
  2. To stimulate popular interest.
    - a. Understanding of the nation's war aims, the issue at stake.
    - b. Realization of the individual and community tasks, i. e.—
      1. Food and fuel conservation.
      2. Support of Federal and State agents and agencies.
      3. Foster loyalty and unity of opinion.
  3. To assist County Councils of Defense
    - a. In understanding their functions and
    - b. In perfecting their organization.
    - c. In promoting popular support of measures taken on local initiative or at instance of State Council.
  4. To bring together the various war activity groups for closer co-ordination and co-operation.
2. Specific suggestions to organizer.
  - A. Organize conference committees.
    1. Notification of chairman of County Council of Defense of preliminary meeting—to call council members and sub-committees. Notification through State Council.
    2. At preliminary meeting—
      - a. Explain purpose of county conferences.

- b. Explain the outline of program prepared by the State Council.

1. Necessity of some unity of plan throughout the State.
2. Necessity of balanced presentation of all the war problems and local work.
3. Scope of assistance to be obtained from the State Council.
  - (a) Speakers.
  - (b) Official representatives for special conferences.

B. Assist in local preparation.

1. Have conference committees appointed and report the same back to council. (See "Plan of Program" attached.)
2. Have preliminary meeting of Program Committee. Give detailed explanation of the proposed morning special conferences, the afternoon sectional meetings, the evening mass-meeting. Make it clear that local committee should modify the program to meet local conditions and any abnormal situation; deviations from the outlined program should be reported.

- a. Special Conferences. These should be held in the morning and are more or less in the nature of sectional meetings, but the idea is that there may be a need for special conferences where the most vigorous workers may meet on different subjects. For example, the county councils will probably want to meet with the representatives of the State Council to discuss the organization necessary for holding war meetings in every part of the county; plans for campaign of education; co-ordination and harmonizing of the activities in the counties; the meeting of the workers from the different sections of the State Council, etc., etc. It may be that part of the sectional meetings will have to be held in the morning.

b. Afternoon sectional meetings.

It seems advisable to divide by topics rather than by persons, as it will secure a more automatic adjustment of attendance. Speakers sent by the State Council may speak at both sections, i. e., the Red Cross speakers at food meeting at 2:00 and at educational meeting at 3:30, etc., etc. These sectional meetings should give representatives of each war service agency an opportunity to present briefly the national and State aims and the local plans. Discussion should not be left entirely to chance. One or two responsible persons should be authorized to speak a few minutes, to ask questions and make practical suggestions or to present resolutions. Such arrangements might be made in the morning meetings.

There should be sectional meetings of every section of the war work, just as there were sectional meetings at the state-wide conference of the different sections. A friendly rivalry can be created between the sections as to which one has the best meeting, etc.

Attached, as Exhibits 1, 2 and 3, are special data furnished by the departments (1) Food Conservation, (2) Food Production and (3) Boys' Working Reserve, to which we call your special attention. Please go over these carefully.

As carefully should be organized all the other sections. Bulletins have been sent to the woman members of the councils and a bulletin to the chairman of each council giving them a general idea of the plan.

c. Evening meetings.

Speakers should be few, but effective.

One inspirational address; one general address on Food Conservation or Red Cross, or other special subject particularly needed in any community.

Music is essential.

Community singing is a powerful aid. It should be arranged for carefully, a director of community singing should be instructed to secure the help of choirs, to provide for rehearsal, to provide songs (words or music), etc.

PLAN FOR COUNTY WAR CONFERENCES.

1. Organizers and delegates.

A. The County Council of Defense.

1. Its executive committee and heads and members of all sections.
2. Chairman and members of its subordinate committees. (Members of the council to act as a large general committee, each to be responsible for securing attendance of members of clubs and other groups.)

B. Federal appointees.

1. Fuel Administration.
2. Food Administration.
3. Food Production and Conservation (county agent if Federal appointee.)
4. War Savings and Thrift Stamp Director.
5. Boys' Working Reserve.

C. State and county officials.

1. County superintendent of schools.
2. County and city boards of education.
3. Township trustees, attendance officers (poor relief).
4. County agent (if county appointee).

D. Voluntary group representatives.

1. Red Cross. All committee members.
2. Patriotic societies.
3. Chamber of Commerce.
4. Women's leagues, Federation of Women's Clubs, women's clubs, etc.
5. County agricultural societies.
6. Other similar groups; all organizations doing any kind of war work.

2. Committee organization for the conference.

A. Executive Committee.

1. To have charge of all financial obligations.
2. To appoint all special and sub-committees.
3. To receive reports from and to give directions to all other committees. (The council in some cases may want to act as this committee.)

B. Special committees.

1. Program Committee. (Members of the council and heads of other important war service organizations.)
  - a. To arrange details of evening program; secure speakers.
  - b. To arrange afternoon programs with aid of administrators and voluntary groups.
  - c. To arrange morning conference programs.
2. Publicity Committee. (Editors, ministers, etc.)
  - a. To prepare press material.
  - b. To prepare posters, handbills and other displays.
  - c. To run lantern slide announcements in motion picture shows.
  - d. To make four-minute talks in motion picture theaters, churches, schools, etc.
  - e. To secure personal workers to get out certain groups for the conference. (Farmers, merchants, laborers, women.)
3. Arrangements Committee.
  - a. To arrange for entertainment of speakers and for luncheons and conferences.
  - b. To secure halls for meetings and to see that they are in proper condition for these meetings.

- c. To make all necessary plans for handling the crowds at conference.
- d. To arrange for the distribution of war literature, for securing Red Cross members, the signing of food pledges, the sale of thrift stamps, etc. (Tables for literature, displays, attendants.)
- e. To provide for headquarters and enrollment of delegates.

3. Program.

A. Big patriotic meeting for the evening.

1. Two stirring addresses.

- a. Subject one: "The War, or Why America Went to War," or "Autocracy vs. Democracy," or a similar topic.
- b. Subject two: "What We Must Do to Win the War," or "Work for Folks at Home," or a similar topic.

2. Music.

- a. Special selections by quartets or choruses, or orchestra or bands.
- b. Community singing of patriotic selections.

B. Big sectional meetings of the afternoon.

1. Food. (For men and women.)

- a. Patriotic address.
- b. Short addresses on—
  - (1) Conservation.
  - (2) Production.
  - (3) Distribution.
  - (4) Labor.

2. Education. (Teachers, public speakers, parents.)

- a. Address: "The War and the Schools."
- b. Discussion: "War Service Work for the School."
  - (1) Junior Red Cross as applied in school.
  - (2) Thrift Stamps as applied in school.
  - (3) U. S. Boys' Working Reserve applied in school.
  - (4) Patriotic Service League.

c. Discussion: "Educational Campaign."

- (1) Public meeting and county-wide speaking campaigns.
- (2) Education through publicity, literature, exhibits and displays.

C. Forenoon conferences (small groups of interested workers).

1. Discussion of local plans and problems.
  - a. Food, fuel, etc.
  - b. County committees.

D. Luncheons (organization groups).

1. County Council of Defense.
2. Educational Committee.
3. Red Cross Chapter officers.
4. Other similar groups.

EXHIBIT 1.

FOOD CONSERVATION.

Food should have an important place on the program of the war councils. Food has already added from one to two years or more to the time that the United States will have to fight in the war. The recent Italian collapse and the withdrawal of Russia from the war were both caused primarily by food conditions. These two great misfortunes will cause the death of countless thousands of American soldiers in the long run. England, France and Italy need our food aid as much as, if not more, than they need our man power and ammunition.

A county war council which does not give a great deal of attention to food will be neglecting the most vital problem America faces in the war. The war councils are intended, primarily, to be educational; the work of the Food Administration is of more of an educational nature than that of any other department of the government. The Treasury Department, the War Department and even the Red Cross, all have a machinery for getting results directly, while the Food Administration must depend largely upon the spontaneous interest and spirit of the great mass of the general public.

We suggest that you call into conference the Federal Food Administrators for each county and the woman member of the County Council of Defense, who has conducted the pledge-card campaigns in her county.

Food program in each county will, as a whole, be in charge of the County Food Administrator. We suggest, however, that he work in this matter in close conjunction with the woman member of the County Council of Defense.

Impress upon these two persons the importance of arranging for good speakers on food conservation at the meetings of the war councils and of holding interesting sectional meetings of wholesale and retail merchants, hotel and restaurant men and housewives and of all other classes of people interested in and affected by the food control law and the food conservation movement.

Most of the speakers for these meetings will necessarily have to be local or from nearby counties. The Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, however (through the Speakers' Bureau of the State Council of Defense), will do everything within his power to help the County Food Administrator prepare an interesting food program for his war council. The County Food Administrator should not depend too fully on the Indiana Food Administrator, for there are apt to be many calls for speakers and few available speakers.

A team of three food administration speakers is to come to Indiana from the Food Administration headquarters at Washington. This team will work in Indiana twenty days. The team will consist of a leader, who was one of the six men recently sent by the Food Administration to study food conditions in Europe, of a woman member, capable of giving advice and suggestions to women, and of a speaker, a second man. The date of the arrival of this team in this State is not yet known. It is proposed to "book" these people at as many of the county war councils as possible. These county food administrators who ask first for this team will get it, or at least part of it, providing that it is practical to make such arrangements. Railroad connections and other limitations will have to be taken into consideration. The County Food Administrator should not depend too fully upon getting this team as a part of his food program, but should use these speakers from Washington as extra good measure if he is able to get them. Any County Food Administrator who wants this team should write to Dr. Barnard immediately after the dates of the war council for his county are set. The speakers will be booked through the Speakers' Division of the State Council of Defense.

EXHIBIT 2.

FOOD PRODUCTION.

Food production and conservation should play a most important part in the county war conference. In organizing for this you should take advantage of the forces already in the county. The Food Committee of the County Council should call together the County Agricultural Agent or the Emergency Demonstration Agent, the Woman Emergency Food Demonstration Agent and the officers of the Better Farming Association or the Food Production and Conservation Committees in the county. These people should organize so as to interest the men and women of the farm in the county war conference. It is important that these people hear the special speakers, and especially that relating to the food needs of our army and our allies for the divisional conference on food production.

It is desirable to have discussed the program presented by the Federal Department of Agriculture, which call for a material increase in production of all garden and field crops and the live stock of the farm, as well as dairy and poultry products.

A special feature of the program should be a discussion on the value and importance of war food gardens. Every home in both town and country can produce a large supply of foodstuff in this way and thus meet one of the largest of our war problems.

Help can be secured for these programs from Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department, which will send, so far as men and women are available, speakers on the subjects of food production, food conservation, gardening, etc.

Save Your Pennies and Help to Win the War, Secretary McAdoo Tells the American Children

Secretary McAdoo has prepared the following address to "Young America," telling the children how they can help the government win the war by saving their pennies and investing them in thrift stamps. He says:

To Young America:

Nations have their childhood and their days of hard lessons just as children do. One hundred and forty years ago, when the first American Army marched to battle, our Nation was younger among nations than you are among your fathers, your mothers, and their friends. Our Army had drummer boys in those days, real boys of 10 and 12 who marched as bravely and as proudly into cannon fire as their great chief, Gen. Washington, himself. Our Nation had little girls, who laughed and cheered and loaded muskets for their fathers, who fired through loopholes in their cabin homes, when the painted Indians charged to the very doors.

Where many schoolhouses stand today American boys and girls may have helped to fight and to defeat the enemy, when our Nation, too, was young.

LIKE BOYS AND GIRLS OF '76.

We are in the greatest war of the world's history, and we must win this war. We can and we shall win, if the boys and girls of America say so, and mean it, and feel it, and live it, as the boys and girls of '76 lived and felt and helped.

The Nation needs that sort of boys and girls today. Not to beat our drums, nor to load our muskets, but to start a great work which must be done. It is the part of boys and girls today to give an example of self-denial and sacrifice, to teach fathers and mothers, to teach the grown people of the Nation, that we still have in every young heart the spirit of '76, when boys led our soldiers into battle and girls fought beside their fathers at the cabin walls. The lesson is "Thrift"—saving to the point of sacrifice—self-denial of everything unnecessary.

CHANCE FOR EVERYONE.

If every boy and girl says at home tonight, "I will fight in this war," "I will save every penny and loan it to my government to help save the lives of the big brothers of America," "I will try to teach every American I see to do the same," then 20,000,000 homes, the homes of all America, will be filled with the spirit of '76, the spirit of the drummer boys, of the brave girls of those days. America will win again, as it has always won, through the splendid strength, courage, and sacrifice in the hearts of youth, that today will teach the Nation the lesson of saving and serving, which it must and will learn, through the message which its school children will carry home.

Through saving your pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, and buying thrift stamps, and then war-savings certificates, you will help your country and its gallant armies to win the war.

I know you will help.

Application for this help should be made direct to Purdue.

EXHIBIT 3.

BOYS' WORKING RESERVE.

Tentative plans of the United States Boys' Working Reserve for sectional meetings to be held in connection with county war conferences during January and February.

I.

WHOM TO INVITE.

County and city directors of the reserve.
All enrolling officers.
All school superintendents, principals and teachers.
County agricultural agents.
Chairmen of farmers' institutes.
Officers of grange societies.
Officers of local canning companies.
Farmers who will need more labor next season.
Rotary Club members.
Boys who have enrolled in the reserve.
Other boys who are eligible to enroll.
Ministers.
Y. M. C. A. secretaries.
Boy Scout leaders.

II.

PROGRAM.

(1) ENROLLING THE BOY.

- (a) City and town boy. Why?
- (b) Country boy. Why?

(2) CONNECTING THE FARMER WITH THE BOY.

- (a) No other reserve reservoir of labor available.
- (b) Definite contract with farmer prescribing minimum wage.
- (c) Instruction of inexperienced boy.
- (d) Record made by city boys on farms last year.

(3) BOY WELFARE.

- (a) Co-operation of county councils of defense, Reserve directors and school authorities in finding locations for boys and placing them in wholesome environment.
- (b) Visiting boys after they have been placed.
- (c) Settling disputes that may arise between boy and farmer.

(4) SCHOOL RELATIONS.

- (a) Release of boys from school during planting season.
- (b) Release of boys from school during harvest season.
- (c) Standard of scholarship required.
- (d) Special instruction for boys released for emergency work in order that they may make up their studies.

(5) TRAINING BOY.

Week-end agricultural classes in each county to teach boys the nomenclature of farm life, etc., prior to April 1, 1918.

Note.—Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Lafayette and Columbus high schools will start such classes not later than February 1.

An especial effort should be made to secure the attendance of as many representative farmers to the sectional meeting of the Boys' Working Reserve as possible, and to urge upon them the necessity for their full co-operation in training these boys for agricultural work, pointing out that the constant tug of high wages paid in the factories in the city will attract many of their experienced farm hands, and in addition, the man-power required for the military and naval forces will further deplete the ranks of experienced agricultural labor.

These farmers should be made to feel that they are a part of this organization—in fact, the most important part, inasmuch as the efficiency of those boys engaged for the first time in farm work will largely depend on the patience and care the farmers exercise in instructing and training them for the various tasks to which they are assigned.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Patriotic Press Comment

More Proof That Less Days Help

If there is any doubt as to the saving of meat and flour by the Hoover principle of meatless and wheatless days, the experience of the American Cafe during December should set all doubts at rest. In eight meatless days, 364 pounds of pork, beef and mutton were saved by substituting game, fish and chicken. In four wheatless days, 200 pounds of flour were saved. Multiply the experience of this one cafe by the thousands and ten thousands scattered over the United States and it is easy to see how a joint effort can make a great result out of small economies.—Rochester Sentinel.

Organization Plan for U. S. Food Clubs in Every Community in Indiana

More than 400,000 Indiana women have signed the membership pledge card of the United States Food Administration.

These cards have been carefully sorted and classified and are now on file in the State House at Indianapolis in the office of the Federal Food Administrator for Indiana.

These 400,000 women are willing to help Win the War.

It is proposed to organize these women in each neighborhood in Indiana (and it will be done, also, all over the United States) into small, compact, powerful FOOD CLUBS. These Food Clubs will fight a food battle AT HOME, in their own neighborhoods, that is just as important as the bullet and bayonet battle that American soldiers are about to fight on French soil.

It is proposed to organize the women of Indiana for the FOOD FIGHT so well that if Dr. H. E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, should get an important message from Herbert Hoover at Washington—something serious and important—that should be transmitted without delay to a large part of the population of the State he could get the word to every one of the 400,000 women members of the food administration in Indiana, and their families, in 24 hours.

This is how it can be done:

1. Dr. Barnard would telephone or telegraph the County President of U. S. Food Clubs in each of the 92 counties of Indiana. (Or he might communicate with the Federal Food Administrator in each county who would tell the County President of U. S. Food Clubs.)

2. The County President of U. S. Food Clubs would transmit the message to each Township President of U. S. Food Clubs in her county.

3. The Township President of U. S. Food Clubs would telephone or see the President of each of the individual Food Clubs in her township.

4. The President of each Food Club would telephone or see or otherwise communicate with each of her lieutenants.

5. Each lieutenant would be responsible for getting the word immediately to a list of fourteen other women members of the neighborhood Food Clubs.

It is improbable that any emergency calling for such rapid action will ever arise, but this outline illustrates the thoroughness with which the organization of food administration members is to be made.

Another way of putting it is that the 400,000 Indiana women who signed the food administration membership pledge cards are to be divided into squads of 15 members each.

These 15 women will be under the leadership of a Club Lieutenant, one of their own number.

The Club Lieutenants (one for every 15 members of the local clubs) will be under the leadership of a Club President.

The Club Presidents will be under the leadership of a Township President. (It may be advisable for a Township President to act also as a president of an individual club, in many cases.)

The Township Presidents will be under the leadership of a County President.

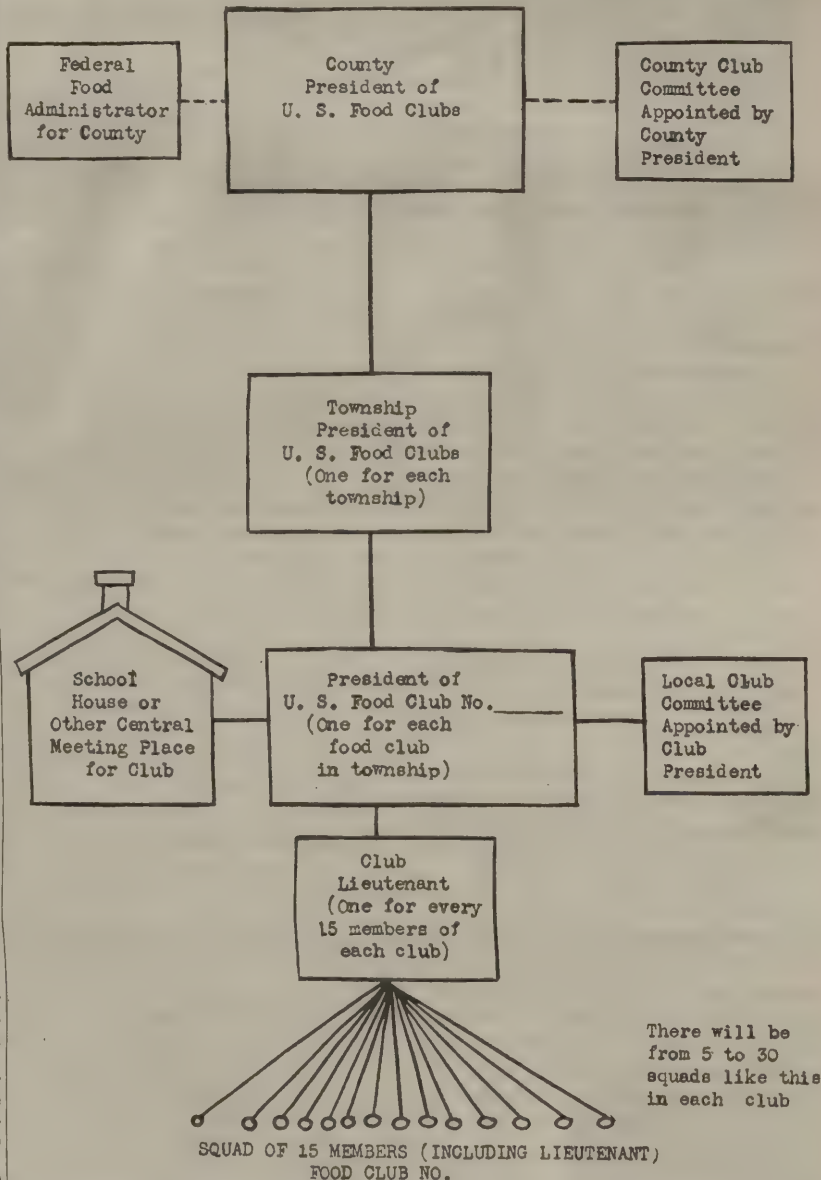

The County Presidents will be under the leadership of the Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, and will work in conjunction with the Federal Food Administrator for her county.

The German nation is organized as thoroughly as this for war. We must be even better organized for war in our own country if we want to defeat the German nation.

The services of all officers and of all members of this organization will be voluntary. No one will be forced to do anything that he or she is not willing to do.

Each County President will appoint an assisting club committee to help her in the work of running the food clubs in her county. Each individual club president will appoint a local club committee to help her plan and promote interesting programs at each meeting, to do special work and to head sub-committees.

DETAIL PLAN OF ORGANIZATION OF FOOD CLUBS IN EACH COUNTY

All members of families of which one woman member signed the food administration membership card shall be entitled to participate in the work of the clubs and to attend meetings of the clubs. It is thus estimated that about 1,600,000 residents of Indiana will be taking part in the work of the clubs from the very beginning.

The size of territory covered by local clubs shall be determined by the Township Presidents advising with the County Presidents. Each local club will have a distinct identity and bear a number different from that of every other club in the State, and will be given a charter signed by the Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. No club shall be so large as to be unwieldy. The membership of each club should be of from 75 to 200 actual members—perhaps fewer in thinly settled districts, perhaps more in towns and cities. A school house, church, or other meeting place should be designated as the regular meeting place of the club, and the charter of the club will be hung in such meeting place. It is proposed that regular monthly meetings, and such special call meeting as shall be found necessary, shall be held by each club, at which a program suggested by the Food Administration and worked out by a local club committee shall be given.

The entire map of each county shall be divided into club districts by the Township and County Presidents, and a copy of such map shall be furnished the Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. Each club should be gathered around a school house or other meeting place, and the territory covered should be small enough to make it convenient for every member to come to the meetings even in winter weather. If it is thought advisable, the present division of townships into school districts may be followed in dividing the township into Food Club districts.

The 400,000 membership pledge cards are now being copied on small slips of paper, in the office of the Indiana Food Administrator, and the names for each county will be returned in this form as soon as possible to the County President of Food Clubs, who will in turn see that they are further distributed to their proper townships and districts. Each President of each individual club will be supplied with a pasteboard box in which to keep a careful file of the slips for her club members. Each club will be expected to make a systematic and continuous effort to get new members, and as new membership pledge cards are signed they are to be sent to the Federal Food Administrator for permanent filing. As the cards are received at the Indianapolis office the names will be transferred to slips, and the slips will be returned to the local club presidents.

THESE CLUBS WILL BE NO GOOD UNLESS THEY HAVE SOME REAL PATRIOTIC WORK TO DO, and here are some of the things that each club can do:

11. Distribute leaflets, pamphlets, cards, recipes, cook books, posters, and other printed matter from the Food Administration. (If the clubs do nothing else than this, this service alone will justify the formation of this gigantic organization in Indiana.)

2. Distribute word of mouth messages from the Food Administrator.

3. Wage a constant campaign for new members for the Food Administration, with the goal in each district of 100 per cent. membership of the families in that district.

4. See that all members have the "Kitchen War Creed," the book "Ten Lessons on Conservation," and clean unfaded copies of the window membership card, and that the window cards are prominently displayed in all homes of members.

5. Act as community exchanges for receipts, etc.

6. Report to the County Food Administrator cases of hoarding, profiteering, waste, and obnoxious and unpatriotic trade practices.

7. Act together to get merchants to institute the cash and carry system, force hotels and restaurants to observe meatless and wheatless days, etc.; induce merchants to broaden their trade (such as getting the grocer to handle fish and poultry, etc.)

8. Induce the public to patronize only stores and restaurants which have signed the membership card and which live up to it.

9. Make a complete list and census of all homes in the district through canvassing or from an assessor's list, and wage a campaign upon those which have not joined the Food Administration.

10. Act as a bureau for the registration of complaints; investigate them, and report them to the County Food Administrator.

11. Institute conservation measures, such as prompting the children to form "No-Candy Clubs."

12. Institute measures to increase production. Promote war gardens and community gardens. Work with the Department of Agriculture, and State and county farm agents and home-economics demonstrators.

13. Organize pig clubs.

14. Report where labor is scarce in the country. Assist in securing farm laborers in the city.

15. Arrange means for distribution of garden and farm products to avoid waste.

16. Hold call meetings and perhaps regular monthly meetings for: Presenting conservation news. Reading messages from State and County Food Administrators. Giving cooking demonstrations. Conducting recipe contests. Interchanging recipes. Reporting unpatriotic acts. Discussing necessity and methods of conservation. Music. Conducting a question box. Patriotic speeches, etc., etc.

This outline will be changed to fit conditions as they arise.

In different counties the method of organizing and of actual club work will vary. The Federal Food Administrator for Indiana will provide each club each month with a "ready made" program for its regular meeting. Local program committees can add local features.

In some counties it may be advisable to cooperate with the Parent-Teacher's organization or some other existing organization in perfecting the organization outlined herein. The exact method of organization will be left to the County President in each county.

Showing of War Films.

Chairmen of County Councils of Defense are urged to give immediate attention to the request from the chairman of the Publicity Committee relative to moving picture theaters and the opportunities for displaying effectively the special films prepared and distributed under the direction of the Committee on Public Information. This is one of the most pretentious publicity efforts yet undertaken in connection with the war, and in order that its greatest value be realized it is essential that there be close co-operation between the State Council of Defense and the County Councils. George Ade, chairman of the Publicity Committee, has seen a sample bill of the war pictures and he is authority for the statement that they form a highly edifying entertainment.

If you have a sweet-tooth, pull it.

High School Boys Make Fuel Saving

Gwynnville Club Cuts 200 Cords of Wood Which Indicates Possibilities of Coal Conservation.

Gwynnville high school boys, directed by Principal E. P. Lowery, have cut 200 cords of stove wood since December 1, thus decreasing the demand for an equal number of tons of coal and releasing five coal cars which would have been required to transport that tonnage. Accepting as correct the estimate that one cord of wood equals one ton of coal, and using the prevailing coal prices for valuation on a utilitarian basis, this cord wood would be worth approximately $1,000. By their patriotic activity these boys served a four-fold purpose: First, they helped relieve the local fuel shortage; second, they released domestic coal consumption in munition plants; third, they released five coal cars, thus helping to relieve railroad congestion and car shortage; fourth, they produced something essential to the successful prosecution of the war.

If every high school principal in Indiana could report a similar activity on the part of students since winter began, the approximate result would be: 160,000 cords of wood cut; 160,000 tons of coal saved; 4,000 railroad cars released.

Farmers and school authorities are urged by the Indiana State Council of Defense to see that every available boy devotes his spare time to this important work. If any farmer already has sufficient coal or wood for this winter he is asked to begin cutting his supply for next winter, in order that he will not need coal which may be needed in the more thickly-populated sections or in munition plants.

THE FARM LABOR PROBLEM.

David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, discussing the farm labor problem, makes the following specific recommendations, including the utilization of boys of high school age who heretofore have not been regularly employed in farming operations.

"The farm labor problem has presented, and continues to present, many difficulties.

"However, it is well to recognize that the situation will continue to be difficult and that a satisfactory solution will require the best thought of the nation and the fullest and most complete co-operation of all agencies. To this end all plans which give any promise of real results must be carefully examined and put into effect so far as they are feasible.

"If we put our minds to the task and attempt to deal with it in a constructive way, there are many things which can be done to furnish relief. The Department of Agriculture, of course, will continue to do everything in its power to aid in the solution of the difficult problem. The most promising lines of effort seem to me to embrace the following:

"1. A systematic survey of the farm-labor situation in order to ascertain the possible needs of farmers and to determine ways of meeting them.

"2. The promotion of fuller co-operation in the utilization of labor among farmers in the same community.

"3. The further development of machinery for assisting in the transfer of labor from sections where the seasonal pressure has passed to regions where additional help is urgently needed.

"4. Making available labor which heretofore has not been fully or regularly utilized in farming operations, including boys of high school age who have had experience on the farm. (This is the function of the United States Boys' Working Reserve.)

"5. The releasing of men for agricultural purposes, as far as possible, by replacing them with women and by diverting labor from relatively non-essential enterprises are matters which demand serious consideration.

"6. Steps to see that any able-bodied men who are not now doing a full and useful day's work shall be fully and regularly employed. This, of course, is a matter primarily for consideration by State and municipal authorities.

"7. The largest possible production and fullest use of farm labor-saving machinery.

"The whole subject, involving industry as well as agriculture, is being given serious attention by the Council of National Defense through its various agencies which are actively at work along many lines to formulate constructive plans."

THE FARM BOY'S DUTY.

The farmer's son is in position to render splendid patriotic service and on his shoulders rests a tremendous responsibility, says Dean Eugene Davenport, University of Illinois.

"Nobody but the soldier and the experienced man of affairs can help more than can the boy on the farm, providing he stays with the land and works as he never worked before.

"How is it possible that a boy on the farm 3,000 miles from the fighting line can do anything toward winning this war—and by so common a job as following the plow, working in the harvest field, or riding the cultivator down the corn rows? It is because the world across the water has put so many men in the army and is getting so terribly hungry that every bushel of grain and every pound of wheat will help to win the war.

"But cannot the farm boy make more money by going into munition plants or other factories which offer exceedingly high wages? Certainly he can and so could the soldiers, but when our country is fighting for its life it is not a question of making money, but of defeating the enemy.

"The only time to fight is now. It is the last chance. The only way to win is to fight and to raise food, and that is why the boy on the farm has so good a chance to help. But besides raising food the farm boy can help in another way:

"The government, realizing the labor difficulty, has called upon the city high school boy for help and has organized the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve. Some of these city boys will come to your neighborhood, perhaps to your own farm. They could all earn more money in the shops, but they have come at the call of their country to help raise food. They know little about farming, and you, the boy with farm experience, can help them in every way better than can anybody else. Now is your chance to do your bit."

WARREN BOYS ORGANIZE.

Under the direction of Henry F. Shier the following Warren county boys of West Lebanon have organized a Saw Buck Club and are actively engaged in reducing dead and fallen timber to stove wood length for domestic consumption: Floyd Pugh, Fay Gullion, Burgess Hill, Dewey Benedict, Paul Beedle, Rex Reynolds, Chester Reynolds, Ora Lakin, Ora VanPelt, Newton Pence, Wilbur Astell, Boley Quarles, Cheesman Ahrens, Paul Clem, Lewis Clem, James Hoover, Lawrence Simmerman, Ralph Sims, Mikie Shaughnessy, Lee Williams, Herbert Brown and Howard Beedle.

CANNERS IN NEED OF BOYS.

Harry McCartney, president of the Indiana Canners' Association, advises that Indiana Canners will need hundreds of boys this season and that the labor available through the Boys' Working Reserve will enable them to secure a largely increased acreage.

FARMERS ASK FOR SCHOOLBOYS.

More than 300 Indiana farmers have filled in questionnaires sent out by the United States Boys' Working Reserve, asking them if they can use high school boys on their farms this summer. A total of 254 stated that they could use boys during the harvest season and eighty-eight stated that they could use them all summer. The first of the questionnaires were sent out December 1 and more are being sent almost daily. Several thousand responses are expected.

WILL HOUSE FIFTY WORKERS.

The Greenfield Packing Company will build a camp near Greenfield to house 50 boys who will aid local growers in planting and harvesting the pea, bean and tomato crops.

We did not plunge into the conflict for revenge, for commercialism or because of race hatred. We drew the sword to protect American lives and American rights.—
GOVERNOR JAMES P. GOODRICH.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., JANUARY 18, 1918

Number 23

Schools to Co-operate With Indiana Cannery

State Board of Education Makes Recommendations and Endorses Boys Working Reserve as Source of Labor Supply.

One of the most serious problems confronting educators at this time is the release of boys for agricultural work under such conditions that they may render a maximum of service with a minimum loss of time from their studies in the class room.

The Indiana Cannery Association, through its president, addressed a letter to Governor James P. Goodrich a short time ago from which the following is an extract:

"Hon. James P. Goodrich, State House, Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Dear Sir—We need help. Last year the Government took 12 per cent. of our peas and corn and 18 per cent. of our tomatoes for the use of the army and navy. This year they will require probably two and one-half times as much and our allies can use any surplus that we can produce.

"The cannery have named prices to the growers that are very generally satisfactory, but the growers are afraid to contract liberally on account of the labor situation. Canning factory crops, especially tomatoes, require more labor per acre than regular farm crops and must be harvested promptly when ripe.

"I believe the Boys' Working Reserve can save the situation, but to make this force an effective argument with our growers we should have a statement from you, or from the school authorities that these high school boys will be available for use in May in putting out the crops and until frost, or about October 15 in the fall in harvesting these crops. Cannot a statement be secured from the State Board of Education on this matter? Let that statement be in writing so we can send it to our members and they get it to their growers.

Yours very truly,

"INDIANA CANNERS' ASSOCIATION,
"By Harry McCartney, President."

*****

This letter was referred to Horace Ellis by the Governor with comment in part as follows:

"Dr. Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Dear Dr. Ellis—The enclosed copy of a letter from Mr. Harry McCartney, president of the Indiana Cannery Association, relative to the farm labor situation among growers of canning factory crops is of serious importance.

"I understand that the majority of boys who are not permanently employed, and who have enrolled in the United States Boys' Working Reserve, attend high school. To release these boys from school for short periods of time during the spring planting and fall harvest seasons will interfere somewhat with the regular school program. This situation presents a problem the solution of which falls naturally to the school authorities of the State, and therefore I am referring this letter to you in the hopes that you will bring it to the attention of the proper parties for their consideration and recommendation.

"I know that both you and the educational authorities throughout the State are in complete accord with the thought that increased food production in the State of Indiana during the coming year must not go by default on account of lack of sufficient labor, and that it will be both your pleasure and theirs to co-operate in every way possible with the cannery in the State, and with the farmers as well.

"Very truly yours,
"JAMES P. GOODRICH, Governor."

*****

These communications were presented by Dr. Ellis to the State Board of Education, which board at its regular meeting on January 11, 1918, took the following action, which assures growers and farmers of Indiana that they will have the unreserved co-operation of all the educators in Indiana:

"ACTION OF STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

January 11, 1918.

"Owing to the necessity for an increase in the acreage of farm products, together with a growing shortage of farm labor, the State Board of Education, in regular session January 11, 1918, deems it advisable and therefore recommends:

"1. That the County Superintendent of Schools, together with the township high school principals, town and city superintendents and county agent of each county of the State constitute a board empowered to determine the advisability of maintaining in session the schools of their county during two or more Saturdays of each month for the remainder of the present school term, so as to close the schools sooner than the ordinary and accustomed date.

"2. That where the local school superintendents and high school principals determine that it is inadvisable to maintain their schools in session on Saturdays, they may at their discretion determine upon a plan whereby high school boys and girls of good standing may be released from school, not to exceed three weeks, prior to the closing of the school term to meet the exigencies incident to the shortage of farm labor and receive regular credit for the term's work.

"3. That in the event high school boys and girls are dismissed from school before the close of the present school term, such dismissal shall be made upon the condition that they are to be regularly and profitably employed to the approval and satisfaction of the local board, whose duty it shall be to keep in constant touch with each pupil released from school.

"4. That the board be empowered to devise a satisfactory plan for keeping in touch with the work for which the pupils have been dismissed to perform, and that the board require a written weekly report from the employe, giving the days, hour and character of the work done by the pupil.

"5. That the board be empowered to withhold credits from any pupil who is dismissed from school under this plan and who does not meet with the conditions and requirements fixed by the board, and that for any violation of the conditions agreed upon by the board, the pupil be required to make up for the time he has been absent from school as a result of this plan.

"6. That the local board co-operate with the Boys' Working Reserve of each county with a view of utilizing the services of the high school boys and girls to the greatest advantage."

The Day of Atonement

"Every American and Canadian woman can bring the inevitable atonement for brutal outrage in Belgium, Armenia and Serbia, for the Lusitania and other horrors, a bit nearer by a day of food economy."—Lord Rhonda, British minister of food, in an address to representatives of the American, Canadian and Australian press.

Johnson County Has First War Conference

Enthusiastic Mass Meetings and Educational Sectional Sessions Featured the Program.

Johnson county held the first county war conference held in Indiana. For two days, January 11 and 12, at Franklin, under the supervision of the Indiana State Council of Defense, and the direct management of the Johnson County Council of Defense, large and enthusiastic patriotic mass meetings were held and special or sectional meetings of war workers were successfully organized and carried through.

W. W. Aikens, chairman of the Johnson county chapter of the Red Cross, presided at the first meeting of the big conference. Music was supplied by the Juvenile band of Greenwood, and by vocalists.

Food and fuel conservation, patriotic activities of various sorts, Red Cross work, Y. M. C. A. war service, the Liberty Loan, and especially the thrift certificate and savings stamps movement were discussed.

Among the speakers at the conference were: Miss Eleanor Barker, Indianapolis, on conservation in the homes; W. G. Oliver on fuel conservation; H. Foster Clippinger, of Indianapolis, on the thrift campaign; Rev. Percy Epler, Indianapolis, on Red Cross work; Fred A. Sims of Indianapolis spoke for the war thrift certificate movement.

Gov. James P. Goodrich sent a telegram of greetings to the conference and expressed regret because of his inability to drop State business long enough to attend.

Speakers at division meetings the second day of the conference included Prof. James A. Woodburn of Indiana university, Bloomington; Prof. Charles Curry of the State Normal school; Isaac D. Straus of the State Council of Defense, federal state director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve in Indiana; Mrs. Hugh McGibeny and Judge Charles J. Orbison of Indianapolis and Miss Vida Newsom of Columbus.

The divisional meeting included conferences of workers in the fuel administration, food administration, war savings and thrift stamps, war mothers' division, educational section, fraternal orders, Red Cross section, religious workers' section, and others.

The war conference organization was headed in Johnson county by Eugene Pulliam. D. B. Kelly was chairman of the decorations committee. Otis White headed the ushers organization. The township chairmen were as follows: Harry McCartney, Elmer Boone, J. Wesley Paddock, T. C. Wyrick, Thomas Blackwell, Narel Boaz, Rev. E. G. Kneisley, Will Ray, Fred Vandivier, Rev. R. Glick, John A. Thompson, Prof. A. D. Montgomery, Rev. B. L. Scroggs, Rev. Thomas Gray, J. L. Griffith, Prof. Paul Linton, Watson VanNuys and James Covert.

Division chairmen were: L. E. Ott, W. G. Oliver, M. J. Voris, Prof. Warren J. Yount, Henry White, Rev. Rhys P. Jones, W. W. Aikens, Mrs. M. E. Crowell and Mrs. Luella K. Finkbiner.

On Fault Finding

It has been wisely put that "When a man or woman finds fault with meatless or wheatless regulations, a presumption arises against the faultfinder's loyalty and the burden of proof is on the defendant."—Logansport Pharos-Reporter.

I 355
I 385cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Fayette County.—The Fayette County Council of Defense, actively and aggressively co-operating with an aggressive local press, and working through a large and growing organization of watchful and patriotic citizens, is driving home the truth about the war and is throwing a decided chill into a group of pro-kaiser spouters in and around Connersville. Officers of the Defense Council, notably C. S. Roots of the protection section, urges that every loyal citizen shall put the war issue squarely up to every "Hun-gabler" who is heard to utter false or seditious statements touching on the war.

F. I. Barrows of Connersville, formerly an officer in the Indiana National Guard, has organized a class of young men for free instruction in the rudiments of military duty, and invites men subject to the selective enlistment law to call upon him for assistance and instruction. The class meets Saturdays at the Commercial Club in Connersville.

A plan now is in operation in Fayette county for the posting in public places of the names of persons who peddle pro-kaiser falsehoods that tend to obstruct or confuse America's war work. Names of gossipers against the Red Cross and other war institutions are to be turned in to Chairman L. A. Frazee of the Fayette County Council of Defense, or to other members of that body.

Fayette county not long ago shipped, three days in advance of the time schedule, 6,400 surgical dressings for the Red Cross. High school girls made 2,400 of these dressings. The Red Cross shop at Connersville is in the Masonic banquet hall, and that order recently contributed $85 to the cause.

Floyd County.—New Albany's numerous wood-using industries have been enforcing a general fuel-saving policy by burning refuse wood under their boilers in place of coal. Where these factories have a surplus of refuse lumber after supplying their special wood and refuse burners, the wood is sold to factory employees at nominal prices for use in the homes.

The Evangelical Church Brotherhood at New Albany, led by Rev. F. A. Meusch, is actively engaged in war work in response to a synodical appeal for a war fund. At the first meeting of the women at the home of Mrs. Charles Miller $25 was raised. The auxiliary officers are: President, Miss Alinda Fleischer; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Miller; secretary, Mrs. George Lopp, and treasurer, Mrs. P. H. Schoen.

Fountain County.—Last June Fountain county women started knitting socks for soldiers, the county being asked to make 100 pairs as its quota of the supply needed for Indiana men going to the colors. At that time 144 pairs of socks were knit. Fountain county knitters did not quit work when the Indianapolis shop was closed, following completion of the first lot of socks. Last October the Fountain County Council of Defense decided to go on with the making of socks for Fountain county boys in the service. The women who had been in charge in the townships continued in charge of the knitting. From September 15 to December 24 562 pairs of socks were knit. Mrs. Dan C. Reed inspected all the work and assisted in financing and managing the campaign. Newspapers in Fountain county print a complete report of the knitting campaign, with a list of the knitters in Covington, Kingman, Roberts, Newtown, Wallace, Union Chapel, Mellott, Hillsboro, Attica and Veedsburg. The list is a long one, indicating that Fountain county women are enlisted in large numbers in war work. Mrs. Rachel Levor of the County Defense Council made the report which is offered through the press.

The National Car Coupler plant at Attica made an unusual record in the big Red Cross membership drive, enlisting more than 700 of its employees as members of the Red Cross. Many departments were able to put up the Red Cross flag with the star to indicate full enrollment. The organization worked under an executive committee as follows: Will Kirkman, chairman; Chester Dougherty, secretary and treasurer; Bert Maltot, Lee McGowan and Robert Lentz.

Attica has a new company in the Indiana State Militia with 74 men on the roster, and with Capt. Russell L. Smith in command. Joseph H. Stahl is first lieutenant and Ernest Rodenbeck is second lieutenant.

Fulton County.—The new committee on public policy created by the Fulton County Council of Defense has been active since the day it was appointed, organizing patriotic meetings, formulating the American idea for propaganda work through the schools, through speakers and through the press, and uniting the intelligent forces of patriotism for active work against insidious enemy propaganda and falsehood. The committee is as follows: George W. Holman, chairman; Enoch Myers, Otto McMahon, H. G. Miller and Grosvenor Dawe. Mr. McMahon is spokesman in the community for the Federal authorities. The leaders of thought, men and women, have been gathered together not only for speeches, but for written expressions of war topics to be used in various ways in Fulton county. A formal policy statement has been prepared for use in all the county.

One plan now working out is to hold special patriotic meetings in January in all the churches of the county, each meeting to be addressed by a speaker representing the Defense Council and its public policy committee.

An effort is being made to get an emergency home demonstrator for Fulton county. Meetings recently held at Akron, Kewanee and Rochester aroused general interest among the women of the county. Mrs. Eva Robb of Walalah, speaking under the auspices of the Purdue Extension Department and the Fulton County Council of Defense, told of emergency war work for the women and informed the women how they might get a home demonstrator.

Gibson County.—Discussion of the use of tobacco in the army at a recent meeting of the Gibson County Council of Defense led to public misstatements as to the position of Rev. M. S. McMillan, chairman of the public morals committee of the Defense Council. The council is out with a formal statement refuting the charge that Rev. McMillan had criticized the Red Cross. Rev. McMillan asked if it were true that Red Cross money was being spent for cigarettes for soldiers. This inquiry led to the circulation of untrue statements attributed to Mr. McMillan. One of the practical and necessary items in handling soldiers and in caring for them is the cigarette. The Red Cross does not put by cigarettes, but it does not hesitate to distribute smoking materials to smokers, who demand and need the supplies when in hospitals. It has been shown that instead of discouraging members of his congregation from joining the Red Cross, Rev. McMillan has helped with the membership campaign, and the members of Mr. McMillan's church are all Red Cross members. The Gibson County Council of Defense has published vigorous resolutions strongly vindicating Rev. McMillan.

Mrs. O. M. Kolb, chairman of the food committee of the women's section of the Gibson County Council of Defense, is in charge of the work of gathering and marketing the surplus of canned goods put up by the women of the county. This work will be bigger than ever in 1918.

Miss Ruth Maxan, woman member of the Gibson County Council of Defense, is out with an urgent appeal asking the women of the county to do away with refreshments at entertainments except where such refreshments can be made to take the place of a regular meal.

Grant County.—For the benefit of the Red Cross Marion people recently gave a benefit two-night performance of "The Masquerade Party," the affair being highly successful. A feature was a short address by Capt. A. Lays Brown of the Canadian forces, who paid a high tribute to the Red Cross.

The Grant County Ministerial Association, in a recent meeting, took measures to demonstrate that the church is being kept active and increasingly helpful in war work. Armenian relief and work for the French war victims are especially being looked after by the church folk of the county.

Greene County.—Mrs. J. B. Young has reported to the Greene County Council of Defense that more than 500 service cards have been signed by women in the county in addition to 4,567 food conservation pledge cards.

J. Frank Cravens and James L. Smith have been recommended by the Greene County Council of Defense to the Food Administration to handle the food problems of the county in place of Allen Williams, formerly appointed, but who was not able to serve.

In resolutions passed by the Greene County Council of Defense it was suggested that the miners' examining board, which issues permits to coal miners, might hold adjourned sessions in order to be accessible to miners who seek permits for emergency work.

Frank R. Wall, a Spanish-American war soldier, is organizing a company of Liberty Guards at Worthington. An effort is being made under the auspices of the Greene County Council of Defense to organize a company of the Indiana State Militia in the county.

Hendricks County.—Retail grocers of Plainfield met in the office of Dr. Amos Carter, local representative of the Food Administration, and took action pledging themselves by resolution to whole-hearted support of the nation's food conservation plans. Officers have been named as follows: President, W. B. Elliott; vice-president, O. P. Duckworth; secretary, Ira M. Holselaw. These officers were named by the food administrator. Groceries are to be closed at 7 p. m., Saturdays excepted, during January, February and March, as a fuel conservation measure.

Plainfield club women are taking active part, as clubs, in Red Cross work, and various clubs have been assigned days for duty at the Red Cross Shop. Among these organizations are: Friday Club, Union Home Economics Club, Methodist Ladies' Aid Society, Home Economics Department, Literary Department, Mothers' Department, Civic Department and Music and Art Department of the Department Club.

Henry County.—Robert S. Hunter, a Newcastle attorney, has accepted the captaincy of the Newcastle company of the State militia, succeeding John Robbins, who resigned because of physical disability. Allen Mettert is first lieutenant and Chalmers Brown is second lieutenant.

Twenty-two Aberdeen-Angus calves have been allotted to boys and girls of Henry county who are members of a calf club organized by County Agent Joseph Prigg. Other boys and girls who already own calves have been asked to join the club. The calves are to be fed and cared for by the boys and girls until the time of the Henry County Fair, when the animals will be exhibited and awards will be made. It is expected the calf club will number more than fifty members. The Henry County Aberdeen-Angus Association supplies the calves at cost, and local banks have agreed to help the young folk finance their venture into business. County Agent Prigg, Harry Modlin and Leonard Clawson of Newcastle are leaders in the movement.

Dr. F. A. Bolser, chairman of the Henry County Council of Defense, and County Agent Prigg are active in placing orders for ewes to be brought in as part of the movement to increase the wool and mutton production of Indiana in the coming year and during the period of the war.

Howard County.—With a population of 40,000, Howard county shows 3,000 subscribers to the Y. M. C. A. war fund, giving $24,269.31, where the quota set for the county was $20,000.

A successful meeting has just been held at Greentown, in Howard county, to organize the women locally for war work under the women's section of the State and County Defense Councils. Mrs. Julia Jones Davis presided. The meeting was under the auspices of the Research Club. Lloyd McClure made a patriotic address. Mrs. Alfred Snook, secretary of the Howard County Council of Defense, was one of the speakers. Chairmen were chosen as follows:

Enrollment and Woman's Service—Chairman Howard county, Mrs. A. H. Hunt; sub-chairman Liberty township, Mrs. H. H. Weaver.

Food Production—Chairman Howard county, Mrs. Harry Meek; sub-chairman Liberty township, Mrs. Frank Cates.

Child Welfare—Chairman Howard county, Mrs. W. G. Kittelman; sub-chairman Liberty township, Mrs. F. P. Seegar.

Women in Industry—Chairman Howard county, Miss Bernice Haynes; sub-chairman Liberty township, Mrs. E. E. Freeman.

Health and Recreation—Chairman Howard county, Mrs. M. F. Brand; sub-chairman Liberty township, Mrs. E. U. Powell.

Educational Propaganda—Chairman Howard county, Mrs. Edgar Apperson; sub-chairman Liberty township, Miss Minnie Parsons.

The Howard County Chapter of the Red Cross has expended in the last year $7,758.96, and the sum of $7,917.15 has been raised to carry forward the chapter's activities.

Huntington County.—Ruth and Armin Bohn, twin daughter and son of the Rev. and Mrs. George Bohn of Bippus, were enrolled in the Red Cross when six days old by their father, who has enrolled his entire family of fourteen. The Rev. Mr. Bohn is pastor of a German Evangelical church at Bippus. Nearly all the residents of Warren township, in which Bippus is situated, are of German descent. The township, however, has 500 Red Cross members, 200 more than its quota.

Three little Huntington girls gave a circus for the benefit of the Red Cross. Following a highly successful exhibition the young patriots reported at the Red Cross Shop and turned over the entire proceeds, a shiny nickel.

Merchants' Economy

The report of the several Chairmen of the Merchants' Economy Committee, Indiana State Council of Defense, show that excellent progress has been made throughout the entire State in following the recommendations of the Council of National Defense relative to lessened deliveries, return of merchandise and C. O. D. orders.

The Merchants' Economy Committee is headed by Mr. F. M. Ayres of Indianapolis, Chairman. The State is divided into eleven districts, each district represented by its Chairman appointed by the General Chairman. These Chairmen not only want to secure the co-operation of the merchants in their cities, but have organized the territory adjacent to their city. In every instance, with the exception of a few isolated cases, the Chairmen report they have had no material difficulty in getting the retailers of their districts to comply fully with the recommendations made by the Council of National Defense, and that the suggestion concerning deliveries, returned merchandise and C. O. D. orders is now in a much better shape than it has ever been.

In a number of instances they report the release of a number of men formerly connected in the delivery service and which men are now being used for more important service to the country.

The percentage of merchandise which they have been asked to accept on return has been materially decreased and the custom of ordering goods sent out C. O. D. has been reduced to a minimum. The movement has been given wide publicity throughout the State, the Chairmen of the Merchants' Economy Committee reporting that in a number of instances display ads were run in their home papers as well as the papers running strong editorials advocating the public following these recommendations.

The outlook for 1918 is very bright to the end that this movement be made even more universal.

During the first week of the drive for memberships in the United States Food Administration's organization of retail grocers 2,325 Indiana men enrolled. It is believed the retailers' organization in the State will reach every community of the State.

In the matter of food do not mistake substitution for starvation. The United States Food Administration asks you for the former in order to guard against the latter.

Food Administration

To County Federal Food Administrators:

I am going to leave it to you to see that the subject of FOOD is given the consideration it deserves at the War Council, which is soon to be held in your county.

Food should have an important place on the program of every County Council.

Food has already added from one to two years or more to the time that the United States will have to fight in the war. The recent Italian collapse and the withdrawal of Russia from the war were both caused primarily by food conditions. These two great misfortunes will cause the death of countless thousands of American soldiers in the long run. England, France and Italy need our food aid as much, if not more, than they need our man power and ammunition.

A County War Council which does not give a great deal of attention to food will be neglecting the most vital problem America faces in the war. The War Councils are intended, primarily, to be educational; the work of the Food Administration is more of an educational nature than that of any other department of the government. The Treasury Department, the War Department and even the Red Cross, all have a machinery for getting results directly, while the Food Administration must depend largely upon the spontaneous interest and spirits of the great mass of the general public.

We suggest that you call into conference the woman member of the County Council of Defense who has conducted the pledge card campaign in their county, and that you work in this manner in close conjunction with her.

Arrange for good speakers on Food Conservation at the meetings of the War Council and for interesting sectional meetings of wholesale and retail merchants, hotel and restaurant men and housewives, and of all other classes of people interested in and affected by the Food Control Law and the Food Conservation movement.

Most of the speakers for these meetings will necessarily have to be local or from nearby counties. This office, however (through the Speakers Bureau of the State Council of Defense), will do everything within its power to help you prepare an interesting food program, but you should not depend too fully on us for there are apt to be many calls for speakers and few available speakers.

IMPORTANT! Within the next few weeks, a team of three Food Administration speakers is to come to Indiana from the Food Administration headquarters at Washington. This team will work in Indiana twenty days. The team will consist of a leader, who was one of the six men recently sent by the Food Administration to study food conditions in Europe, of a woman member, capable of giving advice and suggestions to women, and of a speaker, a second man. The date of arrival of this team in this State is not yet known. It is proposed to "book" these people at as many of the County War Councils as possible. Those County Food Administrators who ask first for this team will get it, or at least part of it, providing that it is practical to make such arrangements. Railroad connections and other limitations will have to be taken into consideration. The County Food Administrator should not depend too fully upon getting this team as a part of his Food Program but should use these speakers from Washington as extra measure if he can get them. Any County Food Administrator who wants this team should write to Dr. Barnard immediately after the dates of the War Council for his county are set. The speakers will be booked through the Speakers Division of the State Council of Defense.

Within a short time an organizer from the State Council of Defense will visit your county to help organize the County War Conference. Please co-operate with him. And don't forget this:—Make FOOD the big feature of your War Council.

Sincerely yours,

H. E. BARNARD,

Federal Food Administrator for Indiana.
January 5, 1918.

The Price of Mill Feeds.

BULLETIN NO. 18.

It is suggested that Under Rule 19, Circular 6, U. S. Milling Division, the prices of mill feeds quoted below be agreed upon as reasonable and just.

Mills that do not have a jobbing department under a jobbers license, must limit their prices on bran in car lots, bulk and f. o. b. mill to 38 per cent. of the average previous month's cost of wheat, including administration fees. For example:

Wheat cost $2.16 permits bran price.....	27.36
Wheat cost 2.13 permits bran price.....	26.98
Wheat cost 2.10 permits bran price.....	26.60
Wheat cost 2.07 permits bran price.....	26.22

When making bran, that remaining part of the mill run feed, may be called flour middlings and sold at $9.00 over bran price. Mixed feed is all the feed mixed and can be sold at $4.00 over bran price. To these prices may be added the cost of sacks, tax, tags, and drayage, if any, and 50 cents per ton in less than car lots or mixed car lots.

A jobbing department operating under a jobbers license, may not pay the mill more than the above carload prices, and it may add a sum sufficient to cover the actual expense of doing the jobbing business and a reasonable profit, which sum must not exceed 50 cents per ton on split cars, $3.00 per ton or less than car lots of one ton or more, and $4.00 per ton on less than one ton.

The above prices and differentials are based on cash transactions, reasonable interest charges may be made when sold on credit.

Please give the prices above quoted general publicity throughout your county.

H. E. BARNARD,

Federal Food Administrator for Indiana.
January 8, 1918.

Indiana retail grocers are organizing county associations for the purpose of co-operating with county food administrators. They are adopting the cash and carry system of merchandising, eliminating useless deliveries and curtailing credits. Later they will set aside a special day for the encouragement of the use of potatoes, at the suggestion of the United States Food Administration.

Food administrators are asked to give attention to Bulletin No. 22, which calls for information as follows:

1. How many papers are published in your county?
2. How many use food copy?
3. Do they like it, or has running it become a routine matter?
4. Do they run the copy in display form, boxes and the like?
5. Would they use more copy if it were furnished them in plate form?
6. Do they give you frequent editorial mention?
7. How can we use them to better advantage than now?

Reports should be made promptly to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana.

County Food Administrators are urged to report to Dr. Harry E. Barnard at once the names of chairmen of last year's home garden activities in their county. In order to stimulate interest in the home garden movement and co-operate with it, County Food Administrators are asked to determine:

1. Was every community organized?
2. Are such organizations still effective?
3. Has your County Council an active garden committee?
4. Can it handle the work without your aid?
5. Can you help it, and how?
6. Are funds available for preparing ground for the poor?
7. Have land owners offered their lands for prospective gardens?
8. Are there any means at hand in larger communities, such as community kitchens, municipal driers or canneries, kitchens in churches, high schools, lodges, etc., for utilizing surplus products?
9. Have plans yet been made for forming canning clubs, etc.?

Americans of Other Tongues to Be Taught

Indiana Leads Nation-Wide Movement for the Proper Patriotic Education of Those Speaking Foreign Languages.

American citizens of German, Austrian and Hungarian extraction are to be organized for patriotic propaganda work throughout the nation. Already the Indiana State Council of Defense has taken preliminary steps to counsel with leaders among the people who are descended from German-speaking parentage.

It is the purpose in Indiana, and the idea promulgated here has been adopted by the Council of National Defense, to enlist loyal men and women of German, Austrian and Hungarian extraction for war work on behalf of the American cause. Leaders are to be called into conference, and these leaders of the German-speaking peoples will offer suggestions and assist in carrying out plans for extending American educational propaganda to groups that heretofore have not been reached. Persons of German extraction, of Austrian lineage, liberty-loving citizens who honor the memory of Kossuth, are to be given the opportunity not only to "get 'right' for America, but to stand out for liberty, justice and civilization.

Students of the situation in Indiana and in other states have found a psychological condition which, they believe, makes a general movement among the foreign-born population both timely and advisable. It is generally believed that the hour is at hand for those of foreign extraction to demonstrate their Americanism in spirit, word and action, and that now they must be helped get into the war work. It has been found that a large per cent. of the foreign-born already are ready to assert themselves on the side of America and her associates in the war as against the piracy and brutality of the kaiser, the Hohenzollerns, the Hapsburgs and the Turk.

Students of Hungarian history are calling especial attention to the fact that the citizenship of Hungarian extraction in the United States offers a splendid field for educational propaganda.

From an Indiana source comes the suggestion that an immediate survey be made of the Hungarian press in this country with a view to suppressing such papers as are dominated and misled by the House of Hapsburg and pro-kaiser agencies. This movement is to be followed by intensive educational and patriotic activities among the people of Hungarian descent. The history of the Hungarians has been a prolonged tale of brave struggle against the House of Hapsburg and Austrian tyranny. It is being pointed out that the Russian menace has been removed and that Hungary now can with safety stand for the liberty her people in the past have been willing to fight for.

Pro-kaiser influences have been at work through a subsidized and controlled foreign-language press in this country to keep the people of Hungarian extraction in the dark as to the war, its causes, its purposes, and as to the motives of America in meeting the arrogant attacks of the war lords of Pan-Germany.

With leading citizens of foreign extraction interested in war work, it is believed they will be able to assist materially in stamping out sedition among their own people, who are especially anxious to be relieved of the opprobrium that has attached to the silence that so often has been misconstrued as treason. They will have first hand information whereby they may identify and point out all not in sympathy with American aims and purposes and educate those who are inactive wholly through lack of enlightenment.

As usual, Indiana takes the lead. Special action already has been taken for active organization work among those elements which up to now have been more or less neglected by patriotic propagandists.

Practice food conservation for the sake of your stomach, for the sake of your pocketbook, for the sake of your country or for any other reason under the sun, but—BE SURE YOU DO IT.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 23

Editorial Comment

THE MORAL IS PLAIN.

The fat man took his seat in the cafe car and with an air of anticipatory determination grabbed a menu card. Just out of Chicago, on the way to Indianapolis, many hours late, the fat man apparently was in a state of appetite and in a mood thoroughly to enjoy his "eats."

A dusky servitor stood at attention, head bent, and heard the demands of the hungry fat man. One thing after another did the fat man order, with growing asperity as the obsequious but entirely serene waiter solemnly shook his head, explaining repeatedly and patiently that the dishes so imperiously demanded were not to be had.

The fat man saw one substantial dish after another vanish from his hopeful vision away as the colored man at his elbow explained that the derangement of traffic had interfered with the ordinary supplies on the cafe car. Finally, with a snort, the fat man insisted:

"Well, what in thunder have you got?"

The waiter respectfully bent, placed a long finger on a menu page the fat man had ignored, ran the finger down the page and said with dignity:

"We have all dem, and dem is what Mistah Hoovah wants you to eat."

What could the fat man say? What could the fat man do?

He took the hint.

THE LAND OF OUR CHILDREN.

Suppose, neighbors, we try to get this thing right. A lot of us have come from Germany where the government, the social and economic systems, are different than they are here in America.

We left the land of our fathers for very good and sufficient reasons.

Perhaps with most of us the chief reason was that we hoped here in America to get ahead faster than we could hope to do in the old country.

Perhaps, too, some of us had friends over here who wanted us to join them, and in order to get us to come perhaps they laid the bright colors on with a vigorous brush, and perhaps to some of us the bright visions have not all been realized.

And some of us came to escape military service; some of us to keep out of the political prisons that welcome people who do not agree with the chosen of God; some of us as children, because our fathers came.

In thinking of our fathers we forgot our sons.

Are we going to make the future hard for our American children—we who freely chose America for ourselves as well as for them—by casting over them the cloud of disloyalty to America in this, her time of supreme testing?

Do you want for them the rule we left behind us when we chose for them the place to be born?

Do we hope the kaiser will win this war?

Do we want Canada a German province?

Do we want German forts and armies as next-door neighbors?

Do we want German laws and regulations here in America?

Then why in the name of William Hohenzollern did we not stay where we already had just what we wanted?—Farm and Home.

Wheat Situation Now Appallingly Serious

Dr. Barnard Reports Observations During Conference of Food Administrators —Other Council Matters.

Reporting to the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense, January 16, James I. Keach told of the food show at Chicago and of the meetings held in connection with that show. He said a representative of National Food Administrator Hoover conferred with the dealers, especially on the proposition of the proper substitution of perishable foods for wheat and meats; on the problem of moving and distributing commodities, and on the matter of using cars for the shipping of non-essentials that ought, he said, to be employed in distributing plain and necessary foods, such as potatoes, which properly can be substituted for the cereals that must be sent abroad. Mr. Keach reported good feeling, a co-operative purpose, and the absence of friction as between food men and the food administration.

Dr. H. E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, reported the results of a conference at Washington of the food administrators from the various States. He reported that while the sugar situation is improved, and while the meat supply is becoming more satisfactory, the wheat situation is "appallingly serious." He predicted early action to bring about an absolute cut in the allowance of wheat, saying that the conditions were such as to compel the people to use 70 per cent. of the normal wheat consumption all along the line. It has been found that while 30 per cent. of the people observe wheatless rules, and while 30 per cent. of the people use no more wheat than formerly, some 40 per cent. of the population actually uses much more wheat than ever before, this being due to the fact that a large foreign element, drawing increased pay, is consuming wheat at a rate never before known, and absorbing the wheat saved by the 30 per cent. who practice patriotic conservation.

Frank Wampler, James I. Keach, George Ade and William G. Irwin were named on a special committee to consider the question of approving and establishing supervision of a State movement to bring in ewes and lambs from other States to increase the wool and food production of Indiana in the war emergency.

William Holton Dye of Noblesville and Indianapolis has been working on a project for the introduction into Indiana of 30,000 ewes this year, encouraging sheep-raising and increasing the wool supply to help meet the demand for wool for clothing for the huge armies of the United States and her associates in the war.

Chairman Will H. Hays reported to the State Defense Council that the State Veterinarian and the State Food Director had found good in the more-sheep project and in the plans now being worked out. He informed the members that Mr. Dye had suggested that the State Council of Defense create a department for the promotion of the sheep production industry on the lines already started, with proper State supervision of the animals shipped in and co-ordination of activities in connection with the large business project involved. They plan the organization and maintenance of an immense business in addition to increasing the mutton and wool supply. It was shown that a considerable increase already had been made in the number of sheep in the State. Mr. Hays named the special committee to work out details and to adopt plans looking to the proper co-ordination of the work being done by Mr. Dye and others, and to recommend whether or not the sheep stimulation work should be approved and made a part of the program of the State Defense Council.

A letter from Ernest N. Smith, secretary of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, was read. In the letter Mr. Smith explained the workings of the bureau maintained by the Chamber at Washington for the booking of war contracts for Indiana manufacturers. It had been reported that this bureau had charged 3 per cent. brokerage charges for service rendered to Indiana manufacturers seeking war work. Mr.

Smith sent papers showing that the charges or fees thus collected ranged from one-half of 1 per cent. to 1 per cent., and that such charges were made, as he said, to cover the cost of maintaining the bureau. The contract provides for a pro rata redistribution of any money received by the bureau in excess of the cost of maintaining the bureau. On the basis of business already done, it was indicated, the customers of the bureau would be entitled at this time to a refund of 50 per cent. of the fees paid in.

The Scientific Research Committee of the State Council of Defense, through its secretary, Daniel B. Luten, recommended that the Indiana Council of Defense urge, by resolution, the enactment of a daylight-saving measure now pending in the House, which bill would provide for action all over the country setting the clocks forward one hour the last Sunday in April, the system to continue until the last Sunday in September. Dr. Charles P. Emerson, George Ade and Charles Fox were named as a committee to investigate the workings of the daylight saving plan and to recommend action later.

The public hearing at which employers and labor union men were to discuss reports of discrimination against union labor in Indianapolis plants doing war work was postponed a week to enable all parties involved to be present.

The matter of raising a fund with which to pay for tickets to be used by soldiers in taking advantage of entertainments to be given at cantonment or army theaters was turned over to the camp recreational activities committee under H. McK. Landon of Indianapolis, with the proviso that in case Mr. Landon's committee deems it advisable to carry the matter forward as suggested by the national authorities; the question is to be submitted to the Defense Council's committee for the consideration of solicitations for war funds.

A request from the Salvation Army for permission to raise $50,000 in Indiana, as the State's share of the one million dollar war fund proposed to be raised in the United States, was referred to the committee on solicitations.

Arrangements for a private showing of eight reels of moving picture films from an Indianapolis theater during the week of January 28 were reported by Mr. Ade of the publicity committee. The reels are the first of the thirty to be distributed over the State for patriotic education, under the auspices of county councils of defense.

Chairman Hays announced the assignment of Bert Hendren of the State board of accounts to the position of assistant manager of the speakers' bureau of the council. Mr. Hendren was in charge of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic State committee during two campaigns and has thorough knowledge of the work, gained from experience. He will assist Prof. J. J. Pettijohn, of Indiana university, who has been in charge of the bureau and who has been burdened with the demands growing out of the county war conferences.

An invitation to attend the Kentucky state-wide war conference, patterned after the Indiana conference of December 13-14, was received, but owing to the traffic conditions deranged by inclement weather the council was unable to send a representative. The Kentucky conference was held January 16 and 17.

Why Farmers Should Raise More Chickens and Eggs.

More chickens and more eggs will release more meat for our armies and the Allies. They can not get our chickens and our eggs—we can, and like to eat them.

Poultry can be increased more rapidly and more economically than any of the meat animals.

Chickens will live largely, grow and prosper on waste that never otherwise would be of use, and will eat the infant bugs, particularly orchard pests, before they have had opportunity to do great harm.

Chickens require a minimum of attention. Most of it can be given by women and children. No heavy labor is required.

Chickens will help win the war.

Women's Section

The organization committee of the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense has set April 19 as the date on which a new registration of Indiana women for patriotic service will begin. The registration will continue for ten days. In the meantime a course of instruction covering the registration card and its meaning will be given the registrars. This preliminary training, it is believed, will prevent the confusion that attended the previous registration in a number of counties.

Not all county council women have nominated a member of the educational propaganda committee. Mrs. Carlisle requests that this action be taken at once. Names should be reported to her at Room 83, State House.

"The importance of the public libraries in spreading all kinds of information relative to war work, especially as pertains to food conservation and educational propaganda, has not been thoroughly appreciated," says Mrs. Carlisle in a special message to the women of the State.

"The schools have been used freely for the purpose of reaching the homes wherein the children will become teachers to the parents; but through the libraries both children and adults may be reached first-handed. The public libraries offer to circulate pamphlets, recipes for the use of substitutes in food conservation, etc., just as they circulate books. Libraries in many smaller communities, too, are available for patriotic meetings, usually without charge."

In reference to the approaching county war conferences Mrs. Carlisle addresses the following to the women war workers of each county:

"The women war workers in the county should be most active at these conferences, of course. There should be a meeting of the women during the afternoon if possible, just as there was a sectional meeting of the woman's section at the state war conference.

"This as a suggestion: it would seem that there should be general discussion of the woman's part of war activities, possibly led by the woman member of the council; talks by sub-chairman; special emphasis given to the registration and food activities, together with discussion of the plan of the woman's organization."

Mrs. Carlisle has just received a letter from Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, in which Mrs. Lamar compliments very highly the "splendid spirit and enthusiasm displayed by the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense."

Mrs. Lamar represented the Council of National Defense in an address to the women's section of the Indiana Council of Defense at the recent State-wide war conference.

Mrs. Mott's Message.

Mrs. L. A. Mott, Publicity Chief of the Jackson County Council of Defense, has sent the following address to the women of her county. Mrs. Carlisle commends it to the attention of all Indiana women:

"Do the women of Jackson county realize that this war is getting personal? Do they realize how essential they are to it? Without them there will be chaos. We do not want any slackers in our country. So every one must use her utmost endeavor toward universal peace.

"Have you been called upon to be chairman in your township or town for the distribution of the service cards which are to be signed early in the New Year? Did you gladly accept the opportunity for service or did you give some flimsy excuse and say it would be impossible for you to serve?

"We all realize this work is not easy. It requires time and money and strength and patience on our part to carry this thing through. But remember the boys at the front are offering their lives in our behalf while we are at home comfortable and well cared for.

"I call upon the women of our country to be loyal. At this Christmas time make one great gift to your country and the boys who are fighting to save humanity by giving yourselves in every possible way to service at home. Let us all put our all into this issue if such a sacrifice be required of us.

"This Christmas was the finest Christmas we have ever had because we are a bigger, better people than ever before. We have put behind us thoughts of self and ease and the enjoyment of wealth we have piled up. We are giving our best in men and money—let us do our best as women. Let us demand the privilege of having a part in this great enterprise. Let us do it now."

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle has urged the women members of County Councils of Defense to participate actively in the county war conferences. She is endeavoring to secure the engagement of Miss Helen Fraser of London for addresses on what the women of England have been and are doing toward helping win the war.

Women having a particularly close association with the armed forces of the United States through near relatives being in service, are being organized into a War Wives' Club, to be a part of the women's section of the State Council, under Mrs. Carlisle's direction.

The "Fourteen-Minute Women," an organization of women speakers on topics of special interest to their sex, will be made a part of the women's section. The "Fourteen-Minute Women" was conceived after the style of the "Four-Minute Men." The first organization in the State was formed by Mrs. Julia Henderson, in Marion county, who will represent Mrs. Carlisle's executive committee at the head of the State-wide organization. County chairmen have been asked to report the names of ten women for this organization, who will receive suggestions and information for their talks from the State Council headquarters.

16,000,000 New Members Added to the American Red Cross.

Henry P. Davison, chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, sent the following New Year's message to the Red Cross division managers throughout the country:

"The latest reports available indicate that the Christmas drive for 10,000,000 new members for the American Red Cross has resulted in the addition of fully 16,000,000 names to its rolls. This number added to the more than 6,000,000 members before the Christmas campaign makes the total present enrollment fully 22,000,000. This is a magnificent fact—an expression not alone of the patriotism, but of the fine sympathy and idealism of the whole American people.

"The Red Cross War Council congratulates and welcomes every new member of the American Red Cross; likewise it congratulates the officers and old members of the organization who have given unstintingly of their time and effort to make the membership campaign a success.

"But the wonderful achievement of enrolling one-fifth of the entire population of the United States as members of the American Red Cross is less a triumph than it is a call to greater service. The Red Cross is not merely a humanitarian organization separate and distinct from others, but it is the mobilized heart and spirit of the whole American people. The American Red Cross is carrying a message of love and sympathy to American soldiers and sailors and to the troops and civilian population of our allies in all parts of the world. It is seeking to shorten the war and it is seeking to lay a foundation for a more enduring peace when the war is over. As we stand on the threshold of a new year in this hour of the world's tragedy there can be but one thought in the minds of the 22,000,000 members of the American Red Cross, and that is to serve and sacrifice as never before."

Corn this year will serve two main purposes. It will help to feed us so that we can reduce our consumption of wheat and send more to Europe, and it will feed hogs for both ourselves and our associates in the war.

Patriotic Press Comment

As to Suffrage.

The Indiana State Council of Defense does not urge upon Congress and the Council of National Defense the adoption of an amendment to the Federal Constitution giving women the right to vote as a war measure. It does favor extending the right to vote, however, as "a matter of sheer right and common justice," with which most of us agree.—Rochester Sentinel.

The Council of Defense.

The Cass County Council of Defense is the United States Government speaking direct to the people of the county. It is a legalized body, created by government statute, appointed and operating by authority of the United States Congress. So don't make mouths at the Council of Defense, or perchance you may find yourself fighting your Uncle Samuel, and Samuel is a husky individual.

Now the Cass County Council of Defense has upon it the carrying to the people the wishes of the government in these times of war. Please get that. The nation is at war, and this is a war measure, this creation of the Council of Defense. War in which the nation is engaged requires certain duties from the citizen, and if the citizen be loyal and not a slacker, or an open or covert enemy of the flag, he will stop, look, listen when the Council of Defense speaks, or it is humanly possible that the unruly individual may get onto the track and get severely disfigured.

War is war, and in time of war, when the life of the nation, of your future liberty and well being and mine is to be won or lost, the lines must be tightened and some things must be required of us that in time of undisturbed peace would not be asked. But war makes changes in the mode of living of the nation and the individual, and in the hour of dire necessity the individual who refuses to do his little share in thoroughly right and reasonable things which come in earnest requests from the government that is trying to protect him, asks him to be loyal and faithful and helpful until the war is won, must feel the edge of the law and make matters somewhat and perhaps frightfully unpleasant for himself.

This may sound a little vigorous, but what's the use of talking in circles when the necessity lies straight down the road?—Logansport Pharos-Reporter.

What a Single Church is Doing.

Can any church show a record excelling that of the First Presbyterian Church of East Orange, N. J.? The membership is 1,200, comprising 381 families. Of these, 222 families returned the weekly report card, and the summary showed 1,727 wheatless meals, 2,976 meatless meals and 4,955 wasteless meals. This proves what can be done if a church really appreciates the necessity of food conservation and takes hold of the matter in earnest.

The reports of two of the families were especially interesting. In one of them a woman who has two sons in the army served 21 wheatless and 18 meatless meals; and in the other a woman with one son in the army served her family with 21 wheatless and 15 meatless meals.

If all the churches came up to the standard set by this church, it is estimated that the wheatless meals would mean a saving of not less than 130,000,000 bushels of wheat—and that would go a long way toward supplying the need of our allies.

If They Were All Like Jimmy.

A new war propaganda that is certain to be taken up enthusiastically by young America was given a start in Huntington, W. Va., by Jimmy Wallen, a school boy, who has been active in the different war activities. Wallen, who is always spick and span, suggests a "soapless day," saying it is easy to keep clean without using soap one day a week. The "soapless day" would help conserve fats so badly needed by the allies, Jimmy declared.

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 92.

January 10, 1918.

To the County Councils of Defense:

At a recent meeting of the State Council of Defense the following resolution was passed:

The special committee appointed at the meeting of November 14, 1917, to consider the matter of licensing or otherwise regulating the solicitation of war funds reports as follows:

We believe that the appeals to the people of our State for funds or property to aid in or to alleviate the consequences of the war should receive some form of official or quasi-official approval before being regarded as entitled to public support and confidence.

In the case of the broader movements, such as the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., and the Camp Recreations Fund, approval is given by the President, the Secretary of War, or the Secretary of the Navy. In those cases no other approval is of course required. In the case of solicitations by churches, lodges, clubs, and other like bodies of established standing, the appeal is primarily to their own members or adherents, and approval from without the organization would seem to be unnecessary and uncalled for.

There is, however, another large class of appeals for direct contributions, or for the support of enterprises, the proceeds of which are partly or wholly to be devoted to war purposes, which are now almost altogether unsupervised. These appeals are of different grades of worthiness and wisdom. The average citizen has little opportunity to ascertain the merits and the need of all these demands upon his purse and time, but hesitates to refuse to respond to any. The attempt should be made to separate those solicitations, which are clearly both worthy and wise from the questionable ones, so that our citizens may have some means of guidance among the manifold calls for war contribution.

The plan of centralizing all contributions by forming an organization in each community to which all gifts should be made, the organization through a representative board to distribute the funds collected among the various activities as the board might deem proper, has been suggested. Your committee does not, however, recommend that plan for general adoption, although in some communities it might work satisfactorily. Your committee fears that that plan would have a tendency in most communities to render giving for war purposes mechanical, and to chill the spirit of benevolence on the part of that numerous class to whom one cause appeals strongly while another evokes no enthusiasm.

Your committee recommends the adoption of the following plan:

The creation by the Council of a committee consisting of, say, five members, the duty of which shall be to ascertain the merits and wisdom of any appeal to the public for war contributions, particularly those of a State-wide character, not including, however, those publicly approved by the President, the Secretary of War, or the Secretary of the Navy, or those by churches, fraternal organizations, clubs or other similar bodies of recognized standing. The inquiry of the committee should be made on application of the activity proposing to solicit, or, if the committee saw fit, without application. To any activity which it approves, the committee should issue a certificate of approval, and in other cases the committee should give such publicity to its investigation and determination as it deems proper.

In addition to the committee representing the State Council, a committee of, say, five members should be appointed by each County Council of Defense. The State committee should keep the county committees informed of the results of its examinations. The county committees should take the proper steps to advise the public in their respective counties of the action thus taken. Proposed solicitations not passed on by the State committee should be examined into and approved or disapproved by the county committees, which should have the same functions to perform with respect thereto in their respective counties as the State committee has within its field.

Due publicity should be given to the plan herein outlined.

The plan thus proposed is purely voluntary in character, thus differing from that in use in Illinois. No plan other than a voluntary one can be made effective in Indiana under the present law, but we see no reason why a voluntary plan should not in its practical operation be reasonably effective.

In line with this resolution a committee of five has been appointed by the State Council, of which Mr. William G. Irwin of Columbus is chairman, the chief purpose of which will be to so censor solicitations in line with this resolution.

Further in line with this resolution we urge the County Councils to forthwith appoint a similar committee of five to co-operate with the State Council in censoring all solicitations of war funds, all of which is in line with the wishes of the Council of National Defense.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 93.

January 12, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

No doubt you realize that the first essential to the success of your county war conference is that the conference have proper publicity. Permit us to suggest that you concentrate upon this important matter until you are confident that the public is prepared, understandingly, for what you are offering them—a practical short course in patriotic education and inspiration.

Our Publicity Bureau has offered the following suggestions that may be of value if adapted to your particular situation:

1. Make it clear that the war conferences are a part of the plan of the Council of National Defense, which is headed by Secretary of War Baker, and they are endorsed and supported by the Committee on Public Information as necessary to a proper enlistment of popular support in all war activities.

2. Emphasize that the recommendations that come to the County Councils are to all intents and purposes the orders of the commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the United States enlisted in battle against a powerful enemy and to disregard even the least suggestion is a form of insubordination that will serve only to defeat the cause and bring aid and comfort to the enemy.

3. These war conferences are educational, patriotic propaganda. If persons are not interested in the war here is a fine opportunity for them to find themselves and learn how essential it is that all Americans work in the same efficient harmony that has rendered autocratic governments so formidable.

4. The speakers assigned to these conferences are responsible men, selected for their tasks because of their pre-eminent authority in the matters they will discuss. Many of them are of sufficient reputation to justify their assignment to State or national programs.

5. Remember that this is the people's first concern—to win the war. Those who will not help are in the way. They must get out.

6. Note carefully the suggestions in the other bulletins and urge that the newspapers give prominent space to the detailed plans and, where opportunity presents, lend editorial assistance.

7. The proper publicity will make your conference a success, the lack of it makes failure certain. For except that you stimulate patriotism—the spirit of sacrifice and loyalty—you have wasted your time. And this can be done only by securing the largest attendance at all your meetings, which can come only of the widest publicity, through newspapers, posters, lodge and church announcements, etc.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 95.

January 14, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The following is just received from the Council of National Defense:

"The Council of National Defense desires to inform the people of the country that abundant food is supplied to the soldiers and sailors in the camps and cantonments, and that the sending of food to these men by their friends and families is not in any respect necessary; that the aggregate quantity of food thus privately sent is enormous, and that much of it, having been conveyed long distances in heated express or mail cars, is more or less spoiled, and consequently injurious to the health of the men. Therefore, in the interest of the conservation of food, and also the health of the men, the Council of National Defense requests the public to discontinue the sending of foodstuffs to the camps."

In the interest of food conservation and health you will appreciate the importance of giving wide publicity to this message in your county. The waste referred to can be checked only by getting each soldier's family and friends to realize that they individually are the persons asked to stop.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Helping Kaiser Bill!

The new food card says: "Any person in the United States who buys more foodstuffs than he customarily keeps at home in peace times is defeating the Food Administration in its purpose to secure a just distribution of food and in its great endeavors to reduce prices. The hoarding of food in households is not only unnecessary, as the Government is protecting the food supply of our people, but it is selfish and is a cause of high prices. There is much insidious propaganda in the country against conservation and increased production. All opposition to these services is direct assistance to the enemy."

Parcels for Soldiers.

Washington, D. C., January 8, 1918.

With reference to notice of this office dated the 22d of December, 1917, to the effect that parcels for the American Expeditionary Forces, addressed "care of Commanding General, Post of Embarkation," have not been accepted for dispatch at said port by the military authorities since the 5th of December, and that such of the parcels as exceed seven pounds in weight would be returned to the senders, postmasters are directed to give the widest possible publicity to the fact—

That parcels addressed to the care of the Commanding General, Post of Embarkation, whatever their weight, can not be accepted.

That parcels not exceeding seven pounds in weight may be sent direct through the mails as heretofore if properly addressed to a member of the American Expeditionary Forces.

That while such parcels must be securely packed, there is no specific requirement for the use of wooden boxes, and—

That the sender of any parcel failing to conform to the above requirement will be notified by the superintendent of the Railway Mail Service at New York, if the parcel bears a return address, to furnish return postage.

OTTO PRAEGER,
Second Asst. P. M. Gen.

Housewives' Scrapbook.

The federal food administration has published hundreds of excellent receipts by the use of which housewives can prepare food more economically and with the use of less of the foodstuffs Americans are asked by the government to save. The food administrator has suggested that women clip these from newspapers and preserve them in scrapbooks for future use.

Farm machinery is the artillery of agriculture. In what condition will your "field pieces" be for the spring drive?

Educational Section

A report showing the progress made in the task of providing 900 telegraphers requested by the War Department from Indiana to be secured outside the ordinary sources of supply has been prepared by the educational section of the State Council of Defense. It shows a total of 33 schools with 679 students enrolled and 11 schools in the process of organizing. The further training of these students and the organization of classes has been turned over to the newly organized National Vocational Education Board.

A report of the work already done by the Educational section of the Indiana State Council of Defense follows:

PERSONS IN CHARGE—SCHOOLS OPERATING.

Anderson public schools, enrollment 25; N. F. Fultz, Voc. Dir.
Aurora public schools, enrollment 20; Supt. J. R. Houston.
Bedford public schools, enrollment 35; Supt. E. W. Montgomery.
Bloomington, Indiana university, enrollment 24; Prof. F. A. Molby.
Crawfordsville Community association, enrollment 14; John C. Snyder.
Elkhart Y. M. C. A., enrollment 23; Secretary, A. H. Beisner.
Evansville public schools, enrollment 15; E. C. Graham, Voc. Dir.
Goshen public schools, enrollment 18; Supt. Jas. Wilkinson.
Greencastle public schools, enrollment 18; Supt. E. C. Dodson.
Huntington public schools, enrollment 38; Supt. J. M. Seudder.
Indianapolis public schools, enrollment 43; A. S. Hurrell, Voc. Dir.
Indianapolis Y. M. C. A., enrollment 22; G. A. Nawcarrow.
Kokomo public schools, enrollment 37; Supt. C. V. Haworth.
Lafayette public schools, enrollment 7; Supt. R. F. Hight.
Madison public schools, enrollment 20; Prin. M. R. Schnaitter.
Marion public schools, enrollment 15; Supt. A. E. Highley.
Monticello public schools, enrollment 28; Supt. Harry Elder.
Muncie public schools, enrollment 35; Prof. H. M. Anthony.
Needham Beechwood academy, enrollment 3; Prin. J. G. Lamson.
New Albany public schools, enrollment 12; Supt. H. A. Buerk.
Peru public schools, enrollment 14; Supt. E. B. Wetherow.
Princeton public schools, enrollment 20; Supt. J. W. Scott.
Rensselaer public schools, enrollment 20; Supt. C. R. Dean.
Richmond public schools, enrollment 32; K. V. Carman, Voc. Dir.
Salem public schools, enrollment 7; Ass't Supt. C. O. Thompson.
Seymour public schools, enrollment 15; Supt. T. A. Mott.
South Bend Y. M. C. A., enrollment 18; F. B. Curtis.
Terre Haute Chamber of Commerce, enrollment 21; C. Fred Knight.
Valparaiso, Dodge's institute, enrollment 28; Pres. G. M. Dodge.
Vincennes public schools, enrollment 17; Supt. E. O. Maple.
Wabash public schools, enrollment 22; Supt. Owen J. Neighbors.
Whiting public schools, enrollment 15; Prin. L. C. Grubb.
Winona Lake, Winona college, enrollment 3; W. E. Oustott.
Total, 679.

SCHOOLS REPORTED ORGANIZING.

Bluffton public schools, Supt. P. A. Allen.
East Chicago public schools, Supt. E. N. Canine.
Elwood public schools, Supt. A. W. Knold.

Lebanon public schools, Supt. H. G. Brown.
Michigan City public schools, Supt. L. W. Keeler.

North Vernon public schools, Supt. W. F. Vogel.
Plymouth public schools, Supt. O. W. McDowell.
South Bend public schools, Supt. J. F. Miner.
Terre Haute public schools, Supt. C. J. Waits.
Terre Haute, Brown's Business College, President Brown.

Washington public schools, Supt. E. D. Merri-man.

* * * * *

The following recommendations were made by the State Board of Education at its meeting January 11:

Owing to the necessity for an increase in the acreage of farm products, together with a growing shortage of farm labor, the State Board of Education in regular session January 11, 1918, deems it advisable and therefore recommends:

1. That the county superintendent of schools, together with the township high school principals, town and city superintendents and county agent of each county of the State, constitute a board empowered to determine the advisability of maintaining in session the schools of their county during two or more Saturdays of each month for the remainder of the present school term, so as to close the schools sooner than the ordinary and accustomed date.

2. That where the local school superintendent and high school principals determine that it is inadvisable to maintain their schools in session on Saturdays, they may at their discretion determine upon a plan whereby high school boys and girls of good standing may be released from school not to exceed three weeks, prior to the closing of the school term, to meet the exigencies incident to the shortage of farm labor and receive regular credit for the term's work.

3. That in the event high school boys and girls are dismissed from school before the close of the present school term, such dismissal shall be made upon the condition that they are to be regularly and profitably employed to the approval and satisfaction of the local board whose duty it shall be to keep in constant touch with each pupil released from school.

4. That the board be empowered to devise satisfactory plan for keeping in touch with the work for which the pupils have been dismissed to perform, and that the board require a written weekly report from the employees giving the days, hour and character of the work done by the pupil.

5. That the board be empowered to withhold credits from any pupil who is dismissed from school under this plan and who does not meet with the conditions and requirements fixed by the board, and that for any violation of the conditions agreed upon by the board, the pupil be required to make up for the time he has been absent from school as a result of this plan.

6. That the local board co-operate with the boys' working reserve of each county with a view of utilizing the services of the high school boys and girls to the greatest advantage.

How Steady Teamwork by Home "Fans" Wins a Baseball Game, Also It Can Help a Nation Win Big War.

The following article by Grantland Rice is issued by the Committee on Public Information:

Every one knows about what the fighting man has ahead. His business, in the main, is to fight. But how about the work of those back of the lines?

I have in mind, as a prelude, two major league ball clubs. The first team had the leadership and the material to win with. There was no question of this. But the fan support at home was lacking—both in the way of attendance and direct encouragement. The home fans apparently took it for granted their club would win the pennant and for this, or other reasons, were lukewarm in their support, and over-critical of any managerial or playing mistakes.

PLAIN HUMAN NATURE.

The result was a purely human turn. The club finally became discouraged, began to sag in morale, began to wonder just what the use was in playing for that type of support. Needless to say, it lost the flag. The second team had good, average material, but nothing bordering upon the invincible. But it carried the full and complete support of its home fans who paid their money at the box office and who stood back of the club on the field, as loyal in defeat as in victory. Back in the grand stand and the bleachers they helped to fight for their club. This team, with its morale finely molded by such support, fought its way to the front, and held the peak against better-looking clubs.

These are not hypothetical cases. They are not what might have happened. They are what actually took place.

War is only a game upon a mighty scale. Like any other game, it requires leadership, material, team play, training, sacrifice—and support back of the lines.

CASE OF NERVE BEHIND THE LINES.

What are the concrete, definite ways of giving this "support back of the lines"?

"This war," remarked Ian Hay (Major Beith) recently, "will be won by the Allies to a certainty, if the nerve and nerves of the people back of the lines only hold out."

Nerve and the control of nerves is needed back of the lines fully as much as in the field.

What other ways are there?

There is an old golf maxim which advises, "Keep your eye on the ball." This maxim is incorrectly arranged. It should read, "Keep your mind on the ball."

There are too many who keep their eye on certain injunctions to "Help Hoover"; "Cut down the meat supply"; "Economize"; "Buy Liberty Bonds"; "Help the Red Cross," etc., etc.

Their eye is focused properly, but their mind is not yet rightly adjusted.

Those back of the lines who are not in position to serve at the front can help immeasurably to win this war and end it with greater speed if they will only keep their minds upon the injunctions of the day—if they will keep their minds upon economizing, upon sacrificing, upon swinging into line with the most effective team play the world has ever known.

The entry who "does his bit" on the ball field never wins a pennant. It is the one who "does his all."

There isn't an American who doesn't wish down through the depths of his soul for a swift and proper ending of this war. This goal can only be reached by united team play back of the lines, by united sacrifice, united economy, united aid, united loyalty, united concentration upon the main object ahead, the winning and the ending of the war. The longer citizens put off their day of complete sacrifice, of needed economy, of complete team play, the longer this war goes on and the greater the sacrifice that waits ahead.

HOW TEAM PLAY COUNTS.

Many a pennant has been lost—many a football game has gone wrong—because each man thought the other fellow would make the play or do the work. Team play is built of no such thought. It is made up of opposite ingredients—it is made up of each man taking upon himself the job of doing his full and complete share, leaving nothing to fate, luck or destiny, taking nothing for granted but the accomplishment of the job at hand.

United for team play back of the lines, as it will be at the front, the United States will have the impetus to carry it to the greatest goal the world has ever dreamed of—a swift and proper peace.

Eward Volunteers to Aid.

Fred Eward of Marion, Ind., a volunteer worker, has taken up his duties at the headquarters of the Indiana State Council of Defense and will assist the office force in handling the ever-increasing business of the State defense body, working under the orders of Chairman Will H. Hays. Mr. Eward already has done much patriotic work, being active in organizing the ice manufacturers and the ice cream manufacturers of the State for conservation work, and in helping to enlist a battery of artillery at his home city.

Remember that being a slave to your eating habits is one way of helping the kaiser.

Public Service Reserve

The attention of county directors is called to the following communication just received by N. E. Squibb, state director of the reserve, from W. E. Hall, national director:

"Upon the decision of the adjutant-general's office to try to get the men required, not through the selective draft, but by volunteering, they asked us to carry on a recruiting campaign for them.

"This is pursuant to a general understanding between the War and Labor Departments, the purpose of which is to recruit mechanics for volunteer units in such a way that due consideration will be given to the needs of essential industry. We believe that these men may be secured without taking any from jobs at home which are of vital importance in conducting the war. If this wise policy of co-operation is to be continued we must make an immediate success of this first attempt.

"The need is urgent. General Pershing wants these men for use in France. Our aviation program requires the service of many mechanics. Airplane service is foremost in the assistance we can give in this war. No need is more pressing; no form of service more valuable.

"The men selected will go at once for training to Fort Hancock, at Augusta, Ga. When trained they will realize the desire of every man who has red blood in his veins—service abroad in the capacity for which he is fitted by training. They will work chiefly in the airplane repair shops and camps, closely connected and in touch with the most thrilling form of modern warfare.

"Over 50 per cent. of the men found fit will rank as non-commissioned officers. It is a great opportunity for mechanics who are free to take it. Rates of pay range from $30 for privates up to $100 for men especially qualified, plus family allowances for dependents running from $5 to $50 per month, according to the number of dependents.

"Owing to the urgency of the demand, speed being essential, we shall not stop to enroll in the Reserve men who will enlist. Enrollment agents and others who help will, whenever possible, accompany the recruit to the nearest recruiting station and see that he enlists for the Motor Mechanics' Regiment. If he is not accepted for any reason he should then be enrolled in the Reserve, for he may be valuable elsewhere later on.

"We want to get these men through any and all agencies available; through your State Council and its branches, as well as through all other committees and other organizations which can exist. Many such bodies have heretofore assisted in recruiting.

"We shall give this need as much publicity as possible from Washington. So much goes out from here, however, that you can reach your local papers better than we can.

"Emphasis should always be laid on protecting essential industries. Especially should men available for shipbuilding be encouraged to await the drive for shipbuilders which will be made throughout the country next month.

"We are enlisting through the international unions and otherwise, the assistance of all labor unions in the trades involved.

"We enclose a list of the exact number and kinds of men wanted.

"Owing to the need for haste no quotas are being apportioned by the army or by us on this call. Every State should furnish every man possible until the ranks are filled. A balance can be struck later on in following campaigns.

"The kind of auto and gas engine men needed are those who understand, and can work on high class engines—they are wanted to repair airplane engines. Such men are scarce. Most of these will probably have to be secured from men of from 18 to 20 years of age. Military age is from 18 to 40 inclusive. For these positions, men of draft age cannot enlist. They had their chance before December 15.

"This campaign will be of more than immediate service. Through it you can build up your organization so that it will be efficient for the big work which is coming next month.

"It is not desired, however, to emphasize the Reserve at any cost of efficiency in meeting an immediate National need. I suggest that you get in touch, if possible, with the heads of the Army recruiting service in your State so as to co-operate fully."

TRADESMEN REQUIRED AS PER CLASSIFIED LIST IN THE QUESTIONNAIRE.

3. Auto and gas engine men .....	3,262
3. Auto and gas engine men (c) Ignition .....	300
4. Auto and motor truck driver .....	194
8. Blacksmith and forger .....	220
13. Canvas worker (airplane) .....	100
14. Carpenter (b) Cabinet worker .....	504
19. Cook .....	200
35. Harness maker .....	20
44. Machinist (b) General mechanic .....	400
44. Machinist (d) Lathe .....	160
44. Machinist (e) Milling and planer .....	160
44. Machinist (f) Tool maker .....	640
51. Painter (a) House .....	40
51. Painter (b) Signs .....	40
65. Sheet Metal Worker .....	460
85. Welder, acetylene, etc. ....	80
86. Wheelwright .....	220

7,000

Recruiting stations in Indiana are located at the following cities where application may be made:

Evansville, Vincennes, Fort Wayne, Elkhart, Gary, Hammond, Hartford City, Indiana Harbor, Kokomo, Logansport, Marion, Michigan City, Portland, Rochester, South Bend, Indianapolis, Anderson, Bedford, Bloomington, Columbus, Connersville, Greencastle, Greensburg, Huntingburg, Lafayette, Madison, Muncie, New Castle, Paoli, Richmond, Seymour and Washington.

The War Is Coming Home

In Michigan William K. Pruden, State Fuel Administrator, has announced that he will close moving picture theaters and other places of amusement if necessary to assure to private homes an adequate coal supply.

Permission to sell bread by the slice has been granted dealers in lower East Side, New York. This is in order that the very poor may be kept from starvation.

The executive committee of the Indiana Patriotic League has passed resolutions urging societies and organizations bearing German names to Americanize in name, policy and principle.

When the Independent Turnverein of Indianapolis neglected to observe the food regulations and gave a heavy midnight spread New Year's eve, the Marion County Food Administrator, Stanley Wyckoff, called the organization sternly to account. Explanations and apologies were made by George Seidensticker, president of the society, with pledges of future obedience to war regulations, and steps have been taken to Americanize the name of the society and its policies.

A coal dealer in northern Indiana offered to sell coal to a stranger at prices much higher than those set by the government. When it was suggested that the fuel administration price was lower the coal dealer swelled visibly and declared: "I'm running this coal business, not the government." Whereupon the stranger showed a Federal badge and asked the coal dealer to take a short vacation and a run to Indianapolis. It is reported the coal dealer supplied a $5,000 bond, and that he is still worried over the cost of finding out that the government means what it says about coal prices and other war matters.

Maximilian Von Hosgen of New Haven, Conn., an insolent pro-kaiserite, wrote across his conscription questionnaire the Hohenzollern slogan, "Deutschland Uber Alles," asserting further that he wished to see the kaiser win the war. A party of loyal citizens called on Von Hosgen, who ended by proclaiming his loyalty to the United States, to the flag and by saluting the colors of America. Following the little patriotic session Von Hosgen took to his bed, where he still remains, a warning to others of his sort.

G. Jeffrey Smith of Springhill, Decatur county, a native of France, recently received word that his brother, Lester Smith, had been killed in battle on the west front. Mr. Smith's father and another brother also have been killed in the war. Mr. Smith has enlisted and is now waiting for a call to service in the mechanical or motor department of the United States army. He is the owner of a garage.

The Switzerland County Council of Defense recently passed resolutions of respect and condolence in recognition of the patriotic sacrifice made by Edwin C. Danner of Switzerland county, who died in line of duty at Camp Taylor.

Loyal workmen took Charles Best, a "Hun-gabber," summarily in hand at Indianapolis and turned him over to the authorities for seditious and treasonable talk. Best was discharged by the Columbia Harness Company when his fellow-employees declined to continue work with him.

Gustav Deppe of Indianapolis, charged with being a dangerous alien, was arrested at Montgomery, Ala. Deppe had been refused an alien enemy permit for the reason that he had been guilty of sedition through a pro-kaiser paper printed in Illinois and there suppressed by the government. Deppe is a German reservist. He had posed as salesman for a pump concern and was taken by military police at Camp Sheridan, suspected as a spy.

John Schnake of Evansville, Ind., accused of pro-kaiserism, was severely beaten by workmen, who demanded that Schnake salute the American flag. John saluted.

A Richmond (Ind.) minister publicly counseled his congregation to the effect that the food conservation movement was "unconstitutional." He was promptly called before the Wayne County Council of Defense and there promptly changed his attitude, declaring that "under the circumstances the food conservation principle is correct." This "constitutional" quibbler has been working systematically in accord with the country's war campaign ever since his timely warning.

L. A. Frazee, chairman of the Fayette County Council of Defense, has issued a sharp and pointed public warning to "Hun-lovers" and the peddlers of "Hun-gabble" in his community. Mr. Frazee has obtained a mass of evidence against a group of disloyalists at Connersville and is taking drastic measures to bring offenders to justice with a view to interning some of the worst cases until after the war.

Sending Food to Camps.

The Indiana State Council of Defense gives publicity to the following resolution adopted by the Council of National Defense:

"The Council of National Defense desires to inform the people of the country that abundant food is supplied to the soldiers and sailors in the camps and cantonments, and that the sending of food to these men by their friends and families is not in any respect necessary; that the aggregate quantity of food thus privately sent is enormous, and that much of it, having been conveyed long distances in heated express or mail cars, is more or less spoiled, and consequently injurious to the health of the men. Therefore, in the interest of the conservation of food and also the health of the men, the Council of National Defense requests the public to discontinue the sending of foodstuffs to the camps."

Blanks for Food Survey.

Blanks of the food survey questionnaire may be obtained in Indiana from the Field Agent in Marketing, Purdue university, Lafayette, Indiana, and the office of Federal Grain Supervision, 827 Board of Trade building, Indianapolis Ind.

"If Prussian militarism should be permitted to dominate, then the Anglo-Saxon fight for free institutions and liberty, persisting from Runnymede to Yorktown * * * would have been made in vain."—DAVID F. HOUSTON, Secretary of Agriculture.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., JANUARY 25, 1918

Number 24

Indiana Asked for 10,847 Ship Workers

Committee Named to Assist in Recruiting Skilled Laborers for Pressing Duty.

Indiana's quota in the shipbuilding army is 10,847. A recruiting of mechanics for this service through the Public Service Reserve and the local army recruiting stations will be encouraged and assisted wherever possible by the Indiana State Council of Defense and County Councils of Defense, as requested by the United States Shipping Board. Following the recommendation of E. N. Hurley, head of the board, Chairman Will H. Hays named the following committee to assist in recruiting, by process of education, throughout the state: L. C. Hehsmann, Frank Duffy, W. C. Bobbs, Meredith Nicholson, Indianapolis; Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, Evansville; and George L. MacIntosh, Crawfordsville.

Food administrators have been authorized to deliver live stock in danger of freezing or suffocation for shipment via interurban lines, even through municipalities, where such transportation is necessary, according to announcement made to the State Council by Dr. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. Dr. Barnard stated that he had secured the co-operation of traction presidents and mayors of cities and at the consent of the Public Service Commission to effect the results asked by P. D. Brown on Decatur county in a communication to the State Council.

Chairman Hays announced the appointment of Dick Miller, recent Democratic candidate for mayor of Indianapolis, as chairman for the "Smileage books." The council unanimously approved the appointment of Mr. Miller, and his committee will endeavor through the sale of "Smileage books" to raise a fund for the entertainment and recreation of soldiers in the training camps and cantonments. Among those who have been named to assist are Dr. William L. Bryan, Bloomington; Mrs. Isaac Born, Indianapolis; Mrs. L. G. Cox, Terre Haute; L. G. Ellingham, Fort Wayne; Edward Fogarty, Michigan City; Fred Hoke, Indianapolis; James Lilly, Evansville; W. H. O'Brien, Lawrenceburg; W. F. Roach, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Horace Stillwell, Anderson.

The need of the Patriotic Gardeners' Association for funds to continue this work on a scale much larger than last year was stated to the council by Samuel Rauh and Harry Meise of Marion county, who said $5,000 will be required to plow up gardens, buy seed and fertilizer in order to help the poor to help themselves. The informants were assured that the council will investigate through a special committee with a view to making a recommendation on the subject to municipal and Federal officials.

Recommendation was withheld on the Salvation Army's proposed campaign for a $1,000,000 war fund. It being a national movement, the committee reported its opinion that national endorsement should precede action of the State.

Following a statement by James Dillon, representing the Pattern Makers' Union, Louis Schwartz, representing the metal workers and H. G. Schafer, general superintendent of Nordyke & Marmon, Indianapolis, the controversy over the alleged discrimination against organized craftsmen in factories holding government war contracts, was continued in the hands of a joint committee. The committee includes Chas. Fox, chairman of the labor committee, and Frank Wampler, head of the Employers Co-Operation committee, who were asked to make a recommendation at the next meeting of the council.

The Food Campaigners

Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, has received the following telegram from the federal food administration at Washington, relative to the speakers who have been assigned to the county war conferences in Indiana, during the next six weeks:

"The six United States food administration commissioners have arrived from France and given their message; the latest, most eloquent and most authoritative that has reached this country. Here in Washington they are strong and thrilling, giving a graphic picture of England and France, a clear, good argument, throwing the entire responsibility for winning this war on the American people. It is of the utmost importance that they reach the maximum number of people on their tours through the middle West. Please review personally all arrangements made for them in your State and make certain that posters have arrived, that all items of local publicity have been attended to well in advance and that the most complete and detailed arrangements have been made for their traveling, entertainment and hotel accommodations."

This is taken to indicate the importance that attaches to the assignment in Indiana, by these commissioners, on the part of the federal food administration. It puts it squarely up to the members of the Indiana county councils that are being favored with the engagement of these speakers to their county war conference, to see to it that there is no disappointment either as to audiences or the fullest opportunity for the people to receive the important and inspiring messages that are thus rendered available.

Dr. Lyman P. Powell Speaking in Indiana

Dr. Lyman P. Powell, who has recently returned from the war zone, is now speaking in Indiana under the auspices of the Speakers' Bureau of the Council of Defense. Dr. Powell is a well-known educator, and is president of Hobart College. He has contributed many articles to the magazines and newspapers of the country since his return and has been active in urging America to hurry up if she is going to meet the coming onslaught of Germany. Dr. Powell has talked with many officials, Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. workers, as well as private citizens of France, and he says all agree that Germany has undreamed of powers of recuperation which the allies must take into account. While he was in France Dr. Powell was put in charge of a French army officer who took him in an automobile all through the war zone. Hence he has many interesting experiences to relate and is in a position to speak with authority of conditions in France. Dr. Powell is especially anxious that the allies should understand each other better and has been waging a campaign for "reciprocity in education" between the different countries. In order that it may be easy for French young women to secure an education in America he urges the establishment by American universities of generous scholarships.

About October 1, 1917, butter was selling in Berlin at $2.25 per pound, sugar at 56 cents per pound, and ham and bacon at $2.11 per pound. This information was received by the U. S. Food Administration through a reliable source.

Liberty Guard Lights

Following the Governor's proclamation calling out the sedentary militia under the name of Liberty Guards, fully 180 companies are now in the process of organization in Indiana. In addition to the regular State Council organization, more than 200 postmasters have been appealed to to aid in locating men with military training, who would take up the work of getting a company of the Liberty Guard in these localities. The chairman of the military section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, E. M. Wilson, expects to have fully 200 companies subject to the call of the Governor by April 1. Instructions and mustering blanks for the use of recruiting officers will be furnished upon request of the State Council. Fifty men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five constitute a company.

Seventy-five members of provisional company No. 5, of the Liberty Guard at Dunkirk, Indiana, have volunteered to cut wood on the Monday holidays to relieve the coal shortage.

Judge Raymond S. Springer, Judge of the 37th Judicial Circuit of Indiana, residing at Connersville, laid aside his ermine long enough to take up the work of organizing Fayette County Liberty Guards. The judge was gratified to know that more than 360 of his fellow townsmen volunteered to join with him in the company. On account of the splendid showing made it is planned that a full battalion will be made out of the volunteers in this community, and Fayette will no doubt stand as a model for a complete organization of this great asset of her State.

Members of County Councils of Defense have been asked to co-operate with police officers and postmasters in the registration of aliens. In communities of five thousand or less this registration is in the hands of the postmaster; in larger cities, the police are responsible for the enrollments.

Captain E. Towne, of Argus, Indiana, proved the usefulness of his new Indiana State militia company by voluntarily saving nearly one thousand steers from freezing during the recent blizzard. Captain Towne's company removed the steers from a stalled train and re-loaded them, working thirty hours in the blizzard but saving much valuable property.

War Savings Thrift Stamps.

Every man, woman and child is expected to be represented by a $20.00 purchase of war saving and thrift stamps, in Indiana. County apportionments have been made on this basis.

Newspapers of Indiana have encouraged the habit of saving among their carrier boys, by organizing "Thrift Clubs." Instead of the usual prizes and bonus for creditable showings, the papers have arranged to present thrift stamps to their boys, making favorable showing.

The plan has the approval of the Indiana war saving committee, which is endeavoring to have it adopted universally.

Mail carriers are authorized sales agents for the thrift stamps and war savings certificates. A friendly rivalry has sprung up between the postoffices of Indiana cities and the mail carriers have kept alive a friendly contest that has helped them through many a deep snow-drift during the recent blizzard.

The entire wheat crop of France has been requisitioned by the French government.

555
785cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Clay County.—Chairman M. H. Johnson of the Council of Defense is arranging for the county war conference in Brazil, January 29. . . . County Agent Crowe is arranging for the seed corn and farm census of the county. He attended the Purdue short course last week. . . . Clay county's Red Cross membership totals 9,292, against an apportionment of 7,500. It is believed the total enrollment will reach 10,000 before the end of the month.

Delaware County.—Schools of this county, outside Center township, have inaugurated a six-days-a-week program, which means that they have school on Saturdays. County Superintendent Black says the plan of thus providing a means for releasing the pupils earlier for work on farms or elsewhere has met with general approval among school patrons. The plan means that Delaware county rural schools will adjourn for the summer vacation about April 1.

Fayette County.—Connersville club women last week turned into the Red Cross treasury $82.25 collected at card club gatherings through a chain organization, since July 16, 1917.

Henry County.—Dr. Bolser secured the permission of the Indiana Public Service commission to make an arrangement with the Indiana Union Traction Company, whereby hogs have been transported via interurban cars through the streets of cities, even where franchise agreements had expressly forbidden such practices. The result has been a very general movement of hogs, including shipments that have gone through the streets of Indianapolis. Mayor Jewett is said to have consented to the arrangement as an emergency war measure, which is to be abandoned as soon as traffic conditions on the railroads become normal. Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, is said to have influenced President Arthur W. Brady of the Indiana Union, who is a member of the Indiana State Council of Defense, to furnish the cars that were required to prevent many hogs from freezing before they could be got from stock yards to the slaughter pens.

Howard County.—Committees to make arrangements for the Howard county war conference, January 30, include the following: On Publicity, W. H. Arnett, E. M. Souder, V. J. Obenauer, C. H. Havens and W. O. Tarkington; program, C. V. Haworth and Lloyd E. McClure; churches, Rev. D. H. Shields; Red Cross, Mrs. L. M. Kneppie. Other committee members are to be selected by those appointed. It is expected the conference will include every war worker in the county. The conference will be held in the Kokomo high school building.

Jackson County.—High school pupils in Jackson county are organizing for war service under the leadership of Miss Kate Andrews, principal of the high school, who is president. Miss Katherine Quinn is vice-president of the defense council of the Seymour high school, and two students, Glen Keach and Loretta Bollinger, were elected, respectively, secretary and treasurer.

Approved by the Jackson County Council of Defense, the following committee has been named to serve with County Food Administrator Joseph M. Robertson in carrying out the conservation and food substitution program: Isaac Smith, Freetown; John W. Fountain, Mooney; John Hamilton, Medora; George F. Turmalt, Valonia; Ralph Johnson, Tampico; Howard Rider, Crothersville; Frank Linke, Seymour, R. R. 5; Layman Gruber, Redding township; Holmes Thompson, Cortland; Harry Miller, Seymour, and Harry Wallace, Brownstown.

Rev. F. A. Hayward of Seymour is the head of a new committee of the Jackson County Council of Defense for moral and religious activity. County Superintendent Harry B. Henderson and Albert Walters, head of the Seymour Business college, have been named to act for the Defense Council in extending educational work to various parts of the county where civil service preparatory work is desired.

Jasper County.—The Jasper County Council of Defense is quartered in the armory at Rensselaer, including two office rooms and a lower floor room used by the Red Cross shop. It is the purpose to rent the armory room for dances, entertainments and the like, the proceeds to go to the county treasury to be applied in meeting the rent.

Mayor C. G. Spiller of Rensselaer, county head of the Red Cross, has been recognized for splendid activity by election to membership in the Jasper County Council of Defense.

A special committee has in hand the task of card-indexing citizens of Jasper county as to the sums the citizens have invested in the Liberty Loan, in the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., war fund and other patriotic enterprises. On the committee are B. F. Fendig, L. H. Hamilton and George H. McClain.

The Jasper County Council of Defense has gone on record against the teaching of German in the schools of the county. The Defense Council has approved the plan of holding school six days a week, where possible, in order to speed up school work and release pupils early for spring farm work. The Liberty Guards in Rensselaer are being temporarily equipped under the auspices of the Defense Council, working through the military section of which J. M. Sausser is chairman.

Jay County.—W. H. Hickman, Pennville, Jay county, recently took the lead in a movement to meet slacker propaganda and seditious chatter in his community by organizing a big, patriotic demonstration at which, he suggested, the roll of honor of the community should be read, and citizens should be exhorted and inspired to devote themselves in every way, wholeheartedly to adequate support of the men who have gone to the colors and to loyal backing of the national war administration, Commander-in-Chief Wilson and the American cause in the war. In the Pennville Journal Mr. Hickman clearly outlined the situation and called on patriotic citizens to meet and stamp out the smoldering fires set by disloyalists and slackers. This patriotic movement at Pennville started definitely several weeks ago, will be greatly stimulated by the approaching county-wide war conference at Portland, February 5, when not only Pennville but all parts of Jay county will be represented in a school of war work and patriotic aggressiveness.

Jefferson County.—School children and loyal citizens of Madison have been doing their parts in support of the Red Cross and other war activities. The grammar school at Madison, organized solidly as a Junior Red Cross unit, turned in $25 in membership dues to the Red Cross Society, Jefferson county chapter. Homer Long, superintendent of the Madison schools, is taking active lead in patriotic service in the schools and in the community.

The grammar school also gave a successful patriotic benefit entertainment which netted the Red Cross cause $150.

The sum of $50 was raised through a benefit bazaar given by the Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity M. E. church, the money going to the Red Cross.

Johnson County.—The Johnson County Council of Defense, acting through its military and protection divisions, is actively interested in organizing units of the Liberty Guards. State Senator Thomas Dorrell of Greenwood is now a member of the Johnson County Council of Defense, taking the place of the late Frank P. Smith. Senator Dorrell is active in war work, and the fact that he has five nephews in the service gives him an especial incentive.

The good work of the Johnson County Council of Defense recently received hearty commendation at the hands of Judge Deupree of Franklin, who assured Chairman Will H. Hays of the State Council of Defense that the Johnson county defense body had fully earned the praises extended by the State Council of Defense.

A distinctly good general effect has followed the recent county-wide war conference in Johnson county, the first of the ninety-two county war conferences in Indiana. There has been a decided awakening of patriotic spirit and a quickening of interest and effort on the part of all loyal citizens. The divisional or sectional conferences of war workers were especially helpful and the information and instruction received at the State-wide war conference were extended very effectively to the workers in the county and in all sections of the county. Johnson county folk now have a fuller conception of their own duties in the war period. Township war meetings are next in order.

Knox County.—A recent patriotic meeting at Lincoln high school, Vincennes, was unusually successful and inspiring. Speeches were made by Sergeant L. N. Smith, Thomas H. Adams and Miss Margaret Holland. Prof. J. V. Foreman was in charge of the demonstration. The high school orchestra rendered patriotic music. Mr. Adams, who is chairman of the Knox County Council of Defense, told of the record made by Knox county in sending the largest county delegation to the big State war conference at Indianapolis. The high school pupils rose in salute to Sergeant Smith of the Canadian forces. Miss Margaret Holland, secretary of the Council of Defense, spoke to the pupils on Red Cross work.

It has been found that one of the most effective methods of spreading the gospel of Americanism among the homes is by means of patriotic meetings in schools, from which the young folk bear the word to the family.

Knox county war workers are still referring with pride to the record of 9,000 members in three days' campaigning for the Red Cross. Thorough organization did the business. As usual, the women proved very effective, among the active workers being the following Vincennes women: Mrs. W. T. Heinkeamp, Miss Martha Emlson, Miss Mary Frances Glass, Mrs. George Graham, Miss Louise Bierhaus, Mrs. A. A. Clark, Mrs. J. L. Bayard, Jr., Mrs. Claude Duffer, Miss Marie Simon, Miss Lou Cracker and many others.

Following the plan of the Vigo County Council of Defense, the Knox County Council has planned to establish a community fund, from which all war contributions asked of the county will be paid. The chamber of commerce and other civic organizations will assist in soliciting the subscriptions to the fund.

Kosciusko County.—In a systematic effort to conserve the fuel supply in Kosciusko county, Charles H. Kerr of Warsaw, county fuel director, has issued a public appeal and has organized the merchants, in co-operation with the merchants' economy division of the State and County Councils of Defense, to close all stores at 6 p. m. excepting Saturdays. Mr. Kerr has pointed out that this method employed during January, February and March means a large saving of fuel. He obtained ready co-operation from merchants in Warsaw, Claypool, Mentone, Burket and Akron, the action being voluntary on the part of the patriotic merchants.

Lake County.—Lake county, through the County Council of Defense, co-operating with police departments and other authorities, has put in force a drastic policy of deportation of idlers and chronic loafers, or slackers. Gary officers took steps some time ago to rid that city of more than 200 parasites in human form. The policy is in line with a general program laid down by the State Council of Defense on the theory that with the nation at war and with tasks at hand for every citizen to do, there can be no further toleration or immunity for the loafer.

Laporte County.—The Laporte high school military company has drilled regularly since last fall, and has proved to be an effective agency for the promulgation of the doctrine of military training as a patriotic duty of citizenship. The school authorities have taken an active interest in the organization, providing equipment and every encouragement to the 112 boys who are profiting by the training. . . . A group of elderly, gray-haired women of Springville, got together recently at the home of Mrs. Hibbard and cut wood sufficient to last all concerned for a week, regardless of the coal shortage or traffic tieups. Uncle "Billy" Shoemaker acted as boss at the chopping bee.

The school at Waterford, Laporte county, has a 100 per cent. enrollment in the Red Cross. The nineteen pupils in the advanced grades are working Red Cross members, both boys and girls. The work is done under the leadership of teachers, Miss Nora Sullivan and Miss Emma Youngstrom, aided by Mrs. M. D. Barker, who is director for the Red Cross at Michigan City.

Marion County.—In June, 1917, the Red Cross class of Whittier school, No. 33, Indianapolis, was organized by Miss Edith M. Lanham, teacher. It started with thirty members. In June the people of the district responded to a call for old linen and muslin. The Red Cross girls worked through the summer vacation, one morning each week and made about twenty-three dozen articles for the Red Cross. Knitting has developed rapidly, and between October 1 and January more than seventy hanks of yarn have been used. The children were not required to pay dues, but contributions accumulated so that in November money was on hand to pay for a comfort kit as a Christmas present for a soldier. . . . Whittier school has adopted a French orphan. A Christmas box containing a present from each room in the building was sent to the French child.

Indianapolis hotel and restaurant keepers have formed a patriotic association to see to the strict observance of the food administration's war regulations.

The Marion County Council of Defense has been active recently in the fuel conservation campaign, helping trace coal cars and to divert fuel to the consumer in need. The Defense Council took an active hand in compelling a universal observance of lightless nights, bringing about an order shutting off current from one large electric sign. . . . Women in war work who wear overalls are being protected in their rights against silly criticism set afoot by pro-kaiser propagandists. This word has gone forth in Indianapolis, where a large number of women are working in factories and shops in the places of men who have been called to the colors. The county Defense Council and the authorities are backing the war workers and are seeking slanderers with a view to closing their mouths effectually.

Miami County.—As a part of the Miami County Council of Defense, the Four-Minute Men of Peru have organized, and have been speaking in the movie houses of Peru since mid-December, twice each week. The Four-Minute Men are: Claude U. Andrews, chairman; A. H. Cole, Rev. O. L. Monahan, E. P. Kling and John F. Lawrence. These speakers get their subject matter and suggestions from Washington and the Committee on Public Information. . . . Miss Harriet Henton of Peru has been made chairman of the speakers' bureau of the women's division of the Miami County Council of Defense. Mrs. Jessie West, the woman member of the Defense Council, has been at work since the first of the year organizing the women of the county.

Enemy propagandists near Chili, Miami county, put out a false story to the effect that Mrs. Jessie H. West received $75 a month for service with the Defense Council. Judge Charles A. Cole and County Auditor Frank McElheny promptly and officially refuted the falsehood by publishing a statement declaring the facts, which are that the Defense Council Members do not receive pay in any form, but do duty absolutely on a patriotic basis, paying their own expenses.

The County Council of Miami county appropriated $2,500 to be used in defraying the expenses of war activities carried on in 1918 by the Miami County Council of Defense. The money is expended under a voucher system as is done in county offices.

The Miami county war conference is to be in a mammoth tabernacle specially erected for a religious revival. In charge of the conference is a committee including W. A. Hammond, chairman; Dr. W. R. Meeker, Dudley H. Brattin and Omer Holman.

Monroe County.—Dr. C. H. Taylor of Bloomington has been called on to aid in the big State-wide patriotic drive which has taken form in ninety-two county war conferences held under the direction of the State Council of Defense. The Red Cross drive in Monroe county obtained 2,100 new members, giving the county more than 4,500 Red Cross members in all. The Reformed Presbyterian church, Bloomington, was the first church in the county to get the white star, signifying a 100 per cent. membership in the Red Cross.

Council of Defense patriotic meetings are being held in schools and churches throughout the county. Dr. A. S. Hershey's booklet, "What the Germans Say and Do," a document issued here, is proving to be a valuable educational work and is in general demand. It is being put out free by the Defense Council.

Montgomery County.—Food Administrator William Endicott of Montgomery county is especially emphasizing the importance of the "cash and carry" system among retailers as a war-time economy measure. . . . Superintendent Coons of the Darlington schools is active in helping work out the plan under which high school boys, in sawbuck clubs, are cutting wood to be used for fuel in place of coal. . . . An influential factor in the success of the Y. M. C. A. war fund campaign in and around Waveland, Montgomery county, was an address at a patriotic meeting by Raymond Roos, a Hoosier, who told of his own service with the aviation forces of the French army on the west front. Mr. Roos was especially convincing in his report of the good work done in the war by the Y. M. C. A.

Morgan County.—Miss Mary Bain, of the women's section of the Morgan County Council of Defense, has taken the lead in the county in the movement to do away with refreshments heretofore served at entertainments, parties, club meetings and the like. The rule now generally adopted in Morgan county under Miss Bain's suggestion, bars refreshments at entertainments except where such refreshments actually take the place of a regular meal. There are no more four-meal days in Morgan.

Randolph County.—A mass meeting in the Main Street church of Christ, Sunday, was disappointed at the non-arrival of Lieut. Paul Perigord, who was unable to make the schedule prepared for him. However, the patriotic success of the meeting was great. Community singing was followed by addresses by the Rev. Foster of Union City and Judge Caldwell of the Indiana appellate court, whose home is in Winchester. Judge Caldwell scored the teaching of German in the schools of the State. Will White of the Delaware County Council of Defense told what has been done by the County Council of Defense there, and Lee Driver, superintendent of the Winchester schools and a member of the educational section of the State, spoke briefly.

Walsh County.—Arrangements for the county war conference to be held in Walsh, January 28, are in the hands of an executive committee as follows: Dr. Frank E. Jaynes, Milo R. Meredith, Mrs. James Wilson, Dr. James Wilson, Wilbur A. McNamee, Ephraim Holloway, Fred I. King, James A. Almond, Mrs. Isaac Beltman, Mrs. V. A. Place, Mrs. E. B. Rhobock, Mrs. Frank Henley, Mrs. Ed Lower, Mrs. Dr. Jordan, Mrs. M. C. Honeywell, Mrs. John A. Bruner, Frank Plummer, Dr. L. O. Sholtz, V. A. Place, James Chapter, J. T. Mills, Elmer Vrooman, Henry New, Rev. J. L. Gillard, A. B. Oswolt, F. B. Walters, James D. Adams, Charles Latchem and W. Scott Davis, all of Walsh, and Frank Ireland of Laketon, John W. Winesburg and Mrs. M. R. Gardner of North Manchester and Morris Ragan of Lagro.

Wayne County.—An audience estimated at 3,000 heard Lieutenant Paul Perigord's message from the French front, at the Coliseum Sunday evening. Community singing was a feature of the evening's program. . . . The Wayne County Council of Defense is calling on volunteers to assist in the registration of aliens. . . . Mrs. E. W. Shirk is filling out 13,000 membership cards for distribution in Wayne county. Children from the city schools, closed by order of the fuel administration, assist at the Red Cross shop, making snippings for pillows. . . . An order for 100 sets of pajamas, 100 hot water bottle covers and 100 bath towels was forwarded from the Richmond office last week.

Scientific Research

At a meeting of the Scientific Research Committee on Saturday, January 19, an executive committee was organized of which Dr. John White of Rose Polytechnic institute, of Terre Haute, Indiana, is chairman, and the other members are Dr. F. R. Eldred, of Eli Lilly & Company, O. H. Skinner of the Prest-o-lite company, and Daniel B. Luten, all of Indianapolis. Dr. Arthur L. Foley, professor of Physics at Indiana university, Bloomington, Indiana, is chairman of the Scientific Research committee and Daniel B. Luten, of Indianapolis, is its secretary.

The Scientific Research committee of the State Council of Defense has appointed a committee on inventions, consisting of H. O. Garman, chairman, and O. H. Skinner and W. H. Wright. Mr. Garman is chief engineer of the Indiana Public Service Commission. Mr. Skinner is superintendent of the Citizens Gas company and its Prospect street plant.

The work of this committee will be to investigate proposed devices and inventions that may be submitted by residents of Indiana to be used in the war or any related industries, and to give encouragement to such as can prove their merit, especially with a view to bringing them to the attention of the proper authorities at Washington.

The official hotel flag of the U. S. Food Administration has a white body bearing in crimson letters the words, "Food Will Win the War," and also the administration's seal. Hotel, restaurant, dining car and steamship companies which are members of the Food Administration, may fly this flag and the administration has arranged to supply it at cost to such hotels if they desire it.

Food Administration

Profiteering in storage eggs is defined in a bulletin, No. 24, just issued by Dr. H. E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana. Urging the need for putting storage eggs immediately on the market, while their food value is still high, Dr. Barnard at the same time announces that county food administrators will notify grocers and egg-dealers that the public must get the storage egg while it is in good shape, and at a reasonable cost. The poultry and egg section of the food administration puts out regulations as to wholesale prices for storage eggs now in stock as follows: "For Chicago, 40 cents per dozen for storage firsts and 41 cents for extras." It is the purpose to keep profits above these figures on a reasonable basis.

Retail grocers of Indiana are to meet in State-wide conference January 30 at 10 a. m. at the State house, to discuss the war-time problems which are being worked out in co-operation with the food administration. Dr. H. E. Barnard, federal food administrator, in Bulletin No. 25, just sent to food administrators in the counties, urges that grocers' delegates already chosen be urged to attend the State conference, and that where grocers' delegates have not been named, local meetings be called at once to select delegates. Dr. Barnard says he wants delegates present from every county and he puts it up to the county food administrator to see that the delegates appear.

Commencement week this year will not be a period of festivities, and there will be no round of refreshments, parties and spreads attending 1918 graduations in Indiana. The food administration has called off the festivities, in advance, to save foods. Though the commencement season is yet afar off, inquiries as to graduation banquets have reached Dr. Harry E. Barnard, the federal food administrator for Indiana, and he has put the ban on such affairs in a communication sent to students and educators over the State. Dr. Barnard asks that the banquets be omitted as a war measure. He says the need for this action will be more apparent at graduation time than it is today. Dr. Barnard asks schools and colleges to co-operate and to give publicity to his ruling.

In order to clear away confusion as to the food administration's ruling fixing the prices of mill feeds, Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, has put out a revised, explanatory bulletin to county food administrators. In substance the bulletin follows:

Some confusion exists regarding the price fixation on mill feed. The following information is taken from circular 6, under Rule No. 19 and Bulletins 34 and 35.

Milling Division, Rule 19.—"No licensee engaged in the business of milling flour and feed from wheat shall after December 25, 1917, sell wheat mill feed at any price in excess of the following prices:

"Bulk price per ton of 2,000 pounds at mill in carloads in no case shall exceed 38 per cent. of the average cost to such mill of one ton of wheat at the mill, which cost of wheat shall be the average cost as shown by the previous month's record of said mill and shall include the 1 per cent. administration fee paid by the mill on all wheat ground."

Example:

Wheat cost $2.16 permits bran price.....	$27.36
Wheat cost 2.13 permits bran price.....	26.98
Wheat cost 2.10 permits bran price.....	26.60
Wheat cost 2.07 permits bran price.....	26.22

Milling Division, Bulletin 34.—"For less than carload lots and for his local trade he cannot charge a price in excess of 50 cents per ton over the carload maximum. These maximum prices include his allowable profit of 50 cents per ton. He can add nothing to these prices except the cost of sacks and a delivery charge or a freight charge.

"When making bran, that remaining part of the mill run feed, may be called flour middlings and sold at $9.00 over the bran price. Mixed feed is all the feed mixed and can be sold at $4.00 over bran price."

Milling Division, Bulletin 35—TO THOSE MILLERS WHO HAVE SEGREGATED THEIR JOBBING AND MILLING BUSINESS.

"If prior to December 17, 1917, you had segregated your jobbing and milling business and if you have been reporting monthly under BOTH A JOBBING LICENSE AND A MILLING LICENSE, you are then entitled to sell feed of your own manufacture to your jobbing department for local distribution at the maximum prices fixed by Milling Division, Circular No. 6 for carload quantities."

State Regulations—A jobbing or retail department operating under a jobber's license, may not pay the mill more than the above carload prices, and it may add a sum sufficient to cover the actual expense of doing the jobbing business and a reasonable profit, which sum must not exceed 50 cents per ton on split cars, $3.00 per ton on less than car lots of one ton or more, and $4.00 per ton on less than one ton. To these prices may be added the cost of sacks, tags, and drayage.

Milling Division, Bulletin 35 — "MILLERS WHO HAVE NOT SEGREGATED THEIR JOBBING AND MILLING BUSINESS PRIOR TO DECEMBER 17th, MAY NOT DO SO AT THIS TIME."

"The miller who has not prior to this time separated his jobbing and milling business, cannot sell the mill feed at the jobbing or retailing prices but can only sell his mill feed at the maximum prices specified in Bulletin No. 34."

State Regulations—The above prices and differentials are based on cash transactions f. o. b. mill or storehouse door in bulk, to which may be added reasonable interest charges when sold on credit and drayage if feed is delivered.

Mill feeds on hand that were purchased before December 25, 1917, may be closed out at the old rate.

Extract from letter No. 1216, Milling Division—"It has been found advisable, in view of the increasing necessity for conservation of wheat, to place all mills under a milling license. Therefore, all mills having less than a seventy-five barrel capacity MUST MAKE APPLICATION for milling license AT ONCE. Such mills having a grain storage license may relinquish such license when making application for milling license (which license will carry storage privilege)."

Attention of all dealers in feeds and malt; salt water fishermen, cannery, manufacturers of tomato, wheat and dry products and other food commodities is directed to the proclamation of President Wilson, which requires that they take out license under the food control law as had been required of other distributors of food commodities, manufacturers, etc. These additional licenses shall be given until February 15, 1918, to secure the necessary legal permit to continue their business.

The United States Public Reserve

The United States Public Reserve will be the official agent for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and the United States Shipping Board is registering 250,000 laborers of various kinds into a reserve force of ship builders.

From January 28, and continuing for three weeks, the registration of men desiring labor in the United States shipyards will be conducted in every county in Indiana by the enrolling agent of the Reserve.

All information regarding the drive should be in the hands of the agent, otherwise it is available through M. E. Squibbs, Room 83 State House, who is the Indiana director of the Reserve.

Indiana's quota is 10,847 and it is thought there will be no great difficulty in getting this number of men to signify their willingness to take employment when called upon by the government.

No branch of the service is more important than ship building. The maintenance of our armies in Europe is solely dependent upon our ability to furnish adequate tonnage. This is the purpose of the registration.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 24

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 96.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Navy Department has requested the Council of National Defense to distribute through its subsidiary organizations a large number of posters asking the public to loan to the navy binoculars, spyglasses and telescopes.

We have made arrangements with the Navy Department to have these posters mailed direct to you from Washington and you are requested to distribute them, when they arrive, where they will produce the best results, keeping especially in mind theaters, clubs, railway stations and large stores.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 97.

January 16, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Several days ago inquiry was made of us by the National Council as to whether or not the County Councils of Defense were dependable as means of learning just what pro-German propaganda was attempted through our public libraries.

We promptly advised the Council of National Defense there was no better avenue of information, suggesting the especially effective work which has been done by the Marion County Council of Defense in this regard.

Today we received from the Council of National Defense a request that we obtain from the County Councils a report at once, after investigation by them, showing whether or not there were any pamphlets, magazines or books found by them in the various public libraries which might be spreading pro-German propaganda.

Please make such investigation at all public libraries in your county, using your own good judgment as to the way to do this, then send us a report immediately as to what you find. It is probable that such propaganda will be found only in a very few places, but we want you to make this investigation thoroughly and advise us fully. If such a thing is going on in Indiana, as seems to have been attempted elsewhere, the Council of National Defense plans action in the premises.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 98.

January 18, 1918.

IMPORTANT.

To Chairmen County Councils of Defense:

Referring again to the designation of some one who might quietly aid in the income tax matter, those counties which have not designated some one should do this as quickly as possible, as the Council of National Defense is again requesting haste in this matter.

Will you please nominate some one to aid in this, having them work with the revenue officers in that connection, and advise us immediately this action is taken?

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 101.

January 22, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Council of National Defense desires us to immediately call to the attention of the farmers their duty in so ordering fertilizer that this commodity can be shipped in MAXIMUM instead of MINIMUM car load shipments. The average car load has heretofore been about twenty-one tons, while the standard box car may be loaded to fifty tons.

We ask that you give this matter your best attention, and through your various committees, publicity, and every other means, urge the farmers in your county to order fertilizer at the earliest possible moment, and, as far as possible, make their orders cover their total requirements. In addition urge the dealers to take advantage of such action by the farmers and order shipments of fertilizer in MAXIMUM car loads.

One of the paramount duties of the hour is the conservation of the transportation equipment of the country, and concerted efforts of consumers and dealers can and must do much to relieve the difficult transportation situation.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

*****

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 102.

January 22, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Plans are nearing completion for a State-wide survey of seed stocks on Indiana farms and it is important that every county officer and organization co-operate in this big work.

The State Council of Defense has set aside the week of February 4 to 9 for the making of this survey and a meeting to organize your county for this work will be held within a few days.

The survey is absolutely necessary in order to supply the farmers' needs for the 1918 crops. It will show where surplus seed stocks are and where shortages exist.

You are urged to take an active interest in this matter and to give the government agricultural agents such aid that a complete and perfect survey may be made within the week designated.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Business In War Time

Editor Indiana Bulletin, Indianapolis, Ind.:

Dear Mr. Editor—January is fast passing and February, with its short twenty-eight days, will soon usher in March—the month of spring and budding nature. With it is due another season of commercial and industrial activity.

Also with it will come new calls for Liberty loans, Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross drives, etc.

There is a disposition on the part of some to cry Halt! to "Business as Usual," with the admonition that we must scrimp and save for bonds and other war-supporting funds.

It seems to me time to call "Halt!" to this kind of talk. We must buy bonds or give to Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross funds from wealth—either active or inactive!

If all bonds and contributions are to be paid from wealth inactive, it is clear that we are eating up our reserves.

If wealth is kept active—therefore becoming working capital, we will be able to buy bonds from profits and pay contributions with newly-earned money. As millions, if they continue to buy bonds or give money to Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross funds, must first earn not only a living but a surplus, and as such as these have no inactive capital which is only another name for wealth, the halt to business means a reduced ability to buy bonds or give to Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross funds on the part of a great mass of people.

The rich can be forced to buy bonds and give to Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross funds out of their accumulations, but it means an accelerating loss of resources and constant minimizing of ability to buy. They will be trying to borrow on bonds bought in former issues to pay for new bonds, and their success will depend upon a better interest rate to be paid by the government.

It is my conviction since reading Charles W. Mears' address before the business organizations of Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities that everything should be done to keep business going as usual.

In short, if we are to win this war we must pay its cost out of profits and not out of static capital.

"The war," said Mr. Mears, who by the way is connected with the selling end of the Winton company, "is an extraordinary expense which cannot be met by business as usual, but must be met by business MORE THAN USUAL. . . . Our people have never been able to save except when money was being freely spent. Every year when business is active savings deposits increase. Active business alone is the source of increased savings. But when people begin deliberately to stop spending, woe begins. Merchants are forced to buy less and to let out some of their help. Then manufacturers are forced to buy less, to manufacture less, and to let out some of their help. Then, in no time, so many workers are out of employment that if you have a heart in your bosom you are compelled to give away more in charity than you have saved by pinching, and your charity helps to make beggars of men and women who would much prefer to work for an honest living. Therefore, the outstanding character of this 'stop spending money' cry seems to be its satanic iniquity."

Halt! To business! That means that soon the American people will have to turn aside from fighting the war to take care of those out of work at home, whereas if all are kept employed millions more will be able to contribute their portion to the war and the war will end sooner and with better results to the American people.

The call should be to increase business. Mr. Mears points out that England could not keep at business as usual because she did not have resources enough for so long and so great a war and for business also. But that is why England should have our help, for with England out of it, it would be only a QUESTION OF A FEW MONTHS UNTIL SUBMARINES WOULD BE EXACTING TRIBUTE OF OUR COAST CITIES.

One of the banks of Fort Wayne refused to supply the money promised to finance the building of five homes because it needed the money to buy Liberty bonds. The same sort of policy among all the banks, if continued, will soon exhaust all available money to buy bonds. People cannot buy if they cannot earn, and it is strictly in the interest of Germany to strangle business into idleness here during this good year 1918, which ought to bring victory to the cause of civil liberty.

Spend up and not down.

Spend profits and earnings for bonds and for Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross needs. There is a limit to wealth, but not for the activity of capital.

The banks say they have not the money. But they have good paper which the Federal Reserve banks were created to issue on, when extreme need develops. The law wiped out the national bank circulation based on Government bonds because it was not "elastic." Remember the word?

Well—our currency will not gain elasticity by choking business and industry to death. Anything that chokes business as usual chokes Uncle Sam. With good commercial paper as a basis for expanded circulation there is no danger of inflation, but there will soon be no market for commercial paper unless business is kept up as usual.

C. R. LANE,

Secretary Allen County Council of Defense.

Country People Are Being Told of the War

Believing that future patriotic drives for war funds may be conducted easier if the people living outside the cities are given an opportunity to learn more about the war needs of the country, the permanent committee in charge of all war fund drives plans to hold patriotic meetings in all sections of Knox county. Several of these meetings have already been held and it is hoped that the entire county will be covered before the next Liberty Loan drive. No funds of any kind are solicited at these meetings. Good speakers simply tell of the patriotic needs of the country. There is no question but what the value of these meetings will be reflected in the next big drive.

Food Production Is Object of Big Drive

Every County in the State Included in Plans for Seed Stocks and Farm Labor Survey.

A food production drive which will eclipse all previous efforts, was launched in Indiana, January 21, under the direction of the Committee on Food Production and Conservation. Again Indiana is first in this undertaking, setting a pace for the entire country.

In every county of the State, within the next week or ten days, will be held meetings to make plans for "Seed Stocks and Labor Survey Week," February 4 to 9. This survey is Indiana's first big step in the 1918 food production drive, which will by far surpass previous efforts in this line.

The survey is all that its name implies. Its purpose is to make a complete survey of seed stocks and labor needs on every farm in Indiana in order that the seed and labor shortages may be filled. In addition to ascertaining the labor needs for the coming spring, the data, when collected, will show the sources of supply of seed corn, oats, clover, potatoes, soy beans and cow peas for every community, every township and every county in the State. Then through a system of exchange, started at Purdue University and which will reach into every county, the man who has a surplus of seed will be brought in touch with the man who needs the seed, and the situation remedied in this way. The labor problem will be solved in the same way.

At the county meetings to be held this week township leaders will be named, and these men, in turn, will name community leaders, one man for every two square miles. These community leaders will make the survey of the farms in their territory to get the desired information. In each county the county or emergency agent will be the directing force. To facilitate the work the entire State has been divided into eighteen districts, with a leader, usually a county agent, for each.

The districts and the various leaders are as follows:

No. 1—Lake, Porter, Laporte and Starke counties; J. S. Bordner, South Bend, leader.

No. 2—Elkhart, Marshall, Kosciusko, Pulaski and Fulton counties; G. E. Metzger, Elkhart, leader.

No. 3—Lagrange, Steuben, Noble, Dekalb, Whitley, Allen, Wells and Adams counties; H. R. Smalley, Angola, leader.

No. 4—Huntington, Wabash, Miami, Cass, Howard and Grant counties; V. A. Place, Wabash, leader.

No. 5—White, Jasper and Newton counties; Stewart Leaming, Rensselaer, leader.

No. 6—Vermilion, Fountain, Warren and Benton counties; G. W. Rosencrans, Covington, leader.

No. 7—Tippecanoe and Carroll counties; Otis Crane, Lafayette, leader.

No. 8—Montgomery, Boone and Clinton counties; R. A. Chitty, Crawfordsville, leader.

No. 9—Tipton, Hamilton, Madison, Delaware, Hancock and Henry counties; L. O. Chasey, Fairmount, leader.

No. 10—Blackford, Jay, Randolph, Wayne, Fayette and Union counties; A. T. Morrison, Connersville, leader.

No. 11—Rush, Decatur, Franklin, Ripley, Dearborn, Ohio and Switzerland counties; P. D. Brown, Greensburg, leader.

No. 12—Hendricks, Marion, Shelby, Johnson, Morgan and Owen counties; G. A. Ellis, leader.

No. 13—Putnam, Parke, Clay and Vigo counties; B. B. Adams, Rockville, leader.

No. 14—Sullivan, Knox, Greene, Daviess and Martin counties; L. M. Butler, Vincennes, leader.

No. 15—Monroe, Brown, Bartholomew, Lawrence, Jackson and Jennings counties; Q. O. Rainbolt, Bloomington, leader.

No. 16—Jefferson, Scott, Clark and Floyd counties; H. A. Stevens, Jeffersonville, leader.

No. 17—Orange, Washington, Crawford, Harrison and Perry counties; R. M. Roland, Paoli, leader.

No. 18—Dubois, Pike, Gibson, Spencer, Warwick, Vanderburg and Posey counties; T. S. McCulloch, Mt. Vernon, leader.

GREATER TOMATO ACREAGE ASKED.

An open letter to Indiana farmers to help bring the tomato acreage of this State from 35,000 to 50,000 was issued today by G. I. Christie, State Food Director, who points out the important place held by tomatoes on the menus for the soldiers. The letter follows:

"The government, through the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is calling for an increased food supply for 1918. The shortage of food among all the warring nations is such that the United States must produce an excess of foodstuffs in 1918 if the demands of our peoples and armies are to be met. Especially are our people interested at this time in food for the boys who are in the trenches and on the seas. It is interesting to note that tomatoes have been given an important place on the menu of our army. For this article of diet the War Department accepts no substitute. The tomato, in addition to furnishing food value, quenches the thirst of the men and thus serves a dual purpose. It is universally liked and can be easily transported and saved under all climatic conditions. This past season the U. S. Government took practically 20 per cent. of the entire pack of the canneries. Next year, with largely increased military forces, the government will require a still larger amount of tomatoes. During 1917 Indiana farmers produced 36,000 acres of tomatoes. This acreage, according to government requirements, must be increased to 50,000 acres for 1918.

"Indiana farmers are interested in producing crops that are needed to meet the demands of our boys at the front. Surely no farmer can serve in a more direct way than by growing a few acres of tomatoes and supply foodstuff that is needed and which will serve so valuable a purpose. As State Food Director for Indiana I urge Indiana farmers to give consideration of these problems and that they exert every possible effort to produce in 1918 the largest quantity of tomatoes ever grown in the history of the State. With the spirit of service and an attempt to meet the program of the government, we can back the boys in a way that will bring the war to a speedy and successful conclusion.

FIVE-ACRE CORN GROWING CONTEST.

Spurred on by determination to produce more food to help lick the Kaiser, 330 farmers in 29 different counties of the State successfully finished in the five-acre corn growing contest, in defiance of the most unfavorable corn growing season ever recorded.

Mr. J. A. McCarty, who was placed in immediate charge of the work, announced the winners last week during the Farmers' Short Course held at Purdue.

The following five men won gold medals by producing 100 bushels or more of corn per acre on a five-acre tract:

W. E. Browne, 101.2 bushels, Fayette county, Connersville, R. R. 9.

Guy P. McKinnis, 100.9 bushels, Tippecanoe county, Lafayette, R. R. K.

Elmer Sefton, 100.5 bushels, Decatur county, Greensburg.

J. G. Miller, 100.3 bushels, Decatur county, Greensburg.

V. D. Sexson, 100 bushels, Greene county, Switz City.

In addition to these five winnings forty-five farmers received silver medals by growing 85 to 100 bushels to the acre.

The yields of each five-acre field is calculated upon a dry basis. A ten-ear sample of corn is taken from the field at harvesting time and sent to the laboratory at Purdue for the moisture determination.

The average yield of corn in Indiana is less than 40 bushels per acre. An increase of but five bushels per acre, which is easily possible, would mean an addition of over twenty-eight million bushels to the corn crop of the State. Possibly no other one activity of the agricultural work of the State demonstrates in as forceful way the opportunity to increase the food supply through the increased yield per acre, as does the five-acre corn growing contest.

POULTRY INDUSTRY FACES CRISIS.

The following letter has just been received by the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation:

The poultry industry of Indiana is facing a crisis. Here is the way one of our good poultrymen expresses it: I am somewhat "up in the air" just now in regard to what to do next year—just keep the chickens I have or increase. All farmers and poultrymen around here are decreasing their flocks.

"All farmers and poultrymen around here are decreasing their flocks." And this in the face of the world-wide appeal for increased production!

Were similar reports coming in from only one locality there might be little cause for alarm. But these reports are general over the State, and unless such actions are checked quickly, a great shortage of poultry products will result.

The facts are that the farmers and poultrymen are being scared out because of the high cost of feeds. They are afraid they are going to lose money on their chickens and believe the disposal of their one little flock will not make much difference to their country anyway.

Such people are wrong, absolutely. Chickens, properly handled, are still paying a good profit, and each flock is needed, for it is the total of the small farm flocks which makes Indiana one of the foremost poultry States of the Union.

Most farmers keep no accurate records of their chickens and have to "guess" whether or not they are paying. The Purdue University Poultry Department, in co-operation with a few of the wide-awake farmers of the State, has been securing records of farm poultry for a number of years. These records prove that poultry is paying, which fact should be spread broadcast.

Contrary to general belief, eggs have been advanced in proportion to feed. Three-year records from a number of Indiana farms show an average price received for farm eggs as follows: September, 1915, 17 cents a dozen; September, 1916, 25 cents a dozen, and September, 1917, 36 cents; in December, 1915, the prices per dozen were 32 cents; 1916, 40 cents, and 1917, 50 cents.

On farms where chickens are well tended it takes about six pounds of feed to produce one dozen eggs, average for the year. When eggs were bringing the farmer around 20 cents a dozen they cost, for feed, about 10 cents a dozen, leaving a profit, over feed, of 10 cents for each dozen eggs. The pessimist now claims feed has doubled in cost while eggs have not doubled in price, hence there is no money in eggs. One big factor is overlooked. Eggs can increase only 50 per cent. in value, while feed is doubling in cost, and not materially change the profit per dozen eggs.

To make this clear take the example given. Let the feed cost double and the eggs will then cost 20 cents instead of 10 cents a dozen. If the price goes up only 50 per cent. they will be worth 30 cents a dozen instead of 20 cents. The eggs will still be produced at a profit over feed of 10 cents per dozen.

Taking the actual prices of eggs from the newspaper quotations to the farmers of Tippecanoe county for the past 36 months, taking the grain cost for the same period, using the prices paid to farmers, and figuring the amount of feed and number of eggs laid from accurate farm records on file in the Purdue University Poultry Department office, and further conclusive proof is given that hens are paying. For from October 1, 1914, to October 1, 1915, the profit per hen over feed was 76.1 cents; in 1915-16 it was 97.8 cents; and this past year of 1916-17 it was $1.31. Thirty-three cents per hen more profit this past year than the year before. Does this look as if hens did not pay?

During the period covered in the above figures the average yearly prices, taken from the daily papers of Lafayette, show that corn averaged 66 cents a bushel in 1914-15; 63.1 cents a bushel in 1915-16, and $1.21 a bushel in 1916-17. Wheat was $1.65 in 1914-15; $1.09 in 1915-16 and $1.97 in 1916-17.

These figures back up records from individual farms and prove conclusively that poultry does pay now. Furthermore they give the intelligent farmer every encouragement that poultry will pay this coming year. Eggs have gone up enough to more than care for the increased cost of feed, and all indications are that they will stay there.

In the face of such facts the farmer or poultryman who sells off producing hens, or who cuts down production by not feeding, is not only reducing the profits from a paying business, but is certainly unpatriotic. The culls, the over-fat hen, the old hens, the surplus males and the very late hatched pullets—these should be sold or eaten. But the early hatched pullets, and in many cases, the one or two year old hens must be kept.

The Poultry Department of Purdue University respectfully calls the attention of your committee to these matters, and requests that it do all in its power to encourage the keeping, not selling off, of good poultry. Yours very truly,

A. G. PHILIPS, Chief in Poultry.

LE ROY L. JONES, Extension Poultryman.

Women's Section

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense:

I trust you are making arrangements to have meetings during the county conference. I would advise morning meetings of women, one to two hours, say from 10 o'clock to 12, in which to discuss woman's work, and registration particularly. This would release the women for any special sectional meetings in the afternoon which they may desire to attend and which would be of value to them in their special committee work. Where it is possible we will have some prominent woman speak on woman's work for a few minutes in the evening, but it is not the intention of Mr. Hays to have the sections represented in the evening, as a prominent State man and a man from out of the State will give the two addresses.

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

* * * * *

Each county will be expected to furnish ten women speakers for the fourteen-minute woman's organization. Mrs. Henderson, who will be in charge of this phase of the activity, is particularly anxious that the best speakers who are patriotic enough to inform themselves and accept the assignments be in the organization. Demands for speakers from any county will be supplied as nearly as possible by members of the woman's fourteen-minute organization of that county.

* * * * *

TO PATRIOTIC STUDENTS.

Boys and girls of America are being urged to continue in school and to go on with the work of preparing for college and for intelligent and useful citizenship.

It is being pointed out that true patriotism calls not only for service in war time, but calls just as strongly for high-grade, educated, efficient and thoughtful citizenship.

Enclosed with a bulletin sent to chairmen of women's sections of the County Councils of Defense, Katherine Merrill Graydon, chairman of the women's committee for educational propaganda, State Council of Defense, sends a message from the Council of National Defense, from the Indiana Department of Education and the Indiana State Council of Defense, and this message is for the boys and girls of Indiana, urging them to stay in school and to intensify their industry in the necessary work of getting the best possible education. It is asked that this "Appeal to the Patriotism of Students" for increased school application shall be posted and generally used as an educational document. The bulletin follows:

"The Executive Committee of the Department of Education of the Indiana Council of Defense (woman's section) is sending to the county chairmen of the Department of Education this letter, using the form of a circular to economize in the time required to write in ninety-two names.

"Please them, consider this as a personal letter and be sure that your replies will be anxiously awaited and individually considered.

"The object of this committee is to strive to counteract the anti-war feeling and an existing apathy toward the war.

"The ignorance of women concerning the war is appalling—why we are in it, what it signifies, what we are trying to do, and the means we must use.

"How can the government expect every woman in America to do her part when there are thousands of them who do not yet really understand it, and when at the same time they are delayed with the most pernicious lies.

"Therefore, it is information—authoritative information and more of it that this committee seeks just now to spread. We make the following suggestions as a basis of work:

"1. We hope to send you soon a copy of a reading list of books and articles on Patriotism. We are anxious that this list shall be used in connection with English departments of schools of all grades; as literature, as subjects for compositions, and as material for declamation. Our object in presenting the list at this time is to impress upon the young people the meaning of the war and to turn their thoughts not only to questions of patriotism involved in our entrance into the conflict, but also to the world-wide point of view that must attend any successful, lasting solution of the whole tragedy of war.

"2. As another means to the same end, we believe that students of every school should listen at least once each term to a stirring address on patriotism or some subject pertaining to the cause for which the allies are fighting. We, therefore, ask that you will help to arrange and to place in the hands of the proper school officials a list of able speakers from your locality. We should like a copy of this list; should you be unable to secure speakers we may be able to help you.

"3. We enclose a copy of a self-explanatory Appeal to Students. We ask that you will have it conspicuously posted in different school houses and placed in the school and town papers. You may have as many copies as you need.

"4. We urge the forming of classes for the study of current topics and the vital questions of the war. Why we are at war and what winning it or losing it will mean to this country and to civilization. Such classes will do much to counteract the anti-war propaganda of alien enemies and peace-at-any-price friends—propaganda which disheartens our armies and, if continued, may make all sacrifices vain.

"In connection with classes, we mention clubs. There should be no assembly of women this winter that does not have some bearing upon the war. It is not necessary to picture always the horror of it, but it is necessary to make the meetings of women the means of spreading knowledge about the war and stimulating the right kind of feeling toward it.

"The committee offers assistance in the preparation of class and club programs. Your chairman will see that you are provided with official publications upon request.

"5. Watch your local papers. Are they giving your women the news and information about the war you ought to have? If not, see your local editors, and we feel sure you will find them glad to co-operate with you in publishing more information about the women's end of this war.

"6. If your county holds many of foreign birth, it is imperative that they be taught along lines for the making of American citizens—women as well as men. What Americanism really is should be taught as definitely and as effectively as once it was to the little Mary Antin in the Boston public schools. And she has told us, 'There are many Mary Antins here.' Let us find them.

"7. A series of addresses by noted speakers might be arranged through our committee for current topic classes, as mass meetings, or both, in towns willing to defray expenses or to charge a small entrance fee. In this way large numbers of people could be reached and, it is hoped, influenced to give whole-hearted, loyal effort to the government and the cause that MUST BE WON.

"If wise, you will constantly remind your women that this is everybody's war. Captain Kuyket, the Australian hero, called it 'A woman's war.' John Barrett said recently in Chicago: 'This war will be won or lost according to the attitude of the women of the country.' This is the opinion of the greatest statesmen and generals of England, France and Italy.

"This war work must be on a democratic basis, without selfishness or narrowness. There must be a true conception of what patriotism and service mean. It must be absolutely impossible for an American-born teacher, the daughter of American-born parents, to utter in Indiana, 'The Belgians ought to be thankful for the infusion of German blood.'

"Upon the activities mentioned above, the Chairman wishes definite information as to your interest and your willingness to co-operate.

"For any suggestions concerning this work she will be grateful. Keep her informed as to what you are doing. Sincerely yours,

"KATHERINE MERRILL GRAYDON,
"Chairman Committee on Educational Propaganda, State Council of Defense.
"303 Downey Ave., Indianapolis, Ind."

"Town to Trench"

The special committee of the State Council of Defense, of which A. W. Brady is chairman, submitted the following report on the "Town to Trench" movement, which was adopted and will constitute the policy of the State Council of Defense on this subject:

TO THE INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE:

Your committee appointed to consider the "Town to Trench" movement presented by Mr. James Edward Rogers, made an oral report some weeks ago, but was directed to continue its work with a view to the formulation of a practical plan to meet the situation presented by Mr. Rogers.

The matter of Mr. Rogers' communication was taken up with the War and Navy Commissions on Training Camp Activities, of which Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick is chairman, and also with the section on co-operation with the States of the Council of National Defense. Our purpose was to ascertain whether the plan proposed met the approval of the Federal authorities directly interested, and if not, to ascertain whether any other plan had been devised which those authorities recommended for adoption. A negative response was returned to both inquiries.

An essential feature of the plan proposed by Mr. Rogers was that the work of keeping in communication with the men of the army and navy be done through a committee or committees of women, the Women's League for Service being especially mentioned. A copy of Mr. Rogers' communication presenting his plan is attached as a part of this report.

Comment on a somewhat similar plan is found in the Official Bulletin of December 1, 1917, as follows:

"Neither the War Department nor the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense is furnishing names of soldiers for godmothering," says Mrs. Philip Moore, chairman of the health and recreation department of the woman's committee. She says that this practice has not been found to be practicable.

"MORE HARM THAN GOOD."

"While the War Department appreciates deeply the fine spirit in which the women are offering to write to soldiers at the front," says Mrs. Moore, "the experiences of France and England have proven that the plan ultimately works more harm than good. Gen. Siebert has recently issued a statement from France to this effect, showing his marked disapproval of the idea. We receive so many letters asking for the names of soldiers that a statement should be made through the press stating that we are not endorsing the plan. We have sent out to all our State committees a plan of organized work which is being done under the direction of the commission on training camp activities."

Your committee feels that the merits which the proposed plan would have in some instances are not sufficient to overcome the objections to it which would exist in many others, and therefore that they cannot recommend that the plan be adopted. Your committee regards it, however, as a matter of great consequence that every man in the military and naval service of the country be kept closely in touch with the people at home. Every such man should be kept aware of the fact that his home community is interested in his welfare, takes pride in his achievements, and is grateful to him as a defender against the common foe.

That this should be done is not merely performance of patriotic duty on the part of those who stay at home, but is also a powerful means of preserving the morale of our army and navy.

It is probably true that the relations and friends of far the greater number of the men in service will, through correspondence, gifts, the sending of newspapers, etc., keep those men thoroughly in touch with home. There is, however, another not inconsiderable portion of the men who by reason of their lack of near relatives or friends or of the indifference, neglect or ignorance of those they have will be distinguished by an absence of the letters and packages that mean much to one surrounded by strange faces, scenes and customs. A way to supply this deficiency should be found. Your committee recommends the following plan as simple and workable, although requiring intelligence, tact and industry to make it produce the desired results:

The first requisite is to have a complete register of all the men from each county in Indiana in the military and naval service. The second requisite is to provide the means for ascertaining the men requiring attention and of actually keeping in touch with them. These two phases of the subject are so closely related that they can probably be handled better by one committee than by two. Proceeding on that theory, the plan proposed is this:

1. Form a committee under the direction of the State Council to be called, say, "State Committee on Home Relations," which shall have general charge of carrying out the plan.

2. Form a local committee in each county under the direction of the County Council of Defense to be called, say, "County Committee on Home Relations," which shall have charge in its county of carrying out the plan, co-operating in so doing with the State committee. The committee should consist of at least one member from each township, and perhaps be supplemented by township committees where advisable.

3. The county committee should make a complete card catalogue of all men in military and naval service from its county. The preparation of such a catalogue involves the gathering of information from the records of the recruiting officers of the new national army and of the national guard, and from various other sources. The catalogue should show more than the mere names. It should contain reference to relations, close friends, church and lodge affiliations, vocation before entering the service, etc.

4. The careful investigation by the county committee of each of the names catalogued for the purpose of ascertaining which men do and which do not receive proper attention from home.

5. Select persons, preferably men, of good standing in the local community and properly qualified in judgment and tact, who will see that the man or men assigned to them, frequently receive letters, newspapers, and such other communications as will assure the man addressed that he is remembered and appreciated by the folks at home. Such persons should stand ready also to attend to such matters of business as the absent soldier or sailor may desire to have looked after.

6. Check up all work assigned once each month, at least, and replace all negligent representatives of the local committee with persons who will perform the duties assigned to them.

It will often be found that the persons to represent the committee may be procured through churches, lodges, or other organizations. The character of the communications sent is of great importance. We quote from a report of the Henry County Council of Defense, which is of especial value because of the experience of Capt. Albert D. Ogborn, one of its members in the Spanish-American war:

"All will agree that it is of first importance to keep the army clean and fit. To do this all citizens must keep constantly in mind the real welfare of the soldiers. 'We are our brothers' keepers' in this regard. In addition to the matters named it is equally necessary that everything it is possible to do be done to ward off discontent, depression, and resulting homesickness — the worst thing by all odds with which a soldier has to contend. A homesick army is not a victorious army; the army which reflects the soul of a mighty people is invincible. Neglect by friends of soldiers to write them frequent letters is bad, but it is infinitely worse to write doleful, over-sympathetic messages, or 'highfalutin' gush which tends to make a soldier think he is a hero with a halo before he has ever seen a German or fired a gun. Soldiers are just folks; a man's nature is not changed when he takes the soldier's oath of fealty and service. Cheerful letters should be written; none other; and they can be; there is always something to be thankful for. A soldier most enjoys hearing the intimate homely things which would be talked about if he were at home; not gush, nor mush, and certainly not moralizing."

A suggestion was made by Mr. Ade at one of the meetings of the council to the effect that in the local newspapers to be sent to the men in service there should be a letter addressed to them giving the items of local news ordinarily regarded as not of sufficient importance to appear in the news columns. That letter would tell of the weather, the crops and the thousand and one minor happenings of daily life which interest men far from home. We heartily commend the carrying out of this suggestion to the county committees which our plan contemplates.

Massachusetts and Connecticut have done much to keep a complete record of all men from those States in service. In Connecticut, at least, bulletins are erected throughout the State on which the names of the men in service are given. In Bartholomew county in this State a similar work is being done by Mr. Will G. Irwin. In Steuben county the County Council of Defense has not only undertaken the work of securing a complete register of the men in service from that county, but also that of seeing that letters are written much as proposed in this report. We have also been aided by a communication on the subject from Mr. J. O. Beck, of the Tippecanoe County Council of Defense.

THE TOWN TO TRENCH MOVEMENT.

(By James Edward Rogers.)

At the present time in Indiana there are numerous sporadic movements on foot to keep the soldier in the trench or the camp in touch with his home community. Among these are the "Sammy Backers," promoted by certain of the newspapers, various Christmas-present clubs organized by some of the churches, letter-writing groups among the women's clubs, and many others. Admirable as all these activities are in idea and in spirit, they suffer from two main objections: lack of proper organization and lack of adequate responsibility. Both of these lacks are so obvious as to need no argument. The lack of organization is especially harmful, as it leads in many cases to the very men being overlooked who are most in need of some tie to keep them bound to their home communities. It is the man of foreign birth, the man without relatives or without any social connections who will be overlooked. The lack of adequate responsibility will manifest itself in a lot of maudlin and pernicious sentimentalism that will in time shift over to the other extreme of absolute neglect.

A plan has been worked out and submitted to the State Council of Defense which it is believed will take care of the problem presented while at the same time escaping the objections mentioned above. Briefly this plan will place back of the soldier in his home town a responsible person who will see that he is furnished with home news, is provided with entertainment, is not forgotten at festival and holiday seasons, and who will act as a business representative. Mere letter writing is a very small part of this program.

Such a representative will furnish the soldier in the briefest possible time with home papers, magazines, pictures, cartoons, baseball scores, Easter cards, holiday remembrances, inexpensive and amusing little presents, and an occasional letter that will give the home-town bits of news that the soldier wants. The representative can also look after business matters, such as often arise suddenly in case of death in the family, transfers of property, etc. Such a representative is absolutely invaluable in cases where the parents or relatives are unable to write, and in cases where there are no home ties whatever.

The organization proposed is, briefly, as follows: The entire plan is to be handled by the State Council of Defense through its women's committee, who will make use of the organization, already perfected, of the Women's League for Service. The names and addresses of all soldiers absent on service will be furnished by the State Council of Defense. The names will be sent to the various County Councils and County Chairmen of the League for Service, who, in turn, will see that they are sent to the local chairmen of the League in the various communities represented. These local chairmen will appoint captains, say one for each letter of the alphabet, from the representative women of the community. Each one of these captains will distribute the names in her group among the responsible women of her acquaintance, not more than two or three names to each woman.

Such an organization is thorough, simple, representative and responsible. It will take care of every man. It is probable that the plan will be tried out locally in Indianapolis at once.

Merchants' Economy

Whereas, The National Council of Defense, through its committee, known as the National Economy Board, has at a conference of the National Economy Board and representatives of the State Councils of Defense of the different States east of the Mississippi, held in Washington, January 15, 1918, requested the State Councils of Defense to co-operate with the National Economy Board in bringing about reforms in the delivery of retail merchandise; and,

Whereas, The National Economy Board recommends that these reforms be as follows:

1. That delivery service in retail stores be restricted to not more than one delivery a day over each route.

2. That the time privilege for returning goods be restricted to not more than three days.

3. That special deliveries be eliminated as far as possible.

4. That the custom of sending goods on approval be discontinued.

5. That co-operative delivery systems should be introduced wherever practicable.

Whereas, This matter has already been referred by the Indiana State Council of Defense to a sub-committee, known as the Merchants' Economy Board of the State Council of Defense; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense authorize the Merchants' Economy Board to put into effect as soon as possible the above recommendations; and be it further

Resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense request the different County Councils of Defense in the State of Indiana to co-operate and assist the Merchants' Economy Board to bring about this result.

The above resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote by the Indiana State Council of Defense at its meeting, January 23. The resolution was introduced by A. E. Reynolds in behalf of the Merchants' Economy Section of the State Council. Mr. Reynolds, at the request of Chairman Will H. Hays, accompanied Ferd M. Ayres, Chairman of the Merchants' Economy Section, to Washington, where they attended a meeting of the National Economy Board. Here it developed, from statistics covering the subject, that immense possibilities exist for saving both in cost and man power from the reforms proposed. In a discussion of the matter considered by the conference, Mr. Reynolds stated that it had been shown that the cost per ton mile per railroad transportation in this country averages 34 cents, while cartage such as is required by retail merchandisers runs as high as 16 cents per ton mile. It was the sense of the State Council that the importance of this matter be impressed upon County Councils, who will be asked to co-operate to the best of their ability with the local representatives of the Merchants' Economy Section. Efforts of this section up to this time have been handicapped, the Council was informed, by the absence of definite suggestions as to the policy the government desires retailers to pursue in reference to the subject-matter in hand.

British Food Controller Rhondda declares: "The food position in England, and as I understand it, in France also, can now without any exaggeration be described as critical and anxious."

Enrollment in the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve for 1917

Census of boys enrolled in Indiana Division United States Boys' Working Reserve based on duplicate cards received in office of Federal State Director, Indianapolis:

By Counties.
County.	Divisional Number.	Quota.	Per Cent. of Quota Enrolled.
Adams .....	1	430	00
*Allen .....	2	210	121
Bartholomew ..	3	430	69
Benton .....	4	230	83
Blackford .....	5	290	28
Boone .....	6	450	40
Brown .....	7	100	00
Carroll .....	8	330	00
Cass .....	9	680	40
Clark .....	10	540	1
Clay .....	11	560	1
Clinton .....	12	480	31
Crawford .....	13	200	30
Daviess .....	14	480	58
Dearborn .....	15	390	74
Decatur .....	16	340	108
DeKalb .....	17	450	58
Delaware .....	18	1000	180
Dubois .....	19	290	33
Elkhart .....	20	900	203
Fayette .....	21	260	31
Floyd .....	22	540	5
Fountain .....	23	360	141
Franklin .....	24	270	49
Fulton .....	25	260	13
Gibson .....	26	650	12
Grant .....	27	920	12
Greene .....	28	630	4
Hamilton .....	29	490	13
Hancock .....	30	340	00
Harrison .....	31	290	407
Hendricks .....	32	300	150
Henry .....	33	630	16
Howard .....	34	600	9
Huntington .....	35	340	69
Jackson .....	36	400	55
Jasper .....	37	290	96
Jay .....	38	500	218
Jefferson .....	39	360	46
Jennings .....	40	230	23
Johnson .....	41	360	71
Knox .....	42	630	83
Kosciusko .....	43	500	10
Lagrange .....	44	270	70
†Lake .....	45	1350	221
Laporte .....	46	900	239
Lawrence .....	47	500	47
Madison .....	48	1500	00
*Marion .....	49	500	00
Marshall .....	50	400	46
Martin .....	51	220	6
Miami .....	52	530	6
Monroe .....	53	380	00
Montgomery .....	54	530	133
Morgan .....	55	350	8
Newton .....	56	180	35
Noble .....	57	440	456
Ohio .....	58	80	7
Orange .....	59	270	17
Owen .....	60	230	00
Parke .....	61	360	00
Perry .....	62	260	00
Pike .....	63	280	10
Porter .....	64	360	38
Posey .....	65	350	30
Pulaski .....	66	190	5
Putnam .....	67	370	97
Randolph .....	68	530	00
Ripley .....	69	350	37
Rush .....	70	350	00
*St. Joseph .....	71	400	12
Scott .....	72	140	32
Shelby .....	73	500	86
Spencer .....	74	340	00
Starke .....	75	160	9
Steuben .....	76	310	77
Sullivan .....	77	530	708
Switzerland .....	78	180	6
Tippecanoe .....	79	800	3

Tipton .....	80	300	52	17
Union .....	81	150	42	28
*Vanderburgh ..	82	80	2	02
Vermilion .....	83	350	32	09
*Vigo .....	84	250	140	56
Wabash .....	85	500	11	02
Warren .....	86	200	3	01
Warrick .....	87	360	18	05
Washington .....	88	280	23	08
Wayne .....	89	800	00	00
Wells .....	90	360	6	02
White .....	91	300	18	06
Whitley .....	92	310	49	16

*Exclusive of enrollment in county seat.
†Exclusive of Gary.

BY CITIES.

Additional to number enrolled in respective counties:
Evansville .....	93	1450	142
Ft. Wayne .....	94	1450	130
Gary .....	95	700	98
Terre Haute .....	96	1400	377
South Bend .....	97	1200	8
Indianapolis .....	98	5300	208

Grand total enrollment for entire State during 1917, 6,690.

Quota for State, 50,000.

Percentage of quota enrolled, 13.

Many cards were received too late to include in this report. In some counties new directors have lately taken charge of the enrollment and have not had sufficient time to make much progress. In other counties the delay in traffic and mails caused by the blizzard, as well as the closing of schools, has prevented the local directors from securing cards of boys who have enrolled from the various enrolling officers.

It is regretted that the actual enrollments secured in certain counties cannot be given in full in this report, owing to the failure of local directors to forward duplicate enrollment cards to the office of the State Director. It is understood in Washington that any report of enrollment which is rendered shall be supported by duplicate cards actually on file in the office of the Federal State Director at Indianapolis.

Samuel Gompers in Address to Council

Head of Labor in America Tells of His Purpose in Helping to Assure Victory in War.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and a member of the Advisory Committee of the Council of National Defense, was a visitor at the meeting of the State Council, January 23. Mr. Gompers was in Indianapolis for the purpose of addressing the convention of miners. He said, in part, to the council:

"I am serving to the best of my ability. My one regret is that I cannot fight. We must each take our place and serve as best we can where we are best fitted to serve. Congressman Gardner's overzealousness to get to the trenches lost to our country the services of a great man. I am doing my level best without restraint, without stint. I am having some success in appealing to our working people to give their whole hearts and souls to support our country. There exists no group of citizens as well organized as the workmen. They are three and three-quarter millions in the unions of America, and the movement is growing. Notwithstanding war and its counteraction on them, the unions have gained three-quarters of a million since war began.

"In behalf of labor in the national army, I designed the compensation law for soldiers and sailors, applied along the lines of the workmen's compensation in industrial pursuits. The justice of this feature of our army regulations is now recognized by army men and leaders in civil pursuits everywhere.

"I am informed the result of this war depends as much on production and transportation as it does upon the furnishing of the men in the trenches. If we are to get the best from the workers for a long period, we must not permit them to suffer from the poison of industrial fatigue. If we will have the second day's work as good as the first, it must be because the workmen are in fit condition. I hope the necessity will not come to suspend either the laws or the standards under which our people have been laboring, but should the emergency come, when a great drive is necessary, then fatigue counts for nothing. Life itself counts for nothing. The safety of the republic and her ideals are first—they count for everything. I had preferred that the decree shutting down industrial activity every Monday for several weeks be deferred. A holiday from Saturday to Tuesday is not conducive to increased production or the morale of our people. Daylight saving, in line with the same provision, would make for conservation and would do more to stabilize work and commerce, than an additional holiday in the week. I find an antipathy on the part of some employers to take council with labor. I want the workers of the country to give their very souls, if necessary, that we can win. I want their employers to take them into council, to advise with them, be fair with them, if we are to work shoulder to shoulder and fight with all in our power, to make an assured triumph, to secure the things for which we are fighting."

Following Mr. Gompers, Chairman Hays made the following expression:

"Mr. Gompers, I know I express the unanimous mind and heart of the council when I say to you, as I do, that we very greatly appreciate your coming over here, and we thank you for that, and for what you have said.

"It is the very mature judgment of this council that the matter of labor is the greatest problem in the country—entirely so—in connection with the conduct of the war. We recognize that your position and potentiality in the situation is second to no man's—the greatest element in the matter entirely.

"Now, we trust, we pray, Mr. Gompers, that you may have that characteristic breadth of vision and keenness of mind and strength of arm that will enable you to go forward and carry this burden, and do this great service which you are doing, and which we know that you will continue to do, and when you have finished, you will not only be the Grand Old Man of Labor, but by reason of these distinguished services, you will be the Grand Old Man of America! We thank you very sincerely for coming here and addressing the Council this morning."

Lake Division Knitting.

Already more than 119,000 knitted articles have been sent by the Red Cross to cantonments and barracks in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, Manager James R. Garfield of the Lake division announced today.

The items have been as follows:

Sweaters, 71,580; socks, (pairs) 37,260; helmets, 3,076; wristlets, (pairs) 4,290; scarfs, 3,704.

Of these articles 64,962 have gone to Camp Sherman, the largest cantonment in the division. Camp Taylor has received 35,446; Fort Benjamin Harrison, 10,580; Fort Thomas, 7,322 and Camp Wright, 1,690. Figures for the Columbus Barracks were not available when these figures were compiled. The Lake division has, of course, made large shipments of knitted goods to troops abroad.

Larger quantities of knitted helmets are much in demand in all camps and barracks.

The Patriotic Sheep.

I am a patriotic sheep.

I did my bit, and (damme!)

Although I grew my soft, warm wool

Expressly for a Sammy,

A lady bought it, I have heard

(And may the foul fiends get her!)

She took my patriotic wool

And made herself a sweater!

FRANCES MORRISON.

"People who think the mere possession of money entitles them to eat what they want when they want it, are among the worst enemy influences in our midst."—CHAS. FOX, President Indiana State Federation of Labor.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

FEB 5

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., FEBRUARY 1, 1918

Number 25

Council Encourages Production of Sheep

Action Includes Proposed Campaign Against Stray Dogs, Which Are Very Destructive.

The importance of encouraging the production of sheep for wool and food purposes was presented to the Indiana State Council of Defense at its meeting January 30 by the special committee consisting of Frank Wampler, George Ade and J. L. Keach. After hearing a report of the meeting and conclusions of men interested, at Purdue university, the committee recommended the following resolutions, which were adopted:

"Resolved, That the report of the transactions of the meeting held at Purdue on January 26 between the Sheep Breeders' Association, representatives of Purdue university, the office of State veterinarian, the United States Bureau of Animal Industry and the Live Stock Distribution Association of Indiana be accepted and approved.

"Resolved further, That the State Council of Defense appoint a committee of five to co-operate with individuals and organizations interested in the distribution of sheep in the State of Indiana, and aid in other practical ways in such work. County councils of defense should be instructed by the chairman of the State Council to co-operate with county agents in the appointment of local committees on sheep production and distribution."

In accordance with the resolution a committee was named as follows: Frank Wampler, J. L. Keach, Will G. Irwin, William Holton Dye and Jesse Andrews. The last two are not members of the council, but have been active in encouraging the production of sheep on Indiana farms.

Schuyler Mercer, State senator from Miami county, and Jesse Andrews, a farmer of near West Point, Ind., appeared before the council asking assistance in relieving the menace of the stray dog from the sheep raising industry. The council appointed a committee consisting of E. M. Wilson, J. L. Keach and Isaac D. Straus to assist in preparing a report and recommendation on the subject to a later meeting of the council. Senator Mercer stated that statistics had been compiled to show that 9,000 sheep, valued at $68,000 and bearing 70,000 pounds of "sadly needed wool" had been destroyed by stray dogs in Indiana in 1917.

A resolution relative to the investigation of the war department was read to the council by J. L. Keach, who moved its adoption. There being no second to the motion it was declared lost. On motion of A. W. Brady, seconded by Charles Fox, the resolution was referred to a special committee consisting of A. W. Brady, Dr. Charles P. Emerson and Evans Woollen.

Bert Hendren, Jr., of the speakers' bureau, reported arrangements for speaking at 76 county war conferences. Several had been canceled or postponed, he said, because of impassable roads and adverse weather conditions. In such instances, where it was found possible, meetings were arranged in county seat towns at night, which had been found successful.

The report of the finance committee covering the months of November and December, 1917, were read and approved. They appear elsewhere in this Bulletin.

The matter of the advisability of printing patriotic documents for distribution over the State was referred to the publicity committee.

The report of the special committee on policy, which appears elsewhere in this Bulletin, was read and approved. In the discussion Mr. Irwin called attention to the English policy of saving by refraining from the purchase of unnecessary articles and exporting them.

No formal report was made on the suggested resolution asking the Council of National Defense to support the daylight saving bill, now pending in Congress. The committee reported a division, Mr. Ade and Mr. Emerson favoring the action and Mr. Fox opposing it, and further time for consideration of a recommendation was granted.

The importance of every county council of defense naming a committee for the censorship of solicitation of funds, alleged to be for war purposes, was presented by Chairman Will H. Hays, who stated that he had directed another bulletin to county chairman urging that they take the steps asked by the Council of National Defense and the State Council so that the public may be protected against fraudulent solicitations, which, he said, are growing more frequent.

Because it was feared there might be duplication of the work of the American Red Cross Society the committee on censoring solicitations reported that it had withheld indorsement of the Italian relief solicitation now being conducted in Indianapolis and for which a testimonial for use in the State was asked.

Mr. Ade reported the organization of a moving picture section, headed by Robert Lieber, of Indianapolis. This section will prepare programs of the moving picture films purchased by the State Council at the recommendation of the Council of National Defense from the committee on public information. As soon as the pictures are received they will be distributed through the chairmen of the county councils of defense.

Mr. Ade's suggestion that the county councils be requested to ask the boys in the army, from their communities, where grouped, to designate one of their number as a correspondent who will be asked to write to a correspondent the council will name, in order that the line of communication may be kept intact between the soldiers and their home folks, was approved by the State Council and the idea will be communicated through official channels.

To Herbert Hoover, Washington, D. C.

(By Telegram January 26, 1918.)

I have read with great interest the cablegram from Lord Rhonda, food controller of Great Britain, in which he points out the imperative need for our sending our associates in the war, 75,000,000 bushels of wheat over and above our export to them to January 1 and in addition to what surplus may be available from Canada. With this I am seriously concerned. I read also your encouraging and inspiring reply. Will you permit me at this time, in full appreciation of the magnitude of this task and the obligation involved to assure you that Indiana stands ready and willing to do her full share. Our farmers will plant an increased acreage in anticipation of the demand for greater production; our people will be no less willing when the truth is brought home to them, to make the individual and personal sacrifices, which as you point out are essential if the emergency is to be met.

JAMES P. GOODRICH,
Governor of Indiana.

To make your grange meetings and farmers' institutes thoroughly patriotic; heat the hall with wood instead of coal.

Finance Committee

Reports from the finance committee of the Council were received and approved at the meeting, January 30, as follows:

Indianapolis, Ind., November 30, 1917.

To the State Council of Defense:

We submit the following statement of receipts and disbursements for the month of November, 1917:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand October 31, 1917.....	$1,655.26
Loan from Fletcher Savings and Trust Co., November 6.....	5,000.00
Loan from Fletcher Savings and Trust Co., November 30.....	2,000.00
Total .....	$8,655.26

DISBURSEMENTS.

Postage .....	$ 520.00
Pay roll, October-November..	3,406.89
Extra services .....	17.70
Reporting meetings .....	193.38
Traveling expenses .....	224.95
Telephone and telegraph.....	474.20
Printing and stationery.....	1,233.76
Office equipment .....	242.10
Office supplies .....	566.66
Miscellaneous .....	35.00
Balance .....	1,740.62—$8,655.26

Correct:

(Signed) JOHN VAJEN WILSON, Asst. Sec.,
JOHN E. REED, Deputy Auditor.

Respectfully,

(Signed) EVANS WOOLLEN,
WILLIAM G. IRWIN,
ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Finance Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 30, 1917.

To the State Council of Defense:

We submit the following statements of receipts and disbursements for the month of December, 1917:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand November 30, 1917...	$ 1,740.62
December 14—Deposited in State Treasury to the credit of the State Council of Defense Fund by the governor	10,000.00
December 20—Deposited in State Treasury to the credit of the State Council of Defense Fund by the governor	90,000.00
Total .....	$101,740.62

DISBURSEMENTS.

Postage .....	$ 645.00
Pay roll .....	1,970.30
Extra services .....	120.60
Reporting meetings .....	270.45
Traveling expenses .....	95.92
Telephone and telegraph...	67.80
Printing and stationery...	819.27
Office supplies .....	12.35
Miscellaneous .....	287.50
Balance .....	$97,451.43

$101,740.62

Correct:

(Signed) JOHN VAJEN WILSON, Asst. Sec.,
JOHN E. REED, Deputy Auditor.

Respectfully,

(Signed) EVANS WOOLLEN,
WILLIAM G. IRWIN,
ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Finance Committee.

There is no closed season for rat-killing.

Patriotism in Indiana

Newton County.—Spring labor on farms, to be supplied so far as possible by boys who are now in school, presents one of the problems of the war period which now is being worked out in Newton county on practical lines. County Superintendent W. O. Schanlaub of the Newton county schools has instructed country school teachers that they may hold school sessions Saturdays, excepting that Saturday of the month set aside for teachers' institutes, the extra sessions to be employed in making up work so as to enable the schools to dismiss the spring term early and release the young planters who will be badly needed on the land which is to produce war supplies for America and her associates in the great war. However, the Saturday sessions are not to be put in effect unless 75 per cent. of the patrons in a school district favor the plan. Another practical plan for releasing boy and girl power for useful work at home is in use in Newton county, where, up to February 13, a half hour only is taken at noon and the schools dismiss at 3:30 p. m. Kentland schools, beginning January 19, are holding Saturday sessions, and it is expected the plan will release 160 boys several days earlier than usual.

Noble County.—The town of LaOtto and Avilla, Noble county, have made a remarkable record in the sale of war thrift certificates and war savings stamps. The workers in this campaign in these towns now are especially active, as they have received word recently that Whitestown, in Boone county, has forged ahead in the patriotic rivalry which is to induce a majority of residents to invest in the $5 certificates and the 25-cent war savings stamps. The Boone county town properly boasts of selling in half the month of January, to a population of 900, $7,300 worth of war time thrift savings stamps. This sum represents almost half the annual quota of the community.

Orange County.—Merchants of Paoli, Orleans, West Baden and French Lick all are closing at 6 p. m. to assist in the patriotic work of saving fuel. The Orange County Council of Defense is getting good results from an advisory campaign to induce the people of the county to use wood in place of coal for fuel. The Orange county war conference is set for February 9, to be at Paoli. It is expected that the greatest patriotic demonstration ever held in Orange county will result.

Owen County.—Spencer folk now living in Indianapolis, members of the "Spencer Club" at that city, recently sent $10 to the Spencer shop of the Red Cross for war work. At a recent auction in Spencer a cake contributed by two members of the White Bethel church was bought for $7 by A. S. McBride, the money going to the Red Cross. At the same time two pounds of honey were sold for $2, the honey being recontributed and resold for $1, all for the Red Cross. In an effort to conserve fuel the Owen County Council of Defense, through David E. Beem, chairman, recently published a newspaper notice urging the people to put an end to the practice of permitting faucets to flow water, the custom being responsible for the use of extra fuel by the water company. In issuing the coal-saving notice Mr. Beem was joined by L. B. Williams, fuel administrator for Owen county. Owen county women are organizing for systematic war work under the direction of the women's section of the County Council of Defense. Led by Mrs. J. H. Smith, the following committee chairmen now are busy with organization activities on lines suggested by the women's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense: Enrollment and Women's Service, Mrs. T. H. Cochran; Food Production, Mrs. E. E. McCord; Home Economics, Mrs. Perry McIntosh; Child Welfare, Mrs. T. G. Pierson; Food Conservation, Mrs. O. F. Gray; Liberty Loan, Miss Ura Sanders; Red Cross and Child Relief, Mrs. D. W. Beach; Educational Propaganda, Mrs. Willis Holliman; Publicity, Miss Myrtle Griffin. The following women were appointed "Fourteen Minute Speakers" for the county: Mrs. Bessie Strain, Gosport; Mrs. Dale Stiffler, Freedom; Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. Willis Holliman, Miss Jessie Mead, Mrs. N. D. Cox, Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Spencer; Miss Chloe Chambers, Patricksburg; Mrs. Frank Mugg, Quincy. These women will prepare fourteen-minute speeches, presenting the work of the different organizations in the war and deliver talks when called on.

Parke County.—Under the direction of F. H. Nichols, chairman of the Parke County Council of Defense, quick action was taken by patriotic citizens of the county in holding an "echo meeting" locally to carry forward the instructive and helpful work started at the State-wide war conference. Rev. W. R. Graham presented in a stimulating way the demand for Red Cross membership hustling, and good results were obtained. Mrs. Fred Leatherman made a fine report, showing an immense work done by Red Cross workers in the county. Channing R. Dooley of the Council of National Defense was one of the speakers. A. H. Stark spoke of the war savings stamp campaign and the part the small investor is to have in winning the war. Mrs. Juliet V. Strauss reported on the publicity section of the State-wide war conference. T. F. Gaebler, speaking of the work of the fuel administration, was one of the features of the meeting. Mrs. R. Dooley presented the work of food substitution and conservation and discussed the important part women have in war activities back of the lines. Rev. C. D. Royce, county food administrator, spoke briefly, declaring his purpose to enforce the law as to food price regulation and the observance of the rules laid down by the government for the war period. Mr.

Royce told of a citizen who, having succeeded improperly in buying and hoarding forty pounds of sugar, would be compelled to divide his stock with his neighbors who could not get sugar. He reported hearty cooperation by dealers with the food administration.

Putnam County.—Farmers in Putnam county have been observing very generally the fuel administration's instructions to use wood in place of coal for fuel in the period of coal shortage. H. H. Ellis, fuel director for the county, early in the fuel emergency, published a notice to the effect that he had sent notice to all coal dealers to refrain from selling coal to persons who were in a position to get wood for fuel. Fincastle, in this county, a town of 100 population, has two Red Cross classes actively at work turning out a large quantity of materials and supplies. The surgical dressing classes are led by Miss Edna Guilleams and Miss Winona Petty. The Putnam County Council of Defense, in co-operation with Greencastle grocers, has brought about the adoption of a system under which deliveries are limited to one delivery a day. Camp Fire Girls at Rosedale are knitting for soldiers and have started a "war chest." One hundred men are in the Rosedale Home Guard organization, with H. B. Israel as captain, T. H. Young as first lieutenant, John Case as second lieutenant and James Burford as first sergeant. The business affairs of the command are in the hands of a committee as follows: Joseph Cline, George Ippenlatz and Clyde Rice.

Randolph County.—The Red Cross Shop at Winchester, Randolph county, recently realized $8.21 from the sale of junk. The Woman's Club donated $5 to the shop. Forty-six workers have been engaged in the surgical dressings department. The work is growing steadily throughout the county. J. E. Hinsbaw, who led the campaign in Randolph county for the Liberty loan, has been strongly commended because of the effective drive made by his organization, which showed $652,450 subscribed in the county, where the minimum quota was $30,000. Carl Puckett, chairman of the Randolph County Council of Defense, and Mrs. L. Ella Clark, of the woman's section of the council, some weeks ago started a local effort to place before the young women of the county the call for stenographers and typists at Washington, where the women are needed for war work. There has been a large response to the call in the county. A. L. Hodgson, county agent of Randolph county, in a public statement addressed to the women of the county, suggests that while home-canned food-stuffs cannot be used by the soldiers, the home folk can use home-canned products and thus release the factory-canned goods for the army and navy. He suggests that those who did not put up vegetables and fruits last season buy of such neighbors as have on hand an excess of preserved products. Merchants, clerks and citizens generally, at Farmland, Randolph county, are employing the Monday holidays in wood-chopping bees. Every heatless Monday these organized patriotic wood-cutters prepare several cords of wood to be used in place of coal for fuel in an effort to help surmount the fuel shortage. At a recent session of the Randolph County Council the sum of $200 was appropriated for the County Council of Defense to be used in paying expenses incurred in carrying on war work.

Ripley County.—Osgood branch of the Red Cross recently made a splendid report on the work done by the organization up to the first of the year. The branch started last August under Mrs. J. S. Bilby. Among other things the women of the community have knit more than 100 pairs of socks for Ripley county soldiers, in addition to a large quantity of Red Cross materials and knit goods, including sweaters, and the like. Henry L. Walsman, county fuel administrator for Ripley county, early in the winter urged the people to cut and use wood for fuel in place of coal, and took a firm public stand against short cords sold by some farmers who hauled wood to market. One warning was sufficient. A war savings society recently was organized by the employees of the Hillenbrand Company at Batesville. Ripley county. John Schwartz presided at the first meeting. Professor E. L. Rickert of Connersville presented the war thrift certificate and savings stamp plan and urged the workers to invest in the savings plan and enable their savings to help the government finance the war. Thrift cards were asked for by 237 employees and the drive has reached more than 300. John Schwartz is president of the organization, with Mike Werneke vice-president and William Greeman secretary-treasurer.

Rush County.—The old-time spinning wheel, for use in spinning and carding wool, is being carried down from Rush county garrets and set in motion to produce yarn to meet a possible later shortage in yarn at the local Red Cross shop. Several women who own old-fashioned apparatus for home spinning have forehandedly got their wheels ready and are working on emergency supplies on lines laid down by the grandmothers. Hartwell Coons of Rushville, aged ten, was the first purchaser of a war savings certificate in Rush county. Young Coons is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Coons. His brother, Lester Coons, is with the headquarters company in the 139th artillery at Hattiesburg. Hartwell Coons believes in backing that soldier brother to the limit. Miss Anna Bohannon of Rushville, a volunteer, has become a worker in the food administration, her duty being to make periodical reports to the food administration as to prices charged for foodstuffs in Rush county.

St. Joseph County.—South Bend last year had 497 vacant lot, patriotic gardens, and these war gardens produced foodstuffs worth $10,000. Work now is being pushed on the 1918 campaign for a large increase in the number of gardens, in the productivity of the plots and in the total value realized from the crops. More than 4,500 homes were concerned in the war garden movement of 1917 in South Bend. Prizes were awarded in a gardening contest last year. Eighty judges were required to handle the vast problem of picking the winners. War savings certificates were given to 400 employees of the South Bend Watch Company as Christmas gifts from the company. Mishawaka sent 318 holiday boxes to soldiers in many camps. The Red Cross workers, led by Mrs. M. W. Mix, had charge of the work of filling and sending the boxes, the gifts being from all citizens. Including packets sent abroad, 359 Mishawaka soldiers were remembered. Mrs. Mix was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Ahara, Mrs. Robert Robertson, Mrs. T. W. Kenyon, Mrs. Fred Bingham, Miss Geraldine O'Neill, Miss Grace Clark and Miss Helen Weber.

Shelby County.—The Shelbyville company of the active State militia is working to obtain an enrollment of 100. At a recent meeting sixty-seven men were sworn in, and the membership now is more than eighty-five. Dr. Wray DePrez is captain, with Frank Pagel first lieutenant and Russell Hillgoss as second lieutenant. Dr. Bayard G. Keeney is examining surgeon for the command. Washington township, Shelby county, has organized a Township Council of Defense on lines similar to those laid down in the formation of the County Council of Defense. The purpose is to maintain in the township a permanent and continuing active organization to have charge of drives for war funds and for war purposes of various sorts. All adult citizens of the township belong to the Township Defense Council. Included in the organization are some thirty-three "drivers" for campaign work. Each driver has certain territory and carries a book in which are the names of all persons in his field of operations. Tab is to be kept on all citizens as for their contributions or slackness. Saloonkeepers at Shelbyville, in a recent meeting with Elmer Bassett, fuel director for Shelby county, agreed to close at 10 p. m. four nights a week and to open at 7 in the mornings, as a fuel-saving measure.

Starke County.—Starke county is to have a double-barreled county war conference February 7, the afternoon meeting to be at Knox and the night session at North Judson. L. E. Bernethy has enlisted citizens from all parts of the county to assist in making the conference a huge success. The North Judson News reports that according to Dr. G. B. Corbitt, chairman for Wayne township, Starke county, in the Red Cross membership drive, 277 members were signed up in that township. The record is being pointed out as a good one.

Steuben County.—A committee has been appointed by the Steuben County Council of Defense to serve as a committee on soldiers' welfare, the duty of the committee being to keep a record of the soldiers and sailors from the county and to see that the men are remembered by the folk back home from time to time. The chairman is John Humphreys and secretary Miss Linda Pence.

Sullivan County.—Mrs. Lura Bollinger has been made chairman at Shelbyburg, Sullivan county, of the work of the women's section of the County Council of Defense. Mrs. Flossie Steele of Sullivan, county chairman of the women's section, recently spoke on the work of women in the war at a meeting of the Woman's Research Club at Shelbyburg at the home of Mrs. George Lindsey. Mrs. Ralph Wagner at the same meeting discussed war time food conservation in the home. The Research Club has bought yarn and is knitting for Shelbyburg soldiers in the camps. The club also gives one day each week to Red Cross duty and the members are enlisting new workers in the Red Cross service. The Sullivan Franchise League claims the distinction of raising the first war fund, with the Woman's Research Club of Shelbyburg second. The need for knit goods for the soldiers has been emphasized recently and a direct appeal has been made to all Sullivan county clubs and to members of lodges and fraternities to get busy knitting for the soldiers. Sullivan schools, which released boys for conhusking duty last fall, are planning to give the boys a chance to help with the spring planting this year on Sullivan county farms. Superintendent Vance and Principal Youngblood are actively interested, and farmers who can use husky boys in spring work are getting in touch with these school men. The boys who get away for this war duty must be well up in their school work.

Switzerland County.—The Vevay Enterprise maintains a campaign for funds with which to supply tobacco to the soldiers in France. In a recent issue the Enterprise carried a statement written by Division Manager James R. Garfield of the Red Cross in which Mr. Garfield takes the position that it is only common sense to take counsel of the experience of the allies and their soldiers in providing for American soldiers at the front. Mr. Garfield further calls attention to the fact that a majority of the people apparently have no objections against furnishing tobacco for the soldiers, particularly under the trying conditions of war and trench service. "It is a fact," according to the Garfield statement, "that tobacco is a great comfort and joy to the men."

Truth and Facts.

The Tipton County Council of Defense has found but one German book in the Tipton city library. It is called "The Book of Truth and Facts." If it is a book of truth and facts it surely can't be a German book.—Kokomo Tribune.

Women's Section

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle directs the attention of Indiana women to the statement of Harvey D. Gibson, general manager of the American Red Cross, as published in The Official Bulletin, setting forth the importance of women continuing to knit for soldiers. Although there is no evidence to indicate that Indiana women are remiss as to this duty, it is Mrs. Carlisle's desire that they understand fully the importance that attaches to their co-operation by the national organization. Mr. Gibson says:

"The Red Cross knows that the soldiers and sailors want sweaters and other knitted articles. These goods can be obtained from the Red Cross in single garments only upon individual request; or if in bulk, then upon the request of a commanding officer. How great the need is best evidenced by the fact that in addition to the hundreds of thousands of knitted articles produced by our Red Cross chapters in the last few months we have been compelled to purchase 550,000 extra sweaters alone to meet the insistent demand made upon us by our men for them.

"We are sorry that we had to do any purchasing at all because we know how much the soldiers and sailors of this country prefer the sweaters and other articles knitted by the women of this country.

"It may be understood further that in addition to the demands of our army and navy we have very urgent demands from commissions abroad for like articles for destitute civilian populations.

"It is hoped that this general statement will satisfy the women of this country who have been devoting all their possible time to knitting for our men. We can not too strongly urge all women who are now knitting to keep on knitting."

The "Fourteen-Minute" women, of which Mrs. Julia C. Henderson is chairman, received their final instructions for their part in the county war conferences at a meeting held in the state house January 24, at which Mrs. Henderson presided. Dr. H. E. Barnard, Federal food administrator for Indiana, and J. J. Pettijohn, of the State speakers' bureau, addressed the women, and Mrs. A. B. Cook, secretary of the registration committee, of which Miss Julia E. Landers is chairman, explained the registration of women for war service.

Mrs. Julia C. Henderson, Chairman of the "Fourteen Minute Women," has assigned the following speakers for the second week of the County War Conferences, beginning February 4:

Mrs. J. W. Torrance, of Evansville, will speak at the Dubois County Conference.

Miss Eleanor Barker, of Indianapolis, will speak at conferences in Lagrange, Dekalb, Clark and Sullivan counties.

Mrs. E. M. Dawson, of Evansville, will speak at Posey county.

Mrs. Jessie Croan, of Anderson, will speak at the Randolph county conference.

Mrs. Olaf Guldin, of Ft. Wayne, at Steuben county.

Mrs. E. J. Robison, of Indianapolis, at the Wayne and Clinton county conferences.

Mrs. T. P. Overman, of Indianapolis, at the Crawford county and Harrison county conferences.

Mrs. Albert Rabb of Indianapolis, at Spencer and Warren counties.

Miss Elizabeth Cowan of Purdue University, at Vanderburgh, Miami, Floyd and Pulaski counties.

Mrs. Frank Felter of Huntington, Indiana, at Whitley county conference.

Mrs. H. E. Barnard of Indianapolis, at Fayette county.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon of Evansville, Ind., at Gibson county.

Mrs. T. J. Moll of Indianapolis, at Hamilton county.

Dr. Amelia R. Keller of Indianapolis at Boone county.

Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke of Indianapolis, at Decatur county and Newton county.

Mrs. H. D. Tutewiler of Indianapolis at Shelby county.

Mrs. E. H. Culbertson of Indianapolis, at Starke county.

Miss Belle O'Hair of Indianapolis, at Franklin county and Union county.

Miss Anna Locke of Indianapolis at Jackson and Washington counties.

Mrs. Edward Ferger of Indianapolis at Scott county.

Miss Margaret Holland of Vincennes at Orange county.

Professor Mary Matthews of Purdue University, is also attending many of the conferences.

* * * * *

Signed "Pershing."

A cablegram received at the War Department for Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman woman's committee, Council of National Defense, shows what the American army in France thinks of the woman power of America:

"All ranks of the American Expeditionary Force unite in heartfelt thanks to the women of America for their love and their prayers. The patriotism of our incomparable women, than whom there are no others more noble, shall be our constant inspiration until the great capital task which has been entrusted to us shall be accomplished. Accept our best wishes for the coming year and our firm confidence in our final success.—PERSHING."

Food Administration

Important New Food Rules.

"Beginning January 28, 1918, the Food Administration asks all individuals and all hotels, restaurants and boarding houses to observe:

- "1. Wheatless Monday.
- "2. Wheatless Wednesday.
- "3. One wheatless meal every day.
- "4. Meatless Tuesday.
- "5. Porkless Saturday.
- "6. One meatless meal every day.
- "7. Save fats and sugar every day.

"Wheatless now means to use no wheat in bread, crackers, pastry, breakfast food or anything, except the small amount necessary to thicken soup or gravy or to bind cornbread or other cereal breads.

"Meatless means no beef, pork, mutton, veal or lamb, in any form, fresh or preserved, and no bacon, ham or lard.

"Porkless means to use no fresh or salted pork, bacon, ham or lard in any form."

* * * * *

The Indiana food administrator frowns upon any violation of the wheatless and meatless regulations to accommodate farm sales' crowds, even though the violation is made by church societies, who say "it is impossible to cook beforehand substitutes for meat, pies and bread, that usually feature these menus." This information came from Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, in reply to an inquiry from Mrs. Thomas A. Henby of Cambridge City, Ind.

* * * * *

The use of lamb and mutton in preference to exportable meats, except on meatless days, is advocated by the United States food administration.

Shippers and storage house proprietors who hold eggs longer than twenty days because of unwillingness to accept prevailing prices are classed as speculators and will be liable to the penalties of the food control law. This is in accordance with an agreement entered into between the food administration and important egg dealers.

Effective February 15 live stock and poultry feeds come under the supervision of the United States food administration in addition to bran, cotton seed products and other staple commodities already so controlled. Dealers, manufacturers, warehouse men or distributors must have license to legally handle forty-four (44) classified feeds, covering the entire list now in general use.

Indiana farmers are asked to move any and all wheat they have over and above seeding requirements. Herbert Hoover, federal food administrator, urges county agents, county councils of defense and others to assist in this movement. Mr. Hoover points out that nothing can be gained from continued holding of wheat, inasmuch as the fixed price of $2.20 per bushel, Chicago, for 1917 crop, will continue.

With the average cost of wheat per bushel $2.20, a ton of wheat is worth $73.33. The miller, therefore, under the new regulations of the milling division of the federal food administration, is entitled to receive for his bran $27.37 per ton, for shorts $29.87, for mixed feeds $31.87, for flour middlings $36.87, and for Red Dog $42.87.

Indiana grocers report savings from the "cash and carry" plan being adopted generally by members of their organization, on the recommendation of the food administration.

In some instances, notably Bluffton, a schedule of prices for delivery of merchandise was agreed to, with the result of an appreciable decrease in the price of staples. In Bloomington, where it was found the net cost of delivery was 8 cents, a proportionate saving has been passed on to consumers, who now carry their groceries.

County food administrators are given authority to determine the need of wholesale and retail dealers in foodstuffs closing at noon on Mondays during the period covered by the Garfield order—January 28 to March 25. They are authorized by instructions from Washington to co-operate with the local fuel administrators and adjust any differences of opinion as to existing needs.

An executive committee of Indiana bakers, including Frank Middleton, Marion; W. P. Walsh, Evansville; W. R. Thomas, Auburn; H. C. Gove, Elkhart; J. F. Rugar, Lafayette; C. W. Miller, Terre Haute; C. P. Ehler, Indianapolis, and A. L. Taggart, Indianapolis, will co-operate with Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, in solving any problems that may arise affecting the bakery business. H. C. Gove is making a tabulation of costs, which will be a guide to price regulations. Every county food administrator is expected to appoint a representative baker to act with the food administration in carrying out the regulations.

Wanted—Veterinarians—Apply to U. S. Army.

The surgeon general of the army authorizes the following:

Authority has been granted for the enlistment of 2,000 specially selected men for the Enlisted Veterinary Corps, National Army. These men must not be subject to the selective draft. Men from 18 to 21 and from 30 to 40 years of age are eligible for enlistment. They will be assigned to duty in veterinary hospitals and for other purposes in the Enlisted Veterinary Corps, National Army. Service over seas can be expected shortly. The following classes of men are desired: Veterinary students, agricultural students, farmers, stablemen and other men accustomed to handling horses.

A few men of the following occupations will also be accepted: Horseshoers, saddlers, pharmacists, cooks, typists, or stenographers.

All men are enlisted as privates, but at present there are exceptional opportunities for advancement to the grade of non-commissioned officer. The following are the rates of pay:

Grade.	Monthly pay.
Sergeant, first class.....	$56.00
Sergeants.....	44.00
Corporals.....	36.00
Farriers.....	36.00
Horseshoers.....	38.00
Saddlers.....	36.00
Cooks.....	38.00
Private, first class.....	33.00
Privates.....	30.00

In addition to the foregoing pay, enlisted men are furnished with food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental attendance without cost.

Application for enlistment can be made at any United States army recruiting office, and applicant should state that he desires to enlist in the Veterinary Corps, National Army.

What Really Counts.

"Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are" was once merely a clever phrase invented to prove someone's pet theory. Now it is an international war axiom. If you "eat for victory" then you are practicing the better patriotism. If not, then it does not matter much what colors you wear—your patriotism will only be button deep.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 25

Editorial Comment

REPORT ALL DISLOYALTY.

The Kentland Democrat properly suggests that the loyal citizen, while at all times exercising adequate care in getting at the absolute truth, should not waste a minute in reporting authentic cases of disloyalty to the County Council of Defense or to the Federal authorities for their action. Being certain he has the facts, the loyal citizen will not repeat as gossip the things he has learned, but will put the evidence before those who are in a position to act for the Government. In this way investigation can be made. If such action is justified the offending persons can be called in and solemnly warned as to the serious consequences of their misconduct, or they can be turned over for punishment to the proper agencies for discipline. The County Council of Defense in each county has a Protection section, which probes all charges of seditious or treasonable conduct, talk or action with a view to co-operating with the Federal officers in bringing the offenders to justice. Under the law the citizen is compelled to report cases of disloyal conduct or chatter immediately or be as guilty as the offender himself. It is of no avail, in fact it is harmful and dangerous as well as unfair and unjust, to spread as gossip such charges as frequently are made against alleged slackers or alleged disloyalists. The thing to do is to report facts to the legally constituted authorities or to agencies which for the war period are co-operating with the Government. Men of the Indiana State Militia and men of the Liberty Guards, as well as war workers generally, are in duty bound to follow up and obtain facts as to disloyal conduct or talk and are compelled under their oaths to report.

Attention—County Councils

SUPPLEMENTAL TO BULLETIN NO. 97.

January 28, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The following books and pamphlets should be searched for in the libraries of your county, and, if found, removed from circulation during the period of the war:

—Books—

"The Book of Truth and Facts," by Fritz von Frantius.

"England or Germany," by Frank Harris.

"Neutrality," by S. Ivor Stevens.

"The War in America," by Hugo Munsterberg.

"The Issue," by J. W. Headland.

"The History of Twelve Days," by J. W. Headland.

"The German Spirit," by Kuno Francke.

—Pamphlets—

"Militarism and the Emperor," issued by the Germanatic Society of Chicago.

"By Their Works Ye Shall Know Them," from the same source.

"The Destruction of Louvain," by Edward Emerson.

"Morocco and Armageddon."

"Nationalism in Europe," by Dr. Frantz Boas.

"The Following—A United Nation," a speech by Charles Nagle.

"Justice in War Times," by W. W. Hyde.

"The Northern Review" always contains the usual misinformation.

"Germans as Exponents of Culture," by Fritz von Frantius.

"A Slanderer," by Dr. Theodor Schieman.

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 105.

January 28, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Following is a copy of a letter received from Amos W. Butler, secretary of the Board of Charities, that may interest you in connection with the county war conferences being held:

"Indianapolis, Ind., January 26, 1918.

"Mr. Will H. Hays, Director State Council of Defense, Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Dear Friend—I have read with interest the plan for county war conferences in your Bulletin of January 11. It seems to me that the organized social welfare agencies in the various counties could take a very helpful part in your county work, and I hope you will permit me to call to your attention a few observations with regard thereto.

"Every county in the State has, or may have, such legal agencies as the board of county charities, board of children's guardians, board of county commissioners, township overseer of the poor, attendance officer, probation officer and juvenile court. They are already in the field with the legal authority, the organization and the experience necessary to carry on an exceedingly important social work, one that will relate the home, the school and the community to each other for effective service. The public needs to know more about these agencies and what they have authority to do. The agencies themselves need to be brought to the highest efficiency. I think you know that the Governor has asked the judges in the different counties to fill the membership of the boards of children's guardians with the best people available so that they may be ready for any service contemplated by the wise and far-reaching laws of the State.

"I wonder if those who are undertaking this new work in the counties are endeavoring to see it through to the end. In what they contemplate for social welfare are they planning to co-operate with existing forces? Unless they do, when the war is over and voluntary agencies dissolve, is there not great danger of unsettled conditions, difficult to adjust? Present extraordinary conditions demand the formation of special agencies, but it is highly important that the regular agencies be kept going. Their legal authority, their possible value to the community, in peace and in war, and the fact that they are continuing agencies should be emphasized and they should be utilized to the fullest possible extent.

"You and your faithful associates have doubtless thought about all these things, but if so this letter will do no harm.

"Very truly yours,

"A. W. BUTLER, Secretary."

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 108.

January 29, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Further referring to General Bulletin No. 92 of January 10, we are very anxious to have the county committees for the control of solicitation of funds organized at once. A large number of counties have not yet taken action pursuant to Bulletin No. 92 and it is imperative that those who have not do so and report to the State Council immediately.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Thrift Day in Indiana.

The Thrift Day proclamation of Governor James P. Goodrich follows:

"In an effort to encourage and promote savings and investments, particularly among the children and people with small incomes, the third day of February for two years has been generally observed throughout the nation as Thrift day.

"The idea has been advanced that Thrift day for 1918 be utilized in the patriotic distribution of war saving certificates and thrift stamps. As February 3 this year falls on Sunday, I recommend that on this day in the Sunday schools and churches there be expounded the religious side of thrift, abundant authority for such teaching being found in the Holy Scriptures.

"I suggest, further, that the economic observance be made Monday, February 4, and the subject be taken up in the schools. Children and adults should make Monday a day for buying thrift stamps and war savings certificates. Bankers, merchants and employers of labor should devote special effort to awaken interest in and furnish opportunity for the purchasing of thrift stamps.

"Now, therefore, I, James P. Goodrich, governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby proclaim and set apart Sunday, February 3, as official Thrift day to promote the federal saving plan, and encourage thrift among the people of this State, and do recommend that there be an economic observance of the day on Monday, February 4."

Some New War Books

The following are some of the newer books of personal experience in the war received by the Indiana State Library. These books may be borrowed by any citizen of the State. If you live in a town where there is a library, ask the librarian to apply. If not, write directly to the State Library for a registration blank:

Bairnsfather, Bruce—"Bullets and Bullets."

The creator of the now famous cartoons about the adventures of Bill and Alf and Bert in the war, himself a soldier, tells some of his experiences, among others the origin of some of the best known of the cartoons.

Beith, I. H.—"All in It; K1 Carries On."

This book continues the adventures of the Scotch regiment described in "The First Hundred Thousand" by the same author. No other writer has better caught the spirit of the troops, and his invincible humor makes the book delightful reading.

Eddy, Sherwood—"With Our Soldiers in France."

The story of what the Y. M. C. A. is doing and wants to do for our soldiers in France—how it supplies the needs for which the red triangle stands; the physical needs, the intellectual and social needs and the moral and spiritual needs.

Empey, A. G.—"Over the Top."

By an American soldier who went "over the top" with the British army. Told with a breezy vigor that has made it the most popular war book of the last six months.

Gibson, High—"A Journal from Our Legation in Belgium."

Mr. Gibson was secretary of the American legation in Brussels at the outbreak of the war. The book consists of his private journal, kept from day to day. His position gave him exceptional opportunities for observing conditions in Belgium and the characteristics of both Belgians and Germans. His story of his trip to Louvain after its devastation and of the efforts made to save Edith Cavell are of unusual interest.

Huard, F. W.—"My Home in the Field of Mercy."

The story of Madam Huard's flight from her chateau before the advancing Germans is told in her earlier book, "My Home in the Field of Honor." The new volume, no less interesting, describes how on her return she turned her home into a hospital. The narrative is a vivid one, greatly enlivened by the writer's keen sense of humor.

Nobbs, Gilbert—"On the Right of the British Line."

Captain Nobbs tells of his arrival in France and experiences on the firing line. He was blinded early in the war and captured by the Germans. His description of his treatment is slightly more encouraging than reports of the treatment of prisoners taken earlier in the war.

Council Adopts Report; Declaration of Policy

The following report of the special committee having considered a statement of policy relative to war time economies, with the resolutions it proposed, were received and adopted by the Indiana State Council of Defense, without division, at its meeting January 30:

To the State Council of Defense:

Your committee, appointed to ascertain and report whether the national government had adopted a policy with reference to economies during the war, beg to report as follows:

The only declaration of the Council of National Defense on the subject is contained in the letter of the Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War and chairman of the council, dated October 1, 1917, addressed to the chairman of this council and reading as follows:

"The Council of National Defense has considered the question you raise in your recent letter as to the attitude which should be taken relative to improvements, public and otherwise, which involves large construction work, and recommends as follows:

"Every effort that this country is capable of making should be applied to bring the war to a speedy and successful conclusion. The resources of the country in a general way may be said to consist of men, money and material, and during the period of the war any new enterprise or undertaking should be tried and justified by the test: Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war?

"New enterprises which are not fundamental to the efficient operation of the country's necessary activities should not be undertaken. This will not result adversely upon business or conditions of employment because every man and every resource will be needed during the war. All effort should be centered to help win the war."

The policy of the government is further authoritatively declared by the secretary of the treasury and by the officers of the federal reserve banking system. The views of the secretary of the treasury are found in the following statement, which appeared in the Official Bulletin of December 28, 1917:

"A conference of representatives of the twelve federal reserve districts was held in Washington to discuss methods to be applied in future Liberty Loan campaigns. Secretary McAdoo, in addressing this conference at its opening, emphasized the vital and immediate necessity of awakening a realization among the men, women and children of the entire nation of the need of saving.

"Those who are giving thought to the steps necessary to be taken to assure the success of the great financial operations of the government during the next few months are coming more and more fully to realize that in the hands of the average man, woman and child in the United States lies the key to the successful prosecution of the war.

NECESSITY FOR SAVING.

"The people of the United States can render the most far-reaching patriotic service by refraining from the purchase of all unnecessary articles and by confining themselves to the use of only such things and the expenditure of only such money as is necessary to maintain their health and efficiency. In this way the labor and the food and the materials needed for the support of our army and navy will be released for the use of the government, a result of the most vital importance in view of the fact that there is not enough labor in the United States to produce the great variety of articles required by our armed forces and at the same time to continue to provide all the things we have been accustomed to use, even apart from the comforts and luxuries we enjoyed when there was no war.

GOVERNMENT'S VAST NEEDS.

"The government requires during the fiscal year which ends on June 30, 1918, more than $15,000,000,000 worth of material and the labor of men and women. The ordinary peace requirements of the country run high into the billions. It must be evident, therefore, that either our armed forces must go without materials and supplies which are absolutely necessary to victory, or else the unarmed forces at home must deny themselves the use of sufficient labor and food and materials to make it possible for the government to obtain those things absolutely necessary to the great task now in hand. Unless we are willing and able to effect vast savings in labor and food and material, and in the money which goes to buy those things, we shall definitely be in the position of competing with the government, or greatly increasing the government's war expenses and of compelling it to finance the war more and more by bank credit, a program the danger of which is evident to the most casual observer.

ADMITTED THEIR SHORTCOMINGS.

"In Washington the other day a group of business men, drawn at short notice from various parts of the country to render service in one of the many undertakings which the government has in hand, were sitting around a dinner table. The question of saving was brought up and one of those present asked how many of those men had actually given up, since the outbreak of the war, any customary peace expenses. It was true, of course, that a great many of these men had made definite sacrifices in a business way to come to Washington. As far as the general habits of life were concerned however, not one man could say that he had regularly given up any one specific thing as a definite war measure.

"The war-savings campaign has adopted as its first principle the necessity of saving as a step toward victory in the present war. A security is offered which has a very powerful appeal to the small investor. This security will sell readily and will bring considerable revenue to the government. The actual sale of the security, however, is not as important as spreading abroad the gospel of the conservation of labor, food and materials and the avoidance of competition by the civilian population with the fighting forces.

LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS.

"It will be observed that this principle is even more important to the government from a monetary point of view in its relation to large investors whose savings will normally be invested in forthcoming issues of Liberty Bonds than it is in its relation to the small investor whose savings will more and more go into War Savings Stamps. It is every bit as important that war savings societies should be formed among society people and in our wealthy clubs as it is to form these societies where they are now being formed in a most generous and patriotic way in factories and stores and schools. Future Liberty loans can not successfully and safely be raised unless saving is rigidly practiced by people in every walk and circumstance of life; saving not one day or one week, but consistent and extensive saving based on the same principle of universal service which characterizes our soldiers and sailors.

NOT A PROPAGANDA OF GLOOM.

"This is not a propaganda of gloom. No one wants the country to fight with its tail between its legs, so to speak. We must keep our heads and our spirits up. This is not inconsistent, however, with a definite plan in each household throughout the country to spend only such money during the course of this war as is necessary for the health and efficiency of each individual. The real answer is that the gospel of conservation of labor and materials is not one which certain theorists urge us to preach for the good of our souls, but that it is in the most definite way a war measure determined upon by the United States government and an absolutely necessary step to the continued progress of a national war in which millions of men under arms must be supported by millions of men and women who are not under arms, but who are none the less just as definite a part of the fighting machinery of the United States."

The attitude of the federal reserve officers is set forth in a federal reserve bulletin of the present month as follows:

"War financing, in the last analysis, means putting the government in possession of goods and services. Financing by loans means the sale to the government of goods on credit. To win the war our government and the governments with which we are associated, must have goods and services. It is of as much importance, therefore, that the government should be helped to obtain the goods it requires as it is that it should be helped to procure the credit it requires with which to pay for goods. In neither respect are the American people as yet co-operating to a sufficient degree; primarily because they have not yet been adequately impressed with the paramount importance of their co-operation—they have not yet been made thoroughly to realize the fact that the success or failure of the war—in brief, the fate of the country—lies in their hands. In the great work of educating the people of the country to an appreciation of their part in the effective conduct of the war, the banks of the country have an opportunity to make themselves leaders. In the communities they serve they should endeavor to make it clear that the amount of goods that can be produced, even in a country as large and as rich as ours, is limited; that saving, therefore, is necessary and that by saving goods the people are serving their country in four ways:

"1. They enable our own government and our allied governments to obtain the goods required with the requisite speed. As everybody knows, time is a most important factor at this juncture. Coal, copper, steel and food-stuffs are cases in point.

"2. By saving goods not required by the government they release corresponding quantities for export to other countries in exchange for which needed supplies may be secured. To illustrate: If everybody in the United States would cut down consumption of cotton and woolen goods, even to a slight amount, goods to the value of millions of dollars would be available for export and could be made the basis of exchange to pay for much needed supplies of copper and nitrates for ourselves and beef and wheat for the use of our allies, obtained in South America.

"3. By consuming goods in smaller amounts, not only are goods saved but money is saved, and the people thus put in a position to absorb and pay for the war loans of the government out of savings.

"4. By diminishing the consumption of goods and by paying for government bonds out of savings instead of from funds borrowed from the banks, both the rapid rise of prices of goods is retarded as well as banking inflation, which accelerates the rise of prices.

"It can not have escaped the attention of the banks that, since the beginning of the war, deposits have increased at a rapid rate and that loans, discounts and investments have grown at an even more rapid rate. It is true that the federal reserves holdings of gold have also increased to a point where they are larger than those of any other country, but the percentage of the gold reserves against deposits and notes has decreased. This is a familiar phenomenon in time of war and to a certain extent perhaps unavoidable, but it must nevertheless be our constant concern to keep every dangerous tendency in the banking situation under control and particularly to retard the too rapid expansion of banking credit as far as this can be done without jeopardizing the main business of the country at this time—the winning of the war.

"Events are however every day making it clearer that the conservation of our financial strength is not of itself sufficient to insure a successful financing of the war. The financing of the war is only in part a money problem; in very large part it is an economic problem—a problem of conserving the economic as well as the financial strength of the nation and developing our resources and productive power to the point where they will be equal to sustain the great military operations which are in prospect and all that is incident to them.

"Nobody should, therefore, consume goods except to the extent that their consumption is necessary to maintain health and vigor."

Understanding that we are expected to recommend a course to be followed by the Council on the subject, we herewith report a resolution for consideration, and such action as the Council may deem proper.

Respectfully submitted,

A. W. BRADY,
A. B. STORMS,
WILL G. IRWIN,
EVANS WOOLLEN,
CHAS. FOX,
Committee.

Whereas, It is essential to the winning of the war that the resources of the nation in men, money and materials be so husbanded and utilized as to contribute, with the greatest possible force and efficiency, to the success of our arms; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Council unqualifiedly approve the policy of the national government with reference to new enterprises and undertakings, which policy is declared by the Council of National Defense as follows:

"During the period of the war any new enterprise or undertaking should be tried and justified by the test: Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war? New enterprises which are not fundamental to the efficient operation of the country's necessary activities should not be undertaken. This will not result adversely upon business or conditions of employment because every man and every resource will be needed during the war. All effort should be centered to help win the war."

Resolved, Further, that this Council also heartily approves the policy of the national government with reference to war-time economies as declared by the secretary of the treasury in these words:

"Those who are giving thought to the steps necessary to be taken to assure the success of the great financial operations of the government during the next few months are coming more and more fully to realize that in the hands of the average man, woman and child in the United States lies the key to the successful prosecution of the war.

"The people of the United States can render the most far-reaching patriotic service by refraining from the purchase of all unnecessary articles and by confining themselves to the use of only such things and the expenditure of only such money as is necessary to maintain their health and efficiency. In this way the labor and the food and the materials needed for the support of our army and navy will be realized for the use of the government, a result of the most vital importance in view of the fact that there is not enough labor in the United States to produce the great variety of articles required by our armed forces and at the same time to continue to provide all the things we have been accustomed to use, even apart from the comforts and luxuries which we enjoyed when there was no war. * * * This is not a propaganda of gloom. No one wants the country to fight with its tail between its legs, so to speak. We must keep our heads and our spirits up. This is not inconsistent, however, with a definite plan in each household throughout the country to spend only such money during the course of this war as is necessary for the health and efficiency of each individual. The real reason is that the gospel of conservation of labor and materials is not one which certain theorists urge us to preach for the good of our souls, but that it is in the most definite way a war measure determined upon by the United States government and an absolutely necessary step to the continued progress of a national war in which millions of men under arms must be supported by millions of men and women who are not under arms but who are none the less just as definite a part of the fighting machinery of the United States."

Resolved, Further, that this Council earnestly invite the attention of our citizens to the policy of the national government as hereinbefore stated and urge faithful observance thereof by the people of Indiana, to the end that our State may thereby duly contribute to bringing the war to a speedy and successful conclusion.

Corn Growers Join in Food Production

Record of Their Action Shows an Appreciation of Need for Greater Crops

Appreciation of existing conditions throughout the world is apparent from the following record of the action of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association meeting:

"As a result of the world-wide war there is now a food shortage. Millions of men of the warring countries usually engaged in agriculture and industry have been taken from these pursuits to engage in active warfare. The result is that food production has been materially lessened and the peoples are now facing starvation. The United States, with its large agricultural lands, is called upon to supply a large part of the food needed. The United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the State Agricultural College and the State Council of Defense, has outlined a program for increased food production. This program must be carried out if the needs of our people, our army and our navy are to be met. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the Indiana Corn Growers' Association, in session assembled, pledge our every support for the carrying out of the program for increased food production and that we will urge upon our officers and members and neighboring farmers the great need of immediate and concerted action in promoting the various projects outlined by the Government and the State.

SHALL WE KILL THE CALF?

J. Ogden Armour, packer and authority, says: "There is a calf problem in this country and it has not been solved by the plea to the American housewife to stop buying veal. Nor would a law stopping the butchering of calves present the solution.

"More calves were slaughtered during the past year than any previous year. Thousands upon thousands of young animals capable of being developed into good beef at a profit were vealed. Millions of pounds of meat were thereby wasted. Whether the waste was actual or theoretical, this fact stands out and stares us in the face: The present world meat shortage might have been considerably alleviated had a wiser policy in the handling of calves prevailed during the past years.

"There are two general kinds of calves and they require totally different treatment. There is no excuse for the slaughter of beef calves and there is no justification for the maturing of all dairy calves. The problem is to raise all beef calves to maturity and to prevent waste of food by extended feeding of excess dairy calves. It is a waste of food to raise dairy calves that are not to be kept for dairy purpose. There is just as much need for slaughtering excess dairy calves when they reach the veal age as there is for encouraging the farmers to mature their beef calves."

STATE SURVEY IS ORGANIZED.

Agricultural forces in every county in Indiana are mobilizing for seed stocks and labor survey week, February 4 to 9. In those six days a census showing how much seed each farmer has on hand and how much help he will need for the coming season, will be taken. Meetings were held this week, or will be held before February 4, in each county to outline plans for the survey. Township leaders are being chosen at these meetings. They in turn are naming community leaders for every two square miles.

One of the big features which the survey is bringing before the farmers is the necessity for tested seed corn. Farmers in many localities are making preliminary tests in preparation for the seed stocks survey. Seed corn testing is being further emphasized by prizes which will be given to boys and girls between the ages of ten and eighteen years for the best essay on seed corn. Each township is offering a small prize. The winners of the townships will compete for the county prize, and the winners in the counties will be forwarded to Purdue university where the winner will be awarded a gold medal which is being given by the Indiana Corn Growers' association.

SHEEP CLUB IN HENRY COUNTY.

Through the encouragement of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation and the State Council of Defense, a number of Sheep clubs have been organized in an effort to assist in meeting the nation's need for mutton and wool. One of the successful sheep clubs organized in the State is being supervised by Harry F. Ainsworth, in charge of vocational agriculture in the local schools in Henry county. The club owes its existence largely to G. L. Shively, a local stock buyer and farmer.

On October 23, 1917, ten boys went with their wagons, buckboards and autos to the Shively farm to get the ewes. The ewes were yearlings, all about the same size and breeding. Each was numbered. Duplicate numbers were placed in a hat and each boy drew for his sheep. Before going home the boys were taken to the Mt. Summit bank, where they signed a note for the value of the ewe, payable in one year at six per cent. interest.

Aside from the study of agricultural subjects in the school, the boys hold a sheep meeting every ten days to discuss their individual problems. A lamb show is planned in the spring. One of the rules of the organization is that each boy must exhibit a lamb from his club ewe and submit his record showing the cost of feed and labor. Appropriate awards will be given the boy showing the best record.

Send Home Papers to Boys in the Trenches.

Lord Northcliffe, publisher of the London Times, the London Daily Mail and scores of other papers and magazines, says it is not the big dailies that the boys in uniform want: "What they want," he declares, "is the home paper, the local, which tells who was at the church social, who has been married, and which team won the game.

"Send the home paper to the boy at the front. All news is news until it is read. What matter if the paper is old when it reaches him. He will enjoy it just the same."

Hooverisms.

It is impossible that anything but benefit can come to the American family which signs the food administration pledge.

The skyscraper goes up stone by stone, brick by brick, foot by foot, day by day, slowly. There is no other way to build it. Europe's war food shortage must be made up by individual Americans through saving bit by bit, ounce by ounce, day by day, persistently. There is no other way to do it.

Your plans for dinner, Mrs. Housewife, are just as important in their way as General Haig's plans for a night attack. Haig aims to get the maximum of results with the minimum of material. He uses plenty, but he doesn't waste any. So should you. That's the way you and Haig will win this war.

Plans Advanced for Boys' Farm Camps

Vigo County Reserve Will Soon Benefit By Patronage of Terre Haute Rotary Club—Work at Gary.

Detailed arrangements, including enrollment, for the Boys' Farm Training Camp in Vigo County, made possible by the Terre Haute Rotary Club committee are proceeding rapidly. The camp is to be opened as early as the season permits on the farm of Fred Christy, near Seelyville, and in addition to all of the recreational opportunities of a boys' summer camp, supervised by a trained director of boys' activities, an intensive three weeks' course in practical farming operations will be conducted by Mr. Christy, Paul E. Turk, Rotarian farmer, and a committee of twelve practical farmers selected from the county.

Candidates for the training camp must be sixteen years old and pass a thorough physical examination, and must pledge themselves to serve where needed on the farms during the entire vacation period. The committee believes that boys who are patriotic enough to do this should be subject to no further obligations.

GARY ORGANIZATION MEETING.

Friday night, January 18, the Y. M. C. A. of Gary, Indiana, tendered a dinner to the city director and his various enrolling officers. Definite plans for securing a full enrollment of boys in Gary were formulated by George M. Pinneo, City Director, Capt. H. S. Norton and Judge O. L. Wildermuth, representing Lake County Council of Defense, and G. M. Swartz, assistant superintendent of city schools.

The important part which boys are to play in winning this war was presented by Fred R. Farnam, County Director for Laporte county, and Carl B. Fritzsche, Assistant Federal State Director.

Mr. Pinneo is most fortunate in his choice of enrolling officers, which include representatives of all schools and all important war industries in Gary, among them being the following:

R. M. Ladd, L. E. Erickson, George Swartz, from the schools; H. O. Egeberg, Thomas J. Gordon, Illinois Steel Plant; Pierce Crowther, American Bridge Co.; Lloyd Servur, Sheet mill; W. T. Browncombe, tin mills; Ralph Mismen, E. J. & E. railroad; W. E. Irvin, Gary Screw and Bolt Co.; Thomas Burke, Actna Explosive Co.; Frank Cuthbert, Union Drawn Steel Co., and E. A. Helwig, Central Metallic Door Co.

GRANT COUNTY ACTIVE.

Grant County has fallen into line with many other counties in the State and the United States for the Boys' Working Reserve, and has opened an office on the second floor of the Federal building. Ernest J. Holsinger, who is in charge, is connected with the Marion Normal Institute.

The enrolling lieutenants are as follows: John Campbell, George Cole, Robert Goldthwaite, Hearst Heiser, Ira Parsons, Theodore Prows, Lester Simpson, Robert Sisson, Leroy Wolfe.

NOVEL PLAN IN LOGANSPOORT.

To gain first hand knowledge of how things are done on a farm and to learn something about farm life before going there to work next summer, city high school boys are enjoying week end visits at the homes of country boys in Cass county. Superintendent of Schools, A. H. Douglass of Logansport, who is also County Director of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve is responsible for this practical plan which sends city boys to the country on Friday night and returns them to school the following Monday morning.

At a meeting held lately in the Greater Logansport Club rooms, the Cass County Board of Boys' Reserve laid plans to line up the boys of the county to play their part in the work of assisting the nation to win the war. The board consists of Supt. A. H. Douglass of the city schools; Supt. J. E. Ludders of the county schools; Rev. A. J. Kroeger and W. H. Gast, Cass county agent. Sixty high school boys have already enrolled.

Some Tools We Have

Official Local Social Welfare Agencies That Can Be Helpful in Co-Operating With County Councils of Defense, Etc.

(By Amos W. Butler, Secretary of the Indiana State Board of Charities.)

The State of Indiana has provided by law many official agencies for dealing with social conditions. These are largely agencies of prevention—preventive of pauperism, degeneracy and crime. A leading authority has said that the preventive laws of Indiana are the most notable series of enactments on the statute books of any State. These have been carefully worked out to suit the conditions and meet the needs in this commonwealth.

Among those in point are the following: In every one of her 1,016 townships is a township trustee, who is ex-officio overseer of the poor. He can care for both old and young. Co-operation with all existing volunteer agencies is required and his work is under the supervision of the Board of County Commissioners, whose agent he is in the administration of relief. The township overseer cares for the poor in their homes. The Board of County Commissioners has charge of the county hospital (when one has been established) and the county poor asylum and has made provision for the care of children as an institution, to one of which those needing "indoor relief" can be sent.

In every county the law authorizes a board of children's guardians, which acts as a county board of child welfare. Its province is the entire county and it has the fullest authority of law to look after children who are needy or neglected. It may be a great construction agency in helping children in the right path and in preventing them from becoming public wards.

Every county has at least one attendance officer, who, with the school officials, relates the school to the homes of the people. The probation officer is a connecting link between the juvenile court and the home. He co-operates on one hand with the school authorities and on the other with the board of children's guardians in a friendly way, seeking to improve conditions in preference to securing court action.

In all counties, except Marion county, the judge of the circuit court is the judge of the juvenile court. Marion county has its own special juvenile court. The juvenile court is the supreme authority in all children's cases and is the head of all these children's agencies. The function of each of these is to prevent dependence, neglect or delinquency rather than to make children public wards. All are under the supervision of the Board of State Charities. They are available for co-operation with all private or voluntary agencies or associations. Their full power and influence should be obtained upon request.

These agencies and the laws under which they act are tools that have been provided by the Legislature and placed in the hands of the people of the State. To use them efficiently it is necessary not only to have a general knowledge of the law, but also of the recognized practice. These should be understood in order that their lines of possible usefulness, which are very great, may be fully appreciated. They ought to be made available in every county to the Council of Defense and all its branches, to the Civilian Relief Department of the Red Cross and to any other special agencies that are created in connection with the present wartime needs. All of these should be explained by persons who are competent to speak in a popular way so that they should be generally understood. This can not help but result in an economy of time and effort and means.

Educational Section

The Educational Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense has just put into operation a plan whereby the high school students can form school councils of defense, which in turn are to be organized into a Patriotic Service League. The league is not an additional organization imposed upon the already over-burdened schools of the State, but is rather a device for co-ordinating the war activities already being carried on. Some time ago the Educational Section perfected a plan by which it could protect the schools against irresponsible demands, through a committee on approval which should assist school authorities throughout the State in determining which of the many organizations seeking time and money of children should be recognized.

The patriotic league goes a step farther; it provides an organization through which all patriotic school activities can be carried on. The principal of the school acts as president of the school council, or appoints a faculty member to do so. The president appoints three committees; a committee on program, which arranges meetings for the discussion of definite forms of war service, as well as more general patriotic meetings; a committee on employment, which makes a survey of the school's labor supply and the community's need of labor and acts as a distributing bureau; and a committee on finance, which investigates and proposes a system of earnings and savings by the students individually and by the school collectively. This committee also makes recommendations as to the methods of raising money and expending it wisely from the standpoint of national service and has general oversight over school funds.

The league will consist of all the high schools of the State which form local school "Councils of Defense" in conformity with the provisions of the constitution adopted by the Educational section of the State Council. No dues or pledges of any kind are required for membership and all services are voluntary. The only obligation is a willingness to organize for effectively supporting definite war service work such as the planting of corn on nearby farms, the purchase of thrift stamps, and the raising of money for the various war service activities which have the approval of the government of the United States.

The Educational section will send a representative to each of the war conferences which are to be held in the various counties of the State within the next two weeks. At these meetings it is hoped that the work of organizing the schools for effective co-operation in winning the war may be perfected in practically every county in Indiana. Many of the high schools have already organized and are regularly holding meetings which prove to be very valuable. Every German is on a war footing. We must not forget this fact. Any plan, therefore, is incomplete if it fails to utilize the boys and girls as active participants in the war.

Movie War Propaganda.

In an article in last week's issue reference was made to the fact that the State Council of Defense is awaiting detailed information before accepting a moving picture war propaganda. It is to be hoped this proposition from the government will be accepted. When Professor Claude Michelson lectured here recently and exhibited the French war films one common comment was noticeable, the clear understanding—through sight—of the monstrous devastation wrought by the Huns in France, the indescribable wreckage left in the path of the German hosts, and the useless mutilation and destruction of orchards and fields and the ruthless destruction of villages. It tends to impress the average American more forcibly than any other agency yet employed of just what kind of human monsters the Huns really are, and the movies will prove the greatest agency possible in awakening this country to its full duty. The U. S. government could well afford to supply films free to exhibitors to arouse the people. —Owen Leader (Spencer, Ind.).

Red Cross Activities

Indiana has enrolled 26.5 per cent. of its population in the American Red Cross society. Ohio has 25.9 per cent. and Kentucky 11.4 per cent. Indiana people enrolled total 736,384. These are official figures from the Lake Division.

Special appeal to Indiana nurses to enlist for Red Cross work is made by Miss Mary Roberts, director of nursing of the Lake Division. The enlistment of nurses has not kept pace with the military needs and there is sudden and pressing demand. In addition to more enlistments of nurses, the Red Cross is anxious to interest women in enrolling for training.

To give relatives of American soldiers details of casualties at the front, the American Red Cross has organized at national headquarters a Bureau of Communication, of which William R. Castle, Jr., formerly Assistant Dean of Harvard College and Editor of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine, is director. This bureau supplements in a personal and humanitarian way the reports of the Statistical Division of the War Department which gives to relatives official notice when a soldier is reported killed, wounded or missing. The anxiety which naturally results from the official report to relatives that a soldier has been "wounded" or is "missing" will as far as possible be dispelled by the Bureau which will advise in detail the nature and extent of the wound, and will gather evidence from comrades in arms and at the hospitals and rest camps regarding those reported "missing."

The information on which the Bureau will base its reports is gathered through a central office in Paris, under the direction of E. Gerry Chadwick, of New York, aided by the Rev. Robert Davis, of Englewood, N. J., and thirty assistants stationed at the base hospitals and rest camps to which soldiers are generally returned following important engagements.

The Bureau will receive through the International Red Cross office at Geneva, Switzerland, the list of American prisoners supplied officially by the German government. In cases of imprisonment, the Bureau reports to relatives, after which the case is referred to the Red Cross Bureau of American Prisoners Relief, of which Franklin Abbott is director.

The American Red Cross Committee in Berne sends each American prisoner, every two weeks, three ten-pound food packages. These subsistent stores are provided by the government and the American Red Cross. A sufficient quantity of supplies is now on the way to Switzerland to care for 10,000 American prisoners for a period of six months. This Bureau is also the sole agency licensed by the War Trade Board to transmit money to American and Allied prisoners in Germany.

American Red Cross appropriations for relief work in France covering the period since the United States entered the war up to April 30, 1918, amounts to $30,519,259.60. James R. Carfield, manager of the Lake Division, announced today after receiving a communication from the Red Cross War Council, Washington.

Military relief appropriations amounts to $14,019,889.50 while the amount set aside for civilian relief now stands $9,556,482.15. The sum provided for the Bureau of Supplies and other administrative bureaus in France aggregate $3,359,541.75. Miscellaneous activities, such as relief for sick and wounded French soldiers' families, a Red Cross health center, and the American Ambulance Fund have been responsible for appropriations amounting to $3,583,346.20.

Pointing out that the "adoption" of the wives or mothers of the boys who have enlisted would perhaps be wiser and serve a better purpose, the Ft. Wayne Journal-Gazette recommends such a substitution to the women who from altruistic motives sought to "mother" the soldiers either in camp or cantonment. The Journal-Gazette points out that "they are the ones who will require sympathy and encouragement." The suggestion is at least worthy of consideration by the noble women who really want to do something "to help."

Only the very poor and men and women doing the hardest kind of work may have more than seven ounces of war bread a day in France.

French war bread comprises all the elements of wheat except bran, with a heavy admixture of flour from other cereal grains. This admixture is obligatory.

Patriotic Press Comment

Boys' Farm Training.

Two hundred Terre Haute lads have signed for training on the Rotary Club's boys' working reserve farm. The Tribune hopes that when the first furrow is turned there will be 2,000 of them. This is one of the really constructive developments of the war. If the interest of the city lad can be diverted from useless pleasures and sports, if the vacations of thousands of school boys can be given over to farming and food production, the result on the next generation will be a phenomenon never before contemplated by the present generation.

The movement has a graver and more serious aspect. If the war is prolonged two or three years, if the granaries of this country continue to pour forth a stream of food supplies for the peoples abroad who are joined with us in the struggle, the food supply of this nation is going to fail, and with that comes famine.

To the city boy the achievements of the farmer and the nation's dependence upon the farming population is all Greek. Even the briefest service on the Boys' Working Reserve farms cannot fail to unlock for him something of the knowledge of agriculture and its enormous importance to the daily life and sustenance of mankind.

Even the most casual reader knows how within the last decade the efforts of publicists and economists have been put forward to solve the problem of keeping the boy on the farm. If these thousands of boys by their immediate effort increase the food supply in any degree the movement will have justified itself. Also, if they retain an ambition to permanently engage in such pursuits the idea will have achieved a public good which has perplexed leaders in public thought for years.—Terre Haute Tribune.

Obey the Council

The Cass County Council of Defense is the local representative of our government at Washington and is acting by authority of the State Council of Defense, which as the war board of the State is fighting to maintain the liberty and rights of its citizens.

Undoubtedly the Cass County Council of Defense will have many unpleasant duties to perform, which they will perform without fear or favor and like the rulings of our courts they should be obeyed without question.

The council may be compelled to deal harshly with some, but ever keep foremost in your mind that our country is at war—that we are fighting for the salvation of our republic and like soldiers you may obey orders, no matter how unpleasant the task may be.

Their requests in some instances may not be backed with legal authority, but they will be backed by something greater—that which founded and built this great republic—public opinion and no individual or organization can stand before it. Ever keep foremost in your mind that your country is at war and that a firm directing hand is needed in every unit of our government.—Logansport Tribune.

Fuel and Food.

"Gee, you can swing your arms this kinda weather and keep warm," philosophized the driver of the coal truck. "Too bad you can't fill your stomach just as easy."

Three carloads of apples provided by the International Apple Shippers' Association are on their way to England and France. The Red Cross will distribute some of the fruit to the wounded in hospitals and the Y. M. C. A. will take apples to the men in the trenches. More shipments are expected to follow since shipping space has been provided by permission of the Army Transport Service. How much this will mean to our soldiers can be appreciated from the fact that in France today a bright red apple is one of the rarest sights.

The proper study of mankind (just now) is the food question.

Let Everybody Pitch In

(By Theodore Roosevelt.)

Copyright, 1917, by the Kansas City Star. Reprinted by special permission.

In the papers there recently appeared a brief statement made by an unmarried young American major to his troops in the trenches in France. He said:

"We have reached the top in training. If you need anything come and tell me and I will get it for you if I can. If I do not get it I do not want to hear about it again, for it means that I can't get it. We will have three meals a day if we can get them. If we have to miss one meal we will not be badly off, and if we miss two or three it will not be much worse. We are expected to work from midnight of one day to midnight of the next day. If there is any chance to sleep between, all right. It will also be all right if there is no chance. Let everybody pitch in. While mud and water must be fought, it may be much worse. The hopes of the nation are fixed on each man."

The ideal of duty thus set before our soldiers, before the Americans who at this time risk most and suffer most, is substantially the ideal of duty towards which all the rest of us here in America should, in our turn, likewise strive. We must brace ourselves for effort and for endurance through a hard and dangerous year. High of heart and with unfaltering soul, we must do our part in the grim work of toiling and fighting to bring a little nearer the day when there shall be orderly liberty throughout the world and when justice and mercy and brotherly love shall obtain between man and man and among all the nations of mankind.

We must show our faith by our works. We must prove our truth by our endeavor. We must scorn the baseness which uses high-sounding speech to cloak ignoble action and which seems to betray suffering right with the Judas kiss of the treacherous peace.

During the year that is opening we at home will suffer discomfort and privation and wearing anxiety. What of it? What we at home endure will be as nothing compared to that which is faced by the son and brothers, by the husbands and fathers at the front, and what the fighting men of today face and bear will be no harder than what was faced and borne by Washington's troops at Valley Forge and Trenton and by the soldiers of Grant and Lee when they wrestled in the Wilderness. We inherit as free men this fair and mighty land only because our fathers and forefathers had iron in their blood. We can leave our heritage undiminished to those who come after us only if we in our turn show a resolute and rugged manliness in the dark days of trial that have come upon us.

Let us all individually and collectively do our whole duty with brave hearts. Let us pay our taxes, subscribe to the Liberty loans, work at our several tasks with all our strength, support all the agencies which take care of our troops and accept the stinting in fuel or food as part of the price we pay. Let our prime care be the welfare and warlike efficiency of the men at the front and in the training camps.

Let us hold to sharp account every public servant who in any way comes short of his duty in this respect. But let us also insist that the soldiers at the front and in the camps treat every shortcoming merely as an obstacle to be overcome or remedied or offset by their own energy and courage and resourcefulness. The one absolute essential for our people is to insist that this war be seen through at no matter what cost until it is crowned with the peace of overwhelming victory for the right.

Hoover Says—

Save the waste, control the taste;
Eat corn bread and rye;
Meatless days, wheatless days,
Eat less cream and pie,
For the allies' sake cut out the cake,
Save food and win—or die;
Keep fighters fit—this is your bit,
That is the reason why.

"The road to victory, the guaranty of victory, the absolute assurance of victory has to be found in one word, 'Ships,' and a second word, 'Ships,' and a third word, 'Ships.'"
—DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., FEBRUARY 8, 1918

Number 26

Indiana Will Heed!

(By James P. Goodrich, Governor of Indiana.)

It has been truthfully pointed out that without ships there is no consequential part the United States can take in the great world war. We may recruit armies, manufacture munitions, save foods, but these will not avail save we have the facilities to transport them into the fighting zone. The most insistent cry that has come to us from abroad has been for ships and still more ships. The menace of the U-boat can be overcome only by the replacement of the destroyed tonnage.

To this end the United States shipping board is bending every energy. It is asking for a ship-building army of 250,000 men. Arrangements are being made to house and assign these citizen soldiers, who are asked to enroll in "the United States Shipyard Volunteers of the Public Service Reserve." Indiana's quota is 10,847.

It is the purpose of the shipping board to cause as little dislocation of labor in essential war industries as possible. Volunteers are not assured of assignment to service, but the government asks that they register, if willing to serve in this cause, so that if the opportunity for service comes, they may be called without confusion and may respond without delay.

Indiana has more than her quota of men of the desired qualifications available for this service. It is as important—perhaps in the present circumstances more so—that they be furnished the federal government, as the State's apportionment of infantry, artillery, aviation or medical forces. For without the necessary ships, the war is lost before the United States positively has entered it. To prevent such a calamity it is imperative that the men register and await a call to service.

Indiana to Provide for Demand on Labor

State Agencies Will be Required to Meet Requirements of Uncle Sam—Other Council Matters.

Indiana's part in providing labor for war industries through State employment bureaus, in co-operation with federal bureaus, all under the department of labor at Washington, was referred by the Indiana State Council of Defense, at its meeting Wednesday, February 6, to a committee composed of Charles Fox of the labor committee, Frank Wampler of the employers' co-operation committee, and Governor James P. Goodrich.

Through a report made by N. E. Squibb of instructions and information received at Washington, it was indicated that the State would be expected to expend a considerable sum of public money in establishing and maintaining employment agencies to meet what was described as a "serious labor situation." Mr. Squibb, who is director for Indiana of the United States Public Service reserve, a clearing house for labor needed by the war administration, said that Indiana would be called on to nominate a director of labor or an administrator and to follow a program laid down by the department of labor for the maintenance of agencies to enroll workers. It was suggested that a plan followed in Ohio, a plan investigated by Mr. Squibb for the Indiana Defense Council, had been adopted at Washington, and that Indiana would be expected to use the same general system. Mr. Squibb said Ohio had been expending some $7,000 monthly in employment agency activities alone, in connection with the State Council of Defense and in co-operation with the State government.

Mr. Squibb said that according to the Washington view shipping and airplanes and the labor to produce those vital factors in the war had taken precedence over other things being worked out at Washington. The special committee was asked to confer on plans to further in Indiana the labor-producing plans planned at Washington, with a view to reporting at the next meeting.

It was declared the policy of the State Council of Defense to refrain from intervening in litigation involving drainage projects. From Gibson and Pike counties had come a request that the defense council take action such as might influence drainage projects now in litigation, the theory being that the defense body should approve drainage schemes in order to bring about an increased production of foodstuffs. It was decided that it would be unwise to attempt to settle lawsuits one way or another.

Members of the council were invited formally, through Chairman Hays, to attend the Saturday morning, February 9, session of the State vocational education war service conference of Indiana educators at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis.

A communication from Fred A. Lowe and Peter Martin of the Huntington County Council of Defense called attention to the high cost of stock feeds. The matter was referred to Dr. H. E. Barnard, federal food administrator, and the secretary of the council was instructed so to notify the Huntington County Defense Council.

It was reported that speculators from Illinois are seeking to buy seed corn in Indiana. It also developed that buyers of seed corn from Indiana had invaded Illinois. It was predicted by E. M. Wilson that the seed corn survey in Indiana would show a shortage and that buyers from outside would not long continue their invasion of a State which could not produce the seed corn desired for itself. The complaint against outsiders seed-corn-buying activities was referred to Prof. G. I. Christie of the food production committee.

The committee which has in hand the matter of reported discrimination in certain Indianapolis industries against organized labor, was authorized to get from the Council of National Defense a statement of the war-time labor policy of the federal government that such policy may be applied in Indiana.

Bert Hendren, assistant to Prof. J. J. Pettijohn in the speakers' bureau, reported successful county war conferences in many counties throughout the State, the attendance being large and representative everywhere in spite of bad weather and bad roads in some localities. Mr. Hendren reported that the county war conferences had been greatly helped by the soldiers representing the British military forces—men who could tell at first hand of the war overseas. Where the men of the food administrations forces were unable to speak at first hand of actual war, the British and Canadian officers proved to be headliners.

Charles Fox, who reported irregular train service for coal miners out of Terre Haute to the mines, was authorized to represent the Defense Council in the effort being made to improve the service provided for the miners. Mr. Fox said that because of belated morning train service the miners day after day were cut to five hours' coal-production, and operators were compelled to pay day wages for five hours' labor.

Letters from well known Americans, dealing with the proper attitude of American citizens during the war—a series of patriotic documents collected by Lieut. Col. E. P. Hawkins of Connersville, a member of Governor James P. Goodrich's military staff, were presented before the Council by Chairman Hays. Col. Hawkins plans the publication of a book containing the letters, and has suggested that the Council of Defense aid in the distribution of the volume. The matter was referred to a committee composed of W. J. Freeman, W. G. Irwin and Charles Fox.

Mrs. Abram Simmons of Bluffton placed before the Council the question of complying with a request made by a Y. M. C. A. organization in an army camp, the request being for subscriptions for current magazines to be paid for by citizens and sent to the camps direct from the publishers. The matter was referred to W. G. Irwin as a special committee. His report was to the effect that the Y. M. C. A. War Fund, the War Library Fund, and the plan for cheap postage on used magazines should cover the situation and make it unnecessary to add to other drives a canvass for subscriptions to magazines. The Council adopted the report and the secretary was instructed to notify the persons making inquiry.

Walter S. Greenough, of Indianapolis, chairman of the publicity committee, third Liberty Loan organization, addressed the Council, asking its advice and co-operation in working out plans for extending the loan organization among the people who as yet have not been reached. The Council assured Mr. Greenough of its hearty co-operation. It is understood the drive is to be made in March. Mr. Greenough plans, with the aid of Defense Councils, to create a war loan atmosphere in advance.

Wallace Townsend, of Arkansas, who wrote to the Indiana Council of Defense, asking to be permitted to spend February 18 and 19 inspecting the Indiana Council and studying its work and methods, was voted a welcome and a warm invitation. Mr. Townsend, who is director of the Arkansas State Council of Defense, declared in his letter that he was looking forward with pleasure to "this opportunity of studying what Mr. Winterbotham terms the model Council of Defense." John H. Winterbotham, referred to, is chairman of the western division of the States section of the Council of National Defense, with headquarters at Chicago. The Indiana Defense Council will show Mr. Townsend how it operates.

Loyal traveling salesmen reported the disloyal remarks of Charles Faulkner, who said his home was in Dayton, Ohio, to the Wayne County Council of Defense. The offender was haled into the headquarters of the County Council and given an impressive lecture, which was saved from turning into a violent physical encounter only by the presence of policemen. Faulkner apologized profusely and declared his mouthings would undergo radical modification.

Now is the time for every good eater to come to the aid of his country.

Patriotism in Indiana

Cass County.—Defense council headquarters are to be opened in Logansport by the Cass County Defense Council under M. W. Collett as chairman, the county council having appropriated $2,000 with which to provide for the expense incident to the work of the defense body. A stenographer is to be placed in the headquarters, and the work is to be extended rapidly. At this time the work of organizing the defense forces in the townships is being carried forward vigorously.

Clark County.—Mrs. Ellen Bradley, of this city, who is eighty-seven years old, is an enthusiastic knitter for the Red Cross, and is at work on her third sweater. She also has hemmed three dozen napkins. Children under eight also are assisting at Red Cross headquarters in making surgical dressings while school is closed. A class is to be formed here to train assistants in this work. The local Red Cross Chapter received $392, the proceeds of a minstrel show given on two nights by the officers of the quartermaster's corps stationed here. The show soon will be repeated at New Albany and probably at Louisville.

Decatur County.—An organization of Fourteen-Minute Women under the direction of the woman's section of the Council of Defense has been formed at Greensburg. Its duty is to hold patriotic meetings throughout the county. Mrs. Kate Emmert called the meeting. The following women have been chosen to carry on this work: Mrs. J. F. Goddard, president; Mrs. I. Carl Mitchell, secretary; Miss Carrie Stewart, Miss Mary Rankin, Miss Hannah Baker, Mrs. Locke Bracken, Miss Ethel Shellborn, Mrs. Urso McCorkle, Letts; Mrs. H. S. McKee, Newport; Mrs. Clint Emmert, Clarksburg; Mrs. Edward O. Day, Rt. R. 9; Mrs. Robert Donnell, Springhill.

The next meeting will be held Saturday, February 23, at the home of Mrs. John F. Goddard.

Delaware County.—Harvey Anthony, head of the department of science of the Muncie High School, who has been conducting night schools for the government here, in which he has been teaching wireless telegraphy, the Morse telegraph code, signaling and other similar subjects for war use, has been summoned to the Great Lakes naval training station at Chicago by the Navy Department in an endeavor to induce him to act as chief electrician there. Mr. Anthony is a Harvard graduate and also a graduate of a technical school....An investigation at the Skillen-Goodin glass factory at Yorktown shows that 190 of the 200 men employed there subscribed to the recent Y. M. C. A. war work fund. The subscription totaled $600, an average of a little more than $3.

Fulton County.—Better organization, a paid director of war activities and office help for the Fulton County Council of Defense will come through a $2,000 appropriation just made by the county council, which makes $3,000 available for 1918 for the defense body's work. W. H. Deniston, chairman of the Fulton county defense organization, explained the need for additional funds and was supported in his argument by J. E. Beyer, Arthur Metzler, Charles Emmons, E. E. Murphy and Henry Bibler. It was pointed out that the Farmers and Merchants' Association in the county had been paying the expenses incurred in war work, which expenses ought to be met by all the people. Objections raised against the patriotic appropriation by Attorney Julius Rowley were easily set aside. Rowley's talk was met with a plain talk on patriotic duty by George Holman, who effectively disposed of "knockers and slackers." The county councilmen voted unanimously for the $2,000 appropriation....The sum of $1,500 has been appropriated by the county council for a county agricultural agent, whose business it will be to stimulate increased wheat acreage, corn and pork production, and an increased production of wool and mutton in the county. Cy Davis, member of the exemption board and captain of a company of the national guard during the Spanish-American war, has been elected captain of the newly organized company of Liberty Guards here. Eight men were sworn in and received first instructions in drill under Hector De Zayas, formerly a lieutenant in the New York State Guard.

Gibson County.—Mrs. Nora Welborn, of Owensville, and her sister, Mrs. Ida Hyne, of Stewartsville, gave 64 comfort pillows, 138 pillowslips, 18 handkerchiefs and 18 tumbler covers to the local chapter of the Red Cross. Another shipment of Red Cross articles has been made by the local chapter consisting of 25 sweaters, 42 pairs knitted socks, 268 comfort pillows, 15 bathrobes, 17 bed shirts, 8 pajama suits, 161 towels, 70 pairs of bed socks, 13 pairs bed leggings, 23 napkins, 24 tumbler covers, 18 pillow slips, 38 operating sheets, 8 bed sheets, 4 draw sheets and 2 pairs wristlets....Eugene Rodman, age seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Redman, Owensville, is doing his bit for Uncle Sam despite the fact that his hands are badly crippled as the result of infantile paralysis. He has cut enough clippings to fill five pillows for the soldiers.

Lake County.—Mrs. Jennie Ward Wheeler, secretary of the Lake County Council of Defense, and in charge of the Crown Point Red Cross work, has received a telegram saying her son, Lieut. John W. Wheeler, stationed at Ft. Bliss, Tex., has recently been promoted to a captaincy. He is a grandson to Fighting Joe Wheeler, of civil war fame.

When the Government Speaks, We Are Talking to Ourselves!

"The UNITED STATES is just US—you and I and the folks next door and the people across the way—just US.

"All the Government does is our doing. Its strength is our striving; its resources are our savings.

"What we do counts to make or break the power of the United States—every minute, every act—to save or destroy US. In all we do, all we spend, all we eat—we must have care.

"Food is our first and last resource, the dominant resource in this war. Our food supply is the final dependence of our Allies; the food situation is the worst worry in Europe—worse now than when we began to figure. On our food supply hangs their fighting power, their chance of avoiding famine, their hope of survival.

"We have already shipped to Europe every grain of this year's surplus wheat. To keep them going we must stretch our remaining supply—eat more corn and oats and potatoes. We must send them more meat; eat poultry and fish and beans.

"That means team play—going without wheat one meal every day and on Monday and Wednesday every week; it means going without meat one meal every day and Tuesday every week; no pork on Saturday; a weekly sugar limit of 2 pound apiece.

"Team play—you and I and the folks next door and the people across the way—will do all that needs to be done."

Madison County.—Two service flags have been unfurled at Pendleton with appropriate ceremonies. One at the high school represents twenty-nine members of the alumni as follows: Morris Lukens, Ward Lewis, Will Walker, James Alfond, Harold Martin, John Clark, Jesse Biddle, Leon Benefield, Dallas Alfond, Forest Hardy, Russell Frey, Roy Speck, Horace Swain, Clifford Sample, Winfred E. Walker, Merwyn Teague, Percy Wildridge, Clarence Kinnard, Floyd Williams, Roy Wischart, Willard Adkins, Hugh Ireland, Robert Lewis, Howard Biddle, Jesse Stinson, Ira Davis, George Jones, Byron Foust and Ward Fugua. At the First M. E. church a flag with eighteen stars, representing the following: Paul Ford, W. E. Walker, Roy Wischart, Lon Godby, Merwyn Teague, Ward Goul, Joseph Chamberlain, Horace W. Swain, Forest Hardy, Byron Foust, Harold Martin, Edward Tillson, George Jones, Harry G. Teague, John Clark, Cleland Hite, Wallace Carter, Ira Davis....School Superintendent George B. Routt started a thrift campaign in the school by appointing captains and lieutenants and the teams have gone to work enthusiastically. Postmaster Mingle reports the sale of war savings stamps to the value of $1,689.20.

Miami County.—Roscoe Coomer, of Deer Creek township, has established a knitting record. He is a busy farmer. At last reports he had knitted seven sweaters and was working on his eighth. He taught his wife to knit and they enjoy the evenings at home around the fireplace in this manner.

Morgan County.—Mrs. G. M. Isenbower, of Martinsville, war mother for Morgan county, has appointed the following township war mothers: Washington township, Mrs. J. S. Hinkle; Green, Mrs. M. E. St. John; Ray, Mrs. S. F. Coble; Clay, Mrs. S. E. Spoor; Baker, Mrs. William Hodges; Jefferson, Mrs. J. E. Bain; Ashland, Mrs. Noah Patrick; Adams, Mrs. W. H. Reeves; Monroe, Mrs. Jason W. Tudor; Brown, Mrs. A. B. Stanton; Harrison, Mrs. William Knox; Jackson, Mrs. Lillian Carter.

Randolph County.—A campaign for the support of the war relief and reconstruction work in the devastated districts of the countries now at war with Germany is being waged here this week by the Friends church. The Friends organization is the only one in the country supplying patterns for distinctive foreign garments. One feature of the work is sewing and knitting for refugees.

Shelby County.—Mrs. Nancy Benson, of Waldron, seventy-five years old, is one of the most enthusiastic workers among the members of the Waldron branch of the Red Cross. She attends all the meetings of the society and spends the greater part of her days knitting garments and making articles for Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors. She recently sent five hospital pillows to the local Red Cross headquarters.

Tippecanoe County.—Township defense organizations have been completed and are at work in Tippecanoe county. Officers of township defense organizations are as follows: Perry Township—J. C. F. Redinbo, chairman; C. R. Landis, secretary; Ed Reynolds, delegate to the County Council of Defense. Laramie Township—N. R. Johnson, chairman; J. F. Kirkpatrick, secretary, and Rev. C. F. Leeson, delegate. Jackson Township—George B. Hawthorne, chairman; Ira G. Meharry, secretary. Tippecanoe Township—Dr. O. E. Throckmorton, chairman, and Glen Busick, secretary. Randolph Township—Harry C. Leaming, chairman; D. H. Murphy, secretary. Wayne Township—M. E. Sherry, president; N. B. Ford, secretary. Shelby Township—Henry A. Miller, chairman; Ed Taylor, secretary. Sheffield Township—W. H. Warren, chairman, and W. S. Nesbitt, secretary.

Tipton County.—The Tipton County Council of Defense has established headquarters in the Tipton public library. Miss Jessie Grove is in charge of the offices of the council....The Tipton county war conference was a marked success, stimulating general interest and activity in all lines of war work. A feature of the big meeting was a talk by Miss Lauler, a Belgian girl, who told the story of devastated Belgium. A patriotic poem written by a Tipton school girl, Mary Grace Beyersdorfer, was read at the conference. The sectional meetings for war workers were successful and the patriotic mass-meetings were very largely attended.

Vanderburg County.—A call for twenty-five Evansville boys of the United States Boys' Working Reserve has been made by Jacob Cronbach, a Posey county farmer, who is managing 3,500 acres of farm land on shares. Mr. Cronbach recently wrote to Henry B. Walker, director in Vanderburg county for the boys' working reserve movement, asking for boy power and saying the pay for such labor will be regulated by the farm knowledge, experience and ability to handle teams and farm implements shown by the boys. The United States Boys' Working Reserve seeks to organize as well as train boys under 21 and more than 16 to take the places in field and shop of men who have gone to the colors. Mr. Cronbach's call for help is typical of the situation in the farm labor world in war time....Meatless day as observed at the Southern Hospital for the Insane at Evansville means a saving of 600 pounds of beef a week. Corn bread is served at the institution on wheatless days. Mrs. H. M. Brading and Miss Beale Meeks took the lead in the work done by Evansville women in the Red Cross membership drive....The ladies of the Knights of St. John are working regularly for the Red Cross. Sixteen members were on hand at a recent all-day session at the Red Cross shop....Card clubs in Evansville have been turned into knitting societies and Red Cross branches. Miss Ruth Heliman, Mrs. Louis Legler, Mrs. Robert Vlehe, Miss Eloise Geupel and others, leaders in long-established card clubs, are enlisted among the knitters and have put play aside for the period of the war....Women in Evansville who are mothers of soldiers stationed at Camp Taylor, Louisville, have formed a war work organization with Mrs. A. R. Schultz as president and Mrs. Boaz Crawford secretary. Mrs. Crawford has been getting a list of Camp Taylor men from Evansville who are motherless, and it is the purpose to give the orphan soldiers special attention.

Vermilion County.—Boy Scouts of Clinton took charge of the distribution of hand bills and advertising matter for the recent big war conference in Vermilion county. The scouts have divided Clinton in sections and each section has its squad of scouts on duty at the call of the County Council of Defense. The boys are the messengers, volunteer agents of the defense council, acting under orders from Commander-in-Chief Woodrow Wilson's recent public call to service....Proper conception of the purpose of the sectional meetings at the county war conference was indicated in Vermilion county, where some 1,200 persons, war workers, attended to get a line on the war work each is called on to do. The community singing of patriotic songs was a notable feature....Young folk of Clinton are being organized in the Junior Red Cross.

Vigo County.—Young men of the United States Boys' Working Reserve in Terre Haute recently gave a "Lick the Kaiser" dance for the benefit of the organization. All the members of the Vigo County Council of Defense acted as chaperons, along with the members of the advisory board of the reserve. The committee in charge of the affair was made up of boys from six different schools which have formed clubs, the following being on the committee: Louis Appman, chairman; Edson Wisely, Dwight Spencer, Kenneth Isgrig, Roy Wilkins, Dan Lynch and Robert Stephens. The dance was made the occasion for the presentation of some fifty bronze service medals or awards to boys of the various clubs who have earned distinction through performing war duty. St. Anthony's Hospital, Terre Haute, in line with patriotic service, has opened a school for war nurses. In charge is Miss Genevieve Anderson, formerly of St. Vincent's Hospital, Indianapolis....The activities of the Vigo County National War Fund Association, which seeks to provide through paying members for a central fund on which to draw for various war needs, have attracted attention at Washington, and official inquiries have been made as to the plan, its workings and the success attending it....A successful patriotic rally was held in Terre Haute recently under the auspices of the Patriot League. Finley A. McNutt is at the head of the local branch of the league.

Wabash County.—Residents of Wabash county, old and young, are getting the thrift stamp habit, and the sales of war thrift certificates and war savings stamps are increasing steadily from day to day, according to Postmaster Nell Lunaree of the city of Wabash. The month of January saw a decided growth in the popularity of the thrift stamps and certificates, or baby bonds. Wabash county is to invest $533,520 as her part of Indiana's $58,000,000 subscription to this thrift stamp war loan of small investors. The sales in the city of Wabash are averaging almost $200 a day....Milo Meredith, chairman of the Wabash County Council of Defense, recently put out a red-hot newspaper statement, in which he put the war situation in plain terms to the men of Wabash county. Mr. Meredith sharply criticised the men of the community for failing to take part in war work or in patriotic activities connected with the labors the councils of defense have been assigned to perform. Mr. Meredith and his family have made a good record for wholehearted, patriotic service. He recently offered his resignation as chairman of the Wabash county defense body in order that he might give more time to the duties attached to his high office in the Maccabees. He is still in war work....Major G. H. Richardson, formerly chaplain in the British army, who saw service in France, lectured recently at Wabash, a successful meeting being held, the proceeds going to the Red Cross. Tickets were sold for the event in all parts of the county through Red Cross workers and defense workers.

Wayne County.—Substantial response has been made to the demand for more workers at the Red Cross shop in Richmond, Wayne county. Mrs. Olive Allison is in charge of a hard-working class in surgical dressings. Women of St. Andrew's Catholic church, of the aid society of the United Brethren church, the First English Lutheran church and of other churches are systematically giving time and labor to the Red Cross work. Wayne county is to be one of the Indiana counties to strive for a largely increased production of foodstuffs in 1918 in compliance with the government's urgent call for more food for the armies and for the associates of America in the war. This county is to have a county agricultural agent to assist the farmers in producing better and larger crops....Richmond recently raised a service flag which is to bear the names of more than 600 men from the city who are in the military service. The flag was carried to the place of ceremony by members of the D. A. R. Civil war veterans, Spanish war soldiers and home guards marched in the parade, Lawrence C. Handley acting as marshal. William Bailey was chairman of the flag committee, with Demas S. Coe in charge of publicity, Edward H. Harris on the music committee and Frank Albus in charge of the program. The names of Richmond's soldiers and sailors will be embrodered on the municipal service flag by the members of the Richmond chapter of the D. A. R....Mrs. Joseph Conner, in charge of the Red Cross membership drive in the First ward, Richmond, reported 566 members in her ward, with seventy-nine homes adorned with the white star showing every member of the household enlisted in the Red Cross. Mrs. Elbert W. Shick led the Wayne county drive for members of the Red Cross, and the record made was one of the best in the State

Wells County.—War spirit was thoroughly aroused in Wells county by the successful county war conference held at Bluffton. One of the notable features of the session was a huge mass-meeting addressed by Lieutenant Hector MacQuarrie of the British artillery, who came direct from a long service on the battle front in France. In spite of bad roads the attendance at the conference was good and all parts of the county were represented. Active in the meetings were: A. R. Hoyette, county superintendent of schools; Dr. O. R. McKay, J. F. Meyers and other local leaders in patriotic work. Following an exposition of the war thrift certificate and savings stamp plan, it is planned to organize the Wells county schools at once for thrift work....To increase production in response to the nation's call for huge food supplies for immense armies and for the civilian population of the countries that are with America in the great war, Wells county farmers have organized a better farming association. E. W. Kruse is president of the organization, with Irel V. Pence vice-president, Herman F. Lesh secretary and chairman of committees in the townships. In the following departments: Beef cattle, dairy cattle, hogs, feeds, seed corn, sheep and fertilizer.

"America will win this war when public opinion holds the glutton and the selfish eater to be a public menace, and when the people, aroused to the truth, refuse to accept as Americans all those who refuse to abide by the doctrine of co-operation."—Alfred Atkinson.

Meatless days and wheatless days are sure steps towards fightless days.

Some Late Books on Germany

Any of the Following May be Borrowed From the Indiana State Library by Any Citizen of the State.

Ackerman, C. W. Germany, the Next Republic?

Mr. Ackerman was in Germany from March, 1915, to the break in diplomatic relations. His description of the struggle over the submarine policy, between the Bethman-Hollweg and the Tirpitz factions, is the most interesting part of the book.

Archer, William. Gems (?) of German Thought.

Compilation from German writers similar to Bang.

Bang, J. P. Hurrah and Hallelujah.

Extracts from the teachings of Germany's poets, prophets, professors and preachers, displaying an amazing glorification of Germany and contempt for other nations. The compiler is a Dane.

Curtin, D. T. Land of the Deepening Shadow.

Author is an American who went to Germany late in 1915. Shows how the Germans create and unify public opinion. Their exaggeration of the alleged Russian atrocities in East Prussia is one of the interesting chapters.

Fernau, Hermann. The Coming Democracy.

This book, written by a German, gives some of the evidence that proves that Germany desired and brought about the war. He believes that the power of the Hohenzollerns must be defeated on the battlefield before there can be liberty for Europe or for Germany herself.

Gerard, J. W. My Four Years in Germany.

There is much which Mr. Gerard could not yet discuss. Nevertheless, this is one of the most illuminating books which has yet appeared. Written to prove that "we are in this war because we were forced into it" and that "unless Germany is beaten the whole world will be compelled to turn itself into an armed camp, until the German autocracy either brings every nation under its dominion or is forever wiped out as a form of government."

Food Administration

Bakers who, to secure the benefit of a quantity price for flour, are forced to buy beyond the thirty day limitation permitted by the United States food administration, who secure the flour for no use other than for their own purpose to turn it into bread, who otherwise are conforming to the food regulations, and will agree not to abuse the trust by distributing any part of it other than is contemplated by the Federal regulations, will risk no penalty for such excess buying.

Wholesale and retail groceries may be now operated without reference to the heatless Monday regulations, except that they cannot sell tobacco and non-essentials. This order is a result of a conference between Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal food administrator for Indiana, and Evans Woollen, Federal fuel administrator for Indiana. County food administrators will be governed by this announcement, which supersedes all other orders.

County food administrators have been notified by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal food administrator for Indiana, to make any necessary modification of the new food regulations as applies to retail grocers when it is shown in writing that the retailer has no adequate supply of flour and flour substitutes on hand. Under the new food regulations it is required that retailers sell an equal amount of wheat flour substitutes with every order of wheat flour. The recognized substitutes are barley, buckwheat, corn flour, corn meal, corn starch, corn grits, potato and rice flours, hominy and oat meal, rice, rolled oats, soya bean flour and sweet potato flour. County administrators are further advised to adopt a plan of listing sales of flour similar to the method recently used in adjusting the sales of sugar, which listing resulted in preventing a serious shortage of sugar in the State.

Food producing and distributing establishments such as groceries, bakeries and fruit shops open for business on Sunday not only violate a State law, but waste man power and are not in conformity with the food conservation orders, says Dr. Barnard.

County food administrators are directed, as a result of a recent conference with Dr. Barnard, the Federal food administrator, to enforce the following war time program for Indiana retail grocers:

1. Cash and carry.
2. Reasonable profits.
3. Membership in the Federal Food Administration.
4. Close personal co-operation in their business through strict observance of the Federal regulations.
5. Voluntary price fixing, based upon a margin that permits of no waste either in merchandising or man-power.
6. Sunday closing everywhere and a shorter business day where possible.

7. Unfailing loyalty to the American government as represented by the Food Administration and other agencies directly touching their business.

Farmers who grow corn and wheat are expected to conform to the Hoover program for the duration of the war. Names of those found violating these regulations are wanted by Dr. Harry E. Barnard.

Retailers not coming within the provisions of the Federal license law are forbidden to purchase any of the fifteen licensed staples in such abnormal quantities as to constitute a departure from their normal business practices. Such action constitutes hoarding and is declared a felony under the new food control law.

Retailers of meat who seek to take advantage of an anticipated shortage of fresh meats are in danger of being cut off from their source of supplies. The Federal food administration expects inadequate transportation facilities and freight congestion to tie up meat shipments, particularly in the east. "Unless conditions in Indiana are peculiar," Dr. Barnard is advised, "you should inform the public that there will be little if any increase in the prices of live stock or the cost of production of meats during the near future and that any material advance in the prices of meats is therefore unreasonable."

The sale of flour by retailers, millers or other dealers, in towns or cities to individual consumers shall be in one-eighth to one-fourth barrel quantity or less. A gross maximum profit for wholesalers in flour should not exceed from 50 to 75 cents per barrel. Profits exacted by retail dealers in original mill packages should not exceed from 80 cents to $1.20 per barrel, depending upon the character of the service performed. Where retailers sell in amounts less than the original mill package, the gross profit should not exceed one cent per pound. Any profits in excess of these, or in excess that obtained in pre-war times, will be considered cause for an investigation. Substitutes for wheat flour should be sold at not more than a reasonable advance over actual purchase price of particular goods sold without regard to market or replacement value at the time of such sale.

Small pigs, killed in violation of the food administration regulations, were seized by food administration officers at Rockville, where two saloon-keepers had planned to serve the pigs to the public. The young pork was distributed to the needy poor at the command of the federal authorities, and the lesson was driven home to the offending persons that in this war period a rule of the food administration must be observed strictly and without fail.

The teaching of German in the grade schools of Indianapolis and Richmond has been discontinued. Patriots are now wondering why it was ever started.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 26

Editorial Comment

BOTH A LAW AND A DUTY.

The war-time food law means just what it says. When a food administrator issues an order as a war measure that order is to be obeyed, not only as a patriotic service, but as an act of compulsion under a drastic emergency law known as the Lever act. Here is an outstanding section of the Lever law which should be studied by every citizen, and which should be read to all who do not have the inclination to make a close study of war duties as laid down in America. The law says, at Section 17:

"That every person who wilfully assaults, resists, impedes, or interferes with any officer, employee or agent of the United States in the execution of any duty authorized to be performed by or pursuant to this Act shall upon conviction thereof be fined not exceeding $1,000 or be imprisoned for not more than one year or both."

The person who hoards coal or food at a time when the administration, as a war measure, is trying to distribute these necessities where most needed is liable to bring a heavy fine, up to $5,000, or imprisonment, up to two years, or both imprisonment and fine.

In any event the authorities will make public the names of offenders in order that patriotic people may know who is for the government and who is against the United States in the war.

THE GERMAN ATTITUDE.

There are in America today many well-meaning people who cling to the theory that there is nothing to prevent the complete fraternization of Americans and the German people. They have held steadfastly to the belief that the atrocities perpetrated in Serbia, in Belgium and France have been due to specific orders, the barbarism of the military caste. However, a study of the German viewpoint, as evidenced by her teaching, her preaching, her literature and her schools, throws an illuminating ray. Modern Germany is venomous, brutish, a lover of war and a master of intrigue. Read the following "Song of Hate" from the poet Vierordt, you misguided folks, and ponder on the question of the German soldier having been "driven" to do the outrageous things that have been proved against him:

"There was a time when the hordes of a Mongolian chieftain overran us with a great clashing of swords; and a dais was built for the chieftain's throne by piling up the skulls of Teutonic warriors.

"There was a time when the bands of the French revolution pressed on from the west to attack us; with them came the mocking Gallic spirit, and the hand of pillage waved the torch of arson in the name of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity.

"There was a time the armies of the north men overran us, spreading over all the land death, flames and horror. They ascended the rivers at night, by the light of the moon, to throw themselves into battle like dragons come out of the sea.

"And now they all attack at once, like vultures seeking their prey; like bandits all three assail thee, my poor Germany, so tranquil under the great spruce trees—the Gallic coiner of phrases, the English robber, the Russian barbarian.

"O my Germany, into thy soul thou must etch a deep and terrible hate; this hate thou hast lacked for a long, long time. Retribution, vengeance, fury are demanded; strife in thy heart all human feeling and hasten to thy fight.

"O Germany hate! Slaughter thy foes by the millions and of their reeking corpses build a monument that shall reach the clouds.

"O Germany hate now! Arm thyself in steel and pierce with thy bayonet the heart of every foe; no prisoners! Lock all their lips in silence; turn our neighbors' lands into deserts.

"O Germany hate! Salvation will come to thy wrath. Beat in their skulls with rifle-butts and with axes. These bandits are beasts of the chase, they are not men. Let your clenched fist enforce the judgment of God.

"O Germany, the time to hate has come. Strike and thrust, true and hard. Battalions, batteries, squadrons, all to the front! Afterwards thou wilt stand erect on the ruins of the world, healed forever of thine ancient madness, of thy love for the alien."

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 108.

January 29, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Further referring to general bulletin No. 92 of January 10, we are very anxious to have the county committees for the control of solicitation of funds organized at once. A large number of counties have not yet taken action pursuant to bulletin No. 92 and it is imperative that those who have not, do so, and report to the State Council immediately.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 109.
WAR INSURANCE

January 29, 1918.

County Councils of Defense:

The time for soldiers' and sailors' insurance under the act of Congress of October 6, 1917, expires February 12, 1918, as to all men in service on the 15th of October, 1917. The Army and Navy have made a vigorous campaign of education in the camps and cantonments, and have brought over 450,000 men under the provisions of the law, with an insurance of over $3,700,000,000. While this sounds like an excellent showing, it is far from the maximum—very far from what ought to be accomplished. There remain at least 750,000 uninsured men whose time for application will expire February 12, 1918, and 250,000 more whose time runs out 120 days from their enlistment subsequent to October 15, 1917. We have just been asked by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance to call upon the County Councils to do everything possible to get as many more men insured as possible. In the short period that remains will you bring the facts to the attention of the families and friends of the soldiers and sailors from your county by the widest possible publicity?

We are sure you appreciate the need of speedy action and intensive publicity, and we know you will throw your energies behind this campaign with the same enthusiasm that has marked your support of all other war work.

The families of men in the service have an immediate interest in securing the insurance because they alone are eligible as beneficiaries in case of death. Tell them the necessity of immediate action and get them to urge all uninsured men into the protection of the law.

All enlisted men, commissioned officers, and members of the Army and Navy Nurse Corps, owe it to themselves and their dependents to take the full $10,000 of insurance—and to take it now.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 110.

February 1, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The United States Shipping Board has announced that it desires to have enrolled in a RESERVE 250,000 laborers of various crafts. This request comes because the Board is gradually completing its many shipyards on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts and the Great Lakes.

As these yards are completed it is planned to have an adequate supply of labor available at once through the United States Ship Builders Volunteer Reserve of the U. S. Public Service Reserve.

The Public Service Reserve has been asked to act as exclusive Enrolling Agent for this drive. The Reserve has a Head Enrolling Agent in your county and he will have complete charge of the registration of any men who desire to join the ship-building force. Registration supplies will be forwarded him as soon as adequate supplies reach N. E. Squibb, Federal State Director for the U. S. Public Service Reserve.

There are many other agencies which have been asked to co-operate in facilitating this Registration. The State Council of Defense has been asked by the National Council and by Mr. Edward N. Hurley, of the Shipping Board, to aid the State Director of the Public Service Reserve in every possible way. The National Organization of Four-Minute-Men has been asked to have speeches made on this subject, in theaters and other public places. The Indiana State Council of Defense has a permanent Ship-Building Committee which will co-operate with Mr. Squibb, Federal State Director for the U. S. Public Service Reserve. This committee is as follows:

L. C. Huesman, Indianapolis.
Frank Duffey, Indianapolis.
Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, Evansville.
Wm. C. Bobbs, Indianapolis.
George L. McIntosh, President Wabash College, Crawfordsville.

Meredith Nicholson, Indianapolis.

Now, in your county, it is asked that you get in immediate touch with your Head Enrolling Agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve whom you nominated. You will please give him all co-operation that is possible. There is nothing more important than a successful carrying out of the request of the Shipping Board.

Please also get in touch with your local Four-Minute-Men and see that they are properly coordinated with you and the Director of the Public Service Reserve.

You will receive direct from the Council of National Defense various bulletins and information regarding this drive. You may also get some supplies which we ask that you turn over to the Head Enrolling Agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve.

The time for registration was originally set for the two weeks beginning January 28, but owing to the delay in getting enrollment blanks and other supplies printed it was necessary to delay. It is hoped that supplies will be in the hands of the enrolling agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve not later than February 1, but in any event two things must be borne in mind:

1. That no active campaign for Registration should be started until the Agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve has his enrolling supplies.

2. That we are exerting every possible means in getting these supplies to the Agent at the earliest possible moment. In view of this situation as to supplies it is not advisable to start work until we notify you from this office. The Four-Minute-Men were instructed by their National Director to begin talking January 28 and we have asked them to hold off their speeches until supplies are sent out. Will you please see that they do not start their campaign until you are notified that supplies are in the hands of the Enrolling Agents.

There are several important things to bear in mind in connection with this registration.

First: No actual employment is guaranteed. No immediate acceptance of applications is guaranteed. It is to be distinctly understood that this is a registration for a Reserve for Ship Builders. Men will be called upon from this Reserve as the Shipping Board needs them.

Second: Make it clear that men are not to leave their present employment in anticipation of a job from the Shipping Board, but that it is hoped not to disturb industry any more than is necessary. That is one reason why the RESERVE is being formed, so that no industry will be unduly called upon at any one time. This is important to employers, so that they will understand and properly support the movement.

Third: If there are men in your community wanting immediate employment that belong to the mobile class of labor, have them go to the nearest Federal or State employment office.

The successful completion of our Government Ship-building program is one of the most important things that we as a Nation are facing today. Indiana's quota for the Reserve is 10,847. Therefore, anything that you or any of us can do to aid in the completion of ships is a most vital act. Please give this matter your very preferred attention so that your county will carry out its part in the largest way.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 111.

February 1, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

It is suggested that each county chairman get into communication with every group of men from his county now at one of the home training camps or in France. If possible, have each group select some man to act as correspondent for the home paper, to collect bits of information and gossip from the other men of the group and to forward it at regular intervals to the home paper. This regular correspondent can inform himself as to the kind of information forbidden by the censor and by getting into frequent communication with the home paper can supply to the community the sort of interesting and reassuring news demanded by friends and relatives. This suggestion is made to the county councils because many editors of county papers report that they have difficulty in getting the right kind of news letters from the front, and just now these news letters are most important.

It seems a practical plan, wherever a group of men from the same neighborhood are together in a camp, to select an official correspondent, preferably one who has the knack of writing and can be depended upon to get information from the boys and send it home.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 112.

February 2, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The production of wool in the United States has been decreasing for years. Today it is about one-half of the amount necessary for consumption in the United States for clothing and other purposes. In the past this shortage has been met through importations. Under present conditions all foreign markets are closed to the United States. The quantity of wool required by the country annually is 600,000,000 pounds. The quantity in sight for the next year is 230,000,000 pounds.

The large quantity of wool necessary for the use of the army and navy in the furnishing of their clothing and covering must somehow be furnished.

Moreover, mutton can be substituted for a large portion of the pork and beef now being used at home and which should go to the front, as they are in a measure the only meats that it is practicable for the army and navy to use.

Therefore, realizing the necessity for immediate action in this matter, the State Council of Defense of Indiana has enlisted in a National campaign to encourage the production of sheep in order to increase in the speediest possible way the wool and food supply.

The State Council of Defense has appointed a committee of five for the purpose of encouraging and aiding the production of more wool and mutton in this State. The members of this committee are Frank Wampler, 248 North Meridian street, Indianapolis, chairman, N. L. Keach and William G. Irwin, all members of the State Council, together with William Holton Dye and Jesse Andrews. This committee is to advise with individuals and organizations interested in the distribution of sheep in this State. Further, to make recommendations relating to the best type of sheep for the Indiana farms, and to inspect those sheep that are brought into the State, an additional committee has been appointed, composed of Jesse Andrews, of West Point, Indiana, President of the Indiana Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' Association, Chairman; Professor J. H. Skinner, of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, and Doctor L. E. Northrup, State Veterinarian. This committee will also investigate the price asked by growers of large bands in the West and the price asked on the market at the large centers of distribution and will suggest a reasonable price to be asked for such sheep as are distributed to Indiana farmers.

County Councils of Defense are requested to get in touch with county agricultural agents at once and to co-operate with them in the appointment in each county of a local committee of three on sheep production and distribution. These committees should be instructed to place themselves in close touch with the committees appointed by the State Council of Defense and to do everything possible to stimulate and encourage in their counties the production of wool and mutton.

Will you please give this matter your immediate and best attention?

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Women's Section

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the women's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, authorizes the publication of the following:

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE,

Washington, D. C., January 29, 1918.

Woman's Committee, 1814 N Street Northwest.

CIRCULAR NO. 88.

CONCENTRATION OF WORK THROUGH EXISTING ORGANIZATIONS.

To State Chairmen:

May I call your attention to the fundamental purpose for which the Woman's Committee was appointed; namely, to serve as a clearing house for all woman's war work and to co-ordinate all organization of women; to prevent duplication, overlapping and unnecessary work, and to initiate new activities as the needs arise?

Wherever the State Division of the Woman's Committee has organized according to the methods of the Woman's Committee, and where the departments of work have been adopted and followed as suggested by the Woman's Committee and approved by the Council of National Defense, splendid results have been obtained with constantly increased co-operation between the State Divisions and the State Councils of Defense.

Unfortunately, however, there is an ever-increasing tendency on the part of women as well as men to organize new and wholly unnecessary societies with very attractive names, the result of which will greatly interfere with real work and in many instances has already confused the public mind, which is even now too much disturbed over the multiplicity of organizations, committees, etc.

This tendency to multiply organizations is frequently due to the fact that all the people are thinking, and thinking hard, with a patriotic desire to be helpful and to bring to the service of the government every new idea which occurs to them. Instantly they undertake to organize for that purpose, without waiting to inform themselves as to whether an existing society is not better prepared for the work if the idea is a good one.

No plan has yet been brought to the attention of the Woman's Committee which cannot be better carried forward by some existing department of the Woman's Committee than by a distinct and separate organization having no Government authority.

The passion for forming new societies tends to weaken and scatter our efforts. We need to concentrate and direct our energies upon the work immediately in hand, and as fast as the exigencies of the war demand the Woman's Committee will endeavor to meet the needs of the hour through existing channels rather than by creating new machinery.

As Chairman of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, I earnestly advise you to discourage the creation of new organizations in your State. This advice is based not alone upon observation and experience but upon instructions given us at the time of the appointment of the Woman's Committee by the Council of National Defense, and those instructions were to the effect that we were not to create new machinery, but through the Woman's Committee to initiate new work when the requirements of the Government demanded it.

The Woman's Committee program includes all kinds of war work for the defense of the nation of which women are capable. A multiplicity of societies only creates confusion, expense, waste of time and energy in useless organizations, committees, conventions, etc., when every earnest woman's time is needed for real work. No right thinking woman who is keeping in touch with the world activities of war today can fail to realize that this is no time for useless or sentimental effort.

Our country needs workers, real workers, ready and willing to engage in active service, and every able-bodied woman should either be engaged in some useful work today or preparing to fill the place of some man who will be called in the next roll of the selective draft.

Therefore, I urge upon women everywhere to discourage multiplicity of organizations and to encourage the training of healthy young women for their country's service, under the Woman's Committee. They are the nation's army of women defenders.

Faithfully,
(Signed) ANNA H. SHAW,
Chairman Woman's Committee
Council of National Defense.

* * * * *

(By Katharine Merrill Graydon.)

Miss Helen Fraser, of London, will speak in Indianapolis on Wednesday evening, February 13, at Hollenbeck Hall under the auspices of the Woman's section of the Indiana Council of Defense. The lecture is open to the public.

Miss Fraser was chosen by Mr. Lloyd George to bring a message from the women of Great Britain to the women of the United States. There is assurance that her words will prove an inspiration to our women. The British women have been so picturesque and tremendous that their story can not be heard without making every listener more ardent in her desire to do war service.

Miss Fraser has been speaking since her arrival in the country on November 30 to crowded houses. Indeed, the demand for her services has been so great that she has consented to return to America for the season 1918-1919. She has spoken to the leading women's colleges of the East, where she has made a profound impression on faculty and students, upholding her reputation as "one of the most brilliant women speakers of Great Britain." She is speaking in America solely on what she considers the most vital subject before women today, viz., "Women's Part in Winning the War."

Indianapolis is most fortunate in being able to hear Miss Fraser and we urge all women who have it in their power to hear her. Especially do we hope the County Chairmen may be able to take the message back to their committees. It is a thing one can not afford to miss. We urge, therefore, every reader of the Bulletin to be present.

* * * * *

Referring to the work of the women, Mayor Grayson Murphy, of the American Red Cross, in a "family talk" to women workers at National headquarters, on his return from France, said in part:

"When I looked at those boxes and thought of what filled them, the moment was a very serious one for me. To know that all over our country the women who are sending their boys and their husbands into that hell—and a great many of them will never come back—were working by the fire at home, at night; in railroad cars, in theaters, at their different meetings—afternoons and mornings, working, working, working, to do what they could in this war to help care for those they loved and for those over there fighting for their country; that they had consigned to our care all of the product of their labor and that they were depending on us to see that those for whom they worked were cared for—was one of the most wonderful thoughts that I have ever had in my life.

"If it had not been for the feeling of pride that came to me in the thought of the splendid support that that meant at home, I doubt very much whether I should have been able to carry on under the load of responsibility that had been placed on me. We are the active agency for the people of our country over there. The responsibility and opportunity that go with that position are very wonderful and very beautiful."

* * * * *

Out of 250 executives in fourteen division offices of Red Cross 150 or 59% are women according to canvass which has just been made. These figures apply only to those holding important executive positions in division offices and do not include chapter officials. It was further shown that 56% of these executives are volunteers serving without remuneration.

The division form of organization has been in effect only since appointment of Red Cross war council and was found necessary because of tremendous growth of activities and operations of Red Cross brought about by war.

Prior to establishment of geographical divisions operation of Red Cross was centralized at national headquarters and the only women in headquarters organization were three in the nursing bureau and one who was a member of central committee. Since appointment of war council this number has been increased to twelve and Miss Elizabeth S. Hoyt appointed assistant to the general manager.

There is also a woman's advisory committee of eleven members and a woman's advisory committee on naval auxiliaries to war council consisting of fifteen members. There have recently been established about twenty-five institutes of home service which are training schools for Red Cross home service workers who will assist families of soldiers and sailors. There are two executive positions in each of these institutes and the number of men and women is practically equal. These have not been included in the above figures.

"In the selection of officials to conduct various activities," said Harvey D. Gibson, general manager, in a statement to James R. Garfield, manager of the Lake Division, "the policy is to obtain the most efficient, valuable person best qualified for that particular work. These appointments have been made regardless of policies, sex or religion."

* * * * *

BULLETIN NO. 23.

February 1, 1918.

To the County Chairman of the Registration Committee and the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense:

Since the County War Conferences are being held up to February 15, and as we are very anxious that nothing shall interfere with your coming to Indianapolis for instructions on registration, we have delayed asking you to come until the conferences are over.

We have set one o'clock P. M., Saturday, February 16, as the time for these instructions, and hope it will be possible for you to come at that time. It will be necessary to begin at 1 o'clock in order to complete the instructions that afternoon.

Kindly let us know whether it will be possible for you to be here on the 16th.

Very truly yours,

JULIA E. LANDERS,
Chairman Registration for Woman's Service.

On Sheep-Killing Dogs

The following report of the special committee appointed by the Chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense to look into the matter of the protection of sheep from dogs, utilizing the existing laws of the State, was received and approved by the Council at its meeting, February 6. The resolution accompanying it and a part of the report also was adopted and will be translated into action at once:

In compliance with the suggestion made by members of the Council the Committee conferred with the Honorable Ele Stansbury, Attorney General of the State of Indiana, in regard to the existing laws authorizing the destruction of dogs for the purpose of protecting sheep and he submits to this Council his following opinion:

"The committee, composed of members of the State Council of Defense, appointed by yourself to investigate and report upon the possibilities of increasing the sheep industry and to protect the same from the ravages of dogs, have requested me for advice concerning the law authorizing the destruction of dogs for the purpose of protecting sheep.

"In response to such request I will say that there are three sections of Burns' R. S. of 1914 which are very simple and plain, which I think cover the entire field of the law as concerns the subject of the destruction of dogs."

Section 3257 provides:

"It shall be lawful for any person at any time to kill any dog which may be found running, worrying or injuring sheep."

Section 3265 provides:

"Any dog that is known to have killed, maimed, chased or worried any sheep, cattle, horses, swine or other live stock, or fowls, unless accompanied by his master or some other person, may be killed by any person, and any person who shall own, keep or harbor any dog, after he knows that such dog has killed or maimed, chased or worried any sheep, cattle, horses, swine, or other live stock or fowls shall be fined in any sum not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars."

Section 3271 provides:

"If any dog shall be found roaming over the country unattended by his master or owner, or his owner's agent, it shall be lawful to kill such dog."

"Dogs roaming on the streets unattended by their owners may be lawfully killed."

Walker v. Towle, 156 Ind. 689.

The statute of 1883 which extended certain protection to dogs that had been duly listed for taxation was repealed in 1891.

State v. Brugh, 5 Ind. App. 592.

Section 3256 of the Revised Statutes of Indiana provides:

"If any dog shall kill or injure any sheep, the owner or harbinger of such dog shall be liable for all damages that may be sustained thereby, to be recovered by the party injured before any court having competent jurisdiction."

"The legislature has power to restrain the keeping of dogs by providing regulations therefor and enforcing penalties for a violation thereof."

Mitchell v. Williams, 27 Ind. 62.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) ELE STANSBURY,
Attorney General.

From the above it is apparent that the law is such as to cover the present situation in Indiana and it is the opinion of your Committee that at this time, when the matter of wool and mutton is of such vital importance, that the people of Indiana and more especially the farmers, should have brought to their attention their rights under the present laws in reference to the killing of dogs in order to protect the sheep raising industry. From the above opinion the sheep killing dog need not be a serious menace to the sheep raiser, and this Committee recommends that through our State Council, County Councils and Township Councils the people of Indiana should be thoroughly acquainted with the fact that our law provides that any person not only has the right to kill any dog found running, worrying or injuring sheep or other live stock but under Section 3271 that "If any dog shall be found roaming over the country unattended by his master or owner, or his owner's agent, it shall be lawful to kill such dog."

It is also the opinion of this Committee that since it is the duty of all officers of the law to afford protection to the property of the citizens, that it be especially called to the attention of all the sheriffs and their deputies, all the marshals and their deputies, all the constables and policemen that it is their duty to carry out the law and to kill all of the stray and unattended dogs that are roaming over the country which are such a great menace to the sheep industry of the State.

It is also the opinion of your Committee that it would be wise to impress upon the farming public that it is the duty of every man to rid his community of the dog that is in the habit of roaming over the fields and public roads, and that there should be a sentiment created to eliminate these dogs that stray over the country that are not only useless but are a menace to the production of more food and wool; that they are a menace not only to the sheep raiser but to the farming community in general in that they carry contagious diseases such as hog cholera from farm to farm; that they consume food that would be better utilized for other purposes.

It is the opinion of your Committee that the sheep production of Indiana may be increased one hundred per cent. in the next year, and if the agencies now at work are reasonably successful in bringing in more breeding ewes, that this increase may be easily several hundred per cent. The mutton and wool derived from this increase will be available within the next eight or ten months. There is no doubt that sheep can be maintained on every farm in Indiana to the extent of probably one to every ten acres without any actual net cost. In fact, a small number of sheep on every farm are so valuable in keeping down weeds, briars and noxious plants that they will balance up the small amount of feed that they might consume in the winter. Thus these sheep, from the profit making standpoint of the farmer, are of a greater value to him than the same amount invested in any other item of farming, aside from the patriotic duty to produce an increase of food and wool.

Therefore, the Committee believes that this Council should pass such a resolution as to bring the law in reference to dogs before the proper officials and also to the attention of the people and that such resolution should be given wide distribution by means of the County Councils and their sub-divisions, therefore, the Committee submits the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Council forward to every County Council and ask that they give as much publicity as possible to the opinion of the Attorney General, dated February 2d, 1918, as quoted above, and that it be the sense of the Council that every officer should be impressed with his duty under the present law to assist in ridding the State of such dogs as are a menace to the production of live stock, sheep especially, and that every citizen should be urged to assist the officers in their duty so that the farmer and stock raiser should be encouraged in the production of sheep by the fact that every effort will be made to enforce the said laws, regarding the protection of sheep from the ravages of sheep killing dogs;

That there should be a special emphasis placed on the need of sheep and wool at this time and that it is the patriotic duty of the farmer to help in the production of sheep and wool as well as the duty of all citizens to assist in the elimination of the sheep killing dog which is such a large factor in preventing Indiana from producing her share of the mutton and wool for this country.

E. M. WILSON,
J. L. KEACH,
ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Committee.

A New Indiana Honor!

Ira F. Barnhard, a painter of Flora, by enlisting first in the United States Public Service Reserve's ship-building army brings an added war glory to Indiana.

James Bethel Gresham, of Evansville, was one of the first three men who gave their lives on the field of battle, in France. Sergt. Arch, a "red-headed gunner" from South Bend, fired the first artillery shot at the Boches.

Barnard deserves to rank with Gresham and Arch, says N. E. Squibb, Indiana director of the Public Service Reserve. His enlistment in the ship-building army is perhaps more important in view of the existing situation, than any other thing he could do for his country. His example will be emulated by 10,846 more patriotic Hoosiers, who are needed for the State's quota in the big force of civilians who are going to do their best to help win this war.

Indiana Schools on Seed Corn Testing

Valuable Gold Medal Offered for Best Essay on Subject of Timely Importance.

The State Committee on Food Production and Conservation is urging that every ear of corn be tested in order to secure an abundant yield for the 1918 crop. To assist in this work the Indiana Corn Growers Association is conducting a seed corn testing essay contest during February in Indiana schools. The contest will be open to all boys and girls in Indiana of club age, ten to eighteen years. The winner will be awarded a valuable gold medal. One-half of the counties in Indiana have already completed plans for the contest.

According to provisions of the contest, the schools in various townships will compete, the winner being selected by a committee composed of teachers and a farmer. Each paper will be graded fifty per cent. on the information given regarding seed corn testing and fifty per cent. on composition and rhetoric. Papers of the township winners then will be graded by a committee composed of the county superintendent and two others. Winners of the county contest will be in the running for the fine gold medal to be given by the corn growers, and their manuscripts will be sent to Purdue University where a committee from the soils and crops and from the English departments will select the best, the same rules regarding grades being applied in all cases. Essays are limited to 1,000 words.

Prizes will be awarded in townships and counties as the counties decide. In many instances, trustees have made appropriations of from $5 to $15 for their winners and in other communities local bankers, millers and other business men are offering prizes of various sorts as an incentive to the boys.

SURVEY COMPLETED THIS WEEK.

The most complete seed stocks and labor survey ever attempted in the United States will be completed in Indiana this week. In anticipation of the survey a large number of preliminary seed corn tests have been made. A number of these tests have been conducted by the schools. Other tests have been conducted by millers and grain dealers. The Crabbs-Reynolds-Taylor Company is making corn germination tests for farmers at sixteen of their large elevators in the State. Tests made by this company indicate that much of the corn of the 1917 crop is germinating less than 50 per cent.

TOMATOES A WAR CROP.

A statement on the tomato crop in Indiana is made by Prof. L. Greene of the Purdue horticultural department.

The Quartermasters Department of the United States army must have canned tomatoes for the soldiers, as this product is recognized as a prime necessity. Forty per cent. of the total 1918 output of all canning factories has already been requisitioned. Because an increased pack is essential in 1918, Indiana farmers are called upon to double their total acreage of last year.

The 1917 acreage was increased by 20 per cent. over 1916, bringing the total for Indiana to 36,355 acres or one-fifth of the total acreage in the United States.

Indiana's acreage must be increased to at least 50,000 acres in 1918 or Indiana will fall below what is expected of her in helping to feed the soldiers in France. Indiana farmers have met every demand possible that has been made upon them and without doubt they will meet this demand for more tomatoes.

Fortunately for the farmer and for Indiana agriculture the production of tomatoes does not deplete the soil but leaves it in excellent condition for wheat and other crops. One Delaware grower claims to raise one-third more wheat on tomato ground than on stalk ground. He also claims that clover and timothy seeded with the wheat will produce one-third more on tomato ground. Experiences of Indiana growers would bear out this contention as many statements are received that the tomato preceding wheat in the rotation greatly increases the yield.

The tomato, comparatively speaking, is not a soil-exhausting crop. The roots and tops, or the crop residue, contains more fertilizing elements than those of most other crops. The roots and stubble amount to about 4½ tons per acre which contains 27 pounds of nitrogen, 4 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 34 pounds of potash, which means quite an addition of plant food and has a high value at present prices of fertilizers.

In addition to increasing the acreage of tomatoes the production per acre must be greatly increased and this can easily be done by employing proper methods of culture. The production of early plants, care in transplanting, thorough cultivation, fertilizers, protection against insects and diseases and proper harvesting methods will help to increase the total pack.

* * * * *

ALFALFA WILL HELP WIN THE WAR.

"Alfalfa on Every Hoosier Farm."—Slogan.

The following letter has been received by the Indiana committee on food production and conservation from the Alfalfa committee of the Indiana Corn Growers' association:

"Gentlemen:

We beg leave to call to your attention for very serious consideration the importance of the alfalfa plant as a possible ally to the Hoosier State in doing its full measure towards the winning of this war. There are certain advantages in the growing of alfalfa (a comparatively new crop with which too many of our farmers are not well acquainted) over other hay crops which we are outlining as follows:

1. It is a forage crop that produces larger yields than any other similar crop. Land that is capable of producing two tons of clover, cowpeas or soybeans, or one to two tons of timothy will generally produce three to five tons of alfalfa hay when the soil is properly prepared.

2. It is a crop that every kind of farm animal eats in preference to any other hay. Even chickens eat it.

3. It is a hay whose feeding value is second to none. Being a legume it gathers a large part of its nitrogen from the air to store in the soil and that makes this gaseous nitrogen (a cheap and natural source of this high priced and very necessary element) into plant life which in turn becomes a feed. As a result it helps supply the demand for nitrogen of which there is not a sufficiency and which is almost out of the financial reach of the farmer. Again, being a legume, it has a high proteid content and tends to replace that expensive substance which is bought in feed concentrates and of which there is a shortage at the present time.

4. The shortage of labor in the United States due to 2,000,000 or more men being taken into military life, the stoppage of 1,000,000 immigrants that formerly came to this country annually and other agencies have made the labor conditions a vital problem to the farmers today and this situation is sure to be more critical in 1918 than it was in 1917. Alfalfa will help to alleviate this matter as it is our best hog pasture. Alfalfa will carry more hogs to the acre than any other grass crop and will make greater pork gains, and, as a result of the practice of hogging, the alfalfa acreage will replace perhaps an equal number of acres of some other crop that will make demands upon the farmers for labor that cannot be well met.

In view of the above four factors, each deemed of considerable importance by us, we, the alfalfa committee of the Indiana Corn Growers Association, the most powerful farmers' organization in Indiana, kindly request our Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation to conduct a State wide propaganda for an increased acreage of alfalfa in the State of at least 100 per cent. this year 1918, and use as a patriotic slogan "Alfalfa on Every Hoosier Farm," if considered of sufficient importance by you. Purdue University, members of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association and county agricultural agents are one and all excellent agencies for assisting in this work and you will find them willing and active co-operators.

Respectfully submitted by the Alfalfa Committee of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association.

D. F. MAISH,

Chairman.

CHARLES J. JONES,

Secretary.

W. T. MARTINDALE,

H. R. SMALLEY,

WALTER V. KELL

Patriotic Press Comment

Newspapers Follow Orders.

Occasionally we hear biting comment on the Federal and State authorities on the part of certain merchants because of rules and regulations laid down at Washington and Indianapolis and dealing with the conservation of certain food commodities.

The comment grills the newspapers for agitating conservation at the request of the government. Among these newspapers the Times has been numbered for doing what it patriotically believes only its duty.

The merchants who are making threats are obviously doing an extremely unwise thing. If they are carrying on their business in such a way as not to live up to these governmental regulations they have themselves to blame for whatever happens.

The newspapers do not make these rules and regulations. They are printed only at the advice and solicitation of the United States now in a state of war; now prosecuting that war with a vengeance. They have no other recourse than to print them.—Lake County Times.

Serious Food Saving.

Repetition of food-saving exhortations becomes wearisome. But as long as the public falls short of putting these exhortations into practical effect they must be continued. Well as our loyal and thoughtful housewives and restaurateurs have done, they are not yet doing their full duty. We have saved sugar, wheat and meat, but not enough.

Every authoritative statement from England or France or Italy emphasizes the seriousness of the food situation. No doubt conditions are better among our allies than among the Germans. But they are bad beyond the conception of most of our well-fed and over-optimistic people.

Our allies are already on rations. Those rations eliminate nearly all the culinary luxuries we enjoy. They mean simple food, and the smallest quantity of it on which men, women and children can sustain their strength and do their work.

Our allies cannot maintain those rations unless we supply them with the material. And we cannot supply it unless we save.

Ours is the easiest role in the war. We are not asked to stint ourselves as our allies are doing. We are only asked to substitute some foods for others, because the others can be more easily shipped and used.

It's quite simple and easy. We must eat more corn, potatoes, oats and rye. We must eat less wheat, sugar, beef and pork, so 'hat more of these foods can go to our allies. If we don't do that, we may lose the war. And it would serve us right.—Elkhart Truth.

Somebody Lied!

Heard a traveling man say, one day last week, that he has a son at Hattiesburg, who has not had a change of clothing since going into camp. To hear this man talk one would think that the boy is barely clad, hatless and ill shod.

Clarence Shaw and Ray Rush are both at Hattiesburg. They tell a different story. They write home that they have plenty of everything and that they are having the time of their lives.

One of two things is evident. Either that son has been used to too much at home, or the parent is sore and a knocker. At any rate the tale of "that son" and the evidence of our "two boys" do not corroborate.

Over-indulgent parents should not humor their boys with broadcloth, silks and ermine, and hamper their lives with untold luxuries. Paraphernalia of kings is not in vogue at Hattiesburg.—Flat Rock Herald.

Red Cross Activities

Beginning Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, and continuing until Feb. 22, Washington's birthday, special interest in Junior Red Cross activities will be stimulated among the schools of Indiana.

Girls are to be taught to make refugee garments while boys will be utilized for the making of packing cases, splints and crutches.

To avoid duplication in the use of the school as a means of carrying on patriotic propaganda, the officials of the Red Cross have agreed that the Junior Red Cross auxiliaries shall combine with their Red Cross work such special tasks as the thrift stamp, fuel conservation, liberty bond and similar commissions have for the children to perform.

Ralph V. Sollitt, of Bloomington, Ind., is assisting in the organization of this work in Indiana.

Relief instructions have been wired by James L. Fieser, Director of Civilian Relief, American Red Cross, to all Red Cross chapters in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, which are in or adjacent to territory hit by high water and ice floes.

These chapters have been asked for an immediate report on the number of families affected and the nature of the damage done or threatened. The instructions asked chapters to combine their civilian relief and executive committees into an emergency relief committee, augmented by municipal authorities and civic organizations. Subcommittees are being appointed to look after finances, transportation of families and furniture, temporary housing, food, clothing, sanitation and permanent relief.

Lake Division and national headquarters of the Red Cross are ready to supplement the efforts of local Red Cross flood relief if necessary.

"The Red Cross knows that the soldiers and sailors want sweaters and other knitted articles. These goods can be obtained from the Red Cross in single garments only upon individual request, or, if in bulk, then upon the request of a commanding officer. How great the need is, is best evidenced by the fact that in addition to the hundreds of thousands of knitted articles produced by our Red Cross chapters in the last few months we have been compelled to purchase 550,000 extra sweaters alone to meet the insistent demand made upon us by our men for them.

"We are sorry that we had to do any purchasing at all because we know how much the soldiers and sailors of this country prefer the sweaters and other articles knitted by the women of this country.

"It may be understood further that in addition to the demands of our army and navy we have very urgent demands from commissions abroad for like articles for destitute civilian populations.

"It is hoped that this general statement will satisfy the women of this country who have been devoting all their possible time to knitting for our men. We can not too strongly urge all women who are now knitting to keep on knitting." —Harvey D. Gibson, general manager of the American Red Cross.

More than fifteen hundred families of enlisted men whose homes are in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are at present receiving assistance from home service workers of Red Cross chapters, according to estimates based on partial reports in the hands of James L. Fieser, director of civilian relief of the Lake Division, American Red Cross, Cleveland. Approximately 500 cases needing relief have been cleared to chapters by J. Martin Telleen, Red Cross field director at Camp Sherman, and 450 cases by Kirkwood Mitchell, field director at Camp Taylor. Needy families of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky men at Camps Pike, Shelby, Sheridan and Upson and at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Chicago are also being looked after by Red Cross Home Service workers. To date 85 out of 109 Ohio chapters, or 77.9 per cent, have organized home service sections. Indiana is pressing Ohio hard with 73 out of 103 chapters organized for this work. Kentucky is showing great improvement with 53 out of 135 chapters so organized. The three States are now 60 per cent organized for this feature of Red Cross work. A month ago the organization percentage was 52.

W. S. S. News

Latest report received at War Savings State Headquarters, South Bend, shows that Indiana is rapidly gaining its proper place among the States in this important war work. The organization for War Savings has been worked out in all the counties of the State, and in the various cities and towns special Thrift campaigns are now being conducted.

The Evansville campaign of last week was one of the most successful, not only in Indiana, but, according to population, one of the best that has yet been reported in the entire country. The Evansville movement was in charge of Postmaster John J. Nolan, and he drafted the business men, teachers and civic workers in Evansville into the work. These were divided into teams and team captains appointed, and lists of Evansville people selected for each and every team to call upon. In fact, the entire city was completely covered, taking the city precincts as the units.

Fort Wayne is another Indiana city that is making an especially good showing in War Savings work. The campaign there is proving especially productive in the sale of War Savings and Thrift Stamps. The city has been completely organized under the direction of Mr. M. H. Luecke, chairman of Allen county.

Throughout the State the school children are being enlisted in the War Savings work as they have in no other war effort. Thrift clubs either have been or are being organized in all of the schools, from the high school on down through the grades, and in the township and county schools as well. The Thrift stories which are being read each week in the schools are proving especially popular and productive of much good.

Last Sunday was Thrift Sunday, and reports indicate that practically all the churches throughout Indiana made special reference to W. S. S., and in many churches Thrift sermons were preached.

To Ministers and Teachers

The following communications from the Huntington County Council of Defense to the ministers and teachers of Huntington county are presented for the consideration of other county councils of defense in the State:

To the Ministers in the City and County:

Fully appreciating the help given by the ministers of our churches in the past months and the individual and collective interest they have shown in giving open and effective expression to their respective congregations in matters of vital import to the cause of our nation and to humanity, we take this occasion to utter a word expressive of the far-reaching value of such service.

We feel it our duty at this time to call your attention to the following:

Forty million men are now in battle array, called from the productive ranks of life. The fields of Europe are depleted of effective help. The wonderful deficit thus made can only be redeemed and the supply of food be vouchsafed by the co-ordinated efforts of American manhood and womanhood. Every ounce of flour saved from the bread board and garbage can daily in each home means 20,000,000 ounces, 6,428 barrels, 20,833 bushels of wheat. Like computations can be made on waste of meat, lard and sugar.

All are surely requested by our national food administration to observe persistently the definite days set apart as wheatless and meatless days and to save at all other times all we consistently can of the above named articles of food.

In addition to the constant daily continuance of food saving, our people need also to be inspired with the fact that the following year will not diminish its demands on us to produce and save all lines of non-perishable food products as well as fuel supplies.

Will you not on next Sunday, and as frequently thereafter as possible, emphasize in sermon and announcement the absolute national and international necessity for the conservation of food and fuel?

We trust that you will continue to co-operate with us in all ways possible and give such assistance as you can in keeping the question of food conservation before all in your community and especially before your congregation.

We thank you in advance for your co-operation. HUNTINGTON COUNTY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE,

By PETER MARTIN, Chairman.

To the Teachers of Huntington County:

The desire of the Council of Defense, arising from urgent necessity, is at this time to make an appeal to the students and teachers of history and to consecrate some time and effort to help in the writing into the world's history an epoch in developing and safeguarding human liberty, the like and far-reaching effects of which have never been attempted before in the history of the world.

The importance of Bunker Hill and Yorktown, of Fort Sumter and Gettysburg are cast in the scales at this very hour.

America is the nation to whom the earnest pleadings come not only from the beleaguered and bleeding nations and peoples, but also from those which are neutral in form but sympathetic in spirit.

America is given a task, a function, for which we absolutely fail to find a parallel. Educators must co-ordinate history and destiny now or never. The usefulness of our schools is now tested with the other loved institutions of American high plane of manhood and womanhood and of our institutional life. This war must be won.

We dare not permit it to be lost.

Each individual, in his sphere, has his part in it which can not be ignored or neglected.

The school teachers of our land are a large and a mighty force which must be utilized for potent help in this, our nation's crisis. Expressions of loyalty are not now sufficient unless made in concrete terms of productive service, springing from a constant and passionate interest in the boys at the front, the nation and its cause. You took these boys from the mothers' homes into the schools. You taught them there reverent patriotism and duty to the country.

It is your duty now to stand by these boys and back of them, side by side with the fathers and mothers, in the schools and elsewhere to organize conditions that will supply every need, safeguard every thought and act for their continued support in every way.

Differences in religion, politics or racial lineage do not enter into our activities nor hinder us in the performance of our duties.

The boys on the battle line are asked no questions along the lines. They stand side by side with the same impulses. They are Americans. So are we. At this particular time fuel production and conservation for this year and next call for united effort. Food conservation is of much concern at this time. Special days are set apart as wheatless and meatless for the tables of every home. These days are to be observed and no others should be substituted in place of them. Others may be added with helpfulness.

One ounce of flour dusted from the bread board each day in each house makes a total in our 20,000,000 homes that is appalling.

May we count on every teacher in our county to form the above statement into a concrete problem and get exact results?

Your resources will suggest many such problems to make clear the value now of every vestige of flour, meat, sugar, lard and fuel.

THE HUNTINGTON COUNTY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Edward H. Dufendach, Huntingburg, Ind., has received a letter from the commander of the company in which in his son, Mark Dufendach, is serving. Young Dufendach was wounded in a recent engagement. His captain assures relatives of the soldier that the injuries are not serious, and takes occasion to praise the courage of young Dufendach very highly, declaring that his conduct under fire was all that could be demanded and that he stuck by his gun to the last.

One-man power and insidious secret treaties between Governments will no longer be recognized by civilized nations.—James P. Goodrich, Governor of Indiana.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I INDIANAPOLIS, IND., FEBRUARY 15, 1918 Number 27

Emergency Classes in Agricultural Work

Indiana Boys Will Be Given Instructions in School for Application on the Farm Next Summer.

Realizing that if the Indiana boy is to do a man's job on the farm next summer, he must prepare this winter, the Indiana State Council of Defense in co-operation with the State Board of Education and the United States Boys' Working reserve has issued a bulletin outlining a course of training in "Emergency Agricultural Classes." This bulletin insists that in order to learn to do things, the boy must deal with concrete material and equipment. Horses, harness, wagons, machinery, implements, tools, cows, etc., must be at the disposal of the teacher.

Among the contributors to the bulletin are Z. M. Smith, State Supervisor of Agricultural Education for Indiana; Dean Eugene Davenport, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois; and Paul W. Covert, director of shop work, Emmerich Manual Training High School, Indianapolis.

In pointing out the need for these classes, the Indiana State Council of Defense in a letter addressed to all educators, farmers, and boys in the State, sounds a Call to Colors in part as follows:

A MAJOR WAR ACTIVITY

Of all war activities emphasized by the federal government, none demands a more vigorous prosecution than food production. The mobilization of an Army of sufficient size is assured by the selective draft. Shipbuilding and transportation by rail are now under control of the government. Increased food production is dependent upon the ability and willingness of each individual farmer and producer to exert himself to the utmost to increase his planted acreage. Therefore, no opportunity should be neglected to provide the farmer with those things he must have in order to bear the tremendous individual responsibility which is his.

The most perplexing problem confronting the farmer is his labor supply. It is reported that during 1916, thousands of experienced farm laborers in the United States left the farm for employment in factories in cities where higher wages are paid. Last year the drift of labor from the farm to the city continued, and, in addition, thousands of farmers' sons volunteered for service in the national guard, the regular army and the navy, and a never ending supply of recruits must be secured for the national army. No one can deny that the farm labor problem is perplexing—so are all war problems,—but there is a partial solution which will not be difficult to obtain, provided those on whose shoulders the burden falls will do their bit.

The national census reveals that there are about five million boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years in the United States. Almost two million of these boys are not permanently employed, that is they attend school in the winter, and therefore, are available for productive work in the summer. To secure pledges from a majority of these boys to substitute for men on farms is the partial solution offered by the United States Boys' Working reserve to the farm labor problem. It is a task, but not difficult, and it must be done, for the slogan from now on must be "NOT AN IDLE BOY IN AMERICA."

To teach boys who propose to substitute for men on farms some of the rudiments of agriculture, and to familiarize them with the nomenclature of farm life is the purpose of the organization of Emergency Agricultural classes in every county seat in the State, and particularly in all towns and cities of 2,500 population and over. The plan outlined in this bulletin proposes no hard and fast program but rather is designed to be suggestive to local school authorities, manual training teachers, agricultural teachers and agents, farm implement dealers, retired farmers, active farmers, livery men, all of whom it is hoped will co-operate with each other in making these classes as practical and successful as possible. The principal idea is to make the course so interesting that the boy cannot resist it.

These classes should begin as soon as possible, preferably not later than February 15, 1918. At least two afternoons per week and two Saturdays per month should be devoted to practical instructions, including actual demonstration and application. The boy should be encouraged to learn to do things with his own hands. Enrollment in these classes should be open to all high school boys regardless of age, to seventh and eighth grade boys who are recommended by their teachers, and to any other boys who, while not attending school, are anxious to do their bit on a farm next spring and summer. To succeed, this plan demands quick action. It is a vital war measure and should be received by every one in the State as a "Call to Colors" commanding complete co-operation and immediate execution.

*****

PLEDGE FOR AGRICULTURAL SERVICE

All boys who enroll in these classes are required to sign the following pledge:

"I have enough purpose and persistency and patriotism to train hard this winter so I can substitute on a farm next summer for some older man who has gone to war. Therefore, I apply for membership in the Emergency Agricultural Class and hereby pledge myself, if I make good and am accepted, to respond to the call when needed. 'I will be ready.'"

Signature of Boy.

CONSENT OF PARENT.

In addition, the boy must secure the consent of his parents, in effect as follows:

"Realizing that if we win this war, we must not only fight, but also raise more food, and being desirous of having the members of my family contribute all they can toward a success in this conflict, I take pride in granting permission to my son..... enrolling in the

Indiana in the War

(Memoranda prepared at the request of George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, of the Federal Government.)

- (1) Number of volunteers for Regular Army: 25,148 sent forward; 22,634 accepted, up to February 5, 1918. (Note) Quota in April call, 5,400.
- (2) Number of volunteers for the Navy: 4,516 up to February 5, 1918. (Note) Called on for 800 apprentice seamen. More than 4,000 obtained up to date.
- (3) Number of volunteers for the Marine Corps: 271 accepted. (Note) Indiana is very largely represented by old enlistments in this branch.
- (4) Present enlisted strength of National Guard, 10,417. April 1, 1917, the National Guard strength was 3,100. Gain from beginning of the war to August call, 7,317. (Note) Three regiments of State Militia have been organized for home guard duty and now are training and receiving equipment. State's sedentary militia called to action by executive proclamation, has organized more than 180 companies, with a strength of more than 10,000.
- (5) Subscriptions to the two Liberty Loans: First Loan, $47,000,000 against $32,000,000 allotted. Second loan, $72,923,000 subscribed. (Note) Large over-subscription.
- (6) Red Cross contributions: $2,097,806. (Note) State's quota, $1,000,000. Membership drive obtained 736,384 new memberships, 2.5 per cent. of the population.

EMERGENCY AGRICULTURAL CLASS so he can receive training this winter which will prepare him to substitute for a man in an efficient manner on a farm next spring and summer.

I pledge myself to encourage my son in this important work in every way I can, and will urge him, as a patriotic duty, to put forth his best effort to make good when he responds to any call for emergency service on a farm. Any recommendation of place of employment and time of release from school, made by the school authorities will be acceptable to me. However, I understand that if at any time conditions, which I do not now foresee, should interfere with my son accepting employment when called upon, I shall have the privilege of immediately securing his release from this pledge."

Signature of Parent.

This pledge when properly signed by the applicant and his parent, qualifies him for membership in the Boys' Working Reserve, provided he is under twenty-one years of age and 16 years or past by June 1, 1918.

Four-Minute Men—Attention!

February 6, 1918.

To County Chairmen—Four Minute Men:

Owing to the delay in receiving supplies in registering the Reserves for the ship-building, our campaign has been held up. Please start now to prosecute this campaign, vigorously continuing it through next week in order to get as many registrants as possible.

Please emphasize four things:

FIRST—This is merely a registration of reserves, and is not a call to immediate service in the ship-building department.

SECOND—No man should give up his job unless he is called later on for special service in the ship-building department.

THIRD—Men will be called only after careful survey by the Government Department of Labor in order that no industry necessary to the war may be crippled by the loss of employes.

FOURTH—Register with the local member of the shipping board. The County Council of Defense can give you the name of this man.

(Signed) PHILIP T. WHITE,
State Chairman Four Minute Men.

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—Rev. W. Paul Marsh of Decatur, head of the Adams county committee on civilian relief of the Red Cross of defense, is gathering the names of the men who have gone from the county into military service, the purpose being to get in touch with such of their relatives or dependents as may be in need of encouragement and aid. Mr. Marsh planned his canvass for the names of soldiers and sailors with the idea of publishing the honor roll for the information of the county.

Allen County.—Headquarters have been established by the Allen County Council of Defense with the idea of concentrating and centralizing the war activities and of the community. The new headquarters are in a rent-free room, No. 204, in the Utility building, Ft. Wayne. Miss Alpha Thomas is in charge. The Red Cross is the only branch of war service which is to be operated separately from this headquarters. The United States Boys' Working Reserve and the civilian relief activities are connected with the Defense Council office. Food Administrator Geo. M. Haffner and Fuel Administrator Henry Bendall are to share the Defense Council offices. The Allen County Council recently appropriated an additional $2,000 to carry on the Defense Council's work in 1918, and the body now reports $2,900 on hand. Out of $1,000 appropriated for the council last September only $90 has been expended, and even with the enlargement of activities for the present year it is estimated that the money in hand will serve.

Bartholomew County.—A red, white and blue program, carrying the flag and a complete round of patriotic addresses and instructive sectional meetings, helped make the Bartholomew county war conference, February 1, a more than usual success. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Councils of Defense, National, State and County, and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce was definitely associated with the meeting. The organization for putting over the war conference included the following: Executive—Wm. H. Lincoln, chairman; Jesse Newsom, J. R. Dunlap, Mrs. Herriott Overstreet, Mayor Frank S. Jones, Ben C. Thomas, J. E. Northway, Secretary. Program—Prof. T. F. Fitzgibbon, chairman; Prof. A. W. Mason, J. E. Northway. Reception—Wm. H. Lincoln, chairman; Judge Hacker, Judge Donaker, Wm. G. Irwin, M. O. Reeves, John M. Thompson, Ben C. Thomas, Jesse Newsom, Samuel Sharp, C. M. Job, G. L. Reeves, Charles S. Barnaby, Mayor Frank S. Jones. Ushers—Prof. F. L. Busenbarg, director; Lloyd Cook, Orville Thompson, Frank McLaughlin, Charles Taylor, Paul Montgomery, Harry Lindsay. Arrangements—Stanley J. Cooper, chairman; J. D. Emmons, L. H. Harmon, Newell Romine, Ray Henderson, L. B. Williams.

Benton County.—Town attorneys of the various towns of Benton county form a committee named by the County Council of Defense to put burrs under chronic loafers who infest certain localities and fall to do their parts either in war work or in industry or self-maintenance. The town attorneys are back of town ordinances which are expected to deal drastically and effectually with the cases of the Weary Willies who are not interested in the war or in honest toil. Pool rooms are to be closed at 10 p. m. during the week and at 11 o'clock Saturday nights, and it is expected that the pool rooms, recognized as centers for chronic loafers, will be kept under surveillance by the anti-loafer committeemen everywhere. Benton county has taken in hand, for its own idlers, a policy which is being suggested by Councils of Defense in all the counties of the State.

Blackford County.—It has been reported by A. G. Lupton, food administrator for Blackford county, that a number of farmers in the county have been hoarding corn and refusing to sell it to those who need the grain for feeding purposes. Mr. Lupton is working out plans for setting free a large quantity of this hoarded supply in order that hog-raisers may be enabled to help increase pork production as directed by the national war administration as a war measure. The corn is badly needed because of the inability of the railroads to carry hogs to market....Organizers for the war thrift stamp campaign in Blackford county are at work under the leadership of Postmaster E. E. Cox, A. G. Lupton, B. A. VanWinkle and Chairman W. C. Niece of the County Council of Defense....Mr. A. Clapper has been named to take the place on the County Council of Defense made vacant by the resignation of Mayor Neal of Montpelier. It is the understanding that in future all members will be active workers, and with the large increase in the volume of work, meetings are to be held weekly.

Boone County.—One of the earliest county meetings held in Indiana to discuss war-time problems affecting the county and the towns and cities of the county, was that at Lebanon, Boone county, December 16 and 17. The meeting was intended especially to bring about a discussion of war-time social problems. The affair was planned and carried through in co-operation with the State Council of Defense and the conference of State charities and corrections. Chairman Will H. Hays spoke at the mass meeting which opened the two-day conference, and the gathering was one of the most notable ever held in the State. Since that time the State-wide war conference and county war conferences throughout the State have been held. Boone proudly calls attention to her part as a pioneer.

Brown County.—Olive E. Kelp, secretary-treasurer of the Brown County Sunday-School Association, reports from Nashville that the organization has sent forward the sum of $1,111.50 for the Armenian and Syrian relief fund.

Carroll County.—Soldiers of Delphi who were members of the Christian Sunday-school were honored at a special, patriotic service at the Christian church recently. A roll of honor was unveiled, and a program of a patriotic character was given....A wealthy citizen of Delphi who gave $1 to the Red Cross fund for war needs, was somewhat taken aback when the committee returned his contribution with the comment that he might "use" the money....Carroll county women have organized the women's section of the County Council of Defense under Mrs. Howe, the woman member of that body, the heads of twelve committees forming an executive committee. The committee chairmen are completing their township organizations. Just now the committee on enrollment and women's service, headed by Mrs. James P. Wason, is at the front, preparing for the April registration which is to be State-wide. Mrs. Wason is preparing to attend a State conference of women of this department February 16 at Indianapolis, the State house, where instructions are to be given.

Cass County.—The boys of the working reserve of the Bethlehem township high school, Cass county, turned their patriotism and elbow grease to practical use recently by cutting and hauling wood to supply the school with fuel in place of coal, all without cost to the township. The boys and their sawbuck clubs have kept the schools open and operating in spite of the serious coal shortage. The reserve at Metea has made a record for 100 per cent. efficiency. More than 80 per cent. of the boys eligible have joined, and all have already won the right to wear the bronze war service medal of the organization. Through the season Principal Elmer L. Norris has permitted the boys who stand above the 85 per cent. average in school work to take one day each week to help their fathers with the farm work, with special reference to handling the corn crop. The younger boys of Metea have organized a junior boys' working reserve, under the lead of Lewis Hyman, assistant principal, and have taken a pledge to perform home duties systematically and cheerfully as a war service....George A. Gamble and his Four-Minute Men are driving home at this time in movie theaters and other public places the need for men to help carry forward the vital ship-building work of the government. Chauncey M. Custer is the enrolling officer for the United States Public Service Reserve which has in hand the work of gathering man power in Cass county for the shipping board's needs.

Clinton County.—T. R. Spray of Frankfort, chairman in Clinton county of the thrift stamp and war savings certificate campaign, reports steady and rapid progress in the movement throughout the county. The city schools are especially effective in pushing the thrift campaign....Clinton county's war conference was a great success in every way. The program committee was especially commended. On this committee were: Rev. Edwin Dunlavy, Prof. Hickman and Mrs. O. E. Brumbaugh. On the publicity committee were: Earl Stroup, Rev. E. D. Salkeld, Ralph Cheadle and Russell Harker. Arrangements were well handled by E. A. Spray, Robert Bracken and John Miner....Several Clinton county farmers already have appealed to Brenton A. DeVoi for boy power for employment on the farms where man power is short. Boys are being enrolled in large numbers in the county for summer service on the farms....James A. McQuern, living near Frankfort, has five sons in the military service and declares he will drive army mules for Uncle Sam himself if the government will accept his services.

Crawford County.—One of the busy centers at English, Crawford county, is the Red Cross shop, where women of the county in ever-increasing numbers are actively at work getting Red Cross supplies ready for shipment with a view to making a large consignment in the next few days. The branch has not been in organized work for any great length of time, but is turning out an immense quantity of work.

Warren County.—The patriotic war conference at Williamsport last week was an unqualified success and the after effects are reported to be excellent, with a thoroughly roused and stimulated people enthused for war work.

Warrick County.—Mrs. George Shafer, for six months an untiring leader of the sewing section of the Warrick county Red Cross, has resigned because of illness. The new sewing room of the organization now is in the rest room at the county court house. Mrs. Bess Gross has been named to take Mrs. Shafer's place, with Mrs. Ada Kontz as assistant. Mrs. Frank Lawhead and Mrs. Ella Bennett are at the head of the cutting department. Warrick county women, through the Red Cross, have provided, among other things, 470 pairs of knit socks, and 385 knit sweaters for soldiers. Comfort kits to the number of 240 have been sent forward to Warrick county men in the service.

Whitley County.—Mrs. H. D. McLallen of Columbia City has been named as the Whitley county women's chairman for the forthcoming third drive for the Liberty loan. Mrs. McLallen is appointing her women helpers in the townships, and these in their turn will name local committees to carry forward the drive for the sale of Liberty bonds.

Vegetables cannot be shipped to our soldiers in Europe or to our associates in the war. In eating vegetables we are freeing other foods that might help them win the war.

Red Cross Activities

Evidence of the appreciation the Red Cross officials in France have for the work being turned out by women of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky is contained in a communication just received from Paris by Mrs. Adelaide McKee, superintendent of surgical dressings for the Lake Division, American Red Cross.

The communication dated January 15 and signed by Gertrude Austin, chief of the Red Cross surgical dressing service in Paris, says:

"We want to thank you for your cases of dressings which have just been opened in our unpacking rooms. If you could see the delight of the Red Cross officials and army officers who inspect the splendid things that come to us from America, you would realize what fine work you are doing for our men. Please send us as many cases as you can. We need them."

Because the American Red Cross is vitally interested in increasing shipping facilities in order that it may get more relief supplies abroad, general manager Harvey D. Gibson wired Lake Division Manager James R. Garfield, urging that the 351 chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky get behind the government shipbuilding program. "Chapters are requested to assist the government in recruiting men to work at the country's principal shipbuilding centers," Mr. Garfield said.

Germany's Responsibility for the War

Only a small part of the material to be found in the Indiana State Library is listed here. Some of the best of it is in pamphlets too numerous to name specifically. Any of them may be borrowed by any citizen of the State. If you live in a town where there is a library, ask the librarian to apply for them. If not, write to the State Library for a registration blank.

Allen, J. W.—"Germany and Europe."

Germany's ideas regarding herself and other countries; examination of events immediately preceding declarations of war; justification of England's attitude. Author "has made an honest attempt to state a case for Germany," but has decided "that at the bar of reason and justice Germany has no case."

Beck, J. M.—"The Evidence in the Case."

The author imagines a court in which the nations at war are tried as to their responsibility for bringing it about, the evidence being their own official declarations, speeches in Parliament, etc. The decision finds Germany guilty.

Chapman, J. J.—"Deutschland ueber Alles," or, "Germany Speaks."

"A collection of the utterances of representative Germans," with comments, apropos of the cause and meaning of the war.

A German—"The Crime."

A new book by the author of "I Accuse," one of the strongest arraignment of the German government yet published. The present work has been written as a "detailed amplification and completion of 'I Accuse.'"

Oxford Faculty of Modern History—"Why We Are at War; Great Britain's Case."

Written by members of faculty of Oxford University to set forth causes of the present war and the principles believed to be at stake. Reviews briefly European affairs since 1870 and discusses the evidence against Germany as found in diplomatic documents.

Scott, J. B.—"Diplomatic Documents Relating to the Outbreak of the European War."

Those who wish to study the subject exhaustively will find this to be the most complete collection. There are many other less voluminous works which give the statements issued by the various governments in the attempt to explain their actions.

Van Dyke, Henry—"Fighting for Peace."

Dr. Van Dyke gives some of his own observations to show that Germany was ready for war. In the section, "Germania Mendax," he analyses briefly the diplomatic documents proving the falsity of German statements.

Important Matters on Food Production

Seed and Labor Survey War Gardens, Silos, Hog Increases and Exempted Men Considered

The Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation met February 12 at the State House to consider the progress of the Seed and Labor survey, the War garden campaign, the launching of a new silo campaign, hog production campaign, and the organization of exempted men.

C. Henry, State leader of the Seed and Labor survey, declared that the supply of seed corn in Indiana, if properly handled, would meet the demands for the spring planting. Advance returns from the district leaders indicate that at least 40 per cent. of the seed corn must be selected from the 1917 crop. This means a very rigid selection and testing of individual ears in order to secure seed that will grow. Southwestern Indiana has reported a surplus of approximately one hundred thousand bushels of old corn and tested new corn. Northeastern Indiana has reported a slight surplus. The greatest shortage seems to exist in central Indiana. Many counties are almost without seed corn and they will have to be supplied by those which have a surplus. The value of the survey will be revealed as the exchange system extending from the United States Department of Agriculture through Purdue University to each county in the State is established.

As soon as the reports are in arrangements will be made to shift the seed at once. Movement of seed will be handled locally as far as possible. Thus, if one township in a county is short of seed, farmers in that section may inquire of their county or emergency demonstration agent where they may obtain it. If it is to be found in the county his records from the survey will show where and at what price. If it cannot be obtained from anyone in the county he will be told who in the district does have it and what he will have to pay for it. Likewise, if one of the eighteen districts of the State is short the district leader will get in touch with the food director or men immediately in charge of the survey work, and find out what district has a surplus. He will be informed where he can fill his needs, the district nearest being cited so as to lessen transportation difficulties.

Professor L. Greene reported on the organization and progress of the war garden campaign. Following the State-wide war garden conference, which will be held March 8 and 9, a week's short course will be held at Purdue University to give instruction to the garden supervisors. This will be a very important course in that it will acquaint the supervisors with the State organization and at the same time put them in touch with the garden specialists. The Indianapolis schools have engaged approximately thirty men to supervise gardens this coming season. These supervisors have been given a course in gardening through Purdue University. F. G. Gaylord of the Horticultural Department, Purdue, has been appointed State leader of the garden work for 1918. The war garden report was approved by the Food Committee.

The second silo campaign will be launched in Indiana beginning February 15 as a result of the action of the Food Committee. Maurice Douglas, who was in charge of the campaign last year, again will take charge of the campaign. Mr. Douglas stated that the hay shortage was one of the greatest arguments in favor of the silo. The fact that many pastures and hay fields were plowed up last season resulted in the shortage. The various silo companies of the State and the State Council of Defense will co-operate with the Food Committee in pushing this campaign.

Dean J. H. Skinner reported on the progress of the hog production campaign since the initial drive last fall for a 20 per cent. increase. A second campaign will begin February 18 to urge the better care and feeding of brood sows and to encourage the growing of forage crops. The scarcity of feed makes it imperative that attention be given to forage crops to supplement grain feed.

C. F. Meyer reported on the organization of the exempted men, which is now under way in Warriek county. Thirteen hundred and fifty of these men met in Warriek county last week, where they were addressed by G. I. Christie, State Food Director. The men are admitted into the meeting hall by showing their serial number. The possibilities of such an organization in a State-wide way were recognized by the Food Committee. The Food Committee endorsed the proposition unanimously and suggested that it be referred to the State Council of Defense to consider the organization from a State-wide standpoint.

FARM MACHINERY WEEK.

The week of March 4-9 has been set aside as Farm Machinery Equipment and Repair Week. The Indiana Retail Implement Dealers' Association is co-operating with the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation in launching the campaign.

Farmers in Indiana have fifty million dollars invested in farm machinery. Farm machinery in 1918 will cost approximately 100 per cent. more than in 1914. Not only will the cost be higher, but transportation difficulties in war times makes it necessary that farm machinery be ordered months ahead of the time when it is needed in order to insure delivery.

Labor is scarce and as a result improved farm machinery will be more in demand. As soon as the spring work starts every hour is precious and now is the time to put farm tools into first-class condition. The labor shortage can be partially met through this timely action. It is urged that during Farm Equipment and Repair Week careful attention be given to repair of farm implements, not only to save time, but to save money.

A bumper crop must be secured to meet the demands of our country. Good tools spell success and victory.

JOB FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

The following letter to enlist the school superintendent in the seed corn testing campaign has been sent out by Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

TO INDIANA SUPERINTENDENTS:

Each type of war work, in its appropriate season, must claim our attention. One of the imperative demands, which the months of February and March shall make upon our schools, relates to the seriousness of the seed corn situation. If Indiana's vast potential as a food-producing State shall be efficiently utilized, then the schools must assist in growing the next corn crop. The first step in this co-operative program is the testing of the seed corn for the 6,000,000 acres of corn which Indiana is expected to plant in 1918. If the seed corn be carefully tested—using either the rag doll or the sand box method—our autumn harvest shall be vastly greater than it otherwise would be.

I am therefore urging you to organize in every one of your schools a seed corn testing club. Let every pupil—boy and girl alike—either in school or at home, agree to test a certain number of ears, not fewer than twenty-five. By March 15, 1918, Indiana school children should have tested 1,500,000 bushels of seed corn—the amount necessary to plant our fields. This is war work of the proper sort. I know I may depend upon you to do it. Your County Agent will co-operate with you.

STATE-WIDE WAR GARDEN CONFERENCE.

A State-wide war garden conference will be held in Indianapolis, March 8 and 9, under the direction of G. I. Christie, State food director.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together all the various agencies which took part in the garden movement last season, to consider such action as will result in greater production and conservation of vegetables for 1918.

The State Food Committee, the State Council of Defense, Purdue university, the United States Department of Agriculture, the Indiana Food Administration, the Department of Public Instruction, the Patriotic Garden Association of Indianapolis, vocational teachers, schools, the city and town garden clubs, and all other forces desiring to take part in an active campaign, will co-operate in making the conference a success.

At a recent meeting held in the office of the State food director, Z. M. Smith, Prof. L. Greene and Arthur S. Hurrell were put on a committee to work out the details of the program. The conference will be held in the assembly room of the Claypool Hotel.

The work accomplished in 1917 easily shows the possibilities of the garden movement when carried out under a satisfactory organization. The Patriotic Garden association of Indianapolis serves as an excellent example of what can be accomplished through organized efforts. The first annual report of the Patriotic Garden association, recently published, shows that there were 35,000 backyard gardens and 10,000 vacant lot gardens, and in addition 523 acres divided into larger garden plots in Indianapolis during 1917. The report says in part:

"Estimating a home garden as worth $10.00 and a vacant lot garden at $30.00, and the acreage under cultivation at $400 per acre, the total value of the vegetables grown in Indianapolis in 1917 is $859,200. This is far above that of any previous year and was made possible by the Patriotic Gardeners' association. Thousands of tables in Indianapolis homes were filled with home-grown vegetables this year, thus affording additional food for the families and reducing the cost of living. The pride of the people in raising their own vegetables in their own little gardens added an extra enjoyable flavor to everything that was grown and served. Not only did the produce of the 45,000 city gardens help to feed the families during the summer season, but cellars and pantries all over the city are filled with canned and dried garden products that will do much toward solving the food problem for the winter.

"An inventory of the food situation shows conclusively the effectiveness of the war garden as a vital factor in helping to solve our food problem—a problem which is perhaps the largest before our people. The State-wide war garden conference will, therefore, be most significant."

Merchants' Economy

Strict conservation of the wool supply is one of the vital war measures now being urged by the Council of National Defense and the State Council of Defense in Indiana.

Coupled with the saving of wool, Indiana has in a most practical way started a State-wide movement under Defense Council approval and auspices to bring about a large increase in the wool production of the State. This is being done by bringing in and distributing thousands of ewes, and by planning the elimination of the sheep-killing dog in the State.

The commercial economy board of the Council of National Defense sends out the word, "Save the wool and save the soldiers." All defense organizations, makers of clothing and dealers, as well as the general public, are asked to help save wool. Writing to the State Council of Defense, the commercial economy board says of the wool situation: "The country cannot endure the use of wool and cloth in any unnecessary way. More than one-half the wool used in this country must be brought in ships. Every possible saving must be made. Many small savings will help in providing for the clothing of the civilian population."

The need for warm and proper clothing for men in the army and navy has been amply emphasized in the recent weeks of cold weather.

Thrift and the United States

The number of Government security holders in the United States before the first Liberty Loan was about one in 300. It is now about thirty in 300. If the War Savings plan is to succeed, and succeed it must, the number must be increased to 90 in 300. That means that almost one American out of every three will hold some form of security backed by the entire resources of his country. These States will then be United in a new sense. They will be united in the conviction that Thrift pays in war and in peace.

"If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible, 'Are you able to save money?' If not, drop out. You will lose. You may think not, but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you."—James J. Hill.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 27

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 114.

February 2, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

There has been some complaint from certain County Councils of Defense that the answers to inquiries addressed to the State Council of Defense are sometimes unduly delayed. Also, when the State Council has sent a follow-up bulletin asking County Councils to report upon some action previously requested, sometimes certain County Councils advise that they have already made the report.

We believe these troubles will be corrected if the County Councils will observe the following rules in writing to the State Council.

1. Refer to ONE SUBJECT ONLY in each letter. There are twelve separate departments of the State Council of Defense, each one dealing with a separate subject, and to each one is referred for answer inquiries from the County Councils. Therefore, if a letter treats of only one subject it can be referred to the proper department and answered at once. But if it treats of several subjects it must be referred from one department to another in order that each subject may be noted by the department which it concerns and a reply made if one is due. This naturally consumes a great deal of time.

2. Do not use the bulletins we send you as stationery for sending in your answers to them.

3. If you write on private letterheads, note some place on the letter your title and the name of your county.

It is also quite important for County Councils to realize that the State Council must address all the counties generally by bulletins and that in practically every case the bulletin addressed to all might not apply to certain counties. Therefore, if you receive a bulletin which asks for something which you know you have done, please understand that it is not intended to apply to you.

We believe in the justice of equal co-operation and we have found that those County Councils which handle their correspondence with the State Council in a businesslike and punctilious way have had to make no complaints regarding the manner in which their correspondence has been handled in this office.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 115.

February 2, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

We are having sent to you direct from Washington a number of posters which present and summarize the present international crisis. Will you please prepare to distribute these in the most effective way, using principally store windows, railroad stations, civic centers and available space outdoors, especially on crowded thoroughfares?

When you receive these posters please advise us at once of the fact in order that we may check up on our orders.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 118.

February 7, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The first nine months of the war have shown the vital importance of developing an official nation-wide organization reaching into the smallest communities to mobilize and make available the efforts of the war workers for the prosecution of the war. In recruiting for the army and in enlisting labor for war industries, in decreasing the waste of food, in soliciting subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, Red Cross, and in much other work, the end must be accomplished by the people at large. The creation of County Councils of Defense has brought the State Councils of Defense closer to the people and the valuable service which the County Councils have rendered indicates the importance of even closer contact, through subsidiary agencies in such small units that personal contact with all the citizens is possible.

In several counties Township Councils of Defense are already in existence. These are modeled after the County Councils of Defense, are communicated with and directed by the County Councils of Defense through bulletins similar to the bulletins used by the State Council of Defense and each appoints a representative whose duty it is to attend the meetings of the County Councils of Defense at least once a month in order that the work of each Township Council of Defense will be perfectly co-ordinated with that of the County Council. To those County Councils of Defense which have not yet organized Township Councils of Defense we earnestly urge their creation immediately and in addition we recommend and request that, where it is found practicable, each County Council of Defense, through its several Township Councils of Defense, when these are organized, create a Community Council of Defense in each school district. These Community Councils should be entirely under the supervision of the Township Councils.

The advantages of the school district as a unit of Community Organization are clear. The school district is small enough to permit individual contact and is non-political. The schoolhouse supplies a meeting place in each district. The school district reaches children and parents alike, and in the communities the school is to a large extent already in touch with the alien population and is an established center of information and education. Also the schoolhouse is already the center of the social community, especially in farm districts.

It is realized that in those counties where the school districts are consolidated it will perhaps not be practicable to organize school district Community Councils and in such cases the Township Councils of Defense will probably be sufficient.

The State Council will hereafter, from time to time, submit to the County Councils suggestions and plans for Township and Community Council work, and requests that detailed and frequent reports be made regarding these organizations and their activities.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

"Whatever the combinations of political complications that directly called the nation to arms, no diplomatic fog now clouds the reason of the world's mighty struggle. By desolated Belgium, by the shell-torn fields of France, and by the horrors on the free and open seas, the issue has been made clear. In the language of blood and tears, of brutal murders and wanton cruelty, of bestial rape and unspeakable outrage, the purpose of the conflict has been proclaimed. Out of the flaming hell of war itself, the cause has defined itself."—Wright.

About fifty per cent. of the families of America had signed the United States Food Administration's pledge cards on December 1, according to figures announced in Washington. The total comes to 11,034,329. The campaign for additional signatures is still being waged in many parts of the country.

Finance Committee

Indianapolis, Indiana, January 31, 1918.

To the State Council of Defense:

We submit the following statement of receipts and disbursements for the month of January, 1918.

—RECEIPTS—

Balance on hand December 31, 1917...	$97,451.43
Donation by L. C. Boyd January 7, 1918	50.00
	$97,501.43

—DISBURSEMENTS—

Salaries of office assistants...	$ 2,442.68
Other services purchased...	191.30
Traveling expenses .....	352.79
Postage .....	731.34
Telephone and telegraph...	789.46
Stationery and printing....	2,636.94
Office supplies .....	278.10
Furniture, fixtures and equipment .....	432.26
Rentals .....	127.00
Express, hauling and freight	27.91
Repayment of advanced funds .....	24,000.00
Interest paid .....	304.43
Organization .....
Miscellaneous .....	6.00
Balance .....	65,181.22
	$97,501.43

CORRECT:

JOHN VAJEN WILSON,
Assistant Secretary.
JOHN E. REED,
Deputy Auditor.

Respectfully,

EVANS WOOLLEN,
WILLIAM G. IRWIN,
ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Finance Committee.

Sheep and Dogs!

J. B. Newman, of Star City, in a letter to the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, discusses the sheep and dog situation.

"I wish to give you a report of a nice little flock of pure bred faced sheep that was purchased at a good price and put in Franklin township, and the dogs got all lambs and old ones but six, and they were sold and the enterprise was abandoned. Although there are acres of land on nearly every farm there, suitable only for sheep raising, there will be acres remain idle this next summer.

"The question is now nearly boiled down to the point that we would sooner submit to a lot of worthless curs than have wool for our boys in the trenches.

"I do not live within ten miles of this dog-infested territory, have no land there, and never had any sheep killed there. A neighbor south of me stayed up nights with his sheep until he killed seven or nine dogs—I do not remember which. Why not have the man who owns the dog stay up nights and watch the dog?

"Get a reliable tabulated report and see if it is not good food for legislative reflection.

"Does Germany use food to feed dogs?

"Has America food enough to spare to enjoy this imaginary luxury?"

There is a lot said nowadays about the curious thing known as dual personality. Corn is a fine example. It is both a vegetable and a cereal. One of its selves is the highly popular green corn, which is, however, short lived. Its other self is the yellow meal, that, though it is the plainer of the two, plays the most important part. For it stays with us always and can be used in unlimited quantities in the food-war that must be won before the gun-war can end.

Statement of Public Policy

(Delivered by the Committee on Public Policy of the County Council of Defense of Fulton County, Indiana, before Churches, Lodges, Schools and other assemblies—January, 1918.)

In order that every responsible person in Fulton County may reach an understanding of each individual's part in the war between the United States and the Central Powers of Europe, the Committee on Public Policy has prepared, by the authority of the County Council of Defense, a brief statement which will be left in charge of the officers of each Church and of each assembly before whom members or representatives of the Committee may appear.

The United States, and therefore each citizen in Fulton County, is in a state of war with the German Empire and with the dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary. It is probable that it will soon be in a state of war with Turkey and Bulgaria. These four nations are spoken of as the Central Powers of Europe.

ALIEN RESIDENTS.

By the fact that the United States and therefore each citizen in Fulton County is at war with the Central Powers it follows that every resident of Fulton County who has come here from Germany or Austria-Hungary, and is not a naturalized citizen of the United States, is from an enemy nation and is therefore an enemy of the United States, and of each citizen of Fulton County, unless he expresses his purpose among his neighbors to be loyal to the United States, even though not now able to become a citizen.

LOYAL CITIZENSHIP.

Each citizen of Fulton County, whether born in the United States or in a foreign country, has become an enemy of the Central Powers, and is therefore bound by his citizenship to support the government of the United States against the enemies of the United States and of Fulton County. Consequently, if any of a citizen's acts can be interpreted as giving aid to the Central Powers he, by such acts, becomes a traitor to the United States.

TREASON.

The Constitution of the United States says "Treason against the United States consists in adhering to their enemies; giving them aid and comfort." The penalty is death, or at the discretion of the court, imprisonment at hard labor for not less than five years and a fine of not less than $10,000. Knowledge of treason, not revealed, is a crime and is defined, with penalty as follows:

KNOWLEDGE OF TREASON.

"Every person owing allegiance to the United States and having knowledge of the commission of any treason against the United States, who conceals and does not, as soon as may be, disclose and make known the same to the President, or some judge of the United States (or others named in the law), is guilty of misprision of treason, the penalty for which is imprisonment for not more than seven years and a fine of not more than one thousand dollars."

OUR ASSOCIATE IN THE WAR.

The Central Powers are at war with England, France, Japan, Italy, Brazil, China and the majority of all smaller countries of the world—eighteen in all. Besides those at war eleven other countries have broken off relations with Germany because of her ruthless warfare and disregard of the rights of small nations. The fact that we are at war with the Central Powers therefore brings us into friendly relations with all other nations opposed to the Central Powers. Consequently, it is the duty of every citizen of Fulton County, not only to safeguard the rights of the United States in this struggle, but to uphold our associates in the war—commonly known as our allies—against all criticism or aspersion that might weaken Fulton County's sense of loyalty to the joint effort these great nations are making.

THE CAUSES OF WAR.

The causes which have brought us into war with the Central Powers are of such a nature that if the United States, and therefore Fulton County, had not met force with force we should have been regarded forever as a craven nation and people. These causes can best be summed up by quoting from the President's message to the Congress, December 4, 1917.

"The purposes of the Central Powers strike straight at the very heart of everything we believe in; their method of warfare outrages every principle of humanity and of knightly honor; their intrigue has corrupted the very thought and spirit of many of our people; their sinister and secret diplomacy has sought to take our very territory away from us and disrupt the Union of the States. Our safety would be at an end, our honor forever sullied and brought into contempt were we to permit their triumph. They are striking at the very existence of democracy and liberty."

Our war with the Central Powers is therefore a defensive war.

VICTORY IN EUROPE ESSENTIAL.

As confirming the causes mentioned by the President, we remind our fellow citizens of Fulton County that since 1914, when the World War broke out, documentary evidence has been secured showing that the German Empire expected to destroy the power of France and of England, then to destroy the great Monroe Doctrine of the Western Hemisphere, and later to bring the United States into subjection. It will thus be evident to our fellow citizens that unless the United States, and therefore Fulton County, stand with our associates in the war—our allies—to win the battle in Europe the fight will be transferred to the United States; and our homes, our loved ones, our property and our sacred honor as men will be subjected to the brutality of the German government's thought in conquest.

EVIL LET LOOSE.

To indicate what we may expect from the brutalized views of the German government, we quote what an authority said on his recent return from that part of France cleared of German forces.

"You have been told that our women and our girls have been protected by the British navy from the fate that befell the women of France and Belgium. Men, believe it; it is absolutely true. It is more than true. I have been in the hospital in the Department of Lamerck, of France, where there are nearly a thousand girls; not one is eighteen years of age, and all will be mothers. And 61 per cent. are in addition afflicted with the most filthy, unspeakable malady that we know of, and 11 per cent. in addition are stark mad. I have seen the boys that will never be men; I have seen the boys who have been cruelly mutilated."

There are thousands of photographs and tens of thousands of affidavits as to the ruthless destruction of innocent people and their possessions by German soldiers, under orders from their rulers. Our war with the Central Powers is therefore a righteous war.

A WAR TO FREE ALL PEOPLE.

Our President in his great message at the entrance of the United States into the World War used the words "To make the world safe for democracy." We wish to make the meaning of this clear to each one present. To make the world safe for democracy means "to make the world safe for all the people." Under such a form of government as the German Empire is trying to fasten on the world the people would have no freedom unless they carried out orders from powers above. Under our idea of government all the people select their own authorities, and set them up to govern; and can change them by their votes or by other procedure in law.

RESTRICTION BY FREE WILL.

In order to reach the minds of all hearers in this gathering with a further truth we shall turn President Wilson's words around and say that the great test in the United States, and therefore Fulton county, just now is this: "Is democracy—government by the whole people—safe for the world?" Will you, the people of Fulton county, of your own free will, put yourselves under restriction in food, in fuel, in self-gratification for the sake of saving the constitution under which we live? If you will not, then the dream of our fathers relative to a free people was only a dream and we deserve to have the heel of German militarism rest upon our necks.

WE MUST WIN OR PERISH.

It happens that this stupendous struggle comes in the lifetime of those assembled in this gathering. Consequently it is impossible for anyone to close the eyes and say that this struggle has nothing to do with us. It has everything to do with us, with our children, with our property, with all our rights; for if the German idea should conquer in the field of battle not a single person or property or right would remain as before. Being alive in this moment of history makes each individual responsible for the outcome, otherwise we are in the position of the selfish, unthinking person who accepts all benefits from the past but will do nothing to pass those benefits on to his children.

QUESTIONS ALL MUST ANSWER.

We have been left free for fifty years to pursue our individual aims, as if the nation and its past or its future were not our personal responsibility. But the trumpet of war's alarms has been blown among us and we, just like preceding generations, are face to face with three questions: (1) Whether in all our affairs we will acquit us like men for the glory that is yet to be the United States; or (2) whether softness, ease, pleasure have destroyed our merit to be inheritors of greatness; or (3) whether we, of Fulton county, permit our minds and acts to oppose the government of the United States and are thus traitors—shooting our soldiers and our leaders in the rear.

SMALL SELF-DENIALS.

We ask all households in Fulton county to understand that the requests from the United States Food Administrator to reduce consumption of meat, wheat, sugar and fats are requests based upon the urgent needs of our associates in the war—our allies—for these necessities; to understand that every particle of saving in beef, mutton, pork, wheat, sugar and fats is to give support to the nations that are carrying at the present time the heaviest burden of the war for American freedom and have carried it uncomplainingly since 1914. Our self-denial on their behalf is nothing compared with their sacrifices and the sacrifices our boys are yet to make.

EACH AT HIS TASK.

We call upon each fellow citizen to be cheerful and industrious and to be loyal in every thought and act; and to put into his daily labor a feeling of devotion, so that his task may be glorified as a small but essential part in winning new glory for that nation whose boast has been that it is the greatest republic on the face of the earth.

OUR PLEDGE OF LOYALTY

We now call upon every one who hears this message to pledge support to requests coming from our government concerning increased production, the prevention of waste, the taxing of industries, the taxing of incomes; and without reserve to give his co-operation to the government in raising whatever funds may be needed for the successful progress of this supreme struggle of the ages between the divine rights of humanity and the supposed divine rights of autocrats.

OUR JUDGMENT IS NEAR.

The Hebrew scriptures record that a divine hand wrote words on the wall of a banquet room in ancient Babylon, meaning "weighed in the balance and found wanting," and a mighty force entered the city that night and destroyed the Babylonian civilization. The same divine hand is near each heart in Fulton county to write thereon "Worthy of Freedom" or "Unworthy of Freedom." None can escape the measuring of our personal merit which this moment in history has brought to us. We are either worthy or unworthy of the fights made by the Pilgrim Fathers for freedom to worship God; or by the Revolutionary soldiers for political freedom; or by the heroes of the war between the States for freedom from the disgrace of human slavery.

THE SUMMING UP.

This Statement of Public Policy has made clear in brief form: (1) who are enemies; (2) the dangers of treason; (3) the causes of the war with the central powers; (4) the dangers that lurk in defeat; (5) the test of our value as citizens; (6) the personal task of each citizen in Fulton county.

Nine-tenths of all the inhabitants of the world agree that the German purpose is wrong. Each citizen of Fulton county must, therefore, align himself with right as against wrong.

We repeat that all who know of treasonable utterances or acts must report them. We earnestly hope no treason may be found or heard in Fulton county but to avoid any excuses of ignorance, this statement is being made in all assemblages over the county.

W. H. DENISTON,
Chairman, County Council of Defense.
GLENOLYN MYERS HEATH,
Secretary, County Council of Defense.
GEORGE W. HOLMAN, Chairman.
ENOCH MYERS,
OTTO McMAHAN,
H. G. MILLER.
GROSVENOR DAWES, Secretary,
Committee on Public Policy.
Rochester (Fulton county), Indiana.

Women Preparing for Registration April 19

Conference of Registrars Will Be Held and Plans Outlined for Big Patriotic Drive.

In a State-wide conference of women, Saturday, February 16, at 1 p. m., at the State house, Indianapolis, instructions will be given and plans will be discussed for the spring drive for the registration of 500,000 Indiana women for war service. The call has gone to the women in the ninety-two counties who are serving as chairmen of the local committees on enrollment and registration for war service.

Miss Julia Landers reported Wednesday, at the meeting of the women's committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense, that fifty-seven of the county chairmen had written to say they would be present for the conference.

The women's committee decided at the Wednesday meeting to make an optional charge of 10 cents to be paid by each woman who registers for war duty, the money thus obtained to be divided, one-half to go to the county for the use of the women's section of the County Council of Defense in war work, and the other half to be sent to the women's division of the State Council of Defense to help carry on its activities. It is expected that in Indiana, as in Illinois, the optional ten cent fee will be collected only where the woman registered is willing and able to pay the amount. It is further expected that many Indiana women will contribute much more than 10 cents to the cause at registration time. In Illinois, according to Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the women's committee of the State Council of Defense, the women have raised more than $36,000 by means of the trivial assessment paid by loyal women. In many cases the employers of large numbers of women and girls paid the fees of all the women and girls who registered for war service. This is expected to happen in Indiana.

Reports from many counties indicate that the women's section does not receive from County Councils of Defense an apportionment of funds requisite for its work. The women of the State, and the women engaged in patriotic work in the counties are united in the desire that they shall have on hands funds with which to carry on enlarged war work indefinitely. The suggestion of a 10 cent fee to be paid by the woman who registers as an American patriot, ready for war service, is looked on as an opportunity to contribute, the matter being wholly optional.

Printed matter has been prepared to be sent out at once as a preliminary to the registration campaign, and the registration work is to start April 19, and continue at least ten days. Miss

Landers asked the members of the State women's committee to attend the Saturday conference of county leaders in registration. In addition to the payment of half the registration fee to the county, it has been decided that the women's registration cards shall be kept in the county seats.

The appeal of the Red Cross for more women nurses for war service with the American armies was acted on by the women's committee, and Mrs. Samuel M. Ralston and Miss Vida Newsom were named as a committee to assist in giving the campaign to enlist war nurses wide publicity and encouragement in Indiana. This was done on motion of Miss Landers. The appeal came from Mary M. Roberts, director of the bureau of nursing, Lake division of the Red Cross, Cleveland, O. Many thousands of women nurses are needed, and Indiana is expected to supply a large number.

The increased production of foods to be used in the homes as substitutes for meats and wheat—small gardens and farm gardens for 1918, in other words—are urged on the women of Indiana by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw for special attention at this time. In a letter presented by Mrs. Carlisle to the women's meeting Wednesday, Dr. Shaw urged the women to help see to it that small gardens and farm gardens multiply greatly this year over last. Mrs. Carlisle stated that the figures would show that one out of four or five farms in the country are without gardens.

Another important ruling from the women's committee of the Council of National Defense had to do with the approval of war work organizations, campaigns and drives of various sorts. Dr. Shaw's instructions are that no movement is to be approved by the women's committee of the State Council of Defense unless approval has been given by the women's committee of the Council of Defense in word sent to the state defense organization of women.

Mrs. Carlisle pointed out that this regulation was necessary in order to prevent a multiplication of activities, a duplication and waste of effort and energy, and confusion generally. There is an ever-increasing tendency to organize this or that new movement, and there is danger of creating confusion in the public mind, according to Dr. Shaw's bulletin, and the women of the defense council, national and State, declare that there has been no plan suggested under which war work can be done better than it is being done by existing authoritative agencies created by law for specific duty.

Every effort is to be made, under the instructions of the national war organization, to discourage the creation of new organizations to do work which already is being well done. "It is no time for useless or merely sentimental effort," said Mrs. Carlisle.

In line with the plan for co-ordination of war activities and under the regulations sent out by the legally constituted defense body at Washington, Indiana women of the defense council have sought to bring about the combination with the women's section of the State and County Defense Councils of the splendid organization originating in Indiana and known as the War Mothers. It was reported at the Wednesday meeting by Mrs. George C. Hitt of Indianapolis that the Marion County War Mothers had lined up with the defense council committee and that War Mothers in many counties throughout the State were in full accord with the women's committees of the defense organization. It is expected that the entire War Mothers' organization soon will be working with the defense council women's committee in State and counties, doing war duty under assignment from the women's organization of the Council of National Defense, the legal body which is called on by the president to co-ordinate women's war activities.

A special line of vitally necessary war work which the War Mothers are best fitted to perform is the gathering and preservation of the records of the soldiers and sailors from Indiana. It is expected that this duty will be one of the lines of work followed by the War Mothers.

Mrs. Julia C. Henderson, head of the Fourteen-Minute Women of Indiana, another women's organization originating in Indiana, reported that her organization, with its speakers' bureau, had gladly come in with the women's section of the defense councils, and that Prof. J. J. Pettijohn of the defense council's main speakers' bureau had expressed himself as ready to receive the aid of the Fourteen-Minute Women's bureau in routing and handling women speakers. Mrs. Henderson announced that between forty-five and fifty county chairmen of Fourteen-Minute Women had reported the ten speakers for their counties as ready and working. It is expected that the Fourteen-Minute Women will do in their sphere work similar to that being done by the Four-Minute Men.

Mrs. Henderson said she had thirty-five Fourteen-Minute Women at work in Marion county, and she told of the service rendered by these speakers in connection with the women's part of the series of county war conferences throughout the State. Mrs. Carlisle strongly voiced her appreciation of this distinctive and important service.

Plans were adopted for the printing and distribution of pamphlets and documents. One booklet is to tell of the women's war organization, its personnel and its purposes. Courses for Indiana women in war work are to be put out in another folder, and still another is to deal with emergency training from home charity service during the war.

Miss Vida Newsom reported sixty-five counties had organized their committees and movements for the maintenance of social service agencies during the war. She also reported activities in several communities for the federation of social service organizations and for their maintenance unimpaired.

Mrs. George C. Hitt presented the request of Dr. Charles P. Emerson of the medical section of the State Council of Defense for the aid of the women's health and recreation committee in getting for Indiana a state administrator of public health with functions and powers such as are used by the fuel administrator and the food administrator.

Katharine Merrill Graydon of the educational propaganda section reported much of her material ready for the printer, and many demands for distribution of the material. She was asked to put the matter in the hands of the women's committee headquarters to be printed and distributed.

Harry Lauder's Thrift.

Harry Lauder, whose thrift is as much a matter of common knowledge as his humor, offers the following creed, which if followed will do more than help win the war, it will help those who follow it to win themselves:

1. Behave toward your purse as you would to your best friend.
2. View the reckless money spender as a criminal, and shun his company.
3. Dress neatly, not lavishly; a bank pays a higher rate of interest than your bank.
4. Take your amusements judiciously; you will enjoy them better.
5. It is more exhilarating to feel money in your pocket than liquor in your stomach.
6. Don't throw away your crusts; eat them. They are as strengthening as beef.
7. Remember it only takes 20 shillings to make a pound, and 12 pennies to make a shilling.
8. You can sleep better after a day's hard work than after a day's idleness.
9. Always get good value from tradesmen. They get good money from you.
10. There is as much pleasure in reading a good bank book as a novel.

In our mothers' days white sugar was a luxury. It came in a huge white loaf shaped either like a cone or an inverted punch bowl. When company came they cut pieces off it. The rest of the time, however, they ate either maple or brown sugar and the huge loaf was untouched except when the small boy of the family found an opportunity to hack off a piece.

Just now our co-fighters in Europe are the company that we want to feed with the white sugar because it can be shipped so easily. So we are going to eat more honey, more molasses and more syrup, and we intend to frown severely on such surreptitious nibblers of the white sugar loaf as hoarders, wasters, and those who eat as much as they want instead of as little as they need.

Labor Policy From Federal Government

Statement Expected to Assist in Clearing Up Controversy Over Alleged Discrimination—Other Matters

A report of the Secretary of Labor in which is set out the war-time policy of the government and that of the Council of National Defense toward the matter of discrimination against organized labor in industry was handed to the joint committee on labor and employers' co-operation by Chairman Will H. Hays of the Indiana State Council of Defense at its meeting February 13. It was stated in a general way that it is the policy of the war administration at Washington to discourage attempts by either employees or employers to take advantage of war emergency conditions to advance their own selfish interests or to strengthen their positions.

The joint committee on labor and employers' co-operation in Indiana has been working on a problem presented in Indianapolis where complaints have been made against certain firms doing war work to the effect that those firms have discriminated against union men applying for jobs. It was in connection with this committee's work that the national administration was asked for its war policy on the relations and attitudes of labor men and employers.

Professor G. I. Christie, head of the food production committee, asked for the approval of the Defense Council of an immediate systematic drive to induce more Indiana farmers to put silos on their farms. In 1916 the silo companies raised $1,500, Purdue put in $3,000 and a campaign was financed through which more than 6,000 silos were placed in Indiana that year. Professor Christie said the silo campaign had done more in Indiana than in any other State for the stimulation of food production. He reported 32,000 silos in Indiana, and declared that 32,000 more silos ought to be put in use in the State in the next two years in order that the production of meat and milk may be enhanced by the larger use of ensilage. The matter of immediate action for the launching of a new silo campaign for 1918 was referred to a committee composed of A. E. Reynolds, Charles Fox, James L. Keach and Professor Christie.

A suggestion that a bulletin be sent by the State Council of Defense to circuit and criminal judges and to County Defense Councils, suggesting that the practice of suspending sentences on law breakers in Indiana courts on condition that the offenders "enlist in the army," should not be permitted to continue, was referred to a special committee composed of A. W. Brady, E. M. Wilson and Will J. Freeman, with instructions to report at the next meeting.

In the discussion it was brought out that men convicted of crimes cannot be enlisted in the army, and it was urged that the army and navy be protected against the implication that they can be used as "dumping places" for petty offenders against the laws.

H. R. Kurrie, Will G. Irwin and A. W. Brady were named as a special committee to frame a policy of aggressive, systematic, vigorous American propaganda for the Defense Council, and to define the attitude of the Defense Councils in the counties and their protection workers as to pro-German "clackers" who appear from time to time to repeat systematically the pro-German "gloom formula" with the idea of demoralizing Americans and discouraging American war activities. The committee's creation arose out of a suggestion that systematic pro-Germanism be met and stamped out by systematic Americanism everywhere in the State on all occasions.

Mr. Keach suggested that a committee report be made on a resolution endorsing the Secretary of War.

A. W. Brady of the committee which has the resolution in hand, stated that the committee did not deem it to be advisable to act in view of developments incident to the investigation, which was the occasion of the resolution originally.

Chairman Hays stated that the badges ordered by the members of the Council for themselves, to be paid for by themselves, would be ready March 1.

Mr. Keach was named as a special committee to look into the matter of the military road from Indianapolis to Ft. Benjamin Harrison and to inform himself both as to the status of the road, as to the action of Marion county, and as to the action heretofore taken by the State Council of Defense.

It was stated that the endorsement or approval of the Salvation Army's drive for a war fund would be delayed until the Council of National Defense has outlined its own policy toward the drive in question.

Mr. Reynolds reported no change in the status of the pending bill to provide for the purchase by the government for future war use of alcohol to be made from wet corn of the crop of 1917. He reported definite favorable results in the matter of getting cars to be loaded with soft corn.

Indiana's record in the war thus far, in brief form, prepared for George Creel of President Wilson's committee on public information, was read by Chairman Hays. It appears elsewhere in this Bulletin.

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle of the women's section invited the members of the Council to attend a patriotic meeting Wednesday evening, February 13, at which Miss Helen Fraser of England, sent to America by Lloyd George, was to be the speaker, her subject being, "Women's Work in the War."

Chairman Hays read a letter from the Council of National Defense, urging the Indiana Defense Council to appoint a legal committee and reported that the legal section of the Indiana Council of Defense had been in operation since the organization of the Council.

To survey the Indianapolis track elevation project and to pass on the question whether the improvement is essential to the acceleration of transportation, and thus helpful in the advancement of war activities, Commissioner Harlan of the Interstate Commerce Commission has been assigned to visit Indianapolis under the direction of William G. McAdoo, head of the railroads of the United States.

This development was reported by Chairman Will H. Hays. Mr. Hays had written to the national railroad administration to get a ruling on the Indianapolis situation, where discussion had arisen as to the essential and non-essential character of track elevation now under construction. It was announced that Mr. Harlan would be in Indianapolis the week of February 11, and it was stated that the city officers, the railroads and the civic bodies concerned had been notified of the coming survey by the McAdoo railroad administration.

Mr. Kurrie of the Council called attention to the fact that Mr. McAdoo already has asked the railroads to report to him their proposed expenditures for the year 1918, and has asserted that the war policy of the national government demands that money, man power and material shall not be used for improvements that do not directly better transportation facilities. In other words, the restrictive policy of the Council of National Defense, which policy has been followed by the Indiana Council, has been made even more drastic and restrictive by Mr. McAdoo since he assumed control of the railroads for the government.

Food Administration

For the benefit of millers, jobbers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers, Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, has prepared the following supplementary statement on the matter of saving wheat flour in Indiana:

FIFTY-FIFTY SALES. No wheat flour shall be sold unless at the same time an equal amount by weight of substitutes is sold.

SUBSTITUTES. The following materials shall be considered wheat flour substitutes: edible bran, shorts and middlings, corn flour, corn meal, edible corn starch, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, rolled oats, oatmeal, rice, rice flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, buckwheat flour, milo, kaffir and feterita flours and meals, soy bean flour, peanut flour, cassava flour, taro flour, and flours of a similar nature.

RYE FLOUR. Rye flour by a recent ruling is held not to be a substitute for wheat flour. It may, however, be sold by itself without a substitute.

WHOLE WHEAT AND GRAHAM FLOUR. Whole wheat or graham flour is not a complete substitute, but when it contains at least 95 per cent of the entire wheat, may be sold in the proportion of one pound of whole wheat or graham flour to 6-10 of a pound of the usual substitutes.

FLOUR SALES BY MILLERS. Millers and others retailing wheat flour shall sell on the same basis as retail grocers. Millers who sell wheat flour without an equal weight of substitutes are in violation of the rule, and if the facts are proven, will be deprived of their license.

WHOLESALESALE AND JOBBERS IN FLOUR. Wholesalers and jobbers in flour who sell at retail, will in every case sell an equal amount of wheat flour substitutes. There are no exceptions to this rule. Flour contracted for last Fall must be distributed in the quantities and with the substitutes required under the rule.

PROFITS ON FLOUR. Wholesalers in flour shall not take more than fifty to seventy-five cents per barrel profit. Retail dealers in flour shall not take more than eighty cents to one dollar and twenty cents per barrel profit. Flour shall be sold in broken packages for not more than one cent a pound profit. Flour substitutes shall be sold at a reasonable profit over the actual purchase price.

It is hoped that whenever possible, cereals locally produced will be used in order to reduce transportation. Any baker who finds it impossible to secure these cereals through ordinary trade channels is asked to consult the State Federal Food Administrator.

Consumers will be permitted to take credit for purchases of wheat flour substitutes in cases where no wheat flour is purchased at the same time, by grocers who promise to keep a check on sales to guarantee the fifty-fifty plan of selling wheat flour and substitutes.

The cash and carry plan of merchandizing is intended not so much to abolish the delivery system as to establish a price for which food stuffs are to be sold for cash over the counter. This interpretation is being announced to county food administrators.

When credit or delivery service is rendered, it is to be paid for. The accepted delivery charge is six cents for each delivery and the charge cost, an added cent per month on the dollar.

A recently promulgated order to hotels, restaurants and dining cars limits portions of bread to not more than two ounces.

The two ounce limitation does not mean that a second serving of the same amount will be countenanced. Except where rolls or bread made from corn, oatmeal or bran are served, and when only one kind is ordered, a portion may consist of four ounces. Rolls, the regulations say, should not weigh more than one ounce.

The food administration instructs its hotel representatives in each State to see that immediate observance is given Monday and Wednesday as wheatless days; Tuesday as a meatless day; Saturday as a porkless day, and that there is one wheatless meal and one meatless meal every day.

An appeal from Herbert Hoover asking that a strenuous effort be made to secure an increased production of canned peas, sweet corn and tomatoes in Indiana for 1918, has been received and referred to the Indiana Cannery Association, members of which promise that they will do their part.

Pies and doughnuts may be served on wheatless days in public eating houses provided 33 1-3 per cent. or more of wheat flour substitutes are mixed with the wheat flour for all pies and doughnuts that are served every day during the week.

Millers who have been exchanging flour for wheat with farmers, without insisting on the farmers taking an equal amount of substitutes, are "breaking down on the fifty-fifty rule," reads a telegram from the Milling Division of the Food Administration. Licensed millers are forbidden by special rule number 8 to deliver to any person a supply of wheat flour in excess of his household requirements for the next thirty days.

The regulation relative to the conservation of hens and pullets between February 11 and April 30, 1918, is not intended to interfere or prevent the sale of poultry for the purposes of egg production, but only to save such poultry from slaughter and consequent loss of their eggs. The same rules provide that live poultry containing in their craws more than one ounce of feed for each ounce of weight, the dressed poultry containing more than one-fifth ounce of feed for each two pounds of weight shall not be offered for sale. They also provide that poultry feed shall not contain any wheat fit for human consumption, and in no event shall the amount of wheat exceed 10 per cent.

For baking bread and rolls all hotels, restaurants, clubs, boarding houses and other public eating places are required to purchase one pound of wheat flour substitutes for every four pounds of wheat flour purchased.

The federal food administration points out the unfairness in the increase of the price of bread on the plea that substitutes are costing more. Figures are quoted to show the substitutes represent only one-tenth cent per loaf in the cost. The administration predicts a freer movement of grain to the mills and a consequent reduction in prices of substitutes.

The new bread prices "considered fair to baker, dealer and consumer," and approved by the food administration follow:

	Wholesale.	Retail.
1 Pound loaf .....	7½c	8½c—2 for 17c Single loaf 9c
1 Pound loaf (bakery wrapped) .....	8c	9c
1c Pound loaf.....	11c	13c

County food administrators are given supervision over public eating houses and hotel and restaurant deputies will report to them hereafter.

Carl Sims of Frankfort, Ind., former president of the Indiana Millers' Association, has been appointed special representative of the milling and baking interests of the State and will take a place in the office of the Federal Food Administrator for Indiana.

Dr. Barnard has recommended to the milling division of the United States Food Administration that the license of the Huntington Milling Company of Huntington, Ind., be revoked. This action was taken by Dr. Barnard upon the admission of R. A. Brown, president of the company, that he had violated the fifty-fifty regulation governing the sale of wheat flour and substitutes.

Enrollment of Boys During Week March 18

W. E. Hall, National Director, Requests That Every High School Devote Itself to the Reserve.

W. E. Hall, national director for the United States Boys Working Reserve, has issued a call for a National enrollment week, beginning Monday, March 18. The story of the reserve will be carried to every high school boy in the land and will urge him to enroll for productive service. The Governors of the States will be urged to issue proclamations for the week, each one for his own State. Federal State directors are completing their county organizations, are appointing their enrolling officers in the States, and are securing the hearty co-operation of the school authorities in anticipation of this great drive for membership. Enrollment is already under way in most of the States, and National enrollment week will be utilized to complete the enrollment and to give the reserve a thorough national publicity.

Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director for Indiana, authorizes the following:

Next summer the United States Boys' Working Reserve proposes to supply the farmer with a labor reserve that he may be able to call upon in the case of emergency. If the Nation's food supply is to be conserved and increased during the summer of 1918 the farmer of the land should be able to have at his command a great reservoir of labor upon which he will be able to call, and at a wage that he will find it possible to pay.

National enrollment week is the time for rounding up the drive that the various States are making to prepare this great labor reserve. The eager word of Prof. Spillman, Chief of Bureau of Farm Management, "Push it as hard as you can!" may very well serve as a sufficient index to the situation. National enrollment week will "push it as hard as we can." That is the purpose of it. Every school teacher, every worker with boys in the United States, will be expected to give his best energies to bringing the matter of the Nation's need, and of the Reserve's possible answer to that need, to the attention of every school boy in the land.

SIX-DAY SET OF CARTOONS.

During National enrollment week there will be run in the daily papers of the United States a six-day set of cartoons generously contributed to the United States Boys' Working Reserve by members of the Association of American Artists. The contributing cartoonists are Messrs. Briggs, "When a Fellow Needs a Friend," Goldberg, "The Slacker"; Webster, "Just Boys"; McCutcheon, "Work for United States or Germany, Which?"; Taylor, "Helping Your Big Brother, 'Over There'"; Temple, "The Evolution of the Fish Pole."

These gentlemen are among the greatest boy cartoonists of the Nation, and the Reserve is fortunate to possess their work.

INDIANA ENROLLMENT TO CONTINUE.

Federal State Director Isaac D. Straus urges that all plans for local enrollment campaigns prior to March 18 should be prosecuted with the utmost vigor by Indiana directors and enrolling officers. Herbert Hoover has called the Boys' Working Reserve "The Second Line of Defense." This expression should stimulate to greater activity every reserve officer and member in the States. He says: "Directors must apply themselves everlastingly to the job, if every boy of Reserve age is enrolled for increased food production and for service in Essential Industries." It must be made perfectly clear to all boys that are eligible to the reserve that any boy who deliberately idles through his vacation period is a slacker. Every additional boy enrolled prior to March 18 will help the State of Indiana to meet the solemn duty which during National enrollment week will be hers."

Quoting the national director, W. E. Hall: "The high seriousness of this hour that sees the fate of the world's democracies trembling in the balance summons us to the full measure of devotion to that cause that is humanity's own. Let us exhaust every energy that we command to make ready for our task."

Public Service Reserve

Indiana is being asked by the federal government to register for shipbuilding 10,847 mechanics. This is the State's quota of the 250,000 men wanted for emergency shipbuilding, upon which the prosecution of the war depends directly. County reserve agents are conducting the registration and have full data. Every federal agency is bending its efforts to make this registration 100 per cent. successful this week. Following is a list of trades and the State's quota:

List of Trades.	Quota for Indiana.
Acetylene welder .....	12
Anglesmith .....	47
Asbestos worker .....	22
Bellhanger .....	4
Blacksmith .....	51
Blader .....	46
Boilermaker .....	164
Bolter up .....	473
Cementer .....	19
Chipper and calker .....	376
Coke handler .....	23
Cold sawyer .....	5
Conductor .....	22
Coppersmith .....	48
Coremaker .....	57

Counter .....	51
Counter sinker .....	15
Crane operator .....	117
Developer .....	10
Draftsmen, marine .....	148
Driller .....	342
Dropforger .....	8
Electrical molder .....	...
Electrical pipefitter .....	11
Electrical welder .....	16
Electrical wiremen .....	11
Electrician .....	135
Engineer (power) .....	8
Engineer (locomotive) .....	10
Erector .....	192
Estimator .....	19
Fastener .....	50
Fireman .....	79
Flange turner .....	6
Furnaceman .....	58
Galvanizer .....	27
Gantryman .....	20
Helper .....	1,549
Improver .....	38
Joggler .....	3
Joiner .....	167
Laborer .....	1,309
Loftsmen .....	45
Machinists (inside) .....	888
Machinist (outside) .....	322
Mangler .....	32
Material man .....	48
Molder .....	100
Painter .....	231
Patternmaker .....	77
Pipe bender .....	16
Pipe cutter .....	11
Pipe fitter .....	172
Machine hand .....	14
Planer hand .....	11
Plate straightener .....	4
Plumber .....	41
Polisher .....	15
Presser (cold) .....	9
Puncher .....	77
Quarterman .....	194
Reamer .....	851
Regulator .....	164
Rigger .....	177
Riveter .....	310
Rivet heater .....	259
Rivet holder-on .....	259
Rivet passer .....	123
Sheet metal worker .....	137
Ship carpenter (shipwright) .....	368
Ship fitter .....	238
Spar maker .....	3
Stage builder .....	60
Store keeper .....	89
Tank tester .....	44
Tile layer .....	...
Tool grinder .....	27
Tool room attendant .....	58
Tracer .....	17
Track men .....	53
Upholsterer .....	...
Weigher .....	15
Wood calker .....	24
Wood reamer .....	4

The War Is Coming Home

Private Paul Moyer, dead of pneumonia somewhere in France, is the first Hartford City, Ind., soldier to die in the present war. Moyer was one of thirty high school boys to enlist in the artillery from Hartford City.

Ernest J. Schneider, a private at Camp Taylor, has been sentenced to ten years in prison at hard labor for vilifying the commander-in-chief and for attacking the selective enlistment law. Schneider is dishonorably discharged and forfeits his army pay.

Edward Kostbade, eighteen, son of Postmaster William Kostbade, Hobart, Ind., was among the Americans killed in trench fighting recently in France. Plans immediately were made to bring the body of young Kostbade home.

R. C. Trees of Indianapolis, becoming offensive in anti-American and pro-Kaiser talk, was treated to a ride on a rail by fellow employees of the Otto N. Moore Company. Trees avowed his adherence to socialism. His continued attacks on his government led to his discharge and to the rail ride.

"You remember that it was farmers from whom came the first shots at Lexington, that set aflame the Revolution that made America free. I hope and believe that the farmers of America will willingly and conspicuously stand by to win this war also."
PRESIDENT WILSON.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., FEBRUARY 22, 1918

Number 28

A RESIGNATION AND AN APPRECIATION

February 20, 1918.

Hon. James P. Goodrich, Indianapolis, Indiana.
Dear Governor Goodrich:

My election as chairman of the Republican National Committee will necessarily prevent me giving all of my time to the State Council of Defense, and consequently will necessitate my resignation as chairman.

You, of course, know that it has been the purpose of the Council to aid you in every way possible in the great service you are rendering in making Indiana live up to her great traditions and doing her duty in the war second to no state in the nation.

This purpose shall of course continue, and all I can do as a member of the Council to that end will be performed with the greatest pleasure.

I want to take this occasion to assure you of the splendid support and co-operation which all the members of the Council are giving you. I know you are advised of this, but my intimate knowledge of the workings of the whole matter since last May has given me a peculiar knowledge of their loyalty and efficiency.

In this new work I shall measure my actions first, as to how best to win the war. I know we agree that there is but one side to the question of the war, and that on that side, supporting the war in the fullest measure to its victorious conclusion, shall stand every political party and every member of every political party entitled to any consideration whatever. If, by any chance, my arm may be a little stronger or my voice reach a little farther now than formerly, just that much stronger and that much farther will my efforts be extended in support of the country's cause in this war.

I want to take this occasion, too, to congratulate you, and thank you for the great record you are making for Indiana in this war, and the state's splendid performance, which are really most gratifying.

I want also to thank you for the opportunity you have given me for service in this regard in the last ten months. Whenever you have selected a chairman to take my place, I will appreciate it if you will advise me.

With very warmest personal regards, I am,
Sincerely yours,

WILL H. HAYS, Chairman.

Indianapolis, Indiana, February 20, 1918.

Hon. Will H. Hays, Council of Defense, State House, City.
Dear Will:

It is with a feeling of deep regret that I receive your resignation as Chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense. It is a source of satisfaction to me to know that the Republican National Committee is to be presided over by a man whose one purpose will be to see that the united Republican party in full council will perform its full duty toward its country in this time of national peril, just as it has always done its duty in the crises of the past.

Every Hoosier, too, will join me in showing a just pride that this important duty at this time has fallen to an Indiana man. I have a feeling of regret, too, that you have found it necessary to resign as Chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense in order to perform even more important duties.

I desire to thank you and each and every member of the Indiana Council of Defense for the splendid support which the Council is giving the state administration in its efforts to bear its fair share of the burdens of war which have been forced upon the American people by a foreign foe.

You have made Indiana the model State Council in the Nation and brought great credit to our commonwealth and I am certain that the record which Indiana is making and intends to make in the support of our common country against the enemy is due in great proportion to the splendid efforts of yourself and the Indiana Council of Defense.

In accepting your resignation, I desire to assure you of my warmest personal regards and to bid you godspeed in your new work. That it will be well done I am assured by that which you have already accomplished among your Hoosier friends and neighbors.

Very truly yours,
JAMES P. GOODRICH, Governor.

COUNCIL EXPRESSES REGRET AT RETIREMENT OF HAYS

Evans Woollen Voices Feeling of Appreciation of the Fairness, Devotion and Intelligence With Which He Has Served Members, the State and the Nation.

Attention to the recognition of Chairman Will H. Hays by the Republican party, which elected him chairman of its national committee at St. Louis, February 12, was called by Frank Wampler, who moved at the meeting February 20 that the council extend its congratulations to Mr. Hays because of the honor conferred upon him and to the party because of the wisdom displayed in its choice. The motion was carried unanimously. Later Chairman Hays announced his resignation by reading a communication to Governor James P. Goodrich. This and the Governor's reply appear elsewhere in this Bulletin.

Following is the record of the meeting, taken from the stenographer's notes, when Mr. Hays had concluded reading his letter to the Governor: "Mr. Woollen—Mr. Chairman, I was interrupted by the conclusion of your reading in the midst of an endeavor to formulate an expression of appreciation of your services, which I desired to submit to the members of the council. That being true and wishing to give myself the uncommon satisfaction of moving such an expression, I will proceed without the formulation.

"I move that the minutes of this meeting include an expression by this council of the deep regret with which it learns of the resignation of its chairman, Mr. Will H. Hays, and of grateful appreciation of the fairness, devotion and intelligence with which he has served us, the State and the nation.

"Mr. Wampler—I second that motion.

"Mr. Keach—I second that motion, Mr. Chairman.

"Mr. Brady—I also join in seconding the motion.

"The motion prevailed unanimously."

The report of the committee on the censorship of solicitations that the Salvation Army campaign to raise funds is "not essential war work" was approved by the council. As a consequence the Indiana efforts of this organization will be without the official endorsement of the State Council of Defense.

Attention was called by Will J. Freeman to newspaper advertising conveying an appeal to skilled workers to "remain at home." It was referred to N. E. Squibb, of the Public Service Reserve. The thought was expressed that this advertising might interfere with the campaign for skilled mechanics wanted for shipbuilding. Hays Buskirk, representing Mr. Squibb, stated that an investigation had disclosed the absence of any insidious motive in the publication of this advertising, which he stated was intended to combat the efforts of employers in other cities to attract skilled men to their plants, and which had been printed as substitution for advertising from such outside employers.

R. L. Whitney of Terre Haute presented to the council an argument in support of a recommendation to the Federal authorities for the transportation of drain tile for agricultural uses before April 15, after which, he said, it would be too late to be of any value this year. Accordingly on the motion of Isaac D. Straus, seconded by E. M. Wilson, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The Indiana State Council of Defense appreciates the great importance of under-drain tile for successful crop production, be it

"Resolved, That we respectfully call the attention of the appropriate national authority to the great importance in the interests of food production of the receipt by farmers of drain tile before April 15."

The report of the special committee consisting of Frank Wampler, chairman of the Employers' Co-Operation committee of the council, and Charles Fox, chairman of the Labor committee, on the matter of the alleged discrimination against organized tradesmen in Indianapolis industries having war contracts, was presented and unanimously approved by the council. It follows:

"On different occasions reports have reached this council containing charges of discrimination being practiced by employers against members of labor organizations. Investigation develops denials of these charges, which places this council in no position to decide upon the merits of the particular cases in question. It therefore seems that a declaration of the attitude of this council on the broad question should be made. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this council that any discrimination for or against any worker because he is, or is not, a member of a trade union, especially by concerns handling war contracts, should be condemned, because such attitude is detrimental to the successful prosecution of the war, is unpatriotic and has no place in the present crisis."

A. W. Brady of the special committee, which also included Dr. Charles P. Emerson and Evans

Woollen, reported on the resolutions offered by James L. Keach indorsing the administration of the Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, as follows: "That the subject is one on which it is not appropriate for the council to express itself otherwise than unanimously, and that if a motion for the adoption of the resolutions is made and seconded, it should, at the instance of any member, be ruled by the chair to be out of order." The motion was made and seconded to adopt the resolution, whereupon Mr. Brady offered a substitute resolution. Mr. Keach thereupon objected to the consideration of the substitute resolution in lieu of his resolution. In this objection he was supported by Mr. Woollen, whereupon, by agreement, the matter was referred back to the committee for further consideration, with the result that it reported the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted as the expression of the sentiment of the council:

"Whereas, Mistakes are inevitable in such a vast undertaking as our present war—an undertaking whose success must be measured by general results and not by occasional errors; and

"Whereas, The administration at Washington has so far accomplished vast results in the coordination and application of our national resources for military purposes; and

"Whereas, The accomplishment of such results by the Department of War affords the only fair test in appraising the service and competency of its Cabinet head; therefore, be it

"Resolved, By the Indiana State Council of Defense that we express our confidence in the Secretary of War and our appreciation of the problems that have confronted him and the results he has obtained; and

"Resolved further, That the council extend to the President its congratulations on the progress made by both the Navy and the War departments since our entry into the war in preparing the United States to play a worthy part in the prosecution of that great conflict.

"Resolved further, That this council, while recognizing the right of inquiry and constructive criticism, urges that all criticism be directed to the sole purpose of aiding in the prosecution of the war with the utmost efficiency and vigor.

"Resolved further, That this council express its confidence that, at this great crisis in the history of our people the councils of the nation, in every branch, will in all things affecting the war be marked by such a display of wisdom, energy and determination and by such a spirit of harmony, conciliation and non-partisanship as will insure that every resource of the country in men, money and property be applied with the utmost efficiency and effectiveness to bringing the war to an early and successful conclusion."

Mr. Straus reported that the United States Boys' Working Reserve has received more than 500 calls for boy workers on Indiana farms during the coming season, and that calls for many more are expected.

The committee named to consider an appropriate expression from the council on the encouragement of silo building was continued in the absence of its chairman.

A compilation of the military laws of the State by Capt. George Harney, I. N. G., retired, now of the Protection committee of the council, printed at nominal cost at the Indiana Boys' School under the direction of Governor Goodrich, was reported and copies of the volume are ready for state-wide distribution.

The committee named some time ago to consider the proper handling of the alleged indifference of certain religious sects on patriotic matters was discharged and its duties transferred to the committee consisting of A. W. Brady, H. R. Kurrie and Will Irwin, which is preparing an official statement for the consideration of the council on pro-Germanism and pacifism.

Will J. Freeman reported in behalf of his committee appointed to consider the publication and distribution of a volume of patriotic expressions being compiled by E. P. Hawkins of Connersville, that the council is without funds for such purpose and consequently can do nothing. The proposed volume is to consist of bits of patriotic advice secured by its compiler from prominent persons in various walks of life as to the proper conduct of people during the war emergency.

The council accepted an invitation received from James E. Deery, state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, to attend the celebration of St. Patrick's Day, Sunday, March 17, and assist in making it a "decidedly patriotic event." The invitation points out that Chairman Hays has accepted an invitation to make an address at a mass-meeting in Tomlinson Hall following a street parade. Continuing, Mr. Deery's letter says: "The Irish in this country are proud of their American citizenship and they are with Woodrow Wilson, their commander-in-chief, to the last drop of Irish blood and the last penny of Irish treasure in this war on the kaiser. We want to make this year's St. Patrick's Day celebration ring with true American patriotism and for this reason earnestly solicit your moral support and your presence in the parade and at the mass-meeting at Tomlinson Hall."

Richard Lieber, representing the military staff of Governor James P. Goodrich, reported a conference with officials at Washington, including those of the Red Cross, on the subject of reconstructing soldiers injured in the war. Mr. Lieber said Washington approved what was being done here as "extremely valuable," and they asked, he said, that the work be continued, co-ordinated with what is being planned by the Federal Government. Such action was authorized by the council.

The Food Administration Says:

HOW TO SAVE WHEAT: Have a "Wheatless Monday" and a "Wheatless Wednesday" every week and have at least one meal a day without using any wheat at all. Use corn, oats, rye, barley, instead. Wheatless now means "wheatless." Use no wheat in anything at wheatless meals. Order bread from your baker at least twenty-four hours in advance, so he will not make too much. Cut the bread at the table. Use all stale bread for toast or cooking.

If every person in America consumes four pounds of wheat flour a week instead of five, we can ship the 220,000,000 bushels which our soldiers and our Allies must have.

How Germany Makes War

This is merely a selection from the material in the Indiana State Library. Many of the official reports of the various governments are also on file and may be used by anyone who is interested. Citizens of the state may borrow through the local libraries or on individual registrations, blanks for which will be furnished to those who live where there are no libraries.

"German Deserter's War Experience." Story of a German private soldier of happenings in Belgium and France in the early days of the war.

"Germany's Violations of the Laws of War—1914-1915." Violations of The Hague and Geneva conventions collected and authenticated by the French government. The evidence is largely from German sources.

McClure, S. S.—"Obstacles to Peace." Investigations by an American of conditions in all invaded districts, both east and west. Evidence is mostly documentary.

Mercier, Cardinal—"The Voice of Belgium." Addresses of the brave Belgian cardinal to his people and his protests against the wrongs inflicted by the Germans.

Mokveld, L.—"German Fury in Belgium." Experience of a Netherlands journalist during four months with the German army in Belgium.

Morgan, J. H.—"War Book of the German General Staff." A translation of the book used for the instruction of German officers.

Somville, Gustave—"The Road to Liege." Account by a Belgian, with an introduction by the Belgian minister of justice.

Turczynowicz, L.—"When the Prussians Came to Poland." Experiences of an American woman during the German invasion.

One County's Devotion to Red Cross Activity

Miami County has blazed the way in what seems to me the greatest achievement for the Red Cross accomplished in the State. The Miami County Red Cross needed between $800 and $1,000 per month for its supplies—all running expenses are donated by local individuals and public utilities. Now, the local branch is financed for the year, independent of any Red Cross drives and membership campaigns, and this is how it was done.

Mrs. E. A. Gould, 11th district chairman for the Franchise League, was made chairman of the Red Cross Finance Committee to provide this $1,000 per month. After considering plans for monthly subscriptions to be solicited and collected by the Franchise League for the Red Cross, and other ways of raising the necessary funds, she and her assistants devised the brilliant scheme of asking the Miami County Council for $500 per month, and the city council of Peru for a like sum, the amount to be raised by a small tax levy.

No one but the women, who had already, under Mrs. Gould's able leadership, raised $1,200 by sales, markets, entertainments, etc., know how hard it is to raise money in small amounts. To raise $12,000 by solicitation seemed an impossible undertaking, and one which demanded woman's time and energy that should be spent in actual Red Cross work. Add to that the fact that the community was continually being canvassed and stirred up by small appeals. Mrs. Gould's committee hoped to do away with all that by a tax which would reach every one alike.

Accompanied by other local suffragists who are interested Red Cross workers, and prominent lawyers and business men of the town, Mrs. Gould appeared before the Miami County Council. After she had presented her request, there followed one of the most affecting and stimulating instances of patriotism we have yet encountered in Peru.

One of the commissioners who lives in the country, in a most moving and inspiring speech, urged that the county give the whole $12,000 for the ensuing year, to show its appreciation of the work of the Miami county chapter. He and other speakers instanced the fact that the county women are not so situated that they can run in frequently to the Red Cross shop, nor work as continuously, but that the men of the county could take this way of showing how ready they were to back the women of both city and county in the work they were doing.

One of the speakers paid a most eloquent tribute to all the war service of women, and the motion passed unanimously in a great burst of patriotic enthusiasm.

I have been advocating a plan of this sort for some time to do away with continuous and harassing small appeals, which consume far too much time and energy, and to "plan big," and then work out our plans for these needed funds in the simplest way. That it would develop into an expression of the farmer's desire to show his patriotism and his eager support of movements initiated in the city, we none of us expected.

MRS. RICHARD EDWARDS, President.

We have always had a great margin of food and never appreciated its significance. We have wasted food as a symbol of our success and progress. A man who could order a meal and only eat part of it felt he had gotten a little further up the scale than the man who had to eat all he ordered. That is a fundamental sin in America. We must recognize the sanctity of food.—U. S. Food Administration.

Anybody that is looking for the collapse of the German people on the food question had better turn around and look at the moon, because the results will be the same. Germany is in no more danger of collapsing on that score than we are, if as much.—U. S. Food Administration.

A soldier can fight longer on bacon than any other food. Save bacon to beat Germany.

Patriotism in Indiana

Davies County.—M. F. Burke is at the head of the Davies county organization which is pushing the campaign for the sale of war savings stamps and thrift stamps. On the committee with Mr. Burke are: Postmaster E. E. Forsythe, James E. Gilley, county superintendent of schools, Harry H. Crooke, chairman of the Davies County Council of Defense; Louis I. Read, J. M. Twitty and J. A. Allen. Mr. Gilley is chairman of the publicity committee.

Dearborn County.—A permanent county organization of Dearborn county farmers was formed at the time of the recent big county war conference, the primary purpose of the movement being the furtherance of war activities on patriotic lines. First of all in this connection is the seed corn supply for the county to insure an increase in the corn crop of 1918 over that of 1917, to advance the 20 per cent. increase in pork production assigned to Indiana by the war-time food administration. The farmers of Dearborn county also are interested in the program for more wheat acreage, for more silos, more sheep and wool, and also in the systematic organization of farmers for the support of Liberty loan sales and other war activities.

Decatur County.—Ten Greensburg business men, advertisers in local newspapers, have contributed to the Decatur county Council of Defense space in their regular advertisements, the space to be used in making statements which the Defense Council wishes to place before the people. The Council of Defense has expressed its appreciation of the offer and has arranged to use the contributed space from day to day....Greensburg Lodge No. 475, B. P. O. E., has sent 475 magazines to the soldiers in France....Fifty mothers of this county who have sons in the United States army and navy service have formed an organization.

DeKalb County.—Merchants in Waterloo for many weeks have been adhering to the early closing rule of the conservation forces. The action was taken at the request of the Fuel Administrator and the DeKalb county Council of Defense. William E. Byers, the fuel director for the county, personally called on the business men and obtained their co-operation.

Delaware County.—Women in Delaware county, some 200 in number, who up to this time have assumed the slacker attitude, refusing or neglecting to sign patriotic pledge cards and to take part in the campaign for food substitution and conservation, are given one more chance to make good and get in line for America.

These women are listed as having assumed an indifferent or defiant attitude, and the food administration forces have notes on each individual indicating the person's attitude toward war service and the duty of the citizen in the crisis. The Delaware county food administrator, D. T. Haines, has sent a letter to these 200 women, enclosing a food pledge card to each and suggesting that the individual's former refusal to sign may have been due to error or misunderstanding. An early reply is demanded.

It is the plan to insist on the cards being signed, and in case of stubborn or defiant refusal, indicating disloyalty, the names of slackers or disloyalists will be made public and the County Council of Defense will take in hand the matter of enforcing the food administration war-time regulations on all alike. The necessary legal steps will be taken in each case.

The war conference for Delaware county was held February 7 and 8, 1918, and was an unequalled success, both in regard to the numbers present at the various meetings and the enthusiasm manifested. The first day was devoted to sectional meetings for home building and housing during the war, moral and religious forces, retail merchants, fraternal organizations, food dealers, manufacturers and employers, labor, Red Cross, and financial interests. The programs consisted of practical talks intended to instruct each of the interests represented as to its duties in war activities, patriotic addresses, and music, including community singing. These meetings were well attended and the keenest interest and enthusiasm was manifested. The city schools were closed on account of fuel shortage, and some county schools were inaccessible on account of road conditions, but in all other patriotic meetings were held.

On the morning of the second day was a food production and conservation section, followed by a war luncheon for the workers of the women's branch of the Council of Defense. There was also a mass meeting for teachers and high school students in the morning, and the afternoon and evening were devoted to general patriotic mass meetings. At all three mass meetings Campbell's auditorium, seating 3,500 people, was filled, and in the evening every inch of standing room was taken. Music was furnished by the high school orchestra and the Purdue University Military Band, and community singing, led by Prof. R. G. McCutcheon, dean of music at DePauw University, was a feature of each of the meetings. The speakers of the day were Prof. S. L. Davis of Indiana University, Lieutenant W. G. Masson of the Canadian army, Mrs. Curtis Hodges of Indianapolis, Hon. Everett Colby of New Jersey, and Miss Mary Matthews, dean of household economics at Purdue University. Governor Goodrich presided at the evening meeting. The speakers were guests of the Council of Defense at a war dinner preceding the evening meeting. The result of the conference has been a great stimulus to the various war activities on account of the awakened interest and the spreading of information in regard to them.

Dubois County.—Wonderful results have been obtained as a result of the Dubois county war conference recently held at Huntingburg. This meeting has been described as the most successful public gathering ever held in the county, and its effect has been to stimulate all sorts of patriotic activities and to co-ordinate the various elements engaged in defense work. In spite of below zero weather and heavy snow, the attendance was a record-breaker, and the interest was remarkable.... One feature of the county war conference in Dubois was the formation of an organization of exempted men for home war work, starting with 800.

Elkhart County.—Starting with an enrollment of sixteen boys and girls, a school of telegraphy has been operating at the Elkhart high school for some weeks, the attendance steadily increasing. The pupils each paid a fee for the instruction and the new branch of learning has cost the school board nothing. The classes are under the direction of Arthur Shepler, an expert.... Sam Husmas of Goshen recently gave the entire gross receipts of his candy kitchen for one day to the Red Cross....Elkhart county farmers who hearken to the request of the federal government that fertilizer be generously and wisely used in increasing crop production as a war measure are calling on County Agricultural Agent G. E. Metzger for a supply of nitrates. In Elkhart county a committee is helping handle the proposition. On the committee are: E. E. Whitehead and W. F. Neff of Goshen, James Peters of New Paris and Dan Hartman of Nappanee.

Fayette County.—Under orders from A. E. Leiter, Fayette county food administrator, the sale of wheat flour by retailers at Connersville was stopped recently for two days. The order also included jobbers and millers in all the nine townships of the county. It was reported that the order was generally observed. Following the two-day period sales of flour were resumed, quantities being limited by the rules of the food administration and sales being made only when an equal quantity of a substitute was bought. The critical situation which had to be met by a complete ban on wheat flour sales was brought on by persons who rushed forward when limitations were first suggested and bought all the flour in sight. In two days, according to Mr. Leiter, four times the ordinary quantity of flour was sold and the hoarders had to be checked by drastic action on the part of the food administration. Mr. Leiter has been at work recently locating and confiscating hoarded flour bought in unusual quantities by unwise and unpatriotic citizens....Liberty Guards are the "real stuff" in Fayette county, where a battalion has been organized with F. I. Barrows of Connersville as major and A. A. Dixon as battalion adjutant. Judge R. S. Springer, one of the organizers of the movement in the county, is captain of Company A. Lieutenant-Colonel E. P. Hawkins of Connersville, member of the Governor's military staff, acted as mustering officer for the outfit. The Liberty Guards, Company B, are led by Captain M. M. Shellhouse. Company C is under Captain Gilbert Hannah and Company D is commanded by Captain Downey Van Pelt.

Floyd County.—The Red Cross has been strongly organized in all parts of the county. The neighborhood surrounding No. 2 school, on the Charlestown road near New Albany, formed some time ago in a local branch at a meeting attended by President W. B. Creed of the county chapter, Mrs. C. A. Harely, secretary; Dr. R. W. Harris, treasurer; ex-Senator E. B. Stotsenburg, C. D. Kelso, Herman Hare and G. E. Weinmann, Jr. Branches were recently organized at Chapel Hill, Greenville and Galena, in Floyd county....Thirty-one employees of the New Albany postoffice are contributing $1 per man each month to the Red Cross under a pledge recently taken....The German Evangelical Church of New Albany during the severe cold weather did its part in coal conservation by doing away with night services.

Fountain County.—A mid-winter teachers' institute, called by County Superintendent Guy A. Waldrup to take up patriotic work in which teachers can be useful, was held recently at Covington, and in connection with the institute a county-wide war conference was held. Many war workers attended. W. F. Mullinix, superintendent of the Attica schools, spoke to the teachers on the subject of the campaign for the sale of war thrift stamps and war savings certificates. Archibald M. Hall of Indianapolis delivered a patriotic address. Coal conservation material was distributed. Under Superintendent Waldrup the schools of Fountain county are taking an active part in war work on many lines. The young folk are especially busy in connection with the war thrift stamps and war savings certificate sales, and rivalries among the various schools have given a big impetus to the thrift campaign....Women of Shawnee township, Fountain county, are practical. Some time ago they held a sale of farm products and raised a considerable sum for the purchase of yarn with which to make socks for soldiers....John D. Pearson of Attica, Fountain county, following the suggestions of the food administration, put up 1,500 cans of green beans as his part in the food campaign of 1917. Mr. Pearson is a truck gardener. He enlarged his crop and handled the conservation end himself, taking orders in advance for case lots of canned goods.

Franklin County.—The Farmers' Institute Board of Franklin county, the Board of Education, made up of the township trustees, and the County Council of Defense, have been working together to make a thorough seed corn survey of the county with a view of locating seed corn for 1918 needs and seeing to it that the seed corn is tested before it is planted, thus to insure a good crop. With these forces are united the grain dealers and feed men of the county, the seed men, the stock raisers, the bankers and the newspaper men, and farmers generally. A recent meeting at Brookville was the start of a survey of the seed corn situation and a survey also of the needs of the farmers of the county in the way of labor for 1918. Seed stocks of oats, potatoes, etc., are being catalogue in addition to corn demands.

Fulton County.—A co-ordinated, encircling and supplemental Council of Defense, "No. 2," has been formed in Fulton county under the auspices and direction of the Fulton county Council of Defense. The new body takes in chairmen and secretaries of such organizations as the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Farmers' and Merchants' Association, etc. The Defense Council takes the position that war work is only just beginning and that history is yet to be made. Fully seventy-five workers from all parts of the county attended the meeting at which Defense Council No. 2 was started. W. H. Deniston, chairman of the County Council of Defense, presided at the meeting....Fulton county's statement of public policy, a document which has attracted attention all over Indiana and beyond, was prepared by a committee composed of the following: George W. Holman, chairman; Enoch Myers, Otto McMahan, H. G. Miller and Grosvenor Dave. The Fulton county policy statement has been issued on cardboard, attractively printed, and a copy of the statement, framed, now graces the headquarters of the Indiana State Council of Defense. So far as Fulton county is concerned, the patriotic statement of policy for war-time has been read in every corner of the county to public meetings, this being done under the direction of the County Council of Defense as an educational measure.

Gibson County.—Dr. J. M. Williams, chairman of the Gibson County Council of Defense, in seeking to induce others to make use of soft corn at a fair price for the feeding of hogs, made a practical demonstration of the good business of the proposition, proving in his own herd that the corn could be fed with good results. He then issued a public statement asking hog raisers to assist corn growers and at the same time do a stroke of good business by buying soft corn at fair prices to be fed to swine....Three clubs of Princeton high school boys, organized to hush corn where they might be needed by the farmers, were not largely called on during the corn harvest, but are on the job for the approaching planting time....Miss Ruth Maxam of Princeton now is at the head of the women's section of the Gibson County Council of Defense, taking the place of Mrs. Nora Walker, who resigned after giving many months of close application to the work. Miss Maxam has been active in Red Cross work and other patriotic movements.

Greene County.—Boy Scouts at Bloomfield, organized for war work on definite lines, and with defined duties, are at work along with their patriotic elders, enlisted for the period of the war. Recently the Scouts distributed to the homes and business houses of Bloomfield copies of President Wilson's Flag Day address as a war document. This was the beginning of a publicity campaign which is to go forward throughout the war period. Each Boy Scout is provided with credentials showing he is an aid on the staff of the committee on public information, the president's own organization, and is an authorized dispatch bearer for the government. The Scouts distribute pamphlets and documents such as the war administration desires to be circulated and gives out postcards on which citizens may order such additional literature as may be desired.

The Call.

"I therefore, in the national interest, take the liberty of calling upon every loyal American to take full to heart the suggestions which are being circulated by the food administration and of begging that they be followed. I am confident that the great body of our women who have labored so loyally in co-operation with the food administration for the success of food conservation will strengthen their efforts and will take it as a part of their burden in this period of national service to see that these suggestions are observed throughout the land."—Woodrow Wilson.

We must not overlook the fact that Russia collapsed, not because of the Germans on her borders, but because she failed to organize and feed her own citizens. We must be warned that if we are to emerge victorious from this war we cannot risk the collapse of our associates in this war from this cause.—U. S. Food Administration.

"The whole great problem of winning the war rests primarily on one thing: the loyalty and sacrifice of the American people in the matter of food."—Hoover.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 28

Editorial Comment

KENTUCKY ALSO AFTER DOGS.

Kentucky is following the example of Indiana in the movement to exterminate the stray dog, or the sheep-killing dog as a war measure. Kentucky joins Indiana in ruling that the tramp canine must go, and this is done coincident with a statewide organized movement to increase the number of sheep on Kentucky and Indiana farms, thus enlarging the wool supply to meet war demands and increasing the food supply.

In Kentucky a bill has been proposed which would create an official dog-catcher in each of the 120 counties of the state to intern the tramp dogs and thus protect livestock against the ravages of these destructive beasts. It is understood the Kentucky state officers were not agreed in support of the dog-catcher measure. Governor Stanley suggested recently that the bill, with the exception of the plan to create 120 new jobs at $60 a month each, was a worthy measure of good intent. He demanded that county officers already elected should perform the duties required by the proposed bill.

The bill was changed to provide for the listing of dogs by county assessors, county clerks and magistrates to issue dog licenses, and the county sheriffs to collect delinquencies and seize and impound stray dogs, the animals to be killed if not claimed within a set period. The measure as now urged, is modeled after the Pennsylvania law.

In Kentucky, as in Indiana, the sheep-killing dog is responsible for a heavy decline in the sheep industry. It is reported that in Kentucky there are fewer than one-half as many sheep as in 1860. Indiana has a similar story.

In Indiana an organization working with the State Council of Defense, with breeders and other interests, is bringing thousands of ewes into the state, and the enforcement of the dog law is being insisted on in every county. The Indiana dog law is regarded as adequate to meet the situation, where the law is enforced.

What Can I Do to Help Win the War?

Following is the new food program for public eating places and the home:

Monday is Wheatless,
Tuesday is Meatless,
Wednesday is Wheatless,
Saturday is Porkless,
One Wheatless meal every day,
One Meatless meal every day.

Wheatless means no crackers, pastry, macaroni, breakfast food or other cereal containing wheat and no wheat flour in any form except the small amount needed for thickening or a binder in corn bread.

Meatless means without any cattle, hog or sheep products. On other days use mutton and lamb in preference to beef or pork.

Porkless means without pork, bacon, ham, lard or pork products, fresh or preserved. Use fish and poultry.

Cut this out and paste it up in your kitchen. Observance of these wheatless and meatless regulations will help win the

War Service Text Books Distributed

Indiana High Schools Receive Volume Dealing with Voluntary Activities From Authorities.

One hundred thousand copies of a 160-page War Service Text Book are being distributed this week among the students and teachers of Indiana high schools.

Dealing with voluntary war measures such as Red Cross, War Savings Stamps, Food Conservation, United States Boys' Working Reserve, Food Production, Thrift and Liberty Bonds, it presents in permanent form for daily study the problems of the hour.

Included in the text are President Wilson's two messages to Congress—April 2, 1917 and December 3, 1917, which with such remarkable clarity and true statesmanship, state the causes and aims of the world conflict.

The book was planned by the State Council of Defense, authorized by Governor James P. Goodrich, edited by Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Ellis U. Graff, Superintendent of Indianapolis public schools, and published by the State Board of Education.

Many letters of praise have been received at the office of the State Council of Defense and by the State Board of Education, from which the following excerpts have been taken:

"There was brought to my attention today the 'Indiana War Service Text Book For High Schools.' Let me congratulate you upon the splendid publication which you have prepared for your Indiana Schools.

GEORGE D. STRAYER,
Division of Education, War Savings Committee, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

"Indiana has issued a remarkable War Service text book for Indiana high schools.

W. E. HALL,
National Director, U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, Washington, D. C."

"I like the book and think it meets a want. The homes may now be educated.

C. W. BOUCHER, Superintendent,
Valparaiso Public Schools."

"I am in receipt of the War Text Book for use in high schools in Indiana. I have looked the book over carefully and I am frank to say that it has exceeded my expectations along the lines of service and true patriotism. Let me congratulate on this wonderful little book.

ERNEST J. HOLSINGER,
County Director, Grant County."

"The War Service Text-Book for Indiana High Schools is very interesting. I believe it will be valuable.

EDWARD A. RUMELY,
The Evening Mail, New York."

Contents of the Book are as follows:

A Prayer, Rev. John Cavanaugh.
Address, April 2, 1917, Woodrow Wilson.
Address to Soldiers, James P. Goodrich.
Address, S. M. Ralston.
Our Council of Defense, George Ade.
A Patriotic Appeal, Horace Ellis.
The Schools and the War, E. U. Graff.
Our Flag, Archibald M. Hall.
War-Time Savings, Evans Woolen.
A Reserve of Man-Power, Isaac D. Straus.
The Service Flag, William Herschell.
Necessity for Food Conservation, H. E. Barnard.
The Carol of Liberty-Clan, W. S. Greenough.
Food Production, G. I. Christie.
Fighting with Dollars, F. E. Hering.
The Meaning of the War, Louis Howland.
Address, December 3, 1917, Woodrow Wilson.
The Star-spangled Banner, Francis Scott Key.

Meatless and wheatless days bring defeatless days.

Committee on Morals

February 19, 1918.

To the Ministers and Churches of Indiana—Greetings:

The crisis in the world conflict is upon us. With evident deep conviction President Wilson has recently said in his address to the farmers of the country:

You will realize, as I think statesmen on both sides of the water realize, that the culminating crisis of the struggle has come and that the achievements of this year on one side or the other side must determine the issue.

Two definite conclusions appear to have been reached by our own country and our allies: First, the war may be ended during this calendar year; second, that side which strikes the hardest blows within the next few months will win. It is now imperative that our country put forth its entire strength with every possible moral and material resource commandeered for effective action.

Chiefest among the considerations that come to us as conservators of the moral forces of the nation are: First, the necessity of producing food and supplies in sufficient amount to provide for our own forces and our people and for our allies. Special emphasis must be laid upon the patriotic and moral duty of our people to produce to the utmost all the necessities of life; and, second, to conserve, following the directions of the food administration for the saving of the essential foods so far as possible for shipment abroad. While fair remuneration is assured for all such productive industries, especially agriculture, the question of profits is secondary to the imperative demands of patriotism.

Another emphasis should be placed by our ministers and churches upon thrift. Thrift, always commendable, now becomes in a high degree a patriotic duty. By means of thrift stamps, war savings stamps, Liberty bonds, and the like, the government is enlisting the active interest and the support of all citizens. This in itself is a tremendous moral advantage.

You are urged, therefore, as ministers of the church, to bring to your people a sense of the patriotic obligations to co-operate with the government in this critical hour.

May we again emphasize the importance of maintaining correspondence between the churches and Sunday-schools and the young men who have gone into the government service, and may we not also again emphasize the importance of remembering in prayer not only our soldiers and sailors in the service of the country and of humanity, but our leaders in the government, that the ideals of liberty may be cherished and maintained in conformity with the gracious will of Almighty God, who rules in righteousness.

We must appreciate the psychological effect of emphasizing repeatedly our dependence upon Divine Providence. We dare not claim God as our partner in this terrific struggle and we must rather denounce as insolent and blasphemous such claim on the part of the German Kaiser; but we must be deeply concerned to know that we are on God's side and that we are not governed by provincial prejudices or national selfishness, but are yielding, rather, to the imperious demands of ethical ideals that will stand the test before the bar of history, which is, in the last analysis, the judgment of God. ALBERT B. STORMS,
Chairman Committee on Morals, State Council of Defense.

Peas, Beans, Peanuts and Cereals—Meat Substitutes.

These are cheaper than meats and good. They should be used, but eat some milk or cheese besides.

If all the waste in a community of twelve thousand could be piled up in a city square you would find that the whole community would be shocked.—U. S. Food Administration.

The consumption of alcoholic drinks decreased in the United States since the war began. Coffee consumption has increased.

Women's Section

College women, and women who have been especially trained, are being mobilized by the department of labor into a reserve from which it is planned to choose women to fill positions in the war department and in other government branches from which men of exceptional ability and training have been called to war duty in the military service.

The women's committee of the Council of National Defense has in hand the matter of recruiting and registering these college graduates and especially trained women. Mrs. Hilda M. Richards, chief of the women's division of the reorganized United States employment service, has announced that the work would be done through the women's committee of the national defense body. She says: "The positions open in the ordnance department, for example—places some time ago announced as open to specially trained women—included schedule clerks, indexing catalogue clerks, balance of stores clerks, punch card clerks, statistical machine operators, accountants, draftsmen, controller of store balance and assistants to officers in charge. Certain educational requirements have been fixed for the specially trained women needed for these jobs, and they are to be paid the same salaries as are paid men for the same work. The pay for beginners is $1,100 a year to be increased to $1,200 after three months' trial, promotion to be determined on merit by an efficiency board."

Women desiring information in this connection will get in touch with Mrs. Hilda M. Richards, Washington, D. C., 1814 N. Street, N. W.

* * * *

Mrs. Carlisle authorizes the publication of the following statement addressed to the women of Miami county, by Mrs. Jessie West, of Peru, chairman of the women's section of the County Council of Defense:

WE WENT TO WAR:

Because we would no longer endure Germany's violations of international law;

Germany's destruction of our men and our ships;

Germany's attempt to keep us off the seas, which meant financial ruin—no market for our crops;

Germany's threatened occupation of our own country.

WE ARE FIGHTING NOW:

Because this is a war for principle;

A war for the little nations;

A war for civilization;

A war for democracy;

A war to end war.

WHAT THE WOMEN CAN DO:

We can give our American soldiers the means of defending themselves;

We can help them to strike so well that they can save their own lives and strike again for America and liberty.

WE CAN DO THIS:

By organizing and registering as home workers;

By eating foods that can not be sent abroad;

By saving foods that can be sent abroad to our own men and to the women and children of the allied countries who for three years have been suffering pain and privation.

WHAT IT MEANS TO SAVE WHEAT:

If each person saves one pound a week, it means one hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat to send abroad.

WHAT IT MEANS TO SAVE MEAT:

If each person saves an ounce of meat a day, we will have an additional supply equal to 2,000,000 cattle.

WHAT IT MEANS TO SAVE BUTTER FAT:

If every person in America uses one-third of an ounce less a day, or about two teaspoonfuls of fat, or one less butter pat a day, the huge demand for fat by our allies could be met.

WHAT IT MEANS TO SAVE SUGAR:

Sugar is very scarce abroad, and our allies and our own men crave and need it. Cut down half your amount each day, and the need will be satisfied.

JUST A LITTLE ECONOMY—THAT'S ALL.

One lump of sugar, instead of two; one-half sized butter pat; one meal a day with corn instead of wheat bread; one day a week without meat—THIS LITTLE SAVING ON YOUR PART REPRESENTS THE TOTAL DAILY SAVING OF SOME WAR SUFFERER SOMEWHERE. EVERY WOMAN CAN DO SOMETHING TO MAKE THAT SUFFERING LESS. SHE WHO DOES NOT LACKS THAT SYMPATHY WHICH IS THE BADGE OF REAL WOMANHOOD EVERYWHERE.

* * * *

Indianapolis, Ind., February 18, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 25.

So many inquiries have been received about the Woman's Committee, Council of National Defense, that Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, acting chairman for the State of Indiana, has issued the following statement:

There are forty-eight divisions of the Woman's Committee, Council of National Defense, one in each State. The State chairman is appointed by the Federal Woman's Committee, of which Dr. Anna Howard Shaw is chairman. The Woman's Committee in Indiana serves in an advisory capacity to the men on the Council of National Defense. It shares with them a suite of rooms in the State House at Indianapolis, which constitutes headquarters.

The State committee appoints a chairman in each county whose duty it is to call together the heads of all women's organizations and other representative women to explain the plan of the Woman's Committee: (1) that it is a clearing house for all woman's work, not to be regarded as a new and separate organization, but as an advisory council to which each of the already existing organizations brings its plans to get the backing of all the others and to divide the field of work in such a way as to prevent overlapping and competition; (2) that the Woman's Committee is a channel of communication by which the government has access to the State, the county, the town, and so on down to the individual woman.

It is expected that these women shall elect their own permanent officers. These elective officers promote all patriotic work in their community, discouraging valueless work, stimulating and directing constructive effort, contradicting rumor, and co-ordinating the work of women harmoniously with the aims of the government.

URGE FOOD CONSERVATION.

They advocate the patriotic use of food in every home, which means the rearrangement of old habits and diets, requiring not only more time and thought, but greater devotion to household tasks and a more affectionate patience with the whims of the household. They seek a steady improvement in conditions surrounding childhood, emphasizing the importance of birth registration and insisting upon the protection of women and children in industry. They try to enlist young women with good education to train as nurses and as clerical assistants for the government. They speak for the support of the local charitable agencies; they aid the Red Cross and the Liberty loans and promote the sale of war thrift and savings stamps. The habits of life are to be changed, and this cannot be accomplished without the women.

The work of the Woman's Committee is to be steadily and progressively carried forward, not when it is comfortable and convenient, but as an inevitable obligation placed upon them by the government. Through constant watchfulness and through the interchange of information and experience they can perform their greatest service in maintaining a steadiness of thought and an evenness of temper in times that try men's souls. In quietness and confidence shall be their strength.

* * * *

Indianapolis, Ind., February 19, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 26.

To the Woman Members of the County Council of Defense:

My Dear Co-Workers—While the State of Indiana is not completely organized, there being a few counties which have not yet sent in their organizations, yet it is so nearly so that we are in good position to start the routine of monthly reports from each county to the State, to be compiled by the State office and forwarded to Washington.

The report for Washington covering the monthly work of the State is required by the 15th of each month, accordingly I ask that each Woman member forward to me (80 State House, Indianapolis, Indiana), a complete report of the work in her county on the first day of each month. This will give us time to compile them for Washington in time to reach that place by the 15th. I trust you will at once get in touch with your committee and arrange to let us have such a report on March 1.

I find that constantly the question arises—What relation has this, that or the other woman's society to the Woman's Section of the Council of Defense, and in answer we give you below one of the best statements on this matter I have seen.

"The Woman's Committee of the State Council of Defense is a sort of clearing house for the patriotic activities of women. It is in no sense a rival of any organization, nor has it any desire to detract from the activities and prerogatives of any other. The intent, from the National Committee down, is to make use of any other existing organizations, thus conserving the force of all women, and preserving intact the organizations that are in the field. Not a woman in its official receives a penny of salary, and only add this burden to those they already bear, as an act of patriotic service."

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section State Council of Defense.

* * * *

Indianapolis, Ind., February 18, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 27.

To the Woman Members and Food Administration Chairman of the County Council of Defense:

My Dear Co-Workers—In order that you may be advised as to what is contemplated in the near future along food administration lines, we quote you below the latest bulletin on this subject issued by the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., February 4, 1918.

To the State Chairman:

The Food Administration will soon begin a house to house canvass for placing 1918 Home Food Cards. It requests the same cheerful co-operation that you have always given.

We would suggest that those who aid in the distribution of cards study them carefully in order to meet objections and answer questions. Almost every point that will be raised is met by the text of the card itself, so we urge you to advise those who take part in the canvass to thoroughly familiarize themselves with the text of the card.

Sincerely,

(Signed) IDA M. TARBELL,
Chairman Food Adm. Dept.

Thanking you for your services in the past along this line and soliciting your earnest effort for the next drive, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section State Council of Defense.

* * * *

Indianapolis, Ind., February 19, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 28.

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense:

My Dear Co-Worker—For your information I quote you the following very interesting article from our National Chairman, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, which refers to new service for city women:

NEW SERVICE FOR CITY WOMEN.

"Under a new and large appropriation the Department of Agriculture is now appointing hundreds of women demonstration agents to help town and city housewives, just as demonstration agents

(Continued on Page 8.)

IS IT FAIR?

(Milwaukee Sentinel.)

One of the revelations in the case of William Gessert, Sheboygan county farmer, convicted of obstructing the national army law by persuading a son not to respond to the draft and now on his way to serve five years in a federal prison, is astounding indeed. Here it is:

"Gessert * * * says he is 47 and was born on the farm he now occupies. He declares he was educated in the district school of Rhine township, but had difficulty in understanding questions and making replies in English."

Born in Sheboygan county forty-seven years ago and yet experiencing "difficulty in understanding questions and making replies in English!" We talk of Americanizing our immigrants. Here, however, is a native of America, almost a half century old, who does not understand the language of America!

Is it fair to him that in his youth he was not prepared for American citizenship?

Is this fair to the many others like him?

Is it fair to America?

And the movement of German study in America's common schools, which prevents American children from learning America's language, goes right on.

A similar case of father and son is reported by the Nebraska Council of Defense. Both sobbed bitterly. Both repented. The son said:

"Gentlemen of the council, I wish to say that the trouble with my father and with hundreds of others of our citizens born in Germany is that they are permitted to read German newspapers. Foreign language newspapers should be abolished and your state council took the first step when it asked for the banishment of foreign languages in our schools."

But meanwhile the preservation of Germanism among immigrants and the incultation of Germanism in the native-born goes on. Meanwhile America is being divided and undermined.

Registration for War Emergency Discussed

Women Workers Attend School of Instruction as to Procedure in Big Spring Drive.

Registration for public service as a patriotic duty in the war emergency was the subject considered at a statewide conference, Saturday, February 16th, at the state house, of women defense workers from all parts of Indiana.

More than eighty women were present for the session, which was in the nature of a school of instruction for those who are to conduct the big registration drive, starting April 19th, the anniversary of the battle of Lexington. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Angeline B. Cook, who represented Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the women's section of the State Council of Defense.

The proposed optional fee of 10 cents to be paid by the registrant at the time of registering, as in the state of Illinois, where the women in this way have raised more than $38,000 with which to pay the expenses incident to war activities, was discussed.

The meeting voted by a large majority in favor of resolutions asking the women's executive committee of the State Council of Defense to rescind its action approving such collection. Those who opposed the fee declared the state and the counties were providing money with which to carry on the women's work. Any policy which might tend to prevent any woman from registering, or cause confusion in the minds of the women of the state, was to be deplored, they said.

It is estimated Indiana has 838,000 women, 21 years of age or over. The registration is to include not only matured women, but girls from 16 to 21. It is believed 500,000 will register and help in a further effort to get a full roster of Indiana womanhood pledged to war service on a volunteer basis.

One thing Mrs. Cook especially impressed on the conference was the fact that the registration has been asked for by the federal government at Washington. Many other states already have registered their women. It is hoped that Indiana's spring drive will put the state out in front, where it stands in practically all other war activities.

Registration cards, classifying the capabilities, training, experience and talents and voluntary offers of service of Indiana women will be preserved in the county seats by the County Councils of Defense. Each county will send its summary and classified recapitulation to the State Council of Defense, women's section, and a copy will go forward to Washington for the information of the National War Administration.

Another point emphasized was that the housewife and mother—the home-maker—is performing in her place, and in the proper way, a very definite patriotic duty which is not to be disturbed. The mother and home-maker, with her hands full of household cares, will register and be classified with the other patriotic women, but will not in any case be called on to lay down these fundamentals in order to take on purely war tasks. She will be credited for such Red Cross or other work as she is able to do in addition to her household business. The fact that a woman is busy as a home-maker does not relieve her from the duty of registering as a patriot in her proper classification in order that the federal government may know she is on the home job, helping to make the nation safe by a full observance of war-time rules and requirements, particularly as to food conservation.

Miss Julia Landers, chairman of the registration committee, made a patriotic address, asking the fullest measure of support in the work which she holds of vital importance.

He Understood.

The reason Johnson county continues to lead Indiana and the whole United States in the per capita sales of War Savings and Thrift Stamps is well illustrated in the remark of a Johnson county citizen at the conclusion of the County War Conference: "If I don't want to stick a hat-pin through my eye-ball," he said, "I am going to deny myself things and I am going to buy Thrift Stamps."

What he meant was, that with his boy called in the draft, he must, as a matter of necessity, save and preach the gospel of War Savings and Thrift Stamps. This man understood that, in order to save as much bloodshed as possible, the war must be properly financed; the boys in the trenches must be furnished with all the arms and ammunition they could possibly need; and he knew it takes both money and labor to back up the boys in the trenches. He understood that if his boy were to fall because of the lack of support by the folks back home, the anguish he would feel would far surpass the pain of literally sticking a needle through his eye-ball. This man thoroughly understood what the War Savings campaign means, and the sooner the entire American people get the same understanding of the campaign the quicker the war will be over and the more lives will be saved.

Dietetic Contest in Schools of Porter

County Council of Defense Will Finance Interesting and Patriotic Food Enterprise.

The Porter County Council of Defense will finance the dietetic conservation contest which County Superintendent of Schools F. H. Cole is now running in the schools of the county.

A. N. Worstell, Defense Council chairman, announced the fact today, and this in itself will add considerable impetus to the already popular contest. In making this announcement Mr. Worstell stated that it was right in line with the work the organization was sponsoring. Only a vast amount of good and conservation can result from the contest.

The teachers of the rural schools have taken a great interest in the work, and the students themselves are going eagerly into the contest.

A. Willa Wansbrough describes the plan in the Valparaiso Vidette, as follows:

"A novel and highly interesting experiment is about to be tried out in the rural schools of Porter County—experiment, truly, although perhaps the term project may be as aptly used. For purposes of convenience the experiment or project will be known as a dietetic conservation contest. It must be borne in mind, however, that it is more than a contest, as later influences will tend to prove.

"The idea of a dietetic contest was originated by Mr. N. S. Amstutz, research engineer, of this city, who has given many years of study to the relative values of foods and dietary. Its practical application to the activities of the work of the public schools has been carefully worked out after months of collaboration with Mr. Cole, county superintendent of schools, and the co-operation of several domestic science teachers who have been doing some preparatory work for a basis of operation.

"The plain aim of the contest is the production of an economical balanced single dish or food product. The very crux of the project is summarized in the slogan, "Balanced Dishes vs. Balanced Menus." By any appropriate experimentation and study, the contestant will endeavor to produce the most nourishing DISH, palatable and economical—a DISH having the least number of articles, requiring the least time to prepare, that is the best balanced, and prepared for the least outlay of money. Moreover, the DISH must be, as nearly as possible, an original one. From the foregoing general statement we come to the following points:

1. Balanced.
2. Highest nutrition.
3. Easily assimilated.
4. Economy.
5. Least ingredients.
6. Least time in preparation.
7. Simple procedure.
8. Palatability.
9. New descriptive name.

"The contest will begin within a few days and end about May 1st. Blank data sheets have been prepared for a proper record of articles used, quantity, time for preparation, time for cooking, etc., cost of materials, and percentage columns to be filled in by judges approximating proteins, fats, carbohydrates and calories. Bulletin 28, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be the basis of comparison as to food composition, fuel value, etc. Worth while prizes will be offered and more definitely announced at a later date.

"The intelligent reader will see at once that the 'prize' is but a means to an end. The highest value of the contest (or experiment) will lie in its educative processes and the influence in homes.

"One necessary and emphatic thought in closing. Mr. Amstutz and Mr. Cole have spent much time in considering the practical phases of the contest. The scheme is not burdened with frightful technicalities. It is important, but simple. It is readily adaptable to local conditions. Any student of domestic science in the rural schools may enter the contest in the hope of achieving."

One-third of all cultivated land in America is planted to corn. Corn is the original American grain.

Every Ear of Corn Must Be Guaranteed

Selection of Seed for 1918 Planting Will Determine Success or Failure of Crop.

Through the efforts of the Food Production and Conservation Committee of the State Council of Defense, an energetic campaign has been launched in every county for the testing of seed corn before planting this spring. "Test every ear" is the slogan, and Purdue university and county agents are co-operating with local forces to see that this slogan is carried out literally.

The seed stocks and labor survey, which is practically complete in every county, shows that early reports of the seed corn situation were not overdrawn. Some of the best corn producing counties in the state, those around Marion, are from 2,000 to 7,000 bushels short. Johnson county, said to be the pacemaker for the entire country, needs 5,000 bushels of seed. So it is with the counties running northwest from Indianapolis in a strip about 75 miles wide clear to Lake county. Other sections of the state, with a few exceptional counties, will be able to meet their own seed needs. Decatur, Bartholomew and Rush counties, among the leading corn producing counties, will have enough seed, reports from the leaders there show.

Old corn, that left from the 1916 crop, will play a big part as seed this year. It is estimated that this will plant 50 per cent of the 1918 crop.

The survey has shown vast amounts of seed which farmers thought was good to be absolutely lifeless.

* * * * *

FARM LABOR SPECIALIST EMPLOYED.

With the employment of L. O. Chasey, of Marion, as farm labor specialist, a good turn has been done for the Indiana farmer. The Food Production and Conservation Committee will co-operate in every way through him to meet the labor situation. Mr. Chasey, a successful farmer himself, is employed by the United States Department of Agriculture, to serve as the connecting link between state and federal employment agencies. He will form organizations to act as mediums through which sources of labor may be located and brought to those needing the help. He will co-operate with the county agents and others in this work. The state is fortunate in obtaining the services of such a man when the labor situation demands so much attention.

* * * * *

100 HENS ON EVERY FARM.

The Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation says: "Hatch chickens early, for the number of chicks hatched during March and April will largely determine the number of eggs Indiana can furnish our country next fall and winter. Poultry patriotism means immediate action.

"One hundred hens on every farm and 100 eggs from every hen will double the production of poultry and eggs and increase the United States food supply 1,500,000 tons. Increased poultry production is a national necessity, recognized as such by our government. It is not only the opportunity, but the duty of all poultry raisers, all poultry and egg buyers, and all those connected in any way with the great poultry industry to combine forces and go over the top in poultry production this year. War time poultry work appeals to the pocketbook as well as to patriotism.

"Following is an extract from a recent publication of the Extension Department of Purdue University which was issued to assist in the increased poultry drive in Indiana:

* * * * *

AN APPEAL TO YOUR POCKETBOOK.

Question—Can the average Indiana farmer make money with poultry?

Answer—Yes!

Question—Can you prove it?

Answer—Yes. Last year Mrs. Harry Knee, of Wabash, Ind., with a flock of 97 Barred Plymouth Rock hens secured 727 dozen eggs. She made a profit of $1.75 per hen—a profit of $1.09 per hour for every hour spent with her fowls—Purdue instructions made good. Last year, with corn selling from $1.00 to $1.25 per bushel, and other feed stuff proportionately as high, five Indiana farmers, averaging 165 hens apiece, secured 90 eggs per hen, which sold at an average of 32.2 cents per dozen, netting each one of those farmers $231.95 apiece—mind you, a net profit of 45 cents per hour for every hour spent with their fowls.

Question—What shall I do to make money with fowls?

Answer—First—Hatch chickens early. Hatch by the calendar. Hatch 200 days before the season of heavy frosts in your locality. The secret of getting pullets to lay in cold weather is to have them matured and laying before October's frosts. Hatch Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes during March; hatch Leghorns not later than April 30th. Pullets hatched in June are poor winter layers. Early hatched chicks are stronger, more thrifty and mature more rapidly.

Second—Confine the mother hen during the first two weeks of the chick's life. Do not allow chicks to run in wet, cold grass. Every chick lost is an egg and a quantity of feed used to no purpose.

Third—Produce infertile eggs after the breeding season.

Fourth—Dispose of the surplus cockerels early and cut down the feed costs. Retain all thrifty pullets, as they earn you a profit. The cockerels will not.

When the war is over and victory is ours, see to it NOW that your conscience won't bother you THEN.

The War Is Coming Home

Idle lands are to be put to patriotic use in raising crops for the war emergency regardless of efforts made by owners to hold such lands out of productiveness. The case of William C. Binford, who has kept more than 600 acres of land idle for several years, near Thorntown, is a case which indicates that the lesson of the war is coming close home. Judge W. H. Parr recently appointed M. C. Long, of Lebanon, to act as guardian for Binford, and Binford's big farm is to be cultivated under the management of the guardian with a view to increasing the food crop of Indiana in the war period. This step has been taken in response to suggestions made by the councils of defense of Boone and Montgomery counties following an inquiry made last year when a campaign was on to bring about intensive cultivation of lands and increase in production of food crops. Binford refused to rent any of his land at reasonable rates, and was too old and infirm to grow crops himself. His attitude was such as to lead the court to adjudge him to be irresponsible, and the guardianship was established in order that Binford might not suffer from either the consequences of his stubbornness or the idleness of his lands.

The Cass County Council of Defense has gone on record by resolution against the election or appointment to public office or public employment of any person who opposes the government in the war or who by silence or inaction fails to render aid to the country in time of peril.

A serious shortage of labor and experienced assistants is being experienced by all State institutions, due to the movement on the part of spirited employees to the colors.

Charles H. Williamson of Columbus, Ind., has been compelled to take out an alien enemy permit. He was born in a Danish province, which later went under German control. He took out his first naturalization papers in 1870, but did not complete his naturalization. He is not a German, does not speak German and does not sympathize with the Kaiser. Yet his failure to become a full American now gets him into trouble and brings the war home to him in a very real sense.

Tobias Haupt and A. E. Whitehead, organizers for the "Workers' International Industrial Union" at Evansville, made disloyal remarks. They were called on the carpet and pledged themselves to wear the American flag on their coat lapels and to cease anti-American talk. The pledge was made to the Evansville chief of police.

Fats make nitroglycerin a necessity in ammunition making. Don't waste fats.

Indiana War Gardens 1918

Every Indiana family should plant and cultivate a garden this year. In this way our people can give active direct assistance to the campaign for more food.

The present food shortage emphasizes the importance of growing and conserving every possible pound of food. The rapidly increasing army and navy, together with the hungry people of Europe, will require more foodstuffs next year than ever before. We must be ready to meet this demand.

All men and women, boys and girls are urged, therefore, to arrange for land, plant a garden, and produce food which will release large supplies of the staple form crops for the use of our Allies and our soldier boys.

JAMES P. GOODRICH,
Governor of Indiana.

Allotment of Soldiers' Pay.

In response to a request made by the State Council, John S. Cravens, a member of the State Council's Section of the Council of National Defense, advises as follows:

"You will note that an allotment is compulsory as to a man's wife and children and if he has not voluntarily allotted his pay, upon application, compulsory allotment will follow. Allotment of pay is voluntary as to any other persons. It also follows that family allowances will be paid by the Government where allotment of pay is already established. All applications should be mailed to the War Risk Insurance Bureau, Treasury Department, Allotment and Allowance Division, and should you require further applications, you may obtain them by communicating directly with that Bureau. The Bureau also provides a blank form, '1B,' on which is listed the information for the allotment of pay and application for family allowance, but this is issued only to the soldiers."

Extension of Time to Secure Insurance

Secretary of the Treasury Wm. Gibbs McAdoo announces that all persons in the military and naval services whose time for making application for Government insurance would have expired before April 12 have been granted an extension of time by Congress so that they can make application any time up to and including April 12, 1918. The joint resolution making this extension has been approved by President Wilson.

This extension, the Secretary explained, was made as a measure of protection for a large number of men who, because of service at distant points and for other reasons, did not have time to apply. This related particularly to those whose right to apply for insurance would have expired today under the original act. The extension of the time within which to apply for insurance does not, however, include the automatic insurance, which has expired.

All persons who have not applied for insurance will remain uninsured by the Government until their insurance is applied for. The automatic insurance has stopped for all men in service regardless of the date of enlistment. Delay in applying for insurance is therefore more dangerous than ever before.

The vigorous and enthusiastic insurance campaign which has been going on at military and naval units will continue. Men who have not applied for insurance should take advantage of the generous extension of time and make application forthwith; men who have applied for insurance in amounts less than the maximum of $10,000 will be able as a measure of protection for themselves and their families to increase the amount where it is practicable to do so. The extension of time will be of special advantage to men in the American Expeditionary Forces and men in the Navy serving at distant points.

Food Administration

Americans are buckling down to a gigantic task of conserving wheat. To meet the needs of the allies and other demands, including those of Belgian relief and Cuba, 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are needed in the next four months. The commercial surplus from the 1917 harvest has already been shipped to them, so this amount can only be secured from the savings of the people.

To bring about the necessary cut in the consumption of wheat the Food Administration has put in force regulations which affect every branch of the flour trade and is urging the consumer to adjust his household to meet the needs of the hour.

The following is a summary of the new regulations and suggestions:

(1) The mills under license regulation are required to produce a barrel of flour from 264 pounds of 58 pounds per bushel wheat. This is a white flour and represents a 74 per cent. extraction as against 70 per cent., the average of last year.

(2) Millers are permitted to sell to jobbers only 70 per cent. of their purchases of last year and are called on to distribute flour through their customary markets and channels of distribution.

(3) The government, through the Food Administration, buys 30 per cent. of the output of the flour mills. This reserve will be held to supply the needs of the allies and supply any local shortage that may occur in this country.

(4) Jobbers can sell the retail trade in the proportion of one pound of wheat flour to one pound of such cereals as permitted under regulations.

(5) Bakers of bread and rolls must buy one pound of wheat substitute for every four pounds of wheat flour and must use a minimum 20 per cent. of cereals other than wheat flour in baking.

(6) Bakers of all other bakery products and manufacturers of wheat products can purchase no more than 70 per cent. of the wheat flour they used during the corresponding months of 1917.

(7) In public eating places Monday and Wednesday of each week are to be observed as wheatless days.

(8) The consumer is called on in purchasing flour to buy at the same time an equal weight of other cereals. He is asked to observe the two wheatless days a week and a wheatless meal every day and to bake or buy only "Victory Bread."

* * * *

Substitutes recognized in the sale of wheat flour on the 50-50 basis are:

Bran, shorts, middlings.
Milo flours and similar flours and meals.
Corn flour, cornmeal, corn grits, hominy.
Edible corn starch, barley flour, rolled oats, oatmeal.
Rice, rice flour, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour.
Bean meal, peanut meal, cassava taro and banana flours and other products of similar nature.

* * * *

If each home saves:

One ounce of meat daily it means 465,000,000 pounds annually.
And one slice of bread, 365,000,000 loaves annually.
And one piece of butter, 114,000,000 pounds annually.
And one cup of milk, 912,000,000 quarts.
Or the product of 400,000 cows annually.
Let us do our part.

* * * *

In order to insure a greater supply of cereals which may be substituted for wheat, the United States Food Administration sent the following telegram to all maltsters throughout the country: "You are directed, until rules governing maltsters are issued, to cease all purchases of barley and other grains for malting."

It is estimated that the maltsters now have on hand a sufficient supply of barley and other grains to last from three to six months.

* * * *

Poultry stored before February 1, 1917, must be moved out of cold storage warehouses on or before March 1, 1918, as heretofore directed by the United States Food Administration. No action will be initiated against holders of such poultry if same is sold before March 1 to direct distributors to the consuming trade and held in the name of such distributors for not exceeding thirty days after March 1. In cases where dealers have not moved this poultry because of inability to secure transportation facilities, and have evidence of these facts, application should be made for limited extension beyond March 1 to the Enforcement Division of the Food Administration.

* * * *

In order to prevent confusion and obtain as much uniformity as possible on the meats program, the Federal Food Administration is asking all administrators to submit proposed local regulations they may have in mind before actually putting them in force. Already some confusion exists because certain States have made special rules in their endeavors to have meatless day and meals and porkless day fully observed, as outlined in the new home cards. It is hoped the administrators will not find it necessary to make complicated local rules affecting sales by dealers of special meats but if local conditions arise which they feel should be treated in a special way they are urged not to hesitate to wire headquarters.

Red Cross Activities

Seven hundred county and city superintendents of schools in Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky have been appealed to by James L. Fieser, director of Civilian Relief in the Lake Division, American Red Cross, to lend their active co-operation to Chapter Home Service Sections.

Each superintendent has been sent the Red Cross manual of Home Service outlining the activities of the branch of Red Cross work which assists the dependent families of enlisted men. There are now more than 3,000 such families under the care of the Red Cross in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

The attention of the school officials is especially directed to that part of the Home Service work which deals with child conservation and its part in the nation's program.

Mr. Fieser has also sent out letters to several hundred business men who are members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, asking these men to co-operate with the chapter civilian relief work in their respective communities.

* * * *

James R. Garfield, manager of the Lake Division, American Red Cross, is in receipt of a letter from H. D. Gibson, general manager, in part as follows:

"It has come to my attention that there is apparent reluctance on the part of some chapters, whose funds are limited or have been very liberally used for various other purposes to make appropriations for Home Service, even when the opportunity for such expenditure, wisely and helpfully is apparent.

"Whenever an individual chapter feels unable or unwilling financially to undertake Home Service, you are authorized to state to the chapter concerned that its funds should be used so far as needed for the welfare of the families of soldiers and sailors in that community, even if the result must be the curtailing of work along other lines. The only Red Cross funds available for Home Service are those of the chapter itself, whereas the surplus funds of all chapters can be used if necessary for general relief supplies.

"It should be made definitely certain that a chapter with funds, no matter how limited, should not neglect its Home Service obligations, because to do so will likely cause the families of soldiers and sailors there to suffer privation or to oblige them to sacrifice health by reason of overwork, or unsuitable work, or to apply to public or private charities."

Unless the descendants of the men who followed Grant and Lee are degenerate there can be no question of the ultimate outcome. It is time for each individual to search his heart and to purge his mind and purpose of selfish motives.—Secretary of Agriculture.

Liberty Guard Division

Office of the Adjutant-General,
Liberty Guard Division,
Indianapolis, February 1, 1918.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 1.

1. The following executive order is published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

Executive Chamber,

Indianapolis, Ind., January 2, 1918.

Brigadier-General Harry B. Smith, in addition to his other duties as Adjutant-General of Indiana, will assume command of all Liberty Guard organizations within the State of Indiana.

JAMES P. GOODRICH, Governor.

By direction of the Governor.

HARRY B. SMITH, Adjutant-General.

* * * *

Office of the Adjutant-General,
Liberty Guard Division,
Indianapolis, February 18, 1918.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 2.

1. Pursuant to the executive order of the Governor, published in General Orders No. 1, dated February 1, 1918, the undersigned hereby assumes command and takes charge of the organization known as the Liberty Guard of Indiana.

2. During the periods of meetings for drill and instruction all members of Liberty Guard organizations shall observe strict military courtesy and discipline as provided in the infantry drill regulations of the United States army. All officers and members are directed to hold weekly meetings for the study and practice of military drill and customs of the military service, and said meetings shall not be postponed or discontinued unless sanctioned by orders from these headquarters.

3. Instruction in military drill shall be given in accordance with infantry drill regulations of the United States army as authorized by the Secretary of War.

4. The Liberty Guard organizations of Indiana shall be governed by the military law of the State of Indiana.

5. All organizations of the Liberty Guard are expected to maintain an attendance of at least 60 per cent. of the total membership.

By direction of the Governor.

HARRY B. SMITH,
Adjutant-General.

Women's Section

(Continued from Page 5.)

have been helping farmers' wives and daughters for several years.

"Each city agent will be a representative of both your State College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, under whose direction she will work. Each will be a source of complete and authoritative information as to what the government is doing to help women with their home problems, and also as to what the government wants women to do in their homes.

"These agents will work through co-operation with the public schools, with organizations already at work on home problems in relation to the war, and will utilize every other available means for helping you and your neighbors. If a demonstration agent has been appointed for your town, get in touch with her. If you don't know where she is, write and ask your State College of Agriculture. If none has been appointed, ask your State College of Agriculture when and how one may be appointed."

If you have no agent in your county I trust you will take up the matter.

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

It is very important to take an interest in your community. If the restaurant and hotel in your town doesn't follow the food program it is your fault—your fault!—because if you insist upon their doing it, and take an interest in their doing it, they will follow it if you explain it to them.—U. S. Food Administration.

"We accepted this war for a worthy object, and the war will end when that object is attained. Under God, I hope it will not end until that time!"—ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MARCH 1, 1918

Number 29

Council Defers Action on Director of Labor

Governor James P. Goodrich Will Be Consulted Before This Important Matter is Concluded.

By consent, A. W. Brady acted as chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense at its regular meeting February 27.

In the continued absence of A. E. Reynolds, chairman of the committee named to consider an appropriate action by the council in the matter of encouraging the campaign for more silos on Indiana farms, the committee was continued. G. I. Christie, director of the Indiana committee on food production and conservation, reported that the campaign for silos is continuing through existing agencies but that it was felt that the endorsement of the Council would be of material assistance.

The committee consisting of Mr. Brady, H. R. Kurrie and Will Irwin, which was authorized to prepare an expression of the policy of the Council on Pro-Germanism and pacifism, was authorized to include also in its consideration the matter of utilizing the services of loyal Germans in spreading patriotic educational propaganda among German-speaking people. The committee also will report on the suggestion of the State's section of the Council of National Defense that the State Council assist in the proposed plan for Americanizing aliens, first by assisting the United States Bureau of Education and second by setting up agencies for the same purpose within the State, co-operating with the speakers' bureau, the woman's section and other channels.

A letter from A. L. Miller, secretary of the Vigo County Council of Defense, setting forth objectionable features of the alleged transmission of train orders in the railroad yards and mining districts by telephone; pointing out the presence of potential enemy aliens; and the lack of fixed responsibility such as attaches to the written order, was referred to the transportation committee with the request that prompt action be taken.

Mr. Keach asked the rereading of the communication from the Council of National Defense asking the Council to give attention to the appointment of a labor director. He then nominated Charles Fox, a member of the Council, chairman of the Labor committee, for the office. Mr. Wampler, of the Employers' Co-operation committee, to whom with Governor James P. Goodrich and Mr. Fox was referred the question, originally, stated that the governor is still considering the financial problem involved in extending and enlarging the scope and service of the state employment bureau. At the suggestion of Mr. Brady, that the governor, very properly, should be consulted before the council commits itself to the expenditure of any considerable sum of the State's money, further action was deferred for a week, with the understanding that Mr. Brady is to consult with the governor in the meantime, in anticipation of a final conclusion. It was stated by Mr. Keach that a representative of the United States department of labor had been in Indianapolis for several days urging that the council name a labor director without further delay.

The executive secretary of the council, on motion of Mr. Keach, was authorized to acknowledge appropriately the tender of the property of the Socialist Turnverein, an Indianapolis organization of citizens of German extraction, for patriotic purposes. It was reported that the council recently availed itself of the use of the society's hall for holding a patriotic meeting.

Mr. Keach and E. M. Wilson were named to investigate the alleged discrimination against soldiers at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, by Indianapolis retailers. Dr. Emerson previously had reported instances of resentment on the part of medical men who asserted they had been charged excessive prices for supplies purchased in Indianapolis.

Mr. Fox reported the discharge of union molders by the Standard Wheel company of Terre Haute, who had been engaged on federal war contracts. His motion, that a committee be authorized to investigate and make such recommendations as will constitute a precedent for similar cases which are expected to arise during the progress of the war, prevailed. Mr. Fox of the Labor committee and Mr. Wampler of the Employers' Co-operation committee were named as this special committee.

On motion of Mr. Squibb, the resolution calling on educational and agricultural interests of the state to encourage the organization of 10,000 Indiana boys in the United States Boys' Working Reserve for agricultural service during the coming summer was adopted unanimously. The resolution in full appears elsewhere in this Bulletin.

The council heard a presentation of the merits of a so-called patriotic arithmetic, intended to promote interest in food conservation and other timely matters, and referred the question of an indorsement to the educational section.

Win the War Day

(National Committee of Patriotic Societies, Southern Building, Washington, D. C.)

A plan to observe April 6, the first anniversary of America's entry into the war, as "National Win the War Day" has been suggested by William Mather Lewis, Executive Secretary of the National Committee of Patriotic Societies.

A statement sent to the presidents of fifty National Patriotic organizations, to cabinet members and other Government officials says, "At the beginning of our second year in the great war it is fitting that we have a National consecration to the task remaining before us. Because of numerous workless days during the past winter it is not advisable that the occasion should be made a holiday, but in every factory, store, mine, school and on every farm there should be a brief period during the day where everyone who is loyal to the flag should stand up and be counted. Flags should everywhere be unfurled. At twelve o'clock noon factory whistles and church bells should send forth a volume of sound that will reach Berlin. Every band in the country will then play the Star-spangled Banner while the people stand at attention. In the evening in the churches, halls and theaters the people can gather for meetings of inspiration. Regiments of the National Army may parade in cities near the cantonments.

"The winter of our discontent" with its coalless days and congested railroad and other minor annoyances is past. The spring with its promise of abundant crops and increased industrial production is here. Now is the time for America's Home Army to mobilize and thus bring courage to our boys in the trenches and cantonments, and depression to our enemies. Let Germany feel that this is a popular war in America. The effect of having the nation a unit in patriotic thought on this day cannot be overestimated. It will bring renewed courage and hope to our brave Allies.

Every State Council of Defense, every county and Community Council, every mayor, every Liberty Bond Committee, every patriotic society, every labor organization, every school board should at once lay definite plans to make "Win the War Day" a great success.

Ten Thousand Boys Wanted in Indiana

(Resolution Adopted by the Indiana State Council of Defense, February 27, 1918)

Whereas, It now appears that as many as ten thousand boys of the ages 16 to 20, inclusive, will be needed on Indiana farms during the coming season, and

Whereas, The majority of these boys will necessarily come from towns and cities, and will be inexperienced in farm work, and

Whereas, The State Council of Defense, in co-operation with the State Board of Education and the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, has issued a bulletin entitled "Emergency Agricultural Classes," which outlines a plan for teaching such boys some of the rudiments of agriculture, and familiarizing them with the nomenclature of farm life, therefore, be it

Resolved, That all school authorities throughout the state of Indiana, superintendents, principals and teachers, agricultural agents and teachers, farm implement dealers, agents for tractors, dealers in farm seeds and fertilizers, stock men, retired farmers, active farmers and livery men all co-operate with each other in each community where boys are available, for the purpose of organizing these emergency classes and making them as practical and successful as possible. To succeed this plan demands quick action. It is a vital war measure, and should be received by everyone in the state as a "CALL TO COLORS" commanding complete co-operation and immediate execution.

Holding Down on Public Work.

Secretary McAdoo authorizes the following statement: "Because of the interest of the Treasury Department in the conservation of capital and credit during the period of the war, I have received several inquiries as to whether building operations of one kind and another should be discouraged. With regard to plans for public buildings under the control of the department, I have stopped letting contracts except in cases where they were absolutely necessary. Home building is an excellent thing in normal times, but at present, unless there is real shortage of houses for war-workers, I strongly advise that materials, valuable labor and credit be not utilized for this purpose. Whether homes should be built should be determined strictly by the urgency of the need."

Would Swindle Farmers.

Regarding an attempt that is being made to swindle the farmers of the United States, the Federal Farm Loan Board has issued a statement saying, in part: "Another scheme for swindling the farmers of the United States has been discovered by the board. A man advertising himself as an authorized organizer of national farm loan associations is sending out advertising matter emblazoned with the national flag, stating that he will organize such associations at $500 each, and will teach others the trick for a certain sum of money. His advertisements have reached farmers and business men over a large part of the United States. All such representations are fraudulent."

It is the duty of every true-blue daughter of Uncle Sam to see that no soap is wasted in her home. Soap is made from fat. Fats are necessary for food and for making munitions.

Patriotism in Indiana

Allen County.—Harry Linsing, a patrolman, who is also a pipecutter, has registered in the Public Service Reserve for shipbuilding services. His action has received a very cordial endorsement of the city administration both because of the patriotic nature of his act and the splendid example he sets for others in this emergency....The Allen County Council of Defense has recommended to township trustees and assessors that they join with members of the township advisory board in organizing township councils of defense. "Since this is the duty of necessity, humanity and honor, we know you will cheerfully accept the responsibility," says the county council's letter to the township officers, who will be looked to for results....Allen county residents of the vicinity of Leo hung an American flag on a Mennonite church door and then sent word to the minister defying him or the members of the congregation to take it down. The minister is alleged to have urged young men not to enter the army service if they could possibly avoid it, because of their religion. Bitter feeling is being manifested against the Mennonites and it is said Federal investigation will be asked with a view to getting before the public all the pertinent facts.

Bartholomew County.—At the suggestion of Marshall Hacker, chairman of the County Council of Defense, concurred in by Mayor Jones of Columbus, business men of the city suspended business for a period of five minutes as a mark of respect for James B. Larkin and in sympathy with his parents on the day of his funeral, February 16. James B. Larkin was the first Bartholomew county boy to give his life in the great war. He died in camp.

Benton County.—The Rev. Father Charles Deh, chairman of the County Council of Defense, and Lemuel Shipman have accepted the appointment as members of the Catholic Church War Association, and their duties will take them to every parish of the north Indiana diocese. The purpose of the association is "to place the members of that denomination squarely back of the President in the prosecution of the war. There are a good many members of this church who are of German ancestry and naturally have been lukewarm in the conflict, but the high dignitaries have determined that the church shall support this war now as one mass, hence this nation-wide organization."

Boone County.—Stirring resolutions denouncing the spread of German Kultur through the schools and other sources of public information were adopted by the Boone county war conference, which was the most successful meeting of the kind held in the community in more than a generation, notwithstanding circumstances made the attendance a disappointment.

Clark County.—J. E. Taggart, chairman of the County Council of Defense, directs attention in a public statement to the "selfishness" of politicians, who are placing their own interests first in reference to war work. Chairman Taggart declares that many of these men have exceptional ability along the lines of activity in which the patriotic workers are engaged, and he deplores their entire absence from any concern in war work. He considers this to the discredit of those who are asking popular support in their desire to be elected to office.

Clinton County.—E. A. Spray, Howard Cann, Joseph Phipps, Ralph Chadfield and Walter Brown have been named by the County Council of Defense to pass upon all solicitations of funds for war purposes. The request that all movements voluntarily co-operate in making this censorship effective has been made by the County Council of Defense, which also expresses the hope that "the public will accept and with interest demand that all causes co-operate under the endorsement of this committee."

Davies County.—In revoking the license of John C. Lemmon, a county school teacher, James E. Gilley, county school superintendent, referring to Lemmon's refusal to assist the government in making a copy of the registration on indexed cards, said, "I hold that I must of necessity maintain the schools of this county on the basic principles on which they were founded by our government—the principle that you are to train the youth of our land for future efficient citizenship. To be an efficient citizen can mean nothing else than to give loyal service to this country in time of war as well as in time of peace. Whenever our schools cease to train for just this sort of service they fail to accomplish the high purpose for which they were established." Superintendent Gilley revoked Lemmon's license on the ground of incompetency and neglect of duty and is sustained in his action by an opinion from Dr. Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Decatur County.—D. W. Weaver, S. A. Boner, Will Alanham, Joe Moss and G. G. Welsh have been named a committee to pass upon all solicitations of funds for patriotic purposes. This is in line with the recommendation of the State Council of Defense and is intended to put an end to abuses which have become very general over the State.

Elkhart County.—One hundred retail grocers of Elkhart county have joined the organization, which will serve as a medium of communication between the consuming public and the food administration. The county president is A. A. Poorbaugh of Elkhart, and C. W.

Kants secretary-treasurer. There is a vice-president for each community as follows: Elkhart, Herman Stultz; Goshen, George I. Smith; Benton, C. A. Strine; Stumptown, M. Franzer; Middlebury, Claude Stettel; Nappanee, L. V. Mollett; Millersburg, B. B. Miller; Wakarusa, C. F. Frash; Waterford, Howard Hopkins; New Paris, Mervin Mishler; Bristol, A. B. App; Foraker, H. M. Weaver; Southwest, Enos Weaver; Jonesville, John Nusbaum.

Floyd County.—Colored women of Floyd county have registered and are co-ordinating with the patriotic activity of the woman's section of the County Council of Defense. They will make a special study of food conservation and Red Cross work. Their organization follows: Mrs. J. E. Harper, president; Mrs. Nathan Hill, vice-president; Mrs. C. F. Williamson, secretary; Mrs. Josie Edison, treasurer; Mrs. M. E. Washington, chairman of advisory board....Miss Minta McQuiddy has been appointed chairman of the committee on food conservation. Each of the churches of New Albany is represented in her organization, which is composed of the following: Mrs. Charles F. Callahan, Mrs. Edward Quinn, Mrs. Noel Bird, Mrs. George Fleischer, Mrs. J. D. Hauswald, Mrs. Grace Graham, Mrs. E. A. Sevringhaus, Mrs. Will W. Brooks, Mrs. Cora Beach Collins, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. James Russell, Jr.; Mrs. T. M. Moritz, Mrs. Charles A. Hedges, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Huon Starr, Mrs. John Rapp and Mrs. J. W. Hanlon. The appointments have been officially approved by Mrs. Kurfess. It is the intention to thoroughly organize for the conservation of food by the women of the city. It is planned to district the city with members of the committee in charge of the various districts and these districts are to be organized into neighborhood units for effective co-operative work....State Senator M. C. Thornton, who is filling engagements for patriotic speeches, boasts that he has eleven blood relatives fighting with the allied armies against Germany.

An appropriation of $1,000 for the payment of legitimate expenses in carrying on the work of the County Council of Defense is made by the civil council. Members of the Council get no salary.

Fulton County.—Commendations of the statement of public policy issued by the Fulton County Council of Defense continue to come in from all over the country. Since the publication of the policy leading public men and publicists have written expressions of their endorsement and approval, in which are included the following: Governor James P. Goodrich: "I am sure there are no more patriotic people in any county of Indiana than Fulton county." Senator James E. Watson: "The plan of lodge, church and school is commendable and I am sure it will be very helpful in arousing patriotic sentiments." Senator Harry S. New: "It is on such educational campaigns as you are conducting that we must largely rely to overcome the dangerous apathy from which some sections of the country seem to be suffering. More power to you."...Grosvener Dave, secretary of the Farmers and Merchants' Association, has been engaged at the salary of $1,800 a year to act as assistant to other chairmen of other war committees in the county. While doing this work Mr. Dave will be relieved of all other responsibilities and it will be his duty to assist where desired in all fund raising efforts, look after fuel and food problems, organize and secure speakers for patriotic meetings, handle correspondence and otherwise administer details of the council's business. The following executive committee will have general supervision over the work: Arthur Metzner, A. L. Deniston, Henry Bihler, Charles Emmons and Maurice Shelton. One of the first duties of the new administration was to co-operate in the seed corn survey, which is completed.

Grant County.—Secretary Z. C. Sanderson of the Grant County Council of Defense enlisted the active co-operation of 100 merchants of Marion in the campaign to secure registration of skilled mechanics in the shipbuilding plant. The merchants readily recognized the necessity of moving millions of war if industrial prosperity inland were not to suffer.

Albert C. Moenart, Belgian Consul-General, will be one of the speakers at the Marion War Conference to be held March 12. All preparations are being made to cover the County Council's activities. Effort will be made to emphasize the military as well as the civilian end of the war program and is expected to be one of the biggest events of the kind ever held in the county.

Henry County.—At the farmers' Institute at Newcastle the following resolutions were adopted, which are both timely and patriotic:

1. That we, the members of the Henry County Farmers' Institute Association, will do all in our power to improve, increase and conserve food products.
2. That we will earnestly and actively co-operate with the National Food Administration and our State Council of Defense in their program to substitute other food, in food measure, for wheat and red meat, in order that our soldiers and our allies may be abundantly provisioned for their strenuous work.
3. That we will earnestly co-operate with the state committee on food production and conservation, the United States Department of Agriculture and Purdue University in increasing production of crops, meat and other foodstuffs and will aid in every possible way in carrying out the national program.
4. That we will continue as members of churches, lodges and agricultural organizations, to petition our representatives in Congress to work and vote for national prohibition of the beverage liquor traffic as a war measure.
5. That, in order to prevent wholesale waste of the nation's food supply and reduction of man power through intemperance, we demand the complete suppression, throughout this nation or its dependencies, of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages.

6. That a copy of these resolutions be made and sent at once to each Indiana Senator and to the member of Congress representing our congressional district.

7. That we, as farmers of Henry county, co-operate with the Henry County Council of Defense in the sheep industry, doing all in our power to purchase and maintain as many sheep as we can properly house and feed.

8. That drastic measures be adopted to reduce the number of worthless and ownerless dogs, thereby greatly lessening, to the sheep industry, the dog menace.

9. That farmers, both landowners and tenants, pay particular attention to the comfort of all classes of stock during our cold winter in order to thoroughly co-operate with the conservation movement.

10. That we urgently request that the one and a quarter millions of acres in the United States and ten thousand acres in Indiana now in tobacco be used for the production of corn and other food cereals.

11. That the tobacco users willingly co-operate with the food administration and observe a smokeless day.

Hendricks County.—Mrs. S. A. Hazelett, representing the Indiana State Council of Defense, in an address before the farmers' Institute at Greencastle, said that the working of girls and women on the farms during the summer will be the only means of making up for the shortage caused by the men and boys going to war. Mrs. Hazelett said that the athletic girl in college can continue her good health by riding a cultivator, a moving machine, a hay rake or any other farm implement during the summer, and help her father increase his output from the farm. Others said that the only way for the farmer to solve the shortage of labor is to pay wages equal to that paid in the factories.

Huntington County.—L. A. Smith has been named by the County Council of Defense as chairman of the committee on wood supply. Mr. Smith's duty will consist largely of encouraging a substitution of wood fuel for coal. He will endeavor to persuade farmers to cut wood for their own use this spring and summer and assist in securing a market for any surplus they may have.

Knox County.—In approving claims totaling $568.30 on the O. K. of the County Council of Defense, covering a period from September 15, 1917, to January 26, 1918, the board of county commissioners ordered the following minutes spread upon their record: "A pressing and indispensable public necessity exists for the maintenance of the Knox County Council of Defense on account of a state of war now existing and for the expenditure of money therefor from the appropriation heretofore made by the county council of Knox county, and that they maintain and make efficient said council of Defense it is necessary for Knox county to pay the legitimate expenses of said council of defense, including the payment for yarn for knitting for the soldiers, which was a benefit to the citizens of Knox county."

Lake County.—The following are aiding in a movement inaugurated by the Lake County Council of Defense to organize an effective committee on morals: Rev. William Grant Seaman, pastor Methodist Episcopal church of Gary; Rev. Thomas Jansen, Holy Angels church of Gary; Rev. C. J. Sharp, pastor Christian church of Hammond. The committee is endeavoring to create definite patriotic sentiment to be brought to bear "against all forms of lawlessness as weakening to the nation at a time when it needs all its strength to win the war." The increase in juvenile delinquency in particular will be given attention....Girls in Emerson High School have followed the action of the Michigan City High School girls in organizing a Girls' Working Reserve. The organization will devote itself to Red Cross work, knitting, sewing, darning and patching. The charter membership includes the following: Floret Ohrensteln, Gladys Phillips, Elizabeth Hammond, Martha Hammond, Irene Spiker, Rosella Ralph, Dorothy Feidler, Marjorie Bowers, Pearl Lincombe, Helen Kidwell, Inez Imes, Marjorie Hall, Hermine Aleschuler, Elizabeth Wright, Stella Vickroy, Bessie Harris, Dorothy Greenwood, Ruth Wolf, Louis Hutchins, Berniel Davis, Mildred Freeburg, Eve Sprouls, Bessie Friedman, Mildred Pezer, Helen Hauprich, Elizabeth Graff, Lucile Harris, Jessie Bowen, Doris Davidson, Marion Monroe, Algra Nesbit, Marian Swartz, Elmi Salmi, Marguerite Gassler, Katherine Wiltner, Gladys Hancock, Helen Lee, Rachel Kahn, Isabel Davies, Louise Wood, Dolores Bierwagon, Bernice Stearns, Bernice Wilson, Anna Burgess, Erma Stevens, Mona Hill, Pearl Shirley, Vera Bures, Stella Smith, Florence Millet, Ruth Landrigan, Theodora Hedges, Helen Lenly, Etta Webber, Rose Kandel, Margaret Tulloch.

The board of county commissioners have requested the County Council of Defense to present a formal petition for an appropriation for a tuberculosis hospital as a paramount issue in Lake county, not only as a war measure, but as a humanitarian measure....Fred Ruf of Crown Point, F. L. Evans of East Chicago and Peter B. Lamb of Gary have been appointed to put into execution orders of the national economy board as it affects co-operative deliveries and other merchandizing reforms....S. J. Craig of Crown Point has been appointed to organize Councils of Defense in the townships and school districts of the county. The American Alliance is co-operating with the Council of Defense in ferreting out all treasonable acts and utterances, which will be reported to the proper authorities for their consideration.

Laporte County.—Upon receipt of the approval of G. H. Hendren, state accountant, the $2,500 recently appropriated by the county council was turned over to the County Council of Defense for the payment of its expenses. The defense council has an office in the court house in charge of the stenographer, where it is giving attention to all matters requested or suggested by the State Council of Defense. The entire month of March will be devoted to an intensive campaign intended to lay the groundwork for township organization and other lines of patriotic activity. In some localities two meetings are to be held and the speakers will cover not only the general subject of patriotic duty at this time, but will specify on particular subjects as the occasion warrants. The school houses are being utilized wherever possible in this campaign.

Madison County.—Madison County Council of Defense has interested the city administration, the banks of the city and the Chamber of Commerce in a survey of the vacant lots of Anderson, Elwood, Alexandria and other cities of the county with a view to cultivating in war gardens every inch of available space this year. In Anderson the administration has pledged itself to securing a city gardener to supervise the work and keeping war gardens in condition and to advise with gardeners about planting, cultivation and marketing. The records show a total of 36 families cared for by the Red Cross division of the civilian relief committee in Anderson during the recent severe cold weather. Mrs. Mode Cox is in charge of the relief. Charles T. Sansberry, in charge of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, proposes an enforced draft of pool-room and cigar-store loafers for agricultural work during the approaching summer. Mr. Sansberry has appointed assistant agents for the reserve in Elwood, Alexandria and Pendleton and expects to make a creditable showing in his work.

Marion County.—Clubs with German names are eliminating all suggestiveness attached thereto by taking on new names. The long-famous German House is now the Athenaeum, and the Independent Turnverein, as soon as legal formalities are complied with, becomes the Independent Athletic Club. Efforts are being made also to abolish the use of the name Maennerchor and everything else that smacks of German kultur. Militant automobile dealers of Indianapolis are organizing a battalion of Gasoline Rangers. Bruce M. Wiley, president of the National Motor Sales Company, has accepted the title of major of the battalion and four captains selected to serve under him are E. W. Steinhart, A. B. Wagner, H. C. Lathrop and Joseph M. Block, all prominent in the automobile trade. The purpose of this organization will be to afford emergency relief in transporting men or munitions for war purposes.

Marshall County.—Under the auspices of the County Council of Defense a program was carried out at the M. E. church in honor of Harry Wickcy, a former Plymouth boy, who lost his arm fighting the Germans in the trenches of France. Few soldiers have come back with the record Wickcy has made. He fought as an infantryman and as a spy worked his way into the German trenches and secured information of value to the allied cause. He participated in a ten-mile advance into German territory. His arm was blown off by a shell, which also lacerated and scarred his breast.

Monroe County.—"If Indiana is asleep on the war situation, just go on sleeping," said Lieutenant Hector McQuarrie at the close of the big county war conference here. "Do not regard this war as a war in Flanders; it is a world war, a war of hate—hate of all things that are beautiful in life. We must kill the Germans because that is the only thing that will teach them what they must learn, and there is no hope until they are defeated," were the closing words of Lieutenant McQuarrie.

Rush County.—Mrs. A. S. Stewart has enlisted the public school children of Rushville in a concerted movement to cultivate tomatoes for the use of the army cantonments. The plan has been endorsed by the Federal Food Administration, which says, "The plan is an excellent one and one worthy of notice," and the approval of the military authorities as to the disposal of the tomatoes so grown is being awaited by the sponsor of the movement. Mrs. Stewart contemplates the planting of seed in boxes at school, where the germination process will have an educational appeal, the plan thus having a double value to commend it. Patriotic women of Rush county have volunteered to can the tomatoes thus grown.

St. Joseph County.—Mayor Franklin R. Carson of South Bend has made the recent Bulletin No. 31, issued by the Federal Food Administration, the basis of a proclamation making the closing of meat markets, bakeries, fruit stands and other food distributing agencies mandatory. He directs the police department to see that the order is enforced.

Tiptecanoe County.—The County Council of Defense, in asking by resolution the abandonment of the teaching of German language in the public schools, pointed out the dangerous propaganda in the practice of "exchange professors liberally decorated with imperial favors have sought to maintain an increased reverence for German in German institutions. German commercial houses have been virtually outposts of the German foreign office." Federal Judge Keneasaw Landis in his address to the war conference here touched a high point of enthusiasm when he said, "If there is anything more contemptible in the world than anything else, it is this thing called 'royal blood.'"

Union County.—Union county women, under the direction of Mrs. Will Morris, chairman of the woman's section, are making a special study of food conservation and giving attention to the women's registration. The following ladies have charge of the committees in the different departments of the work in Union county: Registration and Woman's Service—Mrs. Aaron Flier; Food Production—Mrs. Charles Mitchell; Home Economics—Mrs. Oliver Lafuze; Child Welfare—Mrs. Frank DuBois; Health and Recreation—Mrs. Elmer Hunt; Food Conservation—Mrs. Lev. Wood; Liberty Loan—Mrs. Charles Bond; Red Cross and Allied Relief—Mrs. Elmer Post; Maintaining Existing Social Service Agencies—Mrs. Albert Bertsch; Educational Propaganda—Mrs. Gilbert Chapin; Special Committee—Miss Tillie Lambert and Mrs. C. A. Drapier; Publicity—Miss Ethel Coleman. Union county boasts of an enrollment of 150, or nearly 100 per cent. of her quota in the Boys' Working Reserve. Union county boys are fully qualified to do agricultural work, in which they will serve their country during the summer vacation.

Vanderburg County.—R. N. Atkinson, county agricultural agent, and Eva Mae Epperson, woman county agent, are assisting the County Council of Defense in organizing the townships of Vanderburg county for war work. Prominent business and professional men are also co-operating. A squad of speakers and organizers will visit every school district in the county preaching patriotism and directing organization in line of the general plan of state and county councils of defense. Virgil Blair, age 23, was fined $1 and sentenced to 45 days in jail for saying the American flag "is no better than any old rag." Blair is also alleged to have said that "if someone would kill the President the war would soon be over."

Wabash County.—Noble township will furnish at least 2,000 members is the opinion of Mr. Meredith. At a meeting last night a total of $1,333 were turned over to the chairman and this means that 1,333 families have enrolled in the organization. The work here will be continued until next week, when the final reports will be made. Next week the other township committees will start their campaign and before the work is finished it is thought that at least 6,000 persons will have been enrolled. William H. Musselman of Rich Valley was perhaps the most active worker, he securing twenty-five members the first afternoon while in a store at Rich Valley, and as soon as his last card was gone, sent a man to this city through the snow to get another supply of cards.

Wayne County.—Clay township has organized its council of defense with the election of its directors as follows: Food, William Ellis; conservation, Will Roller; labor, Albert Chamness; fuel, Harry King; Boys' Reserve, R. D. Shaffer; public morals, Howard Gaylor. The council will meet subject to call for the purpose of carrying out the wishes of the County Council of Defense. Perry township took the lead in organizing a Township Council of Defense in this county and has a record for constructive work that has been commended to other townships of the county. The St. Andrew Catholic congregation has abolished the teaching of German in its parochial school. This is one of the largest German Catholic parishes in the State. St. John's Lutheran parochial school trustees have recommended to the congregation a similar step. The County Council of Defense is endeavoring to have Earlham College abolish its German department. The public schools of Richmond took such action several weeks ago. Officers and chairman of the Perry township council are as follows: Elvin Oler, chairman and public morals committee; Dr. A. L. Loop, secretary and committee food supply; Wade Kennedy, coal committee; Tom Cain, conservation; Charles Mendenhall, labor; Edgar Manning, Boys' Working Reserve; Mrs. Charles Mendenhall, sanitation and woman's service. Mrs. Elbert Shirk will have charge of the registration beginning April 19. Mrs. Fred Bates, chairman of the Fourteen-Minute Women, has appointed the following: Mrs. Frank Druiett, secretary; Miss Mary A. Stubbs, Mrs. W. O. Mendenhall, Miss Sarah A. Hill, Mrs. George Chrisman, Mrs. William Dudley Foulke, Mrs. Elbert Shirk, Mrs. O. F. Ward, Mrs. Howard A. Dill, Mrs. Charles Druiett, Mrs. D. W. Scott, Mrs. Edgar F. Hiatt and Miss Blanch Scott.

Women's Section

February 26, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 31.

To the Woman Members of the County Council of Defense:

There is a constant and growing demand for nurses, and the Red Cross has asked the Woman's Section of the Council of Defense to get this matter before the public. We understand the present enrollment of nurses with the Red Cross is about 17,000, but in order to meet their military needs between 30,000 and 40,000 nurses will be needed within the next few months.

Nurses entering the Red Cross Service must meet a definite professional standard in order that our armies may be assured of care by properly qualified women. Graduates of all the better schools for nurses throughout the country, and who are registered in their states, are eligible.

Short emergency courses cannot fill this need either of the women who wish to serve, or of those whom they will serve. Young women eligible for admission to our schools should understand that they give patriotic service (by caring for the sick of a community under supervision) almost from the moment they enter training. They thus release graduate nurses for the more active war service. They are at the same time preparing themselves for a life of usefulness even though the war should terminate before the period of training has expired. The problems of the period of reconstruction will call for the service of women with constructive minds, for they will run the whole gamut of what is known as public health work.

As it is most necessary to consider our civil, as well as our military needs, schools for nurses are recognizing it as a patriotic duty to increase their accommodations and facilities for training larger classes of students than are ordinarily required for the needs of the hospitals with which they are connected.

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section State Council of Defense.

Miss Eleanor Barker, one of the original Fourteen-Minute women, organized by Mrs. Julia C. Henderson for patriotic service, has been called by the United States Food Administration for services outside the State. She will make addresses on the subject of food conservation in South Dakota and later in other States. The woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense take particular pride in Miss Barker's recognition, and they consider it also a compliment to the Fourteen-Minute women's organization, which, they say, has other effective speakers, who are devoting themselves willingly and faithfully to patriotic work. Miss Barker attracted attention by her efficient work during the Indiana county war conferences which were also featured by the representatives of the Federal Food Administration who had just returned from a tour of inspection in France and England.

The definition of the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, appearing in Bulletin No. 26 is emphasized by Mrs. Carlisle for the benefit of women war workers in Indiana, to whose constant attention she commends it. It follows:

"The Woman's Committee of the State Council of Defense is a sort of clearing house for the patriotic activities of women. It is in no sense a rival of any organization, nor has it any desire to detract from the activities and prerogatives of any other. The intent, from the National Committee down, is to make use of any other existing organizations, thus conserving the force of all women, and preserving intact the organizations that are in the field. Not a woman in its official capacity receives a penny of salary, and only add this burden to those they already bear, as an act of patriotic service."

The child welfare committee of the Knox County Council of Defense, consisting of Mrs. D. F. Culbertson, chairman, Mrs. Stephen Ryder and Mrs. Frank Cox are co-operating with the Parent-Teachers' Club, Board of Children's Guardians and other social agencies in looking to the enforcement of the federal child labor law. Their purpose will be to encourage children to remain in school after reaching 14 years of age and to see that none under that age are employed in any industry engaged in interstate commerce. The committee has appointed the following ladies throughout the county to assist in the work: Bicknell—Mrs. Lewis Phillippe; Edwardsport—Mrs. Anna Pennington; Sandborn—Mrs. Nora Hildebrand; Decker—Mrs. John Hughes; Wheatland—Mrs. Carrie R. Niblack; Oaktown—Mrs. Theodore Osborne; Freelandville—Miss Jesse Robbins; Westphalia—Mrs. Fred Wagner.

The press bureau of the Indiana Federation of Clubs is co-operating with the Woman's Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense in the dissemination of patriotic information. Miss Ruth Ross Herrman is State chairman of the press bureau, which reaches a large membership through publicity appearing regularly in twenty-six newspapers published in the larger cities of Indiana, and the co-operation of this bureau is expected to prove of valuable influence in furthering the efforts of the Woman's Section.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 29

Editorial Comment

THE EXTERMINATION OF THE SHEEP-KILLERS.

Elsewhere in this number of the Bulletin appear excerpts from a communication from J. B. Newman, of Star City, on the sheep-killing dog menace. The high point of Mr. Newman's letter may be summed up in the homely maxim "everybody's business is nobody's business." The proposition is peculiarly applicable to the Indiana situation.

Attorney-General Stansbury's disclosures of the laws under any one of which the dog nuisance may be abated legally doesn't furnish a prescription for numbing the sensibilities of the outraged stock grower whose flock has been ravaged and without which he is unequal to the bloody vengeance the law contemplates. Nor does the average man have any hankering after the responsibility for taking off the beast so often described as his master's most faithful friend.

It appears the Indiana problem's solution hinges upon an organized patriotic movement that will be big enough and have a vision reaching beyond mere sentimentality to the demands of war's emergency. Until the Liberty Guards have more definite activity might it not be proper to refer the question to them, that they assume responsibility for removing a national enemy—the homeless, hungry dog that is costing the public treasury thousands of dollars annually and interfering with the production of food and wool, both of first importance in the cause of civilization and liberty?

Until such authority is specifically delegated to a responsible agency, it is futile to expect any substantial progress in the campaign for increased sheep raising.

ON CENSORING SOLICITATIONS.

The wisdom of censoring the solicitation of all moneys asked for alleged war purposes is aptly illustrated in the recently printed letter from an Indiana soldier in France. After making it clear that his revelations were in no sense to be construed as a complaint, the writer asserted that careful inquiry among the troops in his division disclosed that not one of the American soldiers had received more than a single sack of smoking tobacco from a source to which the person addressed and many of his friends and neighbors had contributed, with a proportionate generosity that must have guaranteed a considerable sum of money.

This contribution, like scores of similar enterprises, was in the hands of wholly irresponsible people, and there are good reasons for believing much of the money realized went to "overhead expenses."

County councils of defense are awakening to the importance of prompt action in the selection of an approval committee, whose duty will consist of a careful investigation of all solicitations, especially those which may smack more of a desire for personal emolument than of genuine patriotic disinterestedness. The State Council of Defense has taken the lead, by withholding official sanction from any proposed canvass for funds that involves the least duplication of effort, or waste through excessive operating or administrative charges. It is but fair to the patriotic citizen who wants to help that he should be protected from the least suggestion of graft or waste.

WAR GARDENS IN 1918.

The importance of the War Garden in the food campaign was sufficient to call forth an official address from Governor James P. Goodrich to the people of Indiana. Governor Goodrich, it will be recalled, had the foresight to recognize the growing significance of food months before the United States engaged in the war. Through the appointment of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, now a working section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, in January, 1917, Indiana's agricultural opportunities were enlarged and developed to a point where, in spite of the handicap of adverse climatic conditions, labor shortages and an unsettled market, the farmer's continued prosperity was assured. So far was this true that the prospects for planting in 1918 are unparalleled for this early in the season.

The War Garden movement has outgrown the "indoor sports" classification. It is pointed out by Herbert Hoover, federal food administrator, as one of the most potential factors in the existing international crisis. Purdue university has deemed it of sufficient moment to warrant the arrangement of an intensive short course of instruction for municipal garden supervisors, late in March. Leading authorities everywhere agree on the many significant values attaching to the planting and proper cultivation of the small tracts of vegetables.

No community can rightly consider, therefore, that it is doing its full patriotic duty, so long as it permits a single plot of ground to remain untilled through the coming summer. We need the food, there is no other source of its production except directly or indirectly from the soil. Let the War Gardens flourish, in Freedom's name!

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 121.

February 23, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Last year people in Indiana cities planted and cultivated five hundred thousand gardens. As a result of this work large quantities of foodstuffs were produced and conserved and have meant much during the present crisis. The vegetables grown in these home gardens have served to release large quantities of staple farm crops for the use of the Allies and the boys at the front.

It is estimated that an ordinary city lot planted to garden crops and properly cared for will produce sufficient vegetables to feed a family of five an entire year. In the cities of the state there are thousands of vacant lots which can be cultivated and made to produce foodstuffs. It should be the aim this year to eliminate the slacker lots. Another big advantage of the garden is that it brings the young as well as the older people in touch with the soil and food production. It gives the younger people work to do which fits well with the school work in the early season and is worth while during the vacation period. It is absolutely necessary that every effort be made this year to increase the number of gardens and the amount of foodstuffs produced.

You are urged to take immediate steps to have organizations formed in all cities and towns for the promotion of garden work. It will also be well for you to call the attention of the garden work to farmers.

Please keep up advised of the action taken in this matter and address all inquiries for information and advice to the Food Production Committee, 81 State House, Indianapolis.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Must your brother, his wife, and his child, go hungry because you are a waster? That is what is happening to men, women, and children in Europe when you consume more than your share of the world's food. Save all foods, and especially FATS which make both food and ammunition.

Definite Plans for Boys' Training Camp

Terre Haute Rotary Club Arranges to Make Outing Pleasant as Well as Profitable.

At a recent conference of the Terre Haute Rotary Club Farm Training Camp committee, with Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director of the Boys' Working Reserve, and Eugene Paulson, A. W. Hanson, R. L. Donnan and J. I. Parker, representing the Y. M. C. A., it was decided to recommend to the state committee of the Y. M. C. A. that a "Red Triangle Hut" be erected on the farm of Freeland Christy where an Agricultural Training Camp for members of the Boys' Working reserve will be conducted this summer, this hut to be in charge of a director of boys' welfare who will supervise recreational and character-building work among the boys. This recommendation was unanimously approved by the Y. M. C. A. "State War Conference on Home Problems" held in Indianapolis, Monday, February 25. The action is expected to meet with the approval of the state Y. M. C. A. committee which meets in March, and a boys' work director will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. to the Rotary Club.

The "Red Triangle Hut," it is argued, would serve as a wholesome gathering place for the boys and will be equipped with writing materials, games, phonographs and other recreational devices suitable for rainy days. This would assure a thoroughly wholesome moral atmosphere in the camp and guarantee to the parents of the boys who have enrolled for this undertaking that the mental, moral and physical welfare of the farm recruits will be properly cared for.

MILITARY DISCIPLINE.

Wayne Bigwood, Culver graduate, has worked out elaborate plans to make the camp thoroughly sanitary and wholesome along military lines with bugle calls for reveille, mess and taps, with a proper amount of military discipline for the general physical upbuilding of the boys. The plans of the committee include furnishing board and tents free to Vigo county boys, but will require each boy to furnish his own bedding, three pairs of blankets and an empty tick, sufficient clothing, a mess kit, tooth brush, hair brush, towels, etc. Tents and cots have been promised by citizens of Terre Haute.

CAMP OPENS APRIL 1.

The camp probably will be opened on April 1 and will be continued till the middle of June. About 150 boys will be given intensive agricultural training. Fifteen boys will be admitted each week and there will be 50 boys in attendance at the camp at all times after April 21. Freeland Christy, who is donating his 200-acre farm and his own time to this enterprise, has arranged to have three practical farmers with him on the farm all the time.

BOYS FROM STATE AT LARGE.

The Rotary Club has consented to permit Isaac D. Straus, federal state director, to nominate a number of boys from the state at large who will be given a three weeks' training at the camp, the boys being charged for their board only. After they have finished the prescribed course they will be awarded a "certificate of fitness," and will be placed either singly or in groups with farmers throughout the state for continuous employment until the end of the agricultural season. Applications should be mailed promptly to the State Council of Defense, Indianapolis, Indiana.

OTHER ROTARY CLUBS TO FURNISH BOYS.

At its regular meeting on Tuesday, February 26, the Terre Haute Rotary Club passed a resolution inviting each of the fourteen other Rotary Clubs in the state of Indiana to nominate seven boys who will also be given this preliminary intensive course in the rudiments of agriculture. The Rotary Clubs in the state of Indiana are as follows:

Anderson, Decatur, Elkhart, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Huntington, Lafayette, Michigan City, Muncie, New Albany, Richmond, South Bend, Vincennes, Indianapolis, Terre Haute.

Silo Campaign Given Generous Approval

Farmers and Organizations Endorsing Movement to Increase State's Food Production.

Individual farmers and farmers' organizations throughout the state are endorsing the state-wide silo campaign which is being inaugurated and which will be under way in every county within a few weeks. Maurice Douglas, of Flat Rock, Shelby county, a progressive farmer, is in charge of the campaign, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Food Production and Conservation Committee of the State Council of Defense.

"The silo is now recognized as a war-time institution," said G. I. Christie, state food director, "The call of the government to the farm is for increased production and conservation. The silo aids the farmer in a large and helpful way in meeting the country's needs.

"Each year millions of acres of corn are grown in the central west. On thousands of farms the corn is shucked from the field and the stalks allowed to remain in the field. Where these stalks are disked and plowed under, organic matter is returned to the soil. Where they are burned it is entirely lost. It is estimated that from 30 to 35 per cent. of the feeding value of the corn crop is in the stalks, leaves and finer parts."

"Experiments by the Purdue Experiment Station show that corn silage is without doubt the most economical roughage ever used for feeding cattle at the university. Ten good reasons why every farmer who keeps live stock should have a silo are as follows:

"The silo preserves the palatability and succulence of the green corn for winter feeding.

"It helps to make use of the entire corn plant.

"The silo increases the live stock capacity of the farm.

"Silage is a summer feed when pastures are short.

"Because of the small amount of ground space required by the silo it is an economical means of storing forage.

"The silo prevents waste of corn stalks, leaves and husks, which contain about two-fifths of the feeding value of the corn plant.

"The silo located near the feed manger is an assurance of having feed near at hand in stormy as well as fair weather.

"The silo assists in reducing the cost of grains in fattening cattle and sheep.

"Silage greatly increases the milk flow during the winter season and decreases the cost of production.

"There are no stalks to bother in the manure when corn is put in the silo."

"It might be added that these points are proven by experiments and are not based on mere theory. The actual saving by the silo means much on any farm where live stock is kept, and that is why it is a war-time institution."

FARM MACHINERY AND REPAIR.

The plan for the general observance of Farm Machinery and Repair Week, March 4 to 9, which is being fostered by the Food Production and Conservation Committee of the State Council of Defense, is finding favor throughout Indiana. In every county local implement dealers are supporting the plan, and agricultural forces everywhere are realizing the value of it. The Indiana Implement Dealers' Association is rendering valuable co-operation.

Because of the steel shortage and the congested transportation, the implement industry is having a hard time to obtain material. For this reason, repairs this year will have to be more extensive than usual. It is imperative that the life of farm machinery be lengthened. The season should be started with every implement and tool in working order. The great call for labor-saving machinery because of the labor shortage will be an added drain on the manufacturers' output. Even during a normal season it is profitable foresight to place orders for repairs early. This is not a normal season. The only solution is immediate orders.

"Don't wait. Delay may be costly," is the watchword. The first week of March is being observed nationally as Implement Inspection and Repair Week.

POOR FARMS URGED TO ASSIST.

The State Board of Charities recently sent a letter to the board of county commissioners and superintendents of county poor asylum farms to urge a greater production of foodstuffs. The letter follows:

Dear Sir:—We desire to appeal to you for your helpful co-operation at this time. Amid this great war, we all want to aid all we can to win it. Men, money, munitions are essential to its successful prosecution. It is imperative, however, to have food. Every acre of ground that can possibly be utilized should be planted. The products of dairy, poultry and herds should be increased to the maximum.

The time of planning is at hand. The time of planting will soon be here. Will you not arrange to plant every acre you can of your poor asylum farm? Can you not by thought add much to the productive acreage this year? We believe the county farms contributed materially to the increased production last year. Is it not possible to do still more this year?

The poor asylums of this state have in their farms an aggregate of 19,322 acres. The greater part of this can be cultivated. The need is for both farm and garden crops. Some poor asylums which formerly bought much fruit and vegetables now grow an abundance for their own use. Some have increased their dairy herds and poultry flocks. Many of them use the labor of inmates in one or more of these industries, according to their ability, to their benefit and happiness.

The co-operation of the County Agent, of Purdue University, and of Professor G. I. Christie can be had upon request. Why should not every poor asylum farm be the model farm in the county? Why should it not help the whole county as a demonstration farm?

In conclusion, we again bespeak your thoughtful consideration of these suggestions and your earnest and helpful co-operation at this critical time. HELP. Help to your utmost to win the war.

We shall be pleased to have your views and to render any assistance we can.

Yours truly,
STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES,
JAMES P. GOODRICH, President.
AMOS W. BUTLER, Secretary.

TRACTOR SCHOOL, MARCH 11 TO 23.

Tractors are going to be a vital factor in the winning of the war, because of the aid they will give to the increased food production movement. To teach the most economical and efficient operation of this twentieth century machine, a two weeks' short course, March 11 to 23, will be given at Purdue University, it was reported at the last meeting of the Indiana Committee on Production and Conservation. A complete course will be given so that operators will get the most and best from their machines.

"WAR" GARDEN SHORT COURSE, MARCH 25-29.

Purdue University has announced that a week's short course for training of garden supervisors will be given at Purdue University, March 25 to 29, inclusive. War gardens will play a big part in the food production drive this year and scores of garden supervisors will be employed in Indiana cities this spring. Many cities already have plans under way for this important work. It is to teach these supervisors the technical garden management and organization of cities for the war garden movement that the course is being offered. Instructors from the horticultural department of Purdue University will give the work.

The short course will have the support of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation.

DIRT FROM STREETS FOR GARDENS.

Mayor McAtee, of Bluffton, states that the dirt from the city streets will be hauled without cost to places where war gardens are in the making or where the ground is fertile enough to warrant the addition of this fertilizer.

GARDEN SUGGESTIONS.

Plan your garden now.
Buy your seeds—don't wait.

Speakers' Bureau

The State Council of Defense, through its Speakers' Bureau as the principal agency, has just completed its important work of holding the county war conferences throughout the State. At the outset it was the intention of the Council to hold a conference in each county during the months of January and February. Owing to conditions of weather and other contributing factors, however, all of the counties did not decide to hold conferences. When the plans were completed the arrangements showed that seventy-one counties had scheduled conferences. In addition twenty towns and cities arranged for patriotic meetings resembling in many respects the regular county conferences.

For this important work a total of one hundred and twenty speakers were engaged, some of them giving their services throughout the entire three weeks. These speakers included seven men sent by the National Food Administration; one man furnished by the League to Enforce Peace; about twenty-five women sent by the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense, ten by the War Savings Committee of Indiana and five soldiers from the Canadian Army service.

The League to Enforce Peace furnished for this important work Dr. Lyman P. Powell, President of Hobart college, who attended a total of twenty meetings and made about sixty addresses on the war situation in Europe as observed by him during a recent visit to England and France.

Twenty-five speakers, prominently engaged in public life in Indiana, willingly gave their services to the State in helping to make the work a success.

Through the work of these conferences, over two hundred thousand people were reached with messages dealing with the various phases of war work as emphasized by the State Council of Defense in all of its activities. Educational committees to continue the good work and to effect extension to all of the districts in the counties were effected throughout the State. Reports from everywhere are practically unanimous in approving the work which has been done. Of course, it was inevitable in the making of so many arrangements that some confusion resulted and errors were made which resulted in serious difficulties.

After these meetings were held, the Bureau has had requests for speakers from several communities and counties that have since decided to hold conferences. As a result three additional conferences and two community conferences have already been put on and others are being organized.

The Speakers' Bureau at present is planning another campaign designed to reach the districts that have not been sufficiently touched by the county conferences. This plan provides for the conferences in towns and communities which may desire such meetings. Letters are being sent out inviting the co-operation of towns and communities that may desire conferences, and an effort will be made by the Speakers' Bureau to meet all the demands that may come to it.

The lines of work which are to be emphasized are education, increased food production, food conservation, war savings, and all phases of co-operative effort in governmental work. An effort will be made to secure a soldier who has seen service in the Great War to attend each of these conferences. The conferences will be put on in circuits and the local communities will assist in bearing the expenses, which should not be heavy. It is believed that this work will be as vitally important as was that done in the county conferences which had the most effect in the county seats and the surrounding communities.

Fats make nitroglycerin, a prime necessity in this war. Wasting fat destroys ammunition.

Purchasing Power of Money in War Times and Right and Wrong Ways to Make Loans to Government Analyzed and Explained

The Bureau of Publicity, Treasury Department, issues the following:

Pointing out that never before in history has an understanding of the simple principle of economics been so sorely needed, a committee of eminent economists engaged in the study of the purchasing power of money in war time, issued today its first public statement.

After exhaustive investigation this committee has reached its conclusion unanimously. It would impress upon us the imperative need of a reduction of consumption and an increase of production, of the repression of non-essentials, and of promotion of organization and redirection of industry.

NEEDED SAVING AND SHIFTING.

"In meeting the great national readjustment to war conditions," the committee says, "we must not let our 'business-as-usual' impulses prevent the needed saving and shifting of industry, lest we pay a terrific penalty in higher cost of living and national inefficiency."

The committee finds the public confused and vacillating between two economic philosophies—the simple, direct, old-fashioned, correct philosophy of saving and working and the fallacious philosophy, best epitomized as "business as usual." "One of our greatest perils in the future lies in further credit expansion," the committee says, "and this peril comes largely from our lending by borrowing."

RIGHT WAY TO LEND TO NATION.

The committee points out the right way and the wrong way to lend money to our country. "The right way," it says, "is the frank and honest way of saving up the money by spending less or earning more; the wrong way is the at first cheap and easy, although ultimately costly and painful way, of lending the Government what we borrow at the bank."

"By giving up non-essentials to buy Government securities," the committee further says, "we allow the Government to buy war essentials and at the same time release productive energy from the making of non-essentials for us to the making of essentials for the Government."

ONLY "GOING THROUGH MOTIONS."

"But," it goes on to say, "if we won't make the needed sacrifice and perhaps delude ourselves into believing that we do not have to do so, or even that we ought not to do so, that, on principle, we favor 'business as usual' for ourselves while expecting business unusual to be superadded by the Government, we simply go through the motions of giving our billions to the Government without really giving them up. Therefore, the Government, in order to buy away from us what we will not otherwise surrender, bids up prices, and the rise in prices which comes about through this sort of lending is cumulative."

"As the prices of war supplies rise, the money cost of war grows and the Government has to borrow more. Bigger loans by us to the Government require bigger loans to us from the banks. This further expansion of bank credit favors a further rise in commodity prices, starting the whole process over again in a vicious circle."

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMITTEE.

This committee is made up of Prof. Irving Fisher (chairman), of Yale University; Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University; Prof. B. M. Anderson, jr., of Harvard University; Dr. Royal Meeker, United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics; Prof. Wesley Clair Mitchell, of Columbia University; and Prof. Warren M. Persons, of Colorado College. The committee in collecting its facts has had the co-operation of several branches of the United States Government, as well as of some large commercial and financial houses.

Continuing the statement says:

"This war, the greatest of all, is greatest especially in its cost. It is estimated that the money cost alone, for all nations, is upward of a hundred billions of dollars. Each week it costs as much as did the entire Boer War; each month as much as the entire Russo-Japanese War; each two months as much as the entire Civil War, which hitherto has held the record.

SIMPLE UNDERSTANDING SORELY NEEDED.

"Never before in history has an understanding of the simple principles of economics been so sorely needed. Although much is being done to supply this need, we find the public confused and vacillating between two economic philosophies—the simple, direct, old-fashioned, correct philosophy of saving and working and the fallacious philosophy, perhaps best epitomized as 'business as usual.'"

"So far as we let our 'business as usual' impulses prevent the needed saving and economic shifting we shall pay a terrific penalty in higher cost of living, as well as in national inefficiency and maladjustment."

"Loans to the Government made not from savings but from borrowings will tend to increase bank credit. Further extension of bank credit will chiefly bring about a rise in commodity prices. It is therefore desirable that further loans to the Government should be made out of current savings."

RIGHT AND WRONG WAYS.

"If I buy Government securities by giving up the purchase of a pleasure automobile, the Government can buy a military truck with the same money, and the labor and capital which would have made the pleasure car for me will make the truck for the Army instead. That is the right way."

"The wrong method is employed if I insist upon buying that pleasure car and so can buy the Government securities only by borrowing the money at a bank. I have sacrificed nothing out of current-money income. I have simply increased the money income of the Government. The bank which lends me the money does so by writing down a 'deposit' to my credit on its books, which 'deposit' I transfer to the Government. This 'deposit' provides purchasing power without providing or releasing anything to be purchased. The result is that instead of labor and capital turning from the making of pleasure cars to the making of motor trucks they are called upon to make both. I give the Government my check to buy the truck, but at the same time I enter the market to prevent the Government from getting it. In short, the public, by its paper subscriptions, appears generous to its Government, but is selfishly refusing to make the actual sacrifice."

RESERVE BOARD'S WARNING.

"The importance of all this is emphasized by the report of the Federal Reserve Board just issued, which contains a note of warning on these subjects. A parliamentary committee has furthermore reached substantially the same conclusions from a study of the past three and a half years' costly experiences in England."

The committee later will issue further statements on such subjects as reducing consumption and increasing production; repressing non-essentials and of organizing a redirection of industry, and the adjusting of wages in relation to the purchasing power of money.

Thrift Stamp Sale Record.

On Washington's birthday the high school boys and girls of Marion, Indiana, sold four thousand dollars' worth of War Savings and Thrift Stamps. The stamps were all sold in the morning of that day and in the afternoon reports of the success attained were made at a patriotic exercise held in commemoration of Washington's birthday. It is believed that this four thousand dollar sale by school boys and girls in a single day represents the greatest record so far made by any high school in the State.

Special credit is due Supt. A. E. Highley of the city schools, who directed the campaign.

Save an ounce of fat a day and KEEP UP THE FIGHT.

Fourteen-Minute Women

Once more Indiana takes the lead in war work behind the lines, just as Indiana already has taken the lead in war activities on military lines. This time the women of the State are receiving felicitations.

It was in Indiana that the Fourteen-Minute Woman first appeared. The federal food administration first suggested the organization of women speakers for patriotic and educational war propaganda. Mrs. Julia C. Henderson took the lead in organizing a State-wide force of Fourteen-Minute Women to perform along their own lines such work as the Four-Minute Men so ably are doing along their lines.

Mrs. Henderson and her organization now are enlisted with the women's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, it being the accepted theory that co-ordination of activities must be worked out all up and down the line.

This co-ordination made it possible to put a Fourteen-Minute Woman on practically every county war conference program during the series of wonderful meetings just brought to a triumphal close in Indiana. The results surpassed all expectations. Through their loyal and effective work in the war conferences the Fourteen-Minute Women established themselves and confirmed the judgment of Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the women's section, as to the effectiveness of the women's appeal for war service.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the educational propaganda committee of the Council of National Defense, has made a strong appeal for the education of women speakers in the various States for patriotic duty. Indiana's answer is a regiment of women speakers already on the oratorical firing line, a bureau to route them, and a plan for co-ordinating and coaching them.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt asserts that it is necessary to educate women as public speakers so they may help carry to the people the instructions of the national war administration. Mrs. Catt is chairman of the educational propaganda department of the women's committee of the Council of National Defense. Through the Official Bulletin Mrs. Catt declares: "The supreme need in our work is for a few good speakers among the women in each State who will be available for large meetings and who will be active in following them up with lively and effective campaigns in the smaller communities."

Katharine Merrill Graydon, head of the educational propaganda section of the women's committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense, who is at work getting out propaganda material through many channels, points out that Indiana, with its Fourteen-Minute Women under Julia C. Henderson, operating a speakers' bureau for the handling and routing of patriotic women speakers, and with at least ten trained women speakers in every county, already has gone well forward with the work Mrs. Catt suggests.

Speaking of Mrs. Catt's call for speakers, Mrs. Henderson says: "Indiana's Fourteen-Minute Women, forming as they do a regiment of co-ordinated, harmonized and thoroughly schooled speakers, ought to go far toward meeting the situation to which Mrs. Catt properly calls attention. There is no question as to the need for precisely the trained and dependable workers Mrs. Catt calls for. Indiana women not only are fitting themselves for this public service of patriotism, but actually are at work on the very lines laid down by the head of the educational propaganda department of the national women's committee. Our women are to be commended and congratulated on their initiative and on their effective, practical work."

The United States Food Administration says: Somebody has very aptly said that the wars of the world have been won with grease, meaning that bacon and lard have been as essential to success in war as powder. This is true. SAVE FATS TO WIN THE VICTORY.

America has a big corn crop. One of the best ways to market it, after we have eaten what we want, is through the hog.

Food Administration

Indiana millers are to be consulted on the plan for pooling from their output an emergency stock of flour. The purpose of such a pool will be "to guard against any possible distress that might arise through an acute shortage of flour, occasioned by either poor transportation facilities or the interruption of the flow of wheat to the mills." This pool is to be in no sense a protection to the trade.

Liberty Guard companies are citing to the food administration alleged specific violations of the regulations. In all such cases Dr. Barnard is summoning the accused to appear in his office to confirm or deny the charges.

The survey of the state disclosed an estimated volume of wheat in storage totaling 300,000 bushels. The food administration is using three points of argument in endeavoring to persuade the farmers to move their wheat stored now. (1) The 1918 prices have been fixed and nothing is to be gained by holding wheat longer. (2) Farmers will soon be too busy with planting to give attention to this important matter. (3) The millers need and want the wheat now, and it is important that if the stream of foodstuffs is to continue eastward to our armies and associates in the war, the mills must be permitted to operate.

Hotels and restaurants of the state are required to print license numbers on their menu cards according to the amended regulations.

For refusing to execute contracts in the face of increased market prices in 1917, the Purity Preserve Company and the R. J. Meguiar Company of Greenville, Ohio, have been denied the right to continue business.

Calling attention to the fifty-fifty regulation in the sale of wheat flour and substitutes and the meatless and wheatless days, by printing the official order on business cards, a plan of an eastern Indiana wholesale house has been approved by the food administration as "a splendid bit of enterprise."

Bakers wilfully refusing to use 20 per cent. of wheat flour substitutes in baking bread and rolls will be denied the privilege of doing business during the period of the war by the food administration. Where the substitutes cannot be secured, temporarily, the bakers will be required to reduce their normal output 20 per cent., thus reducing the consumption of wheat flour.

Where daily consumption of bread is less than one pound per family, bakers are permitted to manufacture and sell at proportionately reduced price a three-fourths pound loaf. This is not intended to replace the pound loaf, except insofar as it will effect further conservation of flour.

No restrictions as to the production of perishable foods will be made by the government. This applies particularly to the melon crop. Growers are urged by the food administration to produce their usual crops, bringing forth a maximum harvest.

The food administration is lending its encouragement to the war garden movement. Herbert Hoover himself has personally endorsed the efforts to increase the number and output of these food sources.

Border counties in the state will soon be relieved of the troublesome situation developed incident to varying food regulations across state lines. The food administration has undertaken to secure uniformity and expects to have all states on a fifty-fifty basis for the sale of wheat flour substitutes and other regulations nearer conformity very soon. The plan of each state insisting upon the integrity of its own regulations in spite of possible unfairness in some places is approved by the federal food administration.

No deviation will be made from the rule of meatless and wheatless days and conservation generally to meet "special occasions." Further inquiry as to concessions for church society efforts and alleged "patriotic" purposes have met with a reiteration of the statement that the food regulations apply to everybody all the time.

The use of wienerwurst to make sandwiches on meatless days and the right of farmers and others to kill and use their own hens and pullets have occasioned some inquiry. In reply to each question the same statement obtains—that so long as there is any meat used contrary to the government's orders, no matter by whom, whether producer or dealer, the offense is the same.

All requests for special interpretations of the food regulations, particularly those implying an appeal for special favors, serve to cause only embarrassment and delay by going directly to Washington. All such matters are referred back for adjudication by the state administrator.

The increasing importance of conserving garbage because of its constituent fats and other by-products, for the manufacture of munitions of war, is being pointed out in a series of special articles for the newspapers prepared by the United States food administration. The sense of these articles is that it is not only a sin to waste, but a sin to permit the destruction of even a minimum of such waste. A campaign will be directed particularly toward the utilization of such household garbage as may have been incinerated in apartment houses.

Hotels and restaurants are directed to observe breakfast as a wheatless and meatless meal each day. Short-order lunch counters are directed to serve no wheat or meat until after 10 o'clock each morning. This is to make effective the president's proclamation covering one wheatless and meatless meal each day.

Rural schools which have been in the habit of celebrating the close of the school year with a lavishly prepared dinner are cautioned against this practice this year, because "of the critical condition of our food supply." Teachers and trustees, county and city superintendents are asked to co-operate in forestalling any such extravagant waste.

The patriotic American will keep pies and pastries in the background until the war is over and be content with simple food. Anything he tries to make that displays prodigality is working directly in favor of the enemy, says a special bulletin.

Acknowledged—Thanks!

The State Council of Defense of Indiana is one of the liveliest organizations in the U. S. at the present time, and it will keep the people posted on the war work, if the people will only read, as every newspaper is doing its share in circulating the dispatches from the State Council. The man or woman who does not read at this time, soon becomes in arrears in the knowledge of the great war work. Then, too, all orders of the food and fuel administrators are given through the newspapers, and if you fail to read them, and then obey them, it's your fault, and you will have to stand the penalty. Now is a time when everyone should keep posted by reading the papers.—Monticello Herald.

Sugar that goes to waste in the bottom of American tea cups sweetens the dreams of Emperor William just as much as sugar that is fed to the bottom of the Atlantic by his U-boats.

The Germans have been forced to reduce their fat rations to a minimum in order to save them for their fighters. Americans should be proud to reduce their extravagant consumption of fats, voluntarily, and send AMERICAN FIGHTERS what they need.

Red Cross Activities

Here's a new brand of war-time conservation: Don't waste time and energy saving canceled postage stamps for the American Red Cross, advises James R. Garfield, Lake Division Manager of the Red Cross.

"The idea has spread abroad," says Mr. Garfield, "that the American Red Cross has devised a method of extracting dyes from the canceled stamps. The Postoffice Department reports that several bags of canceled stamps have accumulated through the good will of persons who have thought they were doing something to win the war."

"Such stamps are of no use to the Red Cross."

The Sheep-Killing Dog Again.

Pertinent observations on the menace of the sheep-killing dog in the sheep-growing industry are contained in a letter just received by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, from J. B. Newman, of Star City, Ind. Mr. Newman, referring to the statistics of the sheep killed, their value for food and wool, and the number of dogs, taxed and untaxed, says, in part:

"Making an order that can not be enforced would weaken the strength of the food administration rather than remedy the evil. But you would only have the same support to look to that you do now, in enforcing any order. If I feed wheat to chickens or hogs you have no way to punish me until you are in possession of the facts—this depends upon the individual to inform a deputy or yourself of the violation."

"The order forbidding furnishing food or feeding a dog that has not been deprived of his liberty the dark part of every 24 hours can and will be complied with, as good or better than any meatless or wheatless day, now under order of the food administration. With few exceptions the people are patriotic enough to observe with piety the orders. The same spirit will prevail if the order is for year 1918 or during the war and furnishes the best trail for a basis for the legislature to act in future. It creates a discussion of the extent of the loss. With the entire 1918 wool clip, if the loss by dogs was added, we would then not have quite one-half the required need. If we secure it from some foreign source it requires ships and incurs risk to get it. The dog menace is simply the submarine of the sheep industry. The present statutes of this state have been in force and effect for at least three years last past. The failure to enforce them is proof sufficient that something more should be added during this emergency."

"When I ask my banker to let some small farmer have money to buy 10 ewes to start a flock, he says, the claims now on file with the trustees of the township for damage to flocks by dogs can not be paid for one or two years on account of high price of sheep and low dog tax."

"Second. If you succeed in finding the ownership of the dog or dogs doing the damage, in too many cases they would be execution proof and claims non-collectible."

"Third. The burden and expense of watching the sheep and hunting the dogs is upon the sheep owner under the present statute and the present price of farm labor prohibits him from this loss of time from other work as well as loss of sleep at night. Waiting for legislative action is not practical in the present emergency. There are too many pairs of woolen socks needed in the trenches; there are too many pneumonia cases that are fatal in changeable climates that sweaters would assist in preventing. Please do not let us fold our arms after retiring from a conclusion and try and escape for want of jurisdiction. The present statute affords all the protection that could be desired to one who cares to purchase a gun and ammunition and take time by day and night (more especially are his services needed at night) to exterminate dogs. If there is any way possible let our state take an advanced position on the question. It would create a healthy influence on other states and materially assist in shaping our own legislation."

Do you eat candy while Belgium starves?

Emergency Training for Boys in Reserve

Agricultural Classes Have Been Organized in Twenty-Seven Cities and Towns of Indiana.

The State Director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve authorizes the following:

"Emergency agricultural classes for boys have been organized in twenty-seven towns and cities in Indiana and if the plans of the State Council of Defense and the Boys' Working Reserve are carried out this number will shortly be increased to at least two or three hundred. As spring approaches it becomes more evident each day that thousands of Indiana boys will have to substitute on farms for older men. The purpose of these classes as described in Bulletin "A," Series "1," which can be had in any quantity free of charge upon application to the State Council of Defense, is to teach the town and city boy some of the rudiments of Agriculture and to familiarize him with the nomenclature of farm life.

ARSENAL TECHNICAL SCHOOL PLAN.

"Initiated by Superintendent E. U. Graff of Indianapolis and Milo H. Stuart, principal of the Arsenal Technical School, a course in the Mechanics of Agriculture began February 12th, in Indianapolis. Two afternoons a week from 1:30 to 4:30 are devoted to this undertaking, making twenty lessons in all. Since this training is given as a prerequisite for farm employment no credit is given for it, but those who take it and follow it with at least two months of satisfactory work on a farm during the summer will be given two high school credits in Agriculture.

"City boys find it difficult to take up farm labor unless they are acquainted with the simple everyday mechanical operations with which every country boy is more or less familiar. This course, therefore, endeavors to make a city boy at home on a farm. It consists of care and management of horses, including feeding, grooming, harnessing and driving; care of other domestic farm animals, including feeding and milking of cows, feeding and caring for hogs, poultry and the like; gasoline power in its relation to farm operations; novelties of country life and the adjustments necessary to make such employment successful for a city boy.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY CO-OPERATING.

"Purdue University is co-operating in every feature of the undertaking. They are sending specially selected professors for certain work and giving many special demonstrations, as scheduled below:

"February 25, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—C. D. Kinsman, Demonstrations with Farm Machinery.

"March 6, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—C. R. George, Demonstrations on Handling Dairy Cows.

"March 13, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—L. L. Jones, Demonstrations with Poultry, Feeding, Etc.

"March 20, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—F. J. Pipal, Demonstrations on Insects and Plant Disease Control.

"March 27, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—J. C. Beaver, Soils and Methods of Cultivation.

"April 3, 1:00 to 3:00 P. M.—W. B. Krueck, Practical Demonstration of Handling Horses.

"In addition to two high school credits for at least two months of successful work, each boy will receive regular pay throughout his summer employment. Boys may get employment anywhere, but an effort will be made to keep as many of them as possible within Marion County in easy reach of their homes through interurbans.

RELEASED FROM SCHOOL MAY 1.

"Boys taking this course will be permitted to leave school the first of May, but not with credit for the unfinished work since they are to receive regular credit for the farm work which they take up from that date on. Each boy, however, will have the opportunity of completing his unfinished subjects outside in the same way as any other pupil would complete unfinished work. If the boys desiring to take up the above work are willing to spend the other three afternoons each week in getting ahead in academic classes, it may be possible to do in advance a part of the work prescribed for May and June.

MORE THAN 100 BOYS ENROLLED.

"Since this plan reinforces the essential object of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, all interested are urged to identify themselves with this organization. In fact, the pupils feel a thrill of patriotism in having national approval placed upon the undertaking.

"Through the co-operation of H. S. Gruver, assistant superintendent, A. S. Hurrell, city director, George Buck, principal of Shortridge, and E. H. K. McComb, principal of Manual, over one hundred boys from the Indianapolis high schools are already identified with the course. Others are enrolling. Each industrial plant in the city having to do with agriculture seems anxious to co-operate with the school in making the plan a success. The John Deer Plow Company entertained the class Monday afternoon, February 25, and placed at its disposal the entire equipment, as well as the time of their foremost employes. Other demonstrations will soon be announced in other important establishments of the city.

FIFTY BOYS IN LAFAYETTE.

"C. V. Peterson, County Director of the Boys' Working Reserve, and Otis Crane, Agricultural agent for Tippecanoe county, have organized an Emergency Agricultural Class of 50 boys in Lafayette. Practical demonstrations are conducted at the Purdue Experimental Station and the boys are deeply interested in their work. County Agent Crane says that already 150 farmers in Tippecanoe county have asked for boys.

OTHER CITIES ACTIVE.

"According to Z. M. Smith, State Director of Agricultural Education, Emergency Agricultural Classes are now being conducted or organized in Terre Haute, Columbus, Brownsburg, Linton, Montpelier, Winamac, Culver, Newport, Rensselaer, Tefft, Ligonier, Wingate, DeMotte, Carthage, Fair Oaks, West Lafayette, Rockport, Goodland, Gifford, Martinsville, Mt. Summit, Crawfordsville, Goshen, Mitchell, Geneva and Marion. Over 750 boys have enrolled to prepare for the patriotic service they will render on Indiana farms next summer."

ENDORSE BOYS' RESERVE.

The National Cannery Association which has a membership of over 3,000 conservers of food products, at its annual conference in Boston, passed the following resolutions endorsing the United States Boys' Working Reserve:

Resolved, That the greetings of Mr. William E. Hall, National Director of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, be acknowledged, and that the fullest co-operation be extended to the officers and directors of this organization throughout the United States in creating an additional working force to provide the conservation of food as it may be planned for production upon the farms of the United States throughout the coming year, and be it further

Resolved, That the members of this Association shall place themselves in touch with the United States Boys' Working Reserve in order that the efforts of the young men of the country may be brought into play in the strongest manner possible for the production and preservation of food.

C. B. Fritsche, assistant State director of the reserve in Indiana, addressed the association on the subject of the reserve and its purpose.

Sentiments from Labor.

(American Alliance for Labor and Democracy.)

If the kaiser were to station a recruiting officer for the German army on the main street, would that officer be permitted to continue his work?

What would happen to that man needs no lengthy description.

Is there any more justification for allowing free rein to those whose work is just as helpful to the Prussian Army?

That which helps Prussian military might is hurtful to America.

And that is an idea that it will be well for the Potsdam soap-boxers and intriguers to take to heart.

The Spiritual Meaning of the War

Some have charged that this is a war merely for material gain. The books listed below show an idealism that is a most effective refutation of this charge. These works, as well as others on the war, are loaned to citizens of the state for short periods by the Indiana State Library. Applications should be made through local libraries. Citizens living on rural routes or in towns having no public library will be furnished individual registration blanks on request.

Clarke, G. H., Ed.—"Treasury of War Poetry." British and American poems of the world war, 1914-1917. An excellent collection.

Copping, A. E.—"Souls in Khaki." A series of pictures of investigations into spiritual experiences and sources of heroism in the English army. * * * It is his conclusion that at the front the spirit is supreme and the flesh subordinate.

Cunliffe, J. W., Comp.—"Poems of the Great War." Like Clarke, this is a collection of British and American verse. These two collect the more popular poems. Wheeler, noted below, gives those of high quality, not so well known.

Dawson, Coningsby—"Carry On." Letters from a Canadian officer who finds deprivations compensated for by the feeling that "he is doing something big" who can find being caught in a Hun curtain of fire "funny," and who has a profound admiration for the unself-conscious heroism of the men at the front.

Hankey, Donald—"A Student in Arms." Articles written at the front, showing the high ideals that inspire the educated young men of England; how "war sanctifies as well as destroys."

Hankey, Donald—"A Student in Arms," second series. This new volume contains some interesting biographical information about the author, who was killed in action, October, 1916.

Wheeler, W. R.—"A Book of Verse of the Great War." This includes a few translations of Belgian and French poetry, besides many fine English and American poems not given in Clarke or Cunliffe. The introduction notes the "comparative rarity of the martial ring" in modern war verse and the predominance of the spiritual element.

German Intrigue Here.

The sinister intrigue of Germany is being no less actively conducted in this country than in Russia and in every country in Europe to which the agents and dupes of the Imperial German Government can get access.

That government has many spokesmen here, in places high and low. They have learned discretion. They keep within the law. It is opinion they utter now, not sedition. They proclaim the liberal purposes of their masters; declare this a foreign war which can touch America with no danger to either her lands or her institutions; set England at the center of the stage and talk of her ambition to assert economic dominion throughout the world; appeal to our ancient tradition of isolation in the politics of the nations; and seek to undermine the Government with false professions of loyalty to its principles.

But they will make no headway. The false betray themselves always in every accent. It is only friends and partisans of the German Government whom we have already identified who utter these thinly disguised disloyalties.—President Wilson in Flag Day speech.

Fats are necessary to human life; we must make the available supply "go round" for the American people and for all the nations fighting the battle of democracy. It is a crime to waste any fat.

Why not send your Sunday roast to those in Europe who with us are fighting to preserve democracy? It will keep them from starving, and you can eat chicken, turkey, game, rabbit, bean or nut loaf, eggs, rice, potatoes.

TO SAVE does not mean to DO WITHOUT; substitute vegetable fats for cooking butter and lard needed for war purposes.

There can be no turning back. The rights of the Nation must be vindicated and its institutions preserved. Those who would keep the people of the world from going about their business in orderly and decent fashion must be taught a lesson once for all.—DAVID F. HUSTON, Secretary of Agriculture.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

MAR 16

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MARCH 8, 1918

Number 30

Farmers Called Into Liberty Loan Forces

Governor James P. Goodrich Addresses Representative Organization of the Tillers of the Soil.

Executive Department, State of Indiana,
Indianapolis, Ind., February 26, 1918.

Dear Sir—Plans are under way for the sale of Liberty Loan Bonds. It is unnecessary for me to point out the importance of this movement and the need for assistance from all individuals and organizations.

The farmer is a most important factor in the war activities. He should be a large force in the Liberty Loan campaign.

In order that the agricultural forces of the State may be organized and placed squarely behind the State Liberty Loan committee, I am asking the officers of the State agricultural organization to meet in the House of Representatives, State House, Indianapolis, 10 a. m., Tuesday, March 12, 1918.

Please arrange to attend this meeting and give your active support to this most important work.

Very truly yours,

JAMES P. GOODRICH, Governor.

The above communication has been sent broadcast over Indiana by Governor James P. Goodrich in anticipation of the third Liberty Loan campaign. It was addressed to the members of the following organizations, making it the bugle call to the greatest organized effort ever attempted by the agricultural community in any direction, and it was expected that the response would be representative:

Cattle Feeders' Association.
Live Stock Breeders' Association.
Hereford Breeders' Association.
Shorthorn Breeders' Association.
Angus Breeders' Association.
Sheep Breeders and Feeders.
Berkshire Association.
Hampshire Swine Breeders.
Poland China Breeders' Association.
Indiana Horticultural Society.
Chester White Association.
Duroc Jersey Association.
Spotted Poland China Association.
State Dairy Association.
Indiana Jersey Cattle Club.
Indiana Holstein Friesian Association.
Indiana Guernsey Breeders' Association.
State Poultry Association.
Indiana Fanciers' Association.
Indiana Draft Horse Breeders' Association.
Corn Growers' Association.
Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation.
Indiana State Board of Agriculture.
State Bee Keepers' Association.
State Grange.
Mutual Farmers' Insurance Company Union.
Editor of the "Indiana Farmers' Guide."
Editor of "Farm Life."
Editor of "Up-to-Date Farming."
Editor of "Orange Judd Farmer."
In addition President W. E. Stone of Purdue University, G. I. Christie, Dean J. H. Skinner, Director C. H. Woodbury and others of Purdue.
In connection with the call for the meeting, which was arranged under the auspices of the Indiana committee on food production and conservation, co-operating with the Executive, the following statement is authorized by the committee:

"The farming industry of Indiana represents approximately 43 per cent. of the wealth of the State. Indiana farmers have not failed to answer the call for greater food production, and can be depended upon to take their share of the third Liberty Loan through the proper organization. At this conference plans for reaching every farmer in the State of Indiana with the 'story of Liberty Loans' will be laid. The membership of each of the state-wide organizations will be pledged to direct assistance to the State Liberty Loan committee's program, which aims to send Indiana 'over the top' in the next loan drive."

What Will Win!

What will win the war? What will give America the victory she is fighting for?

McAdoo says money will win.

Hoover says food will win.

Garfield says coal will win.

Schwab says labor will win.

Daniels says warships will win.

The President says the farmers will win.

Hurley says transports will win.

Aviators say airplanes will win.

All and more are necessary, but all of these and all the people of the nation must pull together in one strong pull for victory.

The people in all lines of activity will win the war by co-operation of all the vast resources of the country—by the united, patriotic and unselfish energy of a great nation.

There will be honor enough for all.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Finance Committee

Indianapolis, February 28, 1918.

To the State Council of Defense:

We submit the following statement of receipts and disbursements for the month of February, 1918:

Receipts

Balance on hand January 31, 1918.....$65,181.22
Received from Columbus, Ohio, Employers' Association in payment of the British Labor Commission pamphlet ..... 4.00
$65,185.22

Disbursements

Salaries of office assistants...$2,225.12
Other services purchased ..... 578.25
Traveling expenses ..... 275.55
Postage ..... 602.00
Telephone and telegraph..... 456.10
Stationery, printing and supplies ..... 1,744.91
Furniture and fixtures..... 220.00
Rentals ..... 59.00
Express, hauling and freight..
Repayment of advance funds..
Interest paid .....
Organization .....
Miscellaneous ..... 15.90
Balance ..... 59,008.39
$65,185.22

Respectfully,

EVANS WOOLLEN,
WILL G. IRWIN,
ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Finance Committee.

Correct:

(Signed) JOHN V. WILSON,

Assistant Secretary.

J. E. REED, Deputy Auditor.

National Council Has Adopted Indiana Plan

States Section Follows Suggestion for Development of War Council and Issues Local Bulletin.

In line with the recommendations contained in Bulletin No. 118 issued February 7 to County Councils of Defense by the Indiana State Council of Defense, that the defense organization be extended to include township and school district councils, the States section of the Council of National Defense is now undertaking to make the effort nation-wide.

As a further suggestion of directions to County Councils, the Council of National Defense says:

"In this great war the Government needs the enthusiastic support of every one of its 100,000,000 citizens. We are building ships, raising wheat, making munitions on a scale a hundred times greater than ever before. We must continuously carry aid to our men and our Allies in France.

"The task of war needs the whole energy of every man, woman and child in this country. Ignorance, carelessness and indifference cause huge losses and delays.

"Until public opinion is so aroused that Patriotism is driving the Nation at full speed, the message of this war has not reached the people; until every one of the thousands in your county is doing his utmost for the Nation, that message has not fully reached even your own neighbors.

"We ask you to bring your people into line. Develop your county organization into units so small that their leaders come into personal touch with every resident. According to the plan for community councils, take each school district, each township, or each precinct and make it a working member of a Nation fighting for a noble cause.

"We attach an outline of methods for organizing community Councils, approved by your State, together with suggestions as to the work to be undertaken immediately. These general suggestions should, however, be modified to fit your own local conditions. (These suggestions appear elsewhere.—Editor.)

"Reports of your progress should be sent to your State organization, and we will be glad to receive copies of such reports as made.

"There is a great task before you. There is need of speed and yet more need of thorough work."

HOOVERITIS.

Each paper, book and magazine

Spouts upward like a geyser

Recipes for saving things;

We're growing thin and wiser!

We salt down beans, dehydrate greens,

Store up foods like a miser;

We're going to preserve the world,

And also can the kaiser.

—Edith R. Gooding in B. R. P. Railway Employees' Magazine.

Fat in the garbage can is passive treason. Sell offals to the soap maker, or make soft soap at home.

What does the enemy care whether food is sunk in the sea, or thrown into the garbage can? It is all the same to the Kaiser.

Give up fried food; save the fats to defeat the Kaiser.

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—Mrs. Fay Smith has been named chairman of the women's Liberty loan committee for Adams county by Mrs. A. D. Artman, woman member of the County Council of Defense. Mrs. Smith will organize the county by townships and co-operate with the men's organization in every possible manner, during the big drive. Mrs. Anna McConnell has been named chairman and Mrs. C. D. Lawton, vice-chairman of the service card registration, which begins April 19, and continues for ten days. They are making a special study of the work and expect to enroll every woman in the county.

Allen County.—Reports that shipbuilders will be practically interned in the United States shipbuilding yards gained general circulation in Ft. Wayne. Statements from representative employers, operating plants now engaged in war contracts and naturally anxious to retain as many skilled mechanics as possible, were given to the newspapers by Harry I. Young, enrolling agent for the United States public reserve, denying the truthfulness of any such assertions. On the contrary, it is said, the government is making work in the shipyards particularly attractive, by providing adequate housing facilities, entertainment of a suitable character and in otherwise manifesting an appreciation of the loyalty that has influenced many mechanics to volunteer to engage in the work the government now considers of first importance in the prosecution of the war.

Boone County.—The county council appropriated $1,000 for the County Council of Defense. The money will be used to promote the work of the organization in this county, which has been actively engaged in conducting conferences and otherwise seeking to arouse patriotic interest and co-operation in the state and national programs.

Carroll County.—Alleged pro-German activities and utterances are attracting the attention of the County Council of Defense and the regularly constituted peace authorities. Reports from Flora merchants that the citizens of the community are not co-operating in the observance of the meatless and wheatless regulations, the sugar restrictions and otherwise, are creating a sentiment favorable to the registration of all Americans who are not standing by the government, as well as of alien enemies. Bakers echo the complaints because of unreasonable demands being made upon them, but they are loyally standing by the county food administrator in his determination that the wheat flour supply shall be conserved.

Cass County.—Endorsement of a war chest fund was one of the features of the war council held here under the auspices of the County Council of Defense. The purpose of the fund, which will be organized by popular canvass, will be to provide a source of revenue from which the expenses of the local war activities may be met. The tentative plan contemplates an assessment upon every man whose income is $100 a month or upward, of $1 for each $100. Dr. Fred Terfinger is chairman of the war chest fund organization and C. W. Graves, secretary, and the disbursing committee includes representative citizens from every part of the county.

Clay County.—Plans for the establishment of permanent quarters from which war work will be directed, in Brazil, have been formulated by the County Council of Defense and a request for an appropriation of $1,000 to pay the expenses incident thereto has been made to the County Council of Defense and is expected to meet with favorable action. The arrangement contemplates the unification of activities and the headquarters for the fuel and food administrators. Liberty loan, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other organizations engaged in patriotic work. It is believed by such an arrangement more effective results will be obtained. Initial steps for the extension of the defense organization to include every township in Clay county have been taken by the County Council of Defense. Chairman M. H. Johnson called a meeting and presented the details of the plan to the following township chairmen who have agreed to be responsible for the success of the organization movement in their respective communities: Brazil—John F. Brown; Cass—Walter Ringo, Dick Johnson, Rastus Aydelotte; Harrison—Martin R. Goshorn; Jackson—Lewis McCullough; Lewis—Harley Griffith; Perry—W. T. Modest; Posey—Carl E. Biller; Sugar Ridge—Charles Rentschler; Van Buren—Scott Bell.

Clinton County.—For the purpose of censoring all solicitations of money for war purposes the County Council of Defense has named the following committee of representative citizens of Frankfort: E. A. Spray, Howard Cann, Joseph Phipps, Ralph Cheadie and Walter Brown. The endorsement of this committee will be required before the Council of Defense recommends any canvass to the support of the patriotic people. The Bankable Building, owned by the city of Frankfort, has been secured by the County Council of Defense as headquarters for all organizations engaged in war work. The city reserves the right to locate offices in the building should such action be found desirable. The Bankable Building was until recently used as a cigar factory. It will be turned over entirely for the time being as a war work headquarters. It is being furnished and equipped by patriotic contributions and without any cost whatever to the County Council of Defense.

Decatur County.—Mayor McCoy, of Greensburg, has issued a proclamation calling on the people to plant and cultivate war gardens during the summer of 1918. It is said that 87 acres of ground in this county were devoted to gardens last year and a special effort will be made to double this acreage this year. Mrs. Alex Porter, Mrs. Thomas Davidson, Will C. Woodfill, Elmer C. Jerman and Everett Hamilton have been named by the mayor as a special war garden committee to have supervision of the work of encouraging gardeners in every possible way.

Delaware County.—M. Ruben, manager of a Muncie credit store, refused permission to solicit his employees for the purchase of war thrift stamps and as a result was cited to appear before the County Council of Defense and explain. Ruben in defense of his action declared he had not intended to deny the privilege, but had merely requested the solicitor to wait until the clerks were not busy with customers. Ruben's case has been called to the attention of the federal authorities, and in the meantime he has been severely criticised by patriotic citizens of the community.

Elkhart County.—From the appropriation of one thousand dollars made for the use of the County Council of Defense during 1917, but $262.47 was used, the balance reverting to the county treasury. A financial statement of the Council's affairs has been made to the public, showing only the legitimate use of the money. The council has a continuing appropriation for 1918.

Fayette County.—Mayor Charles Rieder and the city council have agreed to lend the municipal agencies to the support of the War garden movement in Connersville. The schools, Commercial club and other civic societies are co-operating with a view to putting every foot of available soil in Fayette county to work during the coming summer.

Floyd County.—An appropriation of $1,000 has been made by the Floyd County Council for the use of the County Council of Defense. The money will be disbursed on the O. K. of the Defense Council, which is headed by Charles D. Kelso of New Albany. The recent expenditures for war conferences will be paid out of this fund.

Grant County.—The flour situation in this county is regarded as so critical that the county food administrator has been urged by the County Council of Defense and others to inaugurate a card system guaranteeing an equitable distribution. Millers, jobbers and retailers have received instructions that they must abide by the regulations of the United States food administration or be reported for punishment.

Hancock County.—The city council of Greenfield has been requested by the County Council of Defense to improve the extreme east and west sections of Main street in anticipation of an increased overland traffic by automobile trucks, which are expected to replace railroads and interurban transportation as the war demands increase. Raymond Beck, a field engineer of the highways transport committee of the Council of National Defense, has been in Greenfield making a survey of the National road. The purpose is to find a suitable route for military trucks from Illinois and Wisconsin points to the Atlantic seaboard. The route intended to be selected is from Chicago, Lafayette, Indianapolis, Greenfield, Richmond and east. Dr. Oscar Heller, county food administrator, has directed the distribution of flour on the card system, effective March 1. The cards are numbered and issued one to a family. They are intended to guarantee the observance of the fifty-fifty order relative to the sale of substitutes, but later may also include an apportionment per capita.

Henry County.—Miss Irene Kirkwood, in charge of the County Council of Defense, is busy mailing food conservation literature to every rural household on the mail route out of Newcastle. This activity is under the direction of Mrs. Frank Stanley, chairman of the women's section.

Huntington County.—Five war councils in different parts of Huntington county, under the auspices of the Huntington County Council of Defense, were held last week at Markle, Andrews, Bippus, Roanoke and Warren. The councils were patterned after the recently held county war conference, the programs being restricted to two hours in duration, each feature by authoritative addresses from representatives of the Council of Defense. Red Cross, the food administration and general war work. In every instance large audiences were attracted and it is believed great good will result.

Jay County.—E. M. Haynes, chairman of the County Council of Defense, was instrumental in organizing fifty representative farmers in the Jay County Better Farming Association. The purpose of the organization is to co-ordinate forces interested in agriculture and food production to aid in the carrying out of the federal government for increased production, conservation and substitution.

Johnson County.—A summer war conference designed to take the place of the usual chautauqua at Franklin has been proposed by William Mulleadore, chairman of the Franklin committee, which has operated the chautauqua in that place formerly. The County Council of Defense has taken up the proposition informally and expects to announce a decision soon. The plan seems to meet with popular favor.

Knox County.—The first community war conference in Knox county was held at the Freelandville high school. Local residents and farmers from all parts of Weldner township were present. Special music was a feature of the program and addresses were made on food conservation, Liberty loan, Red Cross and other phases of activity by representatives of the County Council of Defense. The County Council's program contemplates similar meetings in other sections of the community.

Laporte County.—To meet the growing demands upon women for war work, a branch of the County Council of Defense women's section has been organized at Mieligan City. The organization will teach food conservation and otherwise seek to further the government's war program in addition to the regular war emergency work. The following committees have been appointed: Filing Committee—Miss Amalia Aicher. Red Cross Committee—Mrs. James Orr. Allied Relief Committee—Mrs. George Shargenburg. Instruction Committee—Miss Jennie Eddy. Women and Children in Industry—Mrs. Harry Barnes. Paid War Workers—Miss Naughton. Volunteer Workers—Mrs. W. J. Fealock. Speakers Bureau—Mrs. L. A. Wilson. Publicity—Mrs. Albert M. Carstens.

Marshall County.—The pupils of the Bremen high school have purchased over $600 worth of war savings certificates during the month of February. Thrift societies are now organized in all of our grammar school grades. The total sales for the township have been $4,350 to date, as reported by Orville M. Craig, superintendent.

On Sunday evening, February 17, 1918, Marshall county held an immense mass meeting in honor of Harry Wickey. Mr. Wickey is the first returned soldier in this county who has gone "over the top." He was a farmer in Saskatchewan when the war broke out. He enlisted in the Canadian army in May, 1916. He drilled six months in Canada, a few weeks in England and shortly after reaching France was sent to the front. Being quick-witted and courageous and speaking the German language, he had some thrilling experiences in the trenches and "no man's land." He escaped unhurt until April 9 last. At the great battle of Vimy Ridge he went "over the top." He lost his right arm and received a severe chest wound, which affects his voice. But the large audience which thronged the large auditorium of the M. E. Church listened spellbound.

"The war seems very close home when one of our own boys brings the story. If all our allied boys show the same spirit of service without a murmur that Harry does we need not fear for the triumph of democracy," says Mrs. J. H. Wiley in describing the meeting.

"Humor and pathos abounded in his address, but in regard to his own sacrifice after a vivid account of that wonderful battle and the advance step by step into the lines of the enemy, he simply said: 'There is where they got me.'

"It seems easy for our American boys to step out of the trenches onto the lecture platform.

"To show their appreciation in a material way the citizens had made up a purse. Judge Stevens, in presenting this purse, made a thrilling patriotic appeal. The purse contained five twenty-dollar gold pieces."

Miami County.—Mrs. Wm. West, secretary of the County Council of Defense, has been notified by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, that the report that maple syrup camp operators will be required to pay a federal license fee of $25 is absolutely false. This misrepresentation had been used in some quarters. It was said, to discourage the tapping of trees in the production of maple syrup.

Monroe County.—Mrs. Grace Utterback of Bloomington bought a can of cocoa from a supply wagon and found same to have contained ground glass. Mrs. Utterback and her children were under quarantine because of scarlet fever. The County Council of Defense has a warning against trading with irresponsible transients, although the belief is expressed that the cocoa was adulterated at the factory, probably by enemy aliens.

Morgan County.—The sum of $500 was appropriated by the county council for the use of the County Council of Defense, and it was stated that if all this money was not used it will revert back to the treasury at the end of the year. Expenses of the county war conferences will be paid out of the appropriation as well as expenses for similar affairs contemplated for the future. The County Council of Defense expects to continue the campaign of education along patriotic lines, and that has been impossible heretofore owing to the lack of funds.

Orange County.—A committee of five has been appointed by the County Council of Defense to censor all solicitations of contributions for war work. The growing evil of promiscuous giving and soliciting and the request of the State Council of Defense that the generous contributors who are giving freely of their money be protected from grafters and impostors prompted the action. This same committee will be responsible for investigating all reports of disloyalty in Orange county, and consists of the following: J. J. Copeland and Henry Kibler, Paoli; Walter Gresham, French Lick; Walter Moore, West Baden, and A. E. Cress, Orleans.

Posey County.—Roy W. Dixon, the city clerk of Mt. Vernon, in behalf of the County Council of Defense, is requesting assistance in compiling names and addresses of all soldiers and sailors of the community now in federal service. Mr. Dixon asks where possible that the organization include the location of all in service and this will become a part of the archives of the community and preserved for historical reference.

Steuben County.—The Steuben County Council of Defense has adopted a resolution favoring the employment of a county agricultural agent. The resolution points out the importance of increased food production and necessity of intelligent direction of agricultural activity. The resolution has been submitted to the county authorities, who are expected to give it prompt consideration.

Tippecanoe County.—Rotarians of Lafayette have pledged their organized and individual support to the war garden movement. They will provide funds for the plowing of lots and purchase of seeds and assist in financing adequate supervision over the cultivation of the vegetables planted.

Tipton County.—Manager Jackson of the Martz theater, co-operating with the County Council of Defense, presented the pictures showing the war preparations and activities of the United States in camp and at sea to large audiences of Tipton county people. Special emphasis was given the work of the United States shipping corporation, thus magnifying the appeal for registrants in the U. S. Public Service Reserve shipbuilding army. The pictures created a tremendous enthusiasm and will be shown again in other parts of the county.

Vanderburg County.—War council headquarters will be established in the Strand Building, Evansville. Executive and advisory boards of the county organization will here administer the work in the county. Plans for the patriotic activities of this community during the spring and summer are now being worked out by a special committee. Women of the Federated Clubs of the city are co-operating. B. F. Persons, county food administrator, and Jas. T. Cutler, major of the Indiana State militia, and Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, in charge of the child welfare movement of the State; Henry B. Walker, director of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, and others are actively engaged at headquarters at this time....Jos. Van Winkle was elected president, Joseph Sansom vice-president, Robert Henry secretary and J. Sell treasurer of the 1,100 drafted men in District 4, comprising the county district in Vanderburg county, when the men were organized into a committee for home war work. The committee will do Red Cross, Liberty loan and other campaign work, and will report disloyalty cases. G. I. Christie, State chairman of food production work; W. E. Stilwell of Evansville and James Emsie, chairman of the exemption board here, spoke.

Vigo County.—Terre Haute has arranged to assist in the work of saving children, the occasion of a special effort to be made through the women's section of the County Councils of Defense during the year beginning April 6. The work in Vigo county will be in charge of Mrs. Nettie Swartz, school attendance officer, and Miss Lena Reading, secretary of the Society for Organizing Charity. An authority on juvenile court work will be asked to come to Terre Haute to make an address on the subject....Miss Harriett Woolen, county food demonstrator, is making an effective canvass of the county, showing housewives and cooks how to use wheat flour substitutes most effectively....About twenty-five miners appeared against Wm. Elbrick, also a miner, arrested at Terre Haute for uttering treasonable remarks. His arrest followed the internment of John Horick, which has been for the period of the war. Earl Houck, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has investigated the case and he recommended that the federal government take steps to intern Elbrick. Loyal miners are determined to relieve themselves of the odium attached to the presence of traitors in Indiana collieries and are actively assisting the authorities in ferreting out disloyalty.

Wabash County.—Liberty guard companies are being formed at Urbana and Roann. Authority has been secured for the enlistment of a company in each place and the work has the encouragement of the County Council of Defense, as well as of many patriotic citizens ineligible for membership but who recognize the importance of organizing the men for emergency work. At Roann, Howard Wakely, Charles P. Petty and Noble Tombaugh are in charge of organizing the company, the third unit in the county.

Warrick County.—Warrick county now boasts of three Liberty guard units. Thomas E. Downs, organizer, has companies at Boonville, Tennyson and Chandler. The companies are drilling faithfully and are ready for any emergency that may require their services.

Wayne County.—A renewed effort is being made to secure an agricultural agent for this county, one of the few without this important service in Indiana. The county had an agent, but since his resignation the place has been vacant....Cambridge City holds a war conference on the evening of March 6. The program follows: Music by the High School Glee Club, Miss Flossie Neff, director; greetings, Benton Wilson, president; invocation, Rev. R. C. Jones, reading of minutes, Charles Kalesse; review of Welfare Club's work, Ellis D. Fluby; "How to Foster Community Spirit," Rev. J. F. McCormick; "Should We Have a Comprehensive Organization to Take Charge of All War Fund Collections in the Township?" Thomas Butler, discussion by Charles F. Wheeler; "Value of a Community Library," Mrs. L. N. Tweedy; "The Farmer in Community Work," D. C. Harlan; "Value of Team Work in the Community," C. M. Pierce; "America" Glee Club and audience....Women war workers of Richmond have planned Saturday conferences to be held at the Morrison-Reeves library, where they will receive instructions on food substitution, registration for war services and other patriotic matters....Miss Elsie Marshall of the home economics and domestic science department of Earlham College is assisting Miss Mabel Culbertson in spreading food administration information over the county.

Women's Section

Indiana is asked to save and preserve for future social usefulness the lives of 2,592 sick babies in the year from April 6, 1918, to April 6, 1919. In the nation at large it is planned to save the lives of 100,000 sick babies within the period named. The Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor at Washington originated this movement, and the fiscal year from April 6 to April 6 is called "children's year."

It is the purpose to save the United States from the grievous and fatal blunders of other countries in the war. Not only do the Department of Labor and the war agencies working with that department plan to keep protective labor laws in force to save children from the evils of reckless industrial abuses, but the social service agencies of peace times are to be urged forward and maintained and operated with even greater zeal than in time of peace.

Indiana women, working with the State and County Councils of Defense, have a special department which gives its time to child welfare work. This department is now giving attention to the saving of sick babies. According to Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the women's section of the State Council of Defense, and Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, chairman of the Child Welfare Committee, Indiana women will be found taking a forward part in the nation-wide effort to save the lives of sick babies.

Already the women in the councils of defense are organizing to help the baby-saving campaign throughout "children's year."

"Women and War Work," by Miss Helen Fraser, is described as the first practical book for women war service workers. So important is this book that President McCracken of Vassar College, executive secretary of the American Red Cross, wrote an introduction for it.

Since Miss Fraser spoke in Indiana under defense council auspices, making a profound impression, Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, head of the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, who was instrumental in bringing Miss Fraser to the State, has taken an interest in the movement to bring about a wide distribution of Miss Fraser's most helpful book on women's part in war service.

Mrs. Hortense Tapp Moore, chairman of the food production committee of the women's section, has addressed a special war garden bulletin to the members of her organization throughout the State. She emphasizes the patriotic duty of backing up the boys at the front with a maximum of food production and urges the women to encourage war gardens in every available space. Local enterprises for increased production and better crops are proposed and cautions noted for good seed and practical planning.

ATTENTION, CHILD WELFARE COMMITTEE.

The "Children's Year" begins April 6. Our committees are given a great task—the saving of 2,592 lives of children under five years, Indiana's quota of the 100,000, who, experts say, die needlessly.

Instructions from Washington, and blanks for registration, will come later. We are asked to weigh, measure and register all children under five.

So, to be ready, organize sub-committees in your townships. If possible, have on each a parent-teacher member, a State federation member, a trained nurse and a Red Cross civilian relief worker. Please organize at once.

ALBION FELLOWS BACON,
Chairman Child Welfare Committee State Council of Defense.

BULLETIN No. 33.

To the Woman Members of the County Council of Defense:

The question has come up as to whether or not the woman's work in the counties is getting the financial support from the County Chairman which is needed. Will you please let us know by return mail if your County Chairman gives you all the financial aid that you feel is necessary and whether it is large in a willing and spontaneous manner?

The question has come up whether or not we would have a voluntary registration fee, the object of this registration fee was to give the women in each county a fund of their own for emergencies. At a meeting held in Indianapolis on February 16 for the purpose of instructing registrars, the question was discussed and a resolution drawn up asking that we do not ask for the registration fee. Have you been in consultation with your Chairman of Registration and do you thoroughly coincide with her in this opinion?

As you know, the registration cards are to be filed in each county and a summary sent to the state office for our records, and we will send a copy of this summary to Washington.

There will be anywhere from 1,000 to 10,000 cards to be handled in a county. Will it be possible for you to get volunteers to do this work accurately and quickly so that we can get our report to Washington by the first of June?

This registration fee is to be entirely voluntary; half of the amount collected will be left in the county collecting it, the other half being sent to Indiana headquarters, and is to be used absolutely for women's work.

We would like a free and unbiased opinion from you by March 12.

Very truly yours,
ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section State Council of Defense.

BULLETIN No. 34.

To the Chairman of Educational Propaganda, County Council of Defense:

I am now ready to mail the war programs suggestive for your clubs and classes, and hope that some help may be gained therefrom. Study of the war we urge above everything in our Department. No more attractive can any subject be these days. Besides, intelligence brings strength to do and to bear. I hope your town and county libraries will be helpful in providing the books and magazines mentioned in the bibliography.

I am, also, sending you 200 printed letters to be given to the children of your schools 5th and 8th grade, inclusive—hoping they may be of value. I suggest that the children paste them in their books, or keep them carefully. If any child cares to answer the letter, I shall be glad to hear from him. I am aware that I am not sending enough copies, and suggest that each Chairman have made in her county sufficient to pass around. The "Appeals" have given out. May I suggest that these, too, be reprinted in the counties? It seems necessary to unite forces when it comes to financing some of these plans.

Hoping your work is well under way, I am, with best wishes.

Yours sincerely,
KATHARINE MERRILL GRAYDON,
State Chairman, Department of Education.
303 Downey Ave., Indianapolis.

Letters to the Boys

A patriotic letter writing enterprise by the Christian men builders of the Third Christian Church, Indianapolis "for our members in Uncle Sam's service," is a source of communication between those who have gone to the colors and the members of the congregation remaining at home. Under the title of the "Official News Bulletin" printed on red, white and blue sheets, the paper contains bits of personal information such as would ordinarily find its way into a letter rather than into the newspapers and to many of the men might not be available from any other source. The "Bulletin" contains the address of every member of the church who is assured by an arrangement within the congregation of two letters per week on matters that are known to have a special appeal to him. In this congregation 104 men are now in the service, 22 of whom are in France, 9 in the navy and the rest in the United States army. In maintaining a close personal touch with its own communicants, this church organization has developed a plan that commends itself both for effectiveness and simplicity. The supplement of this week's bulletin contains a splendidly written editorial by a member of the class, which adds punch to the bulletin.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 30

Editorial Comment

WHAT INTERESTS THE PEOPLE.

A successful journalist once explained the appeal of his Sunday feature magazine by saying that it was edited on the theory that people are interested in sex, crime, money and food, in the order named.

No publisher would have the temerity to venture upon any such program today. A complete reversal of the order certainly would come nearer meeting the situation.

Of course, War news is the big news. There are few households in the nation today whose first concern upon picking up the daily papers isn't with developments on the French front. Next comes the news from the training camps and cantonments where hundreds of thousands of sons, brothers and husbands are getting ready for their part in the big drive. Surely the next most vitally important thing is what steps are being taken by the government—the people—to help make this big adventure a success. And herein lies the importance, the great significance of the statements of purpose and activities that come from the Councils of Defense, the Food Administration, the Fuel Administration, Liberty Loan headquarters, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and countless other war-time agencies.

The newspaper publisher, the editor, has a tremendous task. He realizes the yearning for correct up-to-date information. He is burdened, perhaps, as no other business enterprise is burdened, in trying to serve an exacting clientele. Unless his paper carries the latest information relative to the military movements, the newest food regulations, the liberty loan and Red Cross plans, he invites criticism and someone, or some group of readers, is disappointed.

Verily the editor is doing his bit. If by reason of his loyal devotion to the government's cause he manages to edit the great mass of confused data that is offered him daily, he does well.

It might convey a bit of cheer to the editor who is struggling through what seems a hopelessly indigestible mass, to learn that plans are being considered that will serve to relieve this overwhelming pressure.

ON WAR APPROPRIATIONS.

Reports have gained circulation during the past week that the Indiana State Board of Accounts proposed limiting the amount of money appropriated by County Councils for patriotic purposes. Specifically it was alleged that the auditor of Fulton county had been authorized to limit his warrants to $1,000, and that in another case sanction was given an appropriation from the public treasury for the promotion of Red Cross work.

In the first instance it is announced officially that the auditor of Fulton county was directed to issue warrants for the sums due now, not exceeding $1,000, and that in the meantime further instructions would be forthcoming.

The truth of the matter is this: State Accountant Gilbert H. Hendren has asked Attorney-General Ele Stansbury to deliver to him an opinion as to the extent of the statutory authority back of any authorization for spending the public funds for the purpose of meeting war's emergencies. Upon this opinion the State accountant expects to base a more definite detailed statement, prescribing ing such limitations as may be found wise under the law, and making clear the extent to which County Councils, county auditors and others entrusted with maintaining the integrity of the public treasury may go without transgression.

On the matter of appropriations for the Red Cross an effort will be made to prevent discrimination, which might result in one community doing more than its fair share with money paid in by taxpayers all alike.

In the meantime the State accountant states that none need feel uneasy or afraid to make such reasonable appropriations as may have been contemplated by previous arrangement under the statement of position made by him last year, at the request of the finance committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense, which was to the effect that money properly appropriated and accounted for by local Councils of Defense, would be officially sanctioned.

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 122.

March 2, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Speakers' Bureau of the State Council of Defense is now preparing to aid the county councils in a series of township conferences. It has selected 100 smaller towns in the State that were not reached by the county conferences for the first series of meetings. One or more of these towns might be in your county. If so, the Speakers' Bureau will communicate with you in the very near future, setting out its plans in full. If you do not hear from the Speakers' Bureau in the near future please do not grow impatient, because your county will be included in a later series of township conferences.

We hope that you have by this time completed the organization of your Township Councils of Defense as requested in Bulletin No. 118. The burden of the arrangements for these proposed township conferences should be thrown entirely upon the township councils.

The Speakers' Bureau will request school superintendents, presidents of ministerial associations, presidents of women's clubs and others in the communities selected to get in touch with you at once and co-operate in making these conferences a success.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

We enclose extra copy of this bulletin for reference to your proper committee.

GENERAL BULLETIN No. 124.

To County Councils of Defense:

Please send in to the State Council at once the name of some person in your county to be appointed by the Federal Bureau of Mines as county agent for the Federal Explosives Inspector for Indiana. The duties of this agent will be very important but not burdensome and the person nominated must be one in whom absolute trust can be placed.

It is highly important that we have from every county a recommendation for this office within a week and we earnestly request that no county fail to act and send in a report within that time.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Red Cross Activities

Despite the circulation of stories intending to show that many American nurses have been subjected to atrocities abroad, seventy Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky nurses enrolled with the American Red Cross during February, Miss Mary Roberts, director of nursing in the Lake Division, announced today.

One of the stories in circulation was to the effect that two American nurses on duty overseas had had their tongues cut out by the enemy. Another story going the rounds in northern Ohio says that an enemy patient seized and broke the wrists of one nurse while she was ministering to him.

According to Miss Roberts, Miss Jane Delane, head of the Red Cross Nursing Bureau at Washington, declares that no such indignities have been reported by the French or Italian Red Cross commissions sent from this country.

Said Miss Roberts: "The Lake Division would like to discover the Baron Munchausen who invents and circulates the pernicious stories of maimed and mutilated nurses. These stories, though never proven, are designed to break down the splendid spirit of our nurses and to dissuade them from entering the Red Cross service in sufficient numbers.

"Nurses of the higher type do not pay much attention to these stories. Unfortunately the parents of nurses and of prospective nurses do pay attention and prevent their daughters entering schools for nurses.

"I wonder how long the public will allow itself to be fooled by such atrocious propaganda."

Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will be asked to contribute $9,400,000 in the second Red Cross War Fund drive for $100,000,000, R. F. Grant, director of the drive in the Lake Division, announced Friday. The drive dates are May 6 to 13.

Ohio's quota is $6,400,000, Indiana's $2,100,000 and Kentucky's $900,000.

Mr. Grant of M. A. Hanna & Co., of Cleveland, appointed to the War Fund directorship by Division Manager James R. Garfield, stated today each State in the Lake Division will have its own drive manager. Names of the state managers will be announced within a few days.

At division headquarters in Cleveland C. B. Dyer is executive secretary. Franklyn B. Sanders is campaign accounting supervisor; W. W. Wheeler, manager of advertising; D. C. Dougherty, manager of the news bureau, and R. G. Frisbee, manager of the speakers' bureau. Mr. Dyer will also have charge of the distribution of supplies.

Prominent cartoonists and artists have contributed poster drawings. Authors and advertising men have written advertising copy. Seasoned campaigners and accountants have prepared drive instructions and accounting manuals.

"Performances and expenditures of the American Red Cross abroad and at home during the first year of the war will be placed before the public before the second drive begins," Mr. Grant said.

"Last summer, with but little organization, the Red Cross secured subscriptions amounting to $119,000,000. And now with a membership of 22,000,000 we have every reason to believe that the $100,000,000 fund will be oversubscribed."

Within a few days chapter campaign managers will be advised of the dates of a series of State meetings, at which campaign purposes and methods will be explained.

Public Service Reserve

Indiana has far exceeded her apportionment of 10,847 registrations of skilled mechanics asked by the United States shipbuilding corporation. Reports have not been completed but it is certain that the State's record for having promptly and effectively put into execution every request from Washington made since the declaration of war, has been maintained.

To County Councils of Defense and Enrolling Officers United States Public Service Reserve:

I am sure I voice the unanimous sentiment of the Indiana State Council of Defense in expressing to you our sincere appreciation of the loyalty manifested in the recently completed drive for registrations in the shipbuilding army. With this record as an example and an inspiration, I feel safe in venturing the opinion that Indiana is organized for any further demands that may be made along this line. This success proves Indiana patriotism as ready to manifest itself in deeds, as well as in words.

Very sincerely,

N. E. SQUIBB,

Director for Indiana, United States Public Service Reserve.

A certain amount of fat each day is necessary to human life. Don't waste an ounce; it means the life of someone somewhere in the world.

The Development of Community Councils

The Council of National Defense Recommends the Extension of County Organization By the Creation of Community Councils, and Calls to Your Attention the Following Prospectus.

NEED OF COMMUNITY COUNCILS.

The first nine months of the war have shown the vital importance of developing an official nation-wide organization reaching into the smallest communities to mobilize and make available the efforts of the whole people for the prosecution of the war. In recruiting for the army and in enlisting laborers for war industries, in increasing the food supply and decreasing the waste of food, in soliciting subscriptions to the Liberty loan and in much other work, the end must be accomplished by the people at large. The creation of county auxiliaries has brought the State Councils and State Woman's Divisions closer to the people and the valuable services which county auxiliaries have rendered indicates the importance of even closer contact, through subsidiary agencies in such small units that personal contact with all the citizens is possible.

In many counties Community Councils are already in existence. Unless such subsidiary organization has already been effected in your county, we recommend the creation of a Community Council in each school district.

The advantages of the school district as a unit of community organization are clear:

1. The school district is small enough to permit individual contact, and is non-political.
2. The school house supplies a meeting place in each district, and in many schools includes domestic science, manual training, and other facilities.
3. The school district reaches children and parents alike, and in the cities the school is to a large extent already in touch with the alien population.
4. The school is an established center of information and education.
5. The school principal or faculty provides a tried agency through whose assistance community organization can be quickly effected.
6. The school district, with the school house as its center, is already a social community, especially in farm districts.

METHOD OF ORGANIZING COMMUNITY COUNCILS.

The organization of a Community Council must, of course, vary in different localities. With your knowledge of local conditions you will know best how to adapt the following program to your needs.

PRELIMINARY ACTION.

1. The existing war organizations and societies of your county should be carefully studied and every effort made to use such community councils, or similar organizations, as exist. Nothing is more unwise than to create new machinery where adequate machinery already exists.
2. The County Council and county branch of the woman's division should jointly call a county war conference of the officials in charge of county government activities, and representatives of the prominent county organizations and societies. The schools especially should be represented at this meeting, and where Farm Bureau Community Committees or School Rural Leagues exist, they also should be represented.
3. At this conference lists should be drawn up of three or four men and women in each school district where no Community Council exists, to act as an organization committee.

ORGANIZATION MEETING.

1. The organization committee should arrange to invite every man and woman of the district to an organization meeting at the school house.
2. At this meeting, which should be attended by a representative of the County Council and of the County Woman's Division, a board of from three to ten directors (not less than one-third to be women) should be chosen. This board should include a representative of the school faculty.

A chairman and executive secretary should be chosen. This secretary should be chosen on the basis of fitness to act as a community organizer and to perform executive work. The secretary should render a report at suitable intervals to the chairman of the Community Council and to the County Council and County Woman's Division. He should also be the representative to receive such patriotic and educational material, and such directions in regard thereto as may be issued by the Committee on Public Information.

COMMITTEES.

Committees should be appointed to undertake the work of the community on the important war activities. These should be composed of the persons qualified by experience to undertake the particular work, and of representatives of the existing agencies of the community in the same field.

DUTIES AND WORK.

It is of importance both at the organization meeting and at all other times to impress upon all members of the community and especially upon the board and its executive secretary, the importance of the Community Council initiating independent work for the purpose of meeting its own war needs and of making all its local resources available to the nation. All committees and officers should be chosen with the object of securing men and women of sufficient vigor and ability to be able to devise and carry out a strenuous war policy based on the local needs. The work should conform to the plans of the National, State and county organizations, but each Community Council should feel the duty of bearing its full share of the burden of the war and observe the principle that in a democracy local emergencies can best be met by local action.

PROGRAM FOR COMMUNITY COUNCIL WORK

I. Community meetings and rallies.—The Community Council, through its executive secretary and committees, should hold frequent general community meetings, at which—

1. Reports are made by the committees, organizations and individuals who are doing war work.

2. Community war problems are discussed.

II. Patriotic education through—

1. Distribution of educational and patriotic material to be supplied by the Committee on Public Information, and assistance in executing the plans of the committee for public education.
2. Holding community war rallies, addressed by the ablest speakers available.
3. Distribution of pamphlets and display of posters.

4. Instruction through the schools.

III. Reports.—For the purpose of planning and following up its work and of informing the county and State authorities as to the resources and work of the community, the Community Council should tabulate and file the results of its investigations and of the reports made to it.

IV. Food.—

1. Assisting the County Councils in carrying out the national agricultural program. Much of this work can best be done on a co-operative community basis through the establishment of community agricultural conferences, community labor, seed and implement exchanges, community canning centers at school houses, community markets, etc.

2. Assisting the local Food Administrator in carrying out the national food conservation program.

3. Making the community as nearly as possible self-supporting as to food, by (1) studying last year's food production and food consumption; (2) devising means for providing within the community the articles necessarily imported during the past year; and (3) education, eliminating community food waste, and cutting down community food consumption.

V. Americanization.—The Community Council, especially in industrial communities, in co-operation with the representatives of the Bureau of Education and the Bureau of Labor, should endeavor to increase the number of loyal American citizens by—

1. Educating aliens in English.
2. Impressing aliens with the great ideals of America, American standards, the value of American citizenship and its duties.
3. Assisting aliens desirous of naturalization in making out their papers, etc.

VI. Community safeguards.—The Community Council should undertake the protection of its own district through—

1. Fire protection. Providing proper protection for crops and goods in storage, through—
(a) Organization of fire guards and provision of adequate fire apparatus.

- (b) Inspection of all places subject to spontaneous combustion, to be sure they are as nearly fireproof as possible.

2. Protection against violence. The provision of local guards, if necessary.

3. Relief.—Assist the local chapter of the American Red Cross in its Home Service Work for the families of men in national service.

4. Health.—The safeguarding of local health conditions—

- (a) The provision under the leadership of the Red Cross of emergency nurses to take the places of nurses who have gone to the front.

- (b) Distribution of pamphlets and other literature from State and National Health Departments.

5. Work for school children.—The assistance of the school children in carrying out the work of the Community Councils should be entrusted to the Junior Red Cross. This is the organization for patriotic expression for the school children of the country, indorsed by the National Education Association. Its work covers many of the fields indicated above. Under the direction of their teachers as officers of the Junior Red Cross, children are to enroll for service wherever their work makes for education and better citizenship.

VII. Labor and industry—

1. Educating boys so that they may be efficient in helping on the farms in the summer.

2. Urging vigorous prosecution of the State vagrancy law in each community and campaigning against idleness.

3. Informing the proper authorities as to the need for enforcement of labor legislation for the protection of woman and child workers and maintaining conditions of employment.

VIII. Community thrift.—In addition to urging economy in food consumption, Community Councils should—

1. In cities, in compliance with the requests of the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense, discourage needless retail deliveries.

2. Co-operate with the local Fuel Administrator in the conservation of fuel, especially through urging and teaching its economical use.

3. Assist in relieving railroad congestion by—
(a) Issuing and distributing co-operative community orders for goods.

- (b) Co-operating with local receivers and shippers of freight to arrange for full carload shipments of goods and prompt unloading of cars.

- (c) Providing adequate storage facilities.
- (d) Urging merchants to purchase in the nearest market.

4. Encouraging conservation of other supplies.

IX. Community subscriptions.—The Community Council should provide an efficient means for soliciting subscriptions to—

1. Liberty Loans and War Savings Stamps.
2. The Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and other organizations indorsed by the State Council.

Efforts should be made to prevent solicitation in the community by any organization not approved by the State Council.

X. Soldier's aid work.—

1. Each community should make sure that all drafted, enlisted, or commissioned men from that community receive frequent mail, magazines, etc., from home.

2. Assistance should be provided to the local exemption boards in their arduous work.

3. In the neighborhood of training camps the community can render valuable service by providing recreation and entertainment for the men in the camps, in co-operation with the local representative of the War and Navy Departments' Commission on Training Camp Activities.

4. The Community Council should assist the Red Cross in providing the greatest possible number of hospital supplies, sweaters, socks, and comfort kits, etc., for the soldiers.

5. In co-operation with the Red Cross, each community should provide adequate business, legal, and medical advice and aid to soldiers and their families.

XI. Co-ordination.—The Community Council should consider itself a co-ordinating agency and a clearing house for the war work of the churches, fraternal societies, clubs, and other organizations and of the individuals of the community. There should be no duplication or replacement of the work of existing organizations, but the effort should be to make this work run smoothly and efficiently. In each activity the directors of the Community Council should study the situation to determine whether some existing agency is already doing satisfactory work in that field. Where such agency exists, it is the duty of the Community Council to strengthen and work through it, not to replace it.

XII. Execution of the various requests issued by the National Government and by State and County Councils and Branches of the Woman's Division.—Priority should be given by the Community Council to all work expressly requested by the National Government, National, State, or County Councils, or Branches of the Woman's Committee in order that a uniform national response may be quickly obtained. The keynote of efficient decentralization is promptness and accuracy by the local agents in carrying out the requests from a central source.

Since the State Divisions of the Woman's Committee have already departmentalized their work along lines generally parallel to those suggested in this program, an effort should be made, in those communities where the work of the Woman's Committee is organized in small communities, to combine the two programs or departments of work to prevent duplication and too much reorganization of existing committees.

Food Administration

Hebrew retailers and bakers are cautioned against misusing the privilege of continuing business on Sunday when they observe their Sabbath on Saturday. Complaints have been made that many of this class of merchants have availed themselves of an opportunity to abuse the concession made in their behalf because of religious customs.

Gainey and Company, retailers of Bloomfield, have been cut off from supplies from all millers, wholesalers, bakers, food distributors and other agencies operating under federal license. The licensees have been instructed from Washington to desist from any business with this firm, which was found to have wilfully violated the food regulations.

Chicago bakers or other out-state producers who are operating in violation of Indiana food regulations will be cited to the United States food administration at Washington for the offense. Complaints have been received from northern Indiana, and Dr. Barnard is determined to make some "examples."

The Weiner Fruit and Produce Company's business at Fort Wayne has been taken over by the United States food administration, and is being administered by George W. Haffner, county food administrator. The United States food administration will continue the business long enough to prevent the deterioration or loss of stock on hand or in transit. This company did a general commission business and was indicted for having violated the food regulations.

Expressing a sentiment similar to that conveyed by a telegram from the Evansville Real Estate Board, which suggested that the food administration take what it wants leaving American resourcefulness to supply its own food needs, comes a letter from the Kokomo Real Estate association, pledging its support to the State and county food administrators and endorsing what has been done by them to date.

A caution against modifications of State-wide interpretations for bread and sugar prices, which might cause "confusion and chaos" has been sent to county food administrators who are also reminded of the difficulties that might be encountered by inharmonious relations with neighboring counties resulting in local charges of this nature. All such concessions must first have the approval of the State administrator, who will endeavor to maintain a State-wide uniformity.

Sugar and flour supplies are being exhausted in many communities necessitating the distribution by card system. County food administrators are cautioned to maintain a per capita apportionment of sugar and flour very carefully if absolute famine is not to ensue.

R. S. Kiser, an Indianapolis restaurant man, has been placed in the office of the State food administrator, as a deputy under George W. June, chairman of the hotel and restaurant division. Mr. Kiser is organizing public eating houses in Indiana, which are playing a very important part in the food conservation program.

Wheat flour millers are now permitted to grind up to 90 per cent. of their average for three years preceding the war. The limit heretofore having been 70 per cent. of the pre-war output.

Mrs. Addie Bretz, Rockport, Spencer county, Ohio township, R. R. No. 4, is the proud possessor of charter number one of the United States food club.

More than one-half of the counties have nominated presidents for the local food clubs, and they have agreed to extend the work into the township and school districts.

The lifting of the restrictions on the consumption of mutton and lamb have been made effective generally and there is no longer any regulation against the eating of mutton and lamb until April 15.

The recently promulgated order prohibiting the sale of freshly killed hens and pullets has been modified, allowing the sale of broilers weighing two pounds or less.

On account of the insufficient quantity of wheat flour substitutes in some quarters, bakers have been privileged to use rye flour and rye meal until March 31. Bakers who have refrained from baking "victory" bread on the theory that they could thus avoid the 20 per cent. wheat flour substitute regulations are ordered to readjust their business practices immediately to conform with the order for 20 per cent. substitution. No matter what they call their bread, no deviation from this order will be countenanced.

Farmers are given the consideration of the food administration in an order which permits their buying up to 25 pounds of wheat flour at one time. This order is to save them too frequent trips to market during their planting season when both man power and transportation facilities are at a premium.

County food administrators are authorized, wherever it is necessary on account of local conditions, to make use of the card system in the distribution of flour, flour substitutes and sugar.

Near-beer and temperance drinks manufacturers are included in the President's recent proclamation limiting maltsters to 70 per cent. of the amounts of grains and other food meals used last year.

Council Will Assist in Saving Children

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon Presents Reconstruction Plan—Other Matters Before Meeting.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, of Evansville, who is chairman of the Child Welfare committee of the women's section, appeared before the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense, March 6, asking the support and backing of the Council for the "first bit of reconstruction work" announced by the Council of National Defense in behalf of the federal Government, since the war began. It is a plan, she says, to save during the year dating from April 6, 1918, 100,000 children—one-third of the number that dies each year from preventable causes—of which Indiana's proportion is 2,592. Mrs. Bacon said: "The children are the Nation's last reserve. It is hoped by this survey to prevent all such tragedies as were revealed in the physical examinations incident to the recent draft." Mrs. Bacon added that the direction had come from the National Council for her organization to take up in Indiana the work, which included the weighing, measuring, and registering of every child under five years of age. She asked the Council to endorse the movement and to recommend to the Educational section under Dr. Horace Ellis, State superintendent of public instruction, an authorization of the use of school houses, where doctors, nurses, club women and others may undertake this important work. On motion of Mr. Irwin, such recommendation was ordered.

At the request of W. G. Pangborn, representing L. T. Osborn, federal State explosives inspector, the Council agreed to request every County Council of Defense to nominate a man to serve as local explosives inspector, whose duties shall consist of enforcing the recently enacted federal regulations, restricting the manufacture and sale of all kinds of explosives.

Mr. Reynolds, of the shipping interest committee, reported that there are 3,500 car loads of corn in Indiana ready to move and a very small percentage of which will be moved because of the lack of transportation facilities. Mr. Reynolds said the situation pertaining to the manufacture of commercial alcohol from soft corn had become so involved as to make any prospect of relief to the farmers practically hopeless.

L. E. Northrup, State veterinarian, informed the Council that he had knowledge of the sale of sheep at the Indianapolis stockyards for $17.50 and their resale at Winchester for $21, which he declared an unreasonable proceeding. He asked that the Council investigate, which action the sheep committee was authorized to take.

Hays Buskirk, in behalf of N. E. Squibb, State director for the United States Public Service reserve, announced the success of the campaign for shipbuilders' registration in Indiana. Mr. Buskirk expressed confidence that the registration would far surpass the State's quota of 10,847. Figures reported from the larger centers show registration as follows: Indianapolis—1600; Evansville—895; Lake county—859; Elkhart and Goshen—565; South Bend—554; Terre Haute—501; Ft. Wayne—364.

Final action on the request of the Salvation army for endorsement in their canvass for Indiana's proportion of the one-million-dollar war fund, was deferred, pending the receipt of the expression of the Council of National Defense upon the merits of this enterprise. The representative of the army was present and urged that the Council act promptly, saying that the effort in Indiana is being embarrassed by the delay.

A committee consisting of Mr. Straus, Mr. Keach and Mr. Reynolds was named to confer with Governor James P. Goodrich and others interested, with a view to nominating a State labor director. Mr. Wampler's request that a special joint committee, which included Mr. Fox of the labor committee, Governor Goodrich and Mr. Wampler, be relieved of further responsibility in the matter, was complied with.

It was directed that the receipt of the following letter and an appropriate acceptance of the services tendered therein be acknowledged by the executive secretary of the Council with the further reference of the letter and the utilizing of such services, to the publicity committee:

New Albany, Ind., February 28, 1918.

Hon. Will H. Hays, Indianapolis, Ind., Chairman State Council of Defense:

Dear Sir—At a meeting of the district superintendents of the Indiana Conference which was held yesterday at Indianapolis, a motion was made and carried that we offer our services to the State Council for any publicity or organizing work that we can do in connection with our rounds over our districts, or at such time and in such manner as our duties will permit. The districts represented by these men cover the entire southern half of the State. Their names are as follows:

Rev. A. B. Storms, Indianapolis Y. M. C. A.

Rev. C. E. Bacon, Connersville

Rev. L. T. Freeland, Seymour

Rev. J. M. Walker, New Albany

Rev. E. I. Larue, Greensburg

Rev. W. H. Wylie, Bloomington

Rev. J. F. O'Havre, Vincennes

Rev. John Ward, Evansville.

Very sincerely,

JOHN M. WALKER.

The report of the finance committee, appearing elsewhere in this Bulletin, was read and approved. Upon motion of Mr. Hays, it was directed that the recently prepared report of the State Board of Accounts of the investigation of the financial records of the Council, with a report to be requested from the same source covering the period between December 31, 1917, and February 28, 1918, inclusive, be made a part of the permanent record of the Council, together with a report showing the distribution of the expenditures by departments, thus, far incurred by the Council; and that hereafter the reports of the finance committee be made in such form as is approved by the finance committee.

Mr. Straus, federal State director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, read a report of the enrollment, to date. This report appears in another place in this Bulletin. Mr. Straus also asked that County Councils of Defense be urged to get behind the movement to enroll 15,000 boys during the week of March 18-23, which the Council directed should be undertaken.

Asks Special Effort to Assist Reserve

Every High School, Library and Other Agency Enlisted to Enroll Boys for Productive Labor.

Wanted—15,000 Indiana Boys to Substitute for Men on Indiana Farms Next Spring and Summer.

This is the slogan for National Enrollment Week, March 18 to 23, during which a campaign will be conducted by the United States Government in every State in the Union, seeking the enrollment of two million boys in the United States Boys' Working Reserve, the majority of whom it is proposed shall pledge themselves to work on farms.

In enrolling these boys Federal State Director Isaac D. Straus has sent out a call to all of the county and city directors of the Reserve to secure the co-operation of—

County and City School Superintendents and High School Principals;

County Agricultural Agents and Vocational Agricultural Teachers;

Enrolling Officers, School Teachers, Rotarians, Y. M. C. A. Secretaries and Boy Scout Leaders;

Conservers of Food Products, and Librarians from all Public Libraries.

Miss Elizabeth C. Ronan, Assistant State Organizer, Public Library Commission, has pledged the active co-operation of the librarians all over the State, and E. E. Stacey, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., advises that in each association one of the secretaries will be designated as an enrolling officer. Every high school, every library and every Y. M. C. A. in the State of Indiana will be furnished with enrollment supplies, and local directors of the Reserve are urged to give local publicity to the fact that each of the above institutions will be an enrolling office.

According to applications for labor received by the Indiana State Council of Defense, Purdue University, and the various agricultural agents throughout the State, Indiana farmers have already applied for more than 10,000 boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one. Governor James P. Goodrich says too much emphasis cannot be placed on the urgent need for supplying this demand at once, for the slogan from now on must be "Increased food production," as Indiana must not fail in her duty on account of lack for sufficient labor.

The following report presented to the State Council was followed by action through which it is hoped to arouse some counties to a new and greater appreciation of their duty in connection with the Reserve:

ENROLLMENT IN THE U. S. BOYS' WORKING RESERVE TO MARCH 1, 1918.

Census of boys enrolled in Indiana Division, United States Boys' Working Reserve, based on duplicate cards received in office of Federal State Directors, Indianapolis:

BY COUNTIES.

County.	Total Number of Boys Enrolled:		Gain.
	Jan. 1, 1918.	March 1, 1918.
Adams	...	...	...
*Allen	121	121	...
Bartholomew	69	69	...
Benton	83	83	...
Blackford	28	28	...
Boone	40	78	38
Brown	...	...	...
Carroll	...	17	17
Cass	40	84	44
Clark	1	1	...
Clay	1	1	...
Clinton	31	35	4
Crawford	30	30	...
Daviess	58	58	...
Dearborn	74	75	1
Decatur	108	108	...
Dekalb	58	81	23
Delaware	180	180	...
Dubois	38	38	5
Elkhart	208	267	64
Fayette	31	31	...
Floyd	5	5	...
Fountain	141	150	9
Franklin	49	58	9
Fulton	13	13	...
Gibson	12	12	...
Grant	12	190	178
Greene	4	4	...
Hamilton	13	45	32
Hancock	...	...	...
Harrison	407	407	...
Hendricks	150	150	...
Henry	16	16	...
Howard	9	9	...
Huntington	69	84	15
Jackson	55	144	89
Jasper	96	100	4
Jay	218	218	...
Jefferson	46	47	1
Jennings	23	23	...
Johnson	71	71	...
Knox	83	121	38
Kosciusko	10	11	1
Lagrange	70	70	...
*Lake	221	222	1
Laporte	239	240	1
Lawrence	47	47	...
Madison	...	...	...
*Marion	...	...	...
Marshall	46	65	19
Martin	6	21	15
Miami	6	10	4
Monroe	...	...	...
Montgomery	133	141	8
Morgan	8	23	15
Newton	35	74	39
Noble	456	478	22
Ohio	7	7	...
Orange	17	37	20
Owen	...	...	...
Parke	...	1	1
Perry	...	...	...
Pike	10	14	4
Porter	38	38	...
Posey	30	74	44
Pulaski	5	21	16
Putnam	97	110	13

Randolph	...	1	5
Ripley	37	42	5
Rush	...	...	...
*St. Joseph	12	51	39
Scott	32	60	28
Shelby	86	88	2
Spencer	...	180	180
Starke	9	39	30
Steuben	77	93	16
Sullivan	708	728	20
Switzerland	6	23	17
Tiptecanoe	3	45	42
Tipton	52	104	52
Union	42	42	...
*Vanderburg	2	2	...
Vermilion	32	41	9
*Vigo	140	140	...
Wabash	11	11	...
Warren	3	11	8
Warrick	18	18	...
Washington	23	26	3
Wayne	...	12	12
Wells	6	49	43
White	18	20	2
Whitley	49	71	22

*Exclusive of enrollment in county seat.

†Exclusive of Gary.

BY CITIES.

Additional to number enrolled in respective counties:

Evansville	142	208	66
Ft. Wayne	130	215	85
Gary	98	98	...
Terre Haute	377	568	191
South Bend	8	8	...
Indianapolis	208	216	8

Grand total enrollment for entire State to March 1, 1918, 8,166.

Campaign and Battles of the Great War

Any of the books mentioned below may be borrowed for a short time from the Indiana State Library by any citizen of the State. Persons living in towns where there is a public library should apply through the librarian. Those living on rural routes or in towns having no public library may obtain blanks for registration from the State Library on request. The only expense is that of transportation.

Allen, G. H., et al.—"The Great War." Detailed history. Three volumes have so far been issued, bringing the account to January, 1915.

Belloc, H.—"Elements of the Great War." A strategic history. The second volume consists of a detailed examination of the Battle of the Marne.

Doyle, A. C.—"British Campaign in France and Flanders." Two volumes by the famous English writer, describing British participation in 1914 and 1915. A volume covering 1916 is in preparation.

Gibbs, P.—"The Battle of the Somme." The best description of this great battle, in which the tanks appeared for the first time.

Palmer, F.—"My Year of the Great War."

Palmer, F.—"My Second Year of the Great War." Not formal histories, but valuable as history because written by an eye-witness. The second volume includes the great allied operations on the Somme.

Reynolds, F. J., et al.—"Story of the Great War." Detailed history of the war. Six volumes have so far been issued.

Souza, C. De.—"Germany in Defeat." A strategic history of the war. Three volumes have so far appeared, bringing the history to the great battle of Verdun.

Washburn, S.—"Field Notes from the Russian Front."

Washburn, S.—"The Russian Campaign, April to August, 1915."

Washburn, S.—"The Russian Offensive, 1916." These three volumes give the story of the Russian part in the war up to September 1, 1916.

Every penny increase in the retail price of sugar costs American consumers $18,000,000.

It is a patriotic duty to save fats by substituting. Use corn oil, cottonseed oil and other vegetable fats for cooking; use drippings.

"The man who does not and can not save money can not and will not do anything else worth while."—Andrew Carnegie.

Governor Supports Campaign for Silos

As a Farmer Chief Executive of Indiana Recognizes and Encourages Movement to Increase Stock.

Governor Goodrich, in a letter to the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, commends the various activities of the Food Committee and especially indorses the movement to encourage the placing of more silos on Indiana farms. The silo campaign in Indiana, under the direction of the Food Production and Conservation Committee, has attracted nation-wide interest.

The silo is now recognized as a war-time institution. The call of the Government to the farmer is for increased production and conservation. The silo aids the farmer in an effective way to meet this requirement.

The Governor's letter follows:

"Hon. Ralph W. Moss, Chairman Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Dear Sir—I note with a great deal of interest the work of the Committee on Food Production and Conservation. The various activities promoted among the farmers of the State have meant much in stimulating agriculture. While your committee has been active the past year, it is more important that work be taken up to stimulate our people to greater efforts this year. It is evident that if the war is to be brought to an early and successful conclusion our people must produce and conserve a larger supply of foodstuffs for the allied nations of Europe and our soldiers on the battle front.

"At this time I wish to especially emphasize the placing of more silos on Indiana farms. The value and importance of the silo has been especially emphasized this past winter as a result of the soft corn and hay shortage. It is the unanimous opinion of our farmers that if there had been silos in which to utilize a large part of the corn crop not only would they have made more money, but they would have been able to meet in a larger way the demands of the Government for foodstuffs.

"A large acreage of meadows was plowed up last year for corn. The high price of grass and clover seed will limit the acreage of land to be seeded this year. The result of all this is that there will be a hay shortage this year, and the next year. The one big opportunity to meet this shortage lies in the use of more silos.

"As a farmer I wish to commend this work to your committee. I have silos on my farm and find that they are the most important factor in the successful and economical production of live stock.

"Any efforts that are made to place silos on Indiana farms are in line with good farming, and the Government's call for an increased food supply.

"Very truly yours,

"JAMES P. GOODRICH,
"Governor of Indiana."

SEED POTATOES IMPORTANT.

Care in the selection and purchase of potato seed is necessary this year because of the prevalence of various diseases on this seed, said Prof. Laurenz Greene, of Purdue University, in a letter to the Indiana Committee on Production and Conservation. The recently completed seed stocks and labor survey of Indiana revealed vast quantities of potato seed on hand in nearly every county, but a special survey late last fall showed much of this was infected with diseases which will make big inroads on production this year.

Nearly 40,000 bushels of good seed were listed in Allen, Clark, Delaware, Elkhart, Laporte, Porter, St. Joseph, Steuben, Floyd, Gibson and Harrison counties. It will be seen that most of this seed is in the extreme northern or southern ends of the State. The survey also showed that much of the seed in the central part of Indiana was hit heavily by disease and should not be used as seed.

The Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue University has published a leaflet listing the name and address of farmers and seed men in these counties having registered seed potatoes for sale, giving the variety and number of bushels. The price ranges from $1.50 to $2 per bushel.

"POTATO PENS" NO GOOD.

The far-famed "potato pens," some of which were built in nearly every town or city of Indiana last year, scarcely returned the seed put into them, investigations by the horticultural department of Purdue University show. Indiana gardeners are warned against trying the plan. The plan to grow potatoes by the skyscraper method and raise enough in a box eight feet wide, eight feet long and eight feet high to feed the family all winter was shot higher than a kite by investigations of the results obtained from scores of these box potato gardens.

Word from C. C. Osborne, city garden supervisor of Indianapolis, last year said that of the forty "pens" tried in Indianapolis not one succeeded so far as he could learn.

FARM MACHINERY WEEK.

Farmers throughout the State have shown their willingness to observe "Farm Machinery and Repair Week." County agricultural agents report that as a result this week nearly every farmer in their counties are busy repairing their implements. Orders for repairs and new implements will be placed immediately, if the men follow the wishes of the government, the state and county councils of defense.

The general scarcity of materials to go into farm machinery and transportation delays due to the car shortage will cause serious delays in movement of farm machinery along with other commodities. It is to get in orders early and avoid these delays at a costly date that this week was set aside nationally as a period for farmers to inspect their implements, order repairs or new machines as they need them.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

USING CORN MEAL IN NEW WAYS.

"Indiana corn feeds the world," is a saying familiar to every Hoosier. Too often it is interpreted as referring entirely to stock feed. Corn is equally as valuable as a human food, and during the present shortage of wheat flour should be substituted whenever possible.

Corn compares favorably with the other cereals in food value; it contains a trifle less protein (tissue-building material), about the same amount of starch, and a little more fat. As it is milled at the present time with the germ removed its keeping qualities are quite equal to wheat.

Like other cereals, corn is richest in starch and should, in order to supply all the needs of the system, be combined with protein foods and those rich in mineral matter, such as fruit and succulent vegetables. Mush and milk is a better combination than mush and syrup or mush and butter, for corn syrups and butter are heat-producing substances, while milk is a tissue-building food. For this same reason in making a hot dish for luncheon or supper corn and some protein food like eggs, milk or cheese should be combined so that the body requirements may be more nearly satisfied.

While corn meal contains almost as much protein as wheat, this protein has not the chemical composition that makes it possible to produce a light, porous bread such as is made from wheat flour. If used for light breads, therefore, it must be combined with wheat or rye flour in order to obtain the desired texture. Whether white or yellow corn meal is used is a matter of personal taste, for though they vary somewhat in flavor, they are practically the same in nutritive value.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.:

Polenta:

- 1 cup corn meal.
- 3 cups water.
- 1½ cups grated cheese.
- 1 cup tomato juice.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- 3 tablespoons chopped onion.
- Salt and pepper.

Make a mush of the corn meal and water, cook the remaining ingredients except the cheese until onion is done. Mix the mush, cheese and tomato mixture together and pour into baking dish and bake until cheese is melted.

Cheese Pudding:

- 1 quart boiling water.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- ½ cup milk.
- ½ pound cheese.
- ½ pound yellow corn meal.

Into the boiling water (salted) pour the corn meal slowly, stirring constantly, and allow to boil 10 minutes; then add most of the cheese and cook 10 minutes more, or until the cheese is melted. Add ½ cup of milk and cook a few minutes. Pour into greased baking dish. Brown in oven. This dish is improved by grating a little hard cheese over the top before it is baked. This pudding can be cut into slices when cold and sautéed. This serves from four to six people.

Corn Meal Fish Balls:

- 2 cups cold corn meal mush.
- 1 cup shredded codfish.
- 1 egg.
- 1 tablespoon butter.

Pick over the codfish and soak it to remove salt, if necessary. Combine the ingredients and drop by spoonfuls into hot fat. Drain on porous paper. These codfish balls compare very favorably in taste with those made with potato and are prepared more easily and quickly. The mush must be as dry as possible. This makes 12 fish balls.

Chicken and Corn Meal Croquettes:

- 1 cup corn meal mush.
- 1 cup chopped chicken.
- Onion juice.
- 1 egg.
- Salt and pepper.

Combine the ingredients and drop by spoonfuls into hot fat. Corn meal may be combined very satisfactorily with other kinds of cold meat to make croquettes. In general, corn meal croquettes need not be egged and crumbed like ordinary croquettes, for the hardening of the corn meal on the surface of the mixture forms the necessary crust. This serves four people.

Boiled Corn Meal and Apple Dumpling:

- 6 tart apples.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1 cup corn meal.
- Boiling water.

Pour boiling water over the corn meal, to which the salt has been added, using enough water to make a thick paste; stir thoroughly; with the hands flatten out the paste until it is about ½ inch thick and wrap it around the apples, which have been pared and cored and halved. Inclose in a pudding cloth and cook in boiling salted water for 1½ hours. If preferred the pudding may be put in a bowl, covered with a plate and steamed. Cream or any pudding sauce may be served with these. This serves six people.

Sentiments From Labor.

(American Alliance for Labor and Democracy.)

The copperhead is not a pleasant thing.

The copperhead is a copper-colored, poisonous snake.

It is why the pro-German agitator has come to be called a copperhead.

And that, too, is why those who are not German, but who carry the message of German junkerdom, so often find themselves called by the same name.

He who does the work of the enemy cannot escape the consequences.

And the copperhead is not a pleasant thing.

Our whole strength will be put into this war of emancipation from the threat and attempted mastery of selfish groups of autocratic rulers.—PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MARCH 15, 1918

Number 31

Council Considers Important Matters

Labor Director, War Time Expenditures,
Silo Campaign, and Other Subjects
Before Meeting.

A disagreement was reported to the regular meeting of the State Council of Defense March 12 by a committee composed of Isaac D. Straus, A. E. Reynolds and James L. Keach, appointed at the previous meeting to confer with Governor James P. Goodrich on the appointment of a labor director for Indiana. Mr. Straus and Mr. Reynolds presented a majority report in which it was asked that the committee be dissolved and a new committee appointed to nominate a man before the next meeting, one member of the committee to be Arthur W. Brady, acting chairman. The report was adopted.

Following a protest by eight citizens of Cambridge City against the construction of a sewage system in that city at a cost of $31,500, the council reiterated its policy opposing unnecessary construction work during the war by the passage of the following resolution, presented by Evans Woolen:

"That the attention of the public be called to the recent statement by the Secretary of the Treasury to the effect that building operations should be determined by reference to the national welfare rather than to the comfort and convenience of citizens, and

"That it is the sense of this council that there is increasing need of the most rigid observance of the recommendation by the Council of National Defense that no construction or other enterprise be undertaken unless justified by the test: Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war?"

George Buck, principal of Shortridge High School of Indianapolis, appeared before the council with the suggestion that professional men be enlisted in a reserve similar to the United States Boys' Working Reserve to work on farms during the summer months and aid in solving the labor shortage problem. He pointed to the fact that it is essential that the farmers raise at least a 100 per cent. crop and, if possible, a larger one this summer, and at the same time declared that the usefulness of professional men has not been recognized. The matter was referred to Isaac D. Straus, federal state director of the reserve.

The following resolution commending to the high schools and colleges of the State the early release of boys from school with as little loss of credit as possible in order that they may work on farms was introduced by Dr. A. B. Storms and passed:

"Resolved, That in view of the shortage of labor and the food emergency that exists incident to the war we commend to the colleges and normal schools and high schools of the State of Indiana the policy of excusing students at an early date with as little loss of credit as possible whenever students give satisfactory assurances that they are to engage immediately in productive industry, especially in agriculture."

Dr. George L. Mackintosh, president of Wabash College, presented a resolution asking that Horace Ellis, state superintendent of public instruction, call a meeting of the State Board of Education, the Educational Section of the State Council of Defense and university, college and normal school presidents of the State for the purpose of fixing the time and putting into effect conditions under which students may be released from school to engage in emergency agricultural work. The resolution was passed as follows:

"According to the final returns of the farm labor survey conducted under the direction of Purdue University, through county agricultural agents, representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, Indiana State and county councils of defense, the State Food Production Committee, Seed Stocks Committee, Indiana farmers show a need for 14,902 boys and young men for full time hands. These figures do not indicate the additional demand for harvest labor.

"The enrollment in the Boys' Working Reserve to date is 8,907, but of this number hardly more than 4,000 are available to supply this deficiency in farm labor, inasmuch as a large number of the boys who have enrolled already work on farms and therefore cannot be considered as surplus labor with which to meet this emergency. Also a large number of boys who have enrolled have already found productive employment in factories and elsewhere, and, therefore, few of them are available.

"This situation reflects no discredit on the State office of the Reserve for the very good reason that the propaganda which has been spread over the State during the past eight months will more than likely bear fruit on a large scale during National Enrollment week, March 18-23. It is quite likely that during this week the enrollment will jump to at least 15,000 boys, of whom probably 10,000 will be available for farm work.

"Even if this number of boys are available for farm work, it is apparent that the supply will still be unequal for the demand. Furthermore, it appears that the majority of these boys attend school and if they are to be available for farm work when and where needed, some modification of the school program will have to be necessarily made in order to meet the emergency. If boys are to be released from high schools and colleges before the end of the term to engage in agricultural work it is highly desirable that some uniform practice be adopted throughout the State, both with respect to the release of the boys and the granting of school credits, if it is found desirable to recognize the educational value of farm work.

"In view of these facts, it is self-evident that an emergency in farm labor supply in Indiana now exists. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That Dr. Horace Ellis, chairman of the Educational Section of the State Council of Defense, be requested to call a joint emergency meeting as soon as possible, preferably on Friday, March 15, to which should be invited all members of the State Board of Education, all members of the Educational Section of the State Council of Defense and all presidents of Indiana universities, colleges and normal schools, with the recommendation that this body of educators formulate and put in effect the conditions under which students may be released from school in order to engage in this emergency agricultural work."

A statement was made to the council by William M. Jones of Fairmount, a member of the State Board of Agriculture and of the Sheep Distribution Association, to the effect no sheep had been purchased or sold by the association, its purpose being only to bring buyers and sellers together. The statement was the result of a report at the previous meeting alleging profiteering in sheep sales at Indianapolis to Winchester buyers. Mr. Jones stated that the organization had nothing whatever to do with the matter referred to.

The following resolution, presented by a committee composed of A. E. Reynolds, James L. Keach and G. I. Christie, recommending that the farmers of Indiana largely increase the number of silos in the State, was passed by the council:

(Continued on Page 3.)

Farmers Join Drive For Third Bond Sale

Resolutions Pledge Support of Indiana Producers to Federal Government With Their Cash.

In answer to a call from Governor James P. Goodrich and G. I. Christie, director of the Committee on Food Production and Conservation of the Indiana State Council of Defense, representatives of the Indiana agricultural organizations met in conference in the State House March 12. "In to Win!" was the slogan of the workers.

Ralph W. Moss presided. He declared that the farmers in the two previous Liberty Loan campaigns had taken a larger per cent. of the bonds than any other class of people.

"A man's life is worth nothing except as it is dedicated to the nation and the winning of the war. And a man's money is worth nothing except for the same purpose. In considering the Liberty Loan it is not a question of the terms the Government offers. Whatever the nation needs the nation must get."

Governor Goodrich declared the State's honor is at stake, and the agricultural people of Indiana are going to have to bear the burden of this loan. "Before war was declared Indiana had started a campaign for increased production and conservation of food, and the State was organized for that work. Before the draft law was enacted Indiana had organized its draft machinery, and in less than twenty-four hours after the bill was passed we notified Washington that we were ready. Such has been the record of Indiana since the war began. All of this was not by accident, but it was because Indiana men were willing to give their services for the work.

"Great credit is due to Purdue University, Professor G. I. Christie, Dr. H. E. Barnard and to Will H. Hays and the State Council of Defense for the success of Indiana in carrying on this war work and the mobilization of the resources of the State. The main work of the war is not in the trenches. It lies in the mobilization of our vast resources with which to support those brave boys who go to the front."

W. E. Stone, president of Purdue University, spoke on the sacrifices that the people will be called on to make before the war is won. He said, "Let Indiana adopt the slogan, 'Every home with a Liberty Bond.'"

John Isenbarger, president of the State Board of Agriculture, said, "The slogan, 'Food will win the war,' means that the farmers will win the war, because the farmers produce the food."

The operation of the Liberty Loan Speakers' Bureau was explained by Jesse E. Eschbach, chairman of that bureau. He said the farmers will have to bear the burden of the third loan. Mr. Eschbach has a list of seventy-five speakers who are giving their time to the work while the campaign is in progress.

Arthur W. Brady, acting chairman of the State Council of Defense, discussed the financing of the war. Mr. Brady said, "The Government can raise money in only two ways. It can demand or request; it can tax or borrow. In either case the money must come."

George Barnard of Newcastle, Liberty Loan chairman for Henry county, said that one great requirement for success was that the message of the conflict and the imminence of the peril should be carried directly to the farmers, and that they must be told that the money asked for by the Government must come. "A man is either a patriot or

(Continued on page 4.)

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—W. Paul Marsh, Chairman of a Committee of the County Council of Defense, has completed a list of the names of the Adams county boys now serving in the army and navy. The list will be published and distributed to the families of the boys and to the public libraries. It will be reprinted, corrected and revised as developments warrant, becoming in time an official roster of Adams county's contribution to the great war.

An active campaign against sheep-killing dogs is being conducted here in the interest of food and wool conservation. The dogs cost farmers of the county $1,541.25 in 1917, according to an estimate made by Auditor John Masure. Several clubs as well as individuals have taken upon themselves responsibility of supporting war orphans in France. Practically every child in the Decatur schools is a member of the Junior Red Cross. A number of the members of the Senior Red Cross have been transferred to the junior organization.

Allen County.—In order to solve the constantly recurring problems incident to an impending sugar famine, County Food Administrator George M. Haffner has issued five regulations, the observance of which, he says, is essential if Allen county is not to be put on sugar-less diet:

It is illegal to advertise sugar.

It is illegal to compel patrons to buy any other food or article in order to secure sugar.

It is unfair to sell sugar to strangers or new trade without identification or without securing their signature and address for each sale.

It is unwise to sell granulated sugar to anybody without ascertaining the exact number of persons in the household and allowing three-fourths of a pound per week for each person as a basis and limit of five pounds at a time.

A special permit is hereby granted to any dealer to offer and to sell patrons pound per pound of brown sugar with each pound of granulated, powdered or four X sugar. This is at the option of the dealer when shortage necessitates such action.

Five hundred boys employed at the General Electric Company plant at Ft. Wayne have enrolled in the United States Boys' Working Reserve. A large number also have enrolled at the S. F. Bower plant. More than two hundred boys also have enrolled at the Ft. Wayne high school, bringing the county's enrollment far above its quota. Hotel and restaurant keepers of Ft. Wayne have formed an organization for the purpose of cutting down the use of flour to a minimum.

Bartholomew County.—Nearly five hundred war savings certificates and more than four hundred thrift stamps have been purchased by the 316 pupils of the Jefferson school at Columbus.

Cass County.—A contributor to the Royal Center Record says: "I attended the Council of Defense meeting at the main court room, Logansport, last Friday. One thing is certain—the Council is going to know 'where you are at' before many days. The man that is holding wheat for higher prices; hiding potatoes because he thinks he should have a big price; hoarding flour and sugar; refusing to buy bonds, help the charities, and do other absolutely necessary things at this time, is going to be placed exactly where he belongs—and may lose his cherished hoardings. Right here I want to say that the public is going to get wised up on a lot of things. The thing for everyone to do is to stand square on the dot with the government—and his neighbor."

The first women's Liberty Guard company is being organized in Logansport. The enrollment will be at least fifty members. The company expects to act as an auxiliary to the Cass County Liberty Guard companies and expects to learn military drill and Red Cross work. The county is preparing to collect a "war chest," a central fund for the purpose of filling the county's quotas in the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other campaigns. Every citizen is expected to contribute to the fund according to his means. In this manner he can make all of his contributions at the same time and will leave their apportionment to a central committee. Five hundred persons have volunteered their services, each to canvass a city block for information upon which will be the subscriptions, which will be taken at a later date.

Clinton County.—Clinton county farmers have organized to co-operate with the food administration committee to secure and increase food production for 1918. They have elected officers as follows: President, Chas. S. Ashbaugh; vice-president, Jos. Heavilon; secretary, Chas. S. Moore. Township chairmen who were elected at the meeting are: Center, Wm. Kramer, Jr.; Jackson, D. L. Mabbitt; Kirklin, John Dunn; Owen, J. C. Welda; Johnson, James Gregg; Warren, T. E. Young; Washington, Frank Anderson; Union, John S. Wharry; Perry, John Stewart; Ross, Wm. Rose; Forest, Clint Davis; Sugar Creek, Lincoln Cox; Madison, Joseph Steckel; Michigan, Wm. Derrick. The county and township officers who were chosen to head the new organization will draft a constitution and by-laws for the association and to make plans for immediate work throughout the county.

Decatur County.—Two men and one woman have been named for each township of Decatur county, whose duty it shall be to organize a township Council of Defense. The meetings will follow the suggestions laid down by the State and National Councils of Defense and they expect to have the county organization complete without delay. Following are the township assignments: Fugit—Thomas Hamilton, W. J. Kincaid and Miss Nell Fee. Saltcreek—John A. Meyer, Henry Ravar and Mrs. H. S. McKee. Clinton—Horace McDonald, Elmer Setton and Mrs. Frank Bird. Adams—Charles McKee, L. E. Lines and Miss Ethel Shelhorn. Clay—C. S. Wright, Earl Gartin and Miss Lulu Smiley. Jackson—Ed. Thurston, Ed. Fraley and Mrs. Steuben Pleak. Marion—Benjamin Feldman, Mrs. J. C. Glass and Charles Stevenson. Sandcreek—Tracy McCorkle, Claud Tyner and Mrs. J. A. Welsh. Washington—Baron McLaughlin. Pleasant Doies and Mrs. Will McCoy.

Dekalb County.—The County Council of Defense has made a special appeal to the sheriff, all constables and his deputies in the county to kill at sight all stray dogs. In the event that this appeal fails to remove the menace to the sheep industry, the Council expects to set aside a day for a special drive against all homeless dogs in line with the recommendations of the State and National Councils of Defense. In carrying out the instructions of the State Council of Defense the following township organizations have been perfected: Wilmington—Attorney Endicott, chairman; Cal. Beard, C. C. Cook, Charles Mitzfeld, S. O. DeWitt, F. W. Nimmons and Mrs. F. L. Kiplinger. Union—Dr. J. E. Graham, chairman; Artie Brandon, secretary; Thomas Ferguson, John W. Brown, H. W. Timbrook, E. O. Little and Mrs. Charles Sidle. Grant—D. L. Leas, chairman; Mrs. Leo Yeagley, secretary; Dr. W. R. Newcomer, Orin Goodrich and Bert Bachtel. Fairfield—J. B. Childs, chairman; John Mertz, Fred Miller, Mrs. Polly Miser and Emory Johnson. Stafford—Ell Mitzfeld, chairman; A. B. Deal, Homer L. Castebeer, C. S. Arford and Mrs. C. H. Grube. Jackson—Michael Shouder, chairman; Philip Carper, secretary; George M. Dittmar, Noah Gerig and Mrs. Thomas Dillard. Richland—David Shook, chairman; P. A. Foote, Howard Holman, Edwin Gushwa and Miss Minnie Finch.

Dubois County.—Mrs. S. A. Cooper of Jasper has secured the following volunteers for the Fourteen-Minute speakers: Miss Norma Millburn, Miss Anna Hunter, Mrs. H. C. Knapp, Mrs. J. L. Bretz, Mrs. W. A. Wilson, Mrs. E. A. Sturm, Mrs. E. G. Lukemier, Mrs. Bomar Traylor, Mrs. H. M. Keen, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mrs. L. G. Lukemier, Miss Genevieve Williams. The following topics are expected to be brought to the attention of our citizens at meetings and assemblies through the coming months: Registration, Food Production, Next Liberty Loan, Child Welfare, Home and Foreign Relief, Maintaining Existing Social Agencies, Educational Propaganda, Woman's Industry, Red Cross Activities, Home Economics, Health and Recreation, and Publicity.

Elaborate exercises accompanied the destruction of pages in text-books bearing the poem, "Kaiserblumen," on the part of the pupils of the Central school at Alexandria. Following an address to the pupils by H. M. Gullett, principal of the school, on "The Horrors Committed Against Children of Europe by the Kaiser and His Hunnish Hordes," the children voted unanimously that the pages should be torn from their books. Following the vote the pupils marched to the basement of the school building and sang "The Star-spangled Banner" while the pages were being burned in the furnace. Red, white and blue pages bearing the oath of allegiance were substituted for the pages torn from the books.

Elkhart County.—Thrift stamps were recently given as prizes to winners in the Elkhart county high school oratorical contest. A "patriotic fund" is being collected throughout the county to cover the county's quota in Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other campaigns for war funds. Window cards such as those used by the Red Cross and the Food Administration are given each person subscribing to the fund.

Fayette County.—The teaching of German language has been discontinued in the public schools of Connersville. The action was taken after a unanimous vote of the board of trustees. A newspaper account of the action says, "Speaks out the tongue which Goethe graced and the Kaiser disgraced." The control of war gardens in Connersville has been put into the hands of three members of the town council.

Floyd County.—Neighborhood food conservation meetings are being held regularly in the east end of New Albany. The meetings are neighborhood affairs, informal, and have for their object the education of women along the lines necessary to proper conformity to food regulations. Mrs. Fred Kurfess, Chairman of the Woman's Section of the County Council of Defense, and Mrs. Harry Wolf were speakers at the meeting. The program was followed by general discussion, exchange of recipes and suggestions as how best to save wheat and conserve food generally. The County Council of Defense, in which Charles D. Kelso is chairman, has issued a notice and warning against the unlawful display of the Red Cross sign and any insignia thereof. The warning is directed to the following statute making such an offense punishable by a fine of $1 to $500 and imprisonment for a term of one year. The Council has determined that only bona fide members of the Red Cross should be permitted to display the insignia. Saturday, April 6, the anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany and the opening of the campaign for the third Liberty loan will be made memorable by a special demonstration in New Albany. A feature of this demonstration will be a street parade in which every civic, religious and fraternal organization, business and manufacturing enterprise will be expected and asked to participate. The committees have been named by the County Council to have charge of the enterprise.

Fountain County.—At a meeting of the president and leaders of every thrashing ring in the oats-growing section of this county a new method for drying oats was successfully tried. The method is similar to the drying method formerly used but does away with the use of a lot of water in drying the oats. Those present at the meeting pledged to go immediately and show farmers and others how to dry their oats by the new method to save them from smut.

Franklin County.—The County Council of Defense in this county has been enlarged from seven to eleven members in order more effectively to cover the entire county. The enlarged membership is as follows: Louis Federmann, chairman; J. C. Shirk, vice-chairman; Mrs. I. M. Bridgman, secretary; George E. Mullin, treasurer; Will M. Baker, John Brockman, William Otto, Mrs. I. N. McCarty, Cecil C. Tague, W. H. Senour and W. D. Brad. Plans were laid to form organizations in each township to carry on the various lines of war work. These various lines will be under the direction of some member of the County Council of Defense.

Greene County.—Every school teacher in the county has received a copy of the following letter:

Dear Teacher—Please do not let a day go by without talking Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps to your boys and girls. Show them that you are dead in earnest by getting a Thrift Card of your own and frequently adding another stamp. Get these stamps and cards from your postoffice or rural carrier.

And now we are approaching the season of big dinners—the last-day dinners. If such dinners have to be, if they can't possibly be dispensed with, what an opportunity for a war speech by the teachers! With a table before you heaped high with the best of good things you ought to be inspired then and there to plead the cause of economy and conservation as never before. Plead for your country's sake. Do you wish to do less than your part? I have faith to believe that you will do your whole duty.

THE WAR MUST BE WON. WALTER T. BROWN.

Hendricks County.—The Hendricks County Red Cross has a record that can hardly be equaled by any other county in the State. More than 20,000 garments and articles of hospital supply have been made by the organization since its formation last May. The work is in charge of Mrs. Thomas B. Barker, president of the Danville Woman's Department Club.

Henry County.—Mayor George A. Elliott has directed the Newcastle police department to enforce the closing order against bakeries, fruit shops, groceries and other distributing agencies. The action conforms with the recommendation of Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator, as a means of conserving man power.

Henry county has been divided into twenty-one units for the administration of war garden affairs. In each unit a resident committee which will direct the work in that unit has been formed. Each committee will receive applications for garden space in its district and will endeavor to supply this ground.

Howard County.—Any soldier who dies on the field of battle or at the army camps and whose body is brought home to Howard county for burial will be given a military funeral by the Liberty Guards, according to an announcement by Captain John B. Tate. A campaign for $8,000 for the Kokomo Red Cross is being conducted. The plan is to permit subscribers to pay one-fourth of their subscriptions each month, thus insuring a sum of $2,000 each month for four months. Mrs. A. H. Hunt is chairman of the Red Cross organization.

Jasper County.—The entire territory covered by the Benton Telephone Association composed of thirty-three companies, was supplied with farm labor last year through an employment bureau conducted by the association, according to W. L. Bott, the president.

Knox County.—Edwardsport has just completed a Liberty Guard company by electing the following officers: Captain, Joseph W. Thornblouse; first lieutenant, Herbert N. Strange; second lieutenant, Crim O'Brien. Edwardsport also has a squad of high school boys drilling under the direction of Mr. O'Brien. This community is wide-awake to the war situation.

The Vincennes Rotary Club has pledged $1,000 toward paying the expenses of a farm school for members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve. One vacant lot will be given each family in Vincennes this summer for gardening purposes by the city gardening association. A deposit of $1 will be required of each person obtaining a lot to pay partially for the plowing, all of which will be done by the association.

Lagrange County.—Fifty girls of the Dima high school and of the seventh and eighth grades of the grade school have been organized into a club for war work, which will include gardening, poultry raising and sewing. Ruth Bradshaw, domestic science instructor, has charge of the club and expects to spend all her time this summer in the work.

Lake County.—Fifty Gary boys have enrolled and are preparing to work during the summer on the nursery farm of D. Hill, in Illinois. The boys are all members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve and were enrolled by R. M. Ladd, who is making arrangements for the boys' housing, feeding, etc. Patriotic boys and girls are distributing the 25,000 food cards for the county food administrator, C. A. Westburg, East Chicago.

Mr. Westburg has named Frank Orurke his deputy and R. G. Perry deputy for Gary.

Laporte County.—One hundred per cent. thrift cards have been placed in a number of store windows of Laporte. The cards are given to proprietors of stores when every one of their employees become thrift stamp owners.

Marshall County.—George Vinall, county food administrator, has found it necessary to issue flour and sugar cards in order to insure conservation. When each purchase is made the customer presents his card to the retailer and the amount purchased is entered on the card with ink or indelible pencil. No purchases of sugar or flour can be made unless cards are presented....The County Council of Defense at a recent meeting planned a county-wide organization for the collection of relief funds. An organization for this purpose was formed last fall in Center township, but it has not yet completed its work. This plan of organization is now to be extended to the whole county. A committee has been appointed for the purpose of holding organization meetings in each township. Committees will be appointed to canvass the various districts and make a complete list of persons who are able to give toward war relief. As soon as these lists are turned in to the chairman the financial status and dependencies of prospective contributors will be determined as nearly as possible and the amounts that each should give will be decided upon.

Montgomery County.—William Endicott, Federal Food Administrator, has arranged township meetings on the war conference plan for the purpose of educating people to the meaning and significance of the federal food regulations. He reports "these meetings have done a lot of good." Mr. Endicott also reports an average reduction of from 10 to 12 per cent. in retail prices due to readjustments in merchandizing. He says business men are greatly pleased with the improved conditions and would not return to their old practices.

Posey County.—New Harmony, Ind., has furnished a field secretary in Junior Red Cross work. Miss Caroline Creese Pelham has been traveling for three months as the personal representative of Mrs. E. R. Kroeger, director of junior membership in the southwestern division, with headquarters at St. Louis, serving without pay. The work is generally to confer with chapter school committees and talk with those especially interested in Junior Red Cross. The itinerary included western and northern Texas, the entire State of Arkansas and some larger cities in Missouri and Kansas. All these towns and cities are doing active Red Cross work, some with as many departments as headquarters. A Red Cross flag is shown in almost every window throughout the Southwest.

Rush County.—An executive committee for war activity, consisting of T. M. Green, chairman of the County Council of Defense; E. B. Thomas, chairman of the Red Cross; M. F. Lovett, food administrator; Samuel L. Traube, fuel administrator, and Mrs. A. L. Stewart, woman member of the County Council of Defense, will have general supervision of such matters of this county. They are giving special attention at this time to the third Liberty loan drive and the registration of women.

St. Joseph County.—Fourteen out of nineteen children attending the Olive township district school are of foreign parentage, but there is no lack of "all wool and a yard wide" Americanism in the school. On the contrary, the district is proud of its 100 per cent. record for purchasing War Savings and Thrift Stamps. William Lakeways is the teacher.

Sullivan County.—Mrs. Anna Erslinger has succeeded Mrs. Flossie Steele as secretary of the County Council of Defense. Mrs. Steele resigned after months of faithful service. Mrs. Erslinger was named by Judge W. H. Bridgwell and she will be at the Council's headquarters in the Davis Hotel block. A series of war conferences will be held in this county beginning Sunday, March 17. It is proposed to include every township and every school district in the drive for organization.

"Aunt Sallie" Asbury of Farmersburg, aged ninety-two, holds the championship for knitting socks for the Red Cross, having knit forty pairs since September 14, besides ten pairs of wristlets. Her daughter, Mrs. Lillie Kling, has knit forty-one pairs of socks and twenty-eight pairs of wristlets. "Aunt Sarah" Gaskins has knit twenty-eight pairs of socks, eight pairs of kneelets and ten pairs of wristlets.

Tippecanoe County.—Word has been received by the Red Cross authorities of Tippecanoe county that sixteen boxes of Red Cross supplies sent by the Tippecanoe county chapter have been received at the Red Cross warehouses in France. A recent shipment of completed work contained 34,747 pieces.

Vanderburg County.—Headquarters for township Council of Defense, whose activities will be the object of a special section of the Vanderburg County Council of Defense, have been established in the offices of the County Council. The County Council also expects to make a special provision for a place in the organization for all men who have been exempted from the military draft....Hotel, restaurant, cafeteria, lunch room and public eating house proprietors have agreed to the following regulations, under the direction of Harold Van Orman, deputy food administrator:

Not more than two ounces of wheat, corn, rye, bran or other cereal flour bread or muffins may be served to any one person at one meal.

No pies may be served on wheatless days.

No meat may be served between 6 a. m. and 10 a. m. every day.

Each noonday meal may be observed as the one wheatless meal a day.

No wheat flour products may be served on either Mondays or Wednesdays.

No frosted sugar cakes may be served at any time, and restrictions may be placed upon the use of sugar in the manufacturing of goods.

Sugar must be used moderately in coffee, cereals, fruits and tea at the tables.

Victory bread may be served at all meals that are not entirely wheatless.

Henry Reisenberg of Indianapolis is organizing in Evansville a branch of a society of the Friends of German Democracy.

Vermillion County.—Nellie M. Waite, secretary of the County Council of Defense, has compiled the names of all organizations, including their officers, who fail to comply with the request of the federal food administrator that all clubs, fraternal orders, societies and organizations refrain from serving refreshments, except where such refreshment replaces a regular meal. The various branches of the County Council are assisting in the compilation, which is intended to prevent unnecessary food waste.

Vigo County.—Voorhees school of Terre Haute has taken out a membership in the Vigo County War Fund Association. Aid from home cannot be given the pupils in paying the dues for the fund. They must earn the money or save it. For example, whenever a pupil attends a picture show he must lay aside a penny for the war fund.

Wabash County.—The recent drive for membership in the Wabash County Council of Defense realized more than 1,500 names in Noble township alone. Chairman Milo Meredith and his co-workers are very well pleased with the showing and they expect similar responses from the other townships of the county.

Warren County.—Madina township recently staged a "Red Cross Sale." Articles diverted from private sale were sold at a 6 per cent. commission and other articles given for the purpose of holding the Red Cross were auctioned by three men and two women, the sale ranging from a single egg to a $200 farm horse. The result was a very substantial contribution to the Red Cross fund.

Wayne County.—Miss Mabel Culbertson, secretary of the Woman's Section of the Wayne County Council of Defense, has requested the mayor and board of works to replace the monkeys in the Glen Miller Park zoo, recently destroyed by fire, with Belgian hares. She claims the cost of monkeys and their keep at this time are sufficient objections to their purchase, and the hares will be valuable for food. Miss Culbertson would also have the city turn the spacious park into a pasture for sheep and goats, and would have the greenhouses devoted to the production of cabbage, tomatoes and other vegetables of more practical value than flowers....Cambridge City barbers have entered into an agreement to close their shops every Thursday forenoon in order that they may devote one-half day to the cultivation of war gardens....As opposed to the generally accepted idea of confirmed pacifism among Quakers, the County Council of Defense points to the record of the trustees of Earlham College in their determination to provide an adequate gymnasium in the belief that it is a duty of the institution to contribute to "that type of leadership which is necessary if the great work in which our country is engaged is to be brought to a successful issue." The words of President Edwards in this connection are deemed significant. "Wellington said, 'The battle of Waterloo was won on the cricket fields of England.'"

Wells County.—Officers of the law in Wells county have been instructed to shoot every stray dog at sight. The action will be taken in the interest of the conservation of wool and mutton and to prevent dogs from damaging war gardens. The State law provides that stray dogs may be shot....Of the 1,074 pupils in the Wells county schools, according to a survey recently made, 1,028 come from homes observing food conservation rules; 65 of these homes display service flags; 584 of these homes display Red Cross banners; 616 pupils are members of the Red Cross, and 1,145 shovels were tagged by pupils on "tag-your-shovel" day.

Help the Salvation Army!

The Indiana State Council of Defense has been requested by the Salvation Army to give its approval to their solicitation for $50,000 within the State towards the million-dollar war fund which is being raised by that organization.

We find that the Council of National Defense approves of the war work being done by the Salvation Army, both here and abroad. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Indiana Council of Defense gives its approval for the solicitation of the Salvation Army for their war fund.

(Signed) WILLIAM G. IRWIN.
ARTHUR W. BRADY.
CHARLES P. EMERSON.

Council Considers

Important Matters

(Continued from Page 1.)

"Whereas, The silo has now become a recognized and necessary institution wherever used on live stock farms, and

"Whereas, It aids in the saving and utilization of a large part of the corn crop, and brings about better results in the production of meat and milk than can be secured through any other medium, and

"Whereas, The decrease in acreage of meadow makes it necessary to provide other forage to meet the shortage thus brought about, and

"Whereas, The thirty-two thousand (32,000) silos now in use in Indiana have proved the merit of ensilage as a fodder feed, and

"Whereas, It is the opinion of the Indiana Council of Defense that the number of silos in the State of Indiana ought to be doubled within the next two years; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the State Council of Defense recognizes the value of the silo and recommends to the farmers of Indiana that they largely increase the number of silos in the State preparatory to taking care of the next year's crop."

A resolution approving the collection of a war fund by the Salvation Army was passed on recommendation of the Committee on Censorship of Solicitation, composed of William G. Irwin, Arthur W. Brady and Charles P. Emerson, as follows:

"The Indiana State Council of Defense has been requested by the Salvation Army to give its approval to their solicitation for $50,000 within the State toward the million-dollar war fund which is being raised by that organization.

"We find that the Council of National Defense approves of the war work being done by the Salvation Army both here and abroad. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Indiana Council of Defense gives its approval for the solicitation of the Salvation Army for their war fund."

A motion was passed asking the Marion County Council of Defense to make plans for a meeting at which William H. Bohn, secretary of Friends of German Democracy, a loyal German organization, will speak. The matter of the refusal of persons in Evansville, Logansport, Seymour and Indianapolis to encourage Mr. Bohn to address meetings was discussed by the council and referred to the committee appointed some time ago for the purpose of declaring the council's policy on pro-Germanism and pacifism.

H. R. Kurrie made a report on the use of telephone for the dispatching of trains in the railroad yards of Terre Haute, which practice was alleged to be unsafe, suggested that the matter be referred to the Vigo County Council of Defense to be taken up again with the Indiana Public Service Commission. The report was adopted.

James L. Keach, chairman of a committee appointed to investigate the alleged discrimination of retail merchants of Indianapolis in prices charged medical officers at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, reported that he found that no basis for such charge existed.

SENTIMENTS OF LABOR.

(American Alliance for Labor and Democracy.)

Some say Liberty is something written in law books.

Some say Liberty is dead unless all laws are always obeyed.

Some say that when the people, rising in indignation, put a stop to treacherous activities, Liberty is dead.

Some say that when every agent of the kaiser is not allowed to say all he wants to say, Liberty is dead.

Clarence Darrow puts it this way: "Liberty is not something written in law books; Liberty is IN THE HEARTS OF THE PEOPLE."

We think Darrow is right.

That is why America will always be a free country.

And that is why the American people will not tolerate treacherous activities in their midst.

LIBERTY IN AMERICA IS SAFE AS LONG AS IT IS IN THE HEARTS OF THE PEOPLE!

A single front, a single army, a single people.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 31

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 125.

March 7, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Applications for boys received from farmers by the State Council of Defense and the farm labor survey conducted this winter by the county agricultural agents under the supervision of Purdue University, indicate that over 10,000 boys will be needed this spring and summer to substitute for men on Indiana farms.

The United States Boys' Working Reserve is organized to supply this demand. During the week of March 18 to 23 the United States Government will conduct a national campaign in every State in the Union, seeking to enroll in this organization two million boys of the ages of sixteen to twenty-one, the majority of whom will pledge themselves to work on farms.

It is highly important that you immediately get in touch with your local county and city directors of the United States Boys' Working Reserve to ascertain what steps they have taken toward completing an organization which will enroll the quota of boys assigned to your county. The importance of this organization is emphasized by the proclamation which, we are advised, President Wilson will issue shortly.

By referring to the issue of the Indiana Bulletin under date of March 8 you will find the census of the number of boys enrolled in each county. Only 8,000 boys have been enrolled to date. To meet the demand for farm labor next summer, at least 15,000 boys must pledge themselves for agricultural service. If any change is needed in the personnel of the Reserve organization in your county, please act immediately without referring the matter to this office. This organization must succeed, and increased food production in Indiana must not go by default on account of lack of labor.

Every high school, Y. M. C. A. and library in the State will be furnished with enrollment supplies and has been designated as an enrolling office. STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

We enclose extra copy of this Bulletin for reference to your proper committee.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 126.

March 8, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

If you have not already done so, please advise us at your early convenience what you have done in compliance with Bulletin No. 118 regarding the organization of township or school district councils of defense.

The Council of National Defense and the State Council are very anxious to have this organization work completed as soon as possible in order that every individual in every county will be at once enlisted as a working member of a council or one of its sub-committees.

Mr. Gifford, director of the Council of National Defense, says in this regard:

"In this great war the Government needs the enthusiastic support of every one of its one hundred million citizens. Until public opinion is so aroused that patriotism is driving the nation at full speed the message of this war has not reached the people."

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Farmers Join Drive For Third Bond Sale

(Continued from page 1.)

a traitor," he declared. "I know that the men of Indiana will do all that is required of them, and that the farmers of Indiana will do their full part."

A resolutions committee, consisting of Warren T. McCray, Kentland; L. B. Clore, Franklin; W. H. Senour, Brookville; Jesse Andrews, West Point, and W. H. Swain, Anderson, reported the following resolutions, which were adopted unanimously:

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, Our country, by repeated German aggressions, has been forced to resort to armed conflict to maintain its sovereign rights on the high seas and to protect the lives, liberty and property of its citizens; and

Whereas, During the entire period of this terrible struggle and sacrifice life and property will be without value to every loyal American citizen except as it may be dedicated to the service of his government and be made to serve the cause of liberty; and

Whereas, So long as this war may last every loyal American citizen can have but one duty—that of giving absolute loyalty to our Government, entire devotion to our cause and unflinching support to our army and navy; therefore, be it

Resolved by the representatives of the farmers of Indiana, in conference assembled in the House of Representatives, Indianapolis, this, the 12th day of March, 1918, That we pledge the undivided fidelity and support of all farmers of our State to President Wilson and to Governor Goodrich in all measures necessary to the vigorous prosecution of this war to a completely successful issue.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this conference it is a patriotic obligation resting upon the agricultural interests of our State to subscribe such a part of the Third Liberty Loan as their combined wealth may bear to the aggregate wealth of all the citizens of the State. And that this conference urge every farmer in the State to subscribe his full share and to pledge his credit to the nation rather than fail to discharge his patriotic obligation.

(Signed) WARREN T. MCCRAY.
JESSE C. ANDREWS.
L. B. CLORE.
W. H. SENOUR.
H. M. SWAIN.

FOOD COMMITTEE MEETING.

How to put slacker farms to work was discussed at a meeting of the Committee on Food Production and Conservation of the State Council of Defense March 12.

T. A. Coleman represented Professor G. I. Christie at the meeting and reported that at a recent conference with Dr. R. A. Pearson it was shown that the slacker farms could be placed under government control. When the fact becomes established that an individual will not farm his land himself or rent it at a reasonable price, such an individual is certainly an enemy of his country, as he stands contrary to the wishes, needs and demands of the Government. Once established, his internment can follow and the Government will see that the farm is operated. The matter will be taken up through the State and county councils of defense.

Maurice Douglas, chairman of the Silo Committee, reported at the meeting on the progress of the silo campaign. Mr. Douglas believes 10,000 silos can be erected in Indiana in 1918. A plan to pro rate the number by counties, based on the number of cattle in each county, met with favor.

The secretary's report to the Governor of the activities of the committee for the year ending December 31, 1917, was approved.

GARDEN SUPERVISORS' COURSE.

Plans have been perfected for the garden supervisors' short course to be given at Purdue University, March 25 to 29, inclusive, it was announced at the meeting of the Committee on Food Production and Conservation Tuesday. This course provides for talks by State Food Director G. I. Christie, Director C. G. Woodbury of the Purdue Experiment Station, Dean J. H. Skinner of the School of Agriculture, Prof. Laurence Greene of the Horticultural Department and several garden supervisors from the larger cities in Indiana who were "on the job" last year.

The course will include soil studies, instruction on what vegetables to grow this year, planting for maximum production, spraying, insect control and many other topics, which are necessary for the successful garden supervisor to know. How to organize civic forces into a successful garden combination also will be taught, and a series of conferences between the supervisors attending the course will be held.

No tuition will be charged and expenses of persons attending the course will be for only board and lodging. Already many cities in the State are planning to send their supervisors to take this work, which means much in getting the most from the hundreds of thousands of war gardens which will be planted in Indiana this spring.

* * *

GARDEN SUGGESTIONS.

Buy your garden seed now; the supply is short, and delay means you are going to get the poorer quality, the old left-over and rush-order kind, which may not germinate as well as the best, which will be taken first.

In planning the war garden this year decide to grow a large proportion of vegetables, which can be stored for winter use, such as potatoes, parsnips, turnips, carrots, sweet potatoes and onions, corn or beans. Cabbage, turnips, beets, etc., can be buried out of doors and kept a long time to supplement the canned goods and kraut that have been put away. An hour a day will care for a large garden and fifty to a hundred dollars' worth of food can be produced.

The Sheep-Killing Dog.

Rensselaer, Ind, February 23, 1918.

To State Council of Defense:

I see in the Bulletin your article on wool production, and committees for the purpose of inducing the farmer to do more in this line. Now the farmer is ready to do this bit, and if your committees want to get somewhere along this line, and a quick way to get the results, is to place the sheep producers in a safe position from the sheep enemy DOGS.

If the lawmakers of this State think it is of more importance to protect the curs of the State than the sheep industries we believe it will be an up-hill proposition to induce a heavy investment in the sheep and wool producing branch of farming. We are carrying about sixty head of ewes, and are compelled to keep them in gunshot range of the house, or some night have our entire flock attacked, possibly only five or six killed, several maimed, and the balance frightened, and a heavy resultant loss that an appraiser never takes into consideration. I believe that if the Governor would call a special session of the legislature, pass a law doing away with the dog menace, and then adjourn, the sheep and wool solution, to a large degree, would be solved. There has never yet been a loss by dogs in this neighborhood that was any ways near paid for. Do away with the dogs in some manner and your worries can be at rest, I believe to a large extent.

We have many laws on our statutes but the farmer can not stay around the house to await the dogs coming, or set up at night; the damage is done in a very short time, and dogs gone. In my mind there is just one solution: Place a tax of $25.00 on each dog; if a party has a valuable dog he could afford to pay for him; if not, do away with him. Our present laws are not protecting the sheep or sheep owner.

W. L. BOTT.

In 1913 Europe produced 43 per cent. of the world's sugar; since then she has had other engagements.

The man who grows more food adds to the wealth of the world; the man who grows dollars may be adding only to his own wealth.

Thirty Counties Ask More Than 4000 Boys

Conference of Directors of United States Reserve Emphasizes Importance of Enlisting Every Youth.

Farmers of thirty counties out of ninety-two counties in the State have applied for 4,398 boys to substitute for men on Indiana farms this summer, says Clarence Henry, Assistant Director of the Seed and Labor Survey conducted through county agricultural agents under the supervision of T. A. Coleman and G. I. Christie in February.

When this fact was presented to the special conference of the United States Boys' Working Reserve directors in Indianapolis, Saturday, March 9, Dr. G. L. Mackintosh, president of Wabash College, asserted that we must conscript boys through public opinion. Any boy who is not already engaged in productive work and refuses in times like these to enroll for the production of food, will be considered as lacking in patriotism, he said. Public sentiment must become so strong in favor of enrollment in the reserve that every boy will eagerly seek the opportunity to identify himself with this organization in order to prove that he is not a slacker but is doing his patriotic bit to win the war, he asserted.

By a unanimous vote an emergency was declared to exist and a resolution was passed directing the attention of all educators in the State of Indiana, including colleges, to the recommendations passed by the State Board of Education of January 11, 1918, suggesting the personnel of a board of educators in each county empowered to determine upon a plan whereby high school boys of good standing may be released from school to meet the exigencies incident to the shortage of farm labor.

"This reserve is just as important as the Liberty Loan," said one delegate. Others asserted that it was more important because the weather will not wait on the farmer while if the Liberty Loan were postponed thirty or sixty days, the war would not stop.

"The labor question on farms is more acute than ever in history," said Clarence Henry.

"With this emergency only a few weeks off every school superintendent, principal, educational authority, and every boy between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one in Indiana, should get red hot over the proposition," said Dr. Mackintosh.

Following is a partial survey of labor demands for boys on Indiana farms:

County Name	Number
Allen	268
Benton	211
Clark	69
Crawford	70
Dearborn	130
Decatur	72
Fayette	34
Fountain	200
Franklin	130
Gibson	270
Jasper	235
Jefferson	25
Lake	90
Lawrence	269
Marion	207
Montgomery	190
Newton	140
Noble	315
Randolph	250
Ripley	35
Steuben	186
Sullivan	135
Tippecanoe	79
Union	73
Vanderburg	150
Wabash	76
Warren	110
Wells	113
White	151
Whitley	115

4,398

POLICY DETERMINED TO MEET THE EMERGENCY.

The following letter was presented to the Conference and unanimously endorsed by those present with the recommendation that it be brought to the attention of all educational authorities in the state:

March 9, 1918.

Dr. G. L. Mackintosh, Chairman Committee on School Relations, U. S. Boys' Working Reserve.

Dear Dr. Mackintosh:

It now appears from applications on file with the State Council of Defense and reports received from Purdue university and the various county agricultural agents that probably 10,000 Indiana boys will be needed on Indiana farms this coming season in addition to those now engaged and working on farms.

It also appears that the majority of boys who have enrolled in the United States Boys' Working Reserve attend school, and, contrary to the opinion which seems to prevail in some places, very few boys who are not in school are to be found idling away their time at present, and therefore cannot be classed as surplus labor immediately available for farm work.

The conclusion therefore is, that if the planted acreage is increased in proportion to the demands of the United States Department of Agriculture, a large number of school boys should be supplied to farmers before the regular closing time of high schools. It is agreed by all that any plan seeking the release of boys from school, which will to any serious extent detract from the standard of scholarship which has been maintained in the past is to be avoided. It is also recognized that through the full co-operation of all school superintendents and principals in solving their respective local problems so as to meet local conditions, any serious mistakes in this regard can be obviated.

Therefore, it is desirable that the state board of education and the educational section of the State Council of Defense communicate these facts to all school authorities in the state advising them that it is and will be the policy of all Reserve directors, in endeavoring to seek boys for farm work, to make every effort first to get boys who are not in school before asking any school superintendent or principal to release boys for emergency service on farms, and further that when a director of the Boys' Working Reserve calls on any school authority for the release of any boys from school for farm work, such a call should be considered as prima facie evidence of the fact that he has exhausted every other means at his command for securing the necessary number of boys and that a genuine emergency exists requiring immediate co-operation and quick action.

Furthermore, the Directors of the Boys' Working Reserve desire to impress the educational authorities of the State of Indiana with the fact that they are endeavoring to so conduct their organization so as to interfere with schools as little as possible, and that they believe that whenever boys are released from school for agricultural work the following principles should in a general way, govern:

First, The emergency must be genuine.

Second, To be eligible for release without prejudice to scholarship the boy must have maintained a certain standard in his studies.

Third, The high school superintendent, or principal, must have actual proof that the boy is actually engaged in emergency work.

Fourth, If the emergency ends while school is in session the boys should again return to school.

Fifth, Every effort should be made when the boy again returns to school to give him ample opportunity to make up the work he has lost, in order that he may continue in his regular classes.

I feel that a letter along these lines should be endorsed by the Conference Saturday and presented to both the State Board of Education and the Educational Section of the State Council of Defense. Yours respectfully,

ISAAC D. STRAUS,
Federal State Director.

Recommended and approved by G. L. Mackintosh, Chairman Committee on School Relations.

"I heartily concur in the above and urge all school superintendents liberally to interpret the recommendations passed by the State Board of Education January 11, 1918."

HORACE ELLIS, President
Indiana State Board of Education.

"The above has my unqualified approval."

J. J. PETTIJOHN, Sec'y
Approval Committee Educational Section, State Council of Defense.

CO-OPERATION WITH CANNERS.

William P. Hapgood, of Indianapolis, presented the following resolutions on behalf of the Indiana Canners Association which were unanimously passed by those attending the conference with the recommendation that they be brought to the attention of all school authorities in the state:

"WHEREAS, The Federal Food Administrator as well as the commissary departments of both the Army and Navy are urging conservers of food products and farmers to plant a large increase in acreage in tomatoes this year, about fifty per cent. of which crop, when canned, will be commandeered by the federal Government to supply our Army and Navy, and,

Whereas, Attention is called to the fact that canned tomatoes constitute one of the most important foods which our soldiers and sailors must have, and,

Whereas, The president of the Indiana Canners' Association advises that farmers are hesitating to contract for a larger acreage, fearing that sufficient labor for picking will not be available for the harvest season, therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the attention of all school authorities throughout the State of Indiana be called to this condition with the recommendation that notice be given publicity at once that whenever a shortage of labor is evident during the tomato harvest season, which extends generally from August 15 to October 10, boys will be released from school to aid in such emergency work. It is urged that these recommendations be given publicity as soon as possible in order that they may be used by conservers of food products in offering definite assurance to Indiana farmers that the increased production of food and the picking of tomatoes shall not go to default on account of lack of sufficient labor."

Approved by: G. L. MACKINTOSH,
Chairman on School Relations, U. S. Boys' Working Reserve.

HORACE ELLIS,
President Indiana State Board of Education.

J. J. PETTIJOHN,
Secretary Approval Committee Educational Section, State Council of Defense.

AT TERRE HAUTE ROTARY CLUB CAMP.

Wayne Bigwood, representing the Terre Haute Rotary Club, called attention to the Vigo County Agricultural Training Camp for boys to be conducted on the two hundred acre farm of Freel Christy, twelve miles east of Terre Haute and one-half mile south of National Road, near Miami, stop 26 Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Railway (Brazil Division), Vigo county, Indiana, April 1 to July 1, 1918.

At this camp members of the Reserve will be given three weeks instruction course in the rudiments of agriculture, after which they will be placed on farms for the remainder of the season. Fifteen boys will be admitted and fifteen released each week, about fifty boys being at the camp at one time. The entire expense, with the exception of railroad fare and laundry, will be $18.00 per boy and each county director of the Boys' Working Reserve was urged to pledge to send one boy himself to this camp. It was suggested that a scholarship (costing $18.00) to this camp be offered by Reserve directors in their respective localities to the boy who secures the largest number of enrollments during national enrollment week, March 18 to 23. For further information relative to the camp, address George Wycoff, Secretary, 414 Trust Building, Terre Haute, Ind.

Women's Section

Stop knitting sweaters of bright-colored wool! That is the message of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense to the women of the United States. It sends this message at the request of the government authorities, whom it represents.

Official correspondence of the Woman's Committee shows that, while American nurses and soldiers in France this winter have been appealing for a total of six million articles of clothing made of wool, thousands of women in the United States have been using up enough wool for fancy sweaters to equip the greater part of the army.

Knitting yarn has advanced in price because of the enormous demand and the limited supply. It has been impossible for contractors and mills to do all required of them by army, navy and Red Cross needs because enormous quantities of yarn were diverted to non-essential purposes.

The Woman's Committee believes that in this emergency possession of more than one woolen sweater by any woman should be cause for shame rather than pride.

CHILD WELFARE.

The National Child Welfare Department endorses the Indiana plan for the big baby testing as "excellent." So, then, "we are off." The blanks on which the weight and measurement of the children under five is to be recorded are now in press and are promised very soon. All now needed is to organize each township, as directed last week. Bulletins with fuller directions will be sent to each member in a few days from Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, State Director of Child Welfare, in a few days. "Let us prepare to keep Indiana in the lead," is the slogan.

As indicating the co-ordinated patriotic spirit of the organized womanhood of Indiana in war work behind the lines, Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, Chairman of the Women's Section of the State Council of Defense, calls attention to an offer just received from the publicity department of the Indiana Federation of Clubs through Miss Ruth Ross Herrmann of Kokomo, State Chairman of the Federation Press Bureau. Miss Herrmann offers to the Women's Committee of the State Defense Council the use of the press service of the Federated Clubs for the spread of any information, educational work, propaganda or war service material the women of the Defense Council and its co-ordinated organizations may desire to send out.

"This patriotic offer means that women's departments, definitely established in at least twenty-six of the larger newspapers of the State, are thrown open to publicity matter supplied by the Women's Section of the Defense Council, thus enlarging the audience reached by that publicity," said Mrs. Carlisle. "However, more important than all else is the significant fact that the women in all their various organizations, as shown in this case, are uniting for the one big, central purpose, the attainment of the utmost force and efficiency in war work. Unification is the big thing, and Miss Herrmann's fine offer means that wartime unification is first with the Federation of Clubs."

Mrs. Carlisle has sent a letter to Miss Herrmann thanking her for the offer of space in the federation's press bureau letters, and assuring her that the publicity department of the State Council of Defense will gladly take advantage of the offer.

Miss Lelia C. Ogle, who with Miss Inez Richards is in charge of the food demonstration in the South Bend school administration during the St. Joseph county food show, is the compiler of a "Cook Book for Kitchen Patriots," which has attracted much favorable comment.

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Woman's section of the State Council of Defense, March 13, the matter of asking a voluntary donation of ten cents from each woman at the time of registering was taken up. This voluntary fee had been considered as a means of financing the women's war work in the State and county. There was, however, much opposition through the State and Mrs. Carlisle placed the matter before her executive committee for consideration, and it was decided that the fee would not be asked.

The question of having an appropriate emblem for the women who register was also discussed. The National Woman's committee is preparing a button to be used universally. This matter was left to Miss Landers.

Mrs. Carlisle presented to the meeting the offer of Mrs. Stuart Dean of Indianapolis, to organize a motor corps for war service, and asked Mrs. Ralston to investigate the matter of affiliating such a corps with the Woman's Section.

Mrs. S. M. Ralston, treasurer, made a report of her investigation of the matter of organizing through the State girls to help on farms, and gave it as her opinion that inasmuch as Indiana is primarily a grain and corn State, an organization of this sort was not widely needed. She thought this could be effectively taken care of through the registration drive. Her report was approved by the committee.

Miss Katharine Graydon reported the completion of a program of war subjects for women's clubs and in conjunction with Mrs. Ralston reported on the progress of their plan of compiling a booklet setting forth the work of the Woman's Section.

Miss Vida Newsom stated the number of responses to her questionnaire and also that she has asked the consent of the Indiana Federation of Clubs in the 13 districts of the State, to make a place for the county chairmen of her committee on their programs to impress upon the women of the State the necessity of keeping up to their high standard existing social agencies.

Mrs. Julia C. Henderson reported twenty counties organized for "Fourteen Minute Women" since last meeting; also the development of a national speaker in Miss Eleanor Barker and read to the committee notices of the success of Miss Barker in South Dakota and Ohio.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon was represented by Dr. Ada Schwaitzer, who read Mrs. Bacon's plan for the coming "Children's Year."

Mrs. George C. Hitt, of the Health and Recreation committee, reported that until it is definitely decided what sort of a camp will be established at Fort Benjamin Harrison her plans are held in abeyance.

County chairmen named to assist Mrs. Hortense Tapp Moore of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense, in making the war garden movement in Indiana a greater success in 1918 than in 1917 are as follows: Bartholomew, Mrs. Will Newsom, Columbus; Benton, Mrs. James Narr, Earl Park; Clay, Mrs. Minta Love, Lewis; Fayette, Miss Mary Rieman, Connersville; Clinton, Mrs. A. A. McClamroch, Frankfort; Delaware, Mrs. E. M. Pickard, Salem; Lake, Mrs. H. W. Paxten, Hobart, Montgomery, Mrs. John Warner, Yountsville; Newton, Mrs. Young Dear-duff, Brook; Owen, Mrs. E. E. McCord, Spencer; Porter, Mrs. Will Gardner, Valparaiso; Vanderburgh, Miss Era Epperson, Evansville; Vermilion, Mrs. Joseph G. Potts, Newport; Vigo, Miss Iva Rhyen, Terre Haute; Washington, Miss Helen Reid, Salem; Wells, Mrs. A. A. Waugh, Bluffton; Pike, Mrs. Addie George, Petersburg; Putnam, Mrs. S. A. Hazelett, Greencastle; Randolph, Mrs. Ella Wilmore, Saratoga; Ripley, Mrs. J. A. Hiltenbrand, Batesville; Rush, Mrs. C. L. Smullen, Mays; Scott, Mrs. Ralph Malick, Austin; Spencer, Mrs. John Haines, Rockport; Sullivan, Mrs. R. L. Bailey, Sullivan; Tippecanoe, Mrs. Charles W. Bone, West Lafayette; Tipton, Mrs. J. D. Kleyla, Sharpsville; Union, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Liberty; Wabash, Mrs. V. A. Place, Wabash; Wayne, Mrs. D. W. Scott, Richmond; Whitley, Mrs. John Shimeman, Columbia City; White, Mrs. Willia Baker, Monticello; Blackford, Mrs. Josephine Clippinger, Hartford City; Boone, Miss Jane Wood, Lebanon; Carroll, Mrs. Charles Buckley, Delphi; Cass, Mrs. John Lairy, Logansport; Daviess, Mrs. Rose Nugent, Washington; Dearborn, Mrs. P. C. Braun, Lawrenceburg; Franklin, Mrs. F. W. Hathaway, Brookville; Greene, Mrs. Max Stein, Lyons; Hancock, Mrs. Henry Oennington, Greenfield; Jackson, Mrs. A. D. Cobb, Brownstown; Jefferson, Mrs. R. W. Cochran, Madison; Johnson, Miss Susie Ott, Franklin; Knox, Mrs. Frank Miller, Vincennes; Kosciusko, Miss Etta Leighty, Warsaw; Lagrange, Mrs. John Fellers, Lagrange; Laporte, Mrs. E. G. Small, Laporte; Lawrence, Mrs. Herschel Moore, Bedford; Madison, Miss Evangeline Lewis, Pendleton; Marshall, Mrs. Frank Pulver, Plymouth; Miami, Mrs. Willis, Chili; Monroe, Mrs. John Canatsey, Morgantown; Ohio, Mrs. Elmer Bailey, Aurora, and Perry, Mrs. Frank Sanders, Tobinport.

Food Administration

County food administrators are urged to discourage the production of large-sized loaves of bread. The suggestion is based on the theory that greater saving will be made in the smaller loaves—the idea being that many families will be able to get along on the twelve-ounce loaf a day. Bakers are asked to confine their rolls to one ounce in weight, which will assist public eating house proprietors in conforming to the regulation, limiting the service of bread to two ounces per person per meal.

The lack of transportation facilities is given as the cause for the present unsatisfactory condition of the potato market. The United States Food Administration has advised against any plan to establish mills for the production of potato flour. Its only purpose, so far as the 1917 crop of potatoes is concerned, is to assist in moving the potatoes from storage to market. Efforts will be made to anticipate this year's requirements in order that such adverse condition may not obtain again.

Two hundred and three restaurants in Indiana consumed 53,688 pounds of meat, a saving of 17,438 pounds up to March 8; 78,392 pounds of wheat were consumed, a saving of 25,369 pounds over a similar period for last year. These figures are being compiled by Raymond Kiser, hotel and restaurant deputy for the Food Administration. They cover a period since the inauguration of the new food card.

One cent per pound advance over delivery cost is the maximum of profit that will be permitted to retailers of sugar is the information received from the United States Food Administration by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. This answers a constantly recurring question that has had for its object permission to make up to 1½ cent profit or more per pound for retailers.

Sorghum manufacturers of Indiana are being urged to devote a larger acreage to cane as a means of producing a maximum of syrup for use as a sugar substitute.

With reduced price of eggs the ban on their use at soda fountains and in barber shops has been lifted. It is believed public sentiment will soon crystallize against the waste of this valuable food product as a substitute for soap in barber shops, although the Food Administration has taken no cognizance of the matter.

The Federal Food Administration has commended the enterprise of Clarence Royce, county food administrator for Parke county, whose prompt action effected the salvage of a car of wheat flour, which was buried in the wreckage of freight stuff and which might have been a total loss except for Mr. Royce's prompt action.

Reports from Indiana county food administrators indicate the sale of wheat flour has dropped 25 per cent. of last year's figures, and the demand for substitutes is constantly increasing, with corresponding increases in their cost to the consumer.

A Thrift Cake!

- 1 cup sugar.
- 1 cup water.
- 1 cup raisins.
- ½ cup lard.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.
- 1/3 teaspoon cloves.

Boil three minutes and let get cold, adding small teaspoon of salt. When cold add one level teaspoon soda dissolved in water, three cups flour (one-half graham) and bake in slow oven.

Why the People Should Directly Support Red Cross

Copies of the letter which H. P. Davison, chairman of the war council, wrote to Mr. C. B. Huntress, of the Allentown, Pa., chamber of commerce, have been sent to all the division managers with a request to forward copies to the chambers of commerce and merchants' associations in their divisions, and to the members of the Red Cross war finance committee. The letter to Mr. Huntress runs as follows:

American Red Cross, National Headquarters,
Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1918.

My Dear Mr. Huntress—Permit me to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your letter of January 8, inclosing resolutions passed by Allentown Chamber of Commerce, and by its direction forwarded to commercial organizations throughout the United States and to members of the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress. I regret that there was not opportunity for consultation and wider discussion, before your estimable organization so recorded itself, as I am convinced it would be a mistake, at this time, to support Red Cross, even in part, by congressional appropriation. I understand the business man's side of the question, the claims upon his time, money, and staff, the diversion in his community created by canvassing campaigns and the inequality that marks the distribution of the common burden, but I am convinced that he patiently should abide these minor ills for the greater good that, I am convinced, is being accomplished.

As I see Red Cross, with its widespread operations, it is a great auxiliary to the Government in war, made the more helpful because it claims no time from a rapidly expanded Administration pressed by many problems, recruits no operating personnel from those liable for military duty, and imposes no financial burden or responsibility upon the national treasury. I see it as the organization and the expression of that patriotic citizenry anxious to pay more than taxes to help win the war, eager to care for its sons called to arms and ready to extend the hand of bounty to those in need in other lands. I see it as a mobile organization, free from legislative delay capable of wide service not easy of accomplishment by our Government, that in emergency or disaster can act instantly. I see it as a great educational factor of profound inward influence upon our national life, moving toward mutual understanding and sympathies helpful to our social life, and now an impressive example of our national unity and solidarity.

I believe that the effect inevitable of Government contribution to Red Cross would be the discouragement and discontinuance of private support and its conversion ultimately from a great voluntary humane movement to a department of Government supported wholly by taxation; its place claimed by other voluntary organization or organizations. I can conceive extreme circumstances where it might be advisable in emergency or necessity for the Government to ask Red Cross to perform some special function for which funds would be provided by appropriation or for Red Cross to request, in emergency, some form of financial aid from Congress, but as long as our people have the spirit and the means to go on independently they should be encouraged so to go. To do otherwise is to deny them the opportunity of sacrifice and contribution in this great tragedy, which is a blessing to them.

Sincerely yours,

H. P. DAVISON,
Chairman Red Cross War Council.

C. B. HUNTRESS,
Chamber of Commerce, Allentown, Pa.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

LIBERTY BREADS.

"We have exported the whole of the surplus of the wheat from this harvest after reserving for ourselves an amount sufficient for our normal consumption of seed and flour until the next harvest, and therefore, the amount of wheat flour that the United States can contribute to mix with the war bread of our allies during this winter will be simply the amount that our people reduce their consumption month by month."

Our allies need to import at least 450,000,000 bushels of wheat before the next harvest, and Canada has only 110,000,000 bushels available for export. We are asked to use only 70 per cent. of the amount of wheat used last year. This means that the problem of conserving this wheat for our allies rests with the women in the homes. This necessitates learning to substitute corn, barley, potatoes, rice and oatmeal for wheat in the bread used; to save all the bread scraps to be used in escalloped dishes and for thickening; and to observe the wheatless days and meals.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics Laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.:

YEAST BREADS.

Oatmeal Yeast Bread:

- 1 cup liquid.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 2 tablespoons sugar or molasses.
- 1 cup rolled oats.
- 2½ cups wheat flour.
- Yeast.
- ¾ cup water.

Scald liquid and pour it over rolled oats, salt, sugar and fat. When luke warm add softened yeast. Add flour, knead, let rise until double in bulk. Knead and place in pan. Let rise. Bake 45-60 minutes.

Wheat and Corn Bread:

- 2½ pounds sifted flour.
- ¾ pound corn meal.
- 3 tablespoons sugar or molasses.
- 1½ tablespoons salt.
- 1 quart liquid.
- 3 tablespoons fat, if desired.
- Yeast.

Mix and bake as ordinary white bread.

Barley Yeast Bread:

- 1 cup milk and water, or water (8 oz.).
- 1 tablespoon sugar or molasses.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1 1/8 cups barley flour.
- 2 1/8 cups wheat flour.
- ¾ cake compressed yeast.

Mix and bake as ordinary white bread.

Bran Bread:

- 1½ cups potato water.
  - ¾ cake compressed yeast.
  - 2 tablespoons warm water.
  - 1½ teaspoons salt.
  - 2 cups white flour.
- Prepare sponge and let rise. When light add:
- 2 tablespoons molasses or
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
  - 1 tablespoon melted fat.
  - 3 cups white flour.
  - 2 cups bran.

Let rise, knead, shape into loaves, let rise and bake.

Rye Yeast Bread:

- 1 cup milk and water, or water (8 oz.).
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 2 tablespoons sugar or molasses.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 2½ cups rye flour.
- 2½ cups wheat flour.
- ¾ cake compressed yeast.
- 2 tablespoons water.

Mix and bake as ordinary white bread.

Rice Bread:

- 1 cup liquid.
- 1 cup cooked rice.
- 1 tablespoon sugar or molasses.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1½ teaspoons salt.
- Yeast.
- Wheat flour to make stiff dough.
- Mix and bake as ordinary white bread.

Indian Meal Doughnuts:

- ¾ cup milk.
- 1½ cups fine corn meal.
- 1½ cups flour.
- ¾ cup butter.
- 2 eggs well beaten.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.
- 2 teaspoons baking powder.
- 1 level teaspoon salt.
- ¾ cup sugar.

Put milk and meal in double boiler and heat together for about ten minutes. Add the butter and sugar to the meal. Sift together the wheat flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt. Add these and the eggs to the meal. Roll out on a well-floured board; cut into desired shapes, fry in deep fat, drain and roll in powdered sugar. This makes thirty medium-sized doughnuts.

Corn Meal Crisps:

- ¾ cup corn meal.
- 1 cup boiling water.
- 2½ tablespoons melted fat.
- ¾ teaspoon salt.

Add corn meal gradually to boiling water and cook two minutes. When smooth add melted fat and salt. Spread evenly on the bottom of a well-greased tin as thin as possible. Bake in moderate oven until well browned. Cut into squares.

Corn Flour Muffins:

- ¾ cup white flour.
- 1½ cups corn flour.
- 1 tablespoon sugar.
- 1 cup milk.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 1 egg.

Sift dry ingredients, combine beaten egg, melted fat, and milk. Mix thoroughly.

Corn Flour Baking Powder Biscuits:

- 1 cup flour.
- 1 cup corn flour.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- Milk to moisten.

Sift dry ingredients together, cut in fat and add enough milk to make a soft dough.

No Building for Comfort!

In a letter to Frank W. Conner, Washington representative of the American Lumberman, Secretary McAdoo elaborates on his recent statement urging curtailment of building operations for the duration of the war. The letter says:

"It is impossible to lay down a hard and fast rule, as to what every patriotic citizen should do in order to live up to his duty in this connection. Things that are necessary for the life and health of the people must, of course, be procured. So it is with the building of homes. It is unnecessary for me to elaborate the point that building operations absorb the very materials and the very class of labor and the very kind of money that the Government requires most urgently at this time.

"Where it is a question of building a new home simply because it would afford greater comfort, the operation should not be undertaken. Where it is a question of need there is no doubt that the work should be undertaken. This applies equally to construction work in cities and towns and in farming districts."

Not "Bit" but "Utmost"—the end is worth our "All."

Save or Starve:

DePauw University Will Release Students for Labor in the Fields

Students of DePauw, again this spring, may engage in farm work without serious interference to college studies. Arrangements by the faculty committee on petitions, were announced as follows:

1. It is inexpedient and impracticable to attempt to have students who are likely to be called for farm work accomplish more than is usually achieved during the winter months, because this would double the present burden of many members of the teaching staff which is already overburdened.
2. The faculty of DePauw University is strongly opposed to the granting of proportionate credit to students who leave college early to do farm work. Although deeming the giving of any college credit to those who so leave of doubtful pedagogical justification, the faculty is willing to grant full credit to students who leave for farm work under the following conditions:
  - a. That the student may not leave DePauw University before (to be decided).
  - b. That the student may not leave DePauw University after (to be decided).
  - c. That the employer of the student shall, not later than the fifteenth of August, 1918, submit to the Registrar an affidavit that the student has worked an average of eight hours per day, or of forty-eight hours per week, at actual farm labor, for a number of weeks equal to twice the number of weeks of college missed by the student.

d. That this affidavit must be upon a blank furnished by DePauw University.

In reply to the questions of the State Council of Defense the following replies are suggested:

1. It is feasible to release a student for a week or two in April to help his father or some other farmer sow oats and again in May for the time necessary to plant corn, provided the student is one of such ability that he will not suffer too great a loss in scholarship. Each case must be judged upon its own merits after a careful study of the student's ability and usefulness by a competent authority or committee.
2. Yes, it is possible for the college to accomplish a considerable amount of good by sending students to aid farmers in emergencies. No student should be allowed to answer such a call unless the authority or committee suggested previously has approved him as eligible for such service.
3. There seems no reason to fear the exploitation of the labor of DePauw University students.

A Word to Indiana War Bureaus

The Connecticut Council of Defense has issued the following open letter to persons throughout the State who are active in the work of organizing war bureaus:

"Make your war bureaus big and roomy.

"Make them so big that every person in your town willing to do civilian war work will find a place in one of its committees and will feel himself or herself a part of the war bureau.

"And don't forget the men who punch the time clocks—who count their earnings as wages. These men and their families form a large and important part of your community and should form a large and important part of your war bureau.

"Too large a part of the work has been done by a generous self-forgetful few, recruited from the ranks of the professions, the business men, the capitalists, the high salaried and the low salaried. They have shouldered the burden until it has become a habit, and the community has too much formed the habit of setting aside this work for them to do.

"Too often has 'labor' been 'represented' in these organizations; too seldom have the wage earners and their families been urged to form a part, a large active part, of them. Laboring men and their leaders and organizations are showing a good brand of patriotism these days. Make sure that opportunity is given to the individual working man and his family to show their spirit and their patriotism in the deliberations and work of your war bureau."

Patriotic Declarations

Fulton county, which recently attracted widespread attention because of its promulgation of a patriotic policy, followed its action with a declaration at its war conference on February 22nd, that is equally worthy of note. The declaration recognizes the historical significance of the date, pays fitting tribute to the father of his country and recognizes the obligation entailed in the assistance rendered him by France. Pledges of support to President Wilson and Governor Goodrich to the extent "of all resources of Fulton county" the declarations continue:

"We reminded our fellow citizens of Fulton county that the victories in Europe are to be won as much by food, as by men and munitions and that therefore every call of our Government for restraint in the use of wheat, meats, fats and sugars is the call for a patriotic gift from our table to our own soldiers in Europe and to the splendid courageous nations with whom they fight side by side.

"We declare to our fellow citizens that we deserve to perish if we can not deny ourselves small things in order that our nation and other nations may achieve a world-wide freedom. If at this moment in the face of the request from our Government and from foreign Governments, we eat without limit, we are blind, and the near tomorrows will see our boasted freedom dead in the clutch of brutal power. Shall we of Fulton county eat all we wish, when we wish and thus live for today, or shall we take up the light cross of momentary self-denial so that our children may be proud of us as givers of strength to our nation even as we profess to be proud of the men who made the history of America in the past?"

Finally, we call on the exempted men of Fulton county (either exempted by age or by physical disability or by the pressure of responsibilities) to regard themselves as marked men, peculiarly set aside as those for whom others must lay down their lives that these men among us may still continue to live. We remind them and all our citizens that the three American soldiers first to die on French battlefields, Enright, Hay and Gresham (the last a Hoosier boy), were the first sheaves of sacrifice and of glorious death for the glorious life of our nation. These leaders into the new gallery of our nation's heroes died for us, just as truly as if they had bodily stood between us and danger. These have died and we are to live so that Government of all the people, for all the people shall never cease to exert its blessed influence upon our children and our children's children. Amen.

Make your home service reach the firing line.

Red Cross Activities

The second Red Cross war fund drive for $100,000,000, originally scheduled for the week beginning May 6 has been postponed until the week beginning May 20, R. F. Grant, drive director for the Lake Division, announces.

This change of dates is made in accordance with instructions from the American Red Cross War Council at Washington. Fear that it might detract even slightly from the forthcoming liberty loan campaign prompted the Red Cross to postpone the date of its drive for two weeks.

Mr. Grant has announced the names of the men who will serve as State drive managers in the Lake Division.

Charles F. Coffin, vice president and general manager of the Indiana State Life Insurance Co., of Indianapolis, is to be the Indiana drive manager. His State has been given a quota of $2,100,000. Clarence Stanley of Indianapolis, will be Indiana's associate war fund manager. Mr. Coffin and Mr. Stanley will have the co-operation of A. F. Bentley, who is in charge of the Lake Division's Indiana offices.

The action of the War Fund Council in postponing the drive fixes the date of the second campaign just eleven months after the first drive, which was carried on the week of June 18, 1917. More than $100,000,000 was contributed in that drive. Contributions plus interest brought the total receipts up to $105,099,257. Of this amount $17,006,121 was refunded to chapters for local relief work.

The balance of $77,721,918 has been appropriated, leaving a balance available for appropriations of $10,371,217.

France has been the beneficiary of American Red Cross appropriations to the sum of more than $30,000,000.

War Winning Spirit in Two Monroe Co. School Districts

The Finley school is a one-room country school district. The teacher is Geo. W. Setser, a mature, earnest man, who not only teaches the three R's, but works for the social welfare of the whole community. When America entered the war he began in a systematic way to instill patriotic sentiment and war activity into his pupils and the entire community. The community is small, with twenty-four pupils enrolled in the school. It is not a wealthy district, but just an average Monroe county community. The results of the campaign made by the pupils under the leadership of Mr. Setser are as follows: Every pupil in the school is a member of the Red Cross; each pupil has a thrift card; the pupils have organized for a campaign for increased production and food conservation; each family in the district has pledged for War Savings Stamps, and in most cases each member of the family is pledged. The interest of the district in war activities extends to other communities.

On Thursday evening, February 21, there was an enthusiastic war meeting at the Phillips school house, in a district adjoining the Finley district. The housewives of the districts reported their organization for food conservation, and the men for increased production. When the chairman called for W. S. S. pledges, there was some little delay in starting the list, when Mrs. C. C. Haines, a young married woman from the Finley district, arose and said: "I don't want to break into your meeting. I live in the Finley district. You are richer than we are. We have already pledged over $2,000 and you can't beat us." This remark started things. Lawson Patton of the Phillips district, said, "We'll show you," when Mrs. Haines came back with, "If you do, you'll have to go some." Patton pledged $150 for himself, his wife pledged $150, and his four children, Wanda, Freddie, Elizabeth and Jack, pledged $50 each. Mrs. Mary Kerr pledged $500 which she afterward raised to $600. In half an hour $1,700 had been pledged. A week later the pledge list rose to more than $1,800, and seventeen school children had taken thrift cards. Phillips has set its minimum pledge at $2,500. Meantime the Finley district has raised its amount to $3,600 and is still at it.

LET THIS WAR-WINNING SPIRIT SPREAD.

MAR 30

I want Indiana's defense organization to be 100 per cent. strong, covering an equal proportion of the State's territory.—GOVERNOR JAMES P. GOODRICH.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MARCH 22, 1918

Number 32

Foley Appointed to Head State Council

Isaac D. Straus Becomes Secretary on Recommendation of Governor to Session March 20.

The appointment of Michael E. Foley of Indianapolis as chairman of the State Council of Defense to succeed Will H. Hays, who recently resigned to take up his duties as chairman of the Republican national committee, was announced by Governor James P. Goodrich at the regular meeting of the Council. At the same time the appointment of Isaac D. Straus of Ligonier as secretary to succeed Frank C. Dailey of Indianapolis also was announced. Mr. Dailey has been unable to give his time to the work as secretary. The Council unanimously concurred in both appointments.

The appointments were made following the passage of a resolution introduced by Isaac Straus asking Governor Goodrich to make such appointments. The resolution was reported to the Governor and the appointments followed.

Following the announcement of his appointment Mr. Foley spoke to the Council expressing his gratification and declared that he intended to do all in his power to co-operate with President Wilson and Governor Goodrich in their war programs.

Ross Lockridge of Ft. Wayne was elected by unanimous vote of the Council to serve as associate labor director for the State of Indiana following his nomination by a committee composed of Arthur W. Brady, Evans Woollen and Will Irwin. The committee also read a letter from the department of labor in which it was stated that W. C. DeMiller of the federal employment bureau at Indianapolis had been appointed labor director for the State.

James L. Keach, following the report of the committee, placed the name of Charles Fox, a member of the Council, in nomination, but his nomination was lost for want of a second.

A report on the alleged lockout on the part of the Ross Gear and Tool Company of Lafayette of from 350 to 400 employees who had formed a union was read by Adolph Fritz, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, acting for Mr. Fox. It was said that the firm is engaged in the making of war supplies for the federal government. On a motion by Mr. Keach the matter was referred to the labor committee and the employers' co-operative committee jointly with instructions to report at the next meeting. Mr. Fox stated that he had already submitted Mr. Fritz's report to Governor Goodrich and that both he and the Governor had telegraphed the department of labor and the war department asking intervention.

A committee of six citizens of Crawfordsville appeared before the Council asking approval of the plans to float a $100,000 bond issue following the third Liberty loan campaign for the purpose of erecting a new high school building. It was pointed out that such a building is absolutely necessary to a successful continuation of school. It was also stated that all of the brick to be used in the building would be manufactured in Crawfordsville and that for this reason little railroad transportation will be necessary. On a motion by Mr. Keach the committee was given a copy of a resolution passed at the last meeting setting forth the policy of the Council in such matters with the understanding that the policy of the Council as set forth in the resolution included the approval of the erection of a school building when

Heroic Women of France

By Dr. Alonzo Taylor.

My words are not powerful enough to do even scanty justice to the most heroic figure in the modern world, and of ages past—the woman of France. Of the healthy men who are engaged in the military service in France, practically all are engaged either in transportation or in the manufacture of munitions, leaving the agriculture absolutely to the women. Not only this, but they have stepped into the place of work animals; you can go into any section of France today and see women of magnificent, noble womanhood hitched to the plough and cultivating the soil. All of the agriculture rests upon their shoulders. The home, always an extremely efficient home, maintains a few old men, the wounded, and the tubercular. Uncomplaining, with high devotion, with an attitude that amounts almost to religious exaltation, the woman of France bears the burden.

Now, conditions being as they are, does it lie within the heart of the American people to preserve and hold to every convenience of our life at the expense of adding an additional burden to the womanhood of France? This is the exact question that is involved in our substitution of other cereals in place of wheat.

The women of France must be enabled to hold up the morale of the French soldier until next spring. The morale of the house decides the morale of the soldier in the fighting line. We can do this by giving to them the greatest possible freedom in their food supply, and of this, wheat is the chief factor.

such an emergency exists as was shown to exist at Crawfordsville.

Frank Smith, secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers' Association, addressed the Council denying newspaper reports that the organization had put forward a candidate for State labor director. He said the association had no candidate for the place and considered the director should be without prejudicial training or associations, and for that reason took exception to the proposed appointment of Mr. Fox.

A motion recommending that the Council take such steps as will insure the organization and registration of women for war work in Rush and Orange counties was presented by Mr. Hays and was passed by the council. An amendment made later by Mr. Straus asking that the Boys' Working Reserve be included in the motion also was passed.

A communication from Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, stated that representatives of the British labor commission would be in Indianapolis March 26. Mr. Tobin's suggestion that the Council assist in arranging such a meeting was approved.

A request from the Food Administration that the Council purchase and distribute conservation stamps was referred to the finance committee.

The work of the Armenian relief committee was endorsed by the Council on a motion of Dr. A. B. Storms following requests from Indiana representatives of the organization that such approval be given.

Dr. Storms and Mr. Brady were appointed a committee to investigate and report on the origin of the Indiana war text book following a statement from Horace Ellis, State superintendent of public instruction, that some persons over the State had understood that the book originated with the State board of education and not the State Council of Defense. He asked that the committee's report be made a matter of record.

Mr. Keach, a member of the committee appointed to investigate alleged activities of the sheep distribution association, reported that he found the report that sheep had been shipped to Winchester and sold at a profit to be true. His report condemned the use of the name of the State Council of Defense in connection with a profit-making enterprise. This report appears elsewhere in this issue of the Bulletin.

Mr. Straus reported that to date 9,038 boys had enrolled in Indiana in the United States Boys' Working Reserve and stated that 15,000 enrollments are expected by the end of the week. He also stated that a house to house canvass in sixty-one counties of the State revealed the fact that 9,986 boys would be needed this summer by the farmers of those counties.

Mr. Brady, chairman of a committee appointed to make recommendations as to whether or not a representative of the Council should attend the meeting of the National Lyceum Association at Washington, recommended that J. J. Pettijohn, chairman of the speakers' bureau, attend the meeting. His report was adopted.

A committee composed of Arthur W. Brady
Continued on Page 3.)

355
I 385 cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—Every person in Adams county has been asked to give 10 cents toward a fund of $400 to be used in providing entertainment for soldiers. The Rotary Club is co-operating.

Allen County.—More than seven hundred boys have enrolled in the United States Boys' Working Reserve in Ft. Wayne and it is evident that the city will exceed its quota of 1,000....The city of Ft. Wayne has been divided into thirty-two divisions, each with a "captain," who will have charge of the war gardens in his district. Thus far few lots have been offered for cultivation, but as the planting season approaches more ground is expected to be turned over to the garden committee.

Bartholomew County.—Several thousand dollars will be turned over to the Red Cross of this county when the proceeds of a live stock sale held for the benefit of that organization are tabulated. Five auctioneers volunteered their services and many farmers gave the live stock, which went to the highest bidders. The stock put on sale included seventeen horses, fourteen cattle and thirteen hogs....A complete survey of every vacant lot in Columbus is being made and the Chamber of Commerce has taken over the work of distributing seeds for the war gardens. It is expected that every available plot of ground in the city will be cultivated this summer. Because owners of vacant lots in Columbus are said to be planning to charge exorbitant rent for the lots for garden purposes Mayor Frank S. Jones has threatened to commandeer the lots and to assign them to persons desiring to plant gardens....The work of organizing food clubs throughout the county is going forward rapidly and it will be but a short time until the organization of all the clubs is completed. Township leaders have been named by Mrs. Franz Best, county president, to take charge of the work in their respective townships.

Brown County.—The registration of women for war work has been going forward rapidly under the direction of Mrs. Ada W. Schulz, county chairman. Two township chairmen, Mrs. Eva Brown of Van Buren township and Miss Tessie Bond of Washington township, already are at work. Other township chairmen will be named. Each school district will have, in turn, local chairmen, who will be registrars for their districts. Brown county women also are busy preparing to cultivate war gardens.

Clinton County.—Members of the county registration board are planning a farewell meeting in honor of the men who have gone into the service from this county and of the men who will go in the next draft, March 29. The meeting will be held in the court house and the men who will leave that day will each be presented with a comfort.

Delaware County.—Mayor Bunch of Muncie has called a special meeting of the city council to act on an ordinance which would compel every vacant lot owner in the city either to cultivate his property or permit someone else to cultivate it. The council already has appropriated $1,000 for seeds for these gardens.

Elkhart County.—The county food administration, assisted by A. E. Weaver, county superintendent of schools, will on March 24 and 25 present to over 20,000 men, women and children of Elkhart county the aims and purposes of the food administration. For this great drive, the most ambitious ever made in the county, over three hundred speakers have been selected and food talks will be made in every school, church and theater. A prize of $5 will be offered to the family in each school district of Elkhart having the best war garden. There also will be a contest to determine the best gardens in the town, loving cups to be given for the best two....To show the soldiers of Elkhart county who are in France or in training camps that the people back home remember them and appreciate the service they are rendering, the Soldiers and Sailors' Welfare League of the southern exemption district of the county has sent the following Easter greeting to all the men from the district who are in the service: "To Our Soldiers and Sailors:

"We extend to each and all of you our Easter greetings and again assure you of our heartiest interest in all things that pertain to your well-being and contentment.

"Be assured that we are all of us thinking of you and are only regretful that we cannot keep in more intimate correspondence with you at least each week of the year.

"We hope this interchange of letters between us will continue as time passes, and that you are even a fraction as glad to hear from us as we are to hear from you.

"May the God of our fathers be with you and yours." A total of nearly 5,000 persons have subscribed to the "patriotic fund" which is to cover the county's quota in war relief collections. No estimate has been made of the total amount collected.

Fayette County.—Eleven men, three of them representing the town of Connersville and the remainder representing Fayette county outside of Connersville, have been appointed by County Food Administrator A. E. Letter as an advisory cabinet to aid in food administration affairs. The men are all prominent in business and will serve without pay.

Floyd County.—A program of community singing, arranged by Anton H. Embs, supervisor of music in the New Albany schools, was given March 21 under the auspieces of the County Council of Defense. No admission was charged, as the affair was for the purpose of arousing patriotic spirit.

Greene County.—The citizens of Greene county met at Bloomfield February 22 to hold their patriotic meeting and celebrate Washington's birthday. There was a generous response and the town was full of patriotic people. The meeting was held under the auspices of the County Council of Defense, and all the activities of the war were represented. The Boy Scouts of Bloomfield, the Order of Red Men of Bloomfield, the Liberty Guards of Worthington gave drills on the streets accompanied by a good band of music. Sectional meetings were held in the court house, Christian church, Methodist church and Presbyterian church. Each of these was well attended. The chairman of each meeting was the representative head of that activity in the county. Much interest was manifested in all that was said and done and great good will came from this meeting. The "All-Together Meeting" was held in the court house in the afternoon and at the same time there was an overflow meeting at the Colonial theater. Each speaker after addressing one audience was conducted to the other so that all people present heard all the talks. The speakers in the afternoon were Hon. Fred Bays of Sullivan, George D. Smith, one of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. at Fort Harrison; Miss Eleanor B. Parker of Indianapolis, T. F. Fitzgibbons, superintendent of Columbus schools; Dr. C. H. Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bloomington; Mrs. W. C. Smith of Indianapolis. The night meeting was addressed by Capt. Leys Brown, who is now in charge of the British-Canadian recruiting station at Terre Haute.

Hendricks County.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the observance of "Patriotic Day," April 6, the first anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war. The following committee has charge of the arrangements: A. D. Johnson, Dr. Ernest Cooper, B. R. Inman, Albert P. Barlow, B. W. Anderson and Charles N. Symons.

Howard County.—The restaurant and hotel men of Kokomo have organized to secure a better and more general observance of the food administration conservation rules. Mayor Wright of Kokomo has personal charge of assigning lots for war gardens. The work has been going on for some time and a large number of lots already have been assigned.

Johnson County.—The Johnson county commissioners have under consideration a plan to purchase enough seed corn to relieve the county's shortage, which is said to be serious. It is said that if some step is not taken to obtain seed at once the acreage for the county will be far below normal. The corn will be resold to the farmers through a seed corn buying association, according to the plan....The county thrift stamp organization is planning to visit every home in the county and if possible to make everyone in the county an owner of thrift stamps or war saving certificates.

Knox County.—In order to clear up any confusion which might exist in regard to the thrift stamp campaign, the students of the Vincennes Senior High School have issued a list of fifteen questions and answers which completely cover the plan of thrift and war savings stamp investments and the manner in which the campaign is being conducted....Several large tracts of land near Vincennes probably will be turned over to the people of the city for the purpose of planting war gardens. A number of factories have taken up the proposition of co-operating with the War Garden Association to the extent of providing tracts of land for their employees to cultivate.

Lake County.—Superintendents of schools throughout the county have taken charge of the campaigns in their respective districts for the planting of more home gardens in the interest of greater food production. The superintendents will report directly to the County Council of Defense....A campaign is being conducted to eliminate sheep-killing dogs, which have been doing much damage on the farms of the county.

Marshall County.—Marshall County Council of Defense is now organized in all its departments, ready to conduct the coming drives with promptness and vigor. At a recent meeting the county commissioners allowed about $150 a month during the spring and summer to carry on the work. In September a large appropriation will be made in order to extend the work for the next year. Office rooms have been secured on North Michigan street, over the State Bank. A stenographer has been employed. These rooms are headquarters for all branches of war work in the county and will be open both morning and afternoon during office hours.

Montgomery County.—The first persons to make application for bonds of the Third Liberty Loan in this county were Thad S. McCullough, Jr., three years old; Robert Smith McCullough, fifteen months old, and Charles Richard McCullough, fifteen months old....The Montgomery County Council of Women, the County Council of Defense and Food Administrator Endicott will co-operate in holding a big sale of war food on March 30 for the purpose of arousing women to a realization of the importance of the use of wheat flour substitutes. The food will be contributed and sold at cost for the purpose of furthering the campaign of the council. Tested recipes by the women of the county also will be distributed among those attending the sale.

Newton County.—Practically every student in the Brook High School is a member of the Junior Red Cross. The Girls' Glee Club of the school recently gave a concert under the direction of Miss Vivian Taylor and gave the proceeds of $100 to the Junior Red Cross. About 65 per cent. of the students of the school are Liberty Bond, Thrift Stamp or War Saving Certificate owners and about 90 per cent. of those eligible for enrollment in the United States Boys' Working Reserve have enlisted in that organization....A large and enthusiastic gathering of women crowded the opera house at Goodland, Ind., for a patriotic meeting Sunday afternoon, March 10. The meeting was held preparatory to the women's registration to be taken next month. The program consisted of patriotic songs and stirring addresses, the principal address being given by Miss Julia Landers, chairwoman of the enrollment committee of the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense. Mrs. Harry Little, local county chairwoman of the registration committee, in introducing the speakers, said that last year they obtained an 85 per cent. registration in this township and this year they are confident of being able to make it 100 per cent.

Rush County.—The schools of Rush county anticipated the action of the State Department of Public Instruction in eliminating the poem, "Kaiserblumen," from the school readers and have not required that it be read in the schools for the last two years. Although there is no ruling in the matter on the part of state school officials teachers of the county have been instructed to cease the teaching of the story, "Hans, the Shepherd Boy," which concerns a young German prince.

St. Joseph County.—A total of $750,000 has been set as the goal for South Bend's war chest for 1918, which is expected to cover the city's subscriptions to all war relief funds during the year. Every available means of advertising will be used and a large number of speakers will cover the county in the interest of the fund....The Mishawaka Public Library is conducting an intensive campaign for books for soldiers. The response has been general in the donation of books from private libraries. Service flags, each bearing thirteen stars, representing the attorneys of St. Joseph county who are in the service of the country, have been hung in each of the court rooms of the county.

Tiptecan County.—A Rainbow Regiment Cheer Society is being organized in Lafayette for the purpose of letting the members of the Indiana Rainbow Regiment know that the people back home remember them and appreciate the services they are performing....A total of $172.31 was turned over to the Red Cross as the result of the sale of gold, silver, brass and pewter trinkets by members of the Sigma Theta Pi Sorority.

Tipton County.—The women's all-day rally on Friday, March 8, was the greatest meeting of its kind ever held in Tipton county. The immense throng of loyal women in attendance listened with heartfelt interest to the speakers of the day, declaring at the late close that they were refreshed rather than wearied. Much of this success was due to the untiring zeal of the chairman, Mrs. G. G. Davis, who holds a commission from the United States Government as president of the Women's County Food Club. Mrs. Davis called the meeting promptly at 10:30 o'clock. The audience sang "America," with Mrs. T. A. Allen at the piano. After prayer by the Rev. Ben Kendall of the Kemp M. E. church, Mrs. H. G. Read extended the greetings in her usual pleasing manner. Mrs. Olive Belden Lewis of Richmond gave a short talk on the food question, the burden of which was "Make every woman a war volunteer." Mrs. Susan Wasson of Delphi, district suffrage chairman, conducted a most instructive questionnaire on the Federal amendment for woman's suffrage, now pending in the United States Senate. Mrs. Albert Rabb of Indianapolis, one of the famous fourteen-minute speakers, gave a second food talk of the morning. Her message was of high value. She said that every loyal woman who is conserving must do police duty—report her neighbor who is not conserving. The afternoon session was opened by the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Davis then introduced Miss Elizabeth Cowan of Crawfordsville, who is in the service of the Government as state food club organizer. Her topic was "Domestic Science and the War." We are often urged to give until it hurts. She said: "Give until it stops hurting." Her talk was so appealing that at its close a motion for a county demonstration agent was unanimously carried. Mrs. Rabb in her second talk told "Why we are at war" and "How we must win it," the latter by promoting patriotism, keeping the home fires burning, strengthening the morale and creating a higher spiritual vision. Mrs. Wasson then gave a most practical and helpful talk on the "registration of women," showing just how every woman may be reached. Mrs. Glenn Gifford, Tipton county chairman of registration, responded to Mrs. Wasson. The big speech of the day on "Franchise and the War" followed. Mrs. Lewis, who speaks with the vim of a man, showed beyond the shadow of contradiction that unless women are allowed to help the men of Indiana in the immediate future the State will be absolutely at the mercy of the alien vote. Mrs. Lulu Hardy of Tipton spoke most appealingly to the war mothers. A complete organization was effected and a standing honor vote given to the war mothers present.

Vanderburgh County.—The Fourteen-Minute Women of the county spoke for the United States Boys' Working Reserve during the enrollment week of that organization. Enrolling offices for the reserve were established in every fire station in Evansville....The merchants of Evansville have formed an organization to boost the war garden campaign.

Save food or go on short rations.

The Children's Year in Indiana

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, Chairman of Welfare Committee, Outlines Plans To Be Pursued in Carrying Out Reconstruction Policy of the Council of National Defense.

BULLETIN NO. 36.

Evansville, Ind., March 11, 1918.

To the Child Welfare Chairman,
County Councils of Defense:

The National Council of Defense is giving our State Child Welfare Chairmen their second task, and we are passing on the instructions given us for the County Chairmen of our Department.

This second task has a definite time in which to be performed, so I advise that all other work, well started, shall be given into the charge of a reliable sub-committee, and that every effort be concentrated on the task at hand, which may be briefly outlined as follows:

"THE CHILDREN'S YEAR."

It is estimated that 300,000 children under five die annually in the United States. Experts tell us that we should be able to save at least 100,000 of this number. Indiana's quota is 2,592. How are we to begin? How are we to know what children are in the most danger and need the most attention in each county?

By applying the regular babies' clinic test, of weighing and measuring the children. At the same time we are asked to register them, for obvious reasons.

This test has also been tried out by our State experts in some districts of Indiana. It is used weekly in the babies' clinics of our larger cities, and is used by many mothers to see whether their babies are thriving as they should, for a thriving child grows and increases in weight regularly. Failure to grow and to increase in weight shows something wrong that should be remedied at once. If not corrected in time, the child may droop and pine, may always be "delicate," or may succumb to the first attack of disease. The babies' clinics of Indiana save the lives of hundreds of babies. There can be no doubt that even this one test will result in saving many little lives and correcting many defects. There can also be no doubt that if such a test had been made upon the young men recently examined for the army, many tragic stories of defects would not have been told.

It is a wonderful opportunity for the mothers of Indiana to have their children given a free test. How proud they will be if their children register perfect. How thankful they will be if they are shown how to correct some defect or to promote more vigorous health of their children. The State Board of Health, Purdue University, and other colleges will give expert help and advice. The county medical associations will be called on for their help and so will all welfare and other associations of trained nurses. Every organization in each county and every individual having experience in any phase of child life must be called in to help with this huge job. It is not a matter of whim or choice, it is a thing that we are drafted to do, and the Government looks to us to do it, for the children are "the nation's last reserves."

We ought to be able to save twice our quota of 2,592. But if we save only one little life in each county it will save one mother's broken heart, one darkened home. When we learn to properly estimate the value of one child we shall count no cost too great for its welfare.

THE PLAN.

The State Board of Education will co-operate in this great life saving work by opening every grade school house in the State on a "Children's Day." This will probably be April 6, the date of the entry of the United States into the war. The "Children's Year" begins on that date and we are expected to begin then with our weighing, etc., and to finish it in sixty days.

The accepted plan is to bring every child under five, if possible, at least in rural districts and small communities, into the school houses on this "Children's Day," so that as many as possible may be tested and registered at one time.

I have already been urging the County Child Welfare Chairmen to organize their townships. In fact, make a separate organization for each school house. If you have not done this, lose no time in perfecting the organization. It will be best to have at the head of each sub-committee or township organization a member of the Parent-Teachers' Club (or Mothers' Congress), if the school has one. Also a member of the federated clubs or other woman's clubs. Also a welfare nurse, trained nurse or other experienced nurse or woman doctor. These would be the executive committee. Appoint sub-committees as follows:

1. A committee to see that the mothers and little children are brought from the farthest homes, in autos, and carried back again when they are ready to go.
2. A committee to take care of the registration cards, to record weights, etc.
3. A committee to see that all necessities are at hand, such as a large, tested scales, sheets of tissue paper on which to lay each infant, while being weighed, and any supplies needed for the children's comfort. They should see that the school house is properly warmed, that screens are on hand to screen off a private place to strip and weigh the children, etc.
4. A committee to see that a picnic noon lunch is brought, if the neighborhood desires to meet together at lunch, and if the school house has enough space. At least, provide for the mothers with infants. The country doctors should be on hand, if possible, as this will be a great opportunity to note defects or diseases and to give instruction to mothers.

In school districts near to cities that have baby clinics, secure, if possible, several of the clinic workers for each school house. They can give short talks to the mothers on child hygiene. A trained nurse should be present, if possible. Either the nurse or the doctor should give instruction on baby care.

The size of the school house will determine what kind of patriotic exercises can be held on this day. These will be entirely in charge of the teacher and should consist of recitations and songs by the children of various grades. If the school house is crowded this might be given the day before, or if the weather is fine drills, marching and songs might be given outdoors. Each locality will decide its own method, but the celebration of April 6, as a patriotic day, is desired.

In the rural districts the greater part of the children under five can be tested and registered on one day. Those not able to come must be visited in their homes by the committee, or the doctor, or the nurse, with a reliable scales. Or, they must be brought to the doctor's office or to such place as the committee thinks best.

IN THE CITIES.

The same plan is to be followed in the cities. In Vanderburg and Marion counties the work is undertaken by the Babies' Clinic of Evansville and the Children's Aid of Indianapolis. It is desirable that every city or town having such an organization shall undertake this work for both the county and the city. It will be found, of course, that only a small part of the children could be tested at one time. The confusion of many children in large buildings must be taken into account. The number of doctors and nurses must also be considered. In larger cities it will be possible to hold a babies' clinic in only a few of the buildings on that day. The Child Welfare Committee will have to decide for itself in each city and town the plan that will accomplish the most good. But bear in mind these things:

On the "Children's Day" have the patriotic observance by recitations, etc., by the grade children, as the teachers see best to plan them. This part is left entirely to the teachers.

Plan also to have a doctor, or nurse or clinic worker give a talk to the Parent-Teachers' Clubs (or to the mothers, if no such club has been begun) on child hygiene. If possible, have a demonstration.

If the children under five can be gathered quietly into one room and tested, by all means test as many as possible. It will be left to each county to do its "follow up work" of completing the test in the sixty days, as it sees best. It may be found easiest to divide the city into wards and precincts and have a committee for each who will visit the children in their homes or assemble them at the nearest school house each week.

In all districts not having Parent-Teachers' or Mothers' Clubs, it will be found advisable and helpful to make such an organization. Blank cards will be sent to each chairman from Washington, D. C., very soon. I have absolutely no literature, no blanks and no fund for postage.

Any further instructions must come from Washington. I have received none as yet. If any questions come up, do what you think best for your county. Or, send in your questions and I will answer all I can in the next bulletin letter.

Indiana is leading in all war work. Let us lead in our Child Welfare registration. This is the biggest job given the State Council of Defense so far. Let us show that we are equal to it.

With great confidence in our County Child Welfare Committees,

Yours cordially,

ALBION FELLOWS BACON,
State Chairman Child Welfare, State Council of Defense.

Foley Appointed to Head State Council

(Continued from page 1.)

and W. J. Freeman appointed to investigate the alleged practice of courts in remitting fines and sentences on condition that the convicted men enlist in the army, reported that they found no such practice to exist. The report of the committee can be found elsewhere in the Bulletin.

A matter of recommending the use of power machinery on farms was referred to Prof. G. I. Christie of the food production and conservation committee.

Mr. Christie reported that in some sections of the State farmers have refused to cultivate their farms this summer expecting to allow them to remain idle. On a motion by A. E. Reynolds the food production and conservation committee was instructed to get in touch with County Councils of Defense and learn the names of farmers who refuse to cultivate their land and to report these names and the circumstances to the State Council. Mr. Christie stated that Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Pearson had stated that farmers who refused to cultivate their land could be considered as alien enemies and their land could be confiscated by the Government.

In accordance with a request made at the last meeting of the Council, Mr. Pettijohn made a detailed report of the activities of the speakers' bureau. The report will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Bulletin.

George Harney of the military affairs committee reported the activity of the committee in aiding in the confiscation of "The Finished Mystery," a book published by the International Bible Students' Association, and declared by the department of justice to be seditious. He also reported a plan being worked out to suggest to draft officials a more uniform manner of classifying men in Class 1.

Edward W. Hines, chairman of the Kentucky State Council of Defense, was present at the meeting for the purpose of observing the work of the Indiana Council.

If we are to continue our supplies to the Allies, we must reduce our consumption of pork products. They are necessary for food and for making munitions.

By keeping up the exportation of fats for the maintenance of all the soldiers and sailors fighting in our defense, we help move the German line back to Berlin.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 32

Attention—County Councils

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.
GENERAL BULLETIN No. 129.

March 15, 1918.

To County Council of Defense:

The Department of Justice of the United States has just wired to its agents in charge of the Bureau of Investigation that they are to use every effort to suppress the sale and distribution of a periodical called "The Bible Students' Monthly," published at Brooklyn, and the book called "The Finished Mystery," being volume 7 of a series of publications on "Studies in the Scriptures," published by the International Bible Students' Association at Brooklyn and other cities.

The department advises that these publications are seditious and that the text which is interlarded with scriptural quotations is but a species of disloyal utterances that furnishes comfort to the enemies of the nation at this time.

The sheriffs of the counties and the chiefs of police of our cities and the marshals of our towns are called on to assist in the suppression of these publications. Their activities, however, will go no further than raiding the places where the publications are sold and seizing the documents that might be offered for sale, holding them for the department. Their activities would not extend to going into the homes and seizing the publications that might be there as part of a home library.

Please assist these peace officers in every way in seeing that this order of the Department of Justice is obeyed. Report to us if any of these publications are found and the character of those engaged in their distribution.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN No. 128.

March 15, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

In further regard to the organization of Township Councils of Defense, the State Council of Defense is just in receipt of the following letter from the President of the United States:

"Your State, in extending its national defense organization by the creation of community councils, is in my opinion making an advance of vital significance. It will, I believe, result when thoroughly carried out in welding the nation together as no nation of great size has ever been welded before. It will build up from the bottom an understanding and sympathy and unity of purpose and effort which will no doubt have an immediate and decisive effect upon our great undertaking. You will find it, I think, not so much a new task as a unification of existing efforts, a fusion of energies now too much scattered and at times somewhat confused into one harmonious and effective power."

"It is only by extending your organization to small communities that every citizen of the State can be reached and touched with the inspiration of the common cause. The school house has been suggested as an apt though not essential center for your local Council. It symbolizes one of the first fruits of such an organization, namely, the spreading of the realization of the great truth that it is each one of us as an individual citizen upon whom rests the ultimate responsibility. Through this great new organization we will express with added emphasis our will to win and our confidence in the utter righteousness of our purpose."

Sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.
STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

* * * *

GENERAL BULLETIN No. 130.

March 18, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The United States Bureau of Education has written the State and county superintendents of schools a letter, copy of which is enclosed, urging them to aid community organization by all means in their power.

There is no doubt that county superintendents of schools can render you most valuable assistance in your present work of organizing township or community councils and we suggest that you, if you have not already done so, request your county superintendent to aid you in this work.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Department of the Interior,
Bureau of Education,
Washington.

Interstate Letter. From Bureau of Education to State and County Superintendents; Subject, Organization of Community Centers.

The Council of National Defense has recently issued to the State Councils of Defense, its representatives in the States, a bulletin and program, of which a copy is enclosed, urging the State Councils of Defense to create in each school district or similar governmental unit a Community Council. The United States Bureau of Education has adopted the slogan and permanent aim: "Every Public School a Community Center for State and National Service."

These aims of the Council of National Defense and the Bureau of Education are one—both desire to assist local communities to organize for national service in time of war, both hope and expect that after these communities have discovered the joy of working for a cause greater than their personal interests, they will naturally want to continue the organization for national service in time of peace.

The present campaign of the Council of National Defense and the State Councils of Defense for community organization offers to the State and county superintendents of schools a rare opportunity to serve the nation in the prosecution of the war and to promote the development of permanent community organization with the public school as a center. You are therefore urged to unite with us and the National and State Councils of Defense in a concerted effort for the mobilization of the country. To this end we ask that you communicate with the State or County Council of Defense in your jurisdiction to ascertain their plans for community organization and to arrange for your mutual co-operation in the development thereof.

We desire to make it clear that the plan we here propose is not a new organization to be added to the long list of those already existing. Its aim is rather to decrease their number by co-ordinating them and by preventing needless waste through the duplication of activities.

The Council of National Defense is writing to the State Council of Defense a letter, a copy of which is enclosed, telling them of the opportunities for co-operation with the State and county superintendents of education and requesting them to make arrangements for this co-operation with you.

Very truly yours,

P. P. CLAXTON,
Commissioner of Education.

HENRY E. JACKSON,
Special Agent in Community Organization.

Chicken fat is good for making cake and pastry. The French housewife likes it better than butter or lard.

Substitution will do more for food conservation than the strictest economy. Use vegetable fats.

Waste fat and you endanger our supply of ammunition.

Another Source of Farm Labor Supply

County Agents and Farmers of Northern Indiana Adopt Resolutions on Timely Subject.

One source of meeting the farm labor shortage and one which will assure the gathering of the crops the coming summer is in having business and professional men, clerks, office and factory employees, and men in cities in various capacities spend their vacations on the farm this year instead of seeking merely amusement. Another source of help from the cities will be gained if manufacturers can be persuaded to close for inventory during July or August instead of the latter part of May or early June, the time the fiscal year closes for many firms.

To stimulate this idea in Indiana, county agents and farmers of the northern part of the State, in a meeting March 14, at South Bend, adopted a resolution, a copy of which has been received by the Food Production and Conservation Committee of the State Council of Defense. It follows:

"Whereas, The farmers of Indiana are confronted by the most serious labor shortage in the history of the State, which threatens to decrease food production, and

"Whereas, There are many industrial workers not engaged in the making of war materials, many of whom had previous farm experience who could be used advantageously in the harvest season, and

"Whereas, There are thousands of merchants, professional men, teachers, clerks, office men, etc., who render valuable assistance in harvesting the crops during June, July and August, and

"Whereas, the winning of the war depends to a very large extent on the amount of food produced this year, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we, county agents and farmers of Northern Indiana, assembled in conference at South Bend, Ind., March 14, 1918, urgently request the manufacturers and merchants to make their repairs and annual inventories during July and August so that their employees may be released to assist in harvesting these crops, so necessary to the winning of the war, and be it

"Resolved further, That professional men, clerks, teachers, office and factory employees and other men arrange to spend their vacations assisting in harvesting and threshing the wheat and other small grains so vital for our soldiers and allies, and be it

"Resolved further, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the Department of Labor at Washington, D. C., to Senators and Representatives from Indiana and given to the press."

* * * *

PRICES FOR BINDER TWINE.

Indiana farmers will pay approximately 4 cents a pound more for binder twine this summer than last summer. The prices which will be paid by dealers for standard and sisal twine this year have been set by the United States Food Administration at not more than 4 cents a pound above the price of sisal fiber, which is 19 cents a pound, when sold in carload lots of 20,000 pounds or more. An additional increase of one-eighth cent is allowed for lots of 10,000 pounds and one-fourth cent for smaller lots.

Prices for other grades of twine should not exceed the prices of standard and sisal twine by more than the following amounts:

550 feet to the pound—1½c increase.
600 feet to the pound—3c increase.
650 feet to the pound—4½c increase.
650 feet to the pound (pure Manila)—6c increase.

Conservation, concentration, and consecration—for the sake of those at the front.

If you run your household on three pounds of sugar a month per person, when fall comes the grocer won't have to hang up the sign, "No Sugar."

Chief Executive Urges Complete Organization

(By Governor James P. Goodrich.)

"The work of the Indiana State Council of Defense commends itself as the best possible argument in support of the plan to organize the men, women and resources of the State, on a war basis, with the township and public school districts as a unit. I earnestly endorse the plan for the extension of the defense organization and am watching the progress of Indiana County Councils of Defense with close interest.

"This is everybody's war and everybody may as well prepare now to take his or her part in it. This government will win, of course, but it will do so only when the sum total of its strength, human and material, are brought to bear against the most resourceful enemy that has ever aligned itself against human rights and civilization.

"Indiana has showed a rare capacity for organization. Our political parties have had very little difficulty in effecting a working organization that has gone down even to the square mile of territory in the country, the single city square in the larger communities. The war is a far bigger proposition than either or any political party or movement.

"This war is being planned on a basis that recognizes the value of every slice of bread, every ounce of fat, every single unit of every single thing that will contribute to the success of the cause. How then can any man, any woman, any child old enough to realize a responsibility hold aloof? They are all wanted, they are all needed. Indiana will not be satisfactorily represented in this war until every soul in every community is a part of the big organization, following directions with a single view to doing just such things as will best contribute to the success of the cause. I want Indiana's defense organization to be 100 per cent. strong, covering an equal proportion of the State's territory. The County Councils of Defense, charged with the responsibility of extending their work, have and deserve the sympathetic support and encouragement of all patriotic citizens, including that of their Governor."

War Books Recently Received By State Library

A few of the books on the war received by the State Library within the last week or two. Any of these may be borrowed for a short time by any citizen of the State. Make application through the local library, or send to the State Library for registration blank if there is no library in the town. The only expense is that of transportation:

Buffin, Baron C.—"Brave Belgians." A collection of accounts of the adventures of Belgian soldiers, told by the men themselves in a simple, straightforward way that carries conviction.

Dean, A. D.—"Our Schools in War Time and After." A very complete study of what may be done in schools to help in the war. Valuable for teachers and others interested in organizing the work of children.

Johnson, D. W.—"Topography and Strategy in the War." How the topography of the battle-grounds has influenced the conduct of the war. Not a technical treatment, but one meant for the general reader. Well illustrated with photographs, maps and diagrams.

Kellogg, V., and Taylor, A. E.—"The Food Problem." Food control in other countries. The food problem and its solution.

LeBon, Gustave—"Psychology of the Great War." A discussion of the causes and conduct of the war from the psychological point of view. The chapter on "Modern German Mentality" is particularly interesting.

Robinson, E. R., and West, V. J.—"Foreign Policy of Woodrow Wilson, 1913-1917." Not a history of the diplomacy of the United States, but an interpretation of the President's foreign policy, principally with regard to the European war.

Stuermer, H.—"Two War Years in Constantinople." Written from personal experience by a former correspondent of an important German paper, himself a German. An exposure of Turkish politics and German methods in Turkey.

Melons a Food

The Food Committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense believes the growing of melons on lands adaptable to them is to be commended, as each acre will supply large amounts of food. Several hundred acres of sandy soil in southern Indiana are devoted each year to the growing of melons. This land is not suitable for the growing of general farm crops on account of its light, sandy character.

Conservative yields in southern Indiana on sandy soils show that about 6,000 pounds of melons, 694 pounds of rye or 12.4 bushels, 980 pounds of wheat and 640 pounds of oats may reasonably be expected per acre.

Cantaloupes have as much carbohydrates per acre as rye, more than oats and five-sevenths as much as wheat. This is in the form of sugars, and so more readily available to the body's use. That an acre of melons affords over 500 pounds of sugar is especially significant at this time when sugar is so essential and hard to obtain.

Melons have twice as much mineral matter as wheat, rye or oats. This is of great importance, as the mineral portion of our diet must be supplied in order to keep the body in good physical condition.

Professor Sherman, head of Food Chemistry, Columbia University, says concerning this class of food:

"Even those fruits and green vegetables which are eaten for flavor with little thought of food value and which are often thought of as luxuries because of their high water content, will often be found to furnish energy at not greater cost than many of the familiar cuts of meat, when account is taken of the extent to which the fat is usually rejected or lost in cooking or at the table."

According to Professor Sherman the food value of vegetables as a class is equal to one-third of that of cereals, pound for pound. On this basis an acre of melons producing 6,000 pounds, allowing 50 per cent. waste, will equal 1,000 pounds of cereals. The medicinal value is not here taken into account.

Improper Practices

The committee named to investigate alleged "sentencing of criminals to the army and navy" reported to the Indiana State Council of Defense March 20, as follows:

"To the Indiana State Council of Defense:

"Your committee appointed to consider the complaint of an alleged improper practice of courts or judges in remitting fines or other penalties against men guilty of crime on condition that they enlist in the United States army and navy, report that after investigation we find no substantial basis for the belief that such practice prevails. The importance of upholding the reputation of the army and navy is well understood by the courts of Indiana, and it is also understood that the rules of the army and navy are such as to prevent or discourage the enlistment of men convicted of serious offenses. Sporadic cases of non-recognition of the rule that should govern should be given attention as they arise. We regard the matter as one requiring no special attention on the part of the Council at this time.

"Respectfully submitted,

"ARTHUR W. BRADY.

"W. J. FREEMAN."

The report was approved and ordered made a part of the record.

Make twelve ounces of bread do where sixteen served before.

Woman's Section

(By Anna Howard Shaw.)

How an American woman can help in this war is not a question of what she belongs to, but of what she can do or what she is willing to learn to do. That is why every woman in this country should associate herself with the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, through its State and local organization, for the Woman's Committee is the officially designated agency for mobilizing all the woman power of the country and co-ordinating all women's work so that it will be most effective and most helpful.

Thousands of women are already associated with the Woman's Committee through membership in a club or other organization. Practically all the women's societies and clubs in the United States are now affiliated with the Woman's Committee.

But these bodies comprise probably not more than one-fifth of all the woman power of the country, and the women in the other four-fifths are needed just as much as those already reached through their organizations. These four-fifths are being linked up with the Woman's Committee through the local units of the committee.

In our present situation there is not a woman, rich or poor, member of a club or non-member, employer or employee, in town or in the country, from whom some service is not demanded. By each some contribution must be made to the national cause. It is both the aim and the duty of the Woman's Committee to help all women, irrespective of their membership in any other organization, to find the means by which they may make their individual contribution to the war.

One way in which the Woman's Committee is doing this is through its registration of women in their home towns and cities. The registration now going on is for the purpose of giving all women an opportunity to find out and tell their Government what they can do, in what way they can best serve, or what they are willing to learn to do if called upon.

Registration has already discovered to many women forms of service of which they did not know they were capable, or which they had not known were needed, and means of training which they did not know were available. It has also discovered to employers and public officials resources of woman power which they had not hitherto known or appreciated.

Whether it be big or little, registration with the Woman's Committee will help you to find your war job. Register yourself as soon as an opportunity to do so is presented in your locality, or, if necessary, write your State chairman for a registration card.

Under a new and large appropriation the Department of Agriculture is now appointing hundreds of women demonstration agents to help town and city housewives, just as demonstration agents have been helping farmers' wives and daughters for several years.

Each city agent will be a representative of both your State College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, under whose directions she will work. Each will be a source of complete and authoritative information as to what the Government is doing to help women with their home problems, and also as to what the Government wants women to do in their homes.

These agents will work through co-operation with the public schools, with organizations already at work on home problems in relation to the war, and will utilize every other available means for helping you and your neighbors. If a demonstration agent has been appointed for your town, get in touch with her. If you don't know where she is, write and ask your State College of Agriculture. If none has been appointed, ask your State College of Agriculture when and how one may be appointed.

We must meet sacrifice at the front with sacrifice at home.

Only a slacker could stand idly on the sidewalk and criticize as the army of workers marches by.

Speakers' Bureau in Summarized Report

Work of This Department of the Indiana State Council of Defense Shown in Detail.

Complying with a request for a statement of the activities of the speakers' bureau to date, J. J. Pettijohn, chairman of the bureau, summarized the work that has been done under his direction and presented it to the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense, March 20. The report was approved and the bureau authorized to send representation to the national conference at Washington, April 8 to 13, at which a short course of training will be given patriotic speakers. Mr. Pettijohn probably will attend this meeting.

The summarized statement of the bureau's accomplishments to date follows:

I. History of the bureau.

A. Under Extension Division of Indiana University:

1. Lecture work of Extension Division expanded for war lectures, April 3, 1917.
2. April 6, call sent to men from all colleges and universities in the State for speakers to assist in war lectures.
3. May 1, 1917, libraries, schools, women's clubs and commercial organizations circularize offering war lectures free of charge.

B. Under State Committee for Mobilizing Educational Forces:

1. May 5, meeting of three hundred educators in Indianapolis at call of Governor Goodrich.
2. May 12, State committee recommended establishment of Speakers' Bureau.
3. May 15, Extension Division of Indiana University transferred its lecture work on war subjects to Speakers' Bureau organized under the State Committee for the Mobilization of the Educational Forces.
4. June 20, State Council of Defense created an Educational Section, which absorbed the State Committee for the Mobilization of the Educational Forces, but which changed the chairmanship from Mr. J. G. Collicott to Dr. Horace Ellis.

C. Under State Council of Defense:

1. June 20 to August 8, Bureau continued work under Educational Section.
2. August 8, Chairman Hays requested President Bryan to establish a special department for the securing of speakers for different localities calling for speakers.
3. September 2, Speakers' Bureau was established with J. J. Pettijohn director, Miss Orvis secretary (September 17, 1917, Miss Evans was made secretary).
4. November 14, complete plan of organization and program was submitted together with proposed budget to State Council of Defense.
5. November 21, upon motion of Mr. Evans Woollen recommendations for plans, program and budget was approved by the State Council of Defense.
6. Early in December, Advisory Committee, consisting of heads of important war work, was appointed by the chairman of the State Council of Defense.

II. Brief Review of Patriotic and Educational Addresses:

A. April 2 to September 4, 1917:

1. Approximately seventy lectures and addresses on War, including University Extension lectures, Red Cross, First Liberty Loan, and Boys' Working Reserve campaigns.

Addresses before summer schools and teachers' institutes, and special addresses for patriotic mass meetings, county fairs, chautauquas, home-coming days, etc.

B. September 1, 1917, to March 20, 1918:

1. Three hundred and seventy-eight miscellaneous calls for addresses for patriotic and organization meetings. From March 1 to March 19, 1917, eighty-one such calls were filled.
2. Four hundred and sixty-two addresses. County and community war conferences, not including the State conferences. In most of these conferences many of the speakers gave two or more addresses, but only one address for each man is included in the figures given above.
3. Professor Bogardus of the State Normal School and Professor Davis of Indiana University have, in addition to their war conference engagements, visited fifty-nine towns and cities to help organize the high schools for war service work. In all these places they have given addresses before the schools and in many places they have given addresses before other groups, such as parent teacher meetings and women's clubs.

III. Other Work of Bureau Since September 1, 1917:

- A Preparation and dissemination of circular literature such as briefs, and package library literature, and bibliographies.
- B Distribution of bulletins of Committee on Public Information, Child Welfare Bureau and University Extension Division.
- C Outlining and preparation of plans and programs for County and Community War Conferences, 114 of these.
- D Consultation with local program committees and secretaries.
- E Consultation with speakers about addresses and local conditions in communities in which they are to speak.
- F Miscellaneous. Routing speakers, special instruction to local committees, etc.

IV. Office Organization and

A Full time assistant:

Mr. Cavanaugh, assistant secretary of the Educational Section; Miss Evans, secretary of the Bureau; Miss Siegel, stenographer, and Mr. Bogardus of Indiana State Normal School, field worker.

B Part time work:

J. J. Pettijohn, director; Mr. Bittner, of Extension Division; Mr. Hendren, of State Board of Accounts. Extra stenographic help from the Extension Division of Indiana University and State Council.

C Salaries and expenses of all of these are paid by Indiana University, except Professor Bogardus, whose salary and expenses are paid by Indiana State Normal School, and Mr. Hendren, whose salary is paid by the State Board of Accounts.

V. Co-operation:

- A Speakers: One hundred and seventy-eight different speakers have filled dates for us. Many at a great sacrifice of time and often paying their own traveling expenses, have given their services freely and patriotically. Over two hundred others have offered their services.
- B War Agencies: Fuel and Food Administration officers, War Savings Stamps Committee, Boys' Working Reserve, Four-Minute Men, and other agencies have given most valuable aid to our work.
- C State Departments: The Public Health Department, the Charities and Corrections Departments, and the State Library and the Department of Education have co-operated as fully as their resources would permit.

D State Educational Institutions: The State Normal School, Purdue and Indiana Universities have given the time and services of many members of their faculties, even paid their expenses, and furnished other resources for our work. Indiana University, because it undertook the establishment of the Bureau, has given more than the other two institutions, but all have given generously and enthusiastically.

E Colleges and Private Normal Schools: Practically all of the private colleges and normal schools in Indiana have supplied the Bureau with speakers many times and, in some instances, have paid the traveling expenses of these speakers. President Millis of Hanover, Mackintosh of Wabash, Grose of DePauw and Father Cavanaugh of Notre Dame have been most generous with their time and energy in helping to make our work a success.

F The various departments, bureaus and sections of the State Council of Defense have co-operated fully and harmoniously. Special mention of the Boys' Working Reserve, the Women's Section, the Educational Section and the Publicity Department should be made.

VI. Recommendations.

A Equipment and Staff:

1. Larger quarters and more office equipment are needed.
2. To the staff should be added: (a) A librarian; (b) field organizers for (1) The development of community singing; (2) Giving assistance to County Speakers' Bureaus and Educational Committees; (3) Giving assistance to County, Township and Community War Committees for the successful conducting of conferences and public meetings and short courses dealing with War Service activities.

B Co-ordination of speaking agencies:

1. Women's Speakers' Bureau.
8. Special campaigns, Red Cross, Liberty loans, etc.

C Committee on Speakers' Bureau:

1. Executive Committee to consider policies and activities of the Bureau and to make recommendations to the State Council of Defense.

To Address War Prisoners.

Notice received by Mrs. W. F. Decker of Vincennes, mother of Hoyt Decker, captured by the Germans in a recent trench raid, that her son has been located and is being cared for by representatives of the American Red Cross, is expected to convey a comforting message to relatives and friends of other young men who may suffer a similar fate. Mrs. Decker has been assured that her son is being provided with sufficient food and clothing and she has been instructed how to address letters to him. After being given the address, Mrs. Decker is advised by W. R. Castle, Jr., director of the Bureau of Information for the Red Cross Society, as follows:

"In the lower left-hand corner you should write the words 'via New York,' and you should put your address on the back of the envelope. Do not put any postage on the letter, but write where the stamp would go 'Prisoner of War Mail, No Postage.' Write on not more than two sheets of paper and on one side only, and do not seal the envelope. The letter can simply be put in the mail and will go through.

"In a few days the postoffice department will make an announcement about parcels, but you need not feel that you must send in order to keep your boy going, as he will be receiving long before anything can reach him from here, everything that is necessary.

"We shall be glad to do anything we can for you at any time. Now that the young man is definitely reported a prisoner, I turn him over to Mr. Franklin Abbott, director, bureau of American prisoners' relief, American Red Cross, and he will give you any assistance you may require."

Food Administration

The present purpose of the Federal Food Administration is now directed to re-establishing a normal flow of wheat to the mills, as evidenced by the following telegram from Herbert Hoover:

"In order that we may comply with the urgent demands of the allies for wheat and at the same time take care of our own domestic supplies, we urgently need this year an earlier and more complete marketing of the wheat in farmers' hands than usual. The allies are taking from us 50 per cent. of other cereals than wheat to mix in their bread. Inasmuch as the people in allied countries and the soldiers must be fed with bread baked in bakeries, it is impossible for them to prepare bread made wholly out of other cereals and we must furnish them with sufficient wheat to maintain their bakery loaf. I therefore appeal to all of the farmers in the State of Indiana that they shall bring all of their wheat, except their necessary reserves for seed, to market before May 1. This is a war call and a service for Uncle Sam, who is fighting for his life. If your local miller is unable to buy all the wheat that is offered, market it in the customary trade channels through which it will reach the Food Administration Grain Corporation.

"HERBERT HOOVER."

Machinery for the vigorous enforcement of the selling price of wheat and mill feeds has been set up and the Federal Government proposes to act promptly and vigorously in all cases where the rules have been laid down and have not been adhered to in detail.

A maximum of 18 cents per gallon at seaboard for black-strap molasses, from which stock feed is manufactured, is announced by the Federal Food Administration. The effect of the order is intended to stimulate the feeding of live stock, with an adequate supply of feed at a reasonable price, the telegram states.

"Victory bread or close" by March 20 is the word that comes from the baking section. The food administration has determined that all bakers shall conform to the Victory recipe which calls for a minimum of 20 per cent. of wheat flour substitutes by the date fixed or quit business. It is the theory that by March 20 all bakers will have had an opportunity to supply themselves with the substitutes that the order has been promulgated. Wilful failure to observe this rule is "to be severely penalized," concludes the direction.

Wholesalers shipping wheat flour and back-ordering substitutes are under the ban of the Federal Food Administration, which withholds approval of a plan that involves the shipment of flour and shipment at a later date of substitutes billed at the same time. State food administrators are directed to require that wheat flour shipments be withheld where necessary until the requisite substitutes are available.

The use of a combination of wheat flour substitutes to make up the 20 per cent. of substitutes required in the Victory bread recipe is urged. Very satisfactory results have been secured from experiments with combinations, which offset many of the objections that have followed the use of one substitute alone. Combinations will help conserve the supply of substitutes.

An immediate pooling of 10,000 barrels of flour, to be held as an emergency supply, in the name of the Grain Corporation, at the Coburn warehouses, Indianapolis, has been ordered to handle the situation, which is placed entirely in the hands of the State Food Administrator. Dr. Barnard today named an executive committee consisting of Carl Sims, chairman, H. E. Hessler of Schnull & Company, wholesale grocers, Indianapolis, Edgar Evans of the Acme-Evans Milling Company, Alex Taggart of the Taggart Baking Company and Stanley Wycoff, Federal Food Administrator for Marion County. Mr. Sims, the chairman of the committee, is head of the milling division of the United States Food Administration in Indiana and has had charge of the milling and distribution of flour for Dr. Barnard. "We cannot impress too strongly that this stock is not to be drawn upon if it can be avoided, and the trade generally should not be permitted to relax one iota from their individual efforts to obtain their flour through regular channels," says the executive order.

Paste used for hanging wall paper must be no better than a very low grade of wheat flour, which is unfit for bread making. This statement comes in anticipation of the house cleaning season. Paper hangers who have always used white wheat flour for paste making must find some other material, as wheat flour fit for bread making is entirely too precious for such use at this time.

Home economics demonstrations being conducted over the State occasion no necessity for any considerable waste. Practically all material so used can be saved for use as food. The savings made possible by the application of methods and formulas demonstrated should more than make up for the small loss.

Farmers who have been feeding wheat to live stock on the theory that it is a more economic practice than feeding corn are laboring under a misapprehension of the chief statistician. The United States Food Administration at Washington has tabulated cereal prices as follows:

Cereal.	Average Price Received by Farmer During 3 Pre-War Years (per bushel).	Price Received by Farmer Now (per bushel).	Percentage Increase of Present Over Pre-War Price.
Wheat . . .	$0.869	$2.006	131
Corn . . . .	.665	1.388	109
Oats . . . .	.404	.787	105
Barley . . .	.642	1.319	105

"From these figures it is clear that the price of no other grain has advanced so much respecting net return to the farmer as compared with pre-war conditions as has that of wheat. Corn comes the nearest, with 109 per cent. increase to the farmer as against 131 per cent. advance in wheat. The transportation difficulties have operated to create higher prices to the consumer, because it has not been possible for the railroads to get grain to primary markets as fast as the demand for export and domestic use could and would have absorbed. This has resulted in maintaining an artificially high differential between farmer and consumer."

Efforts to interest the Federal Food Administration in a plan to require the cultivation of food crops on soil given over to the production of tobacco or other non-food crops has elicited a reiteration of the avowed policy of the Food Administration to in no wise seek to dictate to producers the nature of their crops, simply that they devote themselves to a maximum of production of their usual products. The Food Administration, according to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, is concerned only in preventing any waste or idle land and is urging that wherever possible food crops be put in, but this, he says, does not involve any recommendation of a change of policy on the part of the grower, who is "supposed to know his field, his opportunity and his duty."

A survey of Indiana mills to determine their capacity for manufacturing wheat flour substitutes has been requested of county administrators.

Modified regulation relative to the sale of wheat flour prohibits an extension of credit for the purchase of substitutes, except at the time and in equal quantity of the purchase being made.

Hot cross buns, popular at Easter time, must conform to the regulations of Class 1, which limits wheat flour ingredients and prohibits icing.

We have to put every ounce of effort behind the men behind the guns.

"The allies are all in the same boat—a long way from shore and on limited rations"—and Uncle Sam is running the relief ship.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

USING POTATO, RICE AND CORN FLOUR.

Potato, rice and corn flours are becoming quite common on the market and can be used very successfully in receipts, providing the correct proportions are employed. These flours when used produce whiter products than do such flours as barley, rye or buckwheat, and for that reason are preferred by many people.

Neither rice, potato or corn flours have the necessary qualifications for making good yeast bread without the addition of some wheat or rye flour and for that reason cannot be used entirely in such receipts.

The following receipts have been tested in the Home Economics laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them, application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.:

POTATO FLOUR.

Baking Powder Biscuits:

- 1 cup potato flour.
- 1 cup white flour.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- 2 teaspoons salt.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- Milk or water.

Yeast Bread (One Loaf):

- 1 cup liquid.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1 tablespoon sugar or substitute.
- 1½ teaspoons salt.
- Yeast in 3 tablespoons lukewarm water.
- 1 1/3 cups potato flour.
- 2 1/3 cups white flour or enough white flour to make a stiff dough.
- Proceed as in white bread.

RICE FLOUR.

Baking Powder Biscuits:

- ½ cup rice flour.
- 1½ cups white flour.
- 2 teaspoons salt.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- Milk or water.
- Proceed as for ordinary baking powder biscuits.

Yeast Bread:

- 1 cup liquid.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1 tablespoon sugar or substitute.
- 1½ teaspoons salt.
- Yeast in 3 tablespoons lukewarm water.
- 1 cup rice flour.
- 1 cup white flour.
- Proceed as for white bread.

CORN FLOUR.

Pastry:

- ¾ cup corn flour.
- ¾ cup white flour.
- 6 tablespoons fat.
- ¾ teaspoon salt.
- Cold water.
- Mix and roll as ordinary pastry.

Wheatless Pastry:

- ½ pound corn starch.
- ½ pound white corn flour.
- ½ pound rye or barley flour.
- 1 ounce salt.
- ¾ pound shortening.
- Water (cold).
- If mixture seems sticky to handle, let stand for a few minutes and add just enough wheat flour to bind together for rolling.
- Yeast Bread (One Loaf):
- 1 cup liquid.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1 tablespoon sugar or substitute.
- 1½ teaspoons salt.
- Yeast in 3 tablespoons lukewarm water.
- 1 1/3 cups corn flour.
- 2 2/3 cups white flour or enough white flour to make a stiff dough.
- Proceed as in white bread.

National Bulletin Lauds Text Books

Boy Power Compliments Indiana Volume
Which Must Be Studied by High Schools.

The following comment on the Indiana war text book as it concerns the United States Boys' Working Reserve and the reserve bulletins issued in Indiana is published this week in "Boy Power," the national bulletin of the Boys' Reserve:

"Indiana's Bulletin A, Series One, under the general title 'Emergency Agricultural Classes,' is another instance of admirable instruction eminently practical, carefully illustrated and thoroughly informing. In addition to the ordinary instruction for the boys, there is instruction for the teacher of the class. And there is printed upon page 23 of the pamphlet, under the title 'Precautions,' some general advice whose following is necessary if the boy who goes to the farm is to do his full measure of duty there.

"Besides its Bulletin A of Series One, Indiana publishes its widely advertised War Text Book for High Schools. Twenty-one pages of this book, beginning with page 53 and ending with page 74, are devoted to the United States Boys' Working Reserve. No better statement of the purpose, method and organization of the United States Boys' Working Reserve is to be found.

"Among the States of the Union, Indiana is the first to compile a distinctively war service text book whose subject-matter shall be compulsory in every high school of the State. The book is issued under authority of the Governor and of the State Council of Defense, and is edited and published by the State Board of Education."

FOX ENDORSES RESERVE.

Enclosing an announcement of the plan and purpose of the drive for enrollments in the United States Boys' Working Reserve, Charles Fox, a member of the Indiana State Council of Defense and president of the Indiana State Federation of Labor, addresses his co-workers as follows:

"To Members of the Labor Committee, State Council of Defense:

"The enclosed announcement explains fully the effort being made by the State Council of Defense in co-operation with the United States Department of Labor in endeavoring to enroll not less than 15,000 Indiana boys between the ages of 16 and 21 in the United States Boys' Working Reserve for emergency work on Indiana farms.

"The food situation is becoming more serious all the time and I consider this movement a most commendable one and worthy of your full support and co-operation.

"You will be pleased to know that the enrollment of boys who are permanently employed in productive work is not to disturb them, but rather to encourage them, by giving official recognition to the effort put forth in such productive work.

"It must be understood that the enrollment in the Boys' Working Reserve does not compel the boys to accept employment where wages and working conditions are unsatisfactory to them or their parents."

Red Cross Activities

The work of civil relief and restoration in France under the direction of the Red Cross made marked progress during the month of February. Substantial aid was given to 102,974 French refugees, repatriates and other war sufferers, according to a report received at national headquarters from Perkins, commissioner for Europe. These facts were contained in a statement to Lake Division Red Cross Headquarters Cleveland.

This figure included 19,343 persons in devastated areas, 7,550 repatriates in provinces, 5,925 undernourished Paris school children. 22,183 were given hospital care, including 9,715 repatriate children at Evian and 948 tuberculosis patients in Paris who were given supplementary rations daily.

Work is now being conducted under Red Cross in 98 French cities and villages, not including Friends Unit, which has 21 stations, or Smith College Unit, which works 11 villages. Nine civilian hospitals with total capacity of 1,061 beds and 46 dispensaries give care to children, tuberculosis patients and refugees.

Grants of money to French organizations totaled 502,276 francs for month, of which 200,575 francs were for anti-tuberculosis work, 40,600 for relief and reconstruction in devastated areas, 200,701 for refugees and general relief, 59,300 for children and 1,100 for war cripples.

Grants of goods included 130,507 articles of clothing and pairs of shoes, 95,595 pounds of foodstuffs, 19,247 articles of furniture and household utensils, 29,221 yards of cloth, 27,851 articles of bedding.

Red Cross now has a staff of 490 persons in France, having gained 66 during February.

An unusual amount of work has been done by the Terre Haute Chapter of the Red Cross as shown in a report covering the period from November 11, 1917, to March 10, 1918. The following garments and supplies were made by the organization:

Hospital Garments—617 pajamas, 455 hospital shirts, 194 bathrobes, 104 bed jackets, 208 bed socks, 159 hot water and ice bag covers, 126 undershirts, 126 under drawers, 522 handkerchiefs, 84 stockings, 36 nightgowns.

Hospital Linen—490 bed sheets, 322 draw sheets, 156 hospital sheets, 100 spreads, 153 comfort pillows, 830 pillow cases, 2,320 hand towels, 412 bath towels, 1,426 tray cloths, 144 wash cloths, 50 operating gowns, 59 operating leggings, 157 operating caps, 175 operating sheets, 20 surgeons' masks.

Knitting—1,905 sweaters, 4,199 socks, 333 scarfs, 781 pairs of wristlets, 181 helmets, 128 pairs of kneelets, 42 hospital rugs.

Besides these various pieces, 38,607 standard and special bandages have been prepared and sent forward.

The financial statement of the organization shows receipts totaling $34,697.68 and disbursements totaling $27,893.90, leaving a balance of $6,733.78.

Sheep Committee

The following report was received and adopted at the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense March 20:

"To the Indiana State Council of Defense:

"Your committee, to whom was referred the complaint of Dr. Northrup, State veterinarian, to the effect that a carload of sheep had been sold to citizens of Winchester, Indiana, at a price of $3.50 per head in excess of the cost, begs to report that investigation develops the charges are based on facts; the purchase price of $17.50 and selling price of $21.00 being admitted by those concerned in the transaction.

"The committee gives recognition to the statement of W. M. Jones, made before the Council of March 13, to the effect that the distribution organization of which he is a member, had nothing to do with the Winchester transaction.

"Attention is directed to the statement of Mr. Jones that the season of the year has been reached when there seems to be no reason why the activity of the sheep production committee, as far as the Council is concerned, should be continued. It should be clearly understood that no one had the right to use the name of this Council in any transactions where profit making has been practiced. The encouragement by the Council was for the purpose of interesting the farmers in the matter of more sheep and it was not understood that advantage should be taken of the Council's endorsement, by anyone, for profit-making purposes, and if this has been done, we most rigidly condemn it.

"Therefore, your committee considers the matter closed and respectfully asks to be discharged from further activity in the matter.

"FRANK WAMPLER, Chairman,
"WILLIAM G. IRWIN,
"J. L. KEACH, "Committee."

An Executive Statement.

Every available agency is being enlisted at this time by the United States Government to a single purpose—that of sustaining with a sufficient supply of food our armies and our associates in the war against autocracy. To that end the United States has pledged her sacred honor.

In order that we may feed ourselves and those assisting us in removing the menace of an autocratic war-crazed enemy, it is highly essential that we put under cultivation every foot of available ground.

It is clear that there is no need to preach conservation, to demand and plan the construction of transports, or even to hope for victory, except that we produce this first essential—food.

Our farm labor supply is already depleted. It is threatened with still further shortage. It is everybody's duty to contribute, therefore, to this campaign on our own soil, for the greatest production of food crops that has ever been harvested on this continent.

With a patriotic willingness to do their share, our farmers and producers must be assured of sufficient help that they may cultivate and harvest their crops. With natural sources of labor supply cut off, there is but one source from which to draw—the boys too young for armed service, too old to be idle in such an emergency.

Therefore, I urge that every boy between the ages of 16 and 21 who has not already done so, enroll with the United States Boys' Working Reserve during the week of March 18-23, thereby indicating his willingness and readiness to do his part toward winning the war. Let the farmers and producers of Indiana be assured that as they need help, the help will be forthcoming. This may be guaranteed only by an enrollment of every boy in the State, whose absence from the ranks of the reserve without sufficient excuse lays him open to suspicion of slacking.

JAMES P. GOODRICH,
Governor of Indiana.

March 15, 1918.

Hoover on War Gardens.

The U. S. Food Administration has made its endorsement of the home garden movement emphatic and plain. Says Mr. Hoover:

"There is of necessity a decrease in our agricultural labor. If the people of our towns and villages who have the opportunity to do so can UNDERTAKE THE CULTIVATION OF GARDENS IN THEIR EXTRA HOURS we will have material contributed to the total labor employed to increase our production for these reasons, as never before, every town and village that has a scrap of available land for cultivation, should patriotically resolve to make the family unit as nearly self-supporting as possible.

"No possible production of war gardens or of poultry should be allowed to go unfruitful to our total food supply; will add to the productive labor powers of the nation, and will contribute to greatly relieve our transportation from the tax that is placed upon it.

"The matter is one to which we cannot attach too much importance."

It doesn't matter who started this war, Uncle Sam will finish it.

Any food consumed over and above the needs of the human body is wasted.

Uncle Sam is in a race against Germany for ships and food. Are you with him?

From now until next harvest watch your grocery list or there will be no groceries to list. Reduction, Production—the 1918 watchwords.

Our national life and our whole economic development will pass under the sinister influences of foreign control if we do not win.—PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MARCH 29, 1918

Number 33

No Room in Indiana for Disloyal Says Chairman of Defense Council

Keynote Address of new Executive Pointed with Patriotic Pledges of Support to the State and Federal Governments in Which he Expects the Continued Support of All Citizens of Commonwealth

MICHAEL E. FOLEY.

"There is no room in Indiana for the disloyal citizen and if I know that he is disloyal through any overt act, I intend to have him prosecuted to the fullest limit of the law."

This declaration was made by Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, in a speech at a patriotic meeting at Tipton March 25. His speech in part follows:

"The Indiana State Council of Defense shall have but one purpose from this hour until the successful termination of this brutal war. All the people of Indiana must give their undivided support to the administration at Washington and at Indianapolis. So far as I am concerned there shall be but one purpose in mind, and that will be to separate the citizenship of Indiana into two classes. In one class I shall include men of every race, creed and nationality who are for our country, its flag and its institutions. To these patriotic people I shall appeal to help us win this war and to destroy forever among the peoples of the earth the autocracy of the German kaiser.

"There are those in Indiana who are disloyal and who are willing to assail the president of the Republic, or the governor of the State, or those in authority anywhere. To them I intend to speak plainly, openly and publicly.

"In this hour of crisis the citizenship of Indiana must be either for the Government or against it. Indiana in this contest must be permitted to take no middle ground. The people everywhere must give their undivided support to the president of the United States, the constitutional commander-in-chief of our army and navy. To him and to those who are charged with the administration of affairs of the republic the people of Indiana must give their whole-hearted, patriotic support.

"Already the valiant sons of Indiana are falling in the battlefields of Europe in defense of their country's liberty. Many hearts are heavy in Indiana tonight, because loved ones have fallen more than three thousand miles away, fighting the enemy of civilization and Christianity. As the days and weeks come and go the probabilities are that thousands of the loyal sons of the Hoosier State must fall to rise no more. Under these sad circumstances that confront our State we must look to Governor Goodrich to lead us as Lincoln looked to Morton to sustain him in the dark days of the rebellion.

"Governor James P. Goodrich has the confidence of every member of the State Council of Defense, and I bespeak for him the most cordial support of every citizen of Indiana at the present hour. No man in Indiana has a clearer understanding of public questions, and no man better understands the awful possibilities of the great war that is before us than our governor.

"If we are to win this war there must be the closest co-operation among all the citizens of the various States of the Union. No side issues must be permitted to lead the public mind away from the nation's problem today. There is but one problem confronting us and that is the winning of this war at the earliest moment with the least sacrifice possible of human life and of money, but it must be won, else civilization and Christianity are to die, and no matter what the cost may be, God helping us, America will win the war and drive from the face of the earth the kaisers, kings and sultans, who to satisfy their own ambitions, have imposed upon the world this terrible tragedy.

"From an examination of the records and work of the Indiana State Council of Defense, I am prepared to say that no politics has been injected into it in the past. No politics shall be injected into it in the present, and, if I continue to preside over its deliberations in the future, no man shall be permitted in my party, or in any other political party, to inject partisan politics into the deliberations of this fair and impartial body of citizens.

"This is not the time for discussion of political issues. It is not the time for the making of party platforms, and no man in my party can come to me with anything of a partisan or political character; neither will I permit a member of any other party to inject into the working of this organization anything of a partisan or political character. I do not anticipate any trouble in this matter, however, for the reason that I believe that, while we have more politics to the square inch in Indiana than in any other State in the Union, yet in the hour of the nation's trouble every man in Indiana is first a patriot and then a partisan.

"Three things are essential to win this war. We must have soldiers and sailors to fight our battles on land, on the sea and in the air. The patriotic heart of America will respond promptly to this demand, and in a short time we shall have an army and navy ready to defeat the kaiser and his cohorts.

"In order that this army and navy may be efficient we must have an abundance of money to feed, equip, clothe and care for these men while in the service of their country. On April 6 the third great Liberty loan drive will open in America. Indiana must do her full duty in the matter of purchasing these Liberty bonds.

"Our soldiers cannot fight unless they are properly fed. Our laboring men cannot stand the brunt of daily toil unless they are properly housed and properly fed. The great economic life of the nation cannot go on unless there is produced a sufficient amount of wholesome food to feed the

Continued on Page 3.)

Patriotism in Indiana

Allen County.—Miss Mary Anne Hall, home demonstration agent, will begin work in Ft. Wayne early next month. Miss Hall will teach food conservation by holding demonstrations in stores throughout the downtown and residence district of the city. The expenses of the demonstration will be paid from a fund of $500 appropriated by the city for that purpose.

Cass County.—The Boone township Council of Defense has been organized with the following officers: G. W. Weyand, chairman; W. G. Sweet, vice chairman, and O. P. Kistler, secretary-treasurer. D. T. Vernon was named township food administrator, Ira A. Kistler, fuel administrator, and Leslie Kistler, assistant to County Agent W. K. Gast. The Council will meet on the first Friday of each month. The township Council has passed a resolution calling the attention of township officials to the section of the State law which provides for the killing of worthless dogs. The Logansport Trades and Labor assembly at a recent meeting approved the adoption of the "cash and carry" plan by the grocers of that city.

Clay County.—The German Aid Society, a fraternal organization composed of forty-five men of German parentage, a few of whom are German born, at a recent meeting in Brazil took steps to prove their loyalty to the United States. The society collected $500 with which they expect to purchase the first Liberty bond sold in Clay county in the third loan drive. The organization also has given $50 to the Clay County Red Cross. The members of the society explained that it was organized in 1882 by their fathers who came from Germany to enjoy the freedom which this country offered. The newcomers formed this organization to pay fraternal benefits, and the name, German Aid Society, was adopted and was retained. Because the name sounds as if the organization has some connection with Germany a committee has been appointed to select a new name.

Clinton County.—The Clinton county director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve recently called in a number of the citizens of Frankfort to discuss the work of the organization with the result that the following were appointed as an advisory committee: E. C. McMurtry, Prof. O. M. Pettenger, Prof. Hickman, C. C. Irwin, Judge Joseph Combs, Rev. E. D. Salkhold, Rev. Noah McCoy and J. A. Stinson. A house to house canvass was made during the enrollment campaign by the Hour-a-Week club which informed every eligible boy in Frankfort of the drive and its purpose. In order to make Clinton county a 100 per cent. community in the sale of War Saving certificates and Thrift stamps, a special campaign is being conducted by the Hour-a-Week club. The object of the campaign is to place the "baby bonds" and Thrift stamps in every home in Frankfort. Not only is an effort being made to push the sale of stamps, but an educational campaign is being waged and every member in every household will be encouraged to practice thrift that will eventually lead to savings and patriotic investments. The members of the club are ascertaining the number of persons in each family and an index record is being kept of stamp owners in every home.

Dekalb County.—A well attended war conference was held in the town hall at Waterloo March 21. Among the speakers were R. E. Procter of Elkhart, Prof. Clarence Henry of Purdue university, Mrs. Albert Rabb of Indianapolis and Ralph W. Sollitt of Indiana university. Programs printed in the national colors were presented to those attending the meeting by Herbert Willis of the Waterloo Press. Mrs. M. L. Green of Garrett, member of the Dekalb County Council of Defense, has announced that a house to house canvass of the county will be made within a short time with the object of placing food cards in every home. Mrs. Margaret Collett of Auburn, county food club president, will organize food clubs in each township of the county in connection with the canvass.

Delaware County.—Appropriate exercises marked the tearing of the pages bearing the poem "Kaiserblumen" from the school textbooks on "tearing out day" recently observed in every school in the county. Citizens of Muncie have suggested to Mayor Bunch that sheep be raised in the parks of the city as a patriotic move. As a result of the suggestion the city has been presented with six sheep and four sheep-tending collie dogs by enterprising farmers. The Muncie Municipal Garden association is conducting a house to house canvass in the interest of home gardens during the summer. At the close of the canvass a list of every garden owner and of every one who refuses to plant a garden will be made. One of the 257 families in the Jackson school district, 235 of them have pledged themselves to plant gardens. Membership in the garden association is open to anyone who wishes to plant a garden. Members will be supplied with seeds and fertilizer at cost. In response to a request from the government, Arthur L. Smith, vocational director of the Muncie high school, has started the organization of a class in motor mechanics and is now busy enrolling members. The object is the training of men for truck service in the army.

Elkhart County.—Goshen schools are organized into War Saving societies which are to be affiliated with the National War Savings committee and each society will receive a certificate of membership from that committee. There are sixteen of the societies each with its president, secretary and faculty advisor. The high school has four societies, one in each class. The sum of $225 has been appropriated by the Goshen city council for the purpose of paying the salary of a superintendent of school gardens during the summer. The money appropriated by the council is the first financial aid given the greater food production movement. A food drive which included talks in churches, schools and theaters throughout the county in which the work and aims of the food administration were explained by nearly 300 speakers, was conducted March 24 and 25. It is estimated that 20,000 people were reached by the drive. Plans are being made by the Elkhart city council to employ a garden expert to have charge of home garden instruction during the summer months.

Fullon County.—Newcastle township has organized a Council of Defense. The executive committee of the Council is composed of Charles T. Jones, chairman; Mrs. M. F. Deamer, Milton Kessler, Obe Halmhaugh, Clint Walburn, Will Mickle, Colfax Heighway, Carey Zolman and Meade Halmhaugh.

Gibson County.—In order to prevent the destruction of patriotic gardens in the city of Princeton the city council has adopted an ordinance prohibiting owners of dogs and chickens from permitting them to run at large.

Henry County.—A resolution has been passed by the Newcastle city council suspending the ordinance requiring farmers who peddle produce to obtain licenses. The move was made on the theory that the action would tend to lower the price of food products and thus aid in solving the food problem.

Howard County.—The Kiwanis club of Kokomo has appointed a committee whose duty it will be to push the sale of Thrift stamps and War Saving certificates. At a meeting of township trustees it was agreed that high school boys well along in their studies may be released from school to go to work on farms three weeks before the end of the school term. School officials will keep constantly in touch with the work of each pupil released and credits will not be granted until it is shown that the pupil was engaged in some profitable employment. A service flag with 800 stars representing the men of Howard county who have gone to the colors will be dedicated at a meeting in the high school auditorium the night of April 6, the anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war. Henry C. Davis, chairman of the Howard county Liberty loan association, will preside and the flag will be presented by Mrs. LaMarr Kneppke, of the Howard County Red Cross.

Huntington County.—Coerced action on the part of the County Council of Defense to ferret out disloyal persons and run to earth those stories which have their inception "somewhere," seeking to impugn the objects of the Red Cross and other similar organizations, has been taken. Attempts will be made through the aid of the County Council of Defense to determine who is circulating such rumors and stories.

Jackson County.—A potato raising contest is being planned by Ralph H. Heiler of Brownstown, chairman of the farmers' institute. At each township institute there will be given four cash prizes to the boys and girls who exhibit the best peak of potatoes, the decision being based on the cost of production as well as the size and quality of the potatoes. The winners in the township contests will then compete in a county event and the winner of the county contest will be given a free trip to Purdue university. The only qualification required of contestants is that they be not under 12 years old or over 16.

Jay County.—C. E. Schwartz has been named county enrolling agent of the United States Public Service Reserve, succeeding C. R. Bair, who recently resigned. Wilson Rice has been appointed explosive inspector for the county.

Johnson County.—The County Council of Defense expressed unanimous approval of the appointment of Michael E. Foley as chairman of the State Council of Defense.

Knox County.—Nineteen lots in Vincennes have been turned over by the B. & O. railroad to citizens for gardening purposes.

Lagrange County.—L. M. Rowe, county food administrator, has ordered the use of a flour and sugar card. Holders of cards can obtain only the prescribed amount of the two foods. The cards were distributed at various stores throughout the county.

Lake County.—Fifteen thousand garden pledge cards have been distributed among the school children of the county. The children took the cards home to their parents who were asked to promise to plant war gardens. John B. Peterson, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has urged the improvement of the roads as a war measure. He states that the poor condition of the road hampers the movement of freight by wagon and motor truck. Nearly $1,000 has been raised by subscription to defray the expenses of the county Liberty loan campaign. Work has started at Hammond on Liberty hall, a building which is being erected for the purpose of accommodating war meetings. The building will measure 140 feet by 70 feet.

The hall is being paid for by an appropriation made by the city council. Neil D. Brown has been appointed by Judge W. C. McMahon as a member of the County Council of Defense. Mr. Brown is a farmer and business man. The blowing of whistles and the ringing of bells heralded the opening of a campaign in Michigan City for a $75,000 patriots' fund. The fund will be used to make up the city's quotas in future Red Cross Y. M. C. A. and other war relief campaigns. The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church of Hammond has unanimously voted to do away with between meal refreshments in accordance with a request of the federal food administration. Mrs. Jennie Wheeler of Crown Point, secretary of the County Council of Defense, has been appointed county food club president. The Serbs of Lake county are forming a battalion to be known as the Woodrow Wilson battalion. The battalion will include 400 men and will be the third Serbian military organization formed in the county.

Laporte County.—A monster parade will open the Liberty loan campaign in Laporte county April 6.

Madison County.—Food cards to compel the purchase of an equal amount of wheat flour substitutes with each purchase of wheat flour will be used in Madison county in the near future. Cards have been prepared and have received the approval of most of the grocers.

Marshall County.—A committee has been appointed to have charge of the collection in the county of a war war fund to cover the county's quota in various war relief campaigns. Plans for the collection of the fund have not been made and the amount to be collected has not been decided upon.

Miami County.—Albert C. Mouleret, consul general from Belgium, and Gov. James P. Goodrich were the principal speakers at the Miami county war conference at Peru. The Council was the second held within two months. The meetings were held in an auditorium seating more than 4,000 persons, especially constructed for the conference. A complete defense organization is being formed in each precinct in every township in the county. Township Defense Council already have been completed.

Monroe County.—Mrs. Clay Heard has resigned as a member of the County Council of Defense because of the press of other patriotic work.

Morgan County.—E. D. Williams of Morgantown is credited by the post office department as having sold more Thrift stamps than any other rural mail carrier in Indiana. His sales totaled $2,061.52. This is the second largest amount sold by any carrier in the county.

Newton County.—A fund of $25,000 will be raised in the county to be used for the payment of war relief quotas allotted to the county. The County Council of Defense has passed a resolution asking every farmer to treat his oats seed to prevent loss from smut and to test his seed.

Noble County.—The Kendallville public schools will close two weeks earlier this year than usual, thus enabling the boys to engage in farm work. In order to complete the prescribed school work, sessions are being held on Saturdays and the spring vacation has been eliminated. Pupils in the high school voted unanimously in favor of the early closing program.

Ohio County.—A rousing patriotic meeting was held in Rising Sun, at the Methodist church on the evening of March 12. Phillip Zoercher delivered a patriotic address before a packed house. The Rising Sun band participated in the occasion by giving a patriotic concert preceding the address. War organization is being promoted with renewed zest in Ohio county. The County Council of Defense has perfected its organization by the appointment of township chairmen to look after organization work in their respective townships. Miss Ellen Stewart of Rising Sun has accepted the appointment as county president of the Food Clubs of Ohio county and is planning her organization in compliance with instructions sent out by H. E. Barnard. H. S. Espey, county chairman of the Liberty loan, announces that his organization in this county is now complete and that the fight is on. Miss Adaline Griswold, chairman of the woman's Liberty loan, is no less enthusiastic in her organization work. Mrs. Sadie Green, chairman of the registration of women for this county, is organizing the women by townships in order to secure as large a registration as possible. Instruction classes are being arranged for the women who will do the registering and wide publicity is being given the movement by the local papers. The Ohio County Red Cross is launching its spring vacation campaign for new members. Every one in the county will be solicited to join and those who refuse will be asked to state their reason for so doing. William Green Jr., chairman of the W. S. S. work in this county, has originated a unique method of campaign, whereby the county will be divided into two divisions, the army division and the navy division with a "live-wire" as head of each division. A contest will ensue between these two divisions for the largest sale of Thrift stamps and a lively and friendly rivalry is anticipated.

Parke County.—The following regulations for the sale of potatoes in this county have been authorized by a committee consisting of three farmers, three grocers and three consumers:

1. Parke county dealers will not be permitted to buy potatoes outside the county to be shipped in, unless it is clearly manifest that a local supply is not obtainable.

2. Dealers will pay the Indianapolis wholesale price for potatoes delivered at their stores. Potatoes must be clean, and none to be small enough to pass through a two-inch screen. This price will apply only to the quantity necessary for local demands.

3. The price to the consumer shall be not to exceed 25 per cent. gross margin above the price paid to the producer.

4. The wholesale price of potatoes on Thursday was $1.05 per bushel, retail $1.30. The county agent or federal food administrator can give quotations from day to day. The market is constantly dropping and prices as named are not guaranteed beyond the day they are quoted.

Pike County.—Mrs. Edna White has been named a member of the County Council of Defense by Judge Bretz of the circuit court.

Putnam County.—A record for the purchase of Thrift stamps and War Saving certificates that can hardly be equaled in Indiana has been made by the students of the Greencastle schools. The teachers in the schools are convinced that the important lesson of thrift and saving is being learned as never before. The ambition of the teachers is to enlist every pupil in this cause, and much enthusiasm prevails in all the buildings. The first ward has 83 students, 64 per cent. of enrollment, owning stamps and certificates with a total value of $308.02; the second ward has 98 students, 52 per cent. of enrollment, with a total value of $680.05. The third ward, which excels all other buildings, has 162 pupils, 71 per cent. of enrollment, who own stamps of a total value of $841.30. The total invested by city and township grade students, not including four township schools which have not reported, is $1,974.39. The students in one room of the third ward school have the distinction of purchasing more than the government quota of $20 worth of stamps a person. Of the 49 students enrolled, 42 own Thrift stamps, the value of which totals $505.31, or more than $20 for each student.

Randolph County.—County Agent A. L. Hodgson has placed in the corridor of the court house at Winchester a large bulletin board on which he will announce all meetings and events connected with the greater food production campaign.

Ripley County.—The St. Louis Catholic church of Batesville was the scene of an impressive ceremony on last Sunday evening when at the close of the retreat held under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, a dedication of a service flag containing twenty-eight stars took place and was unfurled alongside of "Old Glory." At the beginning of the service a bugle call was sounded and at roll call twenty-eight little boys placed upon the high altar for each of the congregation's sons now in the service of their country an American flag as a token of appreciation and their love for the boys who are going "over there." Eighteen of the boys are volunteers. The Rev. Father Forrest J. McGee, O. F. M., of Cincinnati delivered a powerful address on "Patriotism and the Catholic in War" wherein he emphasized the necessity for every loyal American, no matter what his race or creed, to stand firmly behind President Wilson and help win the war and to crush Prussianism so that democracy and liberty might live. Father McGee said that no loyal Catholic could hold a divided allegiance and that a Catholic must be first a good American in order to claim membership in the Catholic church. He said that a Catholic must be true to his God, true to his church and true to the flag and that "The Catholic church demands of her children all of these." Pro-Germanism was flayed by the speaker. He said that to sympathize with any other but your native flag or that of your adoption was to be guilty of treason. About eight hundred people were in attendance, many standing throughout the entire service.

Shelby County.—The Shelbyville police department has been given instructions to kill every ownerless dog in the city to prevent the killing of sheep and the destruction of gardens. The police have asked owners of dogs to keep them at home, as all dogs running at large will be killed.

St. Joseph County.—Mishawaka and South Bend will co-operate in the observance of April 6, the anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war. The celebration will include a monster parade in which will be included several bands and all the Liberty guard companies of the county. Maj. Fred L. Dennis is general chairman of the celebration in Mishawaka. Twenty-nine Polish girls of South Bend have signified their intention of taking a course in Red Cross work and becoming active workers. Many more are expected to take the course. The twenty-nine young women enlisted following a mass meeting at which members of the Polish military commission spoke. Mayor Ralph W. Gaylor of Mishawaka has issued the following home garden proclamation:

"The president of the United States has declared that the supreme test of our nation has come and has called upon every man, woman and child of this country to aid in the prosecution of the war.

"The gravity of the situation not only makes imperative a rigid husbanding of our food supply, but also demands that every effort be made to produce the maximum amount of food during the present year. Our rapidly increasing army and navy, together with the hungry people of Europe will this year require more food than ever. We must do our part in meeting this demand. It is the patriotic duty of every family in this city to arrange for land, plant a war garden, and thus assist in creating a food supply which will not only be sufficient to feed the people who remain at home, but will create a surplus which will enable us to properly feed our army and navy and materially assist in feeding the starving people of Europe.

"Let our slogan for 1918 be 'A War Garden for Every Home.'"

The St. Joseph county Liberty day committee has asked that every automobile in the county be in the parade at South Bend. More than 20,000 persons are expected to be in the line of march. South Bend ministers will make an appeal on Easter Sunday for enrollments in the United States Boys' Working Reserve. A number of speakers already are busy in the city. Twenty thousand buttons to be given to persons who contribute to South Bend's war chest fund have been ordered. The campaign to raise the fund will be conducted during the week of March 31 to April 6.

Vanderburg County.—Exempted men in Vanderburg county were called into action to aid the United States Boys' Working Reserve. Each member of the Exempted Men's association pledged himself to obtain at least one enrollment in the reserve.

Vigo County.—Plans are being made by the woman's committee of the Liberty loan organization for the presentation of an inspiring pageant in which school children are to be the actors, the purpose of which is to boost Liberty loan sales.

Wabash County.—Pleasant township has organized a Council of Defense. Lagro township farmers are planning to plant large crops of sugar beets for the purpose of adding to the sugar supply. Beets were grown successfully in some parts of the county last year. Farmers declare that they are the best paying crop they can raise.

Washington County.—The following resolution was passed at the county war conference at Salem:

"Resolved, That we, the people of Salem and Washington county, in conference assembled, recognizing the righteousness of our cause in this war, which is being waged in the name of humanity and liberty against the central powers, and furthermore recognizing the vital importance of consecrated co-operation in bringing the same to a successful termination, do hereby severally and collectively pledge our unqualified support to the President of the United States and his advisers in this time that tries men's souls.

"That we commend the untiring efforts of the State Council of Defense and Washington County Council of Defense in their performance of the duties that have devolved upon them incident to the prosecution of the war.

"That we desire to commend to the people at large for their earnest consideration, the vital importance to our available man power, offered by the Boys' Working Reserve, to the end that no boy in the county shall fail to contribute his service toward winning the war.

"That it is the sense of this conference that each individual should cheerfully and willingly do his utmost in complying with the demands of Mr. Hoover in the matter of food conservation.

"That we express our thanks and appreciation to the speakers and all others who have contributed to the success of this conference.

"That we go to our homes with a firmer and more steadfast determination that this world shall be a safe place in which to live."

No Room in Indiana for Disloyal Says Chairman of Defense Council

(Continued from page 1.)

people of the republic. In addition to feeding the people of the republic we must also feed the starving people of France, Belgium, Poland and Servia, and the peoples of other lands that have been devastated beyond the power of description, by the kaiser and his allies. Food in my judgment will be one of the most decisive factors in the winning of this war. Therefore, speaking for myself and my associates, I urge the fullest co-operation among the people of the State in the production of every kind and class of crops that will help to feed our people and our starving allies across the sea.

"In the war with Mexico, in the war of the rebellion and in the war with Spain the mothers and daughters of Indiana never failed in the discharge of their duties. The pages of history are bright with the splendid record of achievements by the womanhood of Indiana in the past. Today the womanhood of Indiana faces the greatest problem that it has faced since '61 to '65.

"Mothers, wives and sweethearts of Indiana, I call upon you in the name of the Fathers of the Republic, in the name of Washington, Lincoln and McKinley, to tender to your country your husbands, sons and sweethearts to battle for America and her cause. When loved ones answer the nation's call may your prayers go with them to the field of duty; may God protect them and return them to you safe and sound when the battle is over, but if they shall not return then I promise you the strong arm of the national government will maintain and sustain the widowed mother or the wife who has given all that she can give to the cause of liberty and to the cause of your country.

"Labor in the nation in this contest has been loyal to the president at Washington and to those in authority here. To the laboring men of Indiana I promise the most careful consideration of every matter presented to me and to the State Council of Defense, and from them I ask their heartiest support.

"I am not unmindful of the splendid service that has been rendered in the past by the business and professional men of Indiana to the State and nation. From them in the work that is before us I shall expect the same impartial service, and I promise them that Indiana and the nation will hold them in high esteem for the time and money given to Liberty's cause.

"The people of Indiana are fortunate in that they have a public press that is patriotic to the core. I bespeak from all the people of Indiana their continued support of the press, both State and local.

"The spirit of the fathers bid us Godspeed in the problems that now confront us. This land of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln can never die and the free institutions of the republic must survive. Therefore, I call upon the people of my State, from every corner and angle, to rally to the flag and to the institutions of the fathers that we may destroy the Huns forever and establish a democratic form of government among the peoples of this troubled world."

Patriotic Press Comment

A Splendid Appointment.

Michael E. Foley of Indianapolis, who succeeds Will H. Hays as chairman of the State Council of Defense, is not as well known as his predecessor, but he has established a favorable reputation for himself as a man of firm convictions and high ideals of public service. He is a farmer as well as an attorney. He is a staunch Democrat and for a number of years was a leader of his party in the Ninth District, where he resided before coming to Indianapolis. He is a public speaker of considerable talent. He has been attorney for the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal Company for several years, and he also is a member of the board of trustees of the State Prison at Michigan City.

Probably no question will be raised regarding the ability of Mr. Foley to preside over the Council of Defense, and it would be stretching a point to say that his appointment was for political purposes, as he belongs to the party that Governor Goodrich has opposed throughout his career, and that has fought him in every campaign he managed. The Governor met with unusual difficulties in obtaining a chairman to succeed Mr. Hays. The position pays nothing and requires a great sacrifice of time and energy. Mr. Foley, it is understood, is willing to give both freely to the handling of the numerous and intricate affairs that come before the Council. He has an opportunity for patriotic service that no doubt he will be pleased to accept. * * * * *

Any man might well be proud of the chance to serve his State and his country as chairman of the Defense Council. It has an important work to perform and it is to be hoped that under Mr. Foley's direction it will keep the pace set under the administration of Mr. Hays. * * * * *

The war provides a field that is big enough for all men and all interests that are determined to fight until victory comes to us. Fortunately, Mr. Foley has been in public life long enough to get well defined ideas as to how complicated situations should be handled. The people of the entire State will congratulate him on his appointment and wish him success.

The Governor was fortunate in obtaining Isaac Straus, a Republican, of Ligonier, for secretary of the Council. He has been one of its most valuable members since its formation.—Indianapolis Star.

Bacon is needed for army and navy rations. Will you rob the boys "over there" when you can eat other things at home?

"There is no Half-way House between Victory and Defeat."—Lloyd George.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 33

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 131.

March 20, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Subject: Idle Lands.

The Council of National Defense joins with the Food Administration and the United States Department of Agriculture in an urgent call for a larger production of food in 1918. These departments emphasize the importance of eliminating all slackers acres. It is desired that every available acre of agricultural land be made to produce foodstuffs this year. The Indiana State Council of Defense joins in this demand.

Many reports have come to the State Council indicating that there are farms and tracts of lands in towns which are not likely to be cultivated in 1918 unless some definite action is taken to have the owners realize the importance of either operating these lands themselves or renting these lands to others who will plant them. The County Council of Defense is urged to appoint a committee to list all of these farms and other tracts in the county for which arrangement has not been made for cultivation this year. The Council should then call upon the owners to show why these lands are not to be cultivated. They should be cultivated by the owners or should be rented at a reasonable price to some one who will handle them. If these owners fail to show a reason why the lands are not cultivated, and will not rent the lands for use during this season, the County Council is instructed to forward the names immediately to the office of the State Council. The State Council will then forward the names to the United States Government which, through proper offices, will proceed to take possession of the land and use it for the production of food. This is a most important matter and should receive the immediate and earnest attention of every County Council.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

*****

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 132.

March 28, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Now that the draft machinery is completing its work, the drafted men, on being assigned to their final classifications, know several months before they are called, the prospect of their entering the service. Men already called for service but not yet in camp are in a like position. It will be possible, therefore, for them, if properly assisted by legal advice, to arrange their affairs and to make provision for their dependents and care of their property, so that when the final call comes, little confusion and hardship will result. In addition, the 1,500,000 men already under arms and their dependents need legal advice in order to protect their civil rights and claim the benefit of war emergency legislation.

It is necessary for the County Councils of Defense to mobilize the lawyers for this important work, and you are, therefore, requested to create a legal committee to advise soldiers and sailors, such committee to be subordinate to the County Councils of Defense and to be composed primarily of lawyers, but to include a business man and a representative of the Red Cross Home Service Section.

Such committee should have the following duties:

A. To explain the selective service law to drafted men.

B. To give legal advice as to the benefits of war risk insurance, allotment of soldiers' and sailors' pay by the Federal Government, Government family allowance, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Act if it becomes law, and other war emergency laws relating to men entering the service. Copies of these laws will be furnished by the War Department. The Home Service Sections of the Red Cross in many communities have information service in this regard organized and in operation. Co-ordination with their work on this point should be arranged so that their work may not be duplicated unnecessarily. The Committee should also assist in drawing up the papers necessary to be filed to claim the benefits of the foregoing laws.

C. To draft wills and attend to caring for the property and settling the business affairs of men entering the service.

D. To represent soldiers, and sailors in court where necessary and obtain for them the benefits of the civil rights act when in force.

E. To arrange to attend to such business matters as require and are capable of attention in the absence of men in the service.

F. To report to the Red Cross Home Service Section, cases requiring relief which come to the attention of the committee.

The members of each Exemption Board should be informed of the scope of the committee's work, and asked to co-operate. A bulletin showing the personnel of the committee, its headquarters and the addresses of each member should be posted in the office of each Exemption Board and mailed to every drafted man. A special effort should be made to reach those classified for early service in order that they may be enabled to have their affairs well taken care of when the time comes for them to enter the service. Publicity should also be given to the work of the committee through the publicity press, and information as to its work should be communicated to the Red Cross and other organizations doing relief work.

Under the direction of the Council of National Defense and the State Councils similar committees are being organized throughout the United States and we urge you to give this important matter your immediate attention, advising us as soon as possible of the name and address of the chairman of the committee in order that copies of the federal war emergency laws may be sent to him.

The provost-marshal general has, as you know, created in each State permanent legal advisory boards in connection with each local exemption board to advise the exemption boards and the drafted men as to the selective service law. As the work of these boards is practically completed, their personnel is undoubtedly available for the new work and, where the members have proved their zeal and fitness for such work, we recommend that they be taken by the County Council as a nucleus for forming their Legal Committees.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

"Children's Day."

April 6, the beginning of the "Children's Year," has been chosen as the day on which to begin the task given the Child Welfare department by the National Council of Defense—the task of weighing, measuring and registering all children under five in Indiana.

The State Department of Public Instruction has set apart this day to be observed in all the school houses in Indiana, and is calling upon all the county superintendents of the State, and all the teachers to lend their assistance to this task.

The Child Welfare Committee of each county is expected to see that local committees are ready to avail themselves of every school house on April 6th, and to use this wonderful opportunity to forward their work. Not a moment should be lost in perfecting all plans.

ALBION FELLOWS BACON,
Chairman.

To Relieve Sheep Industry of Menace of the Stray Dog

Uniform State laws controlling and limiting the number of dogs as a solution to the sheep-killing dog problem are recommended by the United States department of agriculture. The department in its bulletin on the subject points out the need for the increased production of wool and mutton and states that the sheep-killing dog is the gravest menace faced by the industry. The department gives the following suggestions for such a law:

1. All dogs over six months old to be listed by the county tax assessor at the time of listing other taxable property. (A more complete list of dog owners is obtained in this way than is the case when the dog owners are required to list their dogs.)

Tax to be as follows:

One male or spayed female..... $2
Each additional male or spayed female..... 3
Each unspayed female..... 5

Kennel licenses to be issued with restrictions.

2. Dog owners to pay their dog tax and obtain a dog license at the same time other taxes are paid, unless proof is furnished that the dog has been disposed of.

3. Counties to furnish metal tags bearing the registration number of the dog and the name of the dog's owner. (This would eliminate any question arising as to the owner of a dog found at large or in the act of worrying stock.)

4. Provide for the impounding and, after a reasonable term of impoundment, the humane destruction of dogs found at large without collars bearing license tags.

5. All dogs to be confined from sunset to sunrise unless under leash or under reasonable control of their owners.

6. Dogs found at large between sunset and sunrise to be impounded and owner notified. Owner to regain custody of dog on paying a fine for violation of the law.

7. Any dog, registered or unregistered, may be killed by anyone when caught in the act of chasing, worrying, injuring, or killing sheep. Dog owner to have no recourse for the killing of such dog.

8. Any dog found running at large upon the inclosed lands of a person other than the owner of the dog may be killed at the time of finding him by the owner of the land, his agent, tenant, or employee.

9. Stock owners suffering losses from dogs to report the same to the local justice of the peace. Justice of the peace to appoint a committee of two or three disinterested farmers residing in the locality where the loss has been incurred, to appraise the damages. Committee to give the sheep owner a certificate showing in detail what the damages consist of and the amount. Damages beyond the value of the sheep actually killed outright should be allowed. Farmer to present the certificate to county commissioners to be passed on at the next session.

10. Compensation to be taken from money derived from the dog tax. Access to be had to State fund if dog-tax fund is insufficient to pay all claims.

11. Dog owner to be held liable to the county for all money paid out by the county for damages done by his dog, plus all costs of suit.

12. Reward of at least $10 to be offered by the county for the identification and proof of a sheep-killing dog.

13. Owner of a dog known to kill sheep to be required to kill, or cause to be killed, such dog within 48 hours after notification under penalty of $5 and $1 per day thereafter until such dog is killed.

14. Sheep owner to be allowed to set out poison on his farm if he gives public notice of same.

15. Enforcement of the law to be the duty of every police officer in the State. State to furnish sufficient assistance, if necessary, to carry out all of the provisions of the act.

The bulletin also contains a digest of the existing dog laws of each State and presents the complete dog laws of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, which are given as being examples of modern laws which really offer protection to owners of sheep.

John V. Wilson Chosen Secretary of Council

Isaac D. Straus Resigns Due to the Press of Other Duties Incident to the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

Isaac D. Straus, who was elected secretary of the Indiana State Council of Defense at the suggestion of Governor James P. Goodrich at the meeting of March 20, resigned as secretary at the March 27 meeting and suggested that John V. Wilson, who had been acting executive secretary of the Council, be chosen to fill the place. Mr. Straus's other duties in connection with the Council necessitated this action, he said. He is federal State director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

On the recommendation of Daniel B. Luten, secretary, in behalf of the scientific research committee of the Council, a resolution was adopted pointing out the necessity of conserving platinum and asking that its use for jewelry, dentistry, photography and other non-essentials be curtailed. Prior to its adoption a statement submitted by Mr. Luten was read. It pointed out the necessity of platinum in the war, the difficulties experienced in obtaining it.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, Platinum is required in the manufacture of munitions and in other industries essential to the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas, The supply of platinum for these purposes is inadequate;

Resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense requests that the use of platinum in dentistry and in the manufacture of jewelry be discontinued for the duration of the war; that its use in photography be limited as far as possible; and that the acceptance of advertisements of platinum jewelry by the press be discontinued.

Mr. Straus reported a total enrollment in the United States Boys' Working Reserve in Indiana to date of 12,599. He stated that bona fide requests for 11,327 boys have already been received from farmers in seventy-five counties. These places are being rapidly filled, but it will be necessary to enroll several thousand more boys who are in school, are not now employed, or who are employed in non-essential positions, he said.

Mr. Straus stated that Evansville leads the cities of the State with an enrollment of 1,043 and Steuben county has a 100 per cent. enrollment with a total of 535 boys. He added that there had been no activity in Clark, Clay, Hancock, Rush, Randolph and Floyd counties. On a motion by Evans Woollen, Chairman Foley was authorized to confer with Mr. Straus and to take such action as he saw fit, to effect results in these counties. Mr. Straus was congratulated on the success of his enrollment campaign on a motion by Mr. Woollen.

Mr. Foley reported that there had been some duplication of activities on the part of the speakers' bureau of the State Council of Defense and the speakers' bureau of the third Liberty Loan Committee. On a motion by A. E. Reynolds the chairman was authorized to get in touch with Jesse Eschbach, chairman of the Liberty Loan speakers' bureau, and J. J. Pettijohn, chairman of the State Council Bureau, and to endeavor to form some plan of co-ordination between the two organizations.

G. I. Christie told the Council that the labor trouble at the Ross Gear and Tool company at Lafayette, which is engaged in war work, had been settled and the men, who at a recent meeting were reported to have been locked out had gone to work. The report of the labor committee and the employers' co-operative committee, which were appointed jointly to investigate the matter, was not made because of the absence of Charles Fox, chairman of the Labor committee.

The Educational section reported that its Approval committee considered it inadvisable to approve the "Food Conservation Arithmetic," which had been put before the Council at a previous meeting by a publishing house. The committee advised against approving any publication in order that there be no discrimination.

James L. Keach moved that a committee appointed to investigate the history of the publication of the war text book recently distributed in the high schools of the State by the State board of education be discharged. He contended that the records of the Council indicated that the book was published at the suggestion of the Council. The motion was lost for want of a second and the committee was instructed to report at a future meeting.

Chairman Foley reported that he had appointed J. C. O'Harra to succeed Fred M. Ayres as chairman of the Merchants' Economy committee. He also reported that he had appointed a committee composed of five Indianapolis attorneys to prepare a legal handbook to be distributed among Indiana soldiers as follows: William H. Latta, Romney Wilson, B. E. Sattler, Lloyd D. Claycomb and Fred E. Barrett. The handbook will explain State and federal legal questions, knowledge of which might be valuable to soldiers.

A letter from Charles B. Riley asking the Council to request conventions and churches to include patriotic features in their meetings and services was referred to the Public Morals committee of which Dr. Albert B. Storms is chairman. The letter suggested that churches hold at least one patriotic service each Sunday.

Evans Woollen, in behalf of the finance committee, recommended that the request of the food administration that the Council purchase and distribute food conservation "stickers" be not complied with. The report was adopted.

A letter from J. R. Coleman of the Tipton County Council of Defense asking that the State Council approve a plan to publish the names of Liberty bond purchasers and the amounts purchased, was referred to Will H. Wade, chairman of the State Liberty loan committee.

Mr. Keach asked for a monthly statement from the speakers' bureau, which he said was required in a resolution creating the bureau, and was told that the report would be made at the next meeting of the Council.

The Council passed a motion made by Frank Wampler approving the suggestion that every family have a flag above or on its dining table. He suggested that the flag would be a reminder to observe food conservation rules. A motion by Mr. Wampler that a flag be hung in the Council meeting room also was passed.

Mr. Christie reported that the Michigan State Council of Defense had purchased 1,000 farm tractors and had put them on sale at cost to the farmers. In Ohio, he stated, the State had guaranteed financial aid to farmers purchasing tractors and that the banks of the State have joined to push the sale of tractors in the interest of greater food production. These facts were ascertained as a result of queries sent the two Councils of Defense. The Councils of Defense of Illinois, Iowa and Missouri reported that nothing had been done to push the use of tractors.

On motion by Mr. Straus, Mr. Christie was given authority to push by means of extensive publicity, the campaign to put tractors and power machinery on the farms of Indiana.

The protest of a hardware store at Ladoga against closing at 6 o'clock in the evening on the grounds that farmers would thus be prevented from purchasing necessary supplies was referred to the Merchants' Economy committee and to the Food Production and Conservation committee, jointly. It was stated that the store being forced to close was inconvenient to the farmer trade and its remaining open denies clerks an opportunity to cultivate war gardens.

A letter received by Governor Goodrich suggesting that steps be taken through a registration or by some other means to determine who in Indiana is refusing to work was read. In this connection George Harney of the military affairs committee explained the "war loafer" ordinance which has been sent out by the State Council, and passed by a number of City Councils of the State. The ordinance is being enforced at Terre Haute with good results, according to Mr. Harney.

Arthur W. Brady and A. E. Reynolds were designated by Chairman Foley to attend meetings in Washington on April 3 and 4. The meeting on April 3 will be in the office of Secretary of Labor Lane and will be for the discussion of the question of the Americanization of aliens. The other meeting has been called by W. W. Gifford, director of the National Council of Defense in the office of the secretary of the navy, and will be for the purpose of discussing general State Council work.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

OATMEAL AND WAYS TO USE IT.

Oatmeal is one of the popular "substitutes" that may be purchased with wheat flour. Many families do not use oatmeal except as a breakfast food and find it a difficult matter to consume all that is purchased.

Oats can be used in cakes, puddings, and breads as a substitute for part of the flour. Yeast bread cannot be made entirely from oats because of the fact that the rising property is not great enough to make the product "light."

In food value wheat and oats are similar. Oats contain more fat and mineral matter but in protein value are the same, while the wheat contains more carbohydrates. Therefore, in using oats the food value of a product is very similar to the same product made with wheat.

The following receipts have been tested out in the Vincennes Junior and Senior High School under the direction of Miss Ida B. Wilhite, Supervisor of Domestic Science, and further information regarding them may be obtained by writing to her:

Baked Oatmeal with Nuts:

- 2 cups cooked oats.
- 1 cup crushed peanuts.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon pepper.
- 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoons salt.
- 1 teaspoon vinegar.

Mix together and bake in a greased pan 15 minutes.

Oatmeal Betty:

- 2 cups cooked oats.
- 4 apples (diced).
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup raisins.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix and bake one-half hour. Makes five servings.

Oatmeal Fruit Pudding:

Spread cooked oatmeal in thin layer in bottom of pudding pan; cover with sliced peaches, bananas or dates; dust lightly with sugar, repeat until dish is filled. Beat the white of one egg until stiff; add 1 tablespoon sugar and beat until glossy; spread over top of dish, slip in oven long enough to brown. Serve with rich milk or cream. Canned, fresh or dried fruit may be used.

Note—A good way to use left-over cooked cereal.

Oatmeal Pastry:

- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup oat flour.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup white flour.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- Water to hold together.

Mix and bake as any plain pastry.

Oatmeal Honey Cakes:

- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup honey.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- 2 eggs.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon soda.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup buckwheat flour.
- 1 cup oats.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon cloves, or
- 1 teaspoon almond extract.

Sift together all dry ingredients. Cream fat and honey; add well beaten eggs; add dry ingredients. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in well greased gem pans in moderate oven.

Oatmeal Crumpets:

- 1 cup milk.
- 2 eggs.
- 1 cup cold cooked oats.
- 1 cup buckwheat flour.
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Separate eggs; beat white and yolk separately; to yolks add milk, salt, oatmeal, flour and baking powder.

War Time Feeding Is a Recognized Problem

Cattle Fattened at Purdue Will be Finished and Valued at Meeting April 13.

"The Committee on Food Production and Conservation recognizes that war-time feeding is one of the big problems before the cattle men of the State. Interest will be greater than ever before, at the annual spring meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association, held at Purdue, April 13," said G. I. Christie, director.

At that time, the seven lots of cattle fed at the Experiment Station will be finished and valued. Four of these lots are being fed rations directly of interest to cattle men in this war emergency and with high-priced corn. One lot has received corn silage, cottonseed meal and clover hay—no corn at any time. Another lot has received corn during the last few weeks only. The third lot has been receiving about six pounds of corn daily per steer. The fourth lot has received a large amount of corn from the beginning to the end.

In other lots the comparative value of straight corn silage and mixed corn and soy bean silage will be demonstrated.

In addition to a study of the demonstrations in the feed lot the following program will be given in the Purdue live stock pavilion: John T. Alexander of Chicago, Ill., "The Markets"; John G. Brown of Monon, "Feeding Silage on Pasture"; C. G. Starr, "The Purdue Cattle"; H. P. Rusk of University of Illinois, "Maintaining Beef Herds in the Corn Belt," and J. H. Skinner, "The Beef Man and War-Time Feeding."

Every cattle man in the corn belt will be welcomed.

HOG CAMPAIGN AND FORAGE CROPS.

The drive for a 20% increase in pork production waged by the Committee on Food Production and Conservation has met with success. However, the hog men are now confronted with a serious feed problem. Commercial hog feeds are costly, and mature corn for feeding this spring and summer is scarce.

"Barley will supply grain for hogs sooner than any other crop," says representative of Purdue university in charge of special production work in the State. Success Beardless barley is the best variety for Indiana, practical hog men say.

"Seed eight to ten pecks per acre just as early in the spring as the weather and the condition of the soil will permit. Seed it like oats, and on corn stubble land to save the labor of plowing. Barley does well in any part of the northern half of the State. It is ready to use between July 15 and August 1.

"Barley is about equal to corn, pound for pound for feeding hogs. But while corn does not need to be ground for pigs, barley should. The grains are too small and hard to be masticated and digested readily when whole. While the pigs may not like the barley very well at first, they will soon become accustomed to it. But they will do better if ground barley is mixed half and half with middlings or some other palatable hog feed. Gains are more rapid, too, when some high protein feed like tankage is fed along with the barley and other feeds."

Forage crops of all kinds must be relied upon to help solve the hog feeding problem. Farmers who buy their seeds for forage crops early this spring are doing a wise thing. Rape, soy beans, cowpeas, and other crops commonly planted for hog forage will likely be very scarce in the season, and the farmer who delays buying until he needs the seed is likely to be disappointed, think the men in charge of the seeds stock survey of Indiana. While all of these seeds can be procured now, these men predict a rush at the last that will leave a lot of farmers without seed. It is likely that later in the season seed prices will be higher also, which is another reason for buying early.

THE SUMMER SILO'S ADVANTAGES.

"About 40% of food value of corn is in the stalks and leaves. Why be without a silo and throw away nearly half the value of the crop?" said Maurice Douglas of the Silo Committee.

"Each year the dairy farmers are placing a higher estimate upon the summer silo. It is well that they should, for the enormous falling off in the milk flow during the hot, dry period of mid-summer is a practice that must be stopped if the most economical production is to be secured. This is a most important consideration, for cows that go down in their production during the summer due to a lack of feed will not regain their normal production in the fall and winter. This means that they must be fed at a disadvantage and often at a loss during the remainder of their lactation period. For this reason the immediate returns from the silage feed represents only a part of the profits that are realized.

"When the advantages of the silo, and of silage as a feed for dairy cattle, are considered, the natural conclusion would undoubtedly be that the dairy farmers of Indiana should build and fill more silos."

Indiana Leads States in U. S. Boys Enrollment

Steuben County Holds Unique Distinction of Having Every Eligible Boy Ready for War Work.

A total enrollment of 12,599 Indiana boys in the United States Boys' Working Reserve was reported by Isaac D. Straus, federal State director, at the meeting of the State Council of Defense on March 27. He stated that according to press dispatches Indiana is leading in enrollments in the reserve.

Mr. Straus reported that of the counties of the State Steuben takes the lead, reporting that every boy between the ages of 16 and 21 is a member of the reserve, making a total of 585. Lyle H. Shank is county director.

"The Reserve is now beginning to justify the time, energy and money spent on it in the past," said Mr. Straus. "County agricultural agents in seventy-five counties out of ninety-two report that they have bona fide applications from farmers for 11,827 boys. These applications are being filled just as promptly as the boys can be secured. It is anticipated that we will be able to meet a large portion of this demand with boys who will be released from high schools in April and May. However, if we are to meet the full demand, it will be necessary for us to enroll several thousand boys who are not in school and who are either unemployed or doing work which is not at this time essential to the war."

Mr. Straus also called to the attention of the Council that practically no activity is being reported in Clark, Clay, Hancock, Rush, Randolph and Floyd counties. In these counties special efforts are now being made to create interest and an effective organization.

The following comment on Indiana's record in the campaign for enrollments in the United States Boys' Working Reserve was published in the United States Employment Service bulletin of March 18:

Indiana is probably the most advanced State in the Boys' Reserve movement, and is ascertaining by counties the number of boys that farmers will need and will accept. This survey is in charge of G. I. Christie. A State conference was held at Indianapolis on March 9 at which educators, county Reserve directors, county farm agents of the Department of Agriculture, and others aiding the Boys' Working Reserve were present. Recommendations that high-school and college boys be released early for farm service were prepared by G. L. Mackintosh, president of Wabash College; Horace Ellis, president of the State board of education; and Dr. J. J. Pettijohn, representing the University of Indiana.

"With the farm-labor situation so acute and the emergency only a few weeks off," Director Straus last week telegraphed the Employment Service, "the Boys' Working Reserve is just as important as the Liberty Loan."

"The United States is obligated to send 1,000,000 tons of food each month to the Allies, and is going to do it."—Vernon Kellogg.

Woman's Section

Interesting work being done by the county organizations of patriotic women as shown by reports filed with Mrs. Carlisle March 1, follows:

DELAWARE COUNTY.

Delaware county is thoroughly organized into fifty precincts, with a precinct chairman in each, and is about to be organized into U. S. Food Clubs on the same basis. The Food clubs will be used for registration purposes. Arrangements are being made to instruct about 200 registrars. General explanation of the service card has been made at a meeting of the precinct chairmen, also at various club meetings by Fourteen Minute Women. At least 10,000 women will be registered, and it is hoped to have a registration of 100 per cent. The publicity campaign has been begun through local papers.

There is to be a woman chairman for food production in each township, and each will appoint a man assistant. Meetings are being held and plans made. In Center township and the city of Muncie, the committee is co-operating with the Muncie Garden association, which is already strongly organized, and a member of which is also a member of the executive board of the Women's Branch of the Council of Defense. Seed, fertilizer, and plowing will be furnished at cost to members of the association, and plowing will be done free for those who have not means to pay for it. Meetings are being held in the schools and the services of Boy Scouts have been secured to distribute booklets regarding seed, prices, etc.

The Home and Foreign Relief Committee reports as follows:

Needy families taken care of, 11; shipment of two boxes by French Relief Chapter and a grand total of 22,428 articles turned over to the Red Cross.

FAYETTE COUNTY

Our county is thoroughly organized by townships and we are instructing all registrars, of whom there are one hundred and twenty. We will be disappointed if we have less than 1200 registering in our county. The coming registration is being given the widest publicity possible through the instrumentality of our press and through the efforts of our "Fourteen Minute Women."

All children of school age, who are in good health, are required to be in school. Where parents fail to co-operate with us in keeping their children in school we take them before the grand jury. We are urging birth registration records. Among the welfare work being done would say that the child labor law is being most rigidly enforced. Factory inspections are made from time to time to ascertain that no children under age are employed.

Each Monday afternoon from one to two o'clock the chairman conducts a "war course" entitled "Historic Background of the War." This is open to the public and a study is made of the conditions in Europe that brought about the war. The chairman has ready to present "The Spirit of Democracy," a pageant by high school students. Together with this will be a patriotic address. This will be given in March. On April 6, the anniversary of our entrance into the war, the chairman is to address the Federated Clubs on the causes of the war. She will also speak before a local club March 16 on "The Historic Background of the War." The Appeal to Students has been used and our students are "doing their bit." Once a week at least each class in history of the Connersville high school devotes an entire period to a study of the war. There is scarcely a day but what attention is given to the war. The chairman is planning for each class to study all the remainder of the school year more and more about the war. We use the President's Flag Day address, the War Message, the War Information Series, Red, White and Blue series in class for special study.

JASPER COUNTY.

There is great activity in food production and conservation in Jasper county. The food production committee is agitating the discontinuance of pickle raising in favor of crops of more food value. The chairman of Home Economics has guaranteed the salary of the county demonstrator. The chairman of Food administration is working through the Community clubs of the farmers and reports that the "less days" are being well observed and practically all clubs have discontinued the serving of refreshments.

MIAMI COUNTY.

The Fourteen Minute Speakers' bureau is doing fine work. Have had speakers at almost all the lodges and clubs, in fact at all women's organizations in the city. The committee has sent speakers to all the institutes (farmers) and school meetings in the county. To date 24 speeches have been made, and all have been very well received.

The Home Economics chairman is also one of the Fourteen Minute speakers and in that way is bringing her work before the public. She plans to have demonstrations each month.

The Council of Defense has organized an executive committee, and the chairman has asked that all the departments of the women's section work meet with and be a part of this executive committee.

This executive committee will hold monthly meetings and at these meetings reports will be given of work done by the various departments.

VANDERBURGH COUNTY.

We have succeeded in getting permanent headquarters for the Women's section. We have an auditorium that will seat 200 people and rooms for committee meetings. It is estimated that we will register 16,000 women.

WABASH COUNTY.

The Wabash County Council of Defense has secured permanent headquarters. They have also in the past month secured an Emergency Home Demonstrator. The food production work is receiving great attention and plans are being formed for offering prizes to girls' clubs for the best gardens and canned products.

WAYNE COUNTY.

The food production chairman is busily engaged in germinating cabbage seeds in six days. She will talk on this subject at a called meeting at the public library and also explain the preparation of window boxes for seeds and plants, setting hens and incubators. The chairman will go to Purdue to take a course in gardening. This committee of the Woman's section has also secured the promise of florists to raise tomato plants and sell them at a reasonable price.

The chairman of Food Administration will talk each Saturday at women's meetings on substitutes, giving cooking demonstrations. These meetings are intended for the women from the country and if they prove popular they will be extended to include all women's work for the war.

Wayne county's "Flying Squadron," which consists of girls who own and drive their own cars, are doing splendid work in the way of taking the "Fourteen Minute Women" from place to place and other similar services. They are to wear uniforms and to be available at all times.

RANDOLPH COUNTY.

Randolph County Chapter Red Cross has more than 6,000 members and has collected over $22,000.

Twelve branch chapters throughout the county. There have been few calls so far for Home Relief, but committees stand ready at all times to attend to any need.

The Red Cross has promised 100 infant layettes from this county for the French and Belgium Relief; all clubs are making the infant layettes. The Friends Church is doing great work along the line of French Reconstruction Work.

We have also received splendid reports from the following counties:

Clark, Clinton, Dearborn, Decatur, Floyd, Fountain, Fulton, Gibson, Grant, Jefferson, Kosciusko, Knox, Lawrence, Lake, Martin, Putnam, Scott, Steuben, Union, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Wells, Vermilion, Henry.

Through an error in the Bulletin of March 15 Miss Lelia C. Ogle and Miss Inez M. Richardson were given all the credit for the compilation of the "Cook Book for Kitchen Patriots," sold at the food show at South Bend. Miss Ogle and Miss Richardson assisted in the work, but the book was compiled by the Food Conservation Committee of St. Joseph county, which is composed of the entire force of home economics teachers of South Bend and St. Joseph county, together with the county and city demonstration agents, and of which they are members.

Red Cross Activities

"Patriotic young men who want to serve their country and cannot because of palpable physical disabilities, not affecting their general health, will be welcomed as applicants for positions in the American Red Cross foreign transportation service," Severance Millikin, Lake Division agent of the Red Cross Foreign Transportation Department, said today. The Lake Division department of personnel, of which Mrs. L. Dean Holden is director, is co-operating with Mr. Millikin in enrolling men for overseas service.

"This service presents a fine opportunity to many men handicapped physically, but still able to 'carry on' as actively as if serving in the front line trenches," says Mr. Millikin. "Some four hundred men have applied at our recruiting office during the past three weeks, and a number with physical handicaps have been found to be desirable applicants for positions as chauffeurs, mechanics, electricians, truck body builders and general repairmen.

"We still require nearly 100 men for these positions. Men above draft age are preferred. Salaries ranging from $36 to $68 a month are paid in addition to transportation, living expenses and equipment. All applicants should call at or write to 1034 Garfield Building, Cleveland."

Lake Division Red Cross during February shipped 3,331,411 separate articles to the division warehouses, according to tabulations just completed by Carl W. Fuller, acting director of the division Bureau of Supplies.

The total value of these articles was $1,015,780.74.

Total receipts and their value were as follows: Surgical dressings, 2,704,981; value, $115,483.27. Hospital garments, 186,909; value, $204,479.54. Hospital supplies, 151,852; value, $48,468.66. Refugee garments, 408; value, $1,115.77.

Articles for soldiers (practically all knitted articles), 237,488; value, $646,333.50.

Miscellaneous articles, 49,773 (no value stated).

"The women of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky cannot be given too much credit for their splendid work in turning out this great volume of work," said James R. Garfield, division manager. "We are extremely hopeful that there will be no lessening of production."

The Lake Division of the American Red Cross is sending out from its Cleveland office large orders to Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky chapters for surgical dressings for the United States Army Medical Service. The make-up of the dressings will conform to army specifications, but those who have been working on the Red Cross standard dressings will have little difficulty in following the army directions. It is the intention of the army authorities to turn over to the Red Cross the material, such as gauze and cotton, required to make the dressings definitely asked for by the Medical Corps. The Red Cross chapters will in turn have the benefit of this arrangement.

The productive capacity of the Red Cross work-rooms throughout the country has been steadily increasing, and with much of the work practically under army direction the Red Cross should be even more helpful to the Medical Service than in the past.

Indiana has forty-four Home Service chapters of the Red Cross, according to a report by the Lake Division of the national organization. These chapters have a total of 268 families under their care, and spent a total of $2,544.47 during the first two months of 1918.

Eight social workers, an inspector-manufacturer of splints, a mechanical engineer, a graphic exhibit expert and two journalists are needed by the American Red Cross to fill positions in France and Italy, according to information just received from Washington by Mrs. L. Dean Holden, director of the Lake Division Department of Personnel.

Field representatives, secretaries to bureau heads, architects, cable men, motion picture operators, chaplains, and base hospital representatives are needed in France. More than 100 accountants, clerks, bookkeepers, auditors and stenographers are needed for service in the same country. The medical bureau requires a few physicians, hospital superintendents, dentists and an X-ray expert.

Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky applicants for these Red Cross positions should call or write to Mrs. Holden, 929 Garfield Building, Cleveland.

Food Administration

The usual extravagant consumption of eggs, their waste by coloring, unusual consumption of candy eggs or other Easter novelties are tabooed by the food administration this year, due to the shortage of staples. County food administrators have been authorized to forbid the usual indulgences in Easter eggs, beyond a point of reasonable consumption.

Denying that county food administrators have authority to require any baker or dealer to increase prices for bread, the food administration reiterates its purpose in reference to bread—the determination of a reasonable margin of profit—leaving a minimum to the result of competition.

New food regulations affecting the consumption of wheat flour products are intended to reduce consumption one-half. They include the following limitations:

"Householders to use not to exceed a total of one and one-half pounds a week of wheat products per person. This means not more than one and three-quarter pounds of Victory bread containing the required percentage of substitutes and one-half pound of cooking flour, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, all combined.

"Public eating places and clubs to observe two wheatless days per week, Monday and Wednesday, as at present. In addition thereto, not to serve to any one guest at any one meal, an aggregate of breadstuffs, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, containing a total of more than two ounces of wheat flour.

"No wheat products to be served unless specially ordered.

"Public eating establishments not to buy more than six pounds of wheat products for each ninety meals served, thus conforming with the limitations requested of the householders.

"Retailers to sell not more than one-eighth of a barrel of flour to any town customer at any one time and not more than one-quarter of a barrel to any country customer at any one time, and in no case to sell wheat products without the sale of an equal weight of other cereals.

"We ask the bakers and grocers to reduce the volume of Victory bread sold by delivery of the three-quarter pound loaf where one pound was sold before, and corresponding proportions in other weights. We also ask bakers not to increase the amount of their wheat flour purchases beyond 70 per cent. of the average monthly amount purchased in the four months prior to March 1.

"Manufacturers using wheat products for non-food purposes should cease such use entirely."

County food administrators are urged to institute a campaign to save ice for the sake of conserving ammonia, which is highly essential to the manufacture of hand grenades and other munitions of war.

The federal food administrator advises against any relaxation of the laws intended to safeguard public health; this especially with reference to modifications of the city ordinances relative to raising hogs in dangerous proximity to homes.

Bakers who are unable to read instructions and offer this as an excuse for failure to abide by the regulations of the food administration are advised to quit business, as the administration will show no further tolerance with this class of offenders.

Model Organization for Registration

Miss Mary Mulligan of Madison County Has Prepared for Big Task Beginning April 19.

Miss Mary S. Mulligan, of Madison county, Supervisor of Public Instruction in Anderson, has submitted what is regarded as a model plan for the registration of Indiana women for War Emergency Service, which is printed herewith for the information of the workers in other counties, where organization difficulties have been experienced. Miss Mulligan has 290 trained registrars ready to go over the top.

A. Organization.

1. Unite. School districts.
2. Chairmen of districts:
  - Miss Elma Trueblood, Main Street School.
  - Miss Mattie Fry, Hazelwood School.
  - Miss Anna Ellis, Seventh Street School.
  - Miss Jessie Leffel, Riley School.
  - Mrs. Helen Huffman, Columbia School.
  - Miss Anna Conway, Shadeland School.
  - Miss Verna Hoke, Lincoln School.
  - Miss Ranna Creson, Central Ave. School.
  - Miss Ida Dickey, Park Place School.
  - Miss Omega Rose, Washington School.
3. Board of Advisors for each chairman—the teachers of the school.
4. Plan—Provision for house-to-house canvass. Also for a registrar in each school building from 8 to 11 and from 1 to 4 during the drive.
5. Division of work. The Advisory Board will list the streets in its district; indicating the district limits of each.
  - a. Registrars will be chosen for each street and a group of registrars will be chosen for each office building, factory, business block, and boarding home.
  - b. Assignment of registrars.
    1. One registrar for each street.
      - (a) In the case of factories:
        - (1) Arrange with the superintendent of the factory for a talk before the women in which the purpose of the registration is made clear.
        - (2) Arrange with the superintendent of the factory for a time and place for the registration.
        - (3) Appoint a group of registrars large enough to complete the work within ten days.
      - (b) In case of business blocks, assign one registrar to each.
      - (c) In case of office buildings, assign one registrar to each.
      - (d) Boarding homes—one registrar.
    2. A high school girl will be registered by the teacher of her advisory group.
    3. Instruction of registrars March 26—7:30 p. m., High School Auditorium.

B. Education—Through:

1. Press.
2. Clubs.
3. Parent-Teachers' meetings.
4. Pulpits.
5. Patriotic meetings.
  - (1) At each school building on March 19, 3:00-4:00 p. m., Mothers' Day, a patriotic program.
  - (2) At each school building on April 16, at 7:30 p. m., a patriotic program.
  - (3) Any other public meetings, at which we are allowed a few minutes.

C. Filing Cards.

1. Keep cards filed by streets or factories, business blocks, etc., until registration is completed in district. On April 30 file them alphabetically and send to this office.

D. Report of Progress.

Daily reports to my office by phone.

Time for reports: Central, 7:00 p. m.; Columbia, 7:10 p. m.; Hazelwood, 7:20 p. m.; Lincoln, 7:30 p. m.; Main, 7:40 p. m.; Park Place, 7:50 p. m.; Riley, 8:00; Seventh, 8:10 p. m.; Shadeland, 8:20 p. m.; Washington, 8:30 p. m.

Public Service Reserve

N. E. Squibb, director of the Public Service Reserve in Indiana, authorizes the following for the information of county directors and the men who have registered in the shipbuilders' army:

The United States Employment Service last week notified the shipyards east of the Rocky mountains that it is now prepared to fill all their labor needs, and requested them to obtain their workers exclusively through the service. Compliance by the yards with this request, and the cessation of their independent efforts to recruit labor, will mean the elimination of the past general confusion in industry caused by the unintentional "stealing" of men by one yard from another, the unnecessary and premature withdrawal of workers from other industries, and the piling up of idle labor in the shipbuilding centers.

Approximately 75 yards on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes have been notified of the readiness of the Employment Service to find them all the labor they need. For the present the Pacific coast yards will be cared for by the district offices of the Employment Service at San Francisco and Seattle.

The needs of the yards will be supplied first from the applicants for shipbuilding employment at the various branch offices of the Employment Service. Where branch offices are unable to fill requests for particular classes of workers, these will be obtained from the United States Public Service Reserve, the skilled labor "recruiting" division of the Employment Service. The Reserve already has enrolled more than 225,000 shipyard volunteers, and all States have been instructed to continue enrolling skilled men, whether or not their quotas have been obtained.

Each Federal State director of the Public Service Reserve has been directed to begin the classification by trades of the men enrolled in his State. Wherever possible, Reserve members will be examined as to their qualifications for shipbuilding by the traveling examiners and other experts of the branch offices of the Employment Service. When these experts are not available, the State director or his agents must ascertain the fitness of volunteers from independent sources. The Reserve will not be called upon until the resources of the branch offices of the Employment Service have been exhausted.

All branch offices of the Employment Service and the Reserve directors should note the following letter sent to the shipyards by Director Densmore:

"The United States Employment Service is now ready to undertake to supply all your labor requirements. As soon as we have perfected our system of clearances, whereby all the labor resources of the country can be made available through the branch or district office of the Employment Service nearest you, we believe that all your needs, so far as competent men are to be found anywhere, can be taken care of without direct reference to our Washington office. In the meantime, however, and for the purpose of making shipyard volunteers immediately available, we have established in this office a Clearance Section, which will handle requests for men who can not readily be found through our local offices.

"In the interest of the general labor situation throughout the country, as affecting both shipbuilding and war industries, we believe it to be essential that the shipyards should get the men they need exclusively through the United States Employment Service. Accordingly we request you to send us now and from time to time hereafter, a list of the special positions in your shipyard now vacant which you do not expect to be able to fill readily through the nearest office of this service; for example, such as shipfitters, loftsmen, coppersmiths, etc. It would be well to go over the list with our representative in such office, inasmuch as we do not want to draw on the Public Service Reserve for men who can be obtained from among those who apply at Employment Service offices. Upon receipt of the list we shall at once try to locate the men you need and to assist you in arranging, through our Employment Service, for the employment of those men whom you desire.

"Such list should be specific as to the kinds of men wanted, the number of each kind, working conditions, and the rates of wages. We must also be able to give definite information as to the probability of securing living accommodations and the rates of board and lodging or rent. We also want to know exactly when the men listed can be employed. Much hardship will be caused if, through erroneous information, we lead men to give up or endanger their positions elsewhere in the hope of securing positions in the shipyards which are not at the time actually open."

A warning to members of the Public Service Reserve, registered for shipbuilding, not to expect immediate calls, has been issued by William E. Hall, national director of the Reserve. Mr. Hall says:

"It will probably be some little time before calls from the shipyards are made for any considerable number of men. For the present the men needed by the shipyards who can not be found among the unemployed will be chiefly skilled mechanics of the higher grades. Men enrolled in the Reserve should wait until they receive notification of any opening. They must stick to their present jobs until they are called. To leave them and independently seek shipyard employment would be only to bring hardship upon themselves and their families.

"Wherever any man who wants immediate employment has enrolled in the Reserve he can have his records transferred to the nearest Employment Service office on application to the enrollment agent who enrolled him or to the Reserve director of his State. Men now at work should be encouraged to stick to their jobs and stay on reserve."

BULLETIN NO. 12.

To All Enrolling Agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve:

We have not received from all counties all the cards which were filled out for the recent shipyards drive. If you have not sent in your enrolling cards to this office, please do so immediately.

It will be well for you to keep a record of the men who have enrolled with you for your own personal information.

We are informed that there is no immediate need for men in the shipyards and that any statements which you may see in the papers to the contrary are not statements of authority, but come through overzealousness on the part of some newspaper men to write what they think to be a good story.

I am quoting a warning to members of the Public Service Reserve registered for shipyards not to expect immediate calls, which was just issued by W. E. Hall, National Director of the Reserve. It is as follows:

RESERVE MEMBERS MUST WAIT.

"It will probably be some little time before calls from the shipyards are made for any considerable number of men. For the present the men needed by the shipyards who can not be found among the unemployed will be chiefly skilled mechanics of the higher grades. Men enrolled in the Reserve should wait until they receive notification of any opening. They must stick to their present jobs until they are called. To leave them and independently seek shipyard employment would be only to bring hardship upon themselves and their families.

"Whenever any man who wants immediate employment has enrolled in the Reserve he can have his records transferred to the nearest Employment Service office on application to the enrollment agent who enrolled him or to the Reserve director of his State. Men now at work should be encouraged to stick to their jobs and stay on reserve."

Examiners have not come to Indiana and it may be that there will be some change in this procedure, although we are not informed on the subject as yet. It may be that each agent will be asked to pass his opinion upon the men enrolled.

If there are a great many of your men who are unemployed, please send their names into this office and we will turn them over to the U. S. Emergency Employment Service, who may be able to place them at work at once.

Very truly yours,

N. E. SQUIBB,
State Director.

I will smash the German line in France, if you will smash that damnable Hun propaganda at home.—GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., APRIL 5, 1918

Number 34

Cottage Cheese Has Splendid Food Value

Expert Has Been Detailed to Indiana to Encourage Manufacture and Use of This Product.

As a part of the campaign to stop waste and conserve food Simon Hagedorn, an expert on the manufacture of cottage cheese, has been detailed to Indiana by the United States Department of Agriculture to encourage a larger manufacture and more extensive use of this valuable food product.

During these times when meats and other protein foods are scarce and high in price the housewife will find it economical to use cottage cheese as a substitute. Nutrition experts tell us that one pound of cottage cheese has a protein value equal to that of various kinds of meats as follows:

- 1.27 pounds of sirloin steak.
- 1.46 pounds of fresh ham.
- 1.58 pounds of loin pork chop.
- 1.52 pounds of fowl.
- 1.31 pounds of hind leg of calf.

Large quantities of skim milk that might be made into cottage cheese is now being wasted or fed to hogs and other live stock. Many difficult problems in the manufacture and marketing of the cheese have in the past kept it from being more generally used. But now that it is so important to save meats and the housewife can make such a saving by using cheese as a meat substitute, it is important that it be placed on the market in larger quantities.

Mr. Hagedorn will visit the different creameries and dairies of the State to help them with their manufacturing problems and to give advice regarding the better methods of marketing the product. The work is being conducted by Purdue University in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture. The campaign is in charge of C. R. George, of Purdue, and is a part of the dairy campaign waged by the State Food Committee.

THE CARE OF GARDEN TOOLS.

"Tools for garden work are frequently objects of unnecessary and willful neglect," says F. C. Gaylord, of Purdue. "Following their use during the summer they are leaned against a tree or fence and often remain there without further attention until spring. When provided with shelter they are sometimes carelessly placed where heavier tools or other objects pass over them, thus ending their usefulness.

"When exposed to moisture, tools will rust, and wooden handles will warp and crack. Rusty tools make the work doubly hard, while the gardener's annual spring crop of blisters is greatly increased by roughened, warped handles. Furthermore, the ordinary care of tools is merely common-sense economy, as it lengthens their period of usefulness.

"Tools which are in poor condition should receive any necessary attention now, for when spring work begins in earnest time will be at a premium. Rust may be removed by soaking thoroughly in kerosene, then rubbing with a medium grade of emery paper until a clean surface is obtained. Sandpaper the roughened or warped wooden handles, then rub with a rag soaked in crude petroleum or grease, and finish by polishing with a soft cloth. Cracked handles may be repaired by wrapping tightly with plumbers' tape.

"Wheel hoes, hand hoes, weedeaters, garden knives, spades, hatchets, scuffle hoes, etc., must be sharp in order to give effective service. If a grindstone

Attention, County Councils of Defense!

(Editorial)

County Councils of Defense can hardly hope to retain their standing, if by this time they have failed to catch the meaning of their office and have not joined in the work of organizing the men, women and materials in their communities on a war basis. They have had almost a year in which to acquaint themselves with the purposes of the defense organization, to become familiar with the objects desired by the national and State Governments. How they can expect their failure to translate into action and results the requests that have come to them, all aimed at crystallizing patriotic sentiment and co-ordinating patriotic activities, to be excused or condoned, is not clear. The more vigilant County Councils and the larger State Council, itself answerable to Washington for Indiana's position behind the battle lines, have a right to expect that every other Council has done its full duty. All of which is but prefatory to the statement that by no means the least consequential request that has issued to the Indiana County Councils has been that conveyed in Bulletin No. 118. This urges organization by township and community Councils of Defense in every school district, in every county in Indiana.

President Wilson, himself, in a communication to the Indiana body pointed out the desirability of this extension of the second line of the nation's defense. The National Council joined in the request and Governor James P. Goodrich declared his ambition in this connection for a 100% organization of Indiana territorial units and individuals.

What greater incentive can a conscientious, loyal county Council ask? In delegating this responsibility to the counties, the State Council adhered to the policy of decentralization of the controlling organization in Washington.

The ominous German drive in Picardy has made it clear to statesmen and warriors that Germany is not defeated and will not be overcome until the fullest participation by America in support of the Allies. Such ponderous force will not be available until every man, woman and child in this country has been brought to a sense of direct personal concern in the struggle. What quicker or more effective method of enlisting them has been devised than bringing them into an active association of patriotic citizens? It would seem so plain a duty that no county Council, or member of such organization could persistently countenance delinquency.

A conscientious effort to bring every township or every school district into the organization should be made everywhere at once, if it has not already been made.

As truthfully as the proposition that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, when the test comes, so will it prove in communities where the demands continue, as continue they must in enlarged measure, as popular sentiment becomes more taut with the growing peril of the Hun drive in France. Ability to maintain the dignity of civil law and keep our house in order becomes easier by virtue of organization. There is no good reason for shirking or evading this important business in any Indiana county.

is not available a flat file will develop a good cutting edge, since the steel used in tools is fairly soft. When cleaned and sharpened tools should be kept coated with heavy oil or grease to prevent rusting."

PLANT A GARDEN.

"Every potato hill is a rap at Kaiser Bill," is the slogan.

More than 500,000 war gardens were planted in Indiana last year. To increase this number to 750,000 in 1918 is the Food Production Committee's ambition.

A shortage of garden seeds is threatened for 1919 spring's planting. The usual European sources can not be relied upon for a supply. The weather conditions have not been favorable to the growing of root crop seeds. The seed can only be produced by planting roots already in the ground or now in storage. Such crops as carrots, beets, onions, turnips and rutabagas are involved.

Start the seed crop now in fertile soil in order that the tops are well started by warm weather. It is necessary to cover the roots one or two inches to protect from light freezes. Plant the roots in rows 3 feet apart and 2½ to 3 feet in the row.

Onions may be spaced six inches in the row. Cultivate shallow and thoroughly.

POULTRY CAMPAIGN.

More chickens than ever before are being hatched this year in Indiana as a result of the early hatching campaign, reports reaching the Committee on Food Production and Conservation indicate. This, too, is in spite of the adverse market conditions such as price of eggs and poultry. The big problem now is to care for these extra early hatched chicks so as to give increased meat production this summer and the greater number of eggs next fall.

Liberty Guard Lights.

While Fayette county holds the record for "concentrated" Liberty Guards, having four organizations in Connersville alone, nevertheless Warrick county outranks all others in number of companies organized. There are now companies at Boonville, Tennyson, Chandler, Canal, Folsomville and two at Newburg. The work of organizing the county is in the capable hands of Thomas E. Downs, editor of the Boonville Standard.

1355
-185cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—The Kirkland township high school has the unique record of having a 100 per cent. membership in the Red Cross and a 100 per cent. membership in the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

Allen County.—Ft. Wayne has been divided into thirty-two sections to facilitate the war garden program. In each section a "captain" has been appointed to list every vacant lot and to see that persons desiring lots to cultivate are supplied. City authorities will seize land which is not cultivated....The grand total in the Allen county war savings stamp drive is now more than $400,000. More than $100,000 worth of stamps were sold by women in the townships outside of Ft. Wayne.

Bartholomew County.—Canners have started a campaign in Bartholomew county for the growing of more tomatoes this summer to meet the war demand....All ground in Columbus available for gardening has been listed by the boys of the high school and will be allotted to persons who wish to cultivate it by the garden committee of the Chamber of Commerce....The poem "Kaiserblumen" was torn from the school textbooks and was burned in bonfires on the yards of the schools. While the pages were burning the child in sang patriotic songs.

Blackford County.—C. M. Harvey has been appointed by the County Council of Defense to see that every available acre of ground in the county is cultivated. He will report the names of persons who refuse to cultivate their land to the State Council of defense.

Boone County.—Two sectional meetings and one mass meeting made up the Thornstown township war conference April 3. The mass meeting was held in the high school gymnasium in the evening. Among the speakers were Henry Coe Culbertson, former president of Emporia College, and Major Craig Wright of the British army. The sectional meetings, one for women and one for men, were held in the Presbyterian church and the Methodist church, respectively....The following have been named as the Eagle Township Council of Defense: Jesse F. Philippi, Helen Nell Lemon, George W. Rader, Jasper Shuburne, Peter Moore, W. H. Baldock and Edward Brouhard....Washington and Jackson townships already have organized with the following members: Washington—Clarence Blubaugh, Watson Masters, Sheridan Pollard, Ruth Fall and Homer Beck. Jackson—W. K. Ingalls, John W. Scott, Carl Bowman, Mrs. Carrie Beaver and Charles McLain....A campaign against sheep-killing dogs has been started following reports filed with the county auditor showing that dogs killed stock valued at $2,602.51 during the year ending March 1.

Cass County.—A patriotic meeting at which a service flag, with stars representing the men who have gone from Boone township, was dedicated, was held under the auspices of the Township Council of Defense.

Clark County.—Council of Defense have been organized in every township of the county with the exception of Carr township. This township will be organized within a short time....Henry A. Burt, former mayor of Jeffersonville, has been appointed war garden supervisor for the city.

Decatur County.—An all day patriotic meeting will be held in the Christian church at Waynesburg, Sunday, April 7, under the auspices of the Jackson Township Council of Defense....Every boy eligible to membership in the United States Boys' Working Reserve has enrolled in Clay township....A Council of Defense has been formed in Fugi township with Thomas Hamilton as chairman....A committee has been appointed by the County Council of Defense to make plans for greater sheep production in the county.

Dekalb County.—At a joint meeting of the County Council of Defense and the Township Councils of Defense an anti-tuberculosis society was formed for the purpose of aiding in the sale of Red Cross seals and promoting the plan to build a county tuberculosis hospital....J. Y. W. McClellan, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has issued a statement in which he says all land in the county must be cultivated or he will see that it is seized....A war conference was held in Waterloo, March 22, under the direction of the Grant Township Council of Defense.

Delaware County.—Five hundred vacant lots have been turned over to the Muncie war garden committee by Ball Bros., manufacturers.

Elkhart County.—Fifty-one merchants, practically every retail dealer in Goshen, have become members of the merchants' divisions of the United States food administration.

Floyd County.—The Floyd County Council of Defense has appointed Miss Irene Graybrook as special registrar for the purpose of registering all vacant lots in the city which the owners are willing to allow to be used for garden purposes....A parade of automobiles escorted the thirty-five men who left the county for Camp Taylor, March 29.

Fountain County.—Action has been taken by the school authorities to release boys in the eighth grade before the school term is completed to allow them to work on farms in the interest of increased food production.

Fulton County.—A Council of Defense has been organized in Henry township, with Rev. Ivan R. Goodwin as chairman....Charles T. Jones has been elected chairman of the Newcastle Township Council of Defense.

Gibson County.—Miss Marie Rose Laufer was the principal speaker at the first township meeting held in Oakland City under the auspices of the Township Council of Defense. Other township meetings are being planned under the direction of other township councils....Gibson county men subject to the draft were scheduled to meet on April 4 and perfect a county patriotic organization. Township organizations also will be formed.

Henry County.—"Over the Top in Ten Days" is the slogan reported to State headquarters of the third Liberty loan drive by the committee in charge of the campaign in Henry county. Henry county promoters of the drive declare they are "organized to the grass roots," that they know where the money awaits, and are all set to get it....Michael E. Foley, chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense, addresses a mass meeting of the patriotic citizens of Newcastle on Tuesday evening, April 9.

Howard County.—"Every man in this county who is not working must either go to work or take his chance with the vagrancy law" was the edict of Mayor Wright of Kokomo. He stated that in his opinion the best way to solve the farm labor problem is to draft the loafer....The request of the food administration that merchants make window displays to encourage war gardening was observed by most of the merchants of Kokomo. The city has adopted the war garden slogan, "Dig and hoe so things will grow"....The county Liberty guard organization will appear at the memorial services in honor of James DeArmond Golladay, a soldier who recently died in France.

Jackson County.—Redding township has organized a Council of Defense, with Henry Smith of Sulphur Springs as chairman.

Knox County.—Memorial services were held in Vincennes for three Knox county men who have died in the service. They are Privates Ellis Cannon, Harry Henry and Lawrence Bouchie.

Lake County.—Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, and Clarence Darrow, labor leader, will be the principal speakers at the dedication of Hammond's new Liberty hall, April 6. The building was erected for the purpose of supplying adequate seating space for patriotic meetings. On the Monday following the dedication the building will be turned over to the school children of the city for patriotic exercises....N. E. Rowley of Laporte was the principal speaker at the Coaling township war conference, March 26....The town of Hobart has formed an organization for the purpose of promoting patriotism and advancing community welfare.

Marshall County.—Township patriotic meetings were held in Donaldson, Lapaz and Tegader under the direction of the township Councils of Defense.

Newton County.—At a patriotic meeting held in Brook a resolution asking the County Council to appropriate $25,000 a year as a fund to meet war expenses in the county was unanimously passed.

Ohio County.—The following township chairmen have been appointed by the County Council of Defense to organize defense councils in every township in the county: Ethan Anderson, Robert Galbraith, Emmet Wilber, Charles Ascherman, Chris Grieve, Asher Johnson and Albert Pate.

Orange County.—A war conference, said to be one of the best of its kind in the State, was held in Orleans, March 30, under the direction of the County Council of Defense. Orange county defense work is taking on renewed vigor and gives promise of greater effectiveness.

Parke County.—An enthusiastic meeting of Parke county women interested in Red Cross work greeted Mrs. Hugh McGibney and Fred Van Nuy, both of Indianapolis, at the Red Cross rooms at the Masonic Temple, March 27. A few men, also interested in Red Cross work, attended the meeting, making in all about three hundred in the audience. Mrs. McGibney talked on the work of the Red Cross, tracing the growth of the organization since the beginning of the war, explaining the work in all its functions and urging the necessity for every woman to register for service. She highly praised the work of the Parke county women, both in quantity and quality. A tremendous number of garments have been made in Parke county and not one has ever been rejected on account of poor work. Parke county has also made one shipment of surgical dressings and has another almost completed. Mrs. McGibney was followed by Mr. Van Nuy, who made an appeal to the people of Parke county for steadfastness in the great work undertaken. The Red Cross leaders from all parts of the county were present and are planning similar meetings in the various townships. Community singing, led by Mrs. Sandford, with Mrs. Walter S. Ferguson at the piano, was a feature of the meeting. Another feature of the occasion was the donation of small gifts to be placed in the hospital bags made by the women and now ready for shipment. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. H. Stark, president of the local Red Cross Sewing Society.

Pike County.—Captain D. H. Blake of the British army was the principal speaker at all-day war conferences at Petersburg and Winslow, March 27 and 28. Mrs. Idah McGlone Gibson also spoke at the meetings.

Ripley County.—Defense Councils are being organized in each township and war committees are being appointed in each school district. These war committees are composed of ten persons, seven men and three women.

St. Joseph County.—Sunday-school superintendents of South Bend made appeals to the boys of the city to enlist in the United States Boys' Working Reserve at the service Easter Sunday....The St. Joseph Bar Association has formed a speakers' bureau, each member of which has pledged himself to answer any call which may be made in the county for patriotic speakers....Mass meetings of farmers are being held throughout the county for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of labor which will be necessary this summer and, if possible, arrangements will be made to supply this labor from the membership of the Boys' Working Reserve or from other sources. In order to further interest in the Thrift Stamp campaign the principals of the six high schools in St. Joseph county have planned an oratorical contest among the schools on the subject of the Thrift Stamp. Orations will be limited to ten minutes. Pupils to represent each school will be selected in preliminary contests. Persons will be admitted to hear the orations only if each purchases a thrift stamp at the door. The winners of the local contests will compete at South Bend for the county championship. The first prize will be three war savings stamps, the second prize two war savings stamps and the third prize one war savings stamp.

Starke County.—Thomas Atherton has been elected chairman of the Wayne township council of defense.

Sullivan County.—It is estimated that at least 10,000 persons attended the war conferences which were recently held in each township of the county.

Tippecanoe County.—Stanley Coulter, Carolyn Shoemaker and J. O. Beck were the principal speakers at the Wen township war conference in the Presbyterian church at Spring Grove. The Purdue University band supplied the music....The Lafayette school board is considering the abandonment of the teaching of German in the grade and high schools after the end of the present term.

Wabash County.—A defense council has been organized in Liberty township. This is the last township in the county to organize. Milo Merrell is chairman of the county organization.

Wells County.—Judge C. E. Sturgis, chairman of the Council of Defense, has named a committee to have charge of the war gardens of Wells county.

The Official Bulletin

The Council of National Defense authorizes the following:

"Owing to the enormous increase of government war work the governmental departments at Washington are being flooded with letters of inquiry on every conceivable subject concerning the war and it has been found a physical impossibility for the clerks, though they number an army in themselves now, to give many of these letters proper attention and reply. There is published daily at Washington, under authority of and by direction of the President, a government newspaper—the Official U. S. Bulletin. This paper prints every day all of the more important rulings, decisions, regulations, proclamations, orders, etc., etc., as they are promulgated by the several departments and the many special committees and agencies now in operation at the national capital. This official journal is posted each day in every postoffice in the United States, more than 56,000 in number, and may also be found on file at all libraries, boards of trade and chamber of commerce, the offices of mayors and governors and federal officials. By consulting these files most questions will be found readily answered; there will be little necessity for letter writing; the unnecessary congestion of the mails will be appreciably relieved; the railroads will be called upon to move fewer correspondence sacks and the mass of business that is piling up in the government departments will be eased considerably. Hundreds of clerks now answering correspondence will be enabled to give their time to essentially important war work, and a fundamentally patriotic service will have been performed by the public.

Do not help the Hun at meal time.

Encourages Greater Sorghum Production

Food Production Committee Points Out That it is Easy to Raise and Makes Valuable Sweetening.

A campaign is being waged by the Food Committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense to encourage a greater sorghum production. Letters coming to the food director's office, asking for information on sorghum, indicate that the sorghum acreage will be increased at least 25 per cent. during 1918.

Prof. M. L. Fisher, of Purdue, points out in the following article that sorghum is easy to raise and makes a valuable sweetening:

"The scarcity of commercial sugar makes it necessary for consumers to substitute other forms of sweetening where possible. Sorghum syrup is a cheap and easily obtained form of sweetening. It can be used both for cooking and for table use. The large yield to be obtained makes it easy for any farmer to obtain a considerable quantity of syrup from a small area of land.

"Sorghum does not require any unfamiliar methods of culture. Any one who knows how to raise corn can also raise a good crop of sorghum. Good corn land is also good land for sorghum. In fact, land which is rather poor for corn production will be found to produce a very good return in sorghum. Plowing may be done either in the fall or in the spring. Spring plowing should be done as early as possible. Many growers make a mistake in waiting until just before planting to break their land. If the land is plowed early in April and worked several times before planting, it will produce a good seed bed and destroy weeds and be all the better for the sorghum crop.

"Fertilizing with stable manure is not recommended for direct application. It produces too much rankness of growth and the quality of the syrup is not benefited. If the land really needs fertilization, 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate or a fertilizer as high as possible in available phosphoric acid will be advantageous. If plain acid phosphate can not be obtained, then mixed goods with 1 or 2 per cent. of nitrogen and 12 to 14 per cent. of phosphoric acid may be used. It is probably better if one can use land which has been well fertilized and manured for previous crops.

"Planting should not take place until the ground has been fully warmed and some previous cultivation given to destroy weeds. After corn has been planted it is time enough to give attention to sorghum—say, the last two weeks in May. Planting should be done in rows about the same distance apart as corn rows and the seed distributed so that the plants will stand about six inches apart in the row. However, to obtain such a stand it will be necessary to plant somewhat thicker than is desired for the final crop. When the plants are five or six inches high they can be thinned to the proper distance apart. Two to three pounds of seed are required for an acre. For small areas the seed can be distributed by hand; for large areas a grain drill can be used by stopping up the holes not needed.

"There are many varieties of sorghum; but for Indiana the Early Amber or the Early Orange are the most acceptable. The Early Amber is a little earlier than the Early Orange, but the Early Orange will mature in all parts of the State and is regarded as slightly better for syrup production, growing somewhat larger in the stalk, and is said to produce more juice.

"The cultivation of sorghum should be the same as for corn. Three or four cultivations are desirable. Weeds should be kept down so that in the harvesting no weeds are carried to the mills.

"When the seed has reached the dough stage harvesting should begin. Where large areas are grown it is desirable that the crop should not all be planted at the same time. This will permit the grower to harvest his crop when it is at the best stage of development. The usual procedure of harvesting is first to strip off the leaves and lay them in piles for forage use; then the heads are cut off, taking from twelve to eighteen inches of the top part of the stalk (the upper part of the stalk is not especially good for syrup). The heads are laid in piles and may be threshed later for seed. The stalks are then cut and laid in piles. They may lie in piles for a couple of days and even longer without deteriorating. However, it is better to haul to the mill as soon as possible after cutting. A sharp knife should be used in the cutting so that the stalks are cut off with a clean cut. Bruised ends and broken stalks will very quickly begin to ferment and thus injure the quality of the syrup.

"The cut stalks are run through a grinder and roller. A three-roller mill is considered better than a two-roller mill. It is not desirable to obtain the last bit of juice from the stalk. Fifty to 60 per cent. of the juice content is what is usually obtained. Where a larger percentage is obtained the syrup is usually not so good.

"A ton of sorghum should produce from ten to sixteen gallons of syrup, and an acre yield varies from sixty to two hundred gallons.

"The crushed stalks may be returned to the land, or they may be siloed. They make fair silage, or, if the stalks are dried, they make excellent bedding. Sorghum seed may be used for feeding stock, but it is not highly relished. The skimmings from the boiling juice may be mixed with ground feed and fed to hogs with good results.

"Throughout the country there are many plants for grinding the sorghum and preparing the syrup. Where there is considerable sorghum grown someone will be warranted in putting in a plant to do the work for the community. A plant operated by steam and having a capacity of 500 gallons per day will cost probably $500. A horsepower outfit with a capacity of 25 to 50 gallons daily will involve an outlay of about $150. The details of machinery and equipment for grinding and boiling and the process of boiling are too long for this article. Full information on that part of the work may be obtained from Farmers' Bulletin No. 477, which can be had free from the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C."

Red Cross Activities

The Red Cross during the month of February supplied 475,000 meals to fighting men in France from eleven canteens on lines of communication, according to reports received by the Lake division. A total of 1,040 cases of tobacco, 199,600 flannel pajamas, 146,000 muslin pajamas, 22,500 handkerchiefs, 13,000 socks and 5,100 shirts were distributed during the month.

The Red Cross war council has just appropriated $1,193,125 as an additional contribution to the British Red Cross.

Sale of gauze for surgical dressings to Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky chapters averages 823,000 yards a month. In addition 330,000 yards of muslin, 180,000 yards of outing flannel, 22,000 yards of blanketing and 105,000 pounds of yarn also are sold to these chapters monthly.

An urgent appeal for registration of more nurses has been issued by the Lake division. The appeal comes as a result of Surgeon-General Gorgas' request for 5,000 nurses before June 1 to serve in military hospitals in the United States and in Europe.

Registered nurses are being urged to enlist in groups so that nurses in hospitals can keep up an association with women with whom they have been working.

Protection Committee

As a result of the efforts of this committee the Postoffice Department has issued a "non-mailable" order against the November (1917) issue of the Lyceum World, published in Indianapolis, Arthur Gringle, of Indianapolis and Batesville, editor. Articles and editorials in that issue were held in violation of the provisions of the espionage act. Hereafter the magazine will be examined for offending articles before it is mailed, the committee is advised in an official communication from Postmaster Robert E. Springsteen, of Indianapolis.

Food Administration

Indiana is asked to go on a strictly wheatless diet until after the next harvest in a special appeal sent every county food administrator by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. This is in view of the serious situation resulting from the wheat shortage, there being but 40 per cent. of the nation's requirements available, and demands from the nation's associates in the war pressing.

For the purpose of getting into trade channels all the hoarded wheat in Indiana Dr. Barnard has designated the week of April 8th as "Bring-in-the-Wheat Week." County food administrators are asked to co-operate in the effort, which, if unsuccessful, will be followed by a requisition of the hoarded grain.

Canned hominy is not a recognized substitute for wheat flour, neither is barley, puffed rice, rice polish, corn flakes, nor fruited oats. The Federal Administration is preparing a list of breakfast foods recognized under the fifty-fifty rule.

The Indiana State Fair has concurred in the suggestion of Dr. Barnard that fair associations this year withdraw their wheat product premium lists and offer prizes for the best articles made from substitutes. It is expected every other fair association in the State will fall in line with the idea.

Wheat or rye ground for stock feed is in violation of the Federal regulations. These grains are needed for human consumption and a severe penalty attaches for their use in any other manner.

Families not observing wheatless days and meals are expected to conform strictly to the 1½ pounds per week per person ration just promulgated by the Federal Food Administration. In public eating houses the limit of 6 pounds to every ninety meals served, with a maximum serving of 2 ounces of wheat products per meal and no wheat products served unless specifically ordered.

John Ruger, of Lafayette, has joined the staff of the Indiana Food Administrator, to have charge of all baking problems. A bakery inspector will be added to the staff, whose business will be an examination of shops, accounts, formulas, etc.

Every Indiana food administrator, demonstrator, merchants' representative or any one else interested in the important problems connected with this patriotic work is invited to attend the conference at the Claypool, April 8. J. W. Halliwell, in charge of the States' Administration Section of the Food Administration, who is very close to Herbert Hoover, and himself a recognized authority, will address the workers. At the time a policy will be outlined in reference to a wheatless diet for Indiana until next harvest, as recently requested by Dr. Barnard.

County food administrators are authorized to give ten days' notice to farmers hoarding wheat to place their surplus over seeding requirements in trade channels. Failure so to do means the requisition of this wheat by the Food Administration. It is believed notice will be sufficient and that there will be no occasion to requisition Indiana wheat.

Thirty-eight milling firms in Indiana have been given until April 6 to apply for license under liability for prosecution for continuing business without so doing.

Geo. F. Porter in New Office.

George F. Porter has resigned as chief of the state councils section of the Council of National Defense to join the division of planning of the shipping board. Mr. Porter was particularly successful in the organization of state councils of defense and in directing their work. He was present at the first meeting of chairmen of county councils of defense at Indianapolis and assisted materially in getting the Indiana organization "off on the right foot." He has been succeeded in the States section by Arthur H. Fleming.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 34

U. S. Public Service Reserve

BULLETIN No. 13.

To All Enrolling Agents of the United States Public Service Reserve:

We have been notified that shortly we will be asked to conduct a registration of a reserve for farm labor. This will apply to more than the ordinary farm laborers and will include men who are in the professions, in business and in trades who have had experience at some time in their lives upon the farm. As soon as the details of the plan are worked out we will send them to you, but in the meantime I wish that you would see that your organization is complete. Every county should be covered and, wherever possible, you should have an assistant in each township. In such a way you would be able to find out accurately the demand for farm labor and you would be able to place men who apply in the reserve. Also, it would be well for you to get in touch with your county agricultural agent and when this campaign is started you can work in close conjunction and harmony. You will please remember that the county agricultural agent is an assistant enrolling agent of the United States Public Service Reserve.

The present plan is to place men who are desirous of permanent farm employment in the counties in which they apply for work. If, however, there are more men than jobs in a certain county they will be sent to other counties.

It is planned to ask professional men and others to offer their vacations this year for work on the farms, and in order to make conditions most agreeable to them it is thought best to have them work on the farms of friends or relatives. In most cases it would mean that for from two weeks to a month they would work on farms in their own counties, but if these men should desire to be sent to other counties in another part of the State the State office of the reserve will handle the transfer.

Specific information on the entire plan of the Farm Labor Reserve of the Public Service Reserve will be sent to you in a short time.

Please send to us, as soon as possible, a letter outlining the condition of labor on the farms in your county. Do you think that there will be a shortage of men after the many boys are placed through the United States Boys' Working Reserve? Do you think it will be possible to get many farmers who will be willing to use men who have been raised on the farm but who are now engaged in other classes of business and who, through patriotic motives, are offering their services for greater production?

I ask that you look at the notice in the official bulletin of the Council of Defense, which will appear in the issue of March 29. This will give you the latest information regarding the shipbuilding reserve.

Be sure that you do not have any cards of men who are enrolled in the shipbuilding reserve. Send all these cards in to this office at once.

Very truly yours,

N. E. SQUIBB, State Director.

Uncle Sam is today the quartermaster of a hungry world. He is playing the game square and counts on every American to do the same.

Report of Speakers' Bureau for March, 1918

—Financial—

Paid by Indiana University Extension:

Salaries—

Mr. Cavanaugh .....	$166.66 2-3
Miss Evans .....	67.50
Miss Siegel .....	72.00
Mr. Pettijohn (1/2 time) .....	125.00
Mr. Reed .....	14.00

Total .....$445.16 2-3

Traveling Expenses—

Mr. Pettijohn and Mr. Cavanaugh..$ 47.65

Total .....$493.81 2-3

Paid by Indiana State Normal School (Bogardus' salary and expenses paid by State Council of Defense approximately $265) .....$757.82

The council has paid telephone, telegraph, stationery, postage expenses and traveling expenses of soldier speakers. The exact amount of these accounts have not been separated from the other expenses of the State Council of Defense, so that the Speakers' Bureau cannot make an accurate report on these items.

A separate system of accounting is submitted to go into effect for the month of April, hence the next report (if this system is adopted) will give definitely the expenditures of the State Council of Defense for the Speakers' Bureau.

What counties have paid are not obtained.

—Speaking Activities—

Miscellaneous dates, 128; conferences, 18; Auburn, speakers, 4; Garrett, speakers, 3; Waterloo, speakers, 3; Petersburg, speakers, 4; Winslow, speakers, 4; Loogootee, speakers, 4; Shoals, speakers, 4; Orleans, speakers, 6; Sullivan, speakers (for entire week), 2; Worthington, speakers, 2; Jasonville, speakers, 2; Aurora, speakers, 2; Colfax, speakers, 5; Medaryville, speakers, 5; South Bend (Food Show), speakers, 4; Marion, speakers, 7; Peru, speakers, 5; Princeton, speakers, 3. Total of 68 conference speakers.

Total number of addresses, approximately 400.

Out-of-State Speakers—Dr. William E. Bohn, Dr. Henry Coe Culbertson, Captain D. H. Blake, Major Craig Wright, M. Albert C. Moulart, Mrs. Idah McGlone Gibson, Senator Kenyon, Dr. Travis.

Publicity and Literature—Hand books, books, bulletins, briefs, letters.

Submitted by

PROF. J. J. PETTIJOHN,

Director Speakers' Bureau.

"Whispering Spies."

(By William Howard Taft.)

Whispering traitors have been the centers throughout the country of discontent. In little communities you will find that the presence of two or three who have suggested reasons why we ought not to have gone into the war—why we did wrong to Germany in this, why we did wrong to her in that, why we should have kept out of the war—has a paralyzing effect upon the enthusiasm of our people. It takes the fine edge off patriotism among those to whom these suggestions are made.

That adds to the importance of an organization like this, that shall be engaged in spreading information and facts to every man, woman and child in this country, that they may know there never was a war fought as completely ideal in the righteousness of its cause as the war which we fight against Germany today.

"The one sure way to supply the supreme need for food," reads a proclamation by Governor Bickett of North Carolina, "is to man the bread line with the woman power, the boy power and the girl power of the State."

Total of 16,809 Boys Join Working Reserve

Army of Patriotic Hoosier Lads Ready to do Their Part in Helping to Win the War.

With figures already reported it is apparent that the effort to enroll 15,000 boys of Indiana in the United States Boys' Working Reserve during the two weeks ending March 31 was very successful. Up to this time 16,654 enrollments have been reported and several counties have sent in incomplete reports. It is expected that the reserve in Indiana will do much toward relieving the farm labor shortage which threatens to become increasingly acute.

The enrollment by counties is as follows:

Adams .....	285	Madison .....	188
Allen .....	874	Marion .....	614
Bartholomew .....	95	Marshall .....	138
Benton .....	83	Martin .....	109
Blackford .....	128	Miami .....	76
Boone .....	147	Monroe .....	76
Brown .....	76	Montgomery .....	142
Carroll .....	38	Morgan .....	172
Cass .....	217	Newton .....	97
Clark .....	1	Noble .....	480
Clay .....	133	Ohio .....	7
Clinton .....	47	Orange .....	69
Crawford .....	64	Owen .....	40
Daviess .....	190	Parke .....	50
Dearborn .....	80	Perry .....	16
Decatur .....	375	Pike .....	28
Dekalb .....	192	Porter .....	64
Delaware .....	180	Posey .....	152
Dubois .....	42	Pulaski .....	51
Elkhart .....	372	Punam .....	128
Fayette .....	31	Randolph .....	1
Floyd .....	5	Ripley .....	161
Fountain .....	155	Rush .....	..
Franklin .....	73	Scott .....	142
Fulton .....	13	Shelby .....	88
Gibson .....	150	Spencer .....	304
Grant .....	600	Starke .....	45
Greene .....	4	Steuben .....	535
Hamilton .....	57	St. Joseph .....	411
Hancock .....	467	Sullivan .....	751
Harrison .....	150	Switzerland .....	40
Hendricks .....	37	Tipton .....	186
Henry .....	20	Union .....	45
Howard .....	139	Vanderburg .....	1,375
Huntington .....	192	Vermilion .....	41
Jackson .....	123	Vigo .....	1,062
Jasper .....	450	Wabash .....	142
Jay .....	75	Warren .....	31
Jefferson .....	23	Warrick .....	95
Johnson .....	89	Washington .....	80
Knox .....	304	Wayne .....	162
Kosciusko .....	90	Wells .....	87
Lagrange .....	70	White .....	151
Lake .....	48	Whitley .....	117
Laporte .....	385
Lawrence .....	216	Total .....	16,809

In connection with the success of the enrollment Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director, authorizes the following:

"A majority of these boys have pledged themselves to engage in farm work. Many have already found their own locations. Others are being placed daily by the local county directors and by the Federal State Director at Indianapolis. Farmers are offering $15 to $25 for boys with little or no experience and from $25 to $40 for experienced boys.

"The Federal Government at Washington considers the service rendered by the boys who work on farms this summer just as patriotic and necessary, within the limits of the opportunity afforded, as that rendered by their older brothers who cross the seas. To belong to the Reserve is a mark of true patriotism."

Will Hang Kaiser Bill.

The hanging of Kaiser Wilhelm in effigy by drafted men will be a part of the celebration which will open the Liberty Loan campaign in Vanderburg county, April 6. Some protests against this action were registered by German-born citizens. John J. Nolan answered them with the statement that "anyone who protests against the hanging of the kaiser in effigy or any other way is not a good American."

Every church bell and every farm bell in the county will be rung at noon on each of the first five days of the bond campaign. Night meetings will be held for farmers, who will not be called upon to leave their work during the day. Men exempted from the draft have organized to take an active part in the campaign.

This Is Treason of the Worst Kind

1—Bread ..... 11 lbs.
2—Chicken ..... 2½ lbs.

3—Roast Meat ..... 3 lbs.
4—Cabbage ..... 2 lbs.

There are various ways of manifesting patriotism. One of these is co-operating in the requests and regulations of the administrative departments of the government. It was from a desire to be of service in his humble way that Charles E. McPherson, a Gary, Indiana, janitor of an apartment house, reported the profligate waste of foodstuffs to the United States food administration, and with it the evidence of the truth of his report. The above photograph accompanied Mr. McPherson's letter to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, who has commended his zeal and directed the attention of the local authorities at Gary to the facts complained of. Mr. McPherson wrote as follows:

"Enclosed you will find a photo of some waste food collected by me on the 18th instant. This is only a small part of the waste of food that is wasted daily on eight flats of five to eight departments daily collections of garbage. I have charge of nine buildings as janitor, therefore, I know the situation, and as Mr. Schaffer, as you know, is unable to attend to his duties, I made inquiry of who is to report to, and was informed that there was no one in our city. I had this photo taken that you may see that I am not exaggerating this, and as there should be some one to look after this situation here, and as I have considerable spare time, if you give me the authority to look after this at my spare time I will endeavor to check same, without working any hardship on anyone and free of any compensation whatever. I desire only to stop this waste of foodstuff which is needed so much in this trying hour of struggle. I am a man 52 years of age and desire in some way to be of some service to my country. I am American born, of Scotch descent. If there is anything I can do in this matter, I am at your command."

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers who wish to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

WHEATLESS CAKES.

Cake should be used in a very limited way in the diet at the present time and if included in the menu at all should be "wheatless." Sometimes for children—especially in the school luncheon—cake is an important item and cannot be entirely replaced.

Cakes should not be iced, as this is not required to make the product palatable, and the syrup or sugar thus used should be utilized in foods where it is more necessary.

Cake should not be added to a menu without realizing that it is of considerable food value and that it should be used only when the extra food value is required.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics Laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.:

Gingerbread:

- 1 egg.
- ¾ cup sugar.
- ¾ cup molasses.
- ¾ cup boiling water.
- 1½ cup rye flour or barley flour.
- ½ teaspoon soda.
- 2 teaspoons baking powder.
- 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Beat egg slightly. Add molasses, sugar and boiling water. Sift dry ingredients, and add to first mixture. Bake in loaf or in gem tins in moderate oven.

Apple Sauce Cake:

- ¾ cup hot apple sauce sweetened as for table with corn syrup.

- ½ cup fat.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 1 cup raisins.
- 3 teaspoons soda.
- 1-1½ cups corn flour.
- 1-1½ cups rye flour.
- 1 cup nut meats.
- ½ teaspoon cloves.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Stir fat into hot apple sauce, set aside to cool. Add other ingredients. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes.

Fruit Cup Cakes:

- ½ cup fat.
- 1 cup sugar.
- ½ cup cocoa.
- 1 cup dried fruits.
- 3 eggs.
- ½ cup water.
- 1½ cups rye flour.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.
- ½ teaspoon cloves.
- 1-3 teaspoon nutmeg.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Mix as any cake. Bake 15 minutes in muffin tins in moderate oven.

Cocoa Fruit Cookies:

- 2-3 cup fat.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 3 cups barley or rye flour.
- ½ cup cocoa.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- ½ cup nuts.
- ½ cup dried fruit.
- 2 eggs.

Mix dry ingredients and add to the egg, sugar and butter, creamed together. This is very stiff and should be dropped by spoonful onto a pan and baked in moderate oven.

Corn Peanut Cookies:

- 3 tablespoons fat.
- 4 tablespoons sugar.
- 2 eggs.
- 1 teaspoon baking powder.

- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 4 tablespoons cornmeal.
- 4 tablespoons corn flour or other flour.
- 2 tablespoons milk.
- ½ cup peanuts (ground).
- 2 teaspoons cocoa.

Combine fat and sugar. Add the dry ingredients together with the milk, then add the peanuts. Drop by spoonful onto a greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake:

- 1 cup brown sugar.
- 1½ cups water.
- 1 cup seeded raisins.
- 2 ounces citron, cut fine.
- 1/3 cup shortening.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon.
- 1 cup corn flour.
- 1 cup barley flour.
- 5 teaspoons baking powder.

Boil sugar, water, fruit, shortening, salt and spices together in a sauce pan three minutes. When cool, add dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Mix well; bake in a loaf pan in a moderate oven about forty-five minutes.

More Care Urged in Mailing to Soldiers

Writing Should Be Clear and Legible and Names Given in Full, Advises U. S. Postal Agent.

American relatives writing to soldiers in France are requested by the United States Postal Service in France to be more careful in directing mail to soldiers. They are asked to write with ink, to use "Private" or rank title instead of "Mister," to make their writing particularly clear and legible, and to write names in full instead of using initials.

Second Assistant Postmaster-General Praeger has just received the following communication from John Clark, United States Army postal agent in France:

France, February 17, 1918.

My attention has been called to innumerable letters in the statistical division which clerks were unable to properly direct owing to the fact that the senders of these letters did not have the full name of the person for whom the letters were intended spelled out in full. In some instances addresses were written with soft lead pencil, which causes them to become illegible.

J. F. Smith should be written in full, James Franklin Smith. The reason for this is that in the vast number of American soldiers here there are a great many with the name of J. F. Smith. James F. Smith, John F. Smith and Jeremiah F. Smith are very common names, and it is therefore obvious that a letter addressed simply J. F. Smith is undeliverable. Carelessly written addresses wherein an O or an A, when carelessly written, are frequently the cause of the inability to properly decipher the name of the addressee, thereby resulting in undeliverable matter. Addresses must not be written in pencil, but should be written in ink at all times. The preface "Mister" should not be used in addressing letters, but instead the word private, lieutenant, captain, major or sergeant should be used; that is, the full title of the person for whom the letter is intended should be given.

In many instances letters are being received at the statistical division which are without return address. Postmasters and other postal officials in the United States should be instructed that such matter cannot be accepted for dispatch from the States. It is my belief that if the above features which I have enumerated are given the widest publicity possible it will undoubtedly cause a reduction in the number of undeliverable pieces of mail which are now being handled in the statistical division of the American Expeditionary forces.

JOHN CLARK,
Postal Agent.

"Make your acres tote double," says the Progressive Farmer.

Legal Handbook for Soldiers Prepared

Committee's Report Ordered Printed and Distributed for Information of Indiana Men in Service.

The manuscript of a pamphlet containing legal advice for men who enter military service, prepared by a legal committee recently appointed by Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, was presented to the council by Will H. Latta, chairman of the committee, at the regular meeting, April 3.

The booklet is of a type outlined in a suggestion made by the Council of National Defense. It contains chapters on real and personal property, wills, descent of property, insurance, the soldiers' and sailors' relief act, execution of the powers of attorney, conduct of legal business, allotment of pay, guardianship and custody of children and methods of putting business in order before entering the service.

On a motion by James L. Keach the council ordered the book to be printed and distributed, and also expressed its appreciation of the work done by the legal committee. Mr. Keach, Evans Woolen and Dr. Charles P. Emerson were named as a committee to direct the printing and distribution of the books.

George W. Harney of the Protection Committee reported that intense feeling against pro-Germanism has broken out in the State since the beginning of the west front offensive, resulting in about fifty demonstrations by gangs and individuals against persons making disloyal statements. The committee which is investigating the pro-German situation is still at work, it was reported, and will report at a future meeting. Mr. Harney also stated that through his department an issue of the "Lyceum World," a paper published in Indianapolis, had been barred from the mails because of statements in violation of the Federal espionage act and that the Postoffice Department will scrutinize future issues before transmitting them.

W. Q. Fitch, secretary of the Food Production and Conservation Committee, reported that the committee had received reports from forty of ninety-nine tractor companies stating that they would be able to furnish farmers of Indiana 624 tractors on short notice. He also suggested that a letter be sent to bankers of the State urging them to aid farmers who wish to purchase tractors. Following is the letter which was approved by the council and which was ordered sent out:

To Indiana Bankers:

Farm tractors for plowing, cultivating and seeding are finding a place on Indiana farms. The campaign for increased food production calls for the use of every agency that can be employed. The tractor aids in breaking and preparing the ground. It does not replace all the horses, but supplements them by doing the hardest work on the farm.

At this time, when there is a shortage of labor, the tractor proves a great help. One man can break six to twelve acres of ground each day. This is of greatest importance when ground is broken for wheat in the late summer.

Tractors and plows require some investment. This many farmers can afford to make. The returns will justify it. Again, if the use of 1,000 additional tractors in Indiana will increase the food supply the result is worth all the cost.

We know you are interested in the farmer, his welfare and the food production movement. May we not urge you to consider with your farmer customers the employment of tractors where they will prove of value and assistance? Money loaned for this purpose will mean much in the securing of food to win the war.

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

The question of whether the names of persons who failed to subscribe to the "war chest" in Cass county should be published was brought before the council by a communication from Dr. F. W. Terfinger, superintendent of the Northern Indiana Hospital for the Insane. The "war chest" is a common fund from which it is planned to pay the county's quotas of various approved war relief collections. The matter was referred to the Cass County Council of Defense, and it was agreed that similar questions as they arise shall be referred to county defense organizations concerned.

A request for approval of a plan proposed by the Second District Military Appeal Board of Ft. Wayne to organize men in deferred selective service classifications for the purpose of engaging in industrial and agricultural work necessary to the war was read and referred to the labor committee and the committee on food production and conservation jointly.

The question of the curtailment of private building operations not necessary to the prosecution of the war was again brought before the council by Samuel Egley of the Geneva Milling Company. Mr. Egley stated that there is a plan under way to erect a grain elevator in Geneva, Ind., where there are already two elevators. He asked that the council disapprove the plans on the ground that another elevator is not necessary. On a motion by Evans Woolen the matter was referred to the Adams County Council of Defense, and that the county council's attention be called to the policy recently promulgated by the state and national councils that all such operations be weighed by the test: Will the men, money and materials so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war?

Miss Julia Landers appeared before the council and stated that Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, leader of women's activities and a member of the Council of National Defense, will be in Indianapolis, April 17 and 18, and asked that a patriotic meeting at which she can speak be arranged. Miss Landers was told that plans for such a meeting and a luncheon already were under way and that the council would co-operate.

Mr. Foley stated that there was some question as to who would pay the expenses of Ross Lockridge, recently nominated by the council as assistant labor director for Indiana, and added that he would confer with federal labor officials on the matter and would report the suggestion at the next meeting of the council.

Professor J. J. Pettijohn, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the council, read the monthly report of the bureau. The report appears elsewhere in this issue of the Bulletin.

A communication from the Union Printing Company of Terre Haute in regard to printing and distributing patriotic documents was referred to Charles Fox and Frank Wampler.

Mr. Foley read a communication from Guy Mahoney of Hartford City, stating that the Hartford City glass factories had been closed as non-essential activities and asked assistance in obtaining war work for them. It was stated that 1,100 men were employed by the factories. The matter, on a motion by Mr. Keach, was referred to the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, reported recent activities of the Food Administration. He said that there would be a meeting of county food administrators and deputies at the Claypool Hotel, April 8 and 9, and invited members of the council to be present. He stated that the week of April 8 had been designated as "bring-in-the-wheat week," when the farmers of the State will be given an opportunity to dispose of wheat which they might be holding and thus avoid the necessity on the part of the Food Administration of seizing it. Dr. Barnard stated that he had asked the people of the State to abstain from the use of wheat flour and said that reports that wheatless days had been abolished were erroneous. He also stated that the sugar allowance is still three pounds per capita per month.

Mr. Fox reported that the labor troubles between the Standard wheel works and molders who had been discharged had been settled, the company agreeing to re-employ former employees whenever men are needed.

The committee appointed recently to investigate the source of the State war text-book was instructed by Mr. Foley to report at the next meeting. The committee, which was appointed at the suggestion of Horace Ellis, state superintendent of public instruction, is composed of Arthur W. Brady and Dr. Albert B. Storms.

A letter from W. C. Niece, chairman of the Blackford County Council of Defense, stating that D. M. McCarty, a merchant of Pennville, had refused to sell supplies to the Red Cross at a reasonable price, was referred to the Merchants' Economy Committee.

A report from Philip T. White, state chairman of the Four-Minute Men, said members of the organization have planned to speak in 1,000 Indiana theaters and motion picture houses in the State during the Liberty Loan campaign.

War Relief

A selection of books on the humane side of the war. The State Library also has many magazine articles and clippings on the subject which are often as useful as the books. Books may be borrowed by any citizen of the State. Ask your local librarian to apply, or write for a registration blank if there is no library in your town. The only expense is that of transportation.

Atherton, G.—"Living Present." Describes war relief work done by French women.

Boardman, M. T.—"Under the Red Cross Flag at Home and Abroad." A review of the work of the Red Cross in disasters and wars. The European war is treated briefly.

Buswell, L.—"Ambulance No. 10." Letters describing the work of American volunteers in ambulance service in France. One of the accounts of personal experience that brings the war vividly before one.

Eddy, S.—"With Our Soldiers in France." Work of the Y. M. C. A. among the soldiers at the front. A record of a wonderful service, both spiritual and physical.

"Friends of France." Field service of the American ambulance as described by its members. Service performed by volunteers before the United States entered the war. A record to be proud of.

Huard, F. W. "My Home in the Field of Mercy." Humorous account of a war hospital installed in a French chateau by its owner, an American woman.

No Need for Attorneys.

The Secretary of the Treasury has announced that neither the soldiers, sailors nor their dependents or any beneficiaries under the soldier and sailor insurance law need employ attorneys or claim agents to collect the insurance; that the employment of such intermediaries is unnecessary and inadvisable and a needless expense.

The procedure for the presentation and collection of insurance claims is very simple and the proper blanks can be secured from the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance in Washington. The name of the person in the service who was killed or injured and the relationship which he bore to the person making the claim should be given. If further information or assistance is required by the claimant the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance will gladly furnish it.

Circulars have been sent out by claim agents and attorneys offering to assist persons entitled to the benefits of this insurance in collecting their claims. The "pension sharks," who once thrived and fattened under our pension laws, are still a rank memory in this country.

It was hoped that when they were legislated out of existence we would never see their like again. But their successors seem to survive, and the action of Secretary McAdoo in giving prompt warning against these would-be profiteers under the insurance law will be commended by all.—Official Bulletin.

"Farmers are sometimes the last to heat up; but they stay hot; and in a long fight they are always found sturdily carrying the battle across No-Man's Land to the foe in the last grim struggle."—Herbert Quick.

Food control in North America today means chiefly getting the food across the Atlantic at all costs.

Biggest Work of War at Home, Writes Soldier at the Front

(A young American university man, "C. L. W.," now an artillery officer in the French army, writes this urgent letter to his American friends, pointing out the real exigencies of the war. The article is from the Indianapolis Star.)

"I remember that before I left New York you and many of my other friends said: 'I envy you going over there, old man, where the big things are doing.' Big things! * * * Why, in the topsy-turvy world of the trenches, casernes and depots I have found that life is just a network of trifles.

"A separate peace in Russia—that is an insignificant topic for a few minutes' conversation in the mess hall. Immortality—the subject of a few minutes' thought if one happens to sleep badly and wakes up at 2 in the morning. But the absorbing topics are these: The 6 o'clock 'moche was cold this morning; the new lieutenant insists on a douche and a change of linen every Sunday; the last lot of pinard wasn't fit for a carter to drink; on the magazine which you received from America this morning there was a purple stamp which I should like to add to my collection.

"We over here are absorbed in finding devices to keep warm at night; in schoolboy tricks in the barracks; in endless exercises with the grenade and bayonet; in minute study of the course and efficacy of tiny shell fragments. And down at the front they spend weeks watching a low dirt parapet or a clump of shattered trees.

"If you should draw a heart-shaped figure with its point resting on Chicago and its indentation on New York, and the two parabolas touching Washington on one side and Boston on the other, you would have the zone of big things in this war as far as America is concerned—Chicago the food center, New York the money and shipping center, Washington the policy center, and our greatest industries included in its borders.

GLORIOUS OPPORTUNITIES.

"On the pulsing of that great heart back home depends allied success or failure. Lucky people that live close to it—that are its blood and muscle. For you the great task of pumping vigor into depleted veins on this side; for you the magnificent duty of maintaining a healthy flow in the arteries of communication in land and water; for you the solution of the big political and social problems.

"I had to come to France to learn that it is the army of the rear, back in the states, that is going to win or lose the war. The army in France will do nothing new or extraordinary in building several hundred miles of railroad to the front * * * but it was a momentous event when Wilson pooled the equipment and management of the railroads of the United States. Our engineers are building several hundred kilometers of military highway, but the Romans did as much a couple of thousand years ago, and did it much better—so well, in fact, that we still use their foundations. * * * The important thing is: Will you send us the trucks and supplies to roll over these roads? The mere act of digging a trench is nothing in itself—the Wops are the best at it—but will you build the ships to send the men to fill them?

"The men here have done a big thing in surrendering comforts and facing death, but in the meantime life is a dreary skein of nagging details, a series of sickening endurance against boredom, fatigue and hunger—but principally against boredom.

THE SOLDIER GROWS ENVIOUS.

"When I compare the importance of your work with ours I grow really envious. Before us we have the boche—but alongside of you you have the pacifist, the deflectionist, the selfish laborite, the greedy manufacturer and, worst of all, the loafer. I wish they could give you a sack of bombs and carte blanche to be after every loafer in field, factory, office or Washington bureau.

"The administration has demonstrated its dependence on public sentiment, and there you have another big interesting daily work. Of course, public sentiment is just your opinion and everybody else's added together and divided by 100,000,000. But to have the right opinion—to express it—to argue for it—to fight the element that seeks to use a crisis to further political aims—to watch for treason and expose it—there is a game worth playing, and I can imagine how thoroughly you are engaged in it with pen, voice, brain and heart.

"It is you, who regretted staying home because you were missing the 'big things,' upon whom, after all, everything depends. It is you who, from a calm distance, with daily, complete news at your elbow, can form sane judgments, and if you will compare the same action, that will justify our miseries and dangers.

"It is pathetic how the muddy, shivering soldier down there, engrossed in his little miseries and trifling joys, is dependent upon his comrade of the rear, who too often forgets his task, or even the existence of war—and yet it is he alone who can bring the soldier back. The war has done badly so far because the army of the rear—from the short-sighted diplomat to the striking laborer—has failed to realize the size of his burden.

WHOSE FAULTS ARE THESE?

"The soldiers will do their little bit every day, never fear, but those behind the lines must be worthy of them. Have they been?

"Take, for example, the allied lack of unity. After having learned so many military lessons from the Hun, why have we overlooked the most important? Why do we continue to send against a powerful brute with one perfectly co-ordinated brain a three-headed Cerebus that can never manage to use all three jaws at the same time? There is only one man who can integrate the forces of the allies, and he is the President of the United States. He can do it because he controls the money bag, the food basket and the reserve man power—but he must have the support of the American public—the army of the rear. You have no idea how eagerly we watch for the communiques from the zone of big things.

"In the meantime we must continue our flea hunting, our drills, our mathematics and every once in a while take the big risk * * * and while you tackle the big problems our outlook is a few square kilometers of mud or a block or so of barracks, and our concern is whether the new lot of tobacco will arrive Wednesday and whether it will be horse or cow for supper."

Mr. Hays' Appreciation

Will H. Hays, retiring chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense, has addressed the following personal letter to each of the members of the county councils in Indiana, expressing his appreciation of their support of all patriotic movements that came within his administration:

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your sympathetic, loyal and splendid co-operation during the ten months which I served as chairman of the State Council of Defense. It has not been an easy task, but it has been most enjoyable, and the sympathy and co-operation which the members of the county councils have given me will never be forgotten. I want to thank you again for this.

"I urge the same loyal support to Mr. Foley and Mr. Wilson, who are now the chairman and secretary, respectively. No better men could have been found. They are into the work with their whole souls. You will enjoy thoroughly your association with them. I bespeak for them again the thorough co-operation which I know you will give them.

"I will continue as a member of the council, giving much time to the work. In the new duties which I have undertaken I will be about a good deal, and if by any chance my arm is any longer or my voice reaches any farther, just that much stronger shall be the effort which I will make in aiding the country's cause in the war."

We'll substitute corn for wheat and victory for defeat.

Woman's Section

BULLETIN NO. 42.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 30, 1918.

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense:

In requesting your report for the month of March I first want to express my sincere thanks for the many splendid reports that were sent last month. These have been compiled and included in our report to the national committee.

It is our intention to acknowledge these reports through the Indiana Bulletin and to publish such items from them which may be helpful and interesting to the members of our section throughout the State.

The blank which was prepared and sent from this office last month will not be sent again. It was simply intended as an answer to many inquiries we were receiving as to what should be included in such a report and, we believe, it has now served its purpose. What we would like best in the way of a report is a statement, under the heading of each of the various committees, of what has been accomplished, including all items that are original and interesting.

Again expressing my sincere thanks, I am

Most cordially yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,

Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

GIRLS FOR FARM WORK.

Mrs. S. M. Ralston, treasurer of the Woman's Section, has requested that girls desiring employment on farms shall make their wants known at the time of registering for war service, specifying the period during which their services will be available and the kind of service they are qualified to render.

If such service is not required in the immediate neighborhood of the registrant the matter should be referred to the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense. Prof. Mary L. Matthews, of Purdue University, will give information concerning courses in that institution to fit girls for farm occupations, such as gardening, poultry raising, dairying and taking care of the berry and melon crops. Purdue University is arranging a course for women in dairying from April 8 to May 4.

NEWCASTLE WOMEN READY.

Eighty-two women have been appointed to have charge of as many districts in Newcastle during the campaign for the enrollment of women for war work during the ten days beginning April 19. The city has been divided into seven districts and these districts have been divided into numerous subdivisions. Chairmen also have been appointed to have charge of the enrollment in factories where there are a large number of woman workers. With the appointment and instruction of these chairmen the preparations for the enrollment have been completed by Mrs. Frank Stanley, county chairman.

Any woman's work to be submitted to the Indiana State Council of Defense shall first be presented to the chairman of the Woman's Section, and if she feels that it is of sufficient importance to bring before the council she will either authorize the party interested to do so or will bring up the matter herself.

This will prevent the council being annoyed with woman's work which is not of enough importance for their attention and at the same time will put the chairman of the Woman's Section in touch with all woman's work which is quite essential, as the national committee directs that any and all sorts of woman's work which is a part of war service shall be brought under the Woman's Section of the Council of Defense.

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,

Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

For two years not a single new pleasure motor car has been made in England. Luxury business has ceased. The English are leading strenuous lives, but are prospering.

Second Red Cross Institute of Home Service

The American Red Cross has arranged with the Extension Division of Indiana university to hold a six-weeks' institute or course of training for Home Service workers, in Indianapolis, April 2 to May 14. The course is open to qualified volunteers, and the Red Cross is prepared to grant certificates to those who complete the work with credit.

Home Service is that part of the Civilian Relief work of the Red Cross which concerns itself primarily with the families of our fighting men. "Men may be the best soldiers in the world, but if things are not well with their families at home, they lose efficiency through worry, and the morale of the army—that all-important factor—begins to fail.

"So it is the patriotic duty as well as the humanitarian opportunity of Home Service workers of the American Red Cross to care for the lonely families of our fighting men. It is to be remembered that they will soon be 'fighting men' in real earnest. Not only our enemies, but our Allies, and the American people as well, will be watching them. They must be encouraged to 'carry on' without faltering. Their families must not be allowed to bear personal privation and so to double the willing sacrifices they have made.

"Every report from the training camps and from the French front mentions the excellent spirit of our troops. Will they maintain this morale while thousands of miles from home, through trench life and battle, to the victorious end? The answer will be determined largely by the Home Service of the American Red Cross.

"To our soldiers and sailors the Red Cross means hospitals, doctors, and nurses when they are sick or wounded; hospitality and recreation when off duty in France or at American cantonments.

"To their folks at home the Red Cross must mean, no less surely, the neighborly counsel and aid which will keep them in good spirits, health, and comfort. The Home Service of the Red Cross must be the nation's assurance that no enlisted man's family shall suffer for any essential thing that it is within its power to give.

"Keeping up the courage of our fighting men is a patriotic duty in which every Home Service worker has a responsible part. It is not given to these workers to storm the enemy's trenches, but the morale of the American army, which should be the highest, is largely in their keeping—and this is the 'invisible armor' which will help to win the war."

Thus the Red Cross describes the need and importance of Home Service.

The institute which opens next month is the second of a series which have been arranged for Indiana. The first of the series closed in December with the certification of fifteen workers who have returned to their communities and are now working with the problems concerned in keeping the home fires burning.

Full information about the institute and application blanks for admission may be obtained from the office of the University Extension Center, 1116 Merchants Bank Building, Indianapolis.

Morals Committee

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21, 1918.

To the Chairman of the Morals Committee, County Council of Defense:

Dear Sir—The State Council of Defense at its meeting Wednesday, March 20, unanimously expressed the conviction that emphasis should be placed upon the patriotic duty of rallying the people to the next Liberty Loan and that a special appeal should be made to all ministers in active charge of churches, to superintendents and principals of public schools and to any other public leaders who may be reached, asking that the attention of the people be turned to the supreme importance at this time of a prompt and adequate subscription to the next Liberty Loan. The moral effect of a full and even an over-subscription at this time will be tremendous in Europe. As we value the cause to which our country is now committed we should spare no effort to arouse our people to a full sense of the responsibility now resting upon us as a nation to carry forward the preparations for war with redoubled energy. The sooner it can be understood in Europe that America is dead in earnest in this conflict the sooner the war will be won, the less lives will be sacrificed and the less waste of national wealth.

Very truly yours,

A. B. STORMS,

Chairman Committee on Social and Religious Forces.

Dr. Storms addressed a similar statement to the ministers of the State, urging that they do all in their power to make the loan an immediate and encouraging success.

Patriotic Press Comment

After Traitors.

The plain words of Michael E. Foley, the new president of the State Council of Defense, in his speech at Tipton will meet with general approval from Indiana patriots. As he wisely says, there is no medium ground. Every man in Indiana who is not in sympathy with this country in the present contest against Prussian militarism is against it. It will be his chief purpose, he says, to hunt all such down and bring proper proceedings against them to the end that their secret plots and schemes in the kaiser's behalf shall be checked. —Connersville News.

A Pledge of Service.

(By Michael E. Foley)

"I accepted the chairmanship of the State Council of Defense on the request of Governor James P. Goodrich.

"I have a high regard for his ability and integrity as Governor of the State and I am glad to serve him in any capacity that I can.

"I have arranged my business matters so that it will be possible for me to give most of my time for the remainder of this year to this work.

"I am interested only in the winning of this war. It shall be my purpose to maintain the high standard of patriotism that Indiana has always maintained in the past when the nation's life was at stake.

"I shall know no politics in this work and I ask the active support of all the patriotic people of Indiana without regard to party or to creed.

"I expect to visit many parts of the State and deliver addresses with a view of uniting all the people of the State in the support of President Wilson at Washington and Governor Goodrich in Indiana."

Subdue the Submarine by Substituting

Economy for waste.
Co-operation for criticism.
Knowledge of prices for gossip about profits.
Cornmeal and oatmeal for white flour.
Fish for beef and bacon.
Vegetable oils for animal fats.
The garden hoe for the golf stick.
Performance for argument.
Service for sneers.
Patriotic push for peevish puerilities.
Perishable for preservable foods.
Greater production for a German peace.
The beef you do not eat for the rifle you can not carry.
Conservation for conversation.
Common sense for common gossip.
Marketing for telephoning.
Production for pessimism.

—Canadian Food Bulletin.

A good citizen is known by the food he eats.

Women's Work in the War

Any of the books listed below may be borrowed from the Indiana State Library. Ask your local librarian to apply, or if there is no library in your town, write to the State library for registration blanks. The only expense is that of transportation.

Atherton, Gertrude. The Living Present.

War work of the women of France. An interesting and inspiring story.

Bowser, Thekla. Britain's Civilian Volunteers.

Work in the hospitals of France and Great Britain of the Volunteer Aid Detachments.

Clarke, I. C. American Women and the World War.

The first book to be written on the part taken by American women. A complete account of all the activities both national and local, which women have organized and managed.

Fraser, Helen. Women and War Work.

What women can do in war time, and what they are doing in England; also, what the war has done for women.

McMurphy, Marjorie. The Woman—Bless Her.

Suggestions to women as to the most useful war and reconstruction work they can perform. Written for Canadian women but applicable elsewhere.

Stobart, M. A. Flaming Sword in Serbia and Elsewhere.

Mrs. Stobart is a British woman who took entire charge of a hospital unit in which the members with the exception of a few orderlies and chauffeurs, were all women. The book tells of their work for the Serbian army and of the terrible retreat before the advancing Germans.

Understanding Europe

The historic background of the war consists of a complicated tissue, not only of events but also of ideas. Below are listed a few books which will be illuminating to anyone wishing a clearer understanding of affairs in Europe prior to the outbreak of the war. Any citizen of the State may borrow any of these books from the State Library. Make application through the local library, or if there is none, write to the State Library for registration blanks.

Dominion, L.—"Frontiers of Language and Nationality in Europe."

A study of the languages, groups of Europe as compared with political groups.

Gibbons, H. A.—"New Map of Europe."

The state of Europe preceding the war, with some comments on Germany's "Weltpolitik," and a brief review of diplomatic papers directly relating to the war.

Hazen, C. H.—"Europe Since 1815."

Perhaps the best book for the general reader on development and relations of the countries of Europe. It is interesting to trace the struggle for democracy within countries and the spread of the idea from one country to another.

Ogg, F. A.—"Economic Development of Modern Europe."

Principally nineteenth century development of France, England and Germany.

Ogg, F. A.—"Governments of Europe."

A clear and concise account of the governments of the European countries including smaller States.

Rose, J. H.—"Nationality in Modern History."

Presents an opportunity to acquire a knowledge of facts essential to an intelligent consideration of present conditions and future developments.

Schmitt, B. E.—"England and Germany—1740-1914."

Written by an American Rhodes scholar. Most of the investigation was made and the book partially written before the outbreak of the war.

Each individual is a military unit in an unbroken chain, and a single weak link may cause disaster.

Cut out non-essentials—we are in a race with a swift antagonist and need no handicap.

"Doing all humanly possible"—but the war calls for superhuman effort.

"Let me suggest, also, that every one who creates or cultivates a garden helps, and helps greatly, to solve the problems of the feeding of the nations."—PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., APRIL 12, 1918

Number 35

Governor Cautions Against Violence

Letter to Sheriffs and Mayors Directs Attention to Danger That Should Be Averted in Indiana.

To anticipate and prevent, if possible, any manifestation of lawlessness or mob spirit in Indiana, Governor James P. Goodrich has addressed the following communication to sheriffs in Indiana counties and mayors of cities:

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9, 1918.

Dear Sir—The lynching of an American citizen of German blood in Illinois last week would impress upon all of us the seriousness of the present situation and the possibilities of a similar event happening in our own State.

The public mind is at this time inflamed against anything that would appear to be disloyal. With the increasing casualty list in France that is sure to come as the war progresses, this feeling will be aggravated to a considerable degree.

It is the duty of every good citizen to report all instances of disloyalty to the proper officials that the offenders may be apprehended and punished, but it is clearly not the duty of the citizens of the State to attempt to deal out punishment without due process of law.

In the war in which we are now engaged our free institutions are at stake. The tyranny of the mob at home can inflict as great damage to these institutions as the tyranny which assails us abroad. The just enforcement of law made by a free people is a precious heritage and we must not endanger it from within.

It would be a blot on the fair name of our State to have an affair similar to that which occurred in Illinois, and I am writing this letter to you not that I have any doubt as to your inclination and ability to enforce the law in your locality, but to assure you that the State stands ready at any moment to co-operate with you to the fullest extent in the prevention of any lawlessness in your community.

I enclose you herewith a list of the military companies in the State and their respective location. Should a situation arise where there is any attempt to violate the laws above indicated and in your judgment the aid of the State is necessary, communicate with us by wire at once and there will be no hesitation upon our part.

If these matters are taken in hand in their inception and vigorous action taken there will be no difficulty in the enforcement of the law.

Very truly yours,
GOVERNOR.

Brigade Commander—Harry B. Smith, Indianapolis, Ind.

—First Regiment—

Co. A—Evansville, Capt. John W. McClung.
Co. B—Oakland City, Capt. Jas. W. Cockrum.
Co. C—Sullivan, Capt. Lee Ellis.
Co. D—Princeton, Capt. Charles F. Rumer.
Co. E—Rockville, Capt. Isaac R. Strouse.
Co. F—Bloomington, Capt. Claude G. Malott.
Co. G—Greencastle, Capt. Will H. Graham.
Co. H—Terre Haute, Capt. Edward R. Beauchamp.

Co. I—Gary, Capt. Henry B. Snyder.
Co. K—Hobart, Capt. Charles H. Allen.
Co. L—Valparaiso, Capt. John W. Newsom.
Co. M—Attica, Capt. Joseph H. Stahl.

—Second Regiment—

Co. A—Indianapolis, Capt. James W. Hill.
Co. B—Indianapolis, Capt. Thomas N. Wynne.

Co. C—Indianapolis, Capt. Geo. W. Thompson.
Co. D—Indianapolis, Capt. Geo. W. Stout.
Co. E—Indianapolis, Capt. Robert J. Axtell.
Co. F—Indianapolis, Capt. Samuel H. Shearer.
Co. G—Indianapolis, Capt. Wm. T. Rasmussen.
Co. H—Indianapolis, Capt. Sumner Clancy.
Co. I—Shelbyville, Capt. Frank W. Fagel.
Co. K—Madison, Capt. Robert Stanton.
Co. L—Anderson, Capt. Percy H. Doyle.
Co. M—Lebanon, Capt. Chas. A. Slusser.

—Third Regiment—

Co. A—Marion, Capt. James R. Hill.
Co. B—Fort Wayne, Capt. Peter A. Thompson.
Co. C—Fort Wayne, Capt. Guy Mahurin.
Co. D—Kokomo, Capt. John B. Tate.
Co. E—Elkhart, Capt. Ira H. Church.
Co. F—Goshen, Capt. Bernard W. Swartz.
Co. G—Argos, Capt. Arthur E. Towne.
Co. H—Plymouth, Capt. Harry P. Hoham.
Co. I—Cambridge City, Capt. W. Cullen Squier, Jr.
Co. K—Richmond, Capt. Myron J. Malsby.
Co. L—Muncie, Capt. Wilbur Ryman.
Co. M—Newcastle, Capt. Robert S. Hunter.

Some New Books On War Subjects

(Any of the books listed below may be borrowed by any citizen of the State. Ask your local librarian to apply, or if you do not have access to a library, send to the Indiana State Library for registration blanks. The only expense is postage each way.)

Dilnot, F.—Lloyd George.

A short readable life of the present Prime Minister of England.

Empey, A. G.—First Call, Guide Post to Berlin.

A new book by the author of "Oyer the Top." Not a story of personal adventure, but advice to Sammy on "How to Live at the Front." Interesting to home folks also.

Odell, J. H.—The New Spirit of the New Army.

An investigation of the National Army and the conditions under which it is being trained. A complete refutation of gloomy predictions and a revelation of a spirit that every American can be proud of.

Scott, J. B.—A Survey of the International Relations Between the United States and Germany, August, 1914, to April 6, 1917.

"War," says Mr. Scott, in his conclusion to this book, "may be an imperial sport * * * it never has been a presidential one * * * We can not today in democracies justify a declaration of war, unless the cause be just. * * * We believe that the reasons given (for the declaration of war by the United States) are causes, not pretexts, that the motives and purposes are sincere and sufficient." The book is an exhaustive study of the questions at issue.

Tiplady, T.—The Cross at the Front.

Impressions of a British chaplain at the front, showing the wonderful spirit of the men in the face of privation and danger.

Willmore, J. S.—The Great Crime and Its Moral.

A review of German responsibility for and conduct of the war, with a chapter on the dangers of a premature peace.

Wilson, W.—In Our First Year of the War.

A collection of the President's messages and addresses from March 5, 1917, to January 8, 1918.

If you have saved a slice a day, eat corn bread and save a loaf.

Problems of County Food Men Discussed

Two Days' Conference of Administrators
Featured by Visit of James W. Hall-lowell of Hoover's Staff.

Numerous problems confronting County Food Administrators were discussed at a two-day meeting of County Administrators and deputies of the State at Indianapolis April 8 and 9. The chief topics for discussion were the problems of sugar and wheat distribution. Most of the administrators present suggested some means of checking sales of these two commodities. The suggestion that consumers food cards be issued was generally disapproved as impractical at the present time, at least. A committee of five was appointed to report a plan which may be adopted as state wide. The committee is composed of Carl Sims of the milling division, William Burrows of Bloomington, C. D. Royce of Rockville, A. H. Leiter of Connersville and Stanley Wyckoff of Indianapolis. The committee is expected to report within a short time.

A message from Herbert Hoover was brought by James W. Halllowell of the Food Administration at Washington, in which he urged the further conservation of wheat and told of the absolute necessity that the people use, at most, half of the wheat normally consumed, in order that the allies may be fed. Mr. Halllowell was present at every session and answered various questions as they came up.

Governor Goodrich and Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, each addressed the conference, making short patriotic appeals.

The subject of home economics was discussed by Miss Mary Matthews of Purdue university, home economics director of the State. Alex Taggart discussed the food problem from the point of view of the baker and Raymond Kiser told of the problem of handling the restaurants and how to meet them. Mr. Taggart suggested that a baker be appointed as an advisor to each County Food Administrator and Mr. Kiser suggested the appointment of a restaurant proprietor as an advisor.

Frank T. Hawley, chairman of the labor committee of the Food Administration, spoke to the administrators, telling them that the greatest necessity in bringing the laboring man and his family to obey the food regulations is a campaign of education. Mr. Hawley suggested the appointment of a member of organized labor as an advisor to each County Administrator as a means toward bringing labor and the Food Administration closer together.

A general conservation appeal was made by Miss Eleanor Barker and a talk on the work of the Fourteen-Minute Women was made by Mrs. J. C. Henderson. The work of the food clubs of the State and the plan of organization were explained by Mrs. Irene V. Webb, Indianapolis city president, and C. V. Stainsby, State organizer. Publicity was discussed by Edward F. Warfel, chief of the publicity bureau of the State Council of Defense. A short talk on home garden work in Indianapolis was made by Alexander Vonnegut, president of the Indianapolis Patriotic Gardeners' Association.

Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, presided at the meetings.

Short circuit on corn bread, the wheat won't go around.

I 355
T 385cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—A council of defense has been organized in Washington township by Edward Augenbach, township trustee. Members of the council are E. W. Busche, Mathias Thomas, Frank Helman, Fred Busche, W. M. Farrott, E. H. Williams and Mrs. R. W. Buckmaster. Other townships in the county also are being organized. The North Ward school of Decatur has formed a war savings society which has been recognized by the national war savings committee at Washington. The members of the club have pledged themselves to systematic saving, to refrain from unnecessary expenditures, to lend earnest efforts to encourage thrift and economy in the community, to secure other members for the society and to invest in United States War Savings Stamps and Thrift stamps and to encourage others to do so.

Allen County.—Members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, of Ft. Wayne, are actively engaged in selling Liberty Bonds. An auction, the proceeds of which will go to the Red Cross, is being planned in Ft. Wayne. Merchandise which will be sold at the auction is being donated by merchants of the city.

Bartholomew County.—Fifty high school boys have made a survey of all the vacant lots in Columbus. A committee of the Chamber of Commerce will turn them over to persons desirous of planting war gardens. Germans in the United States should obey the laws and in every way possible prove their loyalty to the country in which they live, and which has given them freedom and liberty, and the teaching of English in the schools should be second only to the teaching of the Bible, were the sentiments expressed by pastors and teachers of the German Lutheran church of southern Indiana in annual conference here.

Benton County.—All pupils of Benton county schools who will work on farms or in other branches of helpful labor, can leave school April 1 and still receive credit for a full term. A patriotic demonstration was held in the circuit court room at Fowler in honor of nineteen men who went to Camp Taylor in a recent call. Geo. L. Roby, chairman of the Third Liberty Loan Drive in Benton county, reports a rare manifestation of patriotism in Grant township of that county. Grant township is in the soft-corn district, with only one town, Boswell. The population consists largely of retired farmers, the market for whose corn crop was the Peoria distilleries, cut off by the war. Just thirty-five minutes were required here to distribute $42,000, a rate of more than $1,000 a minute. The township supplies arrived at 6:55 on Saturday morning and at 7:30 o'clock the quota of $30,200 had been exceeded by more than one-third. Charles Spies, township chairman, who was largely responsible for this splendid showing, expects to have the township double its quota before the close of the campaign.

Boone County.—A council of defense has been organized in Worth township under the direction of the County Council of Defense. The members of the council are J. T. Frank Laughner, chairman; Emie Livingsood, secretary; Walter Schooley, W. H. Witt and Alex. Hull. A township war conference was held in Thornton, April 8. Henry Cole Culbertson and Major Craig Wright of the British army were the speakers.

Brown County.—Brown county, which returns but seven names for income taxes, oversubscribed its $10,000 allotment of Liberty Loan bonds by $3,000 on the first day of the drive. The county was second to report in an oversubscription in the State.

Clay County.—That a hog will with proper feeding gain two pounds daily was proved by Samuel Evans of Brazil, one of the winners of the State Boys' Pig Club contest. In his statement telling how he raised the hog he says that at the beginning of the test it weighed 58 pounds and ninety days later, at the end of the contest, it weighed 243 pounds. The hog was a Duroc Jersey and was kept in a pen with a concrete floor which was always kept sanitary. Its pasturage consisted of rape, oats and clover. The hog was fed on a wide variety of feeds. Evans says that hogs thrive better if their feed is changed frequently. A committee has been appointed in Lewis township to have charge of the solution of the seed corn problem in that district. Judge J. M. Rawley of the circuit court has been appointed chairman of a legal committee to advise Clay county men going into service. He will appoint the other members of the committee.

Clinton County.—Major Craig Wright of the British army was the principal speaker at the Perry township war conference April 1 at Colfax.

Decatur County.—An all-day patriotic meeting was held in the Christian church at Waynesburg, April 7. All the other churches in Jackson township were closed and the congregations assembled at the Christian church.

Elkhart County.—By special permission of the Saturday Evening Post the Elkhart County Council of Defense secured permission to reprint and distribute the following article on "Red Cross and Government". "Why doesn't the Government do it?" is a question you sometimes hear concerning the work of the American Red Cross.

"The answer is: 'Because the Red Cross can do it much better than the Government could.'"

"It can do it more cheaply. A large part of the personal services for the Red Cross are performed by unpaid volunteers. Chairman Davison recently declared that ten million people were working for the Red Cross without pay."

"The Red Cross is a much more flexible agency than the Government can be. It had no real organization in Italy when the Italian armies were suddenly dislodged and driven back to the Po last fall. Some thousands of families in the evacuated territory fled from their homes. A hurried summons brought the European chief of the American Red Cross to the scene with aid. Immediately the Red Cross was picking up children who had been separated from their mothers, getting helpless families under shelter, providing food. Three million dollars were spent to meet that unforeseen need."

"The Red Cross can work in a way that would be fairly impossible for a government. For example, every officer and agent of the French government will gladly assist the Red Cross to find and help a mutilated French soldier or a destitute French family. The French government might have some qualms about accepting charity from the American Government. No question of national pride or of politics comes up when the Red Cross is concerned. Everywhere it is received without reservation as a friend."

"The American public subscribed a hundred million dollars to the Red Cross last summer. Our Government might easily have appropriated that sum for the work. It would have been lost in the mass of war appropriations and meant nothing in particular to anybody. It would have been merely so much impersonal, cold-storage money. As one-half of 1 per cent. of the Government's total war appropriations it would have looked meager and lifeless. Freely subscribed by the people, the money is warm with human sympathy. France, Italy, Poland see it not as a bookkeeping entry made by a machine called the Government of the United States, but as the generosity of fellow creatures. It palpably means that to us also. The Red Cross can do it much better than the Government could."

Franklin County.—Township councils of defense are being formed in this county and some already are active. Judge Earl Sample of Greenfield made the principal address at a rousing Liberty Loan rally at Brookville on the evening of April 6.

Fulton County.—O. L. Walter, chairman of the war garden committee, has reported to the County Council of Defense that all available lots for gardening which have been reported to his committee have been taken and that many persons who desired lots were disappointed because of the limited number.

Gibson County.—Township meetings have been held in Hazelton, Ft. Branch and Owensville. A local advisory committee, consisting of Luther Benson, H. A. Yeager and L. C. Embree, was appointed for the purpose of giving free advice to conscripted men in business and legal matters. An ordinance has been passed prohibiting owners of dogs and chickens from allowing them to run at large, to prevent the destruction of war gardens.

Hancock County.—The county council has appropriated $1,000 for the purpose of paying the expenses of the County Council of Defense. The Sugar Creek Township Council of Defense has been organized with the following members: Scott Brandenburg, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Earl Schrieber, V. R. Snodgrass, George Bottsford, George Rodewald and E. V. Martindale.

Howard County.—Nine thousand dollars for the Howard county chapter of the American Red Cross and $1,200 for the expenses of the Howard County Council of Defense have been appropriated by the civil county council. Warning against German spies operating under the guise of insurance investigators has been issued by Lloyd McClure, chairman of the Howard County Council of Defense, to all local industrial concerns.

Huntington County.—Huntington county distributed her entire allotment of $750,000 of the third issue of Liberty Loan Bonds on the opening day of the campaign. The county was first among the larger counties to report a 100 per cent. distribution.

Knox County.—Samuel Byers, in charge of the war gardens of South Vincennes, has appealed to the dog owners of that district to keep their dogs at home during the garden season. Complaints already have been made of dogs destroying gardens. Threats have been made to enforce the ordinance prohibiting the running at large of dogs and chickens which carries a penalty of $25 fine. Miss Margaret Holland, secretary of the County Council of Defense, has been named president of the Knox County Food Club. Mrs. C. B. O'Donnell has been elected vice-president and Mrs. George Ryan second vice-president. Knox county subscribed for $948,000 worth of Liberty Bonds on the first day of the drive, or $2,000 over its quota.

Kosciusko County.—A council of defense organization has been perfected in Van Buren township. Other townships are arranging to perfect similar organizations.

Lake County.—The following have been appointed a legal committee to advise men entering the service in business and legal matters which might arise: J. W. Brisse, L. L. Bomberger, Schuyler Dwyer, Roscoe Peddicord, F. E. Pote and John C. Hall. Township councils of defense are in the process of organization in all of the ten townships of the county. Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, was the principal speaker at the dedication of Liberty Temple at Hammond. The large frame building, which was erected in eight hours, will house patriotic mass-meetings to be held in the city. Fifteen thousand garden pledge cards have been distributed among the school children of the county. The parents of each child have been asked to sign one of the cards, pledging themselves to plant a garden.

Lagrange County.—Thomas A. Estell has been appointed garden supervisor for the town of Lagrange by County Superintendent of Schools Cookley.

Laporte County.—The Wanatah school has sold $850 worth of Thrift Stamps, nearly every pupil being a stamp-owner. The school also has pledged to purchase $41 worth of stamps each week. The school also has a 100 per cent. Red Cross membership.

Lawrence County.—A plot of ground in the northeast section of Bedford is being used for a school garden. The city has plowed the ground free of charge and the entire proceeds of the garden will be used to purchase Thrift Stamps.

Madison County.—The County Council of Defense has taken action to round up alleged "war loafers" and to see that every man is employed in some useful occupation.

Marion County.—Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, was the principal speaker at a patriotic mass-meeting held by the Wayne Township Council of Defense at Ben Davis, April 8. Wayne township is the first Marion county township to be organized.

Marshall County.—A committee has been appointed by the County Council of Defense for the purpose of supplying automobiles for war work in the county. Patriotic citizens have been asked to contribute their automobiles for short periods of time.

Martin County.—The following township chairmen have been appointed to have charge of the registration of women for war work, which begins in Indiana, April 16: Mrs. O. M. Wallace, Mrs. E. E. Long, Mrs. A. F. Treedway, Mrs. George Wildman, Mrs. Ilay Kennedy, Miss Vonda Wagoner, Mrs. Walter Hays, Mrs. Rose Fegan, Mrs. Robert Burruss, Mrs. Blina Crane and Mrs. James Williams. Mrs. Virginia Steele of Loogootee is county chairman.

Miami County.—Preparations are being made for patriotic mass-meetings in each township of the county. The State Council Speakers' Bureau will assist in arranging the programs.

Monroe County.—Joseph Henley, chairman of the Monroe County Council of Defense, resigned in order to make the race for the Legislature from this county. Monroe county was second over the top with a 100 per cent. Liberty Loan subscription on the opening day of the drive, the total distributed totaling $210,000, or $25,000 over the minimum.

Montgomery County.—More than 700 dozens of eggs were donated to the Red Cross by farmers of the county in one day recently. The eggs were sold for more than $200.

Orange County.—Lieutenant-Governor Bush, Fred Sims, Captain Bruner of the Y. M. C. A. and Captain Blake of the British army were speakers at a county war conference at Orleans, March 29.

Parke County.—Major Craig Wright of the British army was the principal speaker at a community patriotic mass-meeting in the Methodist church at Rosedale, April 2.

Pike County.—Two community war conferences were held in Pike county, one at Petersburg on March 27 and one at Winslow on March 28. Captain Biske of the British army, Fred Sims, Mrs. E. H. Culbertson of Indianapolis, Mrs. F. M. Hostetter of Evansville and Dr. George Mackintosh of Wabash College were the speakers.

Pulaski County.—A township war conference was held in Francesville, April 4. Similar conferences will be held in other townships of the county.

Ripley County.—A patriotic mass-meeting was held at Cross Plains, March 29. The license of Loren E. Carntine, teacher of the Locust Grove district school, has been revoked because of alleged disloyal remarks. A parade and patriotic meeting were held in Batesville, April 6, to mark the end of the first year since the entry of the United States into the war and the beginning of the third Liberty Loan campaign.

Scott County.—The sum of $100 has been appropriated by the county council to pay the expenses of the County Council of Defense.

Spencer County.—Exempted men of the county are being organized for war work.

Starke County.—Several cases of reported disloyalty are being investigated by the Wayne Township Council of Defense.

St. Joseph County.—South Bend High School will have a baseball team this year because of the declaration on the part of the majority of available players that they will be on farms this summer as members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve....The county council has appropriated $2,000 to meet current expenses of the County Council of Defense.

Sullivan County.—Miss Alma Garvin of the home economics department of Purdue University held an all-day demonstration of the use of wheat flour substitutes at Sullivan, March 30.

Switzerland County.—Every patriotic organization in the county took part in a parade at Vevay, April 6.

Tiptecanoe County.—Seven patriotic mass-meetings were held in the county April 7.

Tipton County.—The organization of the chairmen of the various departments of the woman's section of the County Council of Defense has just been completed. Mrs. J. F. Cochran is chairman of the woman's section.

Union County.—Union county was third in Indiana in reporting a 100 per cent. subscription for Liberty Loan bonds and on the opening day of the drive added $25,000 to the county's minimum of $180,000. The Union County Council of Defense assisted the loan organization and is correspondingly proud of the showing.

Vanderburg County.—An organization of exempted men for war work similar to that in the rural districts of the county is being formed in Evansville....The Chamber of Commerce of Evansville has invited Dr. Hans Rieg of the United States Treasury Department to speak to persons of German origin on their patriotic duty.

Wabash County.—Hotel and restaurant men of the county have entered into an agreement not to serve any bread unless it contains 50 per cent. wheat flour substitutes.

Wayne County.—A service flag in honor of the men of Center township who have gone into the service was dedicated at a patriotic mass-meeting at Centerville, April 7....Center township is the first Indiana township to oversubscribe its quota of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates. Wayne county subscriptions total more than $260,000.

White County.—A resolution asking that the study of German be eliminated from the county schools has been passed by the County Council of Defense.

Whitley County.—The county organization of the W. C. T. U. is making a service flag with 500 stars, representing the men of the county who have gone into military service.

Red Cross Activities

Young women between the ages of 25 and 35 are needed immediately for Red Cross canteen work overseas, according to word which comes to the State Council of Defense from Lake Division headquarters. Women who volunteer their services are asked to pay their own expenses if possible. Women who pay their own expenses will be enlisted for six months and those whose expenses are paid by the Red Cross will be enlisted for one year. Applicants should write to Mrs. L. Dean Holden, 929 Garfield building, Cleveland, O.

Eighty-five registered nurses were recruited for the Red Cross in Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky during the month of March.

Authority to purchase surgical instruments and surgical supplies to the amount of $230,272 for shipment to the Red Cross for Italy has been given by the American Red Cross War Council.

The American Red Cross expects to spend approximately $1,750,000 for the construction and equipment of convalescent houses and houses for nurses at camps and cantonments. Of this sum $1,500,000 already has been appropriated by the Red Cross War Council. The houses will cost approximately $22,000 each and the furniture for each house will cost about $3,000.

Women of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are producing 19 per cent. of the hospital supplies manufactured for the Red Cross in the entire United States.

Unlucky 13!

Judging by the prodding it takes it appears that the Boys' Working Reserve in Fulton county has the spring fever—and has it right.—Kewanna Herald.

10,000 Silos Aim of 1918 Campaign

State Conference Called by Food Production and Conservation Committee, April 25.

Plans for placing ten thousand silos on Indiana farms will be outlined at a State silo conference in Indianapolis, April 25, called by the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation. County silo leaders have been selected through the co-operation of the county agents, better farming associations and County Councils of Defense. These representatives will come to Indianapolis to receive instructions in order that they may properly conduct their local silo campaigns.

"The need for silos in Indiana was never so great as at the present time," says the announcement of the meeting. "The nation's need for more economical use of live stock feeds demands that Indiana erect not less than the ten thousand silos which the State Food Committee has determined should be erected in 1918. The soft corn crop which resulted from early frost and the shortage of hay emphasized during the past winter the great value of the silo campaign last year and the real value of the silo. Six thousand silos were built last season as a result of the campaign.

"The representatives of all silo companies selling silos in Indiana are invited to attend. A luncheon will be provided through the State Food Committee. The railroad fare of the county representatives will also be taken care of through the Food Committee. The principal speakers at the luncheon will be Governor James P. Goodrich, M. E. Foley, Chairman of the State Council of Defense, and G. I. Christie, State Food Director."

SHEEP CAMPAIGN SUCCEEDING.

The campaign waged in Indiana for increased sheep production as a means of increasing the wool and meat supply is showing results already in many sections. New flocks are being started in dozens of counties, according to reports received by the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation.

"There is a tendency in northern Indiana for farmers to keep their lambs until they weigh 100 pounds or more, instead of selling them as soon as they have reached a weight of 75 to 80 pounds when they bring the top market price," said Claude Harper, sheep specialist of Purdue University. "The reason is that the best cuts of meat can be obtained from a carcass this size instead of a larger one. The packer frequently will sacrifice condition for weight.

"In addition to this, the farmer who sells his March lambs in June or July when they have attained this popular weight, instead of waiting until fall to dispose of them, avoids the danger of disease in the last two summer months. They make no gains during this period.

"Also it is more profitable to sell lambs at the desired weight than to hold them over, as they make the cheapest gains under five months of age. They can reach the necessary weight by the last of June or middle of July if fed liberally with grain, pasture crops and milks from their mothers."

Farmers south of Indianapolis have become accustomed already to disposing of their lambs in June or early July as they have found by continued experience in the sheep business that they receive top prices for lambs at that time.

By selling off the lambs early that are not needed for breeding purposes feed is saved, making it possible to keep larger breeding flocks resulting in a greater wool and meat production.

CARE AND FEEDING IMPORTANT FOR BABY CHICKS

The early-hatching campaign, under the direction of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, has resulted in a large number of chickens being hatched this spring. One of the big problems now is to care for these to prevent the big mortality among chicks a few days old. To assist in the campaign Purdue University has issued a bulletin on the care and feeding of baby chicks. The bulletin gives methods which, if followed, will reduce greatly the loss of little chicks and will give Indiana's increased egg and meat production from poultry this summer which is asked by the Government.

On the first day baby chicks should receive no feed, says the bulletin, and the mother hen should receive only corn and water. Sour milk may be given the chicks the second day, but no grain and grit or sand should be placed where they can find it. From the third to seventh day scratch feed may be fed five times daily, giving each time all they will clean up in thirty minutes. Sour milk also may be fed abundantly in this period and green feeds also may be used. After the seventh day grain feed should be continued with dry mash, composed of two pounds of bran, two pounds of shorts and two and a half pounds of sifted meat scraps. Feed the mash in a trough twice a day for a few days, gradually increasing until it is before them at all times. After chicks are on full mash feed reduce grain ration to three times a day, continue milk and make chicks scratch for grain. After the second month both grain and mash may be fed from a self-feeder, if chicks have plenty of range.

Prevent crowding, prevent chilling of baby chicks, keep them dry and provide plenty of exercise. This in a sentence tells what is to be done in the care of these youngsters.

Woman's Section

Indianapolis, Ind., April 4, 1918.

BULLETIN NO. 45.

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense:

On Thursday, April 18, at 12:30 o'clock, a luncheon will be given at the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, for Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Mrs. Stanley McCormick and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, to which you and the members of your organization are most cordially invited.

Dr. Shaw is Chairman of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense; Mrs. McCormick is the National Chairman of the Food Production and Home Economics Department, and Mrs. Catt is the National Chairman of the Educational Department.

It will be necessary that you at once get in touch with your organization and advise me by return mail how many will attend so that the necessary arrangements can be made. The luncheon will be $1.00 a plate.

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock a patriotic meeting will be held at Hollenbeck Hall, at which Mr. M. E. Foley, Chairman of the State Council of Defense, will preside and the principal address will be given by Dr. Shaw. There will be short talks by the other national visitors. You are also invited to attend this meeting.

Hoping to receive your response by early mail, I am,

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,

Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

BULLETIN NO. 38.

To the Chairmen of the Home and Foreign Relief Committee of the County Council of Defense:

Inasmuch as the activities of the Home and Foreign Relief Committee were the very first war work to get under way, and as nothing new has been launched by Washington as to concerted work for its activities, the committee has had up to this time no bulletins to forward to the heads of this department.

It is, of course, the intention of this committee to combine all war relief organizations already existing under one head, avoiding duplication in purpose and procedure.

If at any time information as to the procedure of this committee is desired, it can be had by writing directly to the State Chairman, Mrs. Arthur B. Grover, 83 State House, Indianapolis, Ind.

Very sincerely yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,

Chairman Woman's Section, State Council of Defense.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 35

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 134.

April 5, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Third Liberty Loan Campaign will begin April 6, and, as in the past, the County Councils should be an important factor in making it a success.

The whole nation has been brought to a realization of the sinister potentialities of the German military machine by the recent demonstration in Picardy. There is now an evident determination upon the part of the people to make further and greater sacrifices. It should be comparatively easy to raise each county's quota in a short time.

In the past, the County Councils of Defense have rendered valuable aid to the local loan organizations. With the added assistance of the recently created Township Councils, we are certain your efforts will prove highly effective.

Will you therefore, if you have not already done so, tender the services of your entire organization to the chairman of the loan committee and request him to suggest the character of service you can give?

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 135.

April 5, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Recalling your attention to General Bulletin No. 49, of October 8, 1917, in regard to improvements and construction work, we enclose copy of a resolution just passed by the National War Industries Board defining its policy regarding the undertaking of new industrial enterprises and the construction of buildings and improvements which can not be utilized in the prosecution of the war.

In this connection we call your attention to the following resolution passed by the State Council of Defense at a recent meeting:

"That the attention of the public be called to the recent statement by the Secretary of the Treasury to the effect that building operations should be determined by reference to the national welfare rather than to the comfort and convenience of citizens, and

"That it is the sense of this council that there is increasing need of the most rigid observance of the recommendation by the Council of National Defense that no construction or other enterprise be undertaken unless justified by the test. Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war?"

The importance of these declarations can not be overemphasized and we request that they be given wide publicity.

County Councils should furthermore delegate to some committee the duty of judging all new undertakings by the test: "Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in that way to the winning of the war?" and of discouraging all undertakings which do not pass that test.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Resolutions passed by the War Industries Board:

Whereas, It has come to the notice of this Board that new industrial corporations are being organized in different sections of the United States, for the erection of industrial plants which cannot be utilized in the prosecution of the war; and

Whereas, Plans are being considered by certain states, counties, cities and towns for the construction of public buildings and other improvements which will not contribute toward winning the war; and

Whereas, The carrying forward of these activities will involve the utilization of labor, materials and capital urgently required for war purposes. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the War Industries Board, That in the public interest, all new undertakings not essential to and not contributing either directly or indirectly toward winning the war, which involve the utilization of labor, material and capital required in the production, supply or distribution of direct or indirect war needs, will be discouraged, notwithstanding they may be of local importance and of a character which should in normal times meet with every encouragement. Be it further

Resolved, That in fairness to those interested therein, notice is hereby given that this Board will withhold from such projects priority assistance, without which new construction of the character mentioned will frequently be found impracticable, and that this notice shall be given wide publicity, that all parties interested in such undertaking may be fully apprised of the difficulties and delays to which they will be subjected and embark upon them at their peril.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 136.

April 9, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The State Council is in receipt of the following urgent telegram from the Council of National Defense:

"Provost Marshal-General Crowder appeals to your State Council to provide all local draft boards in your State with adequate assistance for the transcription and transmittal of occupational cards. School teachers already are assisting but have not proved adequate. In five local boards they have defaulted entirely and many partially in this work. Until the transcription of occupational cards is complete, the United States army must wait for vitally needed skilled workmen. This is therefore a national emergency. General Crowder states "I consider this a critical test of the ability of State and local Councils. Will they arise to the emergency?" We have promised on your behalf the request therefore, that you do the following: Direct each local Council to go to each draft board in its jurisdiction and inquire as to the number and type of assistants needed. Make sure that each local council provides the desired assistance.

"It is up to you to provide the assistance and make sure that transcription by all boards in your State is performed. Will wire you from time to time of list of boards especially in default, but do not wait for our wires."

Nothing need be added to this telegram to emphasize the importance of the matter. We rely on the County Councils to do their duty fully, and we know they will not fail to come up to the expectations of the federal authorities.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Food Administration

Names of slackers who rushed to retailers and purchased more than a normal supply of wheat flour when requested to go on a wheatless diet are asked of county food administrators by Dr. Barnard. These will be turned over to agents of the Department of Justice for prosecution under the food control law, which provides a penalty of a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment up to two years for hoarding. Publicity will be given every case where the guilt of the accused is established, the flour hoarded will be seized and an example made to others tempted to a similar practice, Dr. Barnard announces.

Saloonkeepers are discouraged in their plan to open restaurants in rooms formerly occupied by liquor stores. Dr. Barnard insists that they pass the required physical examination for waiters, that they be free from infectious diseases and also that they conform strictly to the food regulations and restrictions against waste. Dr. Barnard says he considers that there are enough public eating houses in the State to serve the people and that further enterprises of this nature should not be undertaken at this time, especially in view of the food shortage.

Ice dealers who are raising their prices unreasonably will have to explain to the food administrator. Dr. Barnard calls attention to the finding of the Indianapolis commission of 40 cents per 100 pounds of ice at retail, which he considers a fair basis for other price calculations.

County food administrators are urged to secure the co-operation of newspaper men in influencing display advertisers to boost recipes for the use of wheat flour substitutes. The suggestion comes from A. E. Lieter, food administrator for Fayette county, who says the idea was put to very successful application in Connerville.

The only resales the food administration recognizes as legal in the egg trade is in order to supply the reasonable requirements of the buyer's business. Other sales subjects those concerned to the penalties of the law and an immediate suspension of federal license.

Organized labor in Indiana expects to secure the nomination in every county of a member of a trades union to serve as a deputy county food administrator. Labor's support is regarded by Dr. Barnard as one of the most encouraging features of the situation as pertains to conservation in Indiana.

Indiana public schools are referred to the denial of the request of Benton G. Keicher of Alexandria, superintendent of schools, for a concession that would enable him to purchase wheat flour for home economics demonstrations. Dr. Barnard informed Superintendent Keicher that the schools should confine themselves to the use of substitutes as a patriotic duty and should confine their teachings to the use of them in conformity with the food regulations.

Not only Mondays and Wednesdays, but Sundays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays are wheatless days in Indiana. Every meal is wheatless—it is that or deny starving women and children of the food they must have to live and which is essential if the war is to go on, the food administration announces.

Nothing is as usual; why eat as usual?

Never Fail Corn Bread.

- 1 cup corn meal.
- 1 cup of flour.
- 3 teaspoon salt.
- 3 teaspoons sugar.
- 3 teaspoons baking powder.
- 1 egg.
- Butter, or lard the size of an egg (melted).
- 1 cup of cold water.

Process:

Mix dry ingredients, add well-beaten egg and water, beating all thoroughly. Pour in well-greased hot baking pan. This can be made into muffins if preferred. This recipe is fine and lives up to its name every time.

JULIA C. HENDERSON,
State Chairman "Fourteen Minute Women."

Teaching of German Should Be Stopped

State Council Urges Repeal of Act of 1869 in Resolution Addressed to Governor Goodrich.

The State Council of Defense went on record at the meeting of April 10 as opposed to the compulsory teaching of German in the schools of Indiana when it passed a resolution recommending to Governor James P. Goodrich that, in the event a special session of the Legislature is called, the repeal of the provisions of the act of 1869, making the teaching of German compulsory, be urged as a measure requiring prompt action. The resolution, which was introduced by Arthur W. Brady, was passed by a unanimous vote. The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That this Council recommend to the Governor that, in case a special session of the Legislature be called, the repeal of the provisions of the act of 1869 (Burns' Statutes 1914, Sec. 6582) for the compulsory teaching of the German language in the schools of the State be urged as a measure requiring prompt action."

A resolution recommending prompt action in the United States Senate by the passage of a bill to punish disloyalty was presented by Frank Wampler and was passed by unanimous vote of the Council as follows:

"It is now plain to everyone that our statute books do not contain laws sufficient to properly handle the disloyal elements of our country. This condition is fast leading to mob violence, which has been evidenced by occurrences in different localities during the past few weeks.

"There is now pending before the United States Senate a bill termed the Sedition Act, or better known as a bill to strengthen that act. This measure having originated in the House of Representatives and passed by that body and has for several days been the subject of debate in the Senate.

"Be it resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense most emphatically assert the urgent need for such a measure and urge the Senate of the United States to take prompt action and pass such a bill to become a law as will prevent and avoid the possibility of loyal citizens, in order that treasonable propaganda may be put to an end, from taking the law into their own hands.

"That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each Senator from Indiana and the President of the United States Senate."

The problem of war-time building enterprises came before the Council again. Representatives of farmers who are proposing to erect an elevator in Geneva on a co-operative basis appeared as a sequence to the request made at the previous meeting by Samuel Egly of Geneva that the Council disapprove the project.

A. C. Monroe of Geneva, president of the Farmers' Equity Association, which proposes to erect the elevator, stated that the elevator is necessary because of the fact that two railroads and the elevators in their territory are being junked and a large part of the business will be taken to Geneva. J. D. VanVorhees, representing an Indianapolis construction company which has the contract for the elevator, appealed to the Council to take care of him and his company. A. E. Reynolds, following the appeals, discussed the matter at length, opposing the plan of erecting such an elevator by the co-operative method and urging that the plan be abandoned unless there is an absolute necessity for it.

Following the discussion Chairman Michael E. Foley suggested that Jesse Andrews of Tippecanoe county be appointed to investigate this and similar cases which Mr. Foley said existed and to make recommendations to the Council. The Council adopted this suggestion and Mr. Andrews was asked to report at the next meeting.

A resolution recently adopted by the War Industries Board denying shipping and supply priority to non-essential building, which was read, becomes a part of the record and policy of the Council on this subject.

Arthur W. Brady, who, with Dr. Albert B. Storms, was appointed to investigate the origin of the high school war text book, reported that the Council is under no legal obligation in regard to the book, and asked further time to investigate. The time was extended. Mr. Foley stated that Governor Goodrich had expressed the opinion that the Council is under no financial obligation in the matter. Mr. Foley appointed Derrille Cheney, chairman of the State printing board, and Gilbert Hendren, state accountant, as a committee to investigate the cost of the publication at the suggestion of Governor Goodrich.

A resolution introduced by Dr. Charles P. Emerson, urging Governor Goodrich to ask the proper authorities to turn over the work of enlistment of physicians in the medical reserve to the Council, was adopted. A committee under federal control now has charge of the enlistments in the State. Dr. Emerson stated that Indiana ranks forty-third among the States in enlistments in the reserve. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, The standing of Indiana in the matter of enlistment of physicians in the Medical Reserve Corps is unfortunately very low, and

"Whereas, This enlistment is entrusted to a committee under federal control; be it

"Resolved, That we, the Indiana State Council of Defense, recommend to Governor Goodrich that he ask the proper authorities that this activity be entrusted to this Council of Defense."

Action on a resolution introduced by Mr. Brady asking members of County Councils who become candidates for office to resign as members of the Councils was postponed until the next meeting.

A matter brought up by Adjutant General Harry B. Smith of a member of the Indiana Second Artillerymen who was alleged to have been discharged by his employers, an Indianapolis concern, because he marched in the Liberty Loan parade, was referred to the legal committee for investigation. Opposition was expressed by the Council of the practice of employers in discriminating against men of draft age, many of whom are idle for that reason. The protection committee was instructed to prepare a statement on this matter and to present it at the next meeting.

Charles Fox reported that the Ross Gear and Tool Works of Lafayette is discriminating against former employes who were said to have been locked out after they formed a union, and that fifty-five of these men are without work. The company had agreed to re-employ these men, Mr. Fox said, after the matter was supposed to have been settled by an agent of the federal department of labor. Mr. Fox asked that the department of labor be notified of the action of the company and that it be asked to send a representative to Lafayette. The Council agreed to request such action.

James L. Keach, chairman of a committee appointed to make recommendations regarding the printing of the soldiers handbook prepared by a legal committee appointed by Chairman Foley, recommended that 50,000 copies of the book be printed and distributed to all men going into the service through the office of Adjutant General Smith. He suggested that the books be printed through the State printing department. His report was accepted and the suggestion concurred in.

Reports were made by Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Brady of the Americanization meetings recently held at Washington at which they represented the State Council.

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle reported that there are six counties in the State where women members of the County Council are not active, Hendricks, Noble, Orange, Shelby, Warren and Spencer, and four counties where no plans are being made for the registration of women for war work, Crawford, Harrison, Porter and Pulaski. She also stated that in some counties in which appropriations have been made to pay the expenses of the Council, the Councils refuse to include the expenses of the women members. The Council referred the matters to Mr. Foley with authority to ask the circuit judges of the counties in which the women members are not active to remove such members and appoint their successors, and if possible redress other causes of complaint.

The financial statement of the Council prepared by the State Board of Accounts was referred to the financial committee on a motion by Mr. Keach.

Will Irwin reported that the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Indiana had asked the Council's approval of a plan to collect funds. It was stated that there was nothing to show that the funds were for war work and the matter was held over until the next meeting.

Prof. George I. Christie, director of the food production and conservation committee, was granted a leave of absence to take up a position with the federal department of agriculture doing farm labor organization work. Mr. Christie stated that he would be able to keep in touch with his work in Indiana and would return to the State frequently.

Hays Buskirk of the Public Service Reserve reported that 225 Indiana men have registered for overseas military railroad units, through the reserve during the past week.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

SAVING FATS.

The saving of fat may be accomplished in three ways: (1) By using less fat, (2) by using carefully that which is necessary, and (3) by saving all meat trimmings, suet, etc.

Large quantities of fat are wasted in this country and we as a nation consume many times more fat per capita than any other. A great many dishes are prepared which require large quantities of fat and so many foods are sauted or fried and fat is wasted in these processes through carelessness.

Corn oils, coconut oils, cotton seed oils and similar products may be used in place of lard, and when fat must be purchased these products should be chosen in place of the animal fats.

Fat Rendering at Home.—Much fat can be saved by rendering the trimmings from fat meat. To render the fat, chop it finely or grind through a meat chopper and heat in double boiler until completely melted. Strain through a cloth to remove the cracklings left.

Clarifying Fat.—Melt the fat with an equal volume of water and heat for a short time at a moderate temperature with occasional stirring. Let mixture cool, remove the layer of fat and scrape off bits of meat and other material which may adhere to the under side.

Soap Made From Useless Fat:

- 2 cups of any fat.
- 1 cup cold water.
- 3 tablespoons of lye.

Clarify the fat. Add the lye dissolved in the water to the melted fat. Beat 20 minutes with a Dover egg beater. This will make 3 cups of soap.

Use of Chicken Fat:

Chicken fat after it has been clarified may be used for making cakes, pastry and baking powder biscuits. Use the same amount of chicken fat as lard when substituting it in a recipe.

Crackling Bread:

- 4 cups corn meal.
- 2 cups cracklings.
- 2 teaspoons salt.

Mix cornmeal and salt and add enough water to moisten but not make a mush. When cooled work in the cracklings with the fingers. Form into small cakes and bake 30 minutes. This is eaten without butter and served hot.

Suet Pudding:

- 1 pt. finely chopped suet.
- 1 pt. rye flour.
- 1 pt. corn meal.
- Salt well.

Boil in muslin bag one and one-half hours. Remove from bag and brown in oven.

Corn Flour Pastry:

- 1 cup corn flour.
- 1 cup white flour.
- ½ cup fat.

- 1½ teaspoon salt.

Water.

Mix dry ingredients and cut in fat. Add enough water to make a stiff dough. Roll out as ordinary pastry.

Directory of Indiana Chairman of County Councils of Defense

Adams County—Richard D. Myers, Decatur.
Allen County—Wm. H. Scheiman, Ft. Wayne.
Bartholomew County—Marshall Hacker, Columbus.
Benton County—Rev. Chas. Dhe, Fowler.
Blackford County—W. C. Niece, Hartford City.
Boone County—J. A. Hogshire, Lebanon.
Brown County—Jas. A. Turner, Nashville.
Carroll County—John L. Hanna, Delphi.
Cass County—Marcus W. Collett, Logansport.
Clark County—Jas. E. Taggart, Jeffersonville.
Clay County—M. H. Johnson, Brazil.
Clinton County—Rev. H. L. Crain, Frankfort.
Crawford County—A. H. Flannigan, English.
Daviess County—Harry A. Crooke, Odon.
Dearborn County—Hon. Wm. H. O'Brien, Lawrenceburg.
Decatur County—Louis Zoller, Greensburg.
DeKalb County—J. Y. W. McClellan, Auburn.
Delaware County—Will F. White, Muncie.
Dubois County—Geo. P. Wagner, Jasper.
Elkhart County—I. O. Wood, Goshen.
Fayette County—L. A. Frazee, Connersville.
Floyd County—Chas. D. Kelso, New Albany.
Fountain County—Dan C. Reed, Covington.
Franklin County—Louis Federmann, Brookville.
Fulton County—W. H. Deniston, Rochester.
Gibson County—Dr. Jno. N. Williams, Owensville.
Grant County—Ellsworth Harvey, Marion.
Greene County—Dr. J. B. Young, Worthington.
Hamilton County—Calvin Carson, Cicero, R. F. D.
Hancock County—Omer S. Jackson, Greenfield.
Harrison County—Thos. S. Jones, Corydon.
Hendricks County—Jas. P. Snodgrass, Danville.
Henry County—Dr. F. A. Bolser, Newcastle.
Howard County—Lloyd McClure, Kokomo.
Huntington County—Peter Martin, Huntington.
Jackson County—Jno. E. Hunsucker, Vallonia.
Jasper County—Frank Walsh, R. 4, Rensselaer.
Jay County—T. W. Shimp, Portland.
Jefferson County—Wm. Ogden, Madison.
Jennings County—Albert A. Tripp, North Vernon.
Johnson County—Glenn Ellis, Franklin.
Knox County—Thos. H. Adams, Vincennes.
Kosciusko County—Hon. L. W. Royse, Warsaw.
Lagrange County—Frank J. Dunten, Lagrange.
Lake County—Hon. Jno. B. Peterson, Crown Point.
Laporte County—M. R. Sutherland, Laporte.
Lawrence County—Dr. A. J. McDonald, Bedford.
Madison County—Wm. M. Swain, Anderson.
Marion County—Mr. Jno. Judah, 708 Newton Claypool Bldg., Indianapolis.
Marshall County—L. G. Harley, Plymouth.
Martin County—John Larkin, Loogootee.
Miami County—W. A. Hammond, Peru.
Monroe County—Hon. Jos. E. Henley, Bloomington.
Montgomery County—Byron R. Russell, Crawfordsvle.
Morgan County—Ira Eubank, Martinsville.
Newton County—Dr. R. C. McCain, Kentland.
Noble County—Edw. P. Eagles, Albion.
Ohio County—Harry B. Sparks, Rising Sun.
Orange County—Oscar Ratts, Paoli.
Owen County—Capt. David E. Beem, Spencer.
Parke County—T. H. Nichols, Rockville.
Perry County—James Shallcross, Cannelton.
Pike County—Hon. A. H. Taylor, Petersburg.
Porter County—A. N. Worstell, Valparaiso.
Posey County—Hon. A. C. Thomas, New Harmony.
Pulaski County—Jno. M. Spangler, Winamac.
Putnam County—C. C. Hurst, Greencastle.
Randolph County—Carl Puckett, Winchester.
Ripley County—J. Francis Lockard, Versailles.
Rush County—Thos. M. Green, Rushville.
Scott County—Daniel Blocher, Austin.
Shelby County—Ed K. Adams, Shelbyville.
Spencer County—Charles Lieb, Rockport.
Starke County—Lon E. Bernethy, North Judson.

To Serve our Country we have enlisted in the United States Food Administration

U. S. Food Administration Controlled Commodities

Apples, dried	Corn Oil	Molasses	Poultry
Beans, dried and canned	Corn Syrup	Mutton, fresh, canned and cured	Prunes
Beef, fresh, canned and cured	Cottonseed Oil	Oatmeal and Rolled Oats	Raisins
Bread	Eggs	Oleomargarine	Rice
Butter	Fish, fresh and frozen	Peaches, dried	Salmon, canned
Cheese	Flour	Peanut Oil	Sardines, canned
Cooking Fats	Fruits, fresh	Peas, dried and canned	Starch, corn
Corn, canned	Hominy	Pork, fresh, canned and cured	Sugar
Corn Grits	Lard		Syrup
Cornmeal	Milk, fresh, canned and powdered		Tomatoes, canned Vegetables, fresh

We pledge ourselves to give our customers the benefit of Fair and Moderate Prices, selling at no more than a Reasonable Profit above Cost to Us

Signed

The John Jones Grocery
Member of the United States Food Administration

The above poster is evidence of the patriotic pledge of the grocer.

The poster should be placed in a conspicuous place as proof of his having entered into co-operation with the United States Food Administration.

Signers of food card pledges and patriotic people everywhere are being urged to restrict their business to retailers displaying this poster.

St. Joseph County—Joseph D. Oliver, South Bend.

Stauben County—Raymond E. Willis, Angola.
Sullivan County—Gilbert W. Gambill, Sullivan.
Switzerland County—C. S. Tandy, Vevay.
Tippecanoe County—J. O. Beck, Box 104, Lafayette.

Tipton County—John D. Smith, Tipton.
Union County—William P. Kennedy, Liberty.
Vanderburgh County—Geo. S. Clifford, 318 S.
Second St., Evansville.

Vermilion County—Frank R. Miller, Clinton.
Vigo County—Earl E. Houck, 20 S. Fifth St.,
Terre Haute.

Wabash County—Milo R. Meredith, Wabash.
Warren County—Jno. H. Stephenson, Williamsport.

Warriack County—Roscoe Kiper, Boonville.
Washington County—Wm. B. Lindley, Salem.
Wayne County—Dr. E. R. Churchill, Richmond.
Wells County—Chas. E. Sturgis, Bluffton.
White County—Wright J. Hinkle, Monon.
Whitley County—D. V. Whiteleather, Columbia City.

Merchants Economy

Carl S. Wise, chairman of the counties adjacent to Logansport, announces that the movement to lessen deliveries in his district is meeting with success. The larger retail stores of Logansport put into operation on April 8 a one delivery a day schedule. A charge of 10 cents is being made for all extra deliveries except to hotels, depots and terminal stations.

The Peru papers are carrying large display advertisements signed by the Peru Mercantile Company, the Senger Dry Goods Company, John S.

Hale Company, C. N. Hall & Son, West & Stevens, Murphy Furniture Company, Julius Falk, Mar-
burger Brothers, Mylet Brothers, Roy C. Cassady, Miller Brothers, McCafferey & Co., Peru Furniture Company, Cheeseman Furniture Company and D. H. Rassner, announcing a one delivery a day schedule, which went into effect on April 10.
The time for returning unsatisfactory merchandise is restricted to three days. Special deliveries will be eliminated except in cases of sickness or death and the custom of sending goods on approval will be discontinued.

A one delivery a day schedule and a uniform closing hour for merchants have gone into effect in Kokomo.

An analysis of the reform effected by the Indianapolis merchants relative to lessened deliveries, return of merchandise and C. O. D. orders shows that deliveries have been reduced in some instances from 40 per cent. to 50 per cent.; that the return merchandise evil has been lessened by 60 per cent.; that one-half of the equipment is now being used in delivery that was used heretofore, and that a number of men have consequently been released to the government for wartime service.

Wabash is organized and has accepted all the provisions and rules recommended by the Council of National Defense.

J. C. O'Harra, who was appointed chairman of the Merchants' Economy Committee to succeed F.
M. Ayres, who resigned to take a permanent position in Washington with the American Red Cross, has assumed his duties.

Boys' Reserve Takes Its Place in Ranks

Members Going to Farms Where They Will Aid in Producing Food—Up to Farmers.

Indiana members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve are rapidly being placed on farms for the summer. State officials of the reserve state that the enrollment was gratifying and point out that the success of the organization is now up to the farmer. They ask that the farmers take the boys with the understanding that the most of them have absolutely no experience and that they must be trained. The training received this summer is expected to go far toward solving the labor supply next summer when the situation may be even more acute than at present, more men having gone into the service at that time. County directors in the following counties report that boys are being placed on farms: Posey, Dearborn, Jasper, Marion, Hamilton, Tippecanoe, Vigo, Fountain and Laporte.

TWO BOYS' SUMMER EARNINGS.

Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, is in receipt of the following letter from F. D. McElroy, principal of the Industrial High School, at Hammond:

April 8, 1918.

Mr. Isaac Straus, Boys' Working Reserve, Indianapolis, Ind.:

Dear Mr. Straus—The question is quite often asked, "Can a boy really earn anything during a summer vacation?" or "Is there anything in the plea that 'A Scout Can Feed a Soldier?'" The following is the record of two boys, John and Henry Meeter, sons of Herman Meeter, of Highland, Ind. They were given charge of a small patch of ground, approximately four acres, to do with as they saw fit. This is the statement of their earnings as their father submitted it to me:

4,338 lbs. of white sets at $1.00
per bushel .....	$108.45
1,025 lbs. of white sets, over size, at 2c per lb. ....	20.50
15,597 lbs. of red sets at 90c per bushel .....	350.48
	$479.43
Deductions: 75 lbs. of seed at 75c per lb. ....	56.25
Labor done by man with team..	12.18
Paid out for other boys clipping sets .....	14.36
	82.79
	$386.64

Earnings of boys in addition to taking care of onion sets during vacation .....	41.15
	$427.79

Very truly yours,

F. D. McELROY.

Germany Must Know She's Licked.

(By William Howard Taft.)

Peace can come only after it has been established to the satisfaction of every nation that all military conspiracies against the peace of the world are foredoomed to failure.

Peace is not a question of terms. Mr. Lloyd-George says that Germany must cede Alsace-Lorraine before the war can end. There is much to support what he says, because forty years' rule of the provinces by Germany has failed to swerve the people's allegiance from France.

We must convince Germany that she is beaten, and it may be that the cession of Alsace-Lorraine would be marked as the standard of defeat. But, after all, terms are secondary; we must be sure that democracy will be protected from militaristic conspiracy for the future.

The Third Liberty Loan Bond Issue

(By Geo. C. Forrey, Jr., Vice-Pres. Breed, Elliott & Harrison)

The third Liberty loan 4 1/2's and the bonds that are converted into 4 1/2's will be exempt from all State and local taxes, also from the normal income tax, but they will be subject to the supertax and excess profits tax. This makes the tax feature of the 4 1/2's issues exactly like the 4 per cent. bonds. Incomes from holdings of $5,000 of the 4 per cent. bonds are exempt from both supertax and excess profits tax and the same exemption applies to the 4 1/2 per cent. issues, but a holder cannot get a double exemption by holding $5,000 of the 4 per cent. bonds and $5,000 of the 4 1/2 per cent. bonds, only one exemption is allowed. This exemption applies to individuals and will be allowed to each member of the family who may actually own the bonds. For instance, a husband and wife may each own $5,000 of the bonds and each will be allowed this exemption.

The difference between the new 4 1/2 per cent. issue and the 3 1/2 per cent. and 4 per cent. issues which are converted into 4 1/2's will be in the maturity and interest-paying periods. The new or third Liberty loan 4 1/2's will mature September 15, 1928, with interest payable September 15 and March 15, but the converted 4 1/2's will retain the maturity and interest dates of the old bonds. For instance, the bonds converted from the old 3 1/2's into 4 1/2's will mature June 15, 1947, with interest payable June 15 and December 15, the government may redeem these bonds June 15, 1932, and the bonds converted from the second Liberty loan 4's will mature November 15, 1942, with interest payable May 15 and November 15. The government may redeem these bonds November 15, 1927.

A feature in the third Liberty Loan Act, which is a departure from the procedure followed in the case of the second Liberty loan issue, and which has so far escaped general notice, is the provision whereby the new 4 1/2 per cent. interest rate, in the case of conversions, becomes operative as of the coupon dates of the first and second Liberty loan bonds, respectively. The privileges of conversion will extend, as before, to within six months after the date of issue and the time now prescribed for presenting old bonds for conversion is between July 1 and November 9, 1918. The new bonds obtained by conversion automatically draw interest at the higher rate from the respective coupon dates.

This will be a convenience, not only to the public, but to the Treasury Department as well. Under the conditions of the second Liberty loan issue the conversion of the first Liberty loan bonds involved an intricate and tiresome adjustment of accrued interest, because holders of the 3 1/2 per cent. bonds obtained the higher rate of interest according to the date of presentation of their bonds for conversion. As, naturally, those persons desired to obtain the benefit of the higher interest rate as early as possible, they rushed applications for conversion to the Federal Reserve banks, with the consequence that the treasury officials were swamped with the applications within a short space of time. Under the new plan the rush will be avoided.

Oppose County War Boards

In conformity with the recommendation of the Council of National Defense and the expressed wishes of President Wilson and Governor James P. Goodrich, the Indiana State Council of Defense is discouraging the organization of county war boards or any such organization as might duplicate the County Councils of Defense. And in no instance will the State Council permit the duties of the County Council to be defaulted or transferred to some substitute organization. The reason given for this attitude is that the organization of the State and of other States is uniform, and its administration, the channels of communication, forms, etc., having been established, it would be impossible to make concessions or a departure for the convenience of an individual case.

A statement from the State Council's section of the Council of National Defense is pertinent. It says:

"The Council of National Defense looks upon the State Councils as its official representative in each State for carrying on of war activities. We, therefore, appreciate deeply the assistance which the State Councils are rendering. We are particularly grateful and wish to do everything in our power to co-operate and assist you."

In Indiana the County Councils are held to actually constitute a part of the State organization under the direction of the State Council of Defense. For that reason it is essential that the organization be retained in complete form, with its identity definitely and permanently established.

In the above connection the resolution adopted by the Council of National Defense is significant of its purpose to make the Defense Councils the official and only recognized war work agency:

"Whereas, It appears that there are many voluntary organizations and committees engaged in patriotic service throughout the country; and

"Whereas, In the opinion of the Council of National Defense such organizations and committees can render the most effective service if properly co-ordinated; and

"Whereas, A State Council of Defense has been organized in each State to co-ordinate the war activities within the State and to co-operate with the Council of National Defense; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Council of National Defense strongly urges that wherever practicable voluntary patriotic organizations and committees in each State work through and under the guidance of the State Council of Defense so that the State Council of Defense may be central, co-ordinating agency for all voluntary patriotic work within the State directed toward assisting in the prosecution of the war."

Americanization of Aliens is Planned

Mrs. A. S. Hurrell Authorized to Call Meeting of Workers to Bring Them Into State Council.

Following a report on the activities of the various State organizations for the Americanization of aliens by Mrs. A. S. Hurrell at the monthly meeting of the executive committee of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense April 10, Mrs. Hurrell was authorized to call a meeting of the representatives of the agencies with a view to co-ordinating them under the woman's section.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon told of the children's year preparations and explained that there is a delay at Washington in the sending of cards on which women will be registered, but said she thought that blanks could be prepared locally for taking care of the records. Mrs. Bacon announced that a State-wide meeting will be held early in May with Miss Julia Lathrop and Dr. Jessica Piexotto, national leaders, present.

A motion was carried creating a motor corps of women to assist with the recreational work at Ft. Benjamin Harrison and other committee work. Mrs. Stuart Dean was named chairman of the section and will have charge of the work of organization.

Mrs. Jessie Herron Stutsman, who has been serving as secretary, handed in her resignation and Miss Mary Helen Boyd of Indianapolis was named her successor.

Many Nurses Wanted.

Five thousand trained nurses are wanted at once for active service in France. Miss Jane A. Delano, director of the nursing department of American Red Cross, is asking that experienced nurses—those who are trained and registered—volunteer for this important work. She is appealing to the American women to stand back of the nurses and make it possible for them to give the needed service to the allies. It is pointed out that nurses in the Red Cross can avail themselves of national insurance, just the same as soldiers and sailors, thereby securing for themselves and their families protection at nominal cost.

Important Part of Registration Shown

Call Received Illustrates Service That Might Be Possible From a Census of Women.

The important part which the registration of women for war work will play already is being shown by a request from the Civil Service Commission of the Federal Government through the woman's section of the Council of National Defense for women in war work. The commission is opening examinations for women to fill the position of clerk qualified in statistics and accounting, clerk qualified in office administration and clerk qualified in business administration.

If the registration in the State were completed applicants for these positions could be found among the women registered. It is for the purpose of answering such requests that the women of the State are being registered. The Civil Service Commission asks that women who desire to take these examinations apply to the Civilian Personnel Division, Ordnance Department, 1333 F street, Washington.

The State Registration Committee is preparing posters to advertise the coming registration. These posters will be sent into counties not later than April 15. Nearly all counties are completely organized with their registrars thoroughly instructed, and are looking forward to a 100 per cent. registration.

Reports from over the State indicate a lively interest in the baby-saving program inaugurated by the Child Welfare Committee of the woman's section of the State Council. Notwithstanding the overshadowing interest in the Liberty loan drive, in some places, the work will be continued and it is believed Indiana will contribute its part to the national campaign, in which it is hoped to save a minimum of 2,592 babies who might otherwise die of preventable diseases. Mrs. Alther Fellows Bacon of Evansville, who is in charge of the work under Mrs. Carlisle's section, announces plans for continuing the work throughout the year, as originally planned, and she believes once the beneficial results are apparent that the mothers of the State will rally to the cause.

Four-Minute Men in Wayne county have agreed to mention in their talks the registration of women, which starts April 19. The Wayne county men have taken the initiative in the work and an effort will be made to make it state wide.

More than 1,000 women were present at the Newton county mass-meeting held in Morocco. Every woman pledged her efforts toward a 100 per cent. registration. At the same time a meeting of men who will drive automobiles for the women was held in United Brethren church.

A Proclamation

To the Women of Indiana:

"In order that the United States Government may know upon whom it may depend and the extent of its resources, should the demands of the war necessitate the further participation of the women of America in the great struggle for human rights and civilization, it has asked each State to register its women population, with a statement of their qualifications and willingness for patriotic service.

"In Indiana this task will be undertaken, beginning on the anniversary of the historically significant battle of Lexington—April 19. It is hoped to have the work completed in ten days.

"We are trusting that the time will never come when the women will be called upon to bear more than a voluntary burden in their accustomed lines of service, but the Government regards it as the part of prudence to be prepared for any emergency and for this reason, it is taking a census of its woman power, as it has taken a census of its man power.

"I, therefore, suggest in the name of Indiana's proud record in the preparation for and the participation in this world war, that the mothers, wives and sisters of our patriots, who have offered their lives to their country, show a measure of appreciation of the duties devolving upon them by assisting cheerfully in making this registration a success. Anything short of success would be foreign to the Hoosier spirit and will detract from the sense of security and support from home to which our boys are entitled and which they are going to secure. The patriotic service of the women of America is important to the cause of America in this present time of peril and I know that the women of Indiana will not shirk their duty."

JAMES P. GOODRICH, Governor.

Write Often to the Boys Abroad

General Pershing calls upon everyone who knows a soldier in France to write to him. Mothers, fathers, wives, brothers, sisters, cousins, and friends are all urged to send letters, not merely occasionally but frequently. Other officers, Red Cross Workers, everyone who has visited France, as well as the men themselves, back up General Pershing in that request. The letter from home is the brightest thing in the life of a soldier "over there." This is General Pershing's message directly to the women of America:

"Any woman who has a husband, brother, sweetheart or relative in foreign service, should write, write, write, long, cheerful letters telling everything that happens in the 'old home town.' The men here are hungry for news and the things which seem like trivial happenings at home will be of the greatest interest to the men. The order which I would send to the women of America is to work and write."

It isn't the women alone who should write, however. American soldiers abroad are mostly quite young and healthy, and because they are they like to hear from friends and relatives of their own sex quite as much and as often as from women folks.

All who do write should be very careful in addressing letters. There has been much complaint that mail fails to reach men in France. John Clark, American postal agent in France, says much of the fault lies with the people at home for insufficient or carelessly written addresses. When writing to a soldier, says the postal department, give him his full name, like James Franklin Smith. Don't address him as J. F. Smith—there may be a hundred J. F. Smiths in the army. Nor is James F. Smith sufficient—there might be a dozen of them.

Don't call a soldier "Mister" either. There are no "mistress" in the army. Each has a title from Private up to General, so give the title. And always write the address in ink.

Bread is the staff of life, but very few Americans need a staff.

Food will win the war—produce it.

The Indiana Bulletin is not copyrighted. It is intended solely as a purveyor of patriotic inspiration through the reported patriotic activity of County Councils of Defense and the various committees and sections of the Indiana State Council of Defense. It is published with no other end in view than the dissemination of information that will serve the cause of the State and Nation in the war with Germany. Newspaper editors, librarians, teachers, public speakers and others are invited and urged to avail themselves of any suggestions or informative data found in the columns of the Bulletin.

The publicity bureau under whose direction the Bulletin is prepared and published welcomes suggestions for adding to the efficiency of the publication and welcomes contributions along the lines suggested.

Historic Pictures of Indiana's Part in War

Desire of War Department Transmitted to Newspapers and Others in This State.

The following communication, authorized by the Council of National Defense, has gone forward into every county in the State. County Councils of Defense are urged to give their attention and assist in the purpose of the War Department in securing such valuable historic photographs as may be available in their communities, for permanent collection:

April 8, 1918.

The State Council of Defense is in receipt of an appeal from the office of the chief of staff of the War Department for assistance in the compilation of the photographic history of the war. It is the desire of the general staff of the army to procure for the official files a comprehensive series of photographs that will adequately record the war activities of Indiana.

Among the photographs to be included in this record are those to show the departure of the local troops to the training camps or to points of embarkation, the activities of local war relief societies, including the Red Cross and the Food Administration, the arrests of the enemy aliens and suspects, the destruction of property attributable to enemy activities, sales campaigns for government bonds and war stamps, visits of foreign officials, military equipment and methods of the manufacture of equipment, the drilling of home defense organizations, draft scenes, enlisting scenes, entraining of the troops and photographs of local commissions, boards and committees engaged in public service in connection with the war. All such photographs should be accompanied by brief descriptive captions. In addition to these news photographs the War Department also desires pictures showing products that are being manufactured in Indiana for it.

We know that you can furnish particularly useful co-operation in this task as you have access to photographs that show local activities. We will, therefore, be under deep obligation to you for your assistance in the matter.

It is the desire of the War Department that all such photographs be sent to the State Council of Defense in order that they may be checked up and forwarded in large packages.

Very truly yours,
STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE,
By John Vajen Wilson, Secretary.

War provides a stage where all may play a part.

Ask no rest; we have a victory to win.

A German Idea

(By Benjamin W. Douglass.)

Several years ago a friend of mine hired a family to work on a farm. The family lived in a "tenant house" about a quarter of a mile from the owner.

One morning my friend noticed a strange-looking outfit in one of his fields. He investigated. The new tenant had one horse and his wife hitched to a plow. The other horse was too sick to walk. The man was a German.

That is the German way of doing things. Women are no more to Germans than are the beasts of the field.

Reverence for women, one of our Anglo-Saxon ideals, finds no place in the code of the German.

Mr. American, how would you like to see your wife hitched to a plow? You scoff at the idea? Remember Belgium, please—and dig. If you cannot dig trenches, then dig for the Liberty loan.

May 1918

We must support our gallant sailors and soldiers. We must make them swift victors in their fight with the kaiser. We can do it if we at home do our duty with the same quality of patriotism that animates our men in the trenches. The least duty we can perform—and we should be eager and happy to perform it—is to lend our money, every available dollar we have or can save, to our Government.—W. G. McADOO, Secretary of the Treasury.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., APRIL 19, 1918

Number 36

County Councils to Pass on Questions

Which Involve the Policy of State and Nation in Reference to Building and Improvements.

County Councils of Defense will hereafter be called upon to decide whether proposed building operations conflict with the policy laid down by the State and National Councils of Defense, which would have them weighed by the test of their contributing to the winning of the war; or if they come within the limitations specified by the federal War Industries Board—are they essential war work. All such matters should come before the County Councils before they will be considered by the State Council of Defense. This represents the attitude of the State Council as expressed at its regular meeting, April 17.

A number of such specific cases were presented and referred to the County Councils of defense, including a proposed road improvement, near Dublin, in Wayne county.

Henry C. Durham, trustee of Eel township, Hendricks county, asked relative to the erection of a new high school building. He stated that the present building had been declared unfit for sanitary reasons and that he had been mandated by the circuit court to replace it. He said the court's order might be modified on a recommendation from the State Council. The matter was referred to the county council of defense with the recommendation that a solution be found, if possible, in conformity with the state council's policy.

Jesse Andrews, who was appointed at the previous meeting to investigate the necessity for erecting grain elevators in several counties where such work was planned, reported that in Geneva, Adams county, and in Trafalgar, Johnson county, new elevators are not necessary at this time and should not be built. In both places farmers' co-operative organizations proposed the erection of elevators. After representatives from both places were heard Mr. Andrews' recommendations were approved.

Clarence J. Whistler, of Tippecanoe county, stated that the elevator in Buck Creek did not pay sufficient prices to farmers for their grain and that an association of farmers proposed to build a new elevator. He produced numerous affidavits to support his statements. Robert Alexander, who operates the elevator, explained complaints set forth in the affidavits. On a motion by A. E. Reynolds, Mr. Alexander was asked to co-operate with the farmers in an effort to reach an agreement whereby the proposed new buildings would not be necessary.

George White, of the Farmers' Elevator Company, appeared in behalf of farmers residing near Trafalgar in Johnson county. William W. Suckow, of the Suckow Milling Company, which operates the elevator, said the present plant is sufficient to take care of the needs of the community.

W. A. Scott, of Greenwood, asked for advice as to the rebuilding of a Knights of Pythias lodge hall in that town. The lodge building recently was destroyed by fire. He stated that the lodge was willing to abandon its plan if the State Council thought it advisable. He was referred to the statement of policy made by the council and will recommend that his lodge continue to use the I. O. O. F. building for which it has contracted temporarily.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense, attended the meeting and told briefly of the activities of women in war work and of the necessity for organized effort on the part of women in support of the war. She congratulated the woman's section of the state council on the work they had done and urged encouragement that they may continue their efforts. She stated that, as the war progresses, the need for women to take the place of men will become greater with each draft and urged the women workers to push the campaign for registration which begins on April 19, and continues for ten days.

Chairman Foley read a telegram from G. I. Christie, who recently left the position of State food director for Indiana, to take a place in the United States department of agriculture, stating that he had secured 2,000 bushels of seed corn which will be placed in Indiana, for emergency planting and sold to farmers at cost.

A program for the instruction of first aid to the injured which she suggested be carried on by chambers of commerce and other public organizations of the State was presented by Dr. Hannah Graham and referred to the medical section.

Mrs. S. A. Swain asked endorsement of a plan to establish a school at New Albany for the industrial education of colored girls. The matter was referred to the educational section.

Reports that electrical work at Purdue university and at the State House had been stopped by a strike of electrical workers was referred to Charles Fox, chairman of the Labor committee, for investigation. The report of a dispute between the Bedford Stone and Construction company and electrical workers was referred to the Marion County Council of Defense.

H. E. Miles explained to the council the need for the training of industrial workers. He also asked that the council nominate six members of a committee of fifteen which will have charge of the work in the State. On a motion by Mr. Fox, Chairman Foley was authorized to submit six names to Mr. Miles.

The council approved the publication of a pamphlet urging farmers to purchase silos, as the request of Prof. Coleman, of the food production and conservation committee. The pamphlet will be sent out by the committee. Mr. Coleman stated that reports of idle farm land will be turned over to federal authorities by the committee.

E. C. Stakeman asked approval of the publication of a pamphlet urging the eradication of the common barberry bush, which he stated was the cause of much of the rust on wheat. Such approval was given.

Uncle Sam Needs Help

A special call for typewriters and stenographers for government work has been made by John A. McIlhenny, Chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission. In his communication to the State Council of Defense Mr. McIlhenny states that the openings in Washington are practically without limit, and that, owing to the general demand, trouble is being experienced in recruiting workers.

Examinations for this service are held every Tuesday in the 450 principal cities of the country. The entrance salary for successful applicants is from $1,000 to $1,200 a year, and advancement is reasonably rapid. Both men and women are desired. Full information regarding the scope and character of the examinations may be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the Civil Service Board of Examiners at Chicago or Cincinnati, or to the commission at Washington.

Each individual is a military unit in an unbroken chain, and a single weak link may cause disaster.

Farm Labor Demand For Boys is Delayed

Federal State Director Issues Bulletin to Agents, Urging That They Prepare for Season.

In a bulletin to the county directors of the United States Boys' Working Reserve in Indiana, Isaac D. Straus, federal state director, states that the early demand for farm labor will not be as large as anticipated. He attributed this fact to favorable spring weather and the efforts that have been made by various agencies to stimulate food production, thus causing the farmer to put in every day on which the weather permits him to work. The bulletin follows:

"At this time it is apparent that the immediate demand for boy labor on Indiana farms will be much less than anticipated.

"Several reasons can be given for this: First, the excellent weather which has accompanied the opening of spring has enabled the farmer to prosecute his plowing and spring work as much as three weeks in advance in some sections of the State.

"Second—The intensive propaganda projected by the State Council of Defense, Boys' Working Reserve, Purdue University and the United States Department of Agriculture and other agencies for the purpose of stimulating food production and also warning the farmer of an approaching labor shortage have been instrumental in urging the farmer to take advantage of every good day when it was possible to do outside work.

"Therefore, it is doubtful if any large demand for these boys will come much earlier than the corn planting season in May, following which the farmer will be confronted in regular order with corn plowing, hay harvest, oat harvest and wheat harvest which will then be followed by a harvest of canning products including peas, beans, tomatoes and corn.

"These matters are brought to your attention in order that you might not become discouraged if the farmers do not issue an immediate demand for these boys and also in order that you might lay these facts before such boys who may become impatient, pointing out to them that like the soldier who sometimes has to wait a year before he goes into the fray, they must patiently wait until the call comes to go "over the top" for Uncle Sam on some Indiana farm.

"Boiled down, this means that beginning about May 15th and lasting until the middle of June the demand from farmers for this labor will become very urgent. Doubtless, by the latter date, most every available boy we have in the State will be needed.

"In the interim, endeavor to have enrolled young men spend week-ends on farms in an effort to acquire knowledge of farm duties that will prove helpful to them when assigned. This is important and will stimulate our Reserve."

Text Book Complimented.

In its columns devoted to State Council Activities the Official Bulletin says: "The State Council, State board of education, and United States Boys' Working Reserve are issuing a series of bulletins and a "war-service text-book for high schools" to enlist city boys for war service on the farms and to fit them for it. The first bulletin explains the Boys' Working Reserve. Its illustrations and articles will catch the interest and arouse the enthusiasm of every red-blooded American boy.

355
I 385 ed

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—Arrangements for releasing members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve from school in order that they may go to work on farms have been made by the Decatur school board in accordance with a resolution passed recently by the state board of education. Students in the eighth grade may leave school providing they furnish a weekly report of work done during the summer and that they will work on farms continuously during four months. If these conditions are fulfilled students will be given full credit for school work.

Allen County.—Because of ill health, C. B. Fitch has resigned as enrolling agent for the United States Public Service Reserve in Allen County. The county council of defense has not yet named his successor.

Benton County.—Several hundred dollars will be turned over to the Red Cross organization of the county as the result of a sale held at Fowler, April 13. The sale was held on the streets of the town. Household goods, farm implements and live stock sold were donated by residents of the county.

Boone County.—A drive for the enrollment of at least sixty boys in Boone county in pig clubs during the summer has been started by M. E. Cromer, emergency demonstration agent, and already more than a score of boys have each agreed to keep a pig. Teachers throughout the county where schools are in session have agreed to aid in forming the clubs.

Clay County.—A fine large picture of the Kaiser's palace in Berlin with the royal guards in resplendent uniforms parading before it which has been hanging on the walls of the German class room in the Brazil senior high school is missing. The picture disappeared during the night recently and in its place was hung a picture of President Wilson and two small American flags. No attempt is being made to learn who took the picture away and the picture of the president will remain in its place.

Clinton County.—R. O. Lane has been appointed chairman of a committee to have charge of war gardens by the town board of Colfax. Mrs. W. A. Irwin has been appointed by the county council of defense to have charge of the registration of women in the county. Mrs. Irwin appointed fourteen district chairmen and the work is progressing smoothly.

Decatur County.—Charles Zoiler, county food administrator, has given four hoarders in the county a week to turn their flour over to him. In a public statement he said he had the names of hoarders and would seize the flour if it is not turned over within the time limit. One of the greatest gatherings which Jackson township has ever seen was held at Waynesburg Christian church recently in the interest of the Liberty Loan and other patriotic activities. The meeting lasted all day and there was scarcely a time when standing room in the church was available. Speakers addressed those who could not get in from the steps of the church.

Delaware County.—In Center township, out of 287 families represented at the Blaine school, 271 will have war gardens and at the Jackson school 235 out of 267 families will have gardens. Tomato, cabbage and mango plants and fertilizer will be furnished at cost by the Muncie Garden Association. Nurses of the Delaware county nurses' association and the Visiting Nurse Association are aiding in the work of registering children under the age of 5 years. Excepting Center township, in which Muncie is situated, each township of the county will have a council of defense. The county council is planning to name five members of each township council. Each council will elect its own officers.

Elkhart County.—Councils of defense have been named in each township of the county as follows: Middlebury township—Ellsworth Varns, Claude E. Shettel, Frank Yoder, Charles Hoover, Harr Bloom, Ben E. Wise, Wesley Troyer, Mrs. Fred Schvin and Mrs. Thomas Hutchinson. Clinton township—John L. Juday, J. W. Hostettler, William B. Barnard, Luther Juday, Carl Garman, E. E. Gary, S. A. Widner and Mrs. John L. Juday. Jackson township—R. A. Reynolds, Miss Opal McCoy, Samuel Welty, James Peters, Charles Swartz, G. C. Tarnan, Harry Keith, Melvin Rohrer, Warren S. Cline, H. M. Fugelsonger, T. J. Juday, Herman Browner and Mrs. Melvin Rohrer. Benton township—James A. Brown, Jesse Juday, Frank Musselman, Harry Leacock, Monrow Ott, Charles Culp, Harry Hapner, Merrill Hire, Charles Preland, Mr. David Holtzinger and Miss Lena Brown. The county council of defense, through George E. Grover, county agricultural agent, has been advised that there are at least 500 places on farms available for men and boys who are desirous of obtaining such employment. S. F. Spohn, former mayor of Goshen, has been appointed by the county council of defense as chairman of a committee on public and industrial improvements. Mr. Spohn will name committeemen and deputies to ascertain whether or not proposed business organizations are necessary at this time. A merchants' organization has recently been perfected in the county with Conrad Ziesel, deputy merchant representative for Elkhart county, at its head.

Fayette County.—Loafers have been ordered to go to work at some useful occupation immediately. Prosecutor E. Ralph Hmelick has ordered all men who are not working arrested. Exempted men of the county are being organized for war work.

Henry County.—Dogs played havoc with the sheep industry in Henry county last year, according to reports of township trustees made by county auditors. A repetition of last year's killing of sheep by dogs will lead to the killing of the dogs, according to county officials. "Why wait until next year to do the killing?" many are asking.

Huntington County.—A petition has been filed with J. M. Scudder, city superintendent of schools of Huntington, asking that the study of German be dropped from the school work. Farmers of the county have asked for 128 boys to work on farms during the summer months.

Lake County.—A branch of the morals committee of the Lake County Council of Defense to assist in the moral uplift of the community has been formed. The membership includes all resident ministers and all other persons who desire to aid in the work. Officers of the organization are John F. Dorman, president; Edward Kileman, vice-president; Mrs. A. W. Ripley, secretary, and Louis Larson, treasurer.

Madison County.—School authorities have ordered that no German be taught in the senior high school next term. The language was ousted from the junior high school this term by the refusal of the students to study the language.

Monroe County.—Fred Matthews has been named chairman of the county council of defense to succeed Joseph E. Hensley, who resigned to become a candidate for joint representative from Brown and Monroe counties. The appointment was made by Judge Robert W. Miers of the circuit court. Mrs. Alice French, state war mother, was the guest of honor at an all-day meeting of the Monroe County War Mothers, April 13th. A strictly Hoover luncheon was served at the Presbyterian church by the women of that church. Of all the good things they served the most notable dish was green beans canned last summer by one of the war mothers, according to a conservation recipe. The beans had kept perfectly. The afternoon was taken up by an excellent program. The singing of Joan of Arc by Master James Regeister will long be remembered. The Bloomington mothers are particularly interested in the teaching of German in the State University. There was a lively discussion on the subject. Every morning at 9 o'clock the Monroe county war mothers spend fifteen minutes in prayer and supplication for our boys and for our country. A wise and effective plan for us all to adopt.

Newton County.—The county council has appropriated $10,000 to form a war chest, out of which contributions to various war relief funds will be paid.

Noble County.—Students and teachers of the Kendallville high school are working on farms in this county on Fridays and Saturdays. When the school term ends they expect to put in their entire time on the farms.

Ohio County.—The following have been named chairmen of township councils of defense: Randolph township, E. A. Anderson; Union township, Asher Johnson; Cass township, Charles Gibbons; Pike township, Albert Tate. Each of these chairmen will appoint the members of their respective township councils.

Scott County.—Paul Fishback has been appointed a member of the County Council of Defense by Judge Creighton of the circuit court.

St. Joseph County.—Members of the St. Joseph County Medical Society have offered their services in carrying out a suggested plan to speed the operation of the draft and to relieve the United States army surgeons of a great deal of work. The plan which proposes that qualified registrants in Class 1 who have correctible physical defects shall be operated on in local hospitals by competent local surgeons, also proposes the community bear part of the expense, the surgeon's services to be donated.

Vigo County.—The drive for enrollments in the United States Boys' Working Reserve is being continued in Vigo county. The enrollment now is over 800.

Wabash County.—New quarters are being sought to house the Commercial Club of Wabash and the county council of defense that their work may be more closely coordinated. The Wabash county council has agreed to permit the keeping of hogs in the city in the interest of food production providing the premises in which the hogs are kept are sanitary.

Whitley County.—The Columbia City common council has passed an ordinance prohibiting dog owners from allowing their dogs to run at large.

We must conquer the whims of our own appetites before we can hope to conquer the German menace.

Learn to control your own appetite before you try to control your neighbor's.

Public Service Reserve

To the Chairmen of the County Councils of Defense of Indiana:

The most important aspect of the work to be done now by the Public Service Reserve in connection with Farm Labor is the stimulation of community effort.

The foregoing quotation is from Mr. Wm. E. Hall, National Director of the United States Public Service Reserve, and is followed by an earnest appeal from the Director to all of his officers, asking them to enlist the man power of all communities in farm work.

In October last the State Council of Defense forwarded to all chairmen a request that they report to the State Council the names of those who were recognized as "war loafers"—parasites consuming more than they produced—it being the purpose of the State Council of Defense to devise some plan to make this liability an asset.

Many of the county chairmen responded to the appeal and we found that there was indeed a big loss of man power in the State on account of these parasites. Later, our Protection Department prepared an ordinance, to be passed by cities and towns, which was intended primarily to punish the "war loafer" and offering a plan whereby he could be put to work. These ordinances were passed by many of the cities and towns in the State, but the State Council has no way of knowing whether this condition is growing better or not, although we are advised that the ordinance proved very effective in several instances and that some communities were greatly benefited in their use of this effective instrument. We, however, are not fully advised as to the present conditions in the state following this agitation and we beg, upon receipt of this bulletin, that you advise us whether, in your judgment, the loafer is still abroad and whether he is a menace and a liability in your community. We want to devise further means and plans to get this man power at work, and in view of the certain shortage in farm labor we want to enlist (or conscript, if it is necessary) all the available labor within the state.

We again quote Mr. Hall:

The essential we aimed at is an organized movement in every community to stand by the Local Farmer. The importance of taking every possible precaution to avoid any loss of crops this year through the lack of labor can not be overemphasized.

A committee of leading men and women should be on the watch in every farming town and section, to see that local farmers are supported in getting the maximum production, and to help the county agricultural agents in making sure that every man who has farming experience and ought to be at work on the farm is working there.

Therefore, please report whether there are any "war loafers" in your community. This report will be turned over to the Protection Committee of the State Council of Defense and means will be taken to place such "war loafers" at work.

It is suggested that the War Loafers' Ordinance be presented to the proper officials in the cities and towns of your county and that they be requested to pass this measure if they have not already done so. We feel that it is certainly not fair to ask patriotic men to make sacrifices in times like these and to give up unessential industries when there is in our communities a lot of parasites who can be best termed as "war loafers."

Very truly yours,

N. E. SQUIBB,

State Director, U. S. Public Service Reserve.

There's lots of money to go around, but bacon and wheat can't make the circuit.

Waste and want are twin sisters and neither is beautiful.

War provides a stage where all may play a part. Are you playing your part by saving food?

The second helping is getting to be bad form.

War Mothers Gather in Second Session

By Unanimous Vote They Move to Affiliate With Women's Activities of Council.

At the meeting of the War Mothers of Indiana in Indianapolis April 11th, it was voted unanimously to work with and under the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense. This is in line with the policy laid down by the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense that all patriotic work be co-ordinated.

Mrs. James P. Goodrich, wife of the governor of the State, welcomed the 400 mothers to the meeting. Mrs. Robert Elliott, secretary of the Friends of German Democracy, told of the aims and purposes of that body. C. V. Stainsby, assistant to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal Food Administrator, developed the plans for the organization of United States Food clubs in every county, township and school district.

"A Mother's Prayer" by Mrs. Jennie Hemphill, of Cannelton, and Mrs. Herbert Adkinson was sung by Miss Goldie Dressler, of Indianapolis. This was followed by voluntary spontaneous reports of what the war mothers are doing in the various counties to help win the war.

M. E. Foley, chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense, made a patriotic address which was followed by a decision to affiliate with and work under the direction of the woman's section of the State Council.

Mrs. Isenhour of Martinsville, chairman of the committee on time and place, reported that the next meeting would be August 15, 1918, in Indianapolis. The Council closed with the singing of a song dedicated to the Marion county war mothers, entitled "Hail to Our Sammie Boys"; words by Mrs. Harry Johnson and music by Mrs. Cora Young Miles, of Indianapolis.

The official war mothers of each county reported various ways of getting money to buy another bond. The Knox county mothers are in the lead at present having made $400 by a soldiers market.

Mrs. A. W. Roach, of Richmond, is the chairman of the ways and means committee. Mrs. Roach asked each official war mother to send at least $1.00 to Mrs. C. B. O'Donnell, 537 Willow street, Vincennes, state financier to buy a State bond.

County historians may communicate their progress to the State historian, Mrs. Myron Williams, 2358 N. Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis.

Following is a list of war mothers, in Indiana, whose state organization has just voted to work with and under the Woman's Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense:

Adams—Mrs. Annie McConnell, Decatur, Ind.
Bartholomew—Mrs. A. W. Mason, Columbus, Ind.
Boone—Mrs. Lillian Comley, Lebanon, Ind.
Brown—Mrs. John F. Bond, Nashville, Ind.
Carroll—Mrs. George Julian, Delphi, Ind.
Carroll—Mrs. J. O. O'Connor, Delphi, Ind.
Clay—Mrs. O. E. Adams, 223 N. Walnut St., Brazil, Ind.
Cass—Mrs. Harry Searight, Logansport, Ind.
Clark—Mrs. Azro Corwin, Sellersburg, Ind.
Clinton—....., Frankfort, Ind.
Crawford—Mrs. Simon Grimes, Leavenworth, Ind.
Davies—Mrs. Rose Nugent, Campbell Ave., Washington, Ind.
Dearborn—Mrs. J. H. Stier, Aurora, Ind.
Decatur—Mrs. Edward Kessing, Greensburg, Ind.
DeKalb—Mrs. B. A. Beyers, Garrett, Ind. (Resigned.)
Delaware—Mrs. F. D. Haimbaugh, 220 W. Adams St., Muncie, Ind.
Dubois—Mrs. Edward Dufendach, Huntingburg, Ind.
Elkhart—Mrs. J. C. Beck, Goshen, Ind.
Elkhart—Mrs. Frank Capps, Nappanee, Ind.
Fayette—Mrs. W. E. Ocheltree, Connersville, Ind.
Floyd—Mrs. J. J. Helck, 1935 Spring St., New Albany, Ind.
Fountain—Mrs. Carrie Cheak, Attica, Ind.
Franklin—Mrs. George Klipple, Brookville, Ind.
Fulton—Mrs. Frank Sterner, Rochester, Ind.
Gibson—Mrs. Jas. R. McGregor, Princeton, Ind.

Grant—Mrs. W. S. Malott, 124 North E St., Marion, Ind.
Greene—Mrs. Hattie Sherwood, Worthington, Ind.
Greene—Mrs. Ol Miller, Bloomfield, Ind.
Hamilton—Mrs. Elizabeth Cottingham, Noblesville, Ind.
Hancock—Mrs. J. R. Laramore, Greenfield, Ind.
Hancock—Mrs. George Morehead, Greenfield, Ind.
Hancock—Mrs. J. P. Black, Greenfield, Ind.
Harrison—Mrs. Nell Hudson Jordan, Corydon, Ind.
Hendricks—....., Danville, Ind.
Henry—Mrs. P. L. Beal, 133 N. 14th St., New-castle, Ind.
Howard—Mrs. C. M. Anderson, 602 Taylor St., Kokomo, Ind.
Huntington—Mrs. Fred H. Bowers, 371 Etha Ave., Huntington, Ind.
Jackson—Mrs. Edwin Verimilya, Brownstown, Ind.
Jasper—Mrs. Chas. W. Hanley, Rensselaer, Ind.
Jay—Mrs. W. H. Breide, Portland, Ind.
Jefferson—Mrs. W. W. Miller, 601 Mulberry St., Madison, Ind.
Jennings—Mrs. A. H. Tripp, North Vernon, Ind.
Johnson—Mrs. E. E. Finkinbiner, Greenwood, Ind.
Knox—Mrs. C. B. O'Donnell, 537 Willow St., Vincennes, Ind.
Kosciusko—Mrs. David Sessig, Warsaw, Ind.
Lagrange—Mrs. H. W. Herbert, Lagrange, Ind.
Lake—Mrs. Frank Gavit, Whiting, Ind.
Laporte—Mrs. Mary W. Shick, 1519 Indiana Ave., Laporte, Ind.
Laporte—Mrs. Edw. C. How, Laporte, Ind.
Lawrence—Mrs. John Owens, Bedford, Ind.
Madison—Mrs. Ernest M. Hill, 608 Jackson St., Anderson, Ind.
Marion—Mrs. D. W. Gillespie, 1331 Central Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.
Marshall—Mrs. E. W. Schrock, Plymouth, Ind.
Martin—Mrs. L. C. Brooks, Loogootee, Ind.
Miami—Mrs. S. F. Porter, Westleigh Farm, R. R. 11, Peru, Ind.
Monroe—Mrs. John O'Harrow, Bloomington, Ind.
Montgomery—Mrs. Thos. B. Nickolson, Crawfordsville, Ind.
Morgan—Mrs. G. M. Isenhower, Martinsville, Ind.
Newton—Mrs. John G. Davis, Kentland, Ind.
Noble—Mrs. Wm. Favinger, Albion, Ind.
Owen—Mrs. N. D. Cox, Spencer, Ind.
Parke—Mrs. George Rohm, Rockville, Ind.
Perry—Mrs. Phillip Schlemmer, Cannelton, Ind.
Pike—Mrs. Enna Chandler, Petersburg, Ind.
Porter—Mrs. M. J. Stinchfield, Valparaiso, Ind.
Posey—Mrs. Herbis Clemments, Mt. Vernon, Ind.
Putnam—Mrs. J. B. Young, Greencastle, Ind.
Randolph—Mrs. John H. Hitchcock, Winchester, Ind.
Ripley—Mrs. George Sparling, R. R. 1, Osgood, Ind.
Rush—Mrs. Jas. Blackledge, Rushville, Ind.
Scott—Mrs. Mary S. Montgomery, Scottsburg, Ind.
Shelby—Mrs. Harvey Morrison, Shelbyville, Ind.
Spencer—Mrs. F. S. Morgentholer, Rockport, Ind.
Starke—Mrs. W. S. Daniel, Knox, Ind.
St. Joseph—Mrs. R. G. Inwood, South Bend, Ind.
Stauben—Mrs. W. D. Wells, Fremont, Ind.
Sullivan—Mrs. Jas. M. Lang, Sullivan, Ind.
Switzerland—Mrs. Harriet G. Welch, R. R. 1, Vevay, Ind.
Tippecanoe—Mrs. C. W. Bone, 140 W. Grant St., W. Lafayette, Ind.
Tipton—Mrs. Lulu Hardy, Tipton, Ind.
Union—Mrs. Aaron Filer, Liberty, Ind.
Vanderburg—Mrs. H. F. McCool, 1001 Linwood, Evansville, Ind.
Vermilion—Mrs. H. V. Nixon, Newport, Ind.
Wabash—Mrs. E. E. Ford, 437 N. Miami St., Wabash, Ind.
Warren—Mrs. Wm. Douglass, R. R., Attica, Ind.
Washington—Mrs. Jerry Jamison, Salem, Ind.
Wayne—Mrs. A. W. Roach, 14th St., Richmond, Ind.
Wells—Mrs. J. D. French, R. R. 2, Bluffton, Ind.
White—Mrs. C. D. Meeker, Monticello, Ind.
Whitley—Mrs. Geo. Isay, Churubusco, Ind.

Every farmer who talks maximum profits instead of maximum production is aiding Germany.

Ask no rest; we have a victory to win.

Educational Week in Indiana is April 22-29

More Than 200 Cities and Towns Will Present to Pupils Importance of Their Remaining in School.

More than 200 Indiana cities and towns will be visited during the week of April 22, which has been designated by Governor James P. Goodrich as educational week, by speakers sent out by the colleges and universities of the State to address high school students on the importance of their staying in school and finishing their courses of study. The campaign is to be under the direction of the speakers' bureau of the Indiana State Council of Defense and the expenses of the speakers are being paid by the schools sending them out.

The proclamation issued by Governor Goodrich designating the week of April 22 as educational week follows:

"When, out of the great northwest, the federal authorities carved the territory of Indiana the sturdy inhabitants of the new commonwealth accepted literally and seriously the judgment of the federal government as it was expressed in the words: 'Religion, Morality and Knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of a free people, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.'

"The century of statehood through which Indiana has just passed has witnessed an unwavering devotion of her people to the correct ideals of education. A wonderful system of public schools has been developed; colleges and universities have been builded; millions of public revenue have been expended; and a wholesome public sentiment for popular education has been created.

"The ready response of Indiana's people to any appeal for the alleviation of suffering and for the perpetuation and extension of the principles of liberty, finds its origin, in a large measure, in the schools of the State. They are the sheet-anchors of our national safety—the cities of refuge to which our republic must fly in days of peril. They are the nation's second line of defense when war's alarms are heard as well as the republic's glory when peace reigns.

"It has been brought to my attention that the Indiana schools propose to inaugurate a campaign of a week's duration with the express purpose of emphasizing the traditional dependence which Indiana has always placed upon education, particularly with the hope that young people of school age, but too young for active service in the army and navy, may be impelled to continue their education—in the elementary schools, in the high schools and in the colleges. The wisdom coming from experience compels my hearty approval of the plan.

"Now, therefore, I, James P. Goodrich, Governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby designate April 22-26, 1918, as educational week.

"I cordially recommend that schools and all other agencies willing to co-operate with the schools shall devote particular attention to the proposed objects to be secured by the campaign."

Food and Ships

"Would you have them want for food, for clothes, for ammunition to answer the German fleet?"

"Would you have them think that you had forgotten them—you in your comfort at home?"

"Would you have the lives of such men unnecessarily sacrificed because you had not concentrated your efforts on the thing that meant most to them?"

"Build, build, and continue to build ships. Make a bridge of ships to Pershing."

MAJOR FREDERICK PALMER,
Chief Censor on General Pershing's Staff.

Cut out non-essentials—we are in a race with a swift antagonist and need no handicap.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 36

Editorial Comment

BRING THE WAR HOME.

If men were being shot down in your front yard; if women and babies were being bayoneted on your main street; if shells were exploding at the railroad station and homes were burning before your eyes—it wouldn't be necessary to appeal to you daily to Help Win the War.

Yet you are at war just as surely as if Indiana were pitted with shell-craters, its clear atmosphere murky with powder smoke and its fertile soil poisoned with gas. The American people at home have to have imagination to win this war. They must bring the war home. They must visualize the fact that they must fight just as much and as effectively as their boys who go to France. They must realize that they are fighting for their national existence daily just as much as the men in the trenches; that the two and a half million Germans facing the allies are facing the United States of America—HERE.

Every time there is a Meatless Day, just imagine there is an American soldier at your door waiting for his daily ration of meat. Every time there is a Wheatless Day, get your imagination busy—picture a French baby with hand outstretched waiting for the bit of bread YOU are to give him.

Don't wait until your boy is maimed or your neighbor's boy is reported among the missing in France. Fight now; fight daily; fight as if you could see the enemy. This isn't the war of armies; it is a war of resources; a war of FOOD. You are on the firing line; SHOOT!

This is your own national state, local war; bring the war HOME.

Attention, County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 137.

April 15, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

From those counties that have not yet sent us this information, we would like to have at once a report on whether the posters entitled "The World Cannot Live Half Slave, Half Free" were duly received from Washington, whether they have all been distributed, and your opinion as to their value. If you have not distributed all of them, you will be conferring a favor in sending them to the State Council as we have numerous requests for them.

If you have distributed all the posters you received and can use more, please let us know the number you desire.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 138.

April 16, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Will you please call the attention of your Legal Advisory Committee to the following communication from the Council of National Defense?

"The Secretary of the Treasury has recently condemned certain claim agents and other persons who have charged and received compensation for services to beneficiaries under the War Risk Insurance Law. The War and Navy Departments and the Council of National Defense also regard this practice as unpatriotic.

"Steps have been taken to check these highly reprehensible activities. The Treasury Department has drafted an amendment which will strengthen the law. The American Bar Association has recently written a letter to the Permanent Legal Advisory Boards, calling upon the lawyers of the country to volunteer their services wherever beneficiaries ask for assistance in presenting their claims to the Government.

"The State Councils of Defense can be of great assistance at this time by making known to the community the fact that gratuitous service is available; and they should give the widest publicity to this service. The Council of National Defense further urges upon the State Councils the desirability of providing, through the legal committees, voluntary aid for the dependents of men in the service in collecting allotments of pay and family allowances, arrears of pay, extra pay, travel pay and other moneys due the estates of deceased soldiers and sailors. Finally, the State Councils of Defense should endeavor to secure the hearty co-operation of their own local legal committees and all other organizations which are undertaking to supply free service to soldiers and sailors and their dependents.

"Allotments and allowances under the War Risk Insurance Law are paid directly by the Treasury Department to the persons entitled thereto; claims for insurance taken out under the law should be addressed to Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.; claims for arrears of pay, extra pay and travel pay of deceased soldiers and sailors and all other claims should be addressed to Auditor of War Department, Washington, D. C. The Departments involved will give applicants full information as to proof required for perfecting claims and will give to all such claims as prompt attention as the activities of the Bureau will permit.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

TO USE POTATOES.

At present there is a large surplus of old potatoes that should be used before the new ones come on the market and the Food Administration asks that all families use more.

Wheat may be saved by using more potatoes in the diet. While they are not of the same food value and do not take the place of bread from the nutritive standpoint, yet when large amounts are consumed less bread will be eaten in the meal. Potatoes can be cooked in various ways. Boiling them in the skins is the method by which most food value is conserved. Potatoes should not be fried or sautéed every day in the home as this uses more fat than is necessary. When using fat for either process, it should be smoking hot so that it will not soak into the potatoes before browning them.

Potatoes may be combined with other foods such as meat, eggs, fish, or vegetables of various kinds and often "one dish meals" may be planned using one of this combination.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics Laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, W. Lafayette, Ind.

Potatoes and Hard Cooked Eggs:

- 2 cups milk.
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch.
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- Salt and pepper.
- 2 cups cold boiled potatoes (diced).
- 1 cup hard cooked eggs (diced).

Make a white sauce of the milk, cornstarch and fat. Place a layer of the potatoes, a layer of white sauce, a layer of eggs, a layer of white sauce, etc., in a baking dish. Bake until heated through and browned over the top.

Potato Au Gratin:

- 2 cups hot or cold mashed potatoes.

½ cup grated cheese.

Combine the cheese and potatoes and reheat in oven. More milk may be added if the mixture is too dry.

Codfish A La Mode:

- 2 cups mashed potatoes.
- ½ cup milk.
- 1 egg (beaten).
- 1 cup codfish (soaked, boiled and shredded).

Combine the above ingredients and brown in the oven.

Potato Croquettes:

Shape cold mashed potatoes into croquettes and roll in slightly beaten egg, and crumbs, and brown in hot oven.

Potato Stuffing:

- 2 cups mashed potatoes.
- 1 egg (beaten).
- 1 small onion (grated).
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- 1 stalk celery, cut fine.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- ½ teaspoon celery salt.
- Pepper.

Mix the ingredients and use in place of ordinary bread stuffing.

Potato Thistle:

Line a dish around the sides with mashed potatoes. Fill with left-over meat well seasoned, and cover the top with mashed potatoes and criss cross with a knife. Put in oven and brown.

Potato Omelet:

- 1 cup mashed potatoes.
- ½ teaspoon pepper.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 3 eggs.
- 3 tablespoons cream.

Add the yolks to the potato and beat until there are no lumps. Season with onion juice and chopped parsley. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Put in a well oiled frying pan and bake in oven until brown. Serve at once.

Some of the Questions at Issue

(Any of the books mentioned below may be borrowed for a short time from the Indiana State Library by any citizen of the State. Persons living in towns where there is a public library should apply through the librarian. Those living on rural routes or in towns having no public library may obtain blanks for regulation from the State Library on request. The only expense is that of transportation.)

Blumenthal, D.—Alsace-Lorraine.

"A study of the relations of the provinces to France and to Germany, and presentations of the just claims of their people." Author is a prominent Alsatian who speaks with authority regarding Germany's treatment of the conquered lands.

Cosmos Pseud.—The Basis of a Durable Peace.

Papers from a "distinguished source," regarding certain of the questions at issue.

Gibbons, H. A.—New Map of Europe, 1911-1914.

A review of many of the problems that have proved to be factors in the war and that will have to be settled, when the war is over.

Gibbons, H. A.—New Map of Africa, 1900-1916.

"Review of colonial development, effort and rivalry of European states in Africa.... issues that the war is bringing into clear light and problems that will confront the Peace Conference."

Gibbons, H. A.—Reconstruction of Poland and the Near East, 1917.

Mr. Gibbons is an excellent writer on war problems for the average reader, as he writes simply and clearly and yet with authority.

Hazen, C. D.—Alsace-Lorraine Under German Rule.

"A complete popular discussion of one of the most important problems of the war."

Woman's Section

The campaign for the registration of women and girls over the age of 16 in Indiana for emergency war work begins April 19. Committees of women in every county in the State organized under the woman's section of the State Council of Defense have charge of the registration, which will continue for ten days. In most counties the census is being taken by districts, registration places having been established in each district. At the end of the ten-day period the registration cards will be gathered together in each county and filed. Information concerning the number of workers in each line will be sent to the State Council of Defense, thus providing a catalogue of all the women in the State who are willing to do emergency war work.

* * * *

The registration of children under the age of 5 years in connection with the child welfare work of "children's year," which began April 6, and during which it is the purpose of the child welfare committee of the woman's section of the Council of National Defense to save the lives of 100,000 children, is progressing satisfactorily in Indiana. The work for the State is under the direction of Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon of Evansville.

In most counties clinics have been established and physicians and registered nurses are aiding in the work of weighing and measuring the babies. The registration will continue for sixty days during which it is the purpose of those in charge to list every baby in the State and to give parents information concerning the welfare of their children. In Indianapolis and Evansville, clinics already established have charge of the work.

* * * *

Captain R. Hugh Knyvett, late of the Anzac scouts, whose address was one of the features of the conference of women with Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, of the Woman's section, in Indianapolis, in November, died April 15, in New York, of tuberculosis. Captain Knyvett was one of the most effective of the war lecturers sent to this country from abroad. During a scouting expedition along the Somme he sustained twenty wounds from German shell fire.

* * * *

BULLETIN No. 46.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 12, 1918.

To the County Chairman of Women in Industry:

My Dear Co-Worker—It is now just one year since our country entered the war on the side of the Allies, and it has for some time been evident that a census of the woman power of the United States is necessary in order that our Government may know to what extent the women may be depended upon if an emergency arises. Our Allies went into the war without a mobilization of their women, and when the needs arose requiring women, as they did almost immediately, each separate need had to be handled as a problem and a search made for the woman to assume it. The United States in taking a war census of its women is providing the women before the need arises.

It is just as important for the government to know what per cent. of its women cannot be counted upon for war service as to know that several million can, which makes it necessary that every woman over 16 years of age be registered.

I feel sure that every woman in industry stands firmly back of her government, and will signify this by registering on April 19th or during the ten days following.

If in your locality there are factories employing women in the manufacture of garments for soldiers, I think it would be well for you to visit these factories and ascertain whether they are clean and sanitary and the working conditions are good.

I will be pleased to hear from you as to conditions in your locality, and to assist you whenever possible.

Very truly yours,

MABEL MANY,

State Chairman, Women in Industry.

BULLETIN No. 47.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 13, 1918.

To the County Chairman of the Registration Committee:

Our women throughout the counties have responded so well that we are most enthusiastic about the coming registration. We sincerely appreciate the good work you have done, and as a result of this work we feel sure of a complete registration.

The first of the coming week we will send you some handbills to be distributed, also a few large posters to be placed in the most prominent places.

A few of our County Chairmen of Registration seem not to have been informed in regard to the 10-cent fee. On March 19th we issued Bulletin No. 39 in which we stated that it had been definitely decided not to ask a voluntary fee of 10 cents at the coming registration, and that you would, therefore, not accept this fee in any case. This Bulletin also stated that since many of our Chairmen of Registration are of the opinion that it would be well to have a button which could be worn by every woman who registers, we had taken the matter up with the National Committee and found that they were getting out such a button. If this bulletin has not been passed on to you, kindly consult your Chairman of the Woman's Section.

Equipment.—Where you have booths, make them attractive and businesslike in appearance. Have plenty of chairs, pencils and pads; filing box or tray for cards, blotters, clips and pins. Have ink and fine point pens (Spencerian No. 1), as ink must be used when filling out the cards. In order to save time and not waste the cards, make notes on a piece of paper and when you are sure you have the correct information put it on the card.

Filing.—Registrars do not cut the tabs at the time they make the registrations. The filing clerks before filing the cards compare the tabs with the information on the card to see if they agree, then cut off the tabs not used. The cards are to be filed alphabetically according to the last name of the woman.

Filing cases can be procured from your local dealers or from one of the dealers in Indianapolis. We have inquired here and have the following approximate prices:

Two-drawer file .....$3.50
Four-drawer file ..... 6.75
Six-drawer file .....10.00

To these prices add 44 cents for each drawer for index cards. One drawer will hold approximately 650 cards.

These files are made of fiber, the wooden files are approximately $3.00 higher.

If you cannot procure these files locally, we will assist you in securing them from here.

Our supply of registration cards is exhausted. However, we have more on the way from New York, and will send your supply as soon as they are received. If you need more cards send us your order.

The following inquiries have come to us, and since others may have the same questions put to them, we will answer them in this bulletin rather than individually.

How register a young girl who stays at home and helps her mother? Give her the next number under Domestic, No. 47, and register her as "mother's helper." "Present occupation," mark "Mother's helper" and on the Domestic tab mark 47. If she does not offer service in this mark the tab with a line above the 47.

If a woman's present occupation in which she does not offer service and the service offered both fall under the same classification, how shall they be tabulated? Example: Mrs. B's present occupation is Housekeeper No. 33 in which she does not offer service, but she does offer service in the care of children No. 30.

Mark the Domestic tab:

T 33

U 30-P (or V if the Service is volunteer)

If her present occupation is Housekeeper No. 33 and she wishes training in Practical nursing, No. 37, mark the tab:

T 33

U 37

The absence of the line above the 37, and the P or V at the side of the number indicates that training is wanted. Where training is wanted, the number alone is put on the tab.

If a woman desires training in Surgical Dressings, No. 150, and offers her untrained services in making surgical dressings, give her the next number under Red Cross and Allied Relief, No. 155, and market the tab: T 150

U 155-V

Trained nurse has been omitted from the card. To register this occupation take the next number under Professional, No. 107, Trained nurse.

To mark the tab for a woman who has had experience or training in several numbers under one heading, as under Agricultural Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 5, take the number of her highest training and put on tab with a plus mark as:

T 2+P

U

If we have not covered all the points about which there is doubt, please write us.

Very truly yours,

JULIA E. LANDERS,

Chairman Registration for Woman's Service.

* * * *

BULLETIN NO. 48.

Evansville, Ind., April 12, 1918.

To the County Chairmen of the Child Welfare Committee:

Herewith we are sending you some of the blanks promised. It is the best we can do. We have received only a small number and are dividing them among the counties. We have word from Washington that the government presses are congested and that more cards will be sent just as soon as possible.

This is very uncertain. No one can promise just when the cards will be sent. I am much distressed by the delay on account of the fine preparation made by many of our counties and their eagerness to get the work fairly over before hot weather. Of course, this means that the delay asked by some counties will be unavoidable. You will do your very best, I know, for all reasons.

My greatest apprehension is on account of holding back our teams of women workers, who are all ready, enthusiastic, and who want to begin at once. We cannot afford to have their enthusiasm and energy dissipated, and their ardor dampened. For this reason we are suggesting that you give one of the blanks to each chairman of a team who will examine the children, or, to each school team, and that the data be noted down on blank cards or slips of paper. This is being done in a number of counties and is recommended by some of our State experts, who have done such work before.

They say that to get the best results we ought to keep our own records for follow-up work. The government blanks are in two parts, one for the mother, one to be returned to Washington. Some counties say they want to make records to keep, even if they had plenty of blanks for each child. Vanderburg and Marion counties, with large populations, are doing this.

Please notice that, no matter when the blanks come, they can be filled out from your record slips or cards, by a clerk, or group of workers, at their leisure.

Some counties are having multiform copies made of the questions. Others will simply, for economy, write as they go. If the first is done, use the questions on the lower half of the card (in large print), adding "Height.... av. for age," and weight.... av. for age" to be filled in with "below," "above," or "equal."

If you prefer to write as you go we suggest you lay a printed blank before you and abbreviate as follows:

Name .....
Address .....
Birth registered (or not registered) .....
Born (date) .....
Father b. .... White (or black, etc) .....
Mother b. .... White (or black) .....
Date examined ..... Male (or female) .....
Height ..... in. .... average for age .....
Weight ..... lbs. .... oz. .... average for age .....
Apparently healthy and free from serious defect. .
Remarks .....
Signature .....

Counties that have done such work before say it means a saving of infant life, and are most enthusiastic about it. I cannot sufficiently express my appreciation of the splendid spirit and efficient work of some of our counties.

I have written again for literature to be sent direct to each county. The rest of the blanks are to go direct to each county from Washington.

On May 9 Miss Julia Lathrop will be in Indianapolis for a State child welfare conference. We want you to be there at our conference and our luncheon, and expect fine reports.

Yours cordially,

ALBION FELLOWS BACON,
Chairman Child Welfare Dept., Woman's Section.

Red Cross Activities

The big German drive has created a new refugee problem for Paris and for American Red Cross workers in France, according to a statement in the March report of the Red Cross Department of Military Affairs in France.

* * * *

Shortly after the German offensive started, the American Red Cross field kitchen was dispatched to the front and fed more than 75,000 refugees and soldiers.

* * * *

The American Red Cross has thirty canteens now in operation near the front line trenches. In addition to hot drinks and other refreshments the canteens are providing pencils, paper, envelopes, safety pins, bandages, iodine and sewing kits.

* * * *

The Red Cross in March delivered the first lot of trench bags. A trench bag is used for wounded men when it is impossible to get such men out of the trenches, where they may have to remain several hours without medical attention. The bags contain such food as cocoa, coffee, condensed milk, and such articles as scissors, electric torches, candles, matches, insect powder, feeding spoons, "Tommy" cookers, and Greeley hypodermic units.

* * * *

Captured American soldiers arriving in German prison camps will find American Red Cross emergency food parcels awaiting them, if arrangements already in operation can be carried out. There are approximately 200 prison camps in Germany and some 10,000 prison groups, counting the small detachments of prisoners sent out to do farm work.

* * * *

James R. Garfield, manager of the Lake division of the Red Cross, has contradicted the rumor that an order had been sent out from Red Cross headquarters prohibiting the inclusion of testaments in comfort kits.

War Text Book is Lauded

Favorable comment on the Indiana War Service Text Books for high schools recently issued by the State Board of Education and the State Council of Defense comes from Elliott Dunlap Smith, member of the State's section of the Council of National Defense, and from W. A. L. Bazeley, assistant executive manager of the Massachusetts committee on public safety. The following letter was written to Mr. Smith by Mr. Bazeley upon receipt of a letter stating that a copy of the book was being sent him:

"Yours of March 15, stating that you are sending a copy of the Indiana State Council War Service Text Book for high schools, received. We already have a copy, but I am very glad to get hold of an additional one, as it is the best thing we have seen to date."

Mr. Smith forwarded a copy of the letter to the State Council of Defense with the following comment:

"I wish to call to your attention the enclosed letter from Massachusetts in regard to your War Service Text Books for high schools and to congratulate you myself on this book."

The only legitimate "con game" is the conservation game.

Food Administration

Dating from April 14 Victory bread must consist of 25 per cent. of wheat flour substitute. This is an increase of substitute of 5 per cent. The Food Administration will tolerate no departure from this ruling, Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, declares.

The substitute content of all bread and rolls must be increased from 20 per cent. requirement to 25 per cent.

Under the baking rules issued February 1 bread and rolls were the only bakery products that required wheat flour substitutes, unless those products were called "Victory" cakes, "Victory" pies, etc. Under the new amendments and additions all bakery products must contain a certain percentage of wheat flour substitutes. The substitute content hereafter required in the various products follow:

Sweet yeast dough goods, 33 1-3 per cent.; crackers, 15 per cent.; cookies and ice cream cones, 33 1-3 per cent.; cakes, 33 1-3 per cent.; pies, 33 1-3 per cent.; fried cakes, 33 1-3 per cent.; pastry, 33 1-3 per cent.; batter cakes, waffles, quick breads—such as muffins and Boston brown bread, 66 2-3 per cent.

Under the new rules no public eating place may serve more than two ounces of bread and rolls of more than four ounces of quick bread to any one person at any one meal.

With customers who buy loaf bread bakers are urged to promote the use of the three-quarter pound loaf, following the Food Administration's request that the twelve-ounce loaf be used where the sixteen-ounce loaf was used before.

Bakers are urged to introduce "quick breads" as a wheat-saving measure. These quick breads, including muffins, baking powder biscuits, corn bread, Boston brown bread, griddle cakes and waffles, must contain two-thirds wheat flour substitutes.

The use of the words "milk" or "cream" on wrappers and labels is no longer prohibited, but milk bread must still be sold at the same price as bread made without milk.

* * * *

Substitutes recognized by the Federal Food Administration which may be sold pound for pound with wheat flour, announced by Dr. Barnard, federal food administrator, are as follows:

Corn meal, corn starch (edible), corn flour, hominy, corn grits, barley flour, rice, rice flour, oatmeal, rolled oats, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour, feterite flours and meals.

Nothing may be added or taken away from this list without the express permission of the Food Administration, Dr. Barnard says.

The question whether any private brand goods constitute a substitute may be determined by the test, "Is this commodity by nature exclusively one of the commodities found in the official list of substitutes and not a mixture of any kind or description?" If so, it may be considered a substitute. If in its entirety it is not by nature one of the commodities in the list, it may not be used as a substitute.

To illustrate: "Quaker oats" is a legitimate substitute, because it is rolled oats, and this brand or any other brand of rolled oats would come within the classification. On the other hand, corn flakes is not a substitute because it is neither corn meal, corn flour, edible corn starch, hominy or corn grits and is not found in the list.

Pancake flour made from buckwheat or other cereals is not a substitute. It must be sold in accordance with the mixed flour ruling. Neither is puffed rice, health bran, cream of barley, peanut flour, rice polish, fruited oats, rye crisp, flaked rice or other rye product or any mixed cereal product.

* * * *

The rule prohibiting licensed dealers from dealing in live or freshly killed hens between February 11 and April 30 has been amended to end at midnight April 19. This order supersedes and cancels the order prohibiting the buying and selling of live or freshly killed hens.

The amount of the cost price of a loaf of bread between the wheat producer and the bread consumer is strikingly shown in a recent compilation by the Food Administration, covering the period from 1913 to the present time. In 1913 but 26 per cent. of the cost of the loaf of bread to the consumer went to the farmer as compared with 45 per cent. at the present time. In 1913, 68 per cent. of the price of bread was added after the flour left the mill door, as compared with 49 per cent. at the present time.

The table presented herewith is a striking illustration of the benefits derived by both the producer and the consumer through the control of wheat and wheat products:

Year	Farmer received for wheat	Miller added to cost	Added between flour at mill and bread on consumer's table
1913	26%	6%	68%
1914	28%	6%	66%
1915	30%	11%	59%
1916	31%	8%	61%
1917 (First half)	38%	14%	48%
1917 (Second half)	41%	7%	52%
1918	45%	6%	49%

Lack of a book-keeping and accounting system has disqualified Ziliak & Schafer Co., of Haubstadt, Gibson county, of their legal right to continue in the milling business. An order issued by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal Food Administrator for Indiana, suspends the firm's license until such time as they have installed a system whereby the agents of the federal Government may establish their conformity to the food regulations as applied to the business of milling.

* * * *

CENSUS OF THRESHING OUTFITS.

County agents and emergency demonstration agents throughout the State have been requested by the committee on food production and conservation of the State Council of Defense to take a census of all threshing outfits in the State. The request has been made for the purpose of aiding the federal department of agriculture which contemplates a supervision and inspection campaign in the interest of saving grain. The committee asks the agents to obtain the information from their county assessors or threshermen's organization.

* * * *

REAL ESTATE SLACKERS.

G. I. Christie, of the food production and conservation committee of the State Council of Defense, has asked garden committees and supervisors of the State to investigate reports that exorbitant rentals are being charged by lot owners for the use of their lots as patriotic gardens and to take steps to stop this practice. Mr. Christie in his communication states that garden work is seriously handicapped in some parts of the State by this practice. In some communities, he says, real estate associations are encouraging the practice of charging high rentals for vacant lots.

Warning Against Swindle Being Perpetrated Upon the Parents of Soldiers.

War Department,
Washington, April 6, 1918.

It is believed that publicity should be given to the following described swindle, which is being perpetrated successfully upon the parents of soldiers in various camps.

A telegram is sent informing that the soldier has a furlough and requesting funds by wire to come home, waiving identification. The rest is a mere matter of detail.

Parents and friends should be warned of this game and of the similar one where the telegraphic request is to mail money to the soldier care general delivery.

Respectfully,

R. H. VAN DEMAN,
Colonel, General Staff, Chief, Military Intelligence Bureau, Executive Division.

By W. C. SMILEY,
Captain, National Army.

A good citizen is known by the food he eats.

Greatest Possible Disaster for Americans of German Descent Would Follow Hun Victory

(By Richard Lieber, before Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce.)

"For many years it has been my wont to come within these walls to listen to discussion of public questions or to consider with my fellow-citizens matters of common interest and of common good.

"From fire protection to the creation of public parks or from trade association matters to the support of the official labors of friend Lew Shank, there was always a vast and yielding field of service. Like everybody else I was given the great privilege to participate and I rejoice in the realization that I live in a country where my participation in all of its affairs—great or little—is only bound by the limitations of my physical or intellectual capacity.

"To me the joy of living consists in this opportunity and it would end with a denial thereof.

"That, my friends, is the difference between a citizen and a subject, and there is the line of cleavage between the land of my birth and the land of my choice.

"Tonight I have been asked to speak on the momentous questions of the day and, remembering gratefully rights and privileges enjoyed I shall address myself to the duties inherent in this enviable appellation, American citizen.

"Whatever may be our opinion of the particular methods advocated by the principal speaker of the evening, we all are at least agreed that we must have responsible people in Germany to deal with; that the German people must find their own form of democracy by putting into power representatives of the people, responsible to the people, for the burden put upon the people must of necessity be borne by them.

"But in the meantime what are our duties here at home?

"Rich, prodigally rich America seldom had to teach her sons the meaning of the word duty. But another call has come and today 'the path of duty is the way to glory.'

"These duties should be shouldered like a holy load by a united people; united in every purpose, united in a national crucible glowing in the white heat of sublimated all-American fervor and deathless determination to teach our enemies that a nation has arisen in its unconquerable might—not a conglomerate of races, but a united people, devoted to its noble traditions and tied together by an undying faith and love in its own country's institutions.

"It has been said that we are in this war for a principle, but not for territorial acquisitions such as have invariably been the sequence of war in other parts. After all that has been unearthed of the evil designs of the imperial German government I hold that we are clearly in a war of defense of our national principles and ideals. Nay, that we are in a war for our native institutional existence. And this war victoriously ended will gain us more than the value of territory; it will weld together the best that has been carried into the land for centuries by all races; it will expel the dross and slag. The melting pot will have done its work.

"We got into this war to maintain ourselves. It is true that our political sympathies—or better still our institutional instinct—drew us to the side of the allies (forgetting even Russia), but a break with imperial Germany would not have occurred had it not been made inevitable by an insolence and studied contempt on the part of its military masters hitherto unknown in human history.

"I am the last to believe that everything is light and sweetness on the side of the allies, but how did we citizens of German descent feel when we discovered that behind this brutal arrogance and stalking effrontery there crouched something still baser and viler, something that none of us would have thought possible—for it does not belong in the German makeup as we knew it—namely, deception, fraud, duplicity and cunning?

"We of German extraction have always taken pride in being truthful, dependable, reliable and sincere. To deserve this reputation in our new home has almost been a mania with our people, and I believe I can fairly leave it to the people at large whether the German in this country has not enjoyed the esteem and confidence of his neighbor in all of his private or business dealings.

"He simply could not believe that his kin across the water should be different from him. Hadn't his father and mother, his teacher and his preacher taught him honestly by precept and example? And when he turned away from the old home and it came to a last parting from mother, did she not beg him to stay clean and upright and honorable?

"I am not pleading for sympathy, my friends, I am only glad that a mother's blessing and prayer has borne fruit in her son's new home, but it was this artlessness that made him slow to perceive the diabolical plotting and the depth of depravity of official Germany.

"The Bernstorffs, Luxburgs, Zimmermans, Boy-Ed, Von Papen, Igel and all the rest of the cademons, compared with whom a Richelieu and Metternich are meaningless and gentle adumbrations in the gentle art of villainy and treachery—these men are the most loathsome enemies of mine because they have cast for a time a sinister shadow over millions of loyal and thoroughly dependable citizens of German stock.

"They have abused our country's hospitality, they have plotted, planned and schemed against their host, and in our case they have added another one to their long list of crimes, they have tried to arraign us as helots by playing on natural sympathies and kindly memories.

"But that is not all. Bernstorff and his culls were sent home. A few others are put behind prison bars.

"Those are the ones who were caught. What about the others? Is there any reason to think that we have rid ourselves of the execrable blood? Certainly not. And I hold it therefore to be the bounden duty of every citizen of German extraction on account of the danger of being confounded with one of these catiffs to take a clear and outspoken stand on the side where I know they want to be counted, namely on the side of their chosen country, not halfheartedly, but wholeheartedly, not in the rear or to the side, but in the van.

"Who do you think in Germany is the worst hated enemy next to the English?

"The German-American.

"And why?

"Because he 'betrayed' the German cause in America.

"Read what the Deutsche Zeitung, of Mexico, demanded editorially in the fall of 1916. 'He [the President] will not dare to declare war. A war policy should be opposed with all means at command. If necessary barricades should go up in the cities.'

"Is that plain?

"Have you done that? No you haven't. And you never thought of such a thing. But you have been found wanting by the military masters of Germany who thought they could dispose of you according to their needs.

"The truth of the matter is that the German who had left his home always looked back at it with tender thoughts. His attachment to Germany was not political, but purely sentimental—much as a New York business man born in Indiana would feel about the old farm in Hoosierland. Not that he would go back to it, but he didn't like to have mean things said about it.

"But in Germany this feeling was never reciprocated. In the first place America was the proper place for 'derailed existences, like he,' and secondly the country has no use for one expatriated.

"Since the Samoa incident—says Baron von Polenz—we know on what side the German-American would fight, viz., on the side of the country to which he has sworn 'fealty.' On which subject Dr. Paul Rohrbach expressed the sour grape thought: 'To Germany the German-American is lost, for he most generally belongs to a culturally low stratum.'

"But perhaps it would not take much culture to erect barricades. Besides that an uncultured person should be grateful when he is given the glorious opportunity to die as a traitor, serving in somebody else's cause.

"That was the only way in which the German-American could have redeemed himself; not entirely, of course, but in part.

"A German victory under the circumstances on top of all other things would be the greatest disaster to the German-American.

"That one fact should be clearly recognized by all of us, and it is incidentally the point where self-preservation and patriotism converge.

"Today the German-American is under a cloud of suspicion. He feels that keenly because it is undeserved and unjust. Officially he is told that the fight is against the kaiser and not the German people but unofficially the German-American is arrayed on the kaiser's side. Of course this horrible misunderstanding must be cleared up and it will be. For the American has too much sense of fair play and humor and the German-American too much inherent devotion to his adopted country to persist in a parlous situation which impairs the unity of our people.

"I propose that we German-Americans take the lead. That we come out of the distant haze of passivity. That we be within reach, as we are within call.

"In the deep agony of the German-American heart that he must fight also those near and dear to him—when blood relatives meet on battle fields—let us remember that brother arose against brother when the holy cause of the Union was in danger. And let us now and never forget that our neighbor's ancestors of Anglo-American stock twice took up the sword against home and brother 'when in the course of human events'—as that majestic document tells us—it became necessary for one people to dissolve the (political) bonds which have connected them with another.'

"Let us remember what my illustrious namesake Dr. Franz Lieber has said of our destiny and our duties:

"We belong to that tribe which alone has the word self-government. We belong to that nation whose great lot is to be placed, with the full inheritance of freedom, on the freshest soil in the noblest site between Europe and Asia a nation young whose kindred countries powerful in wealth, armies and intellect, are old. These are the reasons why it is incumbent upon every American again and again to present to his mind what his own liberty is (and) how he must guard and maintain it.'

"My friends, I am pleading for this understanding in unity, I am pleading for singleness of purpose and for wholehearted action. I am pleading for a mutually better understanding.

"This great, wonderful country of ours has given us all we are. While we have faithfully done our part in upbuilding it, yet it has always yielded more than we gave. Today this country, the mother of us all, cries out to her sons and daughters for succor. To arms. To arms!

"I see before me the gloriously vast continent stirring in new and untried work. From the mountainsides, over the prairies, from Plymouth Rock and Cape Hatteras to the Golden Gate and to northland Alaska, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, comes the response. In camps, in factories, in offices, in the fields as in the bowels of the earth, in city and village, the nation is tuning up like a huge, a gigantic orchestra, until soon from more than 100,000,000 voices a choral will rise up resounding over all the world. Men, women, children, yea, the very mountains, rivers, lakes and prairies and the thunder of two oceans will intonate the soaring anthem:

'My Country, 'tis of Thee'

"The time has gone by when we could be cosmopolitan, the day for sentimental retrospection is past. Over the turmoil of the battle a new day is breaking with new problems and new responsibilities. But in order to solve what will be before us our thoughts now must be those of the partisan-patriot. Selfish and one-sided—Websterian in spirit, of 'Our country, our whole country and nothing but our country.'

"Paraphrasing another exalted expression of Franz Lieber that it be my duty to serve my country to which I bow as the one great thing above me and all others, so let it be:

The union of lakes—the union of lakes—

The union of states none can sever,

The union of hearts—the union of hands,

And the flag of the union forever."

Maine Reserve Head Tells of Boys' Camps

Indiana Advisory Committee Hears How One State Solves Farm Labor Problem.

Jefferson C. Smith, federal State director of the United States Boys' Working Reserve of Waterville, Maine, who is the originator of the semi-agricultural-military training camp idea, presented facts and figures concerning the work of the camps to the State advisory committee of the Indiana Boys' Working Reserve after the regular State Council of Defense meeting on April 17.

At the camp near Waterville, Maine, last year, 650 boys, "uniformed and working under strict military discipline, acquired enough knowledge of the rudiments of agricultural work in a two weeks' course to enable them to render effective service on farms during the entire summer.

These boys were sent to harness horses, hitch and drive teams, the use of agricultural machinery and implements and, as Mr. Smith expressed it, "were made familiar with those essentials which enable a boy to hold a farm job long enough to learn by actual experience how to get by." In addition to agricultural training two hours of military drill were given every day and as the governor of Maine expressed it, the State of Maine got every dollar back of the $42,000 spent last season from the beneficial results of the military drill alone.

As is true in most other States, the farmers were skeptical at first but their attitude was entirely changed after the boys were given a fair trial. Almost without exception, each one of the boys will return to the same farm this summer on which he worked last year.

The boys were placed upon a strict military basis, being paid one dollar a day by the State of Maine, the farmers in turn paying an equal amount to the State treasurer for the boy's services.

Of the 650 boys receiving this preliminary training in the camp, all but six worked throughout the entire summer or until October 1st. Mr. Smith states that in Maine they consider the Boys' Working Reserve the crystallization of a real "back to the farm" movement and that the test of any plan of this kind is not the dollars and cents involved but the test of whether it is worth while in its relation to winning the war. The experience in Maine emphatically gives an affirmative answer to this question.

At the close of the meeting, a committee of five consisting of W. H. Latta, Stanley Coulter, T. F. Fitzgibbon, J. G. Collicott and Geo. Buck, was appointed to prepare a definite program and plan for a camp in Indiana this year to be presented to the State Council of Defense for consideration and action.

Food-Saving Messages in Your Letters.

There is a distinct channel for food-saving publicity in correspondence. The Postoffice Department is now using canceling stamps with the words "Food Will Win the War—Don't Waste It." As a method by which everybody may co-operate, H. J. Titus, superintendent of the dining-car service of the Northern Pacific Railway, uses a rubber stamp at the bottom of each letter sent out, with the following message:

If each home saves one ounce of meat daily it means 465,000,000 pounds annually.

One slice of bread, 365,000,000 loaves annually. One piece of butter, 114,000,000 pounds annually.

One cup of milk, 912,000,000 quarts, or the product of 400,000 cows annually.

A Full List of "Substitutes."

The word "supplements" is used instead of "substitutes" by the Hotel Gazette in the following complete list of articles that may be used instead of those which we are asked to economize in food saving:

I. WHEAT (WHITE FLOUR).

Corn meal, white and yellow, oatmeal, rye, buckwheat, barley, whole wheat, Graham flour, potatoes, rice, sweet potato, soy beans, peanut, kafir, corn flour, cotton seed.

Practically all vegetables and fruits, particularly bananas, beets, corn, peas and beans may be used to supply the necessary starchy materials, i. e., energy food, in the diet and as a supplement or substitute for wheat bread.

II. MEAT (BEEF, PORK AND MUTTON).

The following foods are perfect substitutes for meat protein: Poultry, eggs, game, fish (possible exception of shell fish), skim milk, cottage cheese, American cheese.

The following vegetable protein foods may be considered in the light of supplements or partial substitutes for meat—all legumes: Peas, beans (navy, Lima, soy, kidney and Bramilian beans), lentils, peanuts.

III. FAT (LARD AND BUTTER).

Vegetable Fats—Commercial hardened oils, cottonseed oil, corn oil, peanut oil, olive oil, sesame oil, commercial nut margarines.

Animal Fats—Oleomargarine.

Clarified meat drippings and the fat of all poultry.

The following foods contain from 20 to 70 per cent. fat and are given in the order of their fat contents: Nuts, 70 to 54 per cent. (meats); coconut, chocolate, whipping cream, American cheese, cream cheese, egg yolk, cocoa, olives, soy beans.

IV. SUGAR (WHITE).

Brown sugar, corn syrups (white, golden and maple flavored), cane syrups, maple sugar, honey and all dried fruits may be used as substitutes or supplements to sugar.

Groceries Minus Gambling.

"A year ago, when we were at peace with the world, I saw the grocers of New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore mobbed, and their goods taken away without any compensation. The speculator and gambler in foods were the cause of all the trouble. Most of them were rank outsiders, and in no way connected with the grocery business. They had cornered enough of our food supply to raise the rest away beyond the reach of the poor, and they were fighting for bread. Owing to the war, the demand for food is twice as great now as it was a year ago, and yet no grocer has been mobbed and robbed in broad daylight, simply because Herbert Hoover has smoked the food gambler out of business. The food gambler in the past has recognized neither God, man, nor the Kaiser, and it is certainly a pleasure now to see him get down on all fours for Herbert Hoover."—National Grocers' Bulletin.

The Test of Citizenship.

The test of our citizenship is the test of our love of God. For have we not been enjoined to love our neighbor—that we must love one another? And loving one another we must serve one another.

It has been frequently said that the church should not raise a voice in the matters of the strife of our existence. It has been stated that we should raise our voice in the sanctuary. But does not the Savior teach us that man's life is a continual warfare? Did he not teach us that life is a battle for truth—that the forces of evil are aligned against the forces of good, and that we must select our own places and that on whatever side we are that it shall be an endless conflict?

The boys who have gone out to fight for our great principle must have something to sustain them. They must have the power of our support, our prayers and our help. They know they have a just and right cause, and with this spiritual aid they sleep peacefully on the field of battle, while a hail of missiles pass over them. They face death bravely, because of this great principle."—Bishop Joseph Bush.

English Language Preferred Medium

For Teaching of All Subjects in Public Schools, Educational Section Agrees.

Approval of proposed legislation requiring the teaching of all subjects in schools through the medium of the English language and requiring the inspection of all public, private and parochial schools was expressed by members of the educational section of the State Council of Defense at a meeting in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction on April 16. A resolution was passed asking that a committee of five be appointed by the chairman to approve, disapprove or initiate proposed war legislation concerning the public schools to be presented at the next special or regular session of the state legislature. Members of the committee have not yet been named.

William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University, emphasized the importance of training men for the needs of the government, at the present time, and he advocated the continuation of the schools upon their present basis. It was stated that there is a danger of a scarcity of teachers, especially teachers of French and Spanish, which are in demand to replace German teachers.

At a meeting at the Claypool hotel in the evening H. E. Miles explained in detail plans for emergency training for war service work in factories and approval of the plan was expressed. A motion was passed creating a committee of fifteen to have charge of the work in the State. The committee is to be composed of five representatives of labor, five employers and five educators.

Follow Directions.

Everyone must help if we are to win. The soldier must obey orders or there will be no army. The people must be one or there will be no nation. So that we win, all of us must follow directions.

This is Your War guide for use in Your home. It tells you what foods we must save to provision ourselves and our allies; it tells how we can stretch our supplies so everyone will have enough—without any hurt to your health or your strength.

Your Government does not ask you to give up three square meals a day—nor even one. All it asks is that you eat less of the foods we need to keep the armies going and eat all you want of the other things that we have in plenty.

Eat plenty—keep up your strength and your vim to help win the war. You have dedicated to the Nation everything that you have; you are asked now to give up—just some habits of the kitchen and table.

America and her allies must not run out of Wheat, Meat, or Fats. If we let that happen, Germany will win the war.

We must save Sugar, use every drop of Milk, and—we must learn to Follow Directions.

"If We Could Only Know."

Said a gentleman in the audience to a food-conservation speaker in the quiz period, "If there were only some way by which we could know, when we do not buy meat or sugar or eat white bread, that we were really helping to get that much-needed food to the soldiers or the allies there would be no trouble about getting the people to substitute and save."

Well, according to the statement made by the Food Administrator, that can be known practically. For instance, he says, "Every grain of wheat and every ounce of flour and bread saved now is exactly that amount supplied to some man, woman and child among the allies."

Of course it is not altogether easy to visualize, but the logic is clear enough. If you do not buy the retailer cannot sell to you, and the less he sells the less he will buy of the wholesaler, and the more the wholesaler and producer will have to sell to the allies and to our government for the soldiers.

Each one therefore may count his help direct; and it is essential.

The threat is against us and our children. The attack is on our commerce and institutions. Germany intends we shall do her will, not our own. These are sober facts.
—WILLIAM C. REDFIELD, Secretary of Commerce.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., APRIL 26, 1918

Number 37

Coal Shortage Certain Unless Orders Follow

Will J. Freeman Presents Statement in Support of Formal Appeal to Indiana People.

A resolution calling on the people of Indiana to place orders for their supply of coal for next winter as soon as possible, to prevent a recurrence of the hardships suffered last winter because of the inability of consumers to obtain coal, was introduced by Will J. Freeman and passed by the Council. The resolution follows:

Whereas, During the past winter great physical hardship and financial loss was entailed on account of a shortage of coal because of the inability of carriers to furnish cars and transportation, and

Whereas, Such disabilities still exist and will continue throughout the coming season, therefore be it

Resolved, That this Council does hereby advise and request that every consumer of coal, either steam or domestic, immediately make such arrangements for buying and storing of coal as will take care of his requirements during the next winter.

In support of the resolution Mr. Freeman presented the following statement:

"I would like to call attention of the Council to the great danger that the public will be confronted next winter with a repetition of the hardships caused last winter on account of coal shortage, to the end that this Council take such action that will give warning and advise all consumers to make every possible effort to lay in coal while it is available this spring and summer.

"There seems to be a disposition to forget that it was impossible to obtain coal at times last winter, and that such condition can exist again next winter. It is not only possible for such condition to again obtain, but it is absolutely certain to be as bad or worse than it was last winter, barring of course that weather conditions might not be so severe.

"The transportation situation seems to be growing steadily worse, as the railroads serving Indiana mines furnished during the month of March less cars for loading than they furnished during the month of January when the severe blizzard condition prevailed.

"There is absolutely only one way to avoid the grief and hardships of a coal famine and that is for every consumer that is financially able to immediately, without delay, make such arrangements as possible to get coal in storage during the next four months. Not only must a large amount go into storage during these months, but it must do it gradually and evenly. It can only be done gradually by everybody starting right now to place their orders and then take the coal just as soon as the orders can be filled. This will keep all coal moving that can be mined from now on, while if there is a tendency to delay placing orders and making other arrangements for storage until June, July or August, it simply means that it does not leave time for the railroads to haul the coal, or teams and labor secured to handle the volume that would be required if the storing is bunched later in the summer.

"If enough orders are placed to keep the mines going from now on, it does not mean of course that every one will get coal immediately, but that all will be reached in turn as fast as cars can be supplied and teams and labor secured to take care of the coal. This means that it is up to steam users as well as domestic consumers to store coal, and every steam user who now stores coal is doing a patriotic service, if he is in shape next winter to use from his storage piles when the time of stress comes, and lets the cars and other facilities go to furnish coal to the users financially unable to buy ahead.

"But another situation exists in the coal business, and that is the fact that if orders are placed for storage to the extent of all the coal that can be shipped, there will still be a shortage next winter for the reason that the railroads are at present able to furnish cars for but little over 60% running time of the mines. During the period from March 1 to April 15, the mines of Indiana loaded 3,048,500 tons, while with a full car supply the same mines would have loaded 1,019,897 tons more or 334%. The most apparent reason why the roads cannot furnish as good supply of cars now as they did even in the bad weather last winter, must lie in the fact that the open top cars are be-

(Continued on Page 7.)

Prof. G. I. Christie.

On motion of George Ade the Indiana State Council of Defense, at its meeting April 24, adopted the following minute, to become a part of its permanent record:

The Indiana State Council of Defense has learned with considerable regret and some gratification that George I. Christie, of Purdue University and the Government service and leader of Indiana's organized effort in behalf of food production, has been summoned to Washington as special assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Christie has been a real help to the farmers of Indiana. He has been keen, alert, industrious, enthusiastic and his work has been guided by sound common sense. He is not only an expert, but he has the live qualities of leadership. The Indiana State Council of Defense commends the selection made by the Secretary of Agriculture, while regretting that Mr. Christie must, for a time, give up a part of his work in this State. It hopes that he will find it possible to return and resume his successful campaign for the increase of farm products in Indiana.

PROF. G. I. CHRISTIE.

Schools Must Go On Declare Authorities

National and State Leaders Agree That Education Is Essential to the Public Welfare.

Statements of national and state leaders in regard to the necessity for continuing school work on its present basis during the war are contained in a syllabus issued by the Speakers' Bureau of the State Council of Defense to speakers who are touring the State in connection with the Educational Week program. Excerpts from some of the statements follow:

Governor James P. Goodrich—"The wisdom coming from experience compels my hearty approval of the plan to keep young people, too young for military service, in the schools."

Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense—"Our hope to win the war and to make the whole world better rests in no small degree upon the broad-minded ideals and the technical training for which our schools stand."

President Woodrow Wilson—"I see no necessity whatever for suspending the sessions of the colleges and think that such a suspension would be very much against the public interest."

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War—"Let the young men of America devote themselves to the various branches of engineering education, so that when this war is over the call will not be made in vain to young men who have had the training and have learned the lessons necessary to enable them quickly and rapidly to play a part in that great reconstruction and enterprise."

General William N. Black, Chief of Engineers, United States Army—"This cataclysm of war must not be allowed to disorganize our structure for all time, and one of the things we will need after the war, just as we have needed it before the war, just as we are needing it today, will be trained young men to take the place of the older ones who go out."

Major-General Leonard Wood—"It is a great mistake for partly educated young men to rush to the colors now. We do not need them. It is very important that they should finish their education."

Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education—"Schools and other agencies of education must be maintained at whatever cost and against all hurtful interference with their regular work except as may be necessary for the national defense."

A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University—"This country will need educated men no less during and after this war than it has needed them before."

Ignorant or Disloyal?

Radical lecturers who have been asserting that the grain exported from the United States as a result of the Food Administration's conservation campaign are converted into beer or other alcoholic liquors are declared uninformed or disloyal by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. Dr. Barnard makes the positive statement that such grain as is exported from America goes to women and children principally in foreign countries, who will actually starve without it.

Germany says we cannot get together in this country because we have no master mind to make us do it. Show the stuff Americans are made of and save the food to carry on the fight.

I
355
ed

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—The War Savings Society of the North Ward school of Decatur gained seventeen members in two weeks and the sales gained $187, making a total of $1,142.25.

Allen County.—H. V. Knight, a recent graduate of Purdue university, has taken up the work of garden supervisor for Ft. Wayne. He has named H. R. Smalley, county agent, as his assistant. A car load of seed potatoes has been distributed at cost by the city food production committee. More than 125 women attended the first public food conservation demonstration recently given by Miss Mary Ann Hall, who was recently appointed emergency home food demonstration agent. Miss Hall instructed those who attended in the use of wheat flour substitutes. Dr. William A. Bohn, secretary of the Society of Friends of German Democracy, recently addressed a large number of persons of German descent at Ft. Wayne with the view of interesting them in the organization, which has as its purpose the furthering of democratic ideas.

Carroll County.—The county council and the county commissioners in joint session appropriated $10,000 to the Carroll County Red Cross. The money may be drawn at the rate of $1,000 a month. The work of the County Council of Defense has moved along prescribed lines successfully, except where local conditions prevented. No Boys' Working Reserve has been formed. A war conference was held in Delphi in January and in Flora in April. On April 19 a Liberty Loan honor flag was unfurled. The quota of $400,000 for the county was oversubscribed by a generous margin. The women under the direction of Mrs. Edward Blythe, chairman of the woman's section of the county defense council, aided greatly in the work of distributing the loan. A series of monthly meetings have been held in the court house by the woman's section.

Clay County.—Mayor Jones, of Brazil, has issued a statement that the running at large of chickens, dogs or other animals will be followed by the arrest of their owners. There have been many complaints from owners of war gardens because of the destruction of the gardens by chickens and dogs. An ordinance prohibits owners of animals from allowing them to run at large.

Clinton County.—The study of German has been dropped by the Mulberry High school, following a protest filed recently by Albert Mock, principal. The subject was dropped before the end of the term, but full credit was given pupils in the German classes whose scholarship had been up to requirements.

Decatur County.—Miss Dorothy Kroft, who teaches the Jack Oak school in Marion township, gave each one of her twenty-two pupils a Thrift stamp when the school term closed.

Delaware County.—Having attained a 100 per cent. membership in the Junior Red Cross, the Jefferson school celebrated with a parade. The girls were dressed as Red Cross nurses and the boys were dressed as soldiers and sailors. Each boy and girl carried a Red Cross service flag with a star in the center to show that everyone in the school was a member. George Whitehair has been named solo leader for Delaware county. At a special meeting of the Muncie city council an ordinance fixing a fine of $500, to which shall be added imprisonment for a period not to exceed six months, for any one convicted of spreading, in any way, seditious literature within the corporate limits of the city, or of telling falsehoods pertaining in any manner to the way in which the government is carrying on the war, was passed. The annual spring clean-up week was abandoned in Muncie this year and a garden week was substituted.

Elkhart County.—A committee to act on the advice of the federal War Industry Board regarding building operations and to look into the matter of whether or not proposed building operations will aid in winning the war has been appointed by the County Council of Defense with S. P. Spohn as chairman.

Fayette County.—During the first week of the Liberty Bond campaign a Thrift stamp campaign was conducted, the sales totaling $12,000.

Gibson County.—Township councils of defense have been organized in each of the ten townships of the county. The names of the chairmen in each township follow: Barton township, George McGregor; Center township, Ralph Goldman; Columbia township, Gollo McCord; Johnson township, W. W. Slipp; Montgomery township, W. D. Higgenbotham; Patoka township, H. A. Yeager; Union township, Earl Sweeney; Wabash township, Paul Meyer; White River township, Dr. Irwin Arthur; Washington township, W. A. Hays. By agreement, an appointee of the county council or a member of the county council of defense who is absent for more than one consecutive meeting without excuse will be deemed thereby to have severed his connections with the organization and the place thus vacated will be filled immediately by appointment. More than 400 registered men of Patoka township recently met and formed an organization for war work.

Grant County.—A war garden association was recently formed in Marion with the following officers: E. O. Harrold, president; Lewis F. DeWolf, secretary, and John Rhue, treasurer.

Greene County.—Pupils of the Linton public schools own $5,000 worth of Thrift Stamps and War Saving Certificates. Two lessons from the Indiana War Text Book are given in the high schools weekly.

Howard County.—Howard county claims that a precinct four miles square in this county is the most patriotic spot in America. There are thirty-six householders in the precinct and every one of the thirty-six owns Liberty Bonds. The purchases total $2,600. Most of the residents of the precinct are renters or small landowners. A $5.00 War Saving Certificate will be given to the holders of lucky numbers at the ball games of the Kokomo Red Sox this summer. The numbers will be sold so that the money received will just equal the cost of the certificate.

Jackson County.—Prizes of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates will be given for the best war gardens in Seymour by an organization of business men. Councils of Defense have been organized in seven of the eleven townships of the county and officers have been elected in four. The chairmen of the four township councils are: Redding township, Henry Smith; Driftwood township, William H. Peters; Vernon township, Clarence Weisman; Brownstown township, O. M. Koontz.

Johnson County.—Plans are being made for community kitchens to be opened in the county this summer, where any women of the county may can or preserve fruit and vegetables that farmers are unable to sell.

Knox County.—Farmers have made applications for 411 members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve to work during the summer months.

Lake County.—The county schools in Hanover, West Creek and Cedar Creek townships have purchased more than $7,000 worth of Thrift Stamps and each school has a membership in the Junior Red Cross. The following have been appointed chairmen of township councils of defense: West Creek township, George Bailey; Engle Creek township, Forest Gornely; Cedar Creek township, Dr. Idings; Center township, J. U. Perry; North township, Dave Boone; Winfield township, James Love; Hobart township, A. J. Smith; St. John township, A. W. Stonemel.

Laporte County.—The Laporte Chamber of Commerce has issued a year book containing an account of the war activities of the town. The book contains the following statements: First Liberty Loan subscription nearly $1,500,000; second subscription $2,250,000. This was $250,000 more than the maximum quota. The Laporte Red Cross chapter has 8,000 members and raised $37,500 war funds. Y. M. C. A. war funds raised to date, $15,000; quota, $14,000. Laporte held thirty-seven patriotic meetings, furnished one company of infantry, now has in training an artillery battery, is sending 260 men to the National army and it is estimated that 1,000 men are in service from the county. The home guards have three platoons drilling regularly. The Woman's War Committee of 200 was organized under the auspices of the woman's sections of the county council of defense. The central co-delivery system was installed as a war measure, saving men and money for Uncle Sam. Vacant lot gardening had a big part in the war program. More extensive plans are being made for next season. Laporte county farmers, led by an able county agent, are doing their bit. Every request of Uncle Sam has been heeded. Every Laportean is at the colors.

Marion County.—Following are the vice-chairmen who have been appointed by Mrs. Samuel Elliot Perkins, chairman of the Marion county township registration committees for war work: Parry township, Mrs. Lew Wallace; Wayne township, Mrs. J. T. Poe; Washington township, Mrs. Charles A. Bookwalter; Pike township, Mrs. H. G. Hamer; Center township, Mrs. Ralph Clark; Mrs. Hector Fuller; Miss Sue Howe and Mrs. John H. Holliday; Warren township, Mrs. Maria Bradley Ferger; Franklin township, Mrs. B. S. Gadd; Decatur township, Mrs. A. G. Ruddell; Lawrence township, Mrs. Charles Henderson.

Marshall County.—At a meeting on April 16 at which Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, was the principal speaker, it was announced that Marshall county had oversubscribed its quota of the Third Liberty Loan. The meeting was preceded by a parade in which part of Sousa's band and various organizations took part.

Miami County.—Peru is to have a "Liberty Hall," with a seating capacity of 5,000. The building was erected for evangelistic services and when the services are over it will be turned over to an organization which will keep it open for patriotic meetings.

Montgomery County.—Following are the names of the chairmen of township councils of defense recently appointed by the County Council of Defense: Coal Creek township, Charles Kirkpatrick; Franklin township, T. M. Campbell; Wayne township, S. M. Davis; Union township, Mrs. Lida Manson; Brown township, K. K. Straughn; Walnut township, Dr. C. T. Bronaugh; Ripley township, W. W. McSpadden; Clark township, John Harshbarger; Madison township, A. S. Fraley; Sugar Creek township, W. H. Bundy; Scott township, W. F. Surface.

Noble County.—Councils of defense have been named in Wayne, Allen and Swan townships. The chairmen are J. J. Cole, H. A. Moore and Frank Drake, respectively.

Rush County.—Rush county hotel and restaurant keepers have agreed to abide by the ruling of the food administration which calls for one wheatless meal a day and two wheatless days a week. They all promised to remove cracker and sugar bowls from the tables and not to serve macaroni, spaghetti, shredded wheat and puffed wheat.

Shelby County.—A movement is under way to obtain an order from the city school board suspending the two classes in German at the Shelbyville High School. Thirty pupils of the school are studying the Hun language. An inspection of war gardens in Shelbyville revealed the fact that only four vacant lots in the town are not being cultivated. Arrangements have been made to have these lots cultivated.

St. Joseph County.—A service flag measuring twenty by fifty feet and containing 3,582 stars, representing the men who have gone into the service and the women who are in Red Cross service abroad, has been placed over the center of the court house lobby in South Bend.

Sullivan County.—The board of town trustees of Carlisle has repealed the ordinance which forbids the keeping of hogs within the town limits. The step was taken in the interest of greater food production. Teachers and pupils of the Sullivan county schools own $4,537.40 worth of Thrift stamps.

Vanderburg County.—The Evansville board of education has voted that no pupil in the Evansville schools shall be graduated or promoted who can not pass an examination suitable to his grade on the essential causes of the war and the principles for which the country is fighting.

Warren County.—Four Thrift clubs in the Williamsport public schools have purchased $300 worth of Thrift stamps during the last month. Every member of the high school and of the seventh and eighth grades is a member of the Red Cross. A Red Cross flag, bearing a star for each pupil, has been hung in the assembly room window. During a period of six weeks the children of the Williamsport schools have earned $252.32 by their own efforts. This sum was divided equally between the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A.

Whitley County.—Every pupil in the Jefferson Center high school has purchased or pledged to purchase Thrift stamps. The school has pledged $1,747.76, an average of $34.26 a pupil. Each boy in the Boys' Working Reserve already has obtained employment for the summer.

Some New War Books

(Any of the books mentioned below may be borrowed for a short time from the Indiana State Library by any citizen of the State. Persons living in towns where there is a public library should apply through the librarian. Those living on rural routes or in towns having no public library may obtain blanks for registration from the State Library on request. The only expense is that of transportation.)

Brown, D. V.—In the Heart of German Intrigue.

"Why did not Greece enter the war on the side of the allies, long ago?" Mrs. Brown gives the answer from personal investigation by herself and her husband.

Clark, A. T.—To Bagdad with the British.

Story of an American Y. M. C. A. worker in Mesopotamia with Tommy Atkins.

Dawson, C.—The Glory of the Trenches.

"What my son aimed at in writing this book was to tell the truth about the men who were his comrades. . . . There was one impression that he was particularly anxious to record—his sense of the spiritual processes which worked out behind the grim offense of war." (Extract from introduction by author's father.)

Gerard, J. W.—Face to Face with Kaiserism.

"In some measure, a continuation of 'My Four Years in Germany.'" Describes the personality of the kaiser and other prominent Germans. Gives extracts from Mr. Gerard's diary.

Kellogg, V.—Fighting Starvation in Belgium.

Story of the Commission for Relief in Belgium told by one who had shared actively in the work.

Laughlin, J. L.—Credit of the Nations, A Study of the European War.

Study of credit operations in Great Britain, France, Germany and neutral United States during the first three years of the war. "The examination of her credit situation leads to the conclusion that Germany is not now solvent."

Patriotic Employers Should Keep Soldiers

Who Are Awaiting Induction Into Service, Says State Council—Other Resolutions.

A resolution urging patriotic employers of labor to keep those of their men who have been selected for military service constantly employed up to the day of their induction and requesting chairmen of township and county councils of defense to appoint committees to provide places for employment of selected men who are temporarily out of employment, was passed by the State Council of Defense at its regular meeting, April 24. The resolution was presented by George Harney of the Protection Committee.

The resolution grew out of a report presented at a previous meeting by Adjutant-General Harry B. Smith to the effect that some employers were discriminating against men in the draft. Mr. Harney was instructed at that time to investigate. A letter from the Marion County Council of Defense, to which a specific case of alleged discrimination in Indianapolis was referred, stated that the matter had been satisfactorily adjusted.

The letter stated that the firm involved had offered an apology for the attitude of its superintendent, who discharged an employee who as a member of the Indiana National Guard participated in the Liberty Loan parade. The report of the Marion County Council was accepted. The resolution follows:

Attention of the council is called from time to time to the fact that employers of labor are discriminating against the conscripted men and especially against the Class A men by the refusal of employment on account of the indefinite time that he would be able to serve in such employment.

We realize that employers would not want to start these men as apprentices or in teaching a tour of duty where there would be a loss in efficiency in the early days of employment; but nevertheless as a patriotic people we must not allow the conscripted man to go from place to place seeking employment, and it must not be said that he has lost his place because of his prospective call to duty.

It is resolved by this council that all patriotic employers of labor be urged to keep their conscripted employees constantly employed up to the day of their induction into service. And we urge and request that the county and township chairmen of the local councils appoint a committee to provide places for the employment of the conscripted man who is temporarily out of work so that he may not be required to go about from place to place seeking service.

Approval of "war chest" campaigns in Indiana, asked by A. W. McKeand of the State Chamber of Commerce, was withheld by the council. Mr. McKeand explained in detail the plan, which is to collect, by means of monthly contributions on the part of every patriotic citizen, a fund from which will be paid community quotas in collection campaigns of recognized war relief organizations. He also stated that the plan had proved "satisfactory" in many cities, both in Indiana and in other States. Objection was raised on the ground that a citizen might desire to contribute such sums as he chooses to such funds as he chooses rather than to contribute to a blanket fund out of which contributions to various relief funds would be apportioned by some one who might be held prejudiced. It was also stated that fund-raising campaigns often serve to stimulate patriotic enthusiasm.

The policy of the council and of the Federal War Industries Board, which would have building operations and public improvements contemplated weighed by the test of their contribution toward winning the war, applies also to the construction of roads. This was the conclusion of the council following a discussion of cases in which contracts for roads have been let and bonds have been sold under the three-mile road act, but in which actual construction has not been started. Where construction is under way the advice of the Federal authorities to exercise "common sense" will be advised, but all such new work is to be discouraged. The matter was brought before the council by Chairman Michael E. Foley. On a motion by James L. Keach copies of the statements of policy of the two bodies will be sent to all chairmen of boards of county commissioners, county auditors, chairmen of county councils and mayors of cities. They will also be notified that they will be expected to apply the test to all proposed road construction as well as other enterprises under their jurisdiction. The question of the building of private residences was raised by Mr. Freeman, and Mr. Foley read a communication from William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, in which he stated that the building of residences should not be undertaken unless it is made necessary by sanitary conditions and never for purposes of comfort alone.

At the suggestion of J. G. Collicott, state superintendent of vocational education, the council passed a resolution approving the emergency war service campaign which is now being undertaken by his department for the training of mechanics, technicians and radio operators for war service, and for the part time vocational training of all young people between the ages of fourteen and eighteen who are not in school. The resolution follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of the State Council of Defense, heartily approve the emergency war service campaign now being undertaken by the State Vocational Department at the urgent request of the Federal Vocational Board and the United States War Department for the training of conscripted men as mechanics, technicians and radio operators.

Resolved, also, That we heartily approve the emergency war service campaign which is being undertaken by the State Vocational Department at the urgent request of the Federal Child Labor Bureau for the promotion of part-time vocational training in trade and continuation schools for all young people from 14 to 18 years of age who are employed.

Resolved, further, That we aid in the promotion of each of these important lines of immediate war service training through our Press and Speakers' Bureau and through the medium of special letters addressed by the chairman of the State Council to county councils, commercial clubs and educational organizations where this work can best be promoted.

Chairman Foley was authorized to appoint a committee to co-operate in plans presented by G. A. Schnull and W. D. Pratt, Jr., representatives of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, to institute a "return load movement" by which motor trucks transporting merchandise overland would return loaded, thus doing the work of two trucks under ordinary conditions. W. W. Winslow of the State Council presented the matter of co-operating in the maintenance of military roads in the State. This matter also will be considered by the same committee.

Representatives of the Ford Tractor Company asked the co-operation of the council in the distribution of a limited number of tractors among the farmers of Indiana. The council agreed and referred the task to the food production and conservation committee for immediate action.

A motion by Mr. Ade authorizing Robert Lieber, director of films for Indiana, to conclude arrangements with the division of films of the Federal committee on public information whereby motion pictures recently purchased by the State Council of Defense may be returned without loss to the State Council, was passed. The films were purchased by the council for $3,000. About one-third of this sum was realized from their display in various theaters in Indiana. It was decided that the films were not suitable for the purpose to which they were intended because of the fact that the material contained in them has for the most part been covered by commercial news releases and because they were lacking in dramatic and news value.

Horace Ellis, chairman of the educational section, stated in a written report that a committee had been appointed by the section to determine methods of procedure in a campaign for the Americanization of aliens.

A plan for the forming of groups of colored workers to work on farms by the day and to put their earnings in a fund for the relief of dependents of colored soldiers was presented by William Hampton of Indianapolis and was referred to the food production committee.

John F. Riley of Hammond appeared before the council and told of the patriotic activities of his city, particularly incident to the erection and dedication of a large building, known as Liberty Hall, which will house all patriotic meetings and activities during the period of the war.

Red Cross Activities

Value of shipments of women's work in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky Red Cross chapters during March to the Lake Division warehouses totaled $699,154.60, Carl W. Fuller, director of the Bureau of Supplies, yesterday advised Division Manager James R. Garfield.

The total number of separate articles received was 2,625,244, divided up as follows: Surgical dressings, 2,071,178; hospital garments, 173,050; hospital supplies, 165,589; refugee garments, 12,275; articles for soldiers and sailors (mainly knitted goods), 203,162.

Shipments included 76,863 sweaters and 73,908 pairs of socks.

Organizational details were worked out at a state meeting of Indiana district managers for the drive for funds the week of May 20 to 27 in Indianapolis last week. It was stated at the meeting that supplies are now being distributed and the preliminaries will be out of the way, if possible, before the actual solicitation of funds begins.

The American Red Cross has made comprehensive plans for the relief of the people of the Holy Land. A Red Cross commission is now on its way to Palestine. Dr. John H. Finley, commissioner of education for the State of New York and president of the University of the State of New York, heads this commission. Dr. Harry C. Hurd of Indianapolis is chief surgeon. The enlisted personnel includes Anna L. Johnson, also of Indianapolis. The Red Cross War Council appropriated $390,000 with which to begin the Holy Land work. The initial effort of the commission will be to establish in Palestine four medical units to combat typhus, cholera and other diseases. A fully equipped hospital will also be established in Palestine. Dispensaries and village work will be established in the less populous districts.

The Red Cross War Council has made provision for monthly contribution to the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief aggregating $1,200,000 for the period ending July 1. The sum of $400,000 was appropriated in February to cover the months of February and March and another $400,000 has just been made available to meet payments in April and May. The conditions in Asia Minor, as described in reports forwarded to the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, are even more critical than at the time the first contribution was voted by the war council.

Red Cross home service sections in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are furnishing relief and information to 3,501 soldiers' families. Of these families 687 live in Indiana.

Mr. Fieser says that more than $17,000 is being spent each month by Lake Division chapters for this sort of Red Cross relief work. There are 352 chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky and 281 of them have organized home service sections.

Mr. Fieser has appointed three more assistants to his staff, including Eugene C. Bulleit of Indianapolis, who will do field work in Indiana. Mr. Bulleit for three years was a member of the staff of the Indianapolis Star and has had a legal training.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and State governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 37

Attention—County Councils

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 140.

April 23, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The attention of the State Council of Defense has been called to the campaign being organized by the United States Department of Agriculture co-operating with the state institutions in an effort to obtain the voluntary eradication of the common or tall barberry and its near relatives on account of the relation which this shrub bears to the severity of the stem or black rust of wheat.

The black stem rust attacks wheat, barley, rye and oats and occurs in all grain-growing districts. The annual loss from this disease is great and in epidemic years is enormous. For example, it is estimated that in 1916 this rust was the most important factor in reducing the yield of wheat in the spring wheat region of the upper Mississippi valley by over 200,000,000 bushels. This epidemic, by reducing the surplus, is largely responsible for the present shortage of wheat.

One of the simplest and most direct methods of combating this terrible disease of our cereal crops is to keep the barberry out of the grain-growing regions. No common barberries should be planted in the future and all those now growing should be destroyed at once in order to protect this year's crop.

The Japanese, or low barberry, is harmless and need not be eradicated.

By far the larger number of dangerous barberry plants are in the public parks and the larger private grounds of the cities and towns, so that it is comparatively easy to reach the people concerned. Wherever the matter has been presented the response has been remarkably prompt and patriotic. A slight sacrifice by individuals, municipalities and institutions at this time may be an important factor in increasing the food supply of the coming year. The citizens of the towns by a few moments' effort and the sacrifice of a few plants may be able to assist materially in the problem of increasing food production without adding to the work of the farmers. An action by the local commercial organizations and park boards will give a good start to the movement in your community.

Assistance and detailed information can be obtained from the division of botany of the Purdue Extension department or from the county agricultural agent.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

GENERAL BULLETIN NO. 142.

April 24, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

We wish to emphasize the necessity of including a woman in the membership of each township council. In the appointment of these women the woman member of the county council should be consulted, for, as chairman of women's activities of the county, she will have charge of the work of the township women.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Show your kitchen strategy! How many wheat-saving dishes do you have on your table? How much wheat are you now saving as compared with your record last spring?

U. S. Public Service Reserve

BULLETIN NO. 16.

To All Enrolling Agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve:

We have just received notice of another call upon the Reserve in Indiana. This is for men who are to serve in the Tank Corps Overseas. Men between the ages of 20 and 40 will be taken. If they are in the draft, they will be inducted upon the same plan as was used in inducting men into the Railway Service. This plan essentially is as follows: Written application must be made to this office, giving the man's name, age, position in the draft, references, and experience in lines asked for in the Indiana quota. It is necessary that if a man applies for any one of the various occupations that he shall have had actual experience in that line. In other words, if a man applies as a cook, he must actually be a cook and have a record to show for it. If he applies as a blacksmith, he must likewise have references. It is absolutely necessary that the Enrolling Agents make sure that the men have had experience in the lines in which they apply for, because if they have not had experience their applications will not pass this office. We send the applications from this office to Washington, where they are turned over to the proper Army officials. If they are checked up O. K. the applicants will receive a letter giving them full information as to their procedure and they will appear before their local draft boards with it and the draft boards will certify them into the service and give them transportation to the concentration point named in the letter. Men over the draft age will receive a letter asking them to enlist in the Army and they will present the letter to the Postmaster, or if there is a Regular U. S. Army Recruiting Station, to that Station and they will receive physical examination, either at the Army Station or in Indianapolis, and will then be sent to the concentration point named in the letter.

It is worth while to mention that this is probably the most spectacular service in our whole army, and that it is a place for real red-blooded Americans, and no place for bullet-dodgers and slackers. Undoubtedly this service will appeal to Indiana men and it will only be a question of three or four days after releasing this call that we will have our full quota.

All men who made application for the Railway Engineer Corps will hear from the Director General of Military Railways whether or not their application has been accepted. Notification comes direct from Washington and not through this office. We have, however, heard indirectly that several of the men who placed applications through this office have been accepted and are now in concentration camps. Probably most all of the Indiana applicants will be accepted, as we were very fortunate in being able to turn over to the Department a high grade bunch of men, typical of Indiana.

Very truly yours,

N. E. SQUIBB, State Director.

Following is a list of men wanted by the War Department for overseas tank service. These men will be taken into the service through the Public Service Reserve and will be enlisted or inducted according to whether or not they are within the draft age.

- 3 Buzzer operators (men who have had experience as telegraphers, either wire or wireless).
- 12 Cooks.
- 3 Storekeepers, country.
- 60 Machine gun mechanics (men who have had experience as general machinists in machine shops).
- 3 Auto engine mechanics.
- 51 Tractor drivers (men who have had experience as drivers of tractors used on farms, etc.) There really is not much difference between the men wanted as tractor drivers and as heavy auto truck drivers.
- 24 Heavy auto truck drivers.
- 3 Motorcyclists.
- 3 Topographers.
- 3 Telephone operators.
- 3 Automobile electricians.

- 6 Blacksmiths.
- 12 Oxy-acetylene welders.
- 6 Bench machinists.
- 6 Lathe hands.
- 3 Machine designers.

BULLETIN NO. 17.

To all Enrolling Agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve:

We are enclosing a copy of a letter from I. W. Litchfield, Associate Director of the Public Service at Washington. This letter asks us to give a survey of the supply of men—common laborers—in Indiana. In order for us to do this, it will be necessary for us to have a report from each county upon this subject. Therefore, as soon as possible, please make a survey of your county and find whether or not there is any great amount of unemployed men who are ordinarily engaged at common labor, and also whether there are any particular demands for common labor above the farm demands. We realize that a great many men who are common laborers are not suitable and adaptable for farm labor. Will you please give this report as soon as you can?

Very truly yours,

N. E. SQUIBB, State Director.

Department of Labor, U. S. Public Service Reserve, Washington, D. C., April 17, 1918.

State Director, U. S. Public Service Reserve:

Dear Sir—The employment Service of the Department of Labor receives daily reports from its various offices, and during the last two weeks a striking shortage of common labor has developed in many localities. We know of certain large undertakings which are to be started in the near future, and the question arises, where is the large amount of common labor needed to come from? Not only this, but there are already shortages, particularly along the eastern coast, for this class of help, that are difficult to fill.

It has seemed desirable, therefore, to get definite information, as to where a supply of common labor can be located as the acute needs arise. It occurred to us that we ought to be able to get a very close estimate of the supply of common labor through the machinery of the Reserve, if each State director will take up the matter with his county directors, and they in turn will make investigations in the various communities, and give an estimate of the labor that is available over and above the demands for agriculture and for local purposes; or, in case of a shortage or contemplated shortage, the number of men needed to meet requirements—the figures being conservative in each case.

In this connection, it would be very useful for us to know of any very large jobs—Government or otherwise—that are contemplated in your State, and about where these enterprises will be located. This, of course, would come up for consideration by your organization in connection with the information requested herein.

In view of the National importance of this information, we are writing to ask if you will take this matter up in your State and compile the figures for the State by counties, giving us any incidental information that may be of value in the proper distribution of common labor.

Very truly,

I. W. LITCHFIELD,

Clearance Section U. S. Employment Service.

Capable of Great Sacrifice.

Labor is essentially a part of our great new army. The farmer is essentially a fighting man. These must do their share—and more. The magnitude of this great struggle cannot be fully conceived even after a visit to its bloody scene. It is wonderful to see what the human race is capable of in making great sacrifices in a great cause.—Gen. Leonard Wood.

Be your own policeman! Watch yourself; regulate your own conduct. The household next door is not observing the rules because of carelessness or ignorance, a friendly word from you may set them right. And don't be bashful about it!

Free Use of U. S. Mails For Defense Councils

Resolutions Urge Support of McKeown Bill by Indiana Congressmen as Patriotic Act.

Indiana members of Congress are called upon by the Indiana State Council of Defense, in a resolution adopted April 24, to support the McKeown bill, now pending, which has for its purpose the extension of the postal frank to councils of defense. The resolution was presented by Frank Wampler and was adopted by the council without discussion, as follows:

Whereas, The Indiana State Council of Defense and its auxiliary county councils of defense in ninety-two counties have for nearly one year been engaged, under the direction of the Department of War and the Council of National Defense, in the task of organizing the men, materials and resources of the State in support of the Federal Government in the war against Germany; and

Whereas, Such work of organization has involved a large item of expense for postage and mailing, all of which of necessity has been drawn from the public treasury; and

Whereas, There continues to be a serious need of continuing this effort and an apparent necessity of much educational and publicity work among the people of the State; be it

Resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense respectfully urges upon the Congress of the United States the wisdom and propriety of enacting the McKeown bill, now pending, which would extend to this work the encouragement and support of the free use of the United States mails; and be it further

Resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense calls the attention of the senators and representatives from Indiana to this opportunity for patriotic service and herewith petitions their active and vigorous support of the aforesaid grant of the free use of the United States mails for carrying on the essential patriotic work of councils of defense; and

Resolved, further, That a copy of these resolutions be certified to the congressional representatives of Indiana as the expression of an urgent and pressing need, which, on account of the national importance of the work being done, is entitled to the favorable consideration of Congress.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

WHEATLESS BREADS.

The women of America are being urged more and more strongly to conserve the wheat. This should be no great hardship when one considers the almost endless variety of substitutes, among which are potatoes, corn, rice, oats, barley, etc.

The greatest consumption of wheat occurs in the use of wheat bread. This can be greatly reduced by:

1. Not using bread at breakfast where a cereal or griddle cakes are served.
2. Not using as much where potatoes, rice and other starchy foods are used.
3. Not throwing away any bread scraps which can be used in any way.

The question of making yeast bread from the substitute flours is causing the housekeeper more trouble than any other phase of the wheat question.

Do not expect yeast bread made with a large percentage of substitute flour to be as light and porous as wheat flour bread.

It is impossible to make very palatable yeast breads using all substitute flour although an all barley or all rye loaf can be made. Housewives often find it difficult to make warm bread every meal, and then, too, the constant use of hot breads is not advised in the diet.

QUICK LOAF BREADS.

The following quick loaf breads are given in order that fresh breads will not have to be made for every meal, or every day. These can be kept several days and are as good when cold as when hot.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics Laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.:

Corn Meal Loaf:

- 1½ cups corn meal.
- 1½ cups rye or barley flour.
- 3 tablespoons corn syrup.
- 2 tablespoons baking powder.
- 1½ teaspoon salt.
- 1½ cups milk.
- 1 egg.
- 3 tablespoons fat.

Mix dry ingredients, add milk, beaten egg and melted fat. Stir well and bake in a greased bread pan one hour.

Corn Flour Bread:

- 1½ cups milk.
- ¾ cup corn syrup.
- 1 egg.
- 1½ teaspoon salt.
- 2 tablespoons baking powder.
- 3 cups corn flour.
- 3 tablespoons fat.

Mix dry ingredients; add milk, beaten egg and melted fat. Bake in a greased pan one hour.

Date Bread:

- 1½ cups corn flour.
- 1½ cups ground rolled oats.
- 6 teaspoons baking powder.
- ¾ cup corn syrup.
- 1 egg.
- 1 cup chopped dates.
- ¾ teaspoon salt.
- 1½ cups liquid.

Sift dry ingredients; add liquid and egg slightly beaten. Add dates and turn into an oiled bread tin and bake slowly one to one and one-fourth hours.

Buckwheat Bread:

- 1 egg.
- 1 cup milk.
- ¾ cup molasses.
- 1 cup ground rolled oats.
- 2 cups buckwheat flour.
- 3 teaspoons baking powder.
- ½ teaspoon soda.
- ½ teaspoon salt.

Nuts may be added. Bake slowly for one hour.

Corn Meal Gingerbread:

- 1 cup cornmeal.
- 1 cup barley flour.
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon.
- 2 teaspoons ginger.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 1 teaspoon baking powder.
- 1 teaspoon soda.
- 1 cup molasses.
- 1 cup sour milk.
- 2 tablespoons fat.

Mix dry ingredients; add molasses and milk and melted fat. Bake slowly for one hour.

Oatmeal Bread:

- ½ cup syrup.
- ½ cup fat.
- 1 egg.
- 1 cup milk.
- 2½ cups ground rolled oats.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.

Mix dry ingredients and add the beaten egg and milk, and then the melted fat. The egg may be omitted.

Keep score! The Food Administration asks you to eat eleven wheatless meals each week. Each one counts 9.09 per cent. What is your score this week?

Give King Corn a royal welcome to your home.

Demand For Boys on Farms Increasing

County Directors Are Placing Many Patriotic Young Men Where They Can Help Produce Food.

According to reports received at the State Council of Defense offices from the county directors of the Boys' Working Reserve throughout the State, several hundred boys have already been placed on farms. William Schnalub of Newton county, Chester N. George of Rush county, John B. Reed of Warrick county and T. C. Cravens of Morgan county report that practically all available boys in their respective counties have already secured permanent employment for the summer with local farmers.

Boys of Indianapolis are being used to supply any shortage in labor existing in other counties. During the past week applications have been received from ten different counties stating that a shortage exists and these have been taken care of promptly.

FARMERS PRAISE BOYS.

In this connection Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director of the Reserve in Indiana, authorizes the following:

"Letters of commendation from farmers indicate that the majority of these boys are making good. The following excerpts from these letters indicate that the skepticism with which the farmers regarded this boy labor movement is being removed.

"It appears that the success of the boy labor movement is largely dependent on the attitude of the farmer. If he is patient with the boy and takes him in like one of his own family and makes him feel like he is a partner in the business, he will make good.

"No one will dispute the fact that a young man between the ages of 16 and 21 years old, who is physically strong, bodily and mentally clean and morally decent, and who is going to the farm for patriotic reasons, will deliver the goods if he is given one-half a chance.

"If employed now he will be useful at the start and by harvest time he will be indispensable and, best of all, by next season he will be as good a hand as any farmer could hire—a first-class farm worker."

England Makes Waste a Punishable Offense.

While the United States Food Administration is urging the American people to eliminate food waste, England goes farther by making food waste an offense, legally punishable by fine or imprisonment.

According to the wording of the "Waste of Foodstuffs Order," recently issued by the Minister of Food, "food is wasted if, being fit for human use, it is wilfully or negligently damaged or is thrown away. It is wasted if the person having control of it omits to take any precaution which should reasonably be taken to care for it, or if anyone procures a greater quantity of it than is reasonably required and any part of it becomes unfit for human consumption. Lastly, it is wasted if any person who has the control of food unreasonably retains it until it goes bad."

Tradesmen are protected against unavoidable mishap by a clause which exonerates them if it can be shown that they have taken due care, and if it can be proved that they have been ready at all times to sell such foodstuffs at reasonable prices and that they could not have made them available for human food otherwise than by sale in their business. Tradesmen and private householders are being constantly investigated and fined for violations of this order.

This is everybody's war. Nobody is insignificant. Some of us fight in the front-line trench, some plant gardens, some build ships and some cook meals so good that one doesn't miss the wheat and other things that we are saving for the fighters overseas. Are you playing your part the best way you know how? Save food to help your fighters fight.

Woman's Part in War Activities Described

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw Tells Indiana Workers of the Need of Their Being Ready for Call.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, chairman of the woman's section of the Council of National Defense, urged the woman war workers of Indiana, at a meeting April 17, to stand back of the chairman of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense in the various activities of the section.

Dr. Shaw spoke of the importance of the registration of women and pointed out that women will be called more and more to take the place of men. She stated emphatically that the women of the country must do more than roll bandages and scrape lint, that they will be called upon to take their places in industry and in agriculture. She asked that they be ready for this.

Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense, presided at the meeting, which was attended by women from all parts of the State. Besides Dr. Shaw, the speakers were Mrs. Edward McGehee of Mississippi, and Mrs. Walter McNabb Miller of Missouri.

Along the line of suggestions by Dr. Shaw, the Indiana Federation of Clubs will begin at once to organize in Indiana the Woman's Land Army of America. The federation was asked by the executive committee of the woman's section to have charge of this work. The land army will be an organization of women who may be employed to do the lighter work on farms.

The movement is suggested by and has the approval of the Council of National Defense and of the food production and conservation committee of the State Council.

Woman's Section

A limited number of Indiana women have been given the opportunity to enroll in the third encampment of the first National Service School of the Woman's Naval Service at Washington, D. C., where they will receive intensive instruction in agriculture which will enable them to become supervisors and squad leaders in the Woman's Land Army of America, a branch of which is being organized in Indiana. The land army will be composed of women who will replace men on the farms.

The national service school has the sanction of the Federal Government and the work is carried out along military lines, an arbitrary schedule of daily instruction having been installed. The first encampment of the season started April 22 and will continue for twenty days. The second camp will start May 12. Women enrolled in the camp will live in regulation army tents. The tuition for the twenty days' instruction is $40 and uniforms are supplied for $16. These sums include all necessary expenses. The agricultural work also includes instruction in food conservation and first aid to the injured.

A total of 4,413 women registered in the city of Marion on Friday, April 19, the first day of the state-wide campaign for the registration of women for war service. Mrs. Fred Eward is city registration chairman. The women registered in booths erected for the purpose in each precinct. All the women who desired to register were unable to do so because of the crowds at some of the booths. The registration will be continued until every woman in the city is listed, Mrs. Eward says.

County child welfare chairmen have been invited by Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon to attend a conference of child welfare workers at the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, May 9. Miss Julia Lathrop, national head of the child welfare campaign, will be present at the meetings and will explain the work and its purposes in detail. Mrs. James P. Goodrich, wife of Governor Goodrich, will be a speaker at the conference, and Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense, will preside. There will be a morning, afternoon and an evening session and a luncheon will be given at noon with Miss Lathrop as the guest of honor.

The child welfare committee of Monroe county has asked township trustees of the county to list all children under six years of age in connection with the school census. This will relieve the committees of women of the work of registering the children.

Food Administration

Ice problems will be referred to county food administrators when presented to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator. Dr. Barnard is recommending the appointment of representative committees of citizens who shall have authority to determine upon a fair price for ice, which finding shall be binding. Other food problems will be handled in similar manner, where practical.

Miss Mabel Wellman, head of the home economics department of Indiana university, will organize college women of the State for the furtherance of the food administration's program of production, conservation and substitution.

Lawrenceburg and Aurora grocers have adopted the cash and carry system of merchandising, which according to figures compiled by the food administration serves to effect a saving of from 2 to 10 per cent. to consumers.

The food administration is claiming priority for food production over all other purposes to which it is proposed to put the use of tillable land. This ruling by Dr. Barnard came in connection with the possible destruction of hundreds of acres of growing wheat and other food crops by the removal of a gas pipe line from Greentown to Hammond.

There is no foundation for the terrorism that has been created in some sections of the State by the alleged introduction of ground glass into bread and other food stuffs. The food administration asks all patriotic people to be careful of their statements and report promptly to the proper authorities all circumstances that suggest such attempts at poisoning. Up to this time, Dr. Barnard believes the cases of this kind have been deliberately for the purpose of terrorizing people and prevent their consuming perishables that are perfectly safe.

The food administration has accepted the tender of 320 sacks of 98 pounds each of Kansas hard wheat flour from the West Baden Springs Hotel company. This is in line with the appeal of the food administration for voluntary contributions of flour from private holdings, which will serve to release an equivalent amount of flour at seaboard, for export to the hungry people of Europe.

Bring-in-the-Wheat week was very satisfactorily observed, it being estimated that 2,000,000 bushels—a surprising quantity—was brought to the mills. The food administration has directed county food administrators to report all wheat still in storage. Steps will be taken to requisition all except barely enough for seeding, if the surplus is not in trade channels by May 1.

Merchants Economy

The following has been addressed to all County Chairmen:

The question has come up in the Indiana Council of Defense as to whether it is policy for the Merchants' Economy Committee to advocate the uniform closing of stores in retail centers throughout the State.

This is a matter which was not contemplated nor included in the original prospectus or plan of the Merchants' Economy Committee. The original plan included only the reduction of delivery, the reduction of the return of merchandise and the elimination of C. O. D. orders; when these three things are accomplished throughout Indiana, as they are fast being accomplished, the Committee will have done a wonderful big work and the State Council feel that to introduce any new feature, such as uniform closing of retail stores, would detract from the original intention of the Merchants' Economy Committee.

They feel that particularly at this time, to have stores in smaller towns who employ but comparatively few help close say at 6 p. m., would not economize in any material manner the light, heat or anything else and that to ask such merchants to do this would circumvent in a way the thing which we have set out to do.

We feel that this matter is strictly a local matter to be decided on between the merchants of each locality. If it is their desire to close, then they should bring about a uniform closing hour by mutual agreement rather than by any order or request from the Merchants' Economy Committee and the State Council of Defense.

Mr. J. C. O'Hara, Chairman, and the writer had this matter up with the officials of the Indiana Council yesterday. We are asked by them to put it up to you in this manner, calling your attention to the fact that by bringing this and other similar matters to the attention of the local merchants through the Merchants' Economy Committee, it might result in more harm in the future than it would result in good.

Therefore, in the future, in speaking of uniform closing hours, please put it up to the merchants in your district that this is a matter which can and should be settled between themselves.

Very truly yours,
MERCHANTS ECONOMY COMMITTEE,
INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

W. E. BALCH, Secretary.

Coal Shortage Certain Unless Orders Follow

(Continued from page 1.)

ing used to a larger extent in hauling other traffic than coal. It is hard to figure out any other reason for the shortage, and if this is the reason the open cars should be returned to the coal carrying business as it is simply a question whether the public is better served by having coal next winter, or more gravel roads and new buildings now.

"The idea of this suggestion is not prompted by the fact that no warning has gone out from those in authority, to store coal, but only that such warning be repeated, and coming from one more source. Dr. Garfield has issued such warning several times, and in his recent statement No. 490, he notes that he is advised that in some parts of the country consumers are withholding buying in the expectation that zone lines will be altered in some way to broaden their sources of supply. He states strongly in this order that the zones were established in conjunction with the railroad administration after most careful study, and that any modification that may be made will be in the direction of further restrictions rather than enlarging sources of supply. This feature of Dr. Garfield's order is mentioned for the reason that in some districts in eastern Indiana that have heretofore received their requirements from eastern coal fields, the feeling seems to exist that in some way they will later on be allowed to get eastern coal.

"Mr. Woollen, Federal Fuel Administrator for Indiana, has also issued intelligent and forceful statements urging immediate buying. Governor Goodrich has said in consultation with coal operators and consumers that it is his intention to urge immediate buying. El. I. Lewis, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, has asked the regional director of railroads for this district to issue such orders that will confine open top cars more strictly to coal carrying business. In addition to the warnings just mentioned, with hope that the Council will see fit to also get behind the proposition of boosting the storage of coal, I offer the resolution."

Don't eat bread for fun. It is more fun to see how much bread you can do without and not miss—and it saves wheat for overseas.

Silent pro-German appetites are as hostile to the Allied cause as disloyal utterances.

Conferences On Silos Reflects Importance

Plan to Place Ten Thousand War Instruments on Indiana Farms This Year.

A State Silo conference was held in Indianapolis April 25 under the direction of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation of the State Council of Defense. The purpose of the conference was to inaugurate a plan for placing ten thousand silos on Indiana farms in 1918, the quota to be prorated by counties according to the number already in use and the number of cattle now on the farms. Warren T. McCray presided at the conference.

A county silo leader has been appointed in each county and attended the meeting together with the County Agent. The conference was also attended by members of the State Council of Defense, the State Food Committee, representatives of the various silo firms doing business in Indiana, and representatives of the large agricultural papers of the country, and prominent newspaper men.

The principal speakers at the morning conference were G. I. Christie, State Food Director, Maurice Douglas, State Silo Leader, and Dean J. H. Skinner of Purdue University.

A luncheon was served in the Riley Room of the Claypool Hotel at which time speeches were made by Governor Goodrich, M. E. Foley, Chairman of the State Council of Defense, and G. I. Christie.

In connection with the conference a special silo publication was prepared on the apportionment of the increase in the number of silos for each county during 1918. A statement from Ralph W. Moss, Chairman of the State Food Committee, in the publication declares that the silo is a vital economic necessity on Indiana live stock farms. His statement follows:

"The building of more silos on our Indiana farms is a vital economic necessity. The exigencies of the world war only emphasize the need for immediate action but did not create the fundamental conditions demanding it. For more than a decade, our cattle supply has steadily fallen behind our ratio of growth in population. The war in its destructive tendencies on the cattle stocks of Europe has intensified a situation which was alarming. This burden of rehabilitating the cattle supply of the world must fall upon the farmers of the American corn belt. It can be undertaken by no other class of men and we can not meet this obligation in a successful manner without a greater utilization of the silo.

"The feed bill is the greatest daily expenditure of the live stock farmer. Whatever tends to cheapen the cost of food for cattle improves the economic situation of the individual farmer of our State, of our nation and fortunately of the entire world. We must not underestimate the magnitude of the task. It is a definite work which the best interests of the future generations of the world demand at our hands. For this reason the silo at this moment becomes a necessity to every farmer in Indiana because it offers to him the cheapest stock food in the world. Corn ensilage in connection with a moderate amount of grain concentrates is the best and cheapest stock food and is therefore a necessity to every farmer who desires to engage in successful live stock husbandry. And no Indiana farmer can meet his full obligation to society who does not freely accept his share of the duty to replenish the vital wastes of the war. The campaign to stimulate silo building in our State is a distinct step forward and I wish it unqualified success."

M. E. Foley, in the following letter to the County Councils of Defense, urges them to assist in their counties in the campaign for an increased number of silos in Indiana:

"The State-wide campaign which the silo division of the Food Production and Conservation Committee has inaugurated, is one of vital importance to every farmer in Indiana. The silo is a mighty factor in reducing the cost of feed and something which every livestock farmer should have.

"This campaign has the hearty support of the State Council of Defense. It is a war measure, a means by which more meat and dairy products may be produced. All County Councils of Defense are urged to lend every effort and do everything possible in seeing that this campaign is carried to successful conclusion, so that no county in the State will fall below its quota."

Dean J. H. Skinner commends the campaign to build more silos. In a recent letter to the State Food Committee he says:

Lafayette, Ind., April 20, 1918.

State Food Committee, Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Gentlemen—Permit me to endorse the campaign to encourage the building of more silos in Indiana. There is nothing more vital to the live stock industry at this particular time than the silo. The only way that farmers can profitably produce and feed cattle and sheep at this time is to use silage freely.

"The silo is one of the most essential elements in a profitable system of live stock farming. Silage reduces the cost of producing and finishing cattle and sheep for market and increases the profits; it makes possible the economical maintenance of breeding herds and flocks and is essential to successful dairy farming. The silo enables the farmer to utilize the entire corn plant and thus turn coarse, raw material into highly nutritious food products and thus save much that would otherwise be wasted.

"More and Better Live Stock' has been the slogan of Purdue University for many years. It is a splendid one for every farmer to adopt now. A careful study of farm incomes shows that our most profitable Indiana farms are those on which some form of live stock is an important enterprise. However, live stock farming is not always profitable; much depends on the methods followed.

"The silo will increase the live stock capacity of your farm, enable you to grow and feed better stock and make it profitable. The exceedingly high prices of grains, the shortage of hay and pasture make the silo more important than ever before. The live stock farmer cannot afford to be without a silo.

"Very respectfully yours,

"J. H. SKINNER,

"Chief in Animal Husbandry, Purdue University."

* * * * *

The following is a list of the county silo leaders and the number of silos to be erected in each county of the State:

COUNTY SILO LEADERS.

To attend Conference at Claypool Hotel, 10 a. m., April 25, 1918.

Adams—George Inelchen, Decatur	144
Allen—G. W. McCombs, Grall	195
Bartholomew—Fred Suhre, Columbus	155
Benton—John Henderson, Fowler	184
Blackford—A. C. Kilpinger, Hartford City	74
Boone—Ed. Riley, Lebanon	138
Brown—Walter Rogers, Nashville	24
Carroll—Steven S. Klecker, Camden	177
Cass—T. G. Murden, Logansport	125
Clark—J. B. Green, Sellersburg	59
Clay—Jerome Bogie, Brazil	94
Clinton—D. F. Matsh, Frankfort	189
Crawford—Arch Sloan, English	59
Davies—Steve Stalcup, Elmore	81
Dearborn—Everett McClure, Aurora	150
Decatur—H. H. Mount, Greensburg	141
Delaware—Charles E. Miser, Waterloo, R. F. D. 2	119
Delaware—George Whitehair, Salem, R. F. D. 1	110
Dubois—L. D. Trent, Huntingburg	62
Elkhart—Prof. C. B. Blosser, Goshen	139
Fayette—W. E. Brown, Connersville, R. F. D. 9	71
Floyd—Geo. Wright, New Albany	56
Fountain—C. E. McClure, Newtown	94
Franklin—Morris Thompson, Brookville	118
Fulton—Otto McMahon, Rochester	120
Gilson—M. S. Woods, Princeton	115
Grant—Frank Glippy, Sweetser	150
Greene—Wm. Maddock, Bloomfield	126
Hamilton—C. Y. Foster, Carmel	114
Hancock—Walter Boyd, Greenfield	124
Harrison—Chas. L. Stevens, Corydon	126
Hendricks—Fred Soper, Danville	99
Henry—Harry Modlin, Newcastle, R. F. D. 7	149
Howard—B. B. Tudor, Kokomo	119
Huntington—M. R. Purviance, Huntington	169
Jackson—J. B. Thompson, Brownstown	66
Jasper—Ed. J. Randle, Bensenville	116
Jay—E. E. Luzadder, Redkey	118
Jefferson—Hersey A. Hildans, Madison, R. F. D. 4	108
Jennings—Curtis Russell, North Vernon	78
Johnson—Wm. Ray, Trafalgar	84
Knox—P. L. Johnson, Vincennes, R. F. D. 2	95
Kosciusko—C. W. Anglin, Warsaw	139
Lagrange—James Kilne, Howe	118
Lake—A. L. Courtwright, Crown Point	160
Laporte—A. E. Watson, Laporte	93
Lawrence—Joseph Horning, Mitchell	86
Madison—John Sample, Anderson	114

Marion—Chester Hittle, Acton	114
Marshall—Warren McFarlin, Plymouth	187
Martin—O. A. Baker, Shoals	55
Miami—Harry L. Miller, Peru	149
Monroe—J. A. Winslow, Bloomington	54
Montgomery—Jesse Canine, Crawfordsville	154
Morgan—D. B. Johnson, Mooresville	61
Newton—Harold R. Dickinson, Goodland	141
Noble—George Young, Albion	109
Ohio—Howard J. North, Rising Sun	38
Orange—C. L. Rawlston, Orleans	54
Owen—John H. Murphey, Spencer	99
Parke—Harris McCord, Rockville	108
Perry—A. P. Fenn, Tell City	71
Pike—J. C. Challe, Otwell	64
Porter—Herman Homfeld, Valparaiso	151
Posey—Harvey Davis, Poseyville	69
Pulaski—Clarence Paul, Star City	139
Putnam—George Hanna, Greencastle	150
Randolph—Harry Odle, Winchester	149
Ripley—Charlie Reynolds, Holton	114
Rush—Wm. Alexander, Rushville	136
Scott—A. G. Mace, Lexington	59
Shelby—W. M. Huffman, Shelbyville	137
Spencer—Dan H. Smith, Rockport	78
Starke—H. P. Schuyler, North Judson	59
Steuben—E. E. Spade, Angola	98
St. Joseph—Frank Yoder, South Bend	130
Sullivan—W. W. Watson, Sullivan	114
Switzerland—M. A. Griffin, Vevey	35
Tipton—S. C. Malsberry, Romney	185
Tipton—John R. Nash, Tipton	107
Tulsa—Evert Kitchel, Liberty	73
Vanderburg—Tom Peck, Evansville	59
Vernon—Frank Cox, Cayuga	54
Vigo—Frank Bentley, Terre Haute	52
Wabash—Arthur Tomson, Wabash	132
Warren—F. J. Goodwin, West Lebanon	118
Warrick—Henry Whittinghill, Boonville	72
Washington—Frank Sullivan, Salem	44
Wayne—Harry B. Macy, Hagerstown	144
Wells—J. P. Lockwood, Keystone, R. F. D. 2	105
White—J. S. Minch, Chalmers	144
Whitley—Arthur Harriman, Columbia City	145

10,000

To Direct War Training.

Following is a committee of fifteen appointed by Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, at the request of H. E. Miles to have charge of emergency war training work in factories:

Labor—Frank Duffy, William Dobson, Charles Fox, Frank J. Hayes and J. S. C. Skemp.
Employers—H. C. Atkins, C. C. Hanch, Charles A. Bookwalter, W. H. McCurdy and William Taylor.

Educators—Charles A. Greathouse, J. G. Collicott, L. W. Wallace, W. E. Stone and J. J. Pettijohn.

Strict Regulations Relative to Sugar.

In order that there may be enough sugar for the canning and preserving season the strictest regulations yet promulgated have just been announced by the Federal Food Administration. Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, has issued an appeal to the women of the State that they desist from the use of sugar in the candies they have been making and sending to the soldiers. They are asked to restrict themselves to molasses, nuts, etc.

Manufacturers of soft drinks and less essential food products using sugar, who have started business contrary to the recommendations of the Food Administration since January 1, will be denied further supplies entirely. Those who have been in business longer will be limited to 80 per cent. of their normal requirements.

The attitude of the Food Administration in these regulations is very insistent, based upon a determination to guarantee enough sugar for the home and commercial canners when the demand comes.

The difference between the patriotic American housewife and the one who is indifferent or disloyal is measured by the amount of wheat flour in her kitchen.

The return ticket for our boys in France will be secured largely through American savings of wheat, sugar and fats.

We have 105,000,000 of our own people and 35,000,000 people of the Allied nations to feed until next harvest. It is a big job, but American teamwork can do it if every housekeeper will tackle the problem as the "extra company" of 35,000,000 people were her own household guests. Ladies, our national hospitality is put to the test!

Nothing bigger can come to a human being than to love a great cause more than life itself, and to have the privilege throughout life of working for that cause.
—Anna Howard Shaw.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 3, 1918

Number 38

Silo Campaign Off With Enthusiasm

County Leaders and Agricultural Agents Hear Inspiring Messages from Leaders.

If the enthusiasm shown at the meeting of Indiana's ninety-two county silo campaign leaders and over sixty county agents at Indianapolis April 25 is felt in the State, Hoosiers will experience little difficulty in going over the top with the 10,000 silos contemplated for Indiana farms this year. The campaign was given a splendid start and from all appearance the State is going to set another mark in the food production fight under the auspices of the State Food Committee. The campaign will be carried on by the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation co-operating with the State and County Councils of Defense, Purdue University, United States Department of Agriculture, County Agents, Emergency Demonstration Agents, County Food Committees, County Better Farming Associations, Farmers' Clubs, Farmers' Institutes and able local leaders.

Governor James P. Goodrich, who spoke at the luncheon at the Claypool Hotel, said: "We can't add many more acres to production but we can increase the yield from this acreage. If all our livestock could be fed on silage, Indiana farmers would save $80,000,000 to $60,000,000 each year. This campaign must succeed this year and it must be continued after the war until all sheep growers, dairymen and cattlemen in the State have silos."

The Governor paid a tribute to State Food Director G. I. Christie and Federal Food Administrator H. E. Barnard when he said it was these men who inspired Indiana's success in the food campaigns last year.

Director Christie, who is serving as assistant to the United States Secretary of Agriculture, closed the meeting with an inspiring address on the farm labor problem and the value of the silo in feeding operations.

"This calling on the farmer to feed the world is nothing new. He has been called on again and again to do it and never once has he failed. The country is calling on the farmer for finances and the Third Liberty Loan has demonstrated what he has done in support of this. The first six counties to report as having obtained their quota in Indiana were strictly agricultural counties.

"The world is looking to Indiana, to the Central West, this rich Mississippi Valley, the section of the country which produces a surplus of foodstuffs, to supply the food for those hungry people in France," said Prof. Christie. "With our boys being taken from the farms to the army or off to the factories by higher wages, the farmers are going to face a serious labor problem. They are going to be short of men to carry on their work in the field, do the feeding, and other work about the farm.

"The silo is going to be a highly important factor because it will reduce the cost and labor of feeding livestock, and it already has taken its place as a wartime institution."

Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, pointed to the splendid record Indiana has made in the Civil and Spanish-American Wars, and how the State had forged to the front in the present great struggle.

"It is no hour for fault finding, no hour for criticisms. It is a time for solid support of President Wilson and Governor Goodrich in all of the war program. It is no time to write party platforms. It is not material which party is in power, but the war work has got to be done because the honor of Indiana is at stake."

Dean J. H. Skinner of the Purdue College of Agriculture, spoke at the morning session, pointing out the great economic value of the silo. "Purdue realized the corn crop was too valuable to let 30 to 40 per cent go to waste and she decided on the building of silos some years ago. We can convince any farmer that he cannot afford to keep livestock without a silo.

"America has got to feed the world. If the world is to have food, to have meat, we must produce it as we have never done before. The silo turns the green feeds into meat for human consumption, and thus the silo really is a human institution.

"Farms having livestock are the most profitable and aid the most in building up fertility of the soil. If Germany had the wastage of the middle west today she could stay in this war indefinitely. The silo is a means of eliminating waste. And then, the silo is a good investment. Next to Liberty Bonds it is the best."

Dean Skinner summed up his points as follows: "The silo increases daily gains on stock to which the silage is fed; it increases profit; it aids in finishing cattle for the market and they bring 10 to 25 cents higher on the hundred, and it reduces the cost of gains."

Maurice Douglas, state leader in the campaign, spoke of the great drive in Indiana and outlined the plans for each county.

The silo is now recognized as a wartime institution.—G. I. Christie.

Warren T. McCray, a member of the food production and conservation committee, presided in the place of Ralph W. Moss, who has resigned. Mr. McCray indorsed the silo in a wholehearted way and the number he has on his farms gives further proof of his faith in the silo.

The following resolution was adopted unanimously as expressing the sense of the conference:

Whereas, We, the Indiana County Agricultural Agents and County Silo Leaders, assembled in Indianapolis on this, the 25th day of April,

(Continued on Page 7.)

Boys Are Released For Work on Farms

Standing in Classroom the Basis Upon Which Many Have Been Permitted to Do Other Tasks.

Young men who have joined the United States Boys' Working Reserve are being supplied as rapidly as applications from farmers are received by this department of the Indiana State Council of Defense. Many high schools throughout the State report that students, who have good classroom records, are being released from school with full credits, to satisfy local demands for farm labor. This plan is indorsed generally by the educational section and directors of the reserve.

More than one hundred high school students in Indianapolis who have taken a special course in agriculture under A. C. Hoffman, vocational agricultural teacher at Technical High School, are now ready for farm work and will be released from school as soon as they secure employment. These boys are willing to go to any part of the State. C. V. Peterson of Lafayette reports that he has a class of fifty high school boys who have completed a four-months course in the rudiments of agriculture. These boys have been fortunate in the practical instruction they have received through the co-operation of Purdue University Experiment Station. Lafayette boys will all be needed on Tippecanoe County farms.

Farmer Boys Can Help

The city boy going to work on a farm for the first time will appear rather awkward at the start, but with a little patient instruction from the farmer and with the co-operation of the farmer's son, he will learn rapidly. Dean Davenport of the University of Illinois points out that herein lies a splendid opportunity for service for the farmer's son.

"Nobody but the soldier and the experienced man of affairs can help more than can the boy on the farm, providing he stays with the land and works as he never worked before.

"The government, realizing the labor difficulty, has called upon the city high school boy for help and has organized the United States Boys' Working Reserve. Some of these city boys will come to your neighborhood, perhaps to your own farm. They could all earn more money in the shops, but they have come at the call of their country to help raise food. They know little about farming, and you, the boy with farm experience, can help them in every way better than can anybody else. Now is your chance to do your bit.

"Of course the farm boy could probably make more money by going into a munition plant or in some other factory which offers exceedingly high wages. So could the soldiers. But when our country is fighting for its life it is not a question of making money, but of defeating the enemy."

Source of the Kaiser's Power.

"The German resembles a slave ruled by his master by mere word or look, without resort to whip or fetters. His servitude is in himself, in his soul. Worse than bodily slavery is spiritual. The German must be freed from within; outward effort is useless."

No, this is not a recent thought of President Wilson's. It was penned by Heinrich Heine during the first half of the nineteenth century.—Philadelphia Record.

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—Dogs, cats and other animals will not be permitted to run at large in Decatur during the gardening season, according to Marshal Hancher, who has given notice that he will strictly enforce the ordinance against allowing animals to run at large. Chickens also are banned. The County Council of Defense and food administrator also have asked that war gardens be protected.

Allen County.—Upon the recommendation of George M. Haffner, county food administrator, Mrs. A. E. Wayne has been named as organizer of food clubs in F. Wayne and Allen County. Clubs will be organized within a short time throughout the city and in the rural districts. Mrs. Fauve will work in conjunction with Miss Mary Ann Hall, home demonstration agent, and Miss Mable Wellman, state leader of home economics.

Daviess County.—Several members of the Mennonite faith, of Washington, have purchased $1,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and have given them to the county hospital.

Decatur County.—The following amounts have been raised in this county for various war relief organizations and for other funds: Red Cross, $12,234.64; Y. M. C. A., $16,230.25; Armenian relief, $1,504.50; Y. W. C. A., $540.60; war library, $280; Red Cross Christmas seals, $356; Knights of Columbus, $800; Thrift Stamps, $79,000; Liberty Bonds, $970,000. A total of 463 men have gone into the service from Decatur County.

Fayette County.—Nine food clubs already have been organized in Fayette County by Mrs. W. E. Ochiltree, county president. All of the townships with the exception of Jackson and Orange have organizations, and Mrs. Ochiltree expects to organize these townships in the near future. She is being assisted by the county War Mothers organization.

Fountain County.—The work of organizing food clubs is going forward rapidly. Mrs. Frank Martin, of Newton, is county president. She has appointed twenty-eight lieutenants to aid her in the organization work.

Gibson County.—Councils of defense have been organized in every township in Gibson County. Following is a list of members as announced by Dr. J. M. Williams, chairman of the County Council of Defense: Barton—Geo. McGregor, chairman and representative, Somerville; Mrs. F. Schwerdtfeger, secretary-treasurer, Elberfeld; Calvin Null and Edgar Allman, Somerville; August Graper, Mackey, Center—Ralph Goldman, chairman and representative; Mrs. S. Witherspoon, secretary-treasurer; Thomas McElhiney, Floyd Chappell, Welza Woods, all of Francisco. Columbia—Gloya McCord, chairman and representative; Mrs. F. Farmer, secretary-treasurer; John M. Vandever, Dr. W. B. Ashby, Joseph Summers, all of Oakland City. Johnson—W. W. Sipp, chairman and representative; Geo. J. Zilak, G. B. Heldt, all of Haubstadt; Jesse Emerson, Cynthiana. Montgomery—W. D. Higginbotham, chairman and representative; Johnson; Mrs. J. E. Benson, secretary-treasurer, Owensville; G. R. Welborn, Owensville; Marshall Mauck, Cynthiana; Cloyd Manrum, Port Branch. Patoka—H. A. Yeager, chairman and representative; Chas. H. Niemeier, Mrs. Flora Springer, secretary-treasurer; William C. Hudelson, John Orth, all of Princeton. Union—Earl Sweeney, chairman and representative; Walter Roberts, secretary-treasurer; Pearl Barker, Andrew J. Wheeler, W. O. Daugherty, all of Port Branch. Wabash—Paul Maier, chairman and representative; Mrs. J. C. Blair, secretary-treasurer; W. R. Snyder, John Simpson, Jr., John Hollen, all of Griffin. White River—Dr. Irwin Arthur, chairman and representative; Earl Turpin, Mrs. T. H. French, of Patoka; C. J. Snyder, secretary-treasurer; Frank L. Steelman, of Hazelton. Washington—W. A. Hays, chairman and representative; Miss Katie Thompson, secretary-treasurer; Henry Jones, Elmer Whiting, William Hyne-man, all of Hazelton.

Harrison County.—The personnel of the councils of defense appointed in each township of Harrison County has been announced by the County Council of Defense. The names follow: Webster Township—John R. Kirkham, chairman; William O. Gunterman, Edward Bigler, Clarence Gehlbach, William Fleece, Mrs. Charles J. Rupp, Mrs. Lou Wolfe, and Mrs. Josephine Blunk. Franklin Township—W. W. Williams, chairman; John L. Walter, John W. Blume, Theodore Elsert, George Elwanger, Mrs. C. H. Stanley, and Mrs. James H. Smith. Taylor Township—William H. Stewart, chairman; John Reeves, Frank Brown, Hanson W. Colvin, Jeff D. Cunningham, Mayme Kelley, and Cleo Reeves. Heth Township—William W. Jacobs, chairman; William H. Longbottom, Edward B. Love, William H. Flora, Amos W. Yeager, Edward F. Windell, Carrie Hays, and Mrs. E. B. Love. Boone Township—Rush Boone, chairman; Mrs. Lou Shields, Mrs. Katie May, Jennie Wilbur, Grace Carroll, Milton Funk, Emory Brown, Roy Duggins, John Steepleton, Sidney Ashton, and Taylor Wilson. Spencer Township—Sherman Engleman, chairman; J. O. Flock, A. S. Sieg, Jasper Davis, Josiah Nolot, J. V. G. Loudon, Miss Anna Burgess, and Mrs. Ola Clunie. Washington Township—A. R. Connor, chairman; James W. Enlow, Harry Trotter, R. H. Montgomery, Fred Stocker, Emory Breeden, Millie Friedley, and Lillie Blake. Morgan Township—E. Clyde Martin, chairman; W. W. Cullins, Reverend McCoy, William Haub, H. N. Fessel, Mrs. L. L. Coleman, Miss Emma Diedrich, and Miss Florence Parker. Harrison Township—Cecil Miles, chairman; Clarence Bruce, Herman Gilham, Clarence Glebb, Alva Wiseman, Miss Anna Walk, and Mrs. Blanche Harbolt. Posey Township—William D. Barnes, chairman; W. W. Clark, J. E. Ashton, John F. Watters, E. S. Crozier, Mrs. Dottie Weaver, and Mrs. L. M. New. Scott Township—Sam D. Breeden, chairman; Victor Rothrock, Elsie Mouck, Grace Brown, Marion Cunningham, Charles Lang, and Jesse Kintner. Blue River Township—Ray Churchill, chairman; Sherman S. Miller, David F. Adams, Charles Routh, Claude Stroud, Emma Briscoe and Elizabeth Baker.

Hendricks County.—The Pittsboro High School boys, all of whom are members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, have formed a military company and have adopted overalls as a uniform. When the school term is closed they plan to work on farms.

Howard County.—Fourteen more boys recently were enlisted in the United States Boys' Working Reserve by William G. Powers, Howard County director. All of the boys were released from school three weeks before the end of the term so that they could go to work on farms.

Jackson County.—Mayor Charles W. Burkhardt, of Seymour, has ordered every able-bodied man in the town to find work. If any man makes the statement that he cannot find employment, the police will undertake to secure it for him. Farmers of the county have been calling for men to assist them. A Liberty Guard band is being formed in Jackson County under the direction of Thomas Dorrell, a member of the County Council of Defense. Guard companies already have been formed at Trafalgar and White-land and one is being formed at Greenwood.

Johnson County.—The Johnson County War Mothers organized at a meeting in Franklin April 27th. Mrs. Alice M. French, head of the state organization, was present at the meeting. Mrs. D. E. Kinkenbinder is official war mother of Johnson County.

Kosciusko County.—The Stars and Stripes, a Third Liberty Loan honor flag and a service flag with twenty stars have been hung across the main street of Silver Lake.

Lagrange County.—The Wolcottville school is organizing a war garden society in each room and business men are offering prizes for the best gardens raised. It is planned to have an exhibit of the products in connection with the annual horse show this fall.

Lake County.—Frank B. Pattee has been named chairman of the legal committee of the County Council of Defense. Other members of the committee are Herbert T. Johnson, Edwin F. Knight, Joseph E. Brown, Martin J. Smith, Daniel B. Sarley, Al. Cortright, and A. A. Bibler.

Montgomery County.—Full-page appeals to the citizens of Montgomery County to order the winter's supply of coal at once and pointing out the necessity for such action have been inserted in the Crawfordsville newspapers by Byron R. Russell, chairman of the County Council of Defense, and Thomas E. Matthews, federal fuel administrator for Montgomery County.

Madison County.—W. M. Swain, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has issued a statement urging the people, corporations and public officials of the county to exert every effort to conserve, by abandoning all improvements which are not absolutely necessary. The County Council of Defense has put its stamp of disapproval on some property owners of Anderson who are said to have refused to allow the use of their land for war gardens.

Monroe County.—Arrests are being made by the police of Bloomington under the war loafer ordinance recently passed by the city council.

Newton County.—Thirty-four new names were added to the county enrollments in the United States Boys' Working Reserve during two weeks recently, making a total membership of 108.

Parke County.—A total of $3,000 has been appropriated by the county council to be used by the Parke County Council of Defense.

Posey County.—The registered men of Posey County have formed an organization for the purpose of promoting war activities.

Pulaski County.—The County Council of Defense has caused to be placed in every postoffice of the county a poster urging the eradication of the common barberry bush, which is injurious to wheat, and illustrating the difference between the common variety and the Japanese variety, which is not injurious.

Rush County.—There is a bond of the Third Liberty Loan in every home in the town of Carthage with the exception of six. This fact was revealed by a canvass of the town made by the Boy Scouts. Persons residing in the six homes declared that they were unable to buy bonds, but two had purchased Thrift Stamps. Thirty-nine members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve have collected $400 for the Y. M. C. A. war fund. Each boy pledged to collect at least $10. Sixty-nine and seven-tenths per cent of the population of Washington Township are members of the Red Cross. There are 238 families and 205 are represented in the organization.

St. Joseph County.—The Dodge Company of South Bend claims the state record for subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan. Every one of the 1,300 employees of the company is a subscriber, the total subscriptions amounting to $135,000, exceeding the quota of the plant by $60,000. The following have been appointed members of the Lincoln Township Council of Defense: Herman Gopert, chairman; S. P. Tracy, secretary; B. I. Holser, Stanley Steele, Charles Wisebaugh, Mrs. C. I. Reamer, and D. E. Ruppel.

Sullivan County.—The war mothers of Jefferson Township were organized at a meeting in the high school building at Pleasantville. Nine men from the township are already in France. Four of the mothers in the organization each have two sons in the service.

Vanderburgh County.—Members of the county registered men's association are considering plans for the formation of a self-supporting camp where members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve can be trained for farm work.

Vigo County.—The city of Terre Haute is placing signs on vacant lot war gardens warning trespassers that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Any dogs running at large and damaging war gardens will be impounded by the police department for thirty-six hours and if not claimed by that time they will be disposed of, according to orders issued by Mayor Charles R. Hunter. Mrs. Flora Gulick, honorary vice-president of the National Boys' Clubs, has started an Americanization school for foreign born boys under the age of 21. The school plan embodies instruction in English, reading, writing, spelling and civics, maintaining information centers and furnishing aid and service to immigrant boys. Posters have been placed in the factory districts telling the boys of their opportunity for free instruction. The school will open in a short time and will continue during the summer months.

The Food Problem and How to Solve It

In addition to the books listed below, the Indiana State Library has collected and is collecting pamphlets, circulars, etc., giving good recipes that will assist in saving food. These are loaned under the same conditions as books. Apply to the local librarian or if you live where there is no library, write to the State Library for registration blanks. The only expense is that of transportation.

Green, M.—Better meals for less money.

An excellent receipt book whose object is "to use more of the cheaper foods and to prepare and combine them so skillfully that economy shall not be a hardship."

Handy A. L.—War food.

"Practical and economical methods of keeping vegetables, fruits and meats." One of the chapters is on canning without sugar.

Kellogg, V. and Taylor, A. E.—The food problem.

A clear statement of what the problem is and how it may be solved.

O'Brien, C.—Food preparedness for the United States.

Points out "some of the factors involved and lessons to be learned from the experiences of the European belligerents." Brief and readable.

Rose, M. S.—Feeding the family.

A knowledge of food values is essential to economizing food in an intelligent way. The book above is a simple explanation intended for the use of the housewife, which considers the needs of the various members of the household.

Snyder, Mrs. S. P.—Food conservation and the art of home canning.

"The object of this book is to assist every earnest woman in her effort to do her part in this time of hunger and want."

Warrick County Has an Entire Regiment

Warrick county will, in the near future, have the honor of being the only Indiana county to organize a full regiment of Liberty Guards. Twelve companies have been organized or are in the process of organization. The companies are composed for the most part of the 1,400 registered men of the county who have united their organization with the Liberty Guard organization. Thomas E. Downs of Boonville will be commissioned colonel of the regiment and every company will have at its head a man experienced in military drill. It is the ambition of those who are active in forming the regiment to have every man who goes into the service from the county made a non-commissioned officer as a result of his training received in the Liberty Guards. The registered men and the Liberty Guards are planning a patriotic celebration on a large scale for July 4.

Social Service Must Go On Effectively

Miss Vida Newsom Organizing State Wide Committee to Maintain This Work During War Times.

Committees on maintaining existing social service agencies have been named in seventy-three Indiana counties by women members of county defense councils. These committees will work under the direction of a central committee of which Miss Vida Newsom of Columbus is chairman.

The purpose of the committees is that of maintaining the same standards of social service activities during war times that existed previous to the war. It is not the intention to organize new social service associations; but to secure the support and cooperation of the people of the various communities necessary to keep the existing peace agencies at least on the level of peace efficiency.

To that end the social service committee of the woman's section has been asked to find out as far as possible how the various social service agencies in the state have been affected by the war. Pursuant to this end a questionnaire and a list of suggestions has been prepared and copies are being sent each social service agency in the State. The information thus obtained will be reported to the central committee.

Among the organizations and individuals that are being queried are boards of county charities, boards of children's guardians, relief organizations, associated charities, county farms, county hospitals, anti-tuberculosis societies, public health workers and nurses, probation officers, attendance officers, old peoples' homes, orphans' rescue homes, Y. M. C. A. general secretaries, Y. W. C. A. general secretaries, and day nurseries.

The questionnaires include the following ten questions:

1. To what extent have your resources been curtailed by the war?
2. What specific needs are now urgent in your organization?
3. What volunteer service could you use?
4. Has the burden of your work increased since war was declared?
5. Have you paid workers who may be needed in other pursuits whom you could replace by volunteers?
6. Is there any service which your beneficiaries could render, such as sewing or knitting, preparation of surgical dressings, and clerical work?
7. Could you use motor service?
8. Have you any suggestions which would be mutually helpful?
9. What supervision and how much training would you be willing to give to volunteers?
10. Would you cooperate with us in reporting on the qualifications and efficiency of the volunteer workers we send you?

Following is a list of Miss Newsom's state-wide committee members:

Bartholomew—Miss Vida Newsom, Columbus.
Benton—Mrs. Margaret Blessing, Oxford.
Blackford—Mrs. Annetta Kerr, Hartford City.
Clinton—Mrs. Walter S. Paris, Frankfort.
Crawford—Mrs. (Dr.) Dean, Leavenworth.
Davies—Mrs. Jake Beitman, Washington.
Dearborn—Miss Calla Kassebaum, Aurora.
Decatur—Mrs. Taylor F. Meek, Greensburg.
DeKalb—Mrs. Scott Forney, Ashely.
Boone—Mrs. Ben McKey, Lebanon.
Brown—Mrs. H. B. Miller, Nashville.
Carroll—Mrs. William Breckenridge, Delphi.
Cass—Miss Laura Howe, Logansport.
Clark—Mrs. Homer Heller, Jeffersonville.
Clay—Mrs. Julemia Moore, Brazil.
Delaware—Mrs. Charles VanNatre, Muncie.
Dubois—Mrs. L. C. Lukemeier, Huntingburg.
Elkhart—Mrs. Frank Coppis, Napanee.
Fayette—Mrs. B. F. Theibaud, Connorsville.
Fountain—Miss M. Ansberry, Veedsburg.
Franklin—Mrs. Sarah Harrell, Brookville.
Fulton—Mrs. A. E. Babcock, Rochester.
Gibson—Mrs. J. R. McGregor, Princeton.

Grant—Mrs. Charles O. Bechtol, Marion.
Greene—Mrs. L. Booz, Worthington.
Hancock—Mrs. Cora Orr, Greenfield.
Harrison—Mrs. Mary Cassaboom, Corydon.
Henry—Mrs. L. H. Clift, New Castle.
Huntington—Mrs. Dora Crites, Huntington.
Jackson—Mrs. J. F. Shiel, Brownstown.
Jasper—Mrs. A. P. Burton, Rensselaer.
Jennings—Mrs. Zelpha M. Weber, No. Vernon.
Johnson—Mrs. Edward Bailey, Franklin.
Knox—Mrs. H. D. Ridenour, Vincennes.
Kosciusko—Mrs. Owen Switzer, Warsaw.
Lagrange—Mrs. C. C. Rozelle, Lagrange.
Lake—Mrs. E. L. Shortridge, Crown Point.
Laporte—Mrs. Ferris Cutler, Laporte.
Lawrence—Mrs. W. E. Clark, Bedford.
Jefferson—Mrs. W. O. McClelland, Madison.
Marshall—Mrs. Winnie L. Humrichouser, Plymouth.

Madison—Mrs. Lew Palmer, Anderson.
Martin—Mrs. P. P. Engleman, Shoals.
Miami—Miss Clara Mowbray, Peru.
Monroe—Mrs. C. E. Edmondson, Bloomington.
Montgomery—Mrs. Emerson E. Ballard, Crawfordsville.

Morgan—Mrs. Mattie Hodges, Paragon.
Newton—Mrs. Thomas H. Dixon, Kentland.
Ohio—Miss Christine North, Rising Sun.
Parke—Mrs. E. E. Brubeck, Rockville.
Pike—Mrs. White Chappell, Algiers.
Porter—Mrs. Mary D. Wilson, Valparaiso.
Pulaski—Mrs. G. W. Thompson, Winamac.
Putnam—Mrs. A. M. Hootman, Greencastle.
Randolph—Mrs. W. W. Reed, Winchester.
Ripley—Mrs. Monta Royce, Versailles.
Rush—Miss Alma Green, Rushville.
Scott—Mrs. L. N. Mace, Scottsburg.
Spencer—Mrs. Lewis Woolfolk, Grandview.
Starke—Mrs. H. F. Schriker, Knox.
St. Joseph—Mrs. C. M. R. Haeske, So. Bend.
Sullivan—Mrs. Mary E. Willis, Sullivan.
Switzerland—Mrs. J. P. Brockschlager, Vevay.
Tipton—Mrs. J. P. Pentacost, Tipton.
Union—Mrs. Albert Bertsch, Liberty.
Vanderburgh—Mrs. A. M. Dawson, Evansville.
Vigo—Mrs. Harry Schloss, Terre Haute.
Wabash—Mrs. Frank Henley, Wabash.
Washington—Mrs. Frank Munkelt, Salem.
Wayne—Miss Flora May Green, Richmond.
Wells—Mrs. Clara Springstead, Bluffton.
White—Mrs. C. D. Meeker, Monticello.
Whitley—Mrs. Arthur S. Nowells, Columbia City.

Red Cross Activities

In order that soldiers may secure full benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Act, the war department has arranged to cooperate with the American Red Cross through its chapter home service sections. Under the direction and advice of legal members of the home service sections, the Red Cross will endeavor to secure for soldiers and sailors the full benefits of the law, which is intended to protect men in the service from undue hardships caused by their inability to bring or defend lawsuits and to attend to their business obligations during their absence from home. Any man who wishes to take advantage of the provisions of this act may refer his case through his commanding officer to the adjutant general of the army and the department will refer the matter to the Red Cross.

To facilitate the securing of applications for Red Cross overseas service, R. H. Crowell, associate director of the Lake Division personnel department, is making a trip through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky to organize subcommittees on personnel in the larger chapter cities. Red Cross volunteers must enlist for six months. They receive no salaries and must pay their own expenses. The age limits for women applicants are as follows: clerical, 25 to 40 years; social service, 28 to 50 years; canteen service, 25 to 35 years. No men under the age of 31 will be accepted unless they have been placed in Class 5-G by their local exemption boards.

It is better to eat a corn dodger than to be one.

Indiana Farmers Are Asked to Plant Early

Corn Does Better When Risk of Early Frost Is Avoided, Says Thornburg, to State Council.

At the suggestion of Ernest Thornburg of Randolph County, president of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association, the State Council of Defense at its meeting May 1, passed a resolution urging Indiana farmers to make every possible effort to have their 1918 corn crop planted by May 25. The resolution follows:

Whereas, Experimental work and practical demonstrations have shown in a clear way that early planted corn gives the largest yields and stands the best chance of maturing in the fall. Late planted corn always runs the risk of being caught by early frosts. Again, late planting necessitates the use of smaller varieties which do not yield as well as do the ones suited to the community and which occupy the larger part of the growing season.

Corn planting began in Indiana about April 25th. The southern half of the State should have all its corn planted by the 10th of May and the entire crop of the State should be planted by the 25th of May.

In order to accomplish this, however, the work must be planned carefully and in many instances the co-operation of neighbors will be required.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That the State Council of Defense urges every farmer in Indiana to make every possible effort to complete the planting by May 25th, and,

Be it further Resolved, That the State Council of Defense urge farmers to co-operate in the exchange of labor that the planting may be completed by the above date.

On a motion by Isaac D. Straus, the production committee was instructed to make immediately a survey to determine whether Indiana farmers have a sufficient supply of seed corn for planting this year.

T. A. Coleman of the food production committee told the Council that ten to fifteen car loads of seed corn were being shipped by express from New Jersey for farmers of northern Indiana, where the seed from southern States cannot be used because of the length of time it takes to mature.

Food Administration

Alleged profiteering is the basis of an order suspending the license of the Frazier Packing Company, of Elwood, Ind., effective April 23d.

Indiana condensed milk dealers and importers of green coffee have been notified that their continued failure to secure federal license will mean their enforced suspension of business.

Saloonkeepers who upon the termination of their right to do business in alcoholic liquors, engaged in the restaurant business have been notified that they must conform to health standards for their clerks and cleanliness about their premises. Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, announces that already there are too many food distributing agencies in the State.

A recent decision of the law department of the food administration places the ice business directly under supervision of the food administrators. Dr. Barnard has referred to the county administrators a number of appeals based upon proposed arbitrary increases in price for ice, with a recommendation that a committee of representative citizens be asked to make an investigation and recommendation as to the merit of all claims for increased prices. The plan has been followed successfully and satisfactorily in several Indiana communities. Only where local agencies fail will the food administration take a hand.

Encouraging responses are being received from municipalities as to the enforcement of ordinances prohibiting livestock, dogs and cats from running at large, jeopardizing war gardens. Dr. Barnard has urged county administrators to make this a part of their business, to the end that gardening be encouraged and the greatest possible quantity of foodstuff produced.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 38

Report of Speakers' Bureau April 21-27

A full report on Education Week will be submitted May 8th.

During Education Week, approximately 250 schools were addressed, approximately 45 speakers, made up of men from the faculties of the colleges and universities, and two city superintendents, doing the work.

The Speakers' Bureau prepared a syllabus urging the importance of completing the education of young people, and sent copies to all speakers used, and to all high schools addressed, in order that extracts from these syllabi might be put on the blackboard and called to the attention of the students.

It was found in some cases that the schools had closed, but most of those selected were open. The report indicates which were omitted on this account.

Speaking engagements for the week were:

April 21

North Vernon.—John Rynerson, Columbus. Second speaker supplied by President Millis of Hanover College. Two meetings in vicinity of North Vernon arranged by County Agricultural Agent B. A. Richards. Held every Sunday.

Dana.—Dr. L. S. Davis, Indianapolis. Big patriotic meeting arranged by Mrs. Homer Davis. Brazil.—R. D. Armstrong. Men's Bible Class, afternoon; church service, evening; Dr. F. C. Dilley in charge.

Worthington.—Lieutenant-Governor Edgar D. Bush. Mass meeting, J. B. Young, county council chairman, in charge.

New Point.—J. J. Collicott and Karl Lenz of Indianapolis. Patriotic meeting in charge of Merrill L. Wilson.

April 22

Logansport.—Miss Rose Szewc, Indianapolis. Eleventh District Federation of Clubs meeting, Mrs. James Wilson of Wabash in charge.

Cofax.—Dr. L. S. Davis and Mrs. Davis. High school alumni meeting, Mrs. Elmer Singer in charge.

April 23

Laporte.—Miss Rose Szewc, Indianapolis. Thirteenth District Federation of Clubs meeting, Mrs. A. E. Dillon in charge.

Veedersburg.—J. J. Pettijohn, Indianapolis. High school commencement exercises.

April 24

Noblesville.—J. J. Pettijohn, Indianapolis. Educational meeting, Superintendent A. C. Payne in charge.

Ft. Wayne.—Dr. L. S. Davis, Indianapolis. Liberty Loan Subscribers' Day. F. W. Shockley in charge.

Greencastle.—Eleanor Barker, Indianapolis. Civics and Franchise Society. Miss Irene Goffeney in charge.

Linton.—Edgar Webb, Indianapolis. Sunday school convention, Y. M. C. A. and other war activities. Mrs. Fannie Bain in charge.

Greensburg.—Miss Rose Szewc, Indianapolis. Federation of Clubs. Mrs. Fannie Rabb Green, Rising Sun, in charge.

Brazil.—Rabbi Morris Feuerlicht, Indianapolis. Big mass meeting. Dr. F. C. Dilley in charge.

April 25

Muncie.—Dr. F. S. Bogardus, Terre Haute. Warner Gear Patriotic Club; three addresses at noon and two at midnight. Mr. C. B. Cecil in charge.

Bloomington.—Dr. Mitchell Carroll, Archaeological Institute. President Wm. L. Bryan in charge of meeting.

April 26

Linton.—Attorney-General Ele Stansbury, Indianapolis. Patriotic meeting—Linton, afternoon; Worthington, evening. J. B. Young, chairman county council, Worthington, in charge.

Indianapolis.—Dr. Mitchell Carroll, Archaeological Institute. Art Institute (arranged).

Francesville.—F. L. Sims, South Bend. Liberty Day. L. W. Hubbell in charge.

Cumberland.—R. D. Armstrong, Indianapolis. Patriotic meeting. Wm. Gale, school trustee, in charge.

Franklin.—Miss Marie Rose Lauler, Bloomington. Charlotte Emerson Club. Mrs. S. A. Wilson, Franklin, in charge of meeting.

Hudson.—J. Fred Masters, Indianapolis. Commencement exercises. (Dr. L. S. Davis.)

April 27

Parker.—M. Claude Michelin, Indianapolis. Patriotic meeting. Mrs. P. C. Barnard in charge.

On Professor Michelin's arrival at Parker, where he spoke Saturday, he found the rumor had preceded him that he had been arrested in Indianapolis as a German spy. This rumor has been circulated several times at places where Mr. Michelin was billed to make his address and show his interesting films of life at the French front. In this connection the Speakers' Bureau authorizes the following:

"We would like to make the statement that this rumor is absolutely false, and in our own opinion a piece of German propaganda. We would like to urge the authorities in those cities which are fortunate enough to secure Mr. Michelin's services to make every effort to forestall this sort of occurrence in their own communities; if the rumor does start, to trace it to its source and report their discoveries to the State Council."

Do You Want to Pay This Bill?

(Bethmann-Hollweg in 1917)

After Germany has won, the United States will find herself confronted with an indemnity claim which will about equal the entire amount expended by Germany in the whole war. For every loan to the Allies, for every bullet, every shell, every gun, every conceivable item of war material shipped by America to the Allies, there will be an accounting in gold.

Attention, County Councils

General Bulletin No. 143

April 30, 1918

TO COUNTY COUNCILS OF DEFENSE:

During the week of May 20 to 27 the American Red Cross will conduct a second fund campaign and it is heartily desired by the State Council of Defense that the several County Councils exert every effort and influence to bring this campaign to a successful termination on the date fixed.

The campaign is to be directed by special committees appointed in each county. The chairmen of these committees have been asked to place themselves in touch with their respective County Councils of Defense at once and to show them wherein they may be of service. Please, therefore, tender to the Red Cross the services of your entire organization.

With the County and Township Councils of Defense co-operating fully in this campaign, we are assured that it will be a success in every way.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS.

(Official Bulletin)

You would give your life for your country. You would scorn an American whose patriotism ended with waving flags, cheering the troops and standing up when the band plays. You want to serve your country.

Are you willing to do what your Government asks? Are you willing to follow directions?

Are you so comfortably fixed that you can afford to eat what you please? Ah, but you can't afford to eat what your country needs. Follow directions.

Are you saving now of your slender means all you possibly can? Still, as far as your circumstances permit, follow directions.

Have you servants who can't be made to understand? It is your chore to see that they do. Follow directions.

Follow directions. Today the direction is to save two slices of bread, an ounce of meat, an ounce of sugar, a snitch of butter. Tomorrow as conditions change there will be new directions. Follow directions.

Follow directions. If Germany wins you will be obeying orders given by some one you will not care to obey. Your Government asks you to prove that free people can follow directions.

Follow directions. If we fail in this the war will drag on. As we succeed, we shall sooner have peace. Follow directions.

Canadian Food Budget Far Below U. S. Standard.

England has gone on rations and each buyer, from the king to the humblest citizen, must present a card to secure his weekly allotment of one and one-quarter pound of meat and four ounces of butter or margarine. The Canadian Food Board is urging Canadians to adopt voluntary rationing and has issued a budget for a family of five—a man and his wife at moderate work; a boy of twelve years, and two other children of nine and three years, respectively.

The rations imposed on the English people and the voluntary rations asked of the Canadians are far below what has been asked of Americans in conservation.

This Canadian budget will provide adequate nourishment for a family of five for one week, although it calls for greater restrictions than are being asked for by the United States Food Administration. Especially may the difference be noticed in the milk allowance. In the United States, at the present time, there is an abundance of milk and people are urged to use it freely.

One week's budget for a family of five in Canada follows:

Milk—Seven quarts whole milk.
Fruit—Fourteen pounds, according to season.
Fats—Two pounds butter or oleomargarine; one pound cooking fat.

Sugars—Three pounds of sugar; one pound corn syrup, molasses or honey.

Cereal Products—Ten pounds flour; ten pounds cereals in other forms.

Fresh Vegetables—Forty pounds potatoes; fourteen pounds other fresh vegetables.

Meat and Meat substitutes—Four pounds lean meat; two pounds fresh fish; one pound salt fish; one dozen eggs; one pound cheese; two pounds dried beans or split peas.

Function of the Food Administration.

(By Herbert Hoover)

To so guide the trade in the fundamental food commodities as to eliminate vicious speculation, extortion and wasteful practices and to stabilize prices in the essential staples.

To guard our exports so that against the world's shortage, we retain sufficient supplies for our own people and to co-operate with the Allies to prevent inflation of prices.

To stimulate in every manner within our power the production and saving of our food in order that we may increase exports to the Allies to a point which will enable them to properly provision their armies and to feed their peoples.

"Keep the Home Fires Burning!"

To the People of Indiana:

We have every reason to be proud of the record that Indiana has made in this war. She has taken high rank among the other States of the Union in every war activity, but it is of vital importance, in the midst of the turmoil of war and the engrossing duties that rest upon our people on account of the war, that we do not neglect to "keep the home fires burning" as well.

The character of the candidates to be selected in the coming primary by the various political parties is of vast importance to our State. In fact, to enable the State to discharge its full duty in the war, we must have the very highest type of officials to administer the affairs of the State and of our various local governments.

There is increasing evidence that the people are neglecting one of the most vital duties of citizenship and taking but little interest in the selection of candidates for office at the various primaries.

In 50 per cent of the counties in Indiana the nomination is equivalent to an election and there will be but little chance for a discriminating choice after the ticket is nominated on May 7th.

I, therefore, urge upon men of all parties the importance of giving to the coming primary your most careful consideration. Study the character of the men, their ability to fill the office to which they aspire and then not only go to the polls and express your intelligent judgment on the day of the primary, but urge upon all of your friends and neighbors to do likewise.

JAMES P. GOODRICH,
Governor.

To the People of Indiana:

Indiana is making a splendid record in this war. In every war activity her people have responded promptly and are displaying a spirit that will ultimately help to bring to the nation a lasting and permanent victory.

In this crisis, however, it is the duty of the citizenship of Indiana to take the same vital interest in the administration of the affairs of the State, county and township that they have taken in the past. We must maintain the same high standard of efficiency in government everywhere in the State during the war so that when the war ends the people will have a stable and sound government in every department.

We are soon to nominate candidates in Indiana, under the primary law, for the various public offices in the State. It is the duty of the people to take an active interest in this coming primary and to see to it that the highest and best type of citizens are nominated for the various offices in the State. The intense interest of the public in war activities has had a tendency, in my judgment, to lead the people to neglect the coming primary in Indiana. In many counties of Indiana a nomination means an election. That being true, it is important that the best men be nominated in each county of the State. It seems to me, therefore, that it would be well for the entire citizenship of this State to give the approaching primary careful consideration.

We are sending our bravest and best boys to the front today to do and to die for America and its institutions. We must keep Indiana moving forward in every line of social, moral and intellectual growth while they are away. Thus, it becomes the duty of the citizenship of the State to fill every public office with men of character and ability. This can be accomplished only if the general public will take the proper interest in the primary.

May I urge, therefore, that in the next few days this matter of the primary be given careful consideration at the hands of the people of the State.

MICHAEL E. FOLEY,
Chairman Indiana State Council of Defense.

Odds on the Big Fight.

Some big odds on the big fight are announced by the St. Louis Post Dispatch which are unique. Here they are:

- That the Germans are stopped, 10 to 1.
- That they don't get to Paris, 50 to 1.
- That the British lick them, 5 to 3.
- That the French lick them, 5 to 3.
- That the Americans lick them, 5 to 2.
- That none of the Kaiser's sons gets hurt, 100 to 1.
- That Hindenburg wishes he were still fighting the Russians, 500 to 1.
- That the Germans will follow with a peace offensive, 8 to 1.
- That Russia will wish she had stuck to the ship, 5,000 to 1.

England Calls for Potatoes Million Acre Crop Needed

There is no crop under existing war conditions which can compare with potatoes in importance as a food for either man or beast, and it would be quite impossible to plant too many potatoes this spring.

If we can get a million acres under potatoes in Great Britain this year, the food situation will be safe, and farmers will have rendered an immense service to their country.

The potato-grower is in the front line of the fight against the submarine. He can defeat it if he chooses, but victory depends on his action and exertions during the next few weeks.

LLOYD GEORGE,
British Prime Minister.

Eager for Indemnity.

Germany's easy victory over poor Russia has whetted the appetite of the Junkers for war indemnities. This was illustrated at a recent meeting of the Agrarian League, a typical junker body. The speakers all insisted upon an ample war indemnity as an absolute necessity. One of them, a personal friend of the crown prince, stated the demand in these words:

"The last picture must be put at auction in Rome, and the last franc must be taken from the French, before we undertake to pay the cost of the war ourselves."

The same sentiment has been expressed by other leading spokesmen of the all powerful militarist party, though none have used language of such brutal frankness as the friend of the crown prince. There is no doubt that the Teutons, if victorious, after getting the last picture of Italy, and the last franc of France, would proceed to gather in the pounds of England, and the dollars of America.

It will be remembered that at an earlier stage of the war some of the Pan-German writers welcomed America's entrance into the contest, because, as they put it, Germany would have no prospect of obtaining adequate indemnity from any country but the United States, which would have to pay for all.

But the Huns will discover before they are through that America is not going to wind up this business with herself as the debtor. There will be indemnities to pay, but the Huns will do the paying.

War prices can never be low. In buying food, remember this: It is wheat, not money, that we must save to win the victory.

Fraud Perpetrated by Alleged Belgians.

County councils of defense and other patriotic agencies are asked by Belgian Consul-General Albert Moulart, of Chicago, to guard against encouraging desertions from the Belgian army by engaging for patriotic addresses from Belgian soldiers who might be tempted to overstay their leave, and against fraud such as is being perpetrated by men representing themselves as Belgians. He urges that all speaking engagements be made through recognized and established patriotic agencies to the end that there be the least possible chance of irregularity. Two cases of fraud described by the consul are as follows:

Louis d'Harclay (real name Louis Vandenberg), soldier, Twentieth Infantry, Belgian Army, is overstaying his leave and is consequently a deserter; this man is not authorized to lecture.

Sergeant Lerche (real name John Lerche) seems to have belonged to the field section of the Belgian Aviation, but further inquiries are necessary; pretends to have brought down in combat sixteen German planes. This is a lie, as his name does not figure in the Belgian official record of aviators. He has no right to wear the Belgian uniform.

Liberty Guard Lights

Following are the specifications for the uniforms which have just been authorized for members of the Indiana Liberty Guards. It is estimated that the uniforms will cost slightly over $10 complete, except the shoes.

MATERIALS: Garments of olive drab, regulation nine ounce cotton.

COAT: Single breasted, straight front, four button sack coat, with lapels, having two outside hip patch pockets with flap, two outside breast patch pockets with flap, and shoulder loops. Buttons—bronze with Indiana State seal thereon.

TROUSERS: Foot breeches, with laced leg.

SHIRT: Regulation O. D. cotton shirt; black four in hand tie.

LEGGINGS: Canvas-front lace.

SHOES: Any suitable tan shoe, but if purchased—Government contract shoe—Munson last.

HAT: Regulation service hat, with green cotton hat cord; worn Montana peak style.

CHEVRONS: Regulation with khaki colored bars.

BELT: Regulation O. D. web belt.

COLLAR ORNAMENTS: Bronze letters I. L. G. of suitable size in bar worn below the notch of the righthand lapel; crossed rifle ornament of bronze worn on the left coat lapel immediately below the notch.

OFFICERS' UNIFORMS: Will be governed by the foregoing requirements as to cut and form, it being the purpose to avoid conflict with section 125 of the Act of Congress, approved June 3, 1915, wherein civil or semi-military organizations are prohibited from wearing the uniform of the U. S. Army or Navy and directing that the uniform of semi-military organizations must be distinguished from that of the Army and Navy. The lapel collar and the insignias herein suggested are such distinguishing marks.

The materials used in an officer's uniform should be cotton, as we have no desire to impose burdens or to incur expenditures unnecessary at this time. The insignias of rank should be those worn by the similar rank in the army. Instead of the canvas legging the leather puttee is prescribed for officers of all rank.

Waste of any kind of food is a crime which may lose the fight for us and the penalty will be worse than any punishment meted out by law for the ordinary crimes against society. The trail of the Prussian army in Belgium and invaded France shows the nature of the punishment we may expect if we fail, through blind carelessness and waste of food, to support our fighting men.

A Cheerful Thought.

Be cheerful. Mental depression checks digestion. Poor digestion wastes food. Wasted food helps the enemy. Cheerfulness is conservation.

Registration Calls For Added Supplies

Many Townships Report Every Woman and Girl Has Answered Questions Propounded.

More than 750,000 cards for the registration of women for war work have been sent out by the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense and many county chairmen still report that they have not sufficient supplies. This is an indication of the success with which the registration campaign has met in the entire State. A number of counties already have reported a 100 per cent registration and many townships have reported that every woman and girl over the age of 16 has registered. The committees which have charge of the census have met with no opposition and in almost all cases women have been eager to enroll.

Woman's Section

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29, 1918.

Bulletin No. 52

To the County Chairman of the Registration Committee:

When your registration is finished you will please arrange for responsible parties to file the cards.

IT IS IMPORTANT that the cards be examined to see—

- (1) That the information is clearly given on the body of the card.
- (2) That the writing is legible.
- (3) That the markings on the tabs agree with the information on the body of the card.

The tabs which are not marked should be cut off, and the cards filed alphabetically, using the surname of the woman as it is written on the card.

The "No. —" on the upper lefthand corner of the card is to be used to number your cards if you choose to number them.

You will please keep a few of the registration cards on hand to be used in case some one who has been missed wishes to register, or in case some one who refused to register changes her mind and would at a future date like to register. Then if you have a hundred or more cards on hand please return them to us as we are again out of cards. We have 100,000 on the way from Washington at this time and as soon as received we will rush cards to those who have requested additional supply.

Please fill in "Summary" and send one copy to us, the other keep for your own records. We will send copy to Washington.

WOMAN'S SECTION STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE REGISTRATION COMMITTEE,
JULIA E. LANDERS, Chairman.

SPEAKERS' CONFERENCE

A state conference of "Fourteen Minute" women will be held in the assembly hall of the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, May 10. County chairmen of the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense and all "Fourteen Minute" women are asked by Mrs. Julia C. Henderson, state chairman of the "Fourteen Minute" organization, to be present.

The morning session will be given over to a roll call by counties. This will be followed by a luncheon. At the afternoon session a representative of the National Food Administration will speak. Other speakers will be Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle chairman of the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense; Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense and Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana. The Marion County "Fourteen Minute" women will be hostesses at the meeting.

Reservations for the luncheon should be sent at once to Mrs. R. Harry Miller, 1301 North Alabama Street, Indianapolis. Reservations should be accompanied by a check for $1 a plate.

The Jasper County War Mothers have purchased a Liberty Bond, and are busy knitting sweaters for men in the service. The organization held its third monthly meeting April 27 and much enthusiasm in the work was shown. The organization is planning a service flag with 175 stars representing men from the county who have gone into the service. . . . Sixty women registered at the first meeting of War Mothers in Grant County. A nominating committee has been named and officers will be elected in the near future. The organization attended in a body the funeral of a soldier who was killed in a storm at Camp Shelby. About 160 men have gone into the service from the county. . . . Mrs. French spoke at a meeting of War Mothers at Franklin, April 30. . . . Each of the 100 members of the Fayette County War Mothers' organization has contributed $1 toward the purchase of a Liberty Bond. A $100 bond will be purchased and the remainder will go for Thrift Stamps. The organization has purchased $140 worth of yarn for socks and sweaters and is planning a "parcel post shower" to obtain more money for this purpose.

* * * *

Following is a list of the officers and committees of the Indiana War Mothers:

Indiana War Mother—Mrs. Alice M. French, Woodruff Place, Indianapolis.

Indiana Registrar—Mrs. A. W. Mason, Columbus.

Indiana Scriptor—Mrs. W. E. Ochiltree, Connersville.

Indiana Financier—Mrs. C. B. O'Donnell, Vincennes.

Indiana Auditors—Mrs. John O'Harrow, Bloomington; Mrs. Hattie Sherwood, Linton; Mrs. G. M. Isenhour, Martinsville.

Indiana Historian—Mrs. Myron Williams, Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis.

COMMITTEES—Ways and Means: Mrs. A. W. Roach, Richmond; Mrs. Jas. M. Lang, Sullivan; Mrs. P. L. Beal, New Castle; Mrs. Nell Hudson Jordan, Corydon; Mrs. Fred H. Bowers, Huntington; Mrs. F. D. Heimbaugh, Muncie. Resolutions: Mrs. Harvey Morrison, Shelbyville; Mrs. Annie McConnell, Decatur; Mrs. Jas. Blackledge, Rushville; Mrs. S. F. Porter, Peru; Mrs. A. A. Tripp, North Vernon; Mrs. H. V. Nixon, Newport. Current Events: Mrs. Edward Kessing, Greensburg; Mrs. John Owens, Bedford; Mrs. Elizabeth Cottingham, Noblesville; Mrs. Lillian Comley, Lebanon; Mrs. Jerry Jamison, Salem; Mrs. B. W. Gillespie, Indianapolis. Time-Place: Mrs. John Davis, Kentland; Mrs. J. B. Laramore, Greenfield; Mrs. E. E. Ford, Wabash; Mrs. Ed. Dufendach, Huntington; Mrs. R. G. Inwood, South Bend; Mrs. O. E. Adams, Brazil. Publicity: Mrs. Wm. Douglas, Attica; Mrs. Herbis Clemments, Mt. Vernon; Mrs. Geo. Julian, Delphi; Mrs. Jas. R. McGregor, Princeton. Stationery: Mrs. Mary W. Schick, Laporte; Mrs. C. D. Meeker, Monticello; Mrs. Padgett, Rensselaer; Mrs. W. S. Malott, Marion; Mrs. D. E. Finkener, Greenwood.

Program

Child Welfare Conference, Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis,
May 9, 1918.

MORNING SESSION.

9:30 A. M.

Dr. Horace Ellis, Presiding.

"Organization of Women for War Work". Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle
"The Truant Child". . . . . Mrs. Angela Moler
"The Retarded Child". . . . . Prof. T. F. Fitzgibbon
"The Mentally Defective Child". . . . . Miss Helen T. Reeves
"The Physically Handicapped Child". . . . . Dr. L. P. Drayer
"The Delinquent Child". . . . . Judge Joseph Combs
"The Neglected Child". . . . . Miss Minnetta Baum
"Health Supervision in the Schools". . . . . E. U. Graff
"Following Up Health Supervision". . . . . Miss Ida J. McCaslin
"The Ungraded Room". . . . . L. P. Benetz
"The Fresh Air Room". . . . . Miss Mary A. Meyers
"The Sanitary School House". . . . . Dr. W. F. King

AFTERNOON SESSION.

3:00 P. M.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, Presiding.

Informal Remarks. . . . . Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle
"What the State is Doing to Protect Its Children":
By the Board of State Charities. . . . . Amos W. Butler
By the State Board of Health. . . . . Dr. J. N. Hurty
By the State Board of Education. . . . . Dr. Horace Ellis
By the Department of Inspection, State Industrial Board,
John J. Walsh, Mrs. A. T. Cox
"The Mental Defective, a Menace to Childhood". . . . . Dr. S. E. Smith
"The Menace of the Feeble-Minded Child". . . . . Dr. Kenosha Sessions
"The Red Cross and Child Dependents". . . . . Shelly P. Watts
"Child-helping by Private Agencies". . . . . Paul L. Kirby
"The Work of the Parent-Teacher Association". . . . . Mrs. H. E. Barnard

EVENING SESSION.

8:00 P. M.

Amos W. Butler, Presiding.

"Defending the Child". . . . . Michael E. Foley
"The Nurses' Training Camp at Vassar in Relation to Child Welfare". . . . . Mrs. Frederic Krull
"The Children's Year". . . . . Miss Julia C. Lathrop

Miss Julia C. Lathrop, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, will be the principal speaker and the guest of honor at a conference of the child welfare workers of the State at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, May 9. The conference has been called by the Child Welfare Committee of the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense. Members of the Child Welfare Committees of the various counties and others interested have been invited to attend. Besides the sessions, a luncheon will be given at 12:30 in the Riley Room of the hotel at which Miss Lathrop will speak. Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle chairman of the Woman's Section, will preside. Reservations for the luncheon must be in the hands of the state committee by May 8. Reservation should be accompanied by checks for $1 a plate.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

COTTAGE CHEESE DISHES

"Cottage cheese, while it has long been known, has been little appreciated. Easy to make, it has often been poorly made and unattractively served. In food value cheese is in the class with lean meat and eggs, being more valuable than either in material that goes to build muscle, blood, and bone.

"Cottage cheese in fact is a food that may form an important part of the diet, served either alone or in combination. In soup, sauce, meat-like dish, salad, or dessert, cottage cheese may be well used. As a basis for the main dish of the meal it will materially reduce expenses, appeal to the appetite, and save meat.

"Being made from skim milk, which now is either fed to live stock or wasted, cottage cheese makes available directly for human food a valuable but little appreciated dairy product."

From U. S. Department of Agriculture, Circular 109, "Cottage Cheese Dishes." This may be obtained by writing to Miss Miriam Beall, Purdue University, W. Lafayette, Indiana.

A campaign to increase its production and use is being carried on thruout the State by means of demonstrations and the distribution of bulletins, under the direction of Miss Miriam Beall, Agent in Dairying, Department of Agriculture, thru the Extension Department, Purdue University. If further information is desired write to the above address.

The following dishes have been tested by Miss Miriam Beall, Agent in Dairying, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, and further information regarding them may be obtained by writing to her.

Cottage Cheese Whip:

- 2 cups cottage cheese.
- 1/4 cup apricot or other fruit pulp.
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped.
- 1/4 cup sugar.
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice.
- Few gratings of lemon rind.

If the cheese is dry, soften it with a little sweet milk and mix with the fruit pulp. Fold in the beaten egg whites and part of the whipped cream, then serve with a little of the whipped cream.

Scrambled Eggs with Cottage Cheese:

- For each egg use:
- 1 tablespoon milk.
- 1/3 teaspoon salt.
- Plenty of pepper.
- 1 rounding tablespoon cottage cheese.
- Pinch of baking soda.
- Fat to grease pan.
- Mix eggs, seasonings, and 1 tablespoon milk for each egg. Scramble eggs as usual in greased pan till entirely cooked. Neutralize acid in cheese with soda, stir lightly into egg. Serve immediately.

Cottage Cheese and Nut Loaf:

- 2 cups cottage cheese.
- 1 cup chopped nuts (use local nuts if possible).
- 1 cup cold leftover cereal (any kind).
- 1 cup dry bread crumbs (corn or Victory bread).
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion, or
- 1/2 teaspoon onion juice.
- 1 tablespoon fat.
- Salt, pepper.
- 1/3 teaspoon soda or more to neutralize acid.
- Mix all ingredients together thoroughly and bake in a buttered pan in a hot oven till top and sides are well browned over. Turn out on a hot platter. Serve with a brown or tomato sauce if desired.

Escalloped Rice and Cottage Cheese:

Put into a baking dish, layers of cooked rice, cream sauce and cottage cheese to which chopped pimento has been added. Cover with crumbs and heat in oven.

Whey Lemonade:

- 2 cups whey.
- 3 tablespoons sugar.
- Juice of one lemon.
- Slices of lemon or a little grated or diced rind.
- Cinnamon.

Mix, chill and serve as a beverage. Fruit juices may be added to make a punch.

Whey Honey:

- 1 cup of whey.
- 1/3 cup sugar or
- 1/2 cup corn sirup.

Mix and boil until it is of the consistency of strained honey. Serve with griddle cakes or thin and use as a pudding sauce.

Paste for Paper Hangers.

A prominent Indianapolis bill posting concern announces very satisfactory results from a paste made exclusively of corn starch. In the campaign to eliminate the use of wheat flour from the use of paste for paperhanging, the following recipe has been recommended as having withstood every test:

Thoroughly soak one part by weight of dry glue in ten parts by weight of water. Melt in a vessel surrounded by boiling water and stir in gradually four parts of ordinary laundry starch stirred up with ten parts of warm, but not hot, water. The starch must not be added so rapidly as to cool the glue solution too much, and each portion should be allowed to cook thoroughly before more is stirred in. This produces a perfectly smooth paste. Its consistency can be varied by changing the proportion of water used. For many purposes it may not be necessary to use as much glue in proportion to the starch. If the paste is to be kept for any length of time some preservative should be thoroughly stirred into the warm paste. Oil of cloves, oil of wintergreen and oil of sassafras are suitable.

Cut out non-essentials. We must clear the decks for action if we are going to win.

Silo Campaign Off With Enthusiasm

(Continued from Page 1.)

1918, in response to a call from the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, to consider the silo in relation to the world's increasing demand for a greater and more economical use of livestock feeds, and,

Whereas, The beef industry must be a success if the world is fed and farms replenished with the elements that produce crops, and,

Whereas, The herds of cows and calves must be wintered and pastured on the least possible number of acres and their number steadily increased, and,

Whereas, The production of a maximum supply of dairy products, which represents 20 per cent of our food supply, and the conservation of our dairy herds, which represent the world's last stock of dairy breeding animals, is very vital to an adequate food supply and to the rapid reconstruction of our agriculture after the war, and,

Whereas, The economical feeding of our herds to accomplish these purposes depends upon a more general use of farm roughages combined with a more limited supply of by-product feeds, and,

Whereas, Corn silage is the most available and economical roughage for this purpose; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to forward in every possible way a campaign to acquaint every livestock farmer with the importance of the silo in relation to his business. Be it further resolved that we, the representatives of the Indiana farmers, will do everything that can possibly be done to support our boys over the seas to plant the Stars and Stripes, that never have and never will see defeat, above a victory that will give pure democracy to all the world.

Signed:

MAURICE DOUGLAS, Chairman.
W. A. ALEXANDER.
C. A. GEORGE.

Proper Respect for the Flag

(National Geographic Magazine.)

(Editor's Note.—Patriotic citizens would do well to note the following carefully and preserve it for future guidance.)

While there is no federal law in force pertaining to the manner of displaying, hanging or saluting the United States flag, or prescribing any ceremonies that should be observed, there are many regulations and usages of national force bearing on the subject.

In raising the flag it should never be rolled up and hoisted to the top of the staff before unfurling. Instead, the fly should be free during the act of hoisting, which should be done quickly. It should be taken in slowly and with dignity. It should not be allowed to touch the ground on shore, nor should it be permitted to trail in the dust. It should not be hung where it can be contaminated or soiled easily, or draped over chairs or benches for seating purposes, and no object or emblem of any kind should be placed upon it or above it.

A common but regrettable practice at public meetings is to drape the flag like a tablecloth over the speaker's table and then place on the flag a pitcher of ice water, flowers, books, etc.

The flag should not be festooned over doorways or arches. Always let the flag hang straight. Do not tie it in a bow knot. Where colors are desired for decorative purposes, use red, white and blue bunting.

The flag should not be hoisted upside down, other than as a signal of distress at sea.

International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of any other with which it is at peace. When the flags of two or more nations are displayed, they should be on separate staffs or on separate halyards of equal size and on the same level.

The flag should never be raised or lowered by any mechanical appliance.

When the national colors are passing on parade, or in review, the spectator should, if walking, halt, and, if sitting, arise and stand at attention and uncover.

When flags are used in unveiling a statue or monument they should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

Where the national flag is displayed with state or other flags it should be given the place of honor on the right. Its use should be confined as much as possible to its display upon the staff. Where used as a banner the union should fly to the north in streets running east and west, and to the east in streets running north and south.

Old, faded or worn-out flags should not be used for banners or other secondary purposes.

When no longer fit for display the flag should be destroyed privately, preferably by burning or other methods lacking the suggestion of irreverence or disrespect.

A flag or an ensign at half-mast is the universal sign of mourning. Before being placed at half-mast the flag must always be raised to the top of the staff, and before it is lowered from half-mast it must likewise be hoisted to the top.

There are many substitutes for wheat flour, but no substitutes for peace.

Force and the Answer!

Germany has once more said that force, and force alone, shall decide whether justice and peace shall reign in the affairs of men, whether right as America conceives it shall determine the destinies of mankind.

There is, therefore, but one response possible from us:

Force, force to the utmost, force without stint or limit, the righteous and triumphant force which shall make right the law of the world, and cast every selfish dominion down in the dust.—Liberty Day speech by President Wilson, Baltimore, April 6, 1918.

Public Improvements Will Be Investigated

To Ascertain Whether the Economy Policy Has Been Observed in Some Indiana Counties.

Chairman Michael E. Foley was authorized at the regular meeting of the State Council of Defense May 1 to request county councils of defense to investigate certain projected public improvements and to report to the state council whether the improvements are necessary at this time and whether the men, money and material thus employed will aid in winning the war. The decision came as a result of the appearance before the council of W. S. Cutshall, mayor of Ft. Wayne, and Dr. F. R. Carson, mayor of South Bend, asking advice as to whether certain improvements should be completed and as a result of a letter from Mrs. J. W. Sansbury of Anderson, stating that a contract had been let for road improvements in Madison County to cost $70,950.

Mayor Cutshall stated that ten contracts for street and sewer improvements had been let during last year and that twenty contracts had been let this year. He stated that most of the material for these improvements had already been ordered but that the work had not actually started on all, and he asked the council as to whether the work should proceed. He stated that the contracts are small ones and that it would not take more than six weeks to complete all of the work. He also said that the work would require about 150 men who are constantly employed by the contractor and expressed his opinion that labor is not scarce at Ft. Wayne. Mayor Cutshall was advised to go ahead with the ten old contracts and was asked to submit to the council more complete information concerning the new ones.

Mayor Carson asked concerning a similar condition. He said that one large street improvement is nearly complete and that the contract had been let for another, which he declared to be absolutely necessary. He was advised to go ahead with work already started.

The council passed a resolution appointing John H. Holliday chairman of a committee, representing the council, to be designated as a Committee on Americanization, with power to select other members of the committee and to make expenditures with the approval of the chairman of the council as he may deem necessary to the work of such a committee. The appointment followed a short statement by Mr. Holliday in which he pointed out the necessity for Americanization work as illustrated in the conscription of men for the army who cannot speak English.

Chairman Foley read a letter from Mrs. Jennie Ward Wheeler of Lake County, in which she said that unscrupulous salesmen had been selling worthless stocks and bonds in that district. She asked that the council investigate as the operation of these fakers is a hindrance to the Liberty Loan campaign. The letter was referred to the finance committee.

Will J. Freeman read to the council an advertisement from a Terre Haute newspaper in which men were urged to go to Columbus, Ind., to take up employment in factories there. Mr. Freeman stated that such an advertisement was not in accordance with the policies of the federal government which discourage such tactics in obtaining labor. The labor committee will investigate.

Chairman Foley referred to the building of a new schoolhouse in Charlestown to replace one condemned by the State Board of Health. He stated that he would send a man to investigate and determine whether a new building is necessary at this time.

Mr. Foley announced the names of a Highway Transports Committee as follows: G. S. Winders, J. G. Mueller, Ernest Wiles, C. L. Diers, J. C. Ray, Claude Crowder, A. E. Reynolds, Evans Woolen and Isaac D. Straus. The last three named are members of the State Council of Defense and the others are the Transports Committee of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce.

The question of designating Herbert Eiler official state photographer, which was brought before the council at the request of Governor James

P. Goodrich, was referred to the committee on publicity.

After a thorough discussion of the conception and compilation of the War Service Textbook, its cost and the liability for payment thereof, on motion of Evans Woolen, A. W. Brady was appointed, first, to consult with all parties having available information on the subject and submit a statement of the facts to the attorney-general, with a request that he give an opinion as to the legal aspects; and, second, that Mr. Brady, after the receipt by him of the attorney-general's opinion, submit a report embodying his recommendations as to the council's action.

No Supplies Available For Unnecessary Work

Letters asking that all public improvements in Indiana not absolutely necessary be suspended have been sent to county auditors and the mayors of cities in the State by Michael E. Foley, chairman of the Indiana State Council of Defense. Enclosed with the letters were resolutions passed by the federal War Industries board and by the state council asking that no building or public work be done unless it is absolutely necessary or unless it will aid in winning the war.

In his letter to the county auditors Mr. Foley says, "If a bridge is washed out or your highways have been made impassable by flood or otherwise or if you have any conditions in any of your county institutions where the health of the inmates demands some immediate improvement—in this class of cases the resolutions shall not apply. It does apply, however, in the construction of highways, bridges, ditches or new buildings of any other class or character in your county."

"The secretary of the treasury has indicated that cars will not be furnished to haul materials for these improvements and that you cannot expect any cooperation from the railroads in the matter of furnishing the material for these improvements."

Mr. Foley asks the officials to whom the letters are addressed to take the matter up with their county councils and to call the attention of the public to the communications.

WHY REGISTER?

BECAUSE, in England, in the first two years of the war, over one million women were needed to replace men in industrial positions, making over 3,000,000 engaged in gainful occupations.

BECAUSE, in the same length of time, a tremendous force of volunteers was needed to cook for the workers, to care for their children during the day, and to take their places in the factories at week-ends that the work might go on but the workers have one day of rest.

BECAUSE, the United States—which already has taken over a million men out of industrial, professional and civic life, and with succeeding drafts will take millions more—will have similar emergencies to meet, and when they come needs to have a record of women willing to do the work required, either as paid or volunteer workers.

BECAUSE, all charitable agencies need a large force of volunteer workers to help with the big increase in relief, investigative, and protective work arising from war conditions.

BECAUSE, if you have any trained ability, there is a place you could be used —NOW—for the benefit of your community.

BECAUSE, if you have even half a day a week to spare, there is a bit of work calling to you—NOW.

BECAUSE, our boys are fighting for us in the trenches, and we should fight for them at home.

BECAUSE, this is a Government Census, and whether or not you are able to offer or perform any service, IT SHOULD INCLUDE YOU!

Americanization Plans

Mrs. Arthur S. Hurrell of Indianapolis was elected by unanimous vote to head a committee of representatives of woman's clubs of Indiana, to make plans for Americanization work by these clubs, at a meeting in the State House, May 2. The meeting was called by Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the woman's section of the State Council of Defense. Representatives of practically every woman's club which is doing Americanization work were present and agreed that the work could be carried on with more effect if the clubs were co-ordinated. It was decided that each organization would be a unit to undertake the work which they are best fitted to do and that they would follow the program which will be laid down by the joint committee.

Mrs. Hurrell, who has had wide experience in this kind of educational work, divided the activities of the clubs into four divisions—social, educational, industrial and extension. The educational programs laid down by the committee will follow these lines.

Mrs. Albert Rabb was elected secretary of the committee. Other members of the committee are Mrs. George C. Hitt, representing the women's section of the State Council of Defense; Mrs. Isaac Born, representing the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. E. F. Hodges, representing the Indiana Patriotic League; Mrs. Theodore Miller, representing the vocational department of the state schools; Miss Julia Landers, representing the Woman's Franchise League; Miss Brown, denominational welfare worker; Mrs. Edwards, college settlement worker; Mrs. J. N. Hurty, representing the Public Health Nursing Association; Miss Norma Hickman of the federal employment bureau; Mrs. David Ross, representing the Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. Lawrence Mooney, representing the Catholic Woman's Association.

To the Editor of Indiana Bulletin,
Indianapolis, Ind.:

Dear Sir—In the next issue of the Bulletin, will you please answer the following question: In the national drive of the Red Cross Fund (May 20th), has the local committee of the Red Cross in any county of the State the authority to apply that portion of money contributed in excess of the county's quota to any local chapter of the Red Cross, or must the entire sum contributed by the people be sent to the national organization?

A RED CROSS WORKER.

This question was referred to Charles F. Coffin, chairman of the Indiana War Fund Committee of the American Red Cross, who explained that the local Red Cross chapter is entitled to 25 per cent. of all funds collected, including both quota and oversubscription, but that in no case can the entire excess collection, or more than 25 per cent. of it, be applied to a local fund.

Public Service Reserve

Indiana's quota for overseas tank service numbers 200. "Red-blooded fighting men are wanted." Those between the ages of 21 and 40, skilled in the following occupations, are desired: buzzer operators, cooks, storekeepers, machinists, automobile mechanics, tractor and truck drivers, motorcyclists, topographers, telephone operators, automobile electricians, blacksmiths, oxyacetylene welders, bench machinists, lathe hands and machine designers. Men desiring to enroll for this service should get in touch at once with local Public Service Reserve enrolling agents.

Men who registered for the railroad service in France may expect notification of their acceptance or rejection direct from Washington. Many already have been selected, preference being given for young men of experience. All who registered are expected to receive notice from Washington soon.

The war comes first. Save food and help the great cause along.

"Catch 'em for Uncle Sam." is the fisherman's slogan.

"Either the civilian population must go short of many things to which it is accustomed in times of peace or our armies must go short of munitions and other things indispensable to them."—LORD EARL KITCHENER.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 10, 1918

Number 39

Organization of Men Exempted from Draft

Proposed by Earl Crawford, Will Be Considered Jointly with Professor Coleman.

Plans for a state-wide organization of men in deferred draft classifications for the purpose of co-operation in agricultural and other work were presented to the State Council of Defense at its regular meeting, May 8, by Earl Crawford, of Connersville, secretary of the Second District Military Exemption Board, who asked that the idea be approved by the council. Mr. Crawford's plan is to organize men exempted because they are engaged in agricultural pursuits so that they can meet and receive instructions on food production, exchange ideas and otherwise support the war program. Mr. Crawford pointed out that these men owe as much to their country as the men who were accepted and that they should not be permitted to get the idea that "the war is over" for them.

The suggestion was referred to the food production and conservation committee. Prof. T. A. Coleman of that committee was asked to make an investigation and to present to the council at its next meeting a statement of the propriety of the council taking action. There was some objection to the plan on the grounds that it would duplicate work being done by county agricultural agents and better farming associations. Organizations of exempted men in several counties, according to Mr. Crawford, are proving successful.

After hearing the statements of a number of citizens of Charlestown and of Dr. W. F. King, assistant secretary of the State Board of Health, as to the condition of the school building in that town, the council decided that the erection of this building, the contract for which will be let May 11, does not conflict with the policy of the council and of the Federal War Industries Board, opposing unnecessary building operations during the period of the war.

It was said that the building in which school is now being conducted was formerly the county court house and was erected in 1837. It was condemned by the State Board of Health in 1912 and since that date the affair has been in the courts. Recently a court order was issued for the purpose of compelling the erection of the building. Bonds were sold, the plans drawn and approved and bids advertised for.

Dr. King pronounced the building unfit for use for school purposes. Michael E. Foley, chairman of the council, expressed the same opinion as the result of a personal investigation.

Mr. Foley read a letter from Charles E. Tilson, auditor of Randolph county, asking the opinion of the council as to the erection of a hospital in that county. It was stated that a sum of $10,000 toward the erection of the building was a gift and that the donor was anxious that the building operations be started. The county has appropriated $15,000 for the building. It was decided to hold the matter open until the next meeting in order that fuller information might be obtained.

Mr. Foley also read a letter from Peter Martin, chairman of the Huntington County Council of Defense, in which he stated that "tax ferrets" were operating in the county, interfering with the Liberty Loan and other patriotic activities. The council referred the matter back to the Huntington county council with the statement that it could not interest itself in the proposition.

William M. Swain, chairman of the Madison

County Council of Defense, reported by letter that a compromise had been reached in regard to the improvement of the Main street road, a contract for which has been let. It was stated that about one-fourth of a mile of the road is inside the city limits of Anderson and that the improvement of this section is necessary. It was agreed that this section should be constructed, but that the improvement of the remainder of the road should be dropped for the time being. The matter was referred back to the County Council of Defense for such final action as it recommends.

The council appointed the following members of an Americanization committee nominated by John H. Holliday: Evans Woolen, Arthur W. Brady, James L. Keach and Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle. Mr. Holliday is chairman of the committee.

The finance committee presented a statement of the expenditures of the council from May 25, 1917, to March 22, 1918, which was accepted by the council. The statement appears elsewhere in the Bulletin.

A resolution urging that the congressional committee on appropriations include in its budget $250,000 for the use of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, was introduced by Isaac D. Straus and passed by the council. The resolution follows:

Included in the budget of the Department of Labor, now before the Committee on Appropriations in Congress, there is provided an appropriation for continuing and extending the service of the organization known as the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

This organization is national in its scope and seeks the enlistment, training and placing of boys sixteen to twenty years of age, inclusive, in such work as is essential to winning the war.

The principal function of the Reserve to date has been to supply the growing deficiency in farm labor. Much success was obtained from the use of this boy labor on farms last year, notwithstanding the usual skepticism with which most all new movements are regarded. This season it is anticipated that at least 250,000 boys will engage in food production, over 18,000 having enrolled in Indiana for this important patriotic service.

To make this organization effective to meet the emergency imposed by war will require a much more liberal financial support from the Federal Government than it has received in the past. Contrary to the opinions that might be en-

(Continued on Page 7.)

Of Interest to Cannerymen.

May 2, 1918.

Mr. John Vajen Wilson, Secretary, Indiana State Council of Defense, State House, Indianapolis, Ind.:

My Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge yours of April 24, addressed to the Director General, which has been referred to this division for reply.

The Railroad Administration expects to furnish cars for transportation of perishable foodstuffs during the coming season, and will make every effort to that end. But, of course, with the tremendous demand for the movement of war materials, some greater interference may be expected than at ordinary times and it is, therefore, difficult to make absolute promises, but I trust that the traffic can be handled satisfactorily.

Yours truly,

ROBT. E. WRIGHT,
Assistant Director.

Five-Acre Contest to Stimulate Production

Greater Average Yield Will Be Depended Upon to Overcome Other Handicaps.

The Federal Government is depending upon Indiana for a big corn crop next fall. The five-acre corn-growing contest will help to meet this demand. J. A. McCarty, of Purdue, who is in charge of this work, has reported to the State Food Committee that more than fifty counties have contestants now enrolled, with Madison county in the lead with 100 contestants. The total number competing will reach nearly 1,000.

It is very doubtful if Indiana will be able to increase her acreage, due to the shortage of labor and the inability of many farmers to obtain good seed. In previous years the five-acre contest has demonstrated that it was possible to materially increase the yield per acre on large tracts. The fact that winners of medals in previous contests have produced their yields more economically than the average corn grower is encouraging a large number to enter the contest this year. The venture will likely be the most profitable in the history of Indiana agriculture, but aside from this every farmer should feel it his patriotic duty to make each acre count.

Gold medals are awarded by the Indiana Corn Growers' Association to all the men who grow 100 bushels to the acre; silver medals to all those who grow 85 bushels and less than 100, and bronze medals to all those who grow 75 bushels and less than 85.

Save Feed—Build a Silo.

With the help of the Indiana Bankers the 10,000 silos for Indiana will go over the top. The "Hoosier Banker," the official organ of the Indiana Bankers' Association, says: "This program is as important as anything having to do with the war." The following appears in the May number of this publication:

"The publishers of the 'Hoosier Banker' are indeed gratified to learn of such a concerted effort that is being made to stimulate building of silos in this State this year. How loudly we have spoken in imploring citizens to plant more crops and gardens and guard against waste, our readers well know. And in this new program which the State administration is backing the 'Hoosier Banker' suggests that every banker put his shoulder to the wheel and render such service as is possible in this huge task.

"The silo is to be enlisted for Uncle Sam just like the boys over there. It will become an institution of the war. Nothing will help the farmer in boosting his supplies of stock feed like a silo, and the banker must go out of his way to make the farmer understand this, where such understanding does not already exist. It is a sinful waste to allow stock feed to rot every fall when this could be stored and kept through the winter if each farm had a silo. From 30 to 35 per cent. of the food value of a crop of corn is in the stalks and leaves. Usually these are entirely lost to the farmer.

"There is no time to be lost in carrying forward this great program. In every community the farmer should be asked if he has a silo on his farm and where he answers in the negative he should be told to begin at once the work of building one. We merely repeat what we have

(Continued on Page 7.)

F
355
I 385 cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Adams County.—The Berne Witness has discontinued its page printed in German and will hereafter appear entirely in English. The editor in giving his reasons for the change says: "This is the last issue of the Witness which will contain the German page. This action is taken, not because we were forced to or even asked to, but we feel that it is advisable to discontinue the page, inasmuch as the Witness is essentially an English-language newspaper and only contained a German department to accommodate some of the people in the community who had difficulty in reading the English. Since the act of Congress, October 6, 1917, we have been obliged to file a true translation of every bit of news in the German language that contained any reference to the world war. Since it is impossible to print these days without some allusion to the war, it always necessitated the filing of a translation."

Carroll County.—The following report of the activities of the woman's section of the Carroll County Council of Defense is made by Mrs. N. J. Howe, secretary of the council: "The Woman's Section of the County Council of Defense has been active in each line of work prescribed by the state chairman. Through the personal efforts of Mrs. N. J. Howe, the woman member of the county council, ninety-six pairs of socks were obtained for the Rainbow Division of Indiana troops. The work of the Hoover card campaign was thoroughly done by Miss Lillian Blythe, chairman of food conservation. Five successful patriotic meetings for women have been held with an average attendance of about 200. A collection amounting to $30 was received for the French orphan work. Through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Edward Blythe and the woman's organization Carroll county went 'over the top' in the Third Liberty Loan. In the two former drives, in which the women did not assist, the quota fell short, although the chairmen were efficient and faithful in their work. The enrollment of women is being pushed to a successful finish through the meetings held in every part of the county by Mrs. James P. Wason, chairman, and the women of her organization, who are organized by the block system. Books for soldiers are being received daily at the public library."

Cass County.—The following are chairmen of the committees of the woman's section of the County Council of Defense: Industrial committee, Mrs. O. P. Smith; child welfare committee, Mrs. W. Gremelbacher; food club committee, Mrs. Marion Swadener; committee on the registration of women, Mrs. D. C. Arthur.

Clay County.—The newly formed women's food clubs of Brazil and Clay county met in the high school building at Brazil, May 4, and made plans for active conservation work. Miss Dale Rupp, county food demonstrator, and C. W. Culbertson, county food administrator, spoke.

Clinton County.—Township councils of defense have been formed in every township in Clinton county. Each council has a membership of five, three appointed by the County Council of Defense, these three selecting the other two.

Decatur County.—Every pupil in both the grade schools and the high school in Greensburg is a member either of the Junior Red Cross or of the general Red Cross organization. Every eligible boy is a member of the Boys' Working Reserve and every teacher, pupil and janitor in every building has purchased Thrift Stamps. During the Thrift Stamp campaign nearly all the teachers did personal work among the parents of the pupils and some of the children who seemed slow in purchasing were given employment to earn money with which to purchase stamps.

Elkhart County.—A Liberty Guard company is being organized in Middlebury. Judge Harmon of the Elkhart superior court has been appointed chairman of the legal advisory committee for the northern exemption district of the county and Judge Drake of the circuit court is chairman of the committee for the southern district.

Fayette County.—The Connorsville city council and the county commissioners of Fayette county have agreed, as the result of a request from the State Council of Defense, to postpone public improvement projects until after the war. The following have been appointed officers of the War Mothers organization by Mrs. Carrie Cheek, Fayette county war mother: Mrs. Zell Tracy, county registrar; Mrs. A. J. Martin, financier; Mrs. George Stafford, auditor and historian; Mrs. A. Z. McDermond and Mrs. William Mullinix, committee on membership.

Grant County.—The Grant County Council of Defense has received and accepted the resignation of Zach C. Sanderson as secretary of the council. Mr. Sanderson tendered his resignation on the ground that his business compels him to leave the city frequently and consequently he does not have the opportunity to attend to his affairs as secretary. His successor has not been appointed.

Harrison County.—The County Council of Defense has appointed a township council in Jackson township. Harvey W. Davis has been named chairman.

Hendricks County.—The following have been appointed a legal committee to aid Hendricks county selective service registrants: E. M. Blessing, O. E. Guley, J. E. Hunston, Zimri E. Dougan and James L. Clark.

Henry County.—A list of women refusing to register with the woman's section of the County Council of Defense is to be collected, together with the reasons given for their refusal.

Huntington County.—Students of the Rock Creek township high school made a bonfire of all the German-language books in the school. German is no longer being taught in the Huntington public schools.

Jackson County.—Councils of Defense have been appointed in each township of the county. Following are the chairmen of the new organizations: Redding township, Henry Smith; Vernon township, Clarence Weiseman; Grassy Fork township, John F. Johnson; Driftwood township, William H. Peters; Browns-town township, O. M. Koontz. A committee of sheep raising and a committee on idle lands also have been named. A. D. Cobb of Browns-town is chairman of the former committee and Henry Lucas of Ewing is chairman of the latter.

Jay County.—The Jay county board of commissioners has agreed to curtail all unnecessary public improvements in compliance with a request from the Indiana State Council of Defense and the Federal War Industries Board.

Lagrange County.—One thousand books and $67 for libraries in the army cantonments have been collected in the past two weeks in Lagrange county by the health and recreation committee of the County Council of Defense.

Lake County.—Dr. T. W. Oberlin and Dr. W. F. Howatt have examined 450 babies in one district in Hammond in connection with the national child welfare campaign. The two physicians are giving their entire time to the work.

Madison County.—Walter Vermillion, an Anderson attorney, has been appointed chairman of the legal committee of the Madison County Council of Defense. A total of 197 children were examined in Alexandria during the first week of the child welfare clinic. Of this number twelve were found to be tubercular and about 75 per cent. had adenoids.

Marshall County.—The Bremen school board has ordered that the German language no longer be taught in the public schools. Following is a list of goods shipped by the Marshall county chapter of the Red Cross during the month of April: 279 bed shirts, 85 pajama suits, 15 convalescent robes, 115 pairs of socks, 10 sweaters, 4 pairs of wristlets, 1,635 muslin bandages, 3,978 gauze bandages, 15 garments for children, 7 layettes, 8 pairs of booties, 3 jackets, 11 comfort pillows, 3 wash cloths, 11 napkins, 21 tray cloths, 10 pillow cases, 2 bundles of old linen, 1 comfort and 1 afghan.

Montgomery County.—The county council has appropriated $6,000 to defray the expenses of the County Council of Defense.

Posey County.—The following are officers of the county registered men's organization, which has a membership of about 1,200: Alvin E. Gempler, Mt. Vernon, president; Samuel W. Goodman, Poseyville, vice-president; Charles Kimmerling, Jr., New Harmony, treasurer; and William R. Dexheimer, Mt. Vernon, sergeant-at-arms. A chairman also has been named for each township, and meetings will be held by townships.

Spencer County.—In refutation of the assertion that there had been no patriotic activity on the part of the women of Spencer County, Mrs. Alberta K. Huffman, secretary of the Spencer County Council of Defense, makes the following summary of what the women of Spencer have done: Last August a canvass of the county was made and 1,200 registration cards were signed and sent to the Woman's Section. Estimates of the cards needed in December and again in February were sent in but the supply was exhausted. One to three patriotic meetings have been held in every school district in the county and women were organized for various kinds of war work. The township and town chairmen have been appointed and are working. . . . Mrs. J. W. Strassell, who has charge of the Junior Red Cross work, has formed a Junior Red Cross in every school district in the county, one hundred and nineteen in all. These units have already turned in some work and will work during vacation. The children have planned to meet with the senior units and to work under their direction. . . . The Home Economics and Food Conservation Committee is holding a market each Saturday, where people can bring their surplus which they will not sell, and the money will be used to pay the expenses of the community canner. The high school girls will have charge of the collection of donations, and of delivering orders.

St. Joseph County.—With a view of reducing the number of dogs, Peter Kline, chief of the South Bend police department, has instructed all officers to see that the laws in regard to dogs running at large are enforced. Any dog found running at large will be shot and its body cremated into fertilizer. . . . In order to comply with the Government order to keep ice prices as low as possible, A. F. Eby, county food administrator, has divided the city into districts and will assign dealers to each district. By this method, he explains, duplication of routes will be avoided, with a consequent saving in overhead expenses, together with a saving of man and horse power. . . . Organization of the townships of St. Joseph county has been completed. The following have been named chairmen of the township councils: Madison township, John Eascerday; Greene township, Ralph Woods; Center township, William Klinkner; Harris township, Frank Schenehorst; German township, John Swartz; Warren township, Martin Witter; Union township, Floyd Barkley; Liberty township, William O. Cullar; Penn township, Alfred Ludwig; Clay township, Andrew Zeltner; Olive township, Oscar Hooten; Lincoln township, Herman Gopfert.

Steuben County.—C. C. Mitchell has been appointed chairman of the newly organized Township Council of Defense at Orland. . . . The mayor of Angola has issued a statement to the effect that all dogs found running at large after May 6 will be caught and disposed of. There have been many complaints from owners of war gardens and from sheep raisers.

Tippecanoe County.—The County Council of Defense gave two pairs of hand-knitted socks to each of the drafted men who left in a recent increment. . . . The Jefferson High School service flag contains 202 stars. The stars represent 194 students in the military service, six teachers and two girls who formerly attended the school and are now Red Cross nurses.

Vigo County.—The Terre Haute Malleable Manufacturing Company has appealed to the United States Boys' Working Reserve for assistance in filling war orders. The company has made special arrangements for boys who wish to work after school and on Saturdays.

Wabash County.—The following statement has been issued by Sheriff Elmer Voorman: "While our sons are fighting a France will you permit husky men to remain idle in your community, when you know that their labor will produce food without which we cannot win the war, and without which our sons fight in vain? Therefore, no man will be allowed to loaf around the city or in this county because we are at a point where every man's labor is seriously needed. I will ask all peace officers in Wabash county to see to it that vagrancy charges be placed against every man or boy out of school who fails to work. I therefore ask that the public in general furnish all the information to their nearest peace officer so that this request may be carried out to the fullest extent. This is intended to get the regular loafer to work, to jail or to the penal farm."

Warrick County.—Miss Georgia Norris has been appointed home demonstration agent for Warrick county.

Wayne County.—More than one hundred citizens recently seized two automobile loads of the publication known as the "Kingdom News," published by the International Bible Students' Association, and regarded as pro-German, and took the papers to the outskirts of the town, where a huge bonfire was made of them. . . . Dr. E. R. Churchill resigned as chairman of the County Council of Defense to join the army. W. W. Reller succeeds him.

Whitley County.—A list of the Whitley county men in service has just been completed by the County Council of Defense. The list contains 351 names. Two of the men on the list have died in service. A service flag will be dedicated May 30.

France to America.

"Tell them that we will wait. Tell them that we have confidence in them because we have seen their men; but while we are waiting they will never know what France is suffering. We shall have one, perhaps two great battles, before America has brought her armies to European shores, but tell America 'We will hold the line'. France has made the supreme sacrifice. Of the army of six million men with which it began the war, one million three hundred thousand have died, one million seven hundred thousand have been disabled for life; but we still have three million men, who will hold the line until the United States has an army trained that will win the war."—M. Clemenceau, Premier of France, to the people of the United States.

Pettijohn Called to Washington.

J. J. Pettijohn, director of the Speakers' Bureau of the Indiana Council of Defense, has been called to Washington for the summer to assist in the work of the Committee on Public Information. Mr. Pettijohn will organize speakers' bureaus in the different States, on the plan of the Indiana bureau, which is recognized as the best in the country. Last summer, soon after war was declared, Mr. Pettijohn began sending out speakers through the Indiana University Extension Division, of which he is director. In August he organized the bureau for the State Council of Defense, calling into the speaking service many prominent educators and representative men and women of Indiana. The bureau now has about 400 volunteers on its lists and is filling from 200 to 400 engagements a month, including those arranged in the special drives. It also carries on the Red Cross speaking campaigns—a function not delegated to any other speakers' bureau in the country. The county war conference which it conducted in nearly every county in the State last January and February attracted nation-wide attention and set the pace for the rest of the country. During Mr. Pettijohn's absence, Robert E. Cavanaugh of Salem will act as director of the Bureau.

Schools Purged of Disloyal Teachers

Indiana Has No Place for Those Who Were Unable to Realize Their Duty.

In connection with recurring newspaper reports relative to the dismissal of Indiana school teachers for alleged disloyalty, Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, authorizes the following:

Prior to America's entrance into the present war open comments, favorable to Germany, on the part of Indiana teachers provoked only passing notice. A sentiment had been created in American colleges and universities which encouraged the belief among students and teachers that a college degree from a German university indicated a type of training superior to that afforded by any American college or university. Many teachers, therefore, found themselves, when war finally was declared, face to face with the unpleasant task of recasting their ideals and boldly renouncing their former faiths. Such a task is never pleasant. The fear of being labeled "turncoat" engendered timidity among many thoroughly patriotic teachers, and when, in the early days of the war, unkind reference was made by radicals to these shy teachers naturally many an unguarded remark slipped past the portals of caution.

A realization of this condition argued forcefully in favor of a moderate policy on the part of the Department of Public Instruction toward what might legitimately have been called unpremeditated effusions of unpatriotic sentiment.

But another class of teachers, fortunately not numerous, early began to assert themselves in Indiana's public and private schools—a class which boldly attempted to test the willingness and the ability of the school authorities to suppress their disloyal actions and unpatriotic behavior. This class declined to join in the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," but would contemptibly insist upon singing a German song when opportunity offered. Not infrequently did they zealously attempt to embarrass the State Department of Public Instruction by questioning the right of the State Superintendent to make interpretations of the school laws which tended to restrict them in their boasted liberties.

Reflection upon this condition suggested a remedy wholly different than that which moderation demanded in favor of that class of deluded teachers who had been taught to believe in the superiority of Heidelberg over Harvard. Here the issue was forced—the gauntlet thrown down. The schools could not exist "half slave, half free"; either these rebellious forces must dominate the entire school system of the State or they must be entirely eliminated. It was my conviction that the copperheads should be crushed. I conceived it but common official decency to compel respectful obedience to all Federal orders; to require instant suppression of any disrespectful allusion to President Wilson; and to modify all public school plans, as far as necessary, to suit the war's requirements. Disloyal knaves and disloyal simpletons alike should be made to face about, fall in, "carry on," instantly—not after a season of reflection—but today, now—and not next week.

It ought to be duly recorded that the Indiana superintendents to a man agreed to the program. They threw out the dragnet of a pure Americanism, and unhappy was the plight of that public school teacher who sought to evade, postpone or prevaricate. The slackers and the rebels quickly felt the authority of a united school organization and quietly went to work to do the nation's business.

A few narrow-visioned pacifists would occasionally lift up their voices to inveigh against Thrift Stamp, Boys' Working Reserve, Liberty Loan, the Red Cross, urging conscientious scruples along any sort of war activity. I quote from official correspondence from two such types as follows: "I am of conscriptable age; but if the Government shall draft me my religious scruples will not allow me to shoot at an enemy—I'll shoot straight up or down." Another wrote: "What I did say is this: 'There are some nurses in the Red Cross who are a disgrace to the country.'" This same unnatural teacher also wrote: "I shall eat whatever my money pays for, and it's nobody's business."

Through the ready co-operation of the Indiana superintendents these strangely fashioned teachers have been located and their connection with the schools has generally ceased. In dealing with these misfits the State Superintendent of Public Instruction has, in every instance, sought to avoid any semblance of persecution, but has at the same time eliminated disloyalty from the schools at any cost.

Respectfully,

HORACE ELLIS,

State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

May 5, 1918.

Diseased Children Found.

Results are being accomplished throughout the State from the child welfare campaign which has as its purpose the saving of the lives of at least 2,592 children under the age of 6 years. Committees in nearly every county have established clinics and physicians and nurses are devoting their time to the examination and registration of the infants. In many cases children have been found who have physical imperfections which their parents had never suspected. In all of these cases advice is being given and treatment instituted. The value of the registration and examination is already being proven by the number and character of such cases.

Fulton County is the first to report a complete registration. Mrs. Gwendolyn M. Heath, county child welfare chairman, reports that more than 1,000 children have been registered and that she considers the work of registration completed. The registration, which began April 6, will continue until June 6.

Food Administration

The Federal Food Administration, working in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, will prohibit profiteering among threshermen. A charge of from 6 to 8 cents per bushel for wheat is believed to be sufficient to cover all increased costs. A proposed rate of 10 cents in Wayne county is regarded as "entirely too high." A proportionate increase in the price of oats threshing will be permitted, allowing the threshers a fair return.

The Food Administration will co-operate with the food and drug division of the state government to prohibit the traffic in rotten eggs. A definite plan will be worked out at a conference of food administrators at Washington for the guidance of every State.

Orders for binder twine are solicited by the Federal Food Administration in behalf of the supply houses. The administration is regulating the price of sisal twine, in co-operation with the manufacturers. Early orders will facilitate delivery and guarantee against inconvenience to the farmer.

Cars for perishable foodstuffs will be given preferred attention by the director-general of railroads, it is announced to the Indiana State Council of Defense by Robert E. Wright, assistant to Mr. McAdoo. This information is intended for the encouragement especially of canners and producers depending upon car service for a satisfactory and profitable local market.

Prices of substitutes for wheat flour are held insufficient excuse for increases in the price of bread. Herbert Hoover points out that corn flour is obtainable at less than asked for wheat flour and the price range for other substitutes is downward.

Red Cross Activities

Co-ordination of Red Cross and government purchases have become possible through a ruling of the War Industries Board. In one single order this means the saving of $18,000 of the Red Cross funds. The same prices and priorities will obtain for Red Cross supplies as for government orders. Raw materials for work in Indiana work-rooms will become available as soon as national headquarters can purchase and ship to warehouses.

An additional appropriation of ten million francs ($1,750,000) has been made by the American Red Cross for the work in France. The French Red Cross will receive the money, which has been so seriously needed that its essential work has been curtailed.

Indiana county and district Red Cross organizations are tuning up for the big drive for funds, May 20th to 27th. Meetings are being held, supplies being distributed and now that the third Liberty Loan campaign is finished, the education of the public to its duty in reference to financing the Red Cross will proceed in intensive manner.

In the face of the fact that the surgeon-general's office is making increasing demands upon the Red Cross for the enrollment of registered nurses, during April fewer nurses enrolled with the Lake Division Bureau of Nursing for military service than enrolled during March. April enrollments numbered seventy-one, Miss Mary Roberts, director of the division Bureau of Nursing, said today. March produced eighty-two.

The Lake Division was asked to enroll 500 registered nurses during March, April and May. If it is to secure its quota by June 1, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky must furnish 347 more nurses.

"The small number of enrollments is not a reflection upon the nurses," said Miss Roberts. "The greatest stumbling block is the public, which has not yet been convinced that it is unnecessary to call a 'trained nurse' for minor illnesses. We still encounter many registered nurses who tell us that they have been told, 'Oh, you can't be spared for war work.' Who is to see that that supporting army of stay-at-homes is kept in good health?"

Because the American Red Cross is having great difficulty in securing gauze for surgical dressings, 352 Lake Division chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky have been ordered to curtail surgical dressings production during the next six weeks. A statement to this effect was made today by Frank E. Abbott, director of development at division headquarters.

"Our orders with the manufacturers are promised equal attention with similar orders from the Government. The making of gauze will be rushed, but it is clear that we must still face a delay of about four weeks before regular quantities will be coming from the factories," said Mr. Abbott.

The number of soldier and sailor families being assisted by Red Cross service sections in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky jumped from 3,000 in March to 4,900 in April, according to reports from 171 chapters, James L. Fieser, Lake Division director of civilian relief, said Wednesday.

The Red Cross helped 3,217 Ohio families, 936 Indiana and 747 Kentucky families. Not all, however, received financial assistance, as 1,116 of the total number aided got information service such as war risk insurance and legal advice. Financial assistance for dependent families cost Red Cross chapters in the Lake Division $20,124.85 during April.

Mr. Fieser stated that April brought 1,687 cases for relief to the division headquarters for clearance. Many of these came from camps and cantonments outside the Lake Division.

War is an ugly thing, but a German peace is uglier—Russian farmers are producing German food.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 39

Speakers' Bureau April 28-May 4

Speaking engagements for the week were:

April 28.

North Vernon—Paul Davis. Second speaker secured locally. C. A. Richards, county agent, arranging series Sunday meetings.

Veedersburg—Hermann F. Willkie of Elwood. Arranged by Perry D. Pointer, superintendent of schools.

Clay City—Prof. R. R. Hyde, State Normal School. Patriotic meeting in series arranged by Perry W. McAllister, superintendent of schools.

Brazil—G. E. Turner, Indianapolis. For several Sundays the bureau has been supplying speakers for the Men's Bible Class, president, Dr. F. C. Dilley.

Linton—Marie Rose Laufer, Bloomington. Patriotic meeting arranged by Mrs. Fannie Bain.

Southport—E. J. Llewellyn, Newcastle. Dedication of service flag, arranged by J. C. Brown.

Indianapolis—Judge W. M. Sparks, Rushville. Evening service, Broadway Methodist Church, C. B. Riley arranging.

Fairview—Judge Charles J. Orbison, Indianapolis. Dedication service flag. C. H. Rose of Greenwood arranging.

April 29.

Indianapolis—American Club, Capt. George S. Harney of the State Council of Defense. Arranged by Raymond Aldred.

Indianapolis Four-Minute Men's Conference—Dr. J. B. Nusbaum, Indianapolis. Mr. Robertson arranging.

April 30—May 1.

Brownsville—Hermann F. Willkie, Elwood, and E. J. Llewellyn, Newcastle. War meeting arranged by Rev. J. A. Gardner.

May 1.

South Bend—Captain Clayton Emig, Indianapolis. Rotary Club meeting, A. D. Baker in charge.

May 2.

Muncie—Prof. W. W. Black, Bloomington. Warner Gear Co. Patriotic Club weekly meeting, C. B. Cecil in charge.

Lizton—Dr. L. S. Davis, Bloomington. Commencement exercises. George Reitzel, principal, in charge.

Cannelton—Carl Lenz, Indianapolis, and F. S. Bogardus, State Normal School. Speakers at smoker to open Perry County War Conference. Herbert J. Patrick, chairman County Council of Defense, in charge.

May 3.

Cannelton—Dr. F. S. Bogardus, educational; Carl Lenz, general patriotic; Dr. Clark R. Parker, religious work director, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross.

Woman's Section—Sectional speakers for morning. Lt.-Gov. Edgar D. Bush, speaker for afternoon mass meeting.

Brazil—Rev. John Cavanaugh, president Notre Dame University; one of a series of large mass meetings planned by Dr. F. C. Dilley.

Tyner—D. J. McDonald, Extension Division, Indiana University, Bloomington. Commencement

Exercises. L. G. Harley, county chairman, arranging.

May 4.

Ft. Wayne—J. J. Pettijohn, Ext. Div. I. U. University Club meeting, J. J. Ritter in charge.

Indianapolis—Lieut. Charles Bingham, Indianapolis, returned from France. Weekly meeting Saturday Lunch Club. R. S. Trent in charge.

Captain Clayton Emig, of the Aviation Unit at the Speedway, is a recent addition to the speakers' list. Captain Emig was formerly in command at Kelly Field, and has had a great deal of experience in aviation work. The fact that he was, before joining the army, a chautauqua speaker, makes it possible for him to present the interesting material of his experiences in effective fashion. He will be available for Rotary Clubs and similar organizations in cities not too far from Indianapolis.

Financial Report for April.

Paid by Indiana University Extension.

Salaries—

Mr. Cavanaugh .....	$166 66
Miss Evans .....	67 50
Miss Siegel .....	72 00
Mr. Pettijohn (½ time) ..	125 00
Mr. Reed .....	5 00
		$436 16

Traveling Expenses—

Mr. Pettijohn and Mr. Cavanaugh 30 00

Total .....

$466 16

Paid by State Council of Defense.

"Other services purchased" .....

Postage .....

Stationery and printing .....

Telephone and telegraph .....

Furniture and fixtures .....

Total .....

$489 36

N. B. "Other services purchased" refers to the traveling expenses of speakers who gave their time without other compensation.

The telephone and telegraph bills include those paid this month, some of which were incurred earlier.

Speaking activities—

Miscellaneous dates .....

Conferences .....

Total number speakers .....

Education Week, April 22-26—

No. schools visited .....

No. speakers furnished .....

Total number speakers .....

Total number dates .....

Out-of-State Speakers—

Major Craig Wright.

Dr. Henry Coe Culbertson.

Dr. Mitchell Carroll.

Hon. Albert C. Moulart.

Dr. William E. Bohn.

Captain Bruner.

Publicity and literature—

Syllabus to speakers for Education Week.

Letters accompanying, to superintendents, presidents of colleges and speakers.

—o—

Chairmen of Red Cross chapters of the State have been informed that the Speakers' Bureau of the Indiana State Council of Defense will assist in making the second Red Cross fund drive a success by directing its speakers. The request is made that the local speaking programs be determined as soon as possible, with a statement of requirements forwarded to headquarters, 1116 Merchants Bank building, Indianapolis, as quickly as possible. Through the Committee on Public Information, some soldiers furloughed from the French front are promised to assist in this campaign and these will be assigned where it is thought they can do the most good, by reaching the greatest number of people.

The following "Suggestions for Making Meetings a Success" have been prepared by the Bureau and sent out to local chapters:

1. Organization—

a. Call directors for preliminary meeting and discussion of plans; determine exactly time and place and all features of the program.

b. Extend organization to active members and others for personal efforts to reach the people, especially the indifferent. Determine definitely who shall compose the audience; devise appropriate means of reaching the groups selected. Do not depend merely on general publicity. Have a committee behind each meeting.

2. Publicity—

a. Newspaper announcements—with reference to qualifications of speaker of meeting.

b. Newspaper references to work of Red Cross during the year—its present need.

c. Posters and notices of speakings.

d. Lantern slide announcements at moving picture shows.

e. Church and school announcements. No organizations should refuse to co-operate in a movement of national interest.

f. Personal work by Chapter Chairman and other officers by telephone and letters.

3. Finance—

a. Suggestions will be furnished by American Red Cross.

Finance Committee

Indiana State Council of Defense:

We submit herewith the report of the State Board of Accounts of the receipts and disbursements of the Indiana State Council of Defense for the period of May 25, 1917, to March 22, 1918. It will be observed that the expenses for that period were $48,968.14, distributed as follows:

Administration .....	$11,668 14
Boys' Working Reserve .....	7,886 45
Educational Section .....	191 85
Public Service Reserve .....	1,457 65
Medical Section .....	650 73
Publicity .....	15,407 83
Woman's Section .....	3,418 74
Speakers' Bureau .....	2,144 98
Food Production .....	1,413 53
Food Conservation .....	118 35
Military .....	1,059 38
Mailing Room .....	3,535 94
Merchants' Economy .....	9 85
Four-Minute Men .....	4 72
Total .....	$48,968 14

We recommend that as much of the report be read as may be called for by any member and that thereafter it be filed with the chairman.

Respectfully,

EVANS WOOLLEN,

ISAAC D. STRAUS,

Finance Committee.

The above report, supplemented by details of expenditures by each department, as audited by the Indiana State Board of Accounts, was submitted to the meeting of the State Council May 8th. The report was approved and placed on file and the detailed information is available publicly to any one interested. It is too comprehensive to be given space in the Bulletin.

"Spy and Paid Liar"

Here is a personal message to you straight from the front. It is reprinted from "The Stars and Stripes," the paper that is written and printed by members of the American Expeditionary Force in France—the men in the trenches—with the approval of General Pershing:

"Beware of the man who, no matter what his uniform, no matter what his nationality, comes to you with tales of Germany's invincibility, prophesies that 'the war will end in a draw,' and so forth. If he is saying such things on his own account he is a German propagandist, a spy, a paid liar, and should be reported and punished as such. If he is repeating them second-hand, he is nothing but an ass, a dupe of some real propagandist, and he should be reported and punished just the same."

Memorial Day, 1918

To the Citizens of the State of Indiana:

An interest centers in Memorial Day, on May 30, this year, greater than at any time since the Civil war.

Not only are our hearts saddened by the fact that the noble men of the Grand Army of the Republic are rapidly dropping from the ranks, but our country is now engaged in a war, the like of which for its destructiveness and cruelties, so far as our enemies are concerned, is without a parallel in all history. And we are in this war, not of choice, but because it was forced upon us by repeated acts violative of human rights, treaties and government, until no other course remained to this nation.

We, therefore, as the State Council of Defense, urge upon all citizens of Indiana that they unite on May 30 to make Memorial Day an occasion in which not only shall our patriotic dead of the Civil war be gratefully remembered, but also an occasion when our citizens shall reconsecrate "their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor" to the cause of a patriotism today as vital and self-sacrificing as that which prompted our brave boys in the years of '61-'65. Let patriotic fires burn brightly on this day in every city, town, hamlet and community in Indiana, and we urge that surviving heroes of the Civil war, that all who are giving their sons now to the cause of human freedom, and that all who love our common country may be completely united to save our nation from humanity's most powerful and treacherous foe.

INDIANA STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

May 8.

Americanization of Terre Haute Workers

Mrs. Flora Gilman Gulick, Founder of Boys' Club, Has Planned for the Patriotic Education of Young Men.

Plans for the first Americanization school for boys under the age of 21 years to be started at Terre Haute by Mrs. Flora Gilman Gulick, founder of the Terre Haute Boys' Club, are developing rapidly. Important committees have been appointed and have started work assembling the boys for instruction at the Boys' Club quarters. The following committees have been appointed:

Lecture Course—Rabbi Isaac Marcuson, the Rev. L. Curtis Talmage.

School Course Committee—John R. Peddle, Rose Polytechnic; Prof. W. T. Turman, Normal; Dalton B. Shourds, architectural training.

Membership Committee—Mrs. Henry Wolff, Fifth District chairman Americanization committee, Indiana Federation of Clubs.

Woman's Committee—Miss Rebecca Torner.

Publicity Committee—Mrs. Anna Bowles Wiley, chairman; Miss Susan W. Ball, Mrs. Norah Ball Ragsdale, Miss Ruth Agnes Abeling.

Military Committee—C. C. Conley, Indiana State Normal.

Music—Miss Lucy Arthur, Wiley High School faculty.

Gymnasium and Boxing—William F. Owen.

House Committee—Lex Nichols, Leon Cray and the boys of the club for twelve years.

Posters explaining the nature of the school are being placed in factories and commercial centers. Employers will be asked to insert notices printed in foreign languages and describing the evening school facilities in the pay envelopes of immigrant employees. All employees who do not speak English are asked to register and their names will be listed and referred to the school officials and teachers.

It is planned to hold "plant meetings" and invite school officials, teachers and others to talk on the advantages of evening schools. It is hoped that heads of industries will give bonuses for regular attendance at night schools and increase the wages of immigrant employees making themselves more efficient by attending night school. Patriotic singing and the teaching of patriotic songs to the boys is part of the education plan for the school.

The Children's Year

Our population has been recruited so largely from immigration that we have paid very little attention to the national birth rate or the welfare of infants. It was easier to receive immigrants than to raise children. Even today the only large families are the families of immigrants or their immediate descendants. Our so-called better classes dislike or refuse to accept the responsibility of parenthood.

If this war does nothing else, it ought to teach us how much our national solidarity suffers by our reliance on immigration. Anti-American propaganda could not survive if it could appeal only to the second and third generation or to those whose ancestry goes back to revolutionary days. Well, in such cases we have to allow for the inevitable exceptions. Yet we are naive enough to think that our problem is to bring nationalizing influence to bear on the immigrants rather than to foster the American family.

The children's bureau of the Department of Labor is making a special effort this year to better conditions for infants. It is a movement which should receive the support of every one who has the best interests of the nation at heart. We cannot hope to rely on immigration to increase our national strength for many years to come, and it is fortunate that we cannot. But this circumstance makes it all the more important that we should pay especial attention to our native-born children.—Chicago Tribune.

What's in a Name?—Well, Look at the Map!

Food clubs are being organized in Indiana townships. In many communities difficulties have been experienced, either because of a lack of knowledge of what the Food Administration is and is trying to do, or from a lack of sympathy with its purpose. Vanderburgh county is not exceptional save in that the township wherein the organizers of food clubs have been able to accomplish practically nothing furnishes a name that is very suggestive of the sentiments of those residing in it.

List of Opportunities in War Work That Are Open to Trained Women

(The Official Bulletin.)

A brochure, entitled "War Work of Women in Colleges," issued by the division on women's war work of the Committee on Public Information, contains the following:

OPPORTUNITIES IN WAR WORK FOR WOMEN.

(At present the ruling of the War Department states that relatives of men in the United States Service can not obtain passports. For information concerning passports apply to Bureau of Citizenship, 1423 New York avenue, Washington, D. C.)

Note.—The following list is suggestive of opportunities for trained women in war work. Emphasis has been laid upon Government work, and relief work under large organizations. No attempt has been made to list opportunities in commercial lines, nor to make a survey of work that is primarily local and volunteer. New openings are developing rapidly.

Aviation.—The Government is not accepting women in aviation.

Americanization.—Usually volunteer work, except for experienced workers. Many are needed for canvassing and making surveys; teachers of English and civics to foreigners; speakers before foreign audiences, etc. Refer to local branches of organizations doing Americanization work, or State Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense, or Dr. H. H. Wheaton, United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.

Canteen.—In United States.—Volunteer work in railroad stations and clubs for soldiers and sailors; under the American Red Cross, National League for Woman's Service, and other organizations. Abroad.—Under Young Men's Christian Association and Red Cross. For Y. M. C. A. candidates must be between the ages of 30 and 45. Under no circumstances will anyone under 26 years of age be considered. No salaries are paid. For particulars, write to the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., 124 East Twenty-sixth street, New York City, N. Y.

For Red Cross canteen work, applicants must be between 28 and 40 years of age and must speak French well. Services are volunteer, and it is desired that expenses be paid. A contract for minimum term of six months' service must be signed. Applications should be made to the Personnel Bureau of the Red Cross, Fourth avenue and Eighteenth street, New York, N. Y.

Chauffeurs.—In United States.—Volunteer work with local branches of organizations conducting war relief work. Abroad.—Refer to American Red Cross Motor Corps or other organizations doing relief work abroad. Work is volunteer; all expenses must be paid, and usually cars must be donated by workers.

Clerks.—Refer to United States Civil Service Commission: Stenographers, typists, index and catalogue clerks, clerks qualified in business administration, schedule clerks, statistical clerks, draftsmen, junior accountants, munition-plant clerks, statistical machine operators, map colorists, law clerks, multigraph operators, accountants, clerks qualified in modern languages, calculating machine operators, computers, editing and abstracting clerks, bookmaking and proofreading, fingerprint classifiers. Salaries range from $750 to $1,800 a year.

Dietitians.—In United States.—Refer to local branch of Food Administration, or local hospitals. Abroad.—Refer to American Red Cross, Personnel Bureau, Fourth avenue and Eighteenth street, New York, N. Y., or Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, president, Le Bien Etre du Blesse, 360 Madison avenue, New York, N. Y., (volunteer).

* * *

Women To Use No Wheat.

Twenty million women will be urged to abstain from the use of wheat until the next harvest as a result of resolutions unanimously adopted by the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting in Little Rock, Ark. At a meeting yesterday delegates from every part of the country adopted a resolution which pledges each woman, upon her return home, to use every effort to have her local organization go on a wheatless pledge until the next harvest.

Future Value of Reserve.

P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, makes the following observation as to the future of the United States Boys' Working Reserve:

"I am greatly interested in the work which you are doing through the United States Boys' Working Reserve, both in its economical and its educational aspect, but especially in the latter. The present service which these boys will render to the country by helping to increase the production of food is important; but the future service which will come to the country through the effect of this outdoor field work on the life and character of the boys will be much more important. Under proper supervision and direction they will gain physical health and strength, moral stability, and a first-hand knowledge of nature which would be otherwise impossible. I hope you may be able to enlist in this Boys' Working Reserve many thousands of boys from city and town who would otherwise not find useful employment during the vacation months, and that you may be able to provide for them all places where they may work under wise and sympathetic direction."

Buy Your Coal Now!

Put your coal in while the sun shines, is the latest slogan of the Fuel Administration. Housewives are appealed to to see that the family coal bin is filled up for next winter at once. Here are some of the practical things that can be accomplished for the war by laying in an early supply of coal:

1. Every ton ordered now will permit the railroads to haul a ton of food or materials for war industries later.
2. Will guarantee a household supply for next winter before the movement of coal to the lakes and the Northwest.
3. Will permit the local dealer to lay in a reserve stock so that he may meet any unforeseen demand or emergency, such as would be caused by heavy blizzards with a consequent tie-up of traffic.

Woman's Section

Miss Carlisle in Service.

Miss Katherine Carlisle, daughter of Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, signed up for six months' service with surgical dressing work in Paris, paying her own expenses, working under the orders of the Red Cross. She sailed on the first of December and was with them until early in March, at which time she received orders to report at Red Cross headquarters, and there was asked by Mrs. Vanderbilt if she would go into canteen service in France. As she had just previously been appointed to take charge of all the unpacking of all the surgical dressings sent to Paris from America, she felt it would be better for her to remain in Paris for the duration of her enlistment. At that time Mrs. Vanderbilt called Major Patton, who read her an order from the army headquarters, stating that she had been transferred from surgical dressing department to the canteen service and would report at the canteen headquarters in Paris for orders. She was then ordered to join a party leaving for canteen service on the line moving the American troops to the front. The canteen at which she is located is organized in three shifts, and is never closed. The girls work eight hours and then are off duty the remainder of the twenty-four. They have plain, clean quarters, absolutely no conveniences and no running water. They serve troop trains going through with soup, coffee, jelly sandwiches, apples and dry bread. They also have a certain clientele in the little village which is served regularly: boys on leave from the front often use their rest room to nap and stay in. It is an interesting but rather difficult work. Unless young girls are willing to act under orders from the army, it is not wise to go abroad, Miss Carlisle writes.

Helps in Using Substitute Foods

(This column is planned with the idea of giving help to housekeepers wishing to meet the requests of the Food Administration and is being conducted by the Home Economics Committee of the State Council of Defense.)

Rhubarb.

At present rhubarb is found in gardens in abundance and the housewife is using it on the table and preparing to can it for next winter.

Rhubarb has some medicinal qualities and acts slightly as a laxative. It is mainly used, however, because of its pleasing taste and to add variety to the diet.

Corn syrup may be used in place of sugar in sweetening the various dishes.

In canning the product may be put up without sugar.

The following recipes have been tested in the Home Economics Laboratories, Purdue University, and for further information regarding them application may be made to Mary L. Matthews, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.

Rhubarb Canned in Cold Water:

Select fresh, crisp stalks, wash clean and cut into pieces one-half inch in length. (Do not remove skin.) Pack into a clean can. Allow water to run over filled can for two minutes. Place rubber and seal. Wrap jars to prevent bleaching, and store.

Rhubarb Conserve:

- 3 quarts of rhubarb.
- 4 cups sugar or
- 5 cups Karo syrup.
- 2 oranges (peel and pulp).
- 1 lemon (peel and pulp).
- ½ lb. raisins (cut in halves).

Rhubarb Custard:

- 1 cup stewed rhubarb.
  - Yolks of 2 eggs.
  - 1 teaspoon butter.
  - ½ cup Karo syrup.
  - 2 teaspoons lemon extract.
  - 2 tablespoons corn flour.
- Beat eggs slightly. Add other ingredients. Bake in baking dish set in pan of water in moderate oven until firm. This may be used as a pie filling.

Rhubarb Whip:

- 1 egg white (unbeaten).
  - 1 cup sugar.
  - 1 cup thick rhubarb sauce.
  - Juice of ½ lemon or orange.
- Put all ingredients in bowl and beat until stiff.

Rhubarb Compote:

- 1 cup rice.
- 3 cups milk.
- ¼ cup sugar or
- ¾ cup corn syrup.
- ½ teaspoon lemon extract.

Cook rice in milk and when done add sugar and flavoring. Make a thick rhubarb sauce by cooking 1 quart diced rhubarb and sweetening to taste. Arrange the rice in a border around the sauce in a shallow dish.

Rhubarb Gelatin:

- 2 tablespoons gelatin.
- 1 cup water.
- 2 cups rhubarb juice.

Juice of 1 lemon.

¾ cup sugar or 1 cup corn syrup.

Soak gelatin in ¼ cup of the water for five minutes and then pour the remainder of the water boiling hot into the swollen gelatin. Dissolve sugar in the rhubarb juice and combine the two mixtures. Add lemon juice and strain through a cheese cloth and pour into wet molds and chill.

Rhubarb Tapioca:

- 1 cup minute tapioca.
- 2 cups chopped rhubarb.
- 2 quarts boiling water.
- 3 cups sugar or
- 3½ cups corn syrup.

Add the tapioca and rhubarb to the boiling water and cook in double boiler until tapioca is transparent. Add the sugar, and when cold serve with cream.

Appropriations for Emergency Work Will Not Be Questioned

Notice sent to county officials, signed by the Governor, Auditor of State, Chairman of Council of Defense, and chief accountant, with opinion from Attorney General relative to war funds:

The following self-explanatory communications, which have been sent broadcast over Indiana, ought to serve to clear the atmosphere in communities where essential war work has been curtailed or obstructed through fear on the part of certain public officials that moneys appropriated from the public treasury for such work might be, at their individual liability, an excuse for withholding support, which is herewith set aside:

Indianapolis, Ind., May 7, 1918.

To All County Auditors:

I enclose statement signed by the Governor, the Auditor of State, the Chairman of the State Council of Defense, and myself as State Examiner; also copy of the Attorney General's opinion.

The Attorney General finds that appropriations by county councils for county councils of defense for war emergencies are legal. Therefore, such appropriations will not be questioned by the department as a means to aid in putting our whole strength behind our men in France in this international crisis to save the life of America and the allied nations of the world. It is highly improbable that any taxpayer will be unpatriotic enough to bring an injunction against the county auditor to prevent him from issuing a warrant, but if such a thing should happen, it would have to be done before the warrant is issued, and the auditor would then have the court's opinion before issuing the warrant in question, so that there would be no liability thereon.

This is a question of aiding and saving the lives of our boys at the front and the question of life or death of America.

We should not be long in deciding what to do.

Sincerely yours,

GILBERT H. HENDREN,
State Examiner.

To All County Auditors, Boards of Commissioners and County Councils:

Attorney General Stansbury rendered an opinion to M. E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, in part, as follows:

"We find, under the federal statute and the Indiana laws, abundant authority to say there is law authorizing the board of commissioners to ask for such an appropriation as mentioned by you, and the county councils have authority, not in conflict with our Supreme Court decisions, to make such an appropriation as they may deem reasonably necessary to assist the county councils of defense in procuring from the people the doing of their part in this great conflict.

"You also requested my opinion as to whether bills should be presented to the commissioners for all of the items for which such money would be expended.

"It would not be a reasonable construction to say that for each paper of pins or box of tacks purchased in that work a bill should be filed with the board of commissioners. I think it could be much more effectually used by making an appropriation direct to the council, and it would not be improper for the board of commissioners to require an accounting at some future date by the county council of defense."

Pursuant to the Attorney General's opinion, Governor Goodrich and M. E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, requested the State Board of Accounts to prepare an equitable apportionment based upon population and tax valuation in the respective counties in classified form, which has been done as follows:

First Class—Marion County, $30,000.

Second Class—Allen, Lake, St. Joseph, Vanderburgh and Vigo counties, $12,000.

Third Class—Delaware, Grant, Knox, Laporte, Madison, Tippecanoe and Wayne counties, $7,500.

Fourth Class—Cass, Elkhart, Greene, Montgomery, Randolph and Sullivan counties, $6,000.

Fifth Class—Boone, Clay, Clinton, Gibson, Hamilton, Henry, Howard, Huntington, Jackson, Kosciusko, Lawrence, Miami, Shelby and Wabash counties, $4,500.

Sixth Class—Adams, Bartholomew, Clark, Daviess, Dekalb, Decatur, Fountain, Hendricks, Jasper, Jay, Marshall, Monroe, Morgan, Noble, Parke, Porter, Posey, Putnam, Rush, Washington, Wells and White counties, $3,750.

Seventh Class—Benton, Carroll, Dearborn, DuBois, Floyd, Franklin, Fulton, Hancock, Harrison, Jefferson, Johnson, Lagrange, Newton, Orange, Pulaski, Ripley, Spencer, Vermillion, Warren, Warrick and Whitley counties, $3,000.

Eighth Class—Blackford, Fayette, Jennings, Martin, Owen, Perry, Pike, Starke, Steuben and Tipton counties, $2,200.

Ninth Class—Brown, Crawford, Scott and Switzerland counties, $1,500.

Tenth Class—Ohio and Union counties, $900.

The State Board of Accounts does not claim to have authority to fix any certain amount that county councils may appropriate under the Attorney General's opinion, and the classification herein is only for the purpose of an equitable guide as between the various counties on a basis of population and tax valuation. No county council should appropriate more than the amount actually necessary to enable the county council of defense to carry forward its war activities.

Under the opinion of the Attorney General the appropriations are legal. By reason of this, the accounts of the various county councils are subject to examination by the State Board of Accounts. You will, therefore, in all cases where an appropriation is made, instruct such county council to keep an accurate account of all receipts and expenditures, with proper vouchers for same. There being no statutory law, any taxpayers may bring injunction proceedings against the county auditor to prevent the issuing of a warrant.

The Attorney General does not find any law giving the county council or city council authority to make appropriations for the Red Cross. Therefore, any assistance rendered the Red Cross must come through the local county councils of defense.

Under the Attorney General's opinion, field examiners will be instructed to pass such appropriations and expenditures as war emergency measures.

Yours very truly,

JAMES P. GOODRICH,

Governor of Indiana.

OTTO L. KLAUSS,

Auditor of State.

M. E. FOLEY,

Chairman State Council of Defense.

G. H. HENDREN,

State Examiner.

Organization of Men Exempted from Draft

(Continued from Page 1.)

tertained by some people, the responsibility, financial or otherwise, of making this organization a success should not be imposed upon each individual State alone, for the plan comprehends using any surplus of boys in one State to fill labor shortage existing in another State. Furthermore, this organization is a part of the great war machine created by the Federal Government for the common defense of the entire nation and is, in fact, deserving of a much larger appropriation than is now being requested, which, according to our information, is only $250,000 for the forty-eight organized States.

Therefore, in view of these facts, the State Council of Defense of Indiana, at its regular meeting held in Indianapolis this 8th day of May, commends the plan, purpose and results so far accomplished by the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, and earnestly urges that the Committee on Appropriations include in the budget of the Department of Labor the appropriation asked for at this time. Also that the Secretary of the State Council of Defense be instructed to forward copies of this action to the Council of National Defense and to the members in both Houses of Congress representing the State of Indiana.

A resolution pointing out the added significance of Memorial Day at this time and urging its appropriate observance was adopted. The resolution appears elsewhere in the Bulletin.

Five-Acre Contest to Stimulate Production

(Continued from Page 1.)

oftentimes said in these columns, that the year 1918 is going to be one of the most serious America has ever experienced, and the nations of the world look to us for food. The farm must produce more and the farmer must see that this increase is stored and kept as long as possible. Do not be an agricultural slacker. It is a patriotic duty to line up with the State in this matter. Indiana is calling, and in 100 years of statehood her sons have never been recreant to a trust reposed in them. Do not fail now. This program is as important as anything having to do with the war."

County Leaders on the Job.

Whitley and Cass counties are the first to complete their township organizations in the State silo campaign. Arthur Herriman, Columbia City, is county leader in Whitley county, and T. G. Murden, of Logansport, is county leader for Cass county.

Switzerland County Leader F. A. Griffith, with a quota of 35 silos for the county, reports 38 farmers have already contracted for silos to be erected this year.

Rural Ministers to Gather.

Leading men from Ohio, as well as Indiana, will be on the program at the third conference of rural ministers and laymen at Purdue University, June 3, 4 and 5.

Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, will speak the afternoon of the first day on "Indiana's Part in the War."

Improved Machinery Helps.

Hundreds of farmers in Indiana are adopting the two-row cultivator this year along with other improved farm machinery as the best solution of the farm labor problem, according to reports reaching the State Food Committee. This is shown by the large number of sales reported from every section of the State, indicating that the farmers are endeavoring to solve their own problems in every possible instance.

Last year in nine Indiana counties one implement concern sold thirty two-row cultivators to its dealers in that territory. This year the same company sold 106 two-row cultivators to the same dealers in the same period. In these same nine counties in 1917 only 38 tractor plows were sold to dealers in this section of the State, while this year the number sold was 146.

Advantage of the two-row cultivator over the old single-row plow, which has been in use for years, is shown by the report of one farmer. To cultivate 80 acres of corn with a single-row plow it took one man ten days. Figuring his wages, board and lodging at $2 a day, this would make a total of $20, and the use of two horses at $3 a day would mean $30, a total of $50. Using the double-row cultivator, it took one man just five days to do the same work. With his pay and keep figured then at $10 and the use of three horses for five days at $22.50, the total cost of cultivating the 80 acres of corn was only $32.50, against $50 by the old method. Practical farmers throughout Indiana, who have used both plows, say the two-row cultivator will do work absolutely as well as the single-row cultivator and that it is just as easy to operate as the one-row outfit.

Pick up the plow where it stands in the furrow —patriotism is the practical doing of the next job.

Contentment.

"Plain food is quite enough for me,
Three courses are as good as ten,
If nature can subsist on three,
Thank Heaven for three. Amen."

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Five Counties Have Completed Records

Registration in Seventeen Others Practically Finished and Supplies Have Been Exhausted in Some.

Five counties have completed their voluntary registration of women and seventeen counties have reported that their work is practically completed. In almost every other county the work is progressing rapidly and in a short time nearly every woman in Indiana is expected to be registered.

The counties which report a complete registration are Ohio, Clay, Fayette, Randolph and Wells. Those reporting the registration practically completed are Benton, Blackford, Boone, Brown, Carroll, Cass, Delaware, Dubois, Franklin, Hancock, Johnson, Newton, Owen, Putnam, Sullivan, Tippecanoe and Wayne. Mrs. Sadie Green of Rising Sun, chairman of the Ohio County registration committee, reports 1,381 women registered out of a population of 4,329. This is regarded as a 100 per cent registration.

Although no accurate figures are available at this time, indications are that nearly 1,000,000 Indiana women will be listed at the close of the campaign. This number is far larger than was expected and, as a result, sufficient supplies have not arrived, causing a delay in some counties. More than 700,000 cards already have been sent out and many more are on their way. In counties where the registration has been completed the members of the woman's organizations are busy filing the cards and preparing a summary to be filed with the State Council of Defense. When all of these summaries are filed a complete list of nearly every woman in the State, and what she can do to aid in winning the war, will be available.

What of Russia?

The Russian situation is very imperfectly understood in this country. The following books are useful as interpretations of the people, the forces leading to the revolution and the revolution itself. Any of the books mentioned below may be borrowed for a short time from the Indiana State Library by any citizen of the State. Persons living in towns where there is a public library should apply through the librarian. Those living on rural routes or in towns having no public library may obtain blanks for registration from the State Library on request. The only expense is that of transportation.

Baring, M.—The Russian People.

"Object * * * is to supply the average reader with an introduction to the course of Russian affairs; to sketch * * * the main features of the Russian soil and race; the main episodes of the history and development of the nation; to point out the chief characteristics of the country and its people; and to trace the manner in which its chief institutions grew up and developed." Date of this edition, 1911.

Blackwell, A. S.—Little Grandmother of the Russian Revolution.

Reminiscences and letters of Catherine Breshkovsky, who devoted her life to the cause of Russian freedom.

Levine, I. D.—The Russian Revolution.

A brief account of the causes of the revolution. Does not include events under the Bolsheviks.

Marcosson, I. F.—The Rebirth of Russia.

A popular account of the opening events of the revolution.

Olgin, M. J.—Soul of the Russian Revolution.

For American readers, the most illuminating book yet written on the forces and conditions which brought about the overthrow of autocracy.

Poole, E.—The Dark People.

The author, who has recently traveled through Russia, gives a survey of the situation there.

Wilton, R.—Russia's Agony.

Written by the Petrograd correspondent of the London Times, long a resident of Russia and an eye-witness of events in Russia during the past fourteen years, including the recent revolution and the rule of the Bolsheviks.

Soldiers' Legal Advice Free.

Every drafted man in Elkhart County received the following card:

Drafted men and others interested are notified that there are regularly constituted legal advisory boards in Elkhart County, to look after their interests.

Judge James S. Drake, of the Elkhart Circuit Court, Goshen, is official chairman of this committee for the First Exemption District (the Southern District) of Elkhart County.

Judge James L. Harman, of the Elkhart Superior Court, Elkhart, is official chairman of this committee for the Second Exemption District (the Northern District) of Elkhart County.

It is contemplated by federal and state authorities that through these chairmen, the free services of Elkhart County lawyers shall be furnished all soldiers and sailors—the permanent legal advisory boards having virtually completed their work in connection with local exemption boards, for which they were originally created by the Provost Marshal General.

The services contemplated cover such matters as:

- The explanation of the selective service law to drafted men.
- Giving legal advice as to war risk insurance, family allowance, etc.
- Draft wills, attend to caring for property, etc., for men entering service.
- Represent soldiers and sailors in court where necessary in certain matters.
- Arrange to attend to such business matters as are needful in soldiers' and sailors' absence.
- Report to Red Cross Home Service—Section relief cases of dependents.

(By order Indiana State Council of Defense.)

ELKHART COUNTY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

April, 1918.

I. O. Wood, Chairman.

A Measure of Loyalty.

"Patriotism is a thing of such fine and pure material it cannot be made the cloak for any crime. The real patriot loves his country so well that its fair name is dearer to him than all else. He knows that its authority is denied, its honor tarnished, its power weakened whenever mob law rules. Our soldiers are engaged in the greatest battle of history to uphold the principle that men are able to govern themselves under laws which they themselves have made. Shall we permit this principle to fail at home?

"While defects in our laws may provoke they do not excuse the commission of crime in the name of patriotism. The loyalty of the citizen in this crisis is measured, not alone by his efforts to defeat the enemy, but equally by his efforts to maintain law and order at home."

FRANK O. LOWDEN,
Governor of Illinois.

Scientific Research Committee Is Active

Reorganization Includes Prominent Men Who Are Engaged in Various Problems.

For the purpose of meeting the problems that arise promptly and effectively, the Scientific Research Committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense has reorganized. All present committeemen have signified their willingness to serve and all committees are at work upon special problems assigned to them or originated by them. The committees and personnel follow:

Scientific Research Committee of State Council of Defense—Arthur L. Foley, Bloomington, Chairman; F. C. Atkinson, Indianapolis; C. H. Benjamin, Lafayette; F. R. Eldred, Indianapolis; Wm. H. Insley, Indianapolis; John White, Terre Haute; Daniel B. Luten, Indianapolis, Secretary.

Executive Committee of Scientific Research Committee—John White, Terre Haute, Chairman; F. C. Atkinson, Indianapolis; F. R. Eldred, Indianapolis; Wm. H. Insley, Indianapolis; Daniel B. Luten, Indianapolis, Secretary.

Sub-Committees of the Scientific Research Committee.

Sub-Committee on Chemistry—R. E. Lyons, Bloomington, Chairman; W. N. Blanchard, Greencastle; P. N. Evans, Lafayette.

Sub-Committee on Coal—John White, Terre Haute, Chairman; W. N. Blanchard, Greencastle; J. M. Breckenridge, Crawfordsville; H. L. Coles, Terre Haute; F. C. Wagner, Terre Haute.

Sub-Committee on Engineering—R. C. Yeoman, Lafayette, Chairman; E. H. Ahara, Mishawaka; M. E. Louth, Kokomo.

Sub-Committee on Invention—H. O. Garman, Indianapolis, Chairman; W. H. Wright, Indianapolis.

Sub-Committee on Mathematics—A. M. Kenyon, Lafayette, Chairman; A. L. Foley, Bloomington; Laurence Hadley, Richmond.

Sub-Committee on Medical Research—A. L. Walters, Indianapolis, Chairman; G. S. Bond, Indianapolis; B. D. Myers, Bloomington; Will Shimer, Indianapolis.

Sub-Committee on Nutrition—F. C. Atkinson, Indianapolis, Chairman; R. H. Carr, Lafayette; Geo. A. Fisher, Indianapolis; E. F. Kohman, Indianapolis; H. A. Shonle, Indianapolis.

Sub-Committee on Physics—A. L. Foley, Bloomington, Chairman; J. P. Naylor, Greencastle; R. R. Ramsey, Bloomington.

From 1914-1918 the French women have borne the burden of agriculture. Their wounded men, broken and disabled, have come home to them to be cared for. Tuberculosis attacks their poorly nourished children. These women have been the chief laborers for the fields. It is up to America to relieve the French women in every possible way. Save and send the food they need.

So long as the boys are at the front, difficulties are to be subdued, impossibilities to be trampled down.

What Other Councils Are Spending

Some idea of the magnitude of the work being done by councils of defense in other States may be suggested by the following figures showing appropriations and expenditures:

	Funds	Expenditures
California .....	$100,000—State funds appropriated	$52,781.30 to January 15
Maine .....	1,000,000—State funds appropriated
Maryland .....	2,000,000—State loan appropriated	550,000.00 to April 1
Massachusetts .....	2,030,000—State funds appropriated	268,702.82 to November 1
Michigan .....	5,000,000—4 per cent. loan
Minnesota .....	1,000,000—State funds appropriated
New Hampshire .....	1,000,000—State funds appropriated
New Mexico .....	750,000—State funds appropriated
New York .....	1,000,000—State funds appropriated
Ohio .....	250,000—State funds appropriated	150,000.00 to December 10
Pennsylvania .....	2,760,000—State funds appropriated	215,000 to March 1
Vermont .....	1,000,000—State funds appropriated

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 17, 1918

Number 40

Committee to Pass on All Improvements

Brought to the Attention of the Indiana
State Council of Defense—Other Matters Up.

A committee will be named to which will be referred all questions involving the policy of the Indiana State Council of Defense and the Council of National Defense relative to new buildings of any kind, and especially to public improvements, that heretofore have come before the State Council of Defense as a whole. The appointment of such committee was authorized at the meeting of the Council May 15. Evans Woolen was designated as its chairman. One of the first propositions that will be up to the committee, Chairman Foley said, will be the construction of a court house at Rockport, Indiana, at an approximate cost of $185,000.

In this connection Mr. Fox said, "On the subject of these improvements and public building generally, Mr. Chairman, I find other states appear to be going ahead. Many of our people in Indiana are loafing on the streets for want of something to do. If we are to go on with this policy of restriction and prohibition it seems to me we must find something for them to do. We have many idle workmen." Mr. Fox's suggestion was referred to the new committee.

Arthur W. Brady submitted a report covering his investigations of the origin and authorization of the publication and distribution of the Indiana War Service Text Book, which, after a discussion, was adopted. Mr. Brady's report in full appears elsewhere in this number of the Bulletin.

Emsley Johnson, county attorney for Marion county, submitted to the Council the question of the propriety of proceeding with a road building program in view of the Council's declarations on this subject. Mr. Johnson said better and permanent roads to Fort Benjamin Harrison are being demanded by the federal government as a condition to the further operation of a military training school at the fort. He said also that other projects include the main market highways, the construction of which is asked as a war measure. The Council expressed itself as approving the completion of roads to Fort Harrison, and such main market highways as are desired for the motor transport service program. However it urged upon Mr. Johnson that no new road contracts be made except such as are first brought to the Council's attention, and approved.

Upon motion of A. E. Reynolds the Council held the reconstruction of an elevator at Boswell, Indiana, as a matter for the consideration of the Benton County Council of Defense, to which it was referred with the understanding that the action of the Benton County Council is to be conclusive.

Schuyler Mercer, state senator from Miami county, addressed the Council on the subject of the dog menace to the sheep industry. He advocated the recommendation of laws and ordinances that would put an almost prohibitive tax on dogs, and would require that peace officers kill all stray animals. He also advocated a bounty on dead dogs by county commissioners as a means of removing many homeless and valueless animals. Frank Stutesman, a merchant of Peru, following Senator Mercer's address, described to the Council his experience in this connection. He said he had witnessed a decline of the wool industry due to the depredations of stray dogs to a point where it is practically eliminated in Indiana. He urged the Council as a patriotic necessity to take such steps as will protect the source of meat for food and wool clothing from the menace now existing. Upon motion, a committee consisting of E. M. Wilson and Isaac D. Straus of the Council; George Harney of the Protection Committee, and Senator Mercer was appointed to make concrete recommendations to the next meeting of the Council.

George Ade submitted to the Council a plan of condensing for the newspaper press as much of the national war publicity as is available for weekly release. Mr. Ade said the experiment is an attempt to find a solution for a situation that is making impossible demands upon the small publisher. The Council approved the effort.

The Finance committee reported that the matter of attempting to regulate the sale of stock and bond issues of doubtful value known as "blue sky" offerings, is not a proper function of the State or County Council of Defense. The report of the committee was approved. This question came up recently from Lake county where it was reported the sale of stocks of questionable value—many of them perhaps worthless—was interfering with the successful financing of war enterprises.

Herbert Eiler asked the Council to nominate him as "official war photographer." He said such action is necessary before he can secure permission to take pictures in military camps and reservations. These pictures he held to be of historical value. He added that he would endeavor to finance his work outside the Council. The request was referred to the Military committee.

The Council approved the action of the committee on Food Production and Conservation, as reported by Prof. T. A. Coleman. The committee, Prof. Coleman said, had agreed that its policy for the 1918 wheat crop would be an increased production rather than an extended acreage. The committee is planning an intensive campaign to maintain Indiana's record in this particular, he said.

The committee consisting of Earl Crawford and Prof. T. A. Coleman to which was referred the question of the Council's acting on the organization of men exempted from military service, for the furtherance of the war program, reported that this organizational work is being done by county agricultural agents and conscription boards in the state, very effectively. The further consideration of the subject was placed in the hands of the Military Affairs committee.

Longer School Terms For Emergency of War

Longer school terms for the proper preparation of children for such crises as arise in wartime are urged in the resolutions adopted by the Educational Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense. More than 200 educators took part in the meeting which was enthusiastically successful. Dr. Charles Zueblin of Boston outlined a program for educating the American school children to be ready either for peace or war. The section also emphasized the importance of maintaining a high standard of efficiency in the public schools during the war, that the schools be used as war service community centers, that the teachers be better paid and that night schools be added where they can be of any assistance. Dr. Henry Jackson of the United States Bureau of Education, addressed the section on the common effort being made by the American educational institutions to help in making the nation's cause successful.

To Maintain Acreage And Increase Yields

Indiana Committee Takes Steps to Guarantee Wheat Output for Year of 1918.

At the meeting of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation of the State Council of Defense, plans for the organization of a state-wide wheat campaign for 1919 wheat production were approved. D. S. Myer, of Purdue University, was elected state leader. A preliminary meeting to discuss the details of the campaign will be held May 24th at 2 o'clock in the Board of Trade room. This meeting will be participated in by the State Food Committee, Purdue University, Indiana Grain Dealers' Association, Indiana Millers' Association, Indiana Bankers' Association, and the Indiana fertilizer manufacturers, and others. D. S. Myer will preside at the meeting.

A letter from R. A. Pearson, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, urges that the wheat acreage of Indiana be maintained. The normal acreage has been increased twenty-five per cent since the war began. D. S. Myer says that through careful selection of seed wheat and proper attention given to the preparation of the seed bed, and the use of fertilizers, that the total wheat production for Indiana can be increased. The committee took steps to urge upon local conscription boards the need for sparing farmers from the draft call as far as possible, especially as it applied to men who were operating threshing outfits.

Maurice Douglas, state leader of the silo campaign, reported on the progress of the campaign to place ten thousand silos on Indiana farms in 1918. Laporte county reports that her quota of 93 silos is practically contracted for at the present time. A. E. Watson, the Laporte county leader, proposes to double their quota. A mammoth booster meeting and luncheon will be held at the Rumley hotel, Laporte, next week. Similar county-wide meetings are being held in other counties.

R. E. Caldwell, a member of the Dairy Committee, presented an excellent report on the progress of the dairy campaign for the last year, and outlined the procedure for the coming year. The general plan for the coming year is to conduct a drive to encourage the greater use of dairy products and to encourage the dairy farmer to use better methods in his operations.

Wm. J. Jones, of the state board of agriculture, presented a plan to encourage "short feeding" of cattle. The plan was a result of the conference which he had with Mr. Cotton of the United States Food Administration. He proposed to offer medals at the next state fair for the best results which could be shown both as to profits and as to weight gain. The proposition was referred to the Livestock Committee, headed by Warren T. McCray, with power to act.

A resolution was passed as a result of the resignation of Ralph W. Moss, commending him on his faithful service as chairman and co-worker.

A resolution was adopted expressing the committee's appreciation of the splendid work of their director, G. I. Christie, and congratulating him upon being chosen as assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Patriotism in Indiana

Allen County.—M. B. Kroft, representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, is conducting a campaign in the county for the eradication of the common barberry shrub, the common carrier of stem rust of wheat and other small grains. With the co-operation of the Ft. Wayne city fosterer, the county agent, the school children and the Boy Scouts, Mr. Kroft hopes to eliminate entirely the dangerous shrub from the city and the county.

Blackford County.—Mrs. Charles Ritter, woman member of the county council of defense, has prepared the following report of war activities by women in this county: Red Cross and allied relief—hospital garments, hospital supplies, articles for soldiers and refugee garments, total $68; surgical dressings, 3,640; grand total, 4,446. The report, which is itemized, is signed by Mrs. C. Andre, chairman....Mrs. A. G. Lupton, chairman of the child welfare work, reports the weighing and measuring of 425 babies, the holding of clinics throughout the county by local doctors, nurses, school authorities and members of the committee. Some delay was reported on account of epidemics of contagious diseases....Dr. Ella Hollis, chairman of the health and recreation committee, reports the sending of 562 volumes of books for transmission to the soldiers to headquarters....Mrs. L. W. Burke, chairman of the enrollment committee, reports a total of 2,460 women registered, and the work not yet completed....Mrs. Jack Crisman, chairman of one of the special committees, reports the work of distributing the 1918 food cards well on its way....Mrs. Josephine Clippenger, chairman of food production, reports two war gardens conducted by women and many other women increasing garden and poultry production....Mrs. Charles Ritter, chairman of the "fourteen-minute speakers" committee, reports thirty-four speeches made, and arrangements made for patriotic meetings, service flag programs, etc....Mrs. R. K. Willman, chairman of the Liberty Loan committee, reports sales by the women of $132,250; a total of $14 subscriptions, with 260 women buying $50 bonds....The county council recently appropriated $7,500 for the County Council of Defense which, in turn, will turn the money over to the local chapter of the Red Cross for the purpose of purchasing supplies.

Boone County.—The War Mothers of Boone County recently met in Lebanon and formed a county organization. One mother, Mrs. Florence Lambert of Elizaville, registered the names of four sons in the service. Mrs. Alice French addressed the meeting and a small contribution was made to the Red Cross.

Clay County.—Seventeen physicians, representing nearly the entire medical profession of Clay County, volunteered their services to the War Department at a recent meeting, addressed by Dr. A. E. Scars of the medical section of the State Council of Defense. The men will compose a part of the 400 physicians which Indiana has been asked to supply....The Red Cross fund organization in Clay County, of which Dr. J. A. Rawley is chairman, consists of a war fund committee, a war fund cashier, an executive committee, a publicity committee, a speakers' committee, a committee on vocal music, a committee on lands, and a committee on bill posting and advertising.

Clinton County.—James McCune, a farmer living at Micheltown, has one son in France, four in army training camps and one in the United States Boys' Working Reserve. He purchased $500 worth of Liberty Bonds of the third issue.

Decatur County.—The Eagles lodge of Greensburg, in line with the suggestions of the United States food administration, has taken a practical method of encouraging the use of potatoes. The distribution of five bushels of potatoes as prizes and premiums was a feature of the opening night, Tuesday, of the lodge's big indoor show.

Delaware County.—Ordinances fixing penalties for the distribution of seditious literature and for spreading war lies have been passed by the Muncie common council. An emergency was declared and the ordinance became effective immediately.

Elkhart County.—A total of more than 9,000 women registered for war work in Elkhart County, bringing the percentage of registration to more than 95....The County Council of Defense has held that the erection of a new $50,000 Y. M. C. A. building in Elkhart is not essential war work....Letters have been sent to each school teacher in the county by A. E. Weaver, county superintendent, in which it was stated that the license of any school teacher who is found disloyal to the government will immediately be revoked. The letter was written as the result of reports that some teachers had made disloyal remarks.

Fountain County.—Dan C. Reed, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has appointed Claude Philpott of Covington, Joseph H. Stahl of Attica and O. W. McGaughey of Veederburg, as a committee to give legal advice to Fountain County men going into the service....Harry Glascock has been appointed deputy food administrator for the county, to succeed T. H. Boe, who recently resigned.

Fulton County.—Following reports that cornstalks are, in many cases, still standing in wheat fields, thus endangering the wheat yield for the season, the following letter was sent to the farmers of the county by the County Council of Defense: "The present weather is giving what a great start and unless corn stalks are broken down or harrowed out of the way immediately, they will injure the wheat yields of Fulton County. The standing stalks will cause waste in reaping, both of grain and of twine. A bushel of wheat saved will save human lives. Within the limit of the square mile for which you are responsible, please look over the situation and if any of your neighbors are neglecting corn stalks in wheat fields, urge them to attend to the matter at once. This is a part of the campaign of the Nation to save food for our soldiers and for our allies. It is a part of the campaign to make Fulton County help raise food. Get busy as soon as this letter reaches you....Only fifty women in the county did not register for war service, making the percentage of registration 99.98.

Huntington County.—The effort of Huntington shoe merchants to bring about a conservation of leather was commended by the County Council of Defense in the following letter: "The Huntington County Council of Defense hereby informs all citizens of our county that the patriotic effort of the shoe merchants of Huntington in advocating the 'conserving of leather' has the hearty endorsement of the Council of Defense. We hereby cheerfully refer the public to the full page communication offered them by these merchants in the issue of the Huntington Press, Sunday morning, May 5. We consider this effort one of patriotism and recommend a careful consideration by all our citizens."

Jackson County.—C. L. Kessler was elected president and Mrs. Clara D. Carter was chosen secretary of the Jackson township council of defense at the first meeting of the organization, held recently.

Knox County.—Grocers of the county have agreed to close each Wednesday afternoon during May, June, July and August, at the request of the county food administration.

Laporte County.—Moral and religious work among soldiers and members of their families is to be conducted by a committee appointed at the monthly meeting of the county council of defense. The appointment took place at the request of the State Council of Defense. A. E. Trevitt, captain of the Salvation Army here, was named chairman. Others of the committee are Dr. W. L. Elston of Michigan City, Attorney Walter C. Williams of Michigan City, C. W. Pettit, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Rev. T. B. Shields of Rolling Prairie.

Marion County.—The Franchise League of Indianapolis has arranged to make clothing for French and Belgian children in its Red Cross workshop. Mrs. Irving King will be in charge. The garments are to be given through the Junior Red Cross....Members of the hospital committee of the Marion County War Mothers met with Mrs. A. L. Wilson Tuesday and made pneumonia jackets....Kindergartens, public schools, parochial schools and clinics of Indianapolis will be opened as examining stations for tables in the Child Welfare campaign. The weighing and measuring of the babies will begin as soon as the enrollment which is being taken in connection with the registration of women is completed. The committee in charge of selecting places for examination includes Mrs. Eliza Baker and Miss Ruth Patterson, kindergarten experts; Miss Laura France, assistant superintendent of public schools; Miss Vivian Green, Children's Aid Association, and Mrs. Charles P. Trask, of the parochial schools.

Marshall County.—The Marshall County Service Council has been completed and fully organized. The purpose of the council is to collect a "war chest" fund for the purpose of paying the county's quota in various war relief activities. Officers of the council are Dr. G. F. Hitchcock, president; Orlow Leonard, vice-president; James Sweeney, secretary, and Edward S. Kitch, treasurer....All the physicians of the county are giving their services to the work of registering children in connection with the child welfare campaign. Each doctor has promised to serve for a short time, thus dividing the work....A bazaar was arranged for Friday evening, May 17, in Plymouth, for which 600 tickets were sold at $1.00 each, each ticket to be worth one article on display at the bazaar. The affair was arranged to provide a fund for the purchase of uniforms for the Bremen Liberty Guards. The merchandise was all donated for the cause by the patriotic merchants of Bremen.

Perry County.—A conference of Perry County war workers held in Cannelton May 9th and 10th attracted a large attendance and was marked by the generation of intense patriotic enthusiasm. The County Council of Defense, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. committees participated in the program, which was followed by a "smoker." The latter consisted of the use of real Irish stone pipes and tobacco for all who cared to indulge. F. S. Bogardus of the Indiana State Normal School delivered the principal address at the evening meeting May 9th. In his report to the Speakers' Bureau of the State Council, Mr. Bogardus writes as follows: "It was so unique and it offers such a fine suggestion for similar work elsewhere that I feel that you should know about it and possibly should suggest the holding of similar meetings to other county councils. The most striking feature of the affair was that it seemed that the men of influence and responsibility in Perry County had assembled from all parts of that county for a general conference and get-together meeting on the subject of the war. There were 250 men present, all anxious to learn how to develop greater effectiveness in the war work of Perry County. It seemed to me that these people were not waiting for outsiders to come there to tell them what to do in order to stimulate, nor urge them to greater effort, but they had come forward as American citizens realizing their individual responsibility, and were proposing to see to it that Perry County should do its full part in the war. The program consisted of reports by all of the various demonstrators, such as Food, Fuel, Red Cross, Knights of Columbus and Y. M. C. A., and all the other war causes working in Perry County. These officials were introduced to the assembled body of men by name and each one was asked to explain in a few words what he was trying to do, as well as what had been accomplished. Quite a number of times persons arose in the audience and explained what work was going on in their own communities or offered suggestions as to how greater effectiveness might be reached in certain lines of war work. The members of the county council of defense were present and were introduced by name. Every township in the county was represented by its township council of defense. The common interest in the war work displayed in this meeting, the sense of fellowship and friendliness made the meeting an unique affair. I am satisfied that this meeting accomplished more in the way of securing practical results in organization and method of work than some of the very large meetings that I have had the pleasure of attending. The 'smoker' element of the meeting was quite a success, there being a good, large supply of pipes and Kentucky tobacco on the table in a room, as well as some cigars. If this Perry County idea of a get-together meeting of all the men war workers could be used throughout the counties of Indiana, I am quite certain that we would see even greater enthusiasm and effectiveness in our efforts to mobilize the civilian population than have yet been attained."

Rush County.—Thomas M. Green, chairman of the Rush County Council of Defense, holds that the members of the Rushville city high school should have credit for having pledged $10 each to the Y. M. C. A. war fund, from their own earnings, the same to be paid by April 1. The money was paid in as pledged. Recently the Indiana Bulletin reported that $9 members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve had made a similar pledge in Rush County, the incidents having been confused probably. Mr. Green says he knows nothing of any such pledge from the Boys' Reserve, and that the latter organization had nothing to do with the high school enterprise.

St. Joseph County.—Every stray dog in South Bend, tagged or not tagged, will be killed, according to orders which have been issued to the police department. The order was issued for the purpose of preventing dogs from destroying war gardens.

Scott County.—The County Council of Defense has organized councils of defense in each of the five townships of the county. The names of the chairmen follow: Finley township, Frank Arbuckle; Jennings township, A. W. Garriott; Johnson township, John Sarver; Lexington township, Dillard Robbins; Vienna township, Jesse Comer.

Shelby County.—Judge Blair named Mrs. John Rhodes, Mrs. Minnie Fuller and John Burns to take the places of Mrs. S. L. Major, Dr. W. H. Kennedy and Thomas H. Wooley, who have resigned as members of the Shelby County Council of Defense....The following have been appointed as chairmen of township councils of defense: Addison, John D. DeFries; Shelby, Stephen Barnes; Noble, Dal Neibert; Liberty, Perry Armstrong; Union, Clay Briley; Marion, Charles Rhoades; Hanover, W. N. Bassett; VanBuren, William H. Smith; Moral, George Ruschaupt; Sugar Creek, Richard Gallagher; Brandwine, Clarence T. Fraker; Hendricks, George W. Shepard; Jackson, William Cochran; Washington, Henry McCarty.

Sullivan County.—What was termed the largest public meeting ever held in the county was held recently under the auspices of the county War Mothers' organization. Mr. Harold C. Bays, the principal speaker, talked on "The Morale of the Army." The War Mothers' organization of the county has a membership of about 600 and several townships already have perfected their organizations.

Tippecanoe County.—The Central Y. M. C. A. of Lafayette is offering a course in first aid to members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve, in order that they may know how to handle emergency cases likely to arise in farm work. The work will begin May 16 and will be free to all boys who wish to take the course.

Vigo County.—Boy students of the Wiley High School, following a school board order eliminating the teaching of German in the public schools of Terre Haute, gathered together more than 2,000 books, a quantity of maps and other literature used in the German classes, and publicly burned them on the campus of the school. Following the demonstration the students formed a procession and marched through the streets of the city. The school board issued an order discontinuing the teaching of German on May 3, the order becoming effective May 6.

Wabash County.—The Wabash County Council, which recently appropriated $10,000 for the use of the Red Cross society, reappropriated the money to the Wabash County Council of Defense. The Red Cross had already drawn $3,000 for the purchase of material for use in local workshops. None of the money will be applied to the Wabash County allotment of $21,000 in the second big war fund campaign May 20-27. The local chapters are arranging for a membership campaign in June. From the membership fund 25 per cent. will be retained for uses of local chapters. Harry McNamee has succeeded Dr. James E. Wilson as president of the Wabash County organization....Chester Township Council of Defense has an enrollment of more than 1,000 and it expects to reach a total of more than 1,100 before the drive is completed. Collections for memberships at $1.00 each with donations in the seven precincts of the township resulted in an accumulation of $1,070, of which $414 went to the county fund and $656 retained for use in Chester Township....A conference of mothers recently was called by the child welfare workers of the county, at which the mothers were instructed in the care of their children. The conference was held in connection with the baby registration.

Wayne County.—Thirteen Wayne County physicians have volunteered for the army medical department.

Whitley County.—An auction sale of articles donated by residents of the county will be held at Whitley, May 18, for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Red Cross Members Urged to Great Effort

Lake Division Points to Opportunity for Service During Week of May 20 to 27.

Following President Wilson's proclamation in which he officially named the week of May 20 to 27 "Red Cross Week" for the purpose of raising $100,000,000 for war relief, the Red Cross War Council sent this statement to the Red Cross members living in Lake Division Red Cross territory.

"To carry out the proclamation of the President of the United States and the President of the Red Cross you are called upon to spare no effort to make Red Cross Week a period of patriotic generosity not surpassed in the annals of practical relief.

"The minimum of America's contribution should be $100,000,000. You are asked to review carefully the needs of our own troops and of the troops and civilian population of our allies as outlined in the President's proclamation and discussed in detail in many reports from this organization. Then bring the needs to the attention of all with whom you come in contact.

"Let no Red Cross member fail the opportunity to give until he feels he has a satisfactory personal share in these measures for victory.

"Red Cross offers every American an opportunity to give to his country and to his country's allies—to do his utmost without thought of financial return—that those who are suffering may be sustained to victory. Let no one be able to say that he did not give or that he did not give sufficiently because he failed to understand the need.

"The rapid increase in the number of our soldiers in France means that Red Cross facilities abroad for immediate relief and care of our fighters must be increased. Refugees driven from their homes by Germans have added thousands to the number of old men and women and children in France and Italy who must be fed and clothed.

"The need for at least $100,000,000 is convincing and immediate. The Red Cross in more than a hundred ways is rendering service here and abroad that saves human life and maintains the fighting spirit of our allies. The Red Cross must always be financially prepared to deal with any unexpected emergencies constantly arising from war conditions. In these emergencies immediate relief is the only effective relief. Never has money been made to yield such big returns in allaying pain, restoring happiness and recreating usefulness for our fellow human beings as with the Red Cross dollars of the first war fund."

Red Cross Activities

The American Red Cross has issued a statement showing the condition of its war fund. In June, 1917, a total of $110,134,360.47 was made available through subscriptions and interest on subscriptions. Refunds to chapters amounted to $17,401,690.04. The amount appropriated to date is $82,217,943.82, leaving a total of $10,515,347.51 still available.

Premier Clemenceau of France has sent his thanks to the American Red Cross War Council for the immediate aid recently rendered at his request to 50,000 refugees from the war zone gathered at Stomer.

Plans have been made by the Red Cross for the biggest nation-wide series of parades ever held in one day. Fifteen hundred cities and towns are included in the plans which contemplate the participation of more than five million men and women.

A statement to Red Cross members living in the Lake Division asking them to do their part in the collection of the $100,000,000 fund which is expected to be raised during the campaign from May 20 to May 27, was sent out following the proclamation by President Wilson naming the dates of the drive.

"Uncle Sam's Ten Commandments" have just been issued in placard form by the Summit County (Ohio) Draft Board in conjunction with the Home Service Section of the Akron Red Cross Chapter. Here are the commandments:

1. Thou shalt not evict, for non-payment of rent, a soldier's dependents under penalty of $10,000 fine.
2. Thou shalt not cut off a soldier's life insurance because of delayed premiums.
3. Thou shalt not foreclose a mortgage on a soldier's property.
4. Thou shalt not take away a soldier's home on which he has made part payment.
5. Thou shalt not sell a soldier's property because of his failure to pay taxes, national, state or local.
6. Thou shalt not settle a lawsuit against a soldier during his absence.
7. If a soldier sue, the courts shall postpone action until he can attend to it.
8. If a soldier have a mine, or timber or farm claim, assessments on which are overdue, it shall be held for him.
9. Honor thy soldier and thy sailor, that thy days may be long in the land of liberty.
10. No man hath greater love than he that offereth his life for the world's sake, and it is commanded that neither lawyers, nor the loan sharks, nor the gatherers of tithes shall fatten on him.

How Many Can YOU Answer?

The Speakers' Bureau of the Indiana State Council of Defense has had mimeographed the following list of questions for distribution to speakers. These will be sent out immediately:

HOW MANY OF THESE THINGS DO YOU KNOW ABOUT?

1. Do you know without looking it up, what President Wilson's fourteen "war aims" are?
2. What changes in the map do these points involve?
3. What changes would they necessitate in the economic relations between the principal peoples of the world?
4. What changes might they not involve in your own life?
5. With which of these points are the Central Powers in agreement?
6. When the treaty of peace is drawn, what main problems must it solve—in Russia? in China? in Africa? in Asia Minor? in the Balkans? in Turkey? in the Mediterranean? in the Baltic?
7. What interests, what peoples, conflict in these areas, and why do they conflict?
8. What do the Germans mean by "freedom of the seas" and what does President Wilson mean?
9. What tremendous changes in the life of all the inhabitants of the world are involved in the proposed absolute "freedom of economic intercourse"?
10. How would "free economic intercourse" affect laborers and capitalists, and business in general, in this country?
11. What dangers of future conflict lie in "universal free trade", and is there any way in which these can be avoided?
12. Exactly what are the various proposals that have been advanced looking to the formation of a "world parliament" or world court?
13. Can you think of any plan by which a "world parliament" or a "world court" could be effective, without the establishment also of a "world executive"?
14. What powers would this nation, and other nations, be obliged to relinquish totally to an effective "world parliament"?
15. Is it true that imperialists in England, France, Japan and America—as well as in Germany—would prefer a "peace of compromise" to President Wilson's "peace of justice"? If they do, why do they?

Food Administration

Officers of the J. P. Michael Company of Indianapolis signed admissions as having violated the food regulations knowingly, and were penalized in the sum of $3,000, which was distributed among the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. equally. Upon receipt of their signed admissions, Dr. Barnard in addition to the penalty named above, revoked the firm's license as wholesalers and jobbers and permitted it to continue business on a suspension of the revocation.

E. A. Carman, a grocer of Lafayette, sold pancake flour as a wheat flour substitute and retailed flour at an excessive price, with the result that he was forced to suspend business for a week beginning May 12. The action was taken on the recommendation of the Tippecanoe County food administrator.

An investigation of prices for wheat flour substitutes is being made by Carl Simms, chairman of the Milling Division, at the direction of the Washington authorities. Millers will be required to report prices they are paying for cereals and the prices they are charging for the products thereof. Herbert Hoover, federal food administrator, in a special wire to Dr. Barnard, says: "Corn meal should be selling at the mill-door at not to exceed 25 per cent less than wheat flour and white corn flour at from 10 to 15 per cent below wheat flour." He holds there is no justification for the present high priced levels in this commodity in many sections and promises "summary action" where higher figure obtains.

No justification exists for an increased price of bread due to the high price of substitutes, Mr. Hoover asserts. He says the price tendency for corn meal and corn flour is and has been downward and that dealers who have been proposing to raise the price of bread must furnish a more sufficient reason or be liable to charges of profiteering.

The practice of shipping ice to communities where adequate facilities for supplying the local demand already exist is frowned on by the food administration as being wasteful of shipping facilities, storage and the man power required for duplicated delivery service. The practice is said to obtain in Princeton, Martinsville and other communities where the food administrator will order it discontinued.

Offers of thrift stamp bonuses or any other combination for stimulating the sale of wheat flour, wheat products or sugar are taboo. The federal food administration announces that no variation or modification of the stringent regulations which provide for limited rations in both these staples will be countenanced.

200 Women Statisticians.

The immediate need of 200 statisticians by the United States civil service commission, for service in the Ordnance department of the War Department, has been reported to Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the Woman's Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, by Hannah J. Patterson, resident director of the Council of National Defense, Washington, D. C. The woman's section of the state council is asked to assist in securing these statisticians. Mrs. Carlisle is informed that no written examination is necessary, all applicants being subject to examination only as to education and experience. "The need is urgent," says Mrs. Patterson's announcement, "and any efforts that you may make toward securing women for the ordnance department will be appreciated." All applicants in Indiana are asked by Mrs. Carlisle to apply for the necessary blanks to the Ordnance Bureau, in the War Department.

"All the resources of the country are hereby pledged"—now is the time to work them to the limit.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 40

The War Service Text Book

The following report submitted by Arthur W. Brady was received by the Indiana State Council of Defense May 15th and approved:

To the State Council of Defense:

In the matter of payment for publication of the War Text Book, referred to me for investigation and recommendation, I beg to report as follows:

The project of publishing a War Text Book for use in the schools of the State, whether first suggested by the State Council of Defense or the State Department of Education, was a wise and patriotic conception, and has been carried out satisfactorily with respect to both the contents and the form of the book. The transaction has been characterized by good faith throughout on the part of all concerned. Regard being had to the high character of the work required in a publication for school purposes and to the speed necessary to make the book available at the proper period in the school year, the amount agreed on between the State Department of Public Instruction and the Bobbs-Merrill Company, namely, $10,080, does not appear unreasonable, but the correctness of the amount should be determined by the Board of Public Printing. It clearly appears from the records of the Council that it was at all times understood that the Council should be under no financial responsibility for the publication.

The Attorney General of the State has given it as his opinion "that the State Council of Defense is under no legal obligation to Bobbs-Merrill Company, and neither the State Board of Education nor the State of Indiana is legally bound by the contract the Board made with such publishers," and that "it will require legislative action to authorize the payment of this claim out of the public revenue," and that he knows "of no board or official who is authorized to allow or pay the claim for printing the War Text Book."

The Attorney General also says:

"The people have received what appears to be full value for the amount of money asked by the printers of the book, the books being of that value or more. The books were used for a patriotic purpose; the people have received, accepted and used them, and, in equity and good conscience, the printers should be compensated therefor. In law, there is no provision by which the money could now be paid out of the state treasury, except that it be done with the expectation that the Legislature would legalize it. The Legislature at any time hereafter can legalize the transaction and provide for the payment of the bill."

It is a regrettable fact that payment cannot be promptly made for this book, the benefits of which the people of the State already enjoy, and for which they are morally bound to make full compensation. The facts should be reported to the Governor, with a recommendation by the Council that at the next session of the General Assembly funds should be appropriated to cover the full and fair cost of publication, such cost to be determined by the State Board of Public Printing.

A copy of the opinion of the Attorney General and of other related papers are filed herewith.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR W. BRADY.

U. S. Public Service Reserve

Bulletin No. 20.

To All Enrolling Agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve:

To make sure that there will be ample labor to cultivate and harvest the largest crops which Indiana farmers can plant, the U. S. Public Service Reserve will create an Emergency Farm Labor Section. It will start soon a campaign to enroll at least twenty-five thousand members for this purpose.

An Emergency Reserve.

This force is to be essentially a reserve. It will be composed of men who are ready to give from one to two days' work to working on farms in their neighborhood up to those who can devote a month or more wherever they may be needed most. Men who are able to start at once and give all their time during the greater part of the farming season should not go into the reserve, but should find work on the farms immediately. Agents of the reserve can perform valuable service by stirring up men who have had farming experience to get back on the farms where our country needs them.

In view of the possibility that the supply of labor thus to be provided, supplemented as it will be by the large force of boys who are joining the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, may not prove sufficient to meet the needs, it is imperative that there be built up an emergency reserve large enough to supply any possible demands. The health and comfort of millions of Americans as well as the fate of the war, hang largely upon our ability to raise and harvest this year a larger supply of foodstuffs than ever we have produced before.

Part Time Workers.

There is available a host of men who will be able and glad to devote a part of their time this summer to farm work if the country needs them. College students, professional men, clerks, and other employees who have vacations should be willing to give them this year to productive work out of doors. Men who have heretofore worked at farming should be especially sought after. Already employers in many communities are getting together and agreeing to give up some of their men for limited periods to work on neighboring farms. In Canada, and last summer in many places in this country, employers have been found who make up the difference in pay for the men whom they release. This is not only patriotic, but in many cases is no more than far-sighted self-interest, for the whole efficiency of a community may depend on the ability of the local farmers to raise an adequate food supply to meet local needs.

Special Record Cards.

A special record card is being prepared for enrollment for emergency farm labor. It will be of a size such that it can be sent in an ordinary commercial envelope. It will have suitable questions to show how much time the member can give, between what dates, and in what localities; also what farming experience he has had, if any.

Largely a Local Problem.

It must not be forgotten that the farm labor problem is in very large part a local problem which can not be fully met except with the aid of local initiative and energy. No greater mistake could be made than to believe that it is possible to provide a national or state machinery which can take care of it all. The greatest service which the Public Service Reserve can perform is to co-ordinate and stimulate local activities along sound lines. Movements already under way in any localities should not be discouraged but assisted and perhaps given greater power by being incorporated without great change into the nation-wide campaign.

With a National Aspect.

On the other hand the lesson must be driven home that the labor resources of any county or state, in so far as they can be spared from local needs, should at all times be available to meet shortages elsewhere. We are engaged in a great common enterprise, and the national crisis far transcends any local consideration.

The Housing Problem.

There is a task of great importance which the agents of the Public Service Reserve should take up at once in places where no other organization has yet been effected for the purpose. Many farmers have no adequate living accommodations to take care of the labor which they need. The "housing problem" is as acute in connection with farming as it is with other war industries. It is one which cannot be dealt with on a national scale as it can in shipbuilding. Each community must handle it for itself. Its solution is wholly dependent upon the exercise of local sagacity and energy. The county agents of the Department of Agriculture will keep in close touch with the needs of the farms for men. Their work in co-operation with the agents of the U. S. Employment Service will give prompt information as to any shortage anywhere of farm labor. There is, however, no country-wide organization which has undertaken to stir up the farmers and farming communities everywhere to grapple with their housing problem.

The State Director, therefore, asks the local agents to take up, each in his own community the question of whether the local farmers have adequate housing facilities and proper living accommodations for the labor they are going to need. What an individual farmer may hesitate or not think to do by himself may often be worked out by community action. Arrangements can sometimes be made, for example, for rooming a large number of men in towns within easy reach of a group of farms and a co-operative arrangement worked out for taking them to and from work in automobiles.

The Plan of the Farm Labor Reserve in Indiana.

There are two ways in which the Farm Labor Reserve can be worked out. We are going to outline both of them. The first one is the plan which we think from all angles the better one. This plan has been started in Indiana, in Huntington, and has reached a point where everyone is very much elated over it. The way this plan should be worked and organized is essentially as follows:

The Head Enrolling Agent in each county should take charge of the entire campaign. He should call the local Chamber of Commerce or Rotary Club in for aid. He should have the County Agricultural Agent to assist him later in the actual placing of men from the Reserve on the farms, should there be actual need for them. Through the Chamber of Commerce an organization can be built up by a good many men who can take the enrolling cards of the Farm Labor Reserve and actually solicit from business house to business house men who will sign up for some service during the summer months of June, July and August. There is a pledge on the card in which a man states how much time he can give. The applicant should consider this matter very carefully and should not sign up for a time that he knows he cannot give. Wherever possible, men who have had previous farm experience of some kind should be solicited. While men without farm experience can be taken they are not so valuable.

Huntington has worked out a problem in this way: They have taken Huntington, Indiana, as the central reserve. There are three or four towns in the county at which telephone exchanges which serve the surrounding territory are located and those towns are called auxiliary reserves. The main reserve, or the Huntington reserve, will be called upon to supply farm labor to the territory in immediate telephonic communication to it, and the auxiliary reserves will furnish labor to their immediate territory. If, after the reserve of an auxiliary has been exhausted, it finds it necessary to get more men, it will call upon the central reserve at Huntington for help. Calls are to be made the evening previous, to the office of the Head Enrolling Agent, and he will notify the men whom he designates to go. While soliciting for men goes on, it is well to get men who can furnish automobiles to haul the members of the reserve to and from the farms. It is well also to get doctors and ambulances to aid in taking care of men who might suffer from sunstroke.

Farmers will sign requisitions for help and they will be kept on file at the Head Enrolling Agent's office. He and the County Agricultural Agent can assign men for these calls from the records which they have on the cards on file at the office. Men are presumed to answer these calls except in cases of illness and unusual business requirements only. If men do not answer these calls without suitable excuses they should be severely censured by the County Council of Defense, as this whole thing is based upon faith.

Therefore, you can see by this general outline that the whole problem is a local community one and that each community must work out its own salvation in the matter of emergency farm labor. Cities and towns must realize that the greatest measure of local financial security lies in the maximum production and in an equal harvest.

The other plan can be more simple if you see fit. You can solicit by any means that you desire for this reserve. You can file these cards in your office and you can also file requisitions from the farmers in your office. You do not have to have an auxiliary reserve system unless you see fit to do so, but we advise you to use the more complete system.

We are going to send you the emergency farm labor cards as soon as we can. Do not start your campaign until you get these and until you have made a comprehensive organization for this work. We will furnish general publicity on this subject but we cannot furnish complete publicity, as we must make this local in its greatest appeal. You have the backing of the State Council of Defense, through the Food Production Committee, headed by Prof. G. I. Christie and you have the backing of the U. S. Public Service Reserve of the Department of Labor.

N. E. SQUIBB,

Indiana Director, U. S. Public Service Reserve.

* * *

I. W. Litchfield of the clearance section of the United States employment service advises the Indiana director that a survey is being made to ascertain pressing requirements for skilled labor in every department of war activity. Upon the facts ascertained will be based a policy that is expected to put an end to proselyting skilled workers already engaged in plants making war material. Abuses of this kind have been reported to the Indiana State Council of Defense and are being investigated.

In France all grain that can be used in bread-making is reserved for human food.

Four-Minute Men

Prof. Edgar Frazier, representing Indiana University, will conduct a ten weeks' course for Indiana men and women who desire to prepare for patriotic speaking. The course will include in addition to oratorical and forensic instruction, a brief study of the causes of the war and the purposes for which it is being fought. Members of the Four-Minute Men and Fourteen-Minute Women especially are invited to join the classes but any one else interested will be welcome.

* * *

"Four-Minute" men in Indiana have agreed to devote a part of their time during the next two weeks to the advocacy of laying in a next-winter coal supply. State Chairman Philip T. White has sent out the following memorandum to the local chairmen:

"The State Council of Defense and the Fuel Administration earnestly request us to make the following announcement, which might be done at the commencement of your four-minute speech:

"Every householder or consumer of coal is urged to take immediate steps to lay in his next winter's supply of coal immediately. Delay in securing your next winter's coal will mean not only physical hardship, but the congestion of the railroads at a time when the transportation facilities must be at their best. Buy your coal now."

* * *

The "Four-Minute" men have engaged to support a Red Cross drive beginning May 20. The organization in Indiana is in splendid working condition and excellent results are reported in connection with the third Liberty Loan campaign.

Women Speakers in State Conference

Fourteen-Minute Orators Get Inspiration and Take a No-Wheat Pledge.

The first state conference of the Fourteen-Minute Women Speakers' Bureau was held in the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis, Friday, May 10th.

The meeting opened with the singing of "America," and after a word of greeting from Mrs. Julia C. Henderson, the founder, Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, chairman of the Women's Section of the State Council of Defense, welcomed the women and told them how much she appreciated their efforts and their accomplishment in the work her committees have set for them. M. E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense, gave greetings from the State Council and assured the women of the Council's appreciation of their effective war work. Dr. H. E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana, thanked the speakers for their efforts in behalf of food conservation, recalling that this was the first subject upon which they had talked, and urged them to renewed efforts to induce the people to observe wheatless days. R. E. Cavanaugh of the men's speakers' bureau, gave a most interesting talk on the work of the public speaker.

A roll call of the counties brought forth a number of most interesting experiences from the representatives of the various counties. The number of meetings at which the Fourteen-Minute Women of the county had appeared, their subjects, and the manner in which they undertook the work, some using the school district as a unit, others attempting a different method of approach to the people, all were most illuminating and helpful. Fine, too, was the tribute of the occasional county woman who reported for her bureau, one, saying that until she had her Fourteen-Minute Women, she felt that she stood alone; after that, she was assured of help and support in all her work.

A luncheon was served in the Riley Room, at which the heads of Mrs. Carlisle's various committees reported briefly on their work, and Private T. C. Henry of the British and Canadian armies related some of his experiences.

The afternoon session opened with a beautiful procession by a group of young women carrying the allied flags. Following the American flag, which was last, came Mardo Koehn, a young soldier from the Speedway, who sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," and later a group of songs.

A talk was given by Prof. Edgar Frazier of Indiana University on "The Art of Public Speaking." This talk was extremely practical, dealing first with the construction of talk, and concluding with instructions on the use of the voice. Every point in making a speech "get over" was discussed in a most helpful manner.

Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College, a speaker for the Federal Food Administration, gave an address on Food Conservation, and her arguments were sufficiently telling to cause the conference to pass a resolution proposed by Miss Eleanor Barker that the Speakers' Bureau pledge themselves to a program of wheatless days until the next harvest.

In the round table led by Mrs. Wallace Campbell of Anderson, Mrs. Campbell talked on the various methods advocated by various speakers, and answered questions involving some of the problems of the Fourteen-Minute Speaker.

The session was concluded with some remarks by Mrs. Henderson, who commended her bureau for its effective service, and urged them to renewed effort in this most important branch of war work.

Mail of Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines Postage Free

Office of Third Assistant

Postmaster-General,

Washington, April 25, 1918.

Some postmasters are erroneously charging postage due on letters written and mailed by soldiers, sailors and marines assigned to duty in a foreign country engaged in the present war. Attention is, therefore, invited to paragraphs 3 and 4, section 406, Postal Laws and Regulations, as amended by Order No. 362, dated October 3, 1917, appearing on page 29 of the October, 1917, supplement to the Postal Guide, from which it will be seen that such letters may be mailed and delivered to the addressees free of all postal charges.

The provisions of amended paragraph 2, section 406, Postal Laws and Regulations, relative to the rating of soldiers', sailors' and marines' letters with postage due at the single rate, to be collected on delivery, do not apply to such letters when written and mailed by soldiers, sailors and marines assigned to duty in a foreign country engaged in the present war, since, as above stated, such letters are free.

A. M. DOCKERY,

Third Assistant Postmaster-General.

In England "His Majesty the King" and the humblest subject have duplicate ration cards.

All Unnecessary Expenditures Should Be Deferred in Consideration of War Demands

Council of National Defense Advocates a Concerted Effort for Economy With a View Both to Saving Money for Essentials and Reducing Use of Materials

The Council of National Defense authorizes the following statement in the Official Bulletin:

The Council of National Defense and the advisory commission to the council believe that a concerted effort for economy by the people of the Nation will not only go far toward paying America's expenses in the war, but will also reduce consumption of raw and manufactured materials essential to the conduct of the war.

The council urges all to refrain from unnecessary expenditure of every kind, and to bear constantly in mind that only one thing is now of real importance and that is the winning of the war.

The Nation's resources in man power, money, transportation, foodstuffs, raw materials, and fuel have already been subjected to heavy strain, and it is the clear duty of every citizen to guard against increasing this strain by a single wasteful act.

It is most creditable for everyone—man and woman, boy and girl—to be economical in dress, food, and manner of living. Every evidence of helpful self-denial on the part of all in a time like this is most commendable.

This war is more than a conflict between armies; it is a contest in which every man, woman, and child can and should render assistance. Thrift and economy is not only a patriotic privilege, it is a duty.

The Council of National Defense is composed of the Secretaries of War, Navy, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor, and the Advisory Commission of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, chairman; B. M. Baruch; Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Howard E. Coffin; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Dr. Hollis Godfrey, president of the Drexel Institute, of Philadelphia; and Dr. Franklin Martin, secretary general of the American College of Surgeons.

Miss Lathrop Tells Child Welfare Duty

National Leader Says It Is an Essential
Part of War Program to Save Little Ones.

Miss Julia Lathrop, national child welfare leader, told of the added necessity for the betterment of health conditions of children as a result of the war, in talks before the state child welfare conference at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, May 9th. The meeting was called by the child welfare committee of the State Council of Defense and was attended by members of county organizations in charge of the campaign for the registration and examination of children and by others interested in the work of saving the lives of children.

Miss Lathrop explained in detail the plans for Children's Year, which started April 6 and during which it is planned to save the lives of 100,000 children under 6 years of age. She told of what is being done in Europe to take care of the children of soldiers. Italy and France, she said, make the children of soldiers wards of the government and there is a bill pending in the British parliament which will provide for the education of the children of soldiers.

Among the other speakers were Michael E. Foley, chairman of the State Council of Defense; Mrs. Frederick Krull of Indianapolis; Mrs. A. T. Cox, special agent of the Indiana State Industrial Board; John J. Walsh, state factory inspector; Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health; Horace Ellis, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Dr. S. E. Smith, superintendent of the Eastern Indiana Hospital for the Insane at Richmond; Amos W. Butler, secretary of the State Board of Charities; Mrs. H. E. Barnard, president of the Indianapolis Parent-Teacher Association; Paul L. Kirby, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, and Dr. Kenosha Sessions, superintendent of the Indiana Girls' School at Clermont.

Physicians Urged to Avoid Further Delay

Indiana physicians are urged by Dr. Joseph Rilus Eastman to apply immediately to Major T. C. Stunkard at Ft. Benjamin Harrison for places in the medical reserve corps of the United States Army. Dr. Eastman advises against the delay incident to appeals or inquiries made directly to Washington. He asks every volunteer to bring two letters of recommendation, preferably not from politicians. Dr. Eastman calls attention to the request that Governor Goodrich has made of the surgeon general that an examiner be sent from Fort Harrison to the larger cities of the State, but points out that doctors should not permit any unnecessary delay such as is necessarily involved in this plan, and he asks that they respond promptly to the end that Indiana's quota of members in reserve corps may be made up promptly.

War Books Lately Added to the State Library

Any of these may be borrowed by any citizen of the State. Ask your local librarian to apply for them, or if there is no library in your town, write to the State Library for a registration blank. The only expense is that of transportation.

Balch, E. G.—Approaches to the Great Settlement.

A review of peace proposals beginning with President Wilson's peace note of December, 1916, and ending with the Pope's note of August, 1917. "texts of the less accessible documents are given, a full bibliography on problems to be settled.

Barker, G.—Red Cross in France.

An account of the varied activities of the Red Cross, from personal investigation.

Gray, H. S.—War Time Control of Industry.

Experience of Great Britain in governmental control of industry. The last chapter gives a survey of what has so far been done in this direction in the United States, and a comparison with conditions in England.

Kellogg, C.—Women of Belgium.

Mrs. Kellogg went to Belgium in July, 1916, as the one woman member of the Commission for Belgian Relief. The book is not so much the story of the work of the commission as of that of the Belgian women.

McCarthy, D. J. Prisoner of War in Germany.

Dr. McCarthy was attached to the American Embassy in Berlin and the book is based upon his personal experience as an investigator of conditions in the prison camps of Germany.

Rose, M. S.—Everyday Foods in War Time.

A useful little book giving suggestions for saving, with a brief discussion of nutritive values that is simple enough to be understood by any one. A few conservation recipes conclude the book.

Sugar Rations Limited To Guarantee Supply

In order that the sugar supply be sufficient to take care of the demands of the canning and preserving season, the Food Administration is requiring manufacturers of food products that include sugar to file reports of the supply on hand, amount ordered or in transit and a statement of the amount consumed during January, February, March and April. Firms starting in business after November 1, 1917, will be restricted to 50 per cent. of the normal allotment and those starting business in the face of the advice of the Food Administration not to, January 1, 1918, or later, will not be supplied at all. Following are the proportions to be distributed by the State Food Administrators after May 15:

Preservers and packers of vegetables, catsup and chili sauce, fruit and milk.....	100
Manufacturers of jam, jelly and preserves..	100
Meat packers .....	100
Ice cream manufacturers (excluding sherbets and ices) .....	100
Druggists for medical purposes only.....	100
Tobacco and explosives manufacturers.....	100
Manufacturers of apple butter .....	100
Honey producers .....	100
Glycerine manufacturers .....	100
Condiment manufacturers .....	80
Manufacturers of soda water.....	80
Confectionery, candies, etc. ....	80
Manufacturers of chocolate .....	80
Manufacturers of soft drinks and beverages.	80
Bottlers of soft drinks.....	80
Fruit syrup and flavoring extract manufacturers .....	80
Manufacturers of sweet pickles.....	80
Chewing gum manufacturers .....	80
Cocoa manufacturers .....	80
Manufacturers of invert sugar .....	80
Mine and cereal manufacturers.....	80
Leather tanners .....	80
Manufacturers non-edible products.....	80
All others .....	80
Soda water fountains and sellers of soft drinks .....	80

An all-potato dinner was one of the features of a recent meeting of the Topeka (Kansas) chamber of commerce. The dinner was a demonstration of the present European needs of wheat, and of the possibilities that Kansas presents for palatable and cheap substitutes in this time of need.

No wheat was served at the dinner. Every dish contained potatoes from potato soup, "as a first line of offense," as the local reporter has it, to potato cake as a wind-up.

The girls of the home economics department of the Topeka high school displayed 101 different ways of preparing potatoes for food. The idea of the potato dinner followed an address by Food Administrator Innes before the Rotary Club.

Small Percent of Boys Fail to Make Good

Less Than Five Percent of the Inexperienced Have Failed on Farms.

According to reports received by the State Council of Defense from the various County Directors throughout the State, hundreds of members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve have found employment on farms. Almost without exception these boys are making good, although occasionally personalities do not match, and the farmer and the boy disagree.

Of the eleven boys who have returned home after giving farm life a trial without success, four blame the farmers and the other seven admit failure. One boy left because his employer conducted a continuous blasphemous tirade against him. This report was verified upon investigation. Two other boys left because they were compelled to work on Sundays from morning until night in the rain. Another boy left because the farmer hired him out to neighbors at $2.00 per day although he was only paying the boy $25.00 per month. This latter experience is absolutely contrary to the policy of the Reserve for, according to Isaac D. Straus, Federal State Director, no exploitation of this boy labor will be tolerated under any circumstances.

Of the boys who admit failure, two were not adaptable to farm work, four returned because of homesickness and one was discharged because he appropriated fourteen eggs which he sold to the village groceryman in order to raise the price of admission to a local "movie." This boy confessed his guilt to the farmer, shed copious tears, begged forgiveness and returned home sadder but wiser.

So far these failures constitute less than five percent of the reported number of inexperienced boys who have been placed.

Boys in Industrial Work.

Members of the Terre Haute Division of the Boys' Working Reserve are making good in essential industries according to Benj. Blumberg, city director. In applying for more boys, F. R. Benson of the Terre Haute Malleable & Mfg. Company praises the services rendered by the eleven members of the Reserve who have been working part time in the evenings and on Saturdays.

In Indianapolis, the Atkins Saw Works and the Imperial Drop Forge Company are employing members of the Reserve with good results. While industrial work is not emphasized, still those boys who engage in essential productive work and who render service which is deserving of commendation, will be honored with the Federal Bronze Badge at the end of the school vacation.

Boys Not Wanted in Shipyards.

Many boys as well as a number of directors of the Reserve have applied for employment in shipbuilding plants. The Department of Labor advises that boys are not wanted in shipyards—first because they are inexperienced, and second, because housing conditions are not favorable to the welfare of youth. The spirit of these boys is commended, but they are reminded that they can best serve Uncle Sam this summer by doing their level best to substitute for men on Indiana farms.

Enrollment Is Still Growing.

The enrollment of Indiana boys in the Reserve continues to grow and according to reports received from Washington, Indiana with 19,216 enrollments continues to lead the other States in this respect. "With this large number of energetic young men pledged to engage in productive employment, the Reserve is ready to meet any emergency and farmers and growers of canning crops need not hesitate to increase their acreage, for there will be plenty of harvest labor," says Isaac D. Straus, federal state director.

And the Huns May Take All That's Left!

Here is a list of a few necessities with Holland prices:

Pork, $1.10 a pound.
Beef, $2.00 a pound.
Sugar, 80c.
Coffee, $1.80.
Tea, $3.00.
Butter, $1.75.
Cheese, 90c.
Soft coal, $24.00 a ton.
Hard coal, $30.00 a ton.

Wages for carpenters, 45c an hour; masons, 50c an hour, and painters, 32c an hour.

Every week the people must secure food ticks, the apportionments for a day per person are ½ pound of bread and ½ pound of potatoes. Once a week one can get 1 ounce of coffee or ½ ounce of tea; one may have ½ pound of sugar a week and no more.

A New Decalogue.

Recently Rev. Dr. William Rosenau, addressing Jewish soldiers of the National Army who are in training at Camp Meade, Md., gave the men a new decalogue as follows:

I—I am America, thy country, which brought thee out of bondage to liberty.

II—Thou shalt have no other country besides me.

III—Thou shalt not take the name of America, thy country, in vain.

IV—Remember the Declaration of Independence and keep it holy.

V—Honor thy superior officer.

VI—Thou shalt not despoil.

VII—Thou shalt not ravish.

VIII—Thou shalt not loot.

IX—Thou shalt not betray.

X—Thou shalt not annex.

While written for soldiers, if civilians will paste the commandments on their door posts and obey them they will be better citizens.

Profiteering of flour has caused I. Rosenberg, a wholesale flour dealer of Boston, to lose his Food Administration license. Revocation is to remain in force for the duration of the war. At a hearing held by the Federal Food Administrator for Massachusetts, Rosenberg admitted that he had sold wheat flour at a profit of about $2.50 per barrel.

Woman's Section

Graduating Essays.

Bulletin No. 53.

CIRCULAR V.

To the County Chairman of the Department of Education:

The Woman's Committee of the National Council of Defense is asking the graduates of American high schools and colleges to consider and discuss in their graduating essays questions relating to the war. Following is a list of suggested themes:

First Year of the War and What This Nation Has Accomplished.

A Contrast of This War and Former Ones.

The War Utterances of Our President.

Why We Must Win the War.

The Defenses of Our Country.

German Intrigue and Propaganda in the United States.

Is War Only a Man's Job?

The Closer Relationship of Nations Brought About by the War.

The Historic Papers of This War.

German War Practices and What Would Happen if We Lose the War.

Loyalty to Our Country—What It Means.

A Vision of a New World After the War.

Submarine Warfare—Is It Justifiable?

Historical Steps Leading to the War.

A Comparison of German and American Forms of Government.

New Inventions—Results of the War.

Women's Part in the War.

Is This a War of Self-Defense?

The Battle for Democracy.

How Can Food Win the War?

What Will Germany's Expansion in the East Mean to Us?

Value of Individual Effort in an International Crisis.

What Does Democracy Mean?

Aviation—Its Value in the War.

What Must I Do to Help Win the War?

Commanders of the Allied Armies.

"American Principles and American Policies."

The Economic and Social Changes Which May Follow the Winning of the War.

What is Patriotism?

A patriotic play, endorsed by the National Committee of the Department of Education, has been sent to me. "The Call of the Triple S" has been written by Mrs. Mary Shepherd Joy, and can be used effectively in school and town entertainments. I encourage its use. Address Mrs. Joy at 34 Second street, Malone, New York. Single copies are 25 cents, or a package (5 copies) $1.00.

The Government is preparing a series of war pictures, in lieu of which all other pictorial programs will be recalled. When the war pictures are ready, I shall let you know.

There remain a few hundred letters to the school children of Indiana, if any chairman desires them.

A full report of your work will soon be asked for.

Sincerely yours,

(MISS) KATHARINE MERRILL GRAYDON,
State Chairman, Department of Education.

* * *

Bulletin No. 57.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND, May 10, 1918.

To the County Chairmen, Food Production Committee:

Many women are getting acquainted with the hoe for the first time in their lives according to the reports of the County Chairmen of several counties. By doing this they will release labor for the fields, help the railroads to avoid congestion in shipping, feed their families better vegetables than the market affords, improve their health by this outdoor exercise, and keep their self-respect by doing something real, as patriots.

The country woman has always, without exception, taken a direct interest in managing her own garden. She more often than otherwise has the planting and tending of it, as the fields and gardens require attention at the same time. If the town women will do as well, no need for our government to worry over the food problems.

Washington is making definite requests, asking certain questions. Will you please answer and send to me after a reasonable time?

What organizations in your county are carrying on special gardening propaganda?

Are your County Superintendent of Schools, Agricultural Agent, and Home Demonstrator (if you have one) doing active work along this line and co-operating with you?

How many school gardens?

Have you any regularly employed Garden Supervisors in your county? Do your women get the garden bulletins sent out from Purdue and the Agricultural Department?

Do they get them through your Agricultural Agent, or have you sent a mailing list to the Department?

Are you anticipating any shortage of labor in your county?

What are the products mostly engaged in?

Have you any berry, larger fruits, or seed farms in your county?

Is there any labor shortage at harvest time in either?

Do you think women labor would be acceptable?

Have you ever tried it out there?

Do your people know about the Woman's Land Army Movement?

If you will answer these questions, as I have them, and return to me, I shall be greatly obliged.

The National Committee speaks of the war gardens as Liberty Gardens. Let us do the same. While our garden movement was launched before we received this information, confusion may be avoided by the change.

The form for pledge and record cards may be either published, together or separately, with request of them being saved by reader, or they may be published on cards. Just as you think best. These are to be turned over to the government at close of season. Reports of all states are to be published. Let us put Indiana at the top.

Sincerely,

HORTENSE TAPP MOORE,
Rockville, Indiana.

Chairman Food Production Committee, Woman's Section, Council of Defense.

PLEDGE CARDS FOR LIBERTY GARDENS

Drawn Up by the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense. In co-operation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

I Name..... Address.....
Street No..... Date.....
enroll as member in the.....branch of the Liberty Gardeners. I agree to plant and care properly for a garden in 1918; I agree to do this under the direction of the official agent supervising garden work in my community; or to use my influence in securing the appointment of such an official where none already exists. I agree to keep a complete record of crops grown and report on the same in the autumn.

(Signature).....

BE SURE TO GROW THESE	GROW THESE IF SPACE PERMITS
Beans, snap or string...	Sweet corn.....
Beans, Lima.....	Pears.....
Tomatoes.....	Irish Potatoes.....
Onions.....	Parsnips.....
Beets.....	Salsify.....
Cabbage.....	Eggplant.....
Carrots.....	Pepper.....
Lettuce (plant between crops).....	Swiss Chard.....
Radishes (plant between crops).....	Cucumber.....
	Summer Squash.....
	Turnips, Spinach and Kale late planting after other crops.

For full information consult your local supervisor or write your State College of Agriculture.

LIBERTY GARDEN RECORD CARD

I Name..... Address.....
Street No..... Date.....
submit the following report of garden work during the year 1918:

(Signature).....

Note.—Fill in the blank spaces below as the work progresses and return the card to the person whose name appears on the opposite side. Fill in with ink. Write plainly. Return as soon as all the crops are gathered.

Size of garden.....	Expense.....
Value of crops.....	How labor.....
Pl. of Row or Amount
Vegetable.	No. Plants.	Gathered.	Value.	Remarks.
Beans.....
Tomatoes.....
Onions.....
Beets.....
Cabbage.....
Carrots.....
Lettuce.....
Radishes.....
Other crops.....

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13, 1918.

Bulletin No. 59.

To the County Chairman of the Registration Committee:

It is very important that we know immediately how many precinct chairmen you had for the registration drive, and how many assistants they appointed. If you did not organize your county into precincts, please advise how it was divided, and how many chairmen you had, also the number of assistants they had.

We will very greatly appreciate this information by return mail.

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman's Section State Council of Defense.

(Continued on Page 8)

President Appeals For Red Cross Help

Second War Fund Campaign to Raise One Hundred Million Dollars Begins
May 20.

President Wilson has appealed to the American people in behalf of the American Red Cross, whose second war fund campaign to raise one hundred million dollars begins May 20 and continues for one week, the President's proclamation establishing Red Cross week is as follows:

"Inasmuch as the war fund of 1917 so generously contributed by the American people to the Red Cross for the administration of relief at home and abroad has been practically exhausted by appropriations for the welfare of the men of our military and naval forces and those dependent upon them and for the yet more urgent necessities of our allies, both military and civilian, who have long borne the brunt of war;

And inasmuch as the year of our own participation in the war has brought unprecedented demand upon the patriotism and liberality of our people and made evident the necessity of concentrating the work of relief in one main organization which can respond effectively and universally to the needs of humanity under stress of war;

And inasmuch as for the duration of the war closer and closer co-operation of the Red Cross with our own army and navy, with the governments of our allies and with foreign relief organizations, have resulted in the discovery of new opportunities for helpfulness under conditions which translate opportunity into duty;

And inasmuch as the Red Cross war council and the commissioners in Europe have faithfully and economically administered the people's trust;

Now, therefore, by virtue of my authority as President of the United States and President of the American Red Cross, I, Woodrow Wilson, do hereby proclaim the week beginning May 20 'Red Cross Week,' during which the people of the United States will be called upon again to give generously for the continuation of the important work of relieving distress, restoring the waste of war and assisting in maintaining the morale of our own troops and the troops and peoples of our allies, by this manifestation of effort and sacrifice on the part of those who, though not privileged to bear arms, are of one spirit and purpose and determined with our warriors."

Woman's Section

(Continued from Page 7)

May 13, 1918.

Bulletin No. 60.

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense.

If you have not already done so, will you AT ONCE send us the names of the Woman Member of your township councils? If the township councils have not yet been formed in your county, kindly at once get in touch with the chairman of your county council and confer with him in regard to this matter as the county council has been advised to accept your recommendations for the women members of the township councils as they will be part of your organization and work under you.

Please give this your immediate attention.

Very truly yours,

ANNE STUDEBAKER CARLISLE,
Chairman Woman Member State Council of Defense.

Mrs. Stuart Dean, representing the women's section of the State Council of Defense, is, organizing a motor corps. Every applicant for membership in this corps must be able to drive her own machine and agree to undertake one of the following five lines of work: canteen, ambulance driving, escort, dispatch carrying or Liberty Loan. Twelve members will form a unit. Mrs. Dean expects the women to adopt a uniform for use while on duty. She recently made a study of the New York plan which has been conspicuously successful. Carl Fisher, Indianapolis motor manufacturer, has offered a training school, fully equipped, for those who desire to enroll in this service.

* * * * *

Mrs. Emma DuValle, chairman of the colored women's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense, is very proud of the record made by the colored women in connection with the recent Liberty Loan bond campaign. Six lodges of the Household of Ruth invested $900 in bonds. Mrs. DuValle is giving attention to the registration of colored women for patriotic work and expects to make a creditable showing. She is being assisted by volunteers and is asking still others to help. Mrs. Celia Maxey, Mrs. Mamie Shelton and Mrs. Julia Reed are now devoting their time to this work. The indorsement of Mrs. Gertrude B. Hill, state president of colored women's clubs, has been secured and effective assistance is expected from this source.

* * * * *

Mrs. Alice Bridgman, woman member of the Franklin County Council of Defense, reports an encouraging success with the registration of women. In one township she says a woman 68 years of age walked three miles to register. Franklin County has completed its township organization now and is in position to do very effective work, Mrs. Bridgman writes. Mrs. George Mullen, chairman of the registration in the county, "drove 45 miles over muddy roads in a driving rain to boost the work and spoke to an enthusiastic company of women."

* * * * *

Mary Lang Olney, chairman of the woman's registration in St. Joseph County, reports a call from a South Bend factory giving prompt and timely evidence of the need and importance of the registration of women for war work. The factory in question has a contract for a watch-like mechanism used in munitions. The work is largely in the nature of inspection and requires women of unquestioned loyalty. From the registration cards of women now unemployed and willing to take paid employment, a number of women were sent into the factory. Others will follow as they are located. The enterprise of Miss Olney has been complimented by Miss Julia Landers, chairman of registration for the State.

* * * * *

In connection with Bulletin No. 58, sent to county chairmen of the department of education, woman's section, Mrs. Katharine Merrill Graydon, chairman, says in part:

"No present work of the war offers greater opportunity than the work of the Department of Education. It is not so easy as some forms of activity and the results are not so tangible as the indispensable piles of socks, or of the Liberty Loan receipts; but it is more far-reaching and enduring. It tends to arouse and to establish those sentiments and ideals upon which the very life of our government is to rest. You are helping to build the mightiest bulwark the country possesses, are furnishing assistance greater than ships or food or ammunition or relief of any kind. The effort is not only for the present but for all time. Therefore, I make a solemn appeal to every chairman to enter into it with all the enthusiasm and resource and devotion of her nature.

"There is no need of discouragement. The year has been given over largely to the organization of the counties. I wish before its close every county might have a woman member of the Department of Education. If the work has been followed as suggested, enlarged and enriched by your own vision, I am sure much has been accomplished."

Society Will Assist.

Assistance in the Americanization of foreigners is a service tendered the special committee of the Indiana State Council of Defense, headed by John H. Holliday, by the Indiana Society, Sons of the American Revolution. The board of managers, at a recent meeting, authorized the president, C. T. Jewett, of Terre Haute, to offer the services of the organization, in any available form, to assist the work, which is one of the principal purposes of the society.

The United States Department of Agriculture Urges That the Present Wheat Acreage of Indiana Be Maintained

May 8, 1918.

Prof. G. I. Christie, Director, Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, Lafayette, Ind.:

Dear Prof. Christie—Replying to your inquiry of the 6th instant, regarding the plans of this Department with respect to the insuring of an adequate production of wheat in this country next year, 1919, I would say that the subject is already under consideration by the Department. As you, of course, appreciate, several important determining factors are still in doubt. This is true with respect both to the approximate wheat needs of the world next year, which are more or less affected by the magnitude of this year's crop, and the conditions in various portions of this country, which necessarily determine to a considerable extent the acreage that it may be practicable to put in. Taking into account such information as we now have, it would appear that it would be highly desirable for this country to maintain approximately the acreage of winter wheat sowed last fall. This would seem especially true in the Corn Belt States, where wheat is a relatively sure crop and constitutes an important feature of the approved crop rotations, bearing especially in mind the important relation that the wheat crop of this region bears to the seeding down of the land with clover and timothy.

One of the important things to look out for early in the season is the location of varieties pure, disease-free seed of thoroughly tested and approved varieties. This needs the attention of the farmers themselves, as well as by the extension forces while the crop is growing and available for field inspection. In view of the advance made last year in this direction, it should be possible to secure a much higher average quality of seed wheat in most sections than has been used in former years.

The importance of early plowing where summer fallowing is practiced and where wheat is to follow wheat or oats should also be emphasized and especially the thorough tillage of corn that is to be followed by wheat. In view of the earlier spring, it would seem reasonable to expect that the wheat acreage of the Corn Belt States can be put in on a better prepared seed bed than last year, provided the seasonal conditions continue to develop normally. Numerous other important features, such as labor supply, availability of fertilizer, farm machinery, etc., are being considered by the Department for comment when fuller data are available. It is believed that through such early consideration as your committee contemplates in Indianapolis at its meeting on the 14th instant, helpful information regarding special problems, more or less local, may be developed, which will have important constructive value in planning the work of the season.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) R. A. PEARSON,
Assistant Secretary.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 24, 1918

Number 41

Suggestions For Practical Duties

Directed to Indiana Committees on Public
Morals and Religion by Dr.
Philputt.

The following communication has been addressed to the chairmen of the Committees on Public Morals and Religion, of the county councils of defense in Indiana:

"The inquiry has come from several county council chairmen asking what definite work, and what methods of work, shall be undertaken. We are all asking ourselves these questions and each council committee must largely determine them for itself.

"The Committee on Public Morals of the State Council of Defense would make the following suggestions at this time, not because they are new, but because we believe they should be kept especially in mind:

"1. Strong support of all the measures of our government looking to the prosecution of the war.

"All preachers, priests and rabbis, as public leaders having the ears of the people, are in a position to exert a powerful influence upon public sentiment. The President has recognized this and has asked that you give your invaluable support to efforts of the government to successfully carry on the war. As patriots we can do no less. We should cry aloud and spare not. Tremendous issues are at stake. The decision hangs in the balance. The men at the front must not for one moment doubt that they have the united support of our great nation behind them. We should keep constantly before the people not only the very just reasons why we are in the war, but the great moral ends to be attained by winning the war. We must not allow the people to grow tired of the conflict, or cherish a desire for peace at the expense of complete and unquestioned victory.

"2. Keeping in touch with the men who have joined the colors. This is being done to a degree, but the committee would urge that it be more thoroughly done. Many boys have no church or lodge, or even family to write them letters. They seldom, if ever, hear from home. We think of the boy who sees his comrades receive mail while he turns away apparently neglected and forgotten. Find that young man and write to him. It is certain that this will not be done without thorough organization for the purpose. Every township and village community as well as every church, lodge, or social organization of any kind, should have a committee to get and keep, up to date, a corrected list of names and addresses and see that they are distributed and made use of. Give the boys a cheer from home.

"3. The Red Cross drive for 100 millions of dollars. This call is upon us right now. Give it right of way in all churches and public gatherings. No one can do too much. Many may do too little.

"4. Memorial Day. On the thirtieth of May the nation formally honors the heroes of '61 to '65. In addition to this worthy purpose, the President of the United States at the request of the Congress has designated the day as one of fasting and prayer. He says in his proclamation of May 13th: 'I exhort my fellow citizens of all faiths and creeds to assemble on that day in their several places of worship and there, as well as in their homes, pray to Almighty God that He may forgive our sins and shortcomings as a people and purify our hearts to see and love the truth, to accept and defend all things that are just and in conformity to His will, and to give victory to our armies as they fight for freedom.' The State Council of Defense has issued a similar request. In line with these proclamations it is suggested that as far as possible churches unite at some suitable hour either during the day or at evening in a great public service. It is believed that this is entirely practicable not only in towns and cities but in townships and country churches with great blessing and profit to all. We urge this upon your attention.

"We are now, it is believed, at the high tide of the war. Both sides recognize this. Our glorious allies have poured out their blood and treasure like water. We are just getting into the conflict. America must lay her best and her all upon the altar if victory is to be assured. If that is done the final issue can no longer be in doubt.

"ALLAN B. PHILPUTT,
Chairman Committee on Morals and Religion, State Council of Defense."

Canada Orders Idlers To Work or to Jail

1. Every male person residing in the Dominion of Canada shall be regularly engaged in some useful occupation.

2. In any proceeding hereunder it shall be a defense that the person is—

(a) Under 16 years or over 60 years of age.

(b) A bona fide student proceeding with his training for some useful occupation.

(c) A bona fide student in actual attendance at some recognized educational institution.

(d) Usually employed in some useful occupation and temporarily unemployed owing to differences with his employer common to similar employees with the same employer.

(e) Physically unable to comply with the provisions of the law as herein enacted.

(f) Unable to obtain within reasonable distance any kind of employment which he is physically able to perform at current wages for similar employment.

Penalty for Evaders.

3. Any person violating the provisions hereof shall be guilty of an offense and shall be liable on summary conviction before a magistrate to a penalty not exceeding $100 and costs, and, in default of payment, to imprisonment with hard labor for a period not exceeding six months in any common jail, or in any institution or on any farm owned by a municipality or province and declared by by-law or order in council, respectively, to be a public institution or farm for the purposes of this law, which said institution or farm for the purpose of this law shall be a common jail.

5. Useful occupation and reasonable distance shall be questions of fact to be decided by the magistrate.

The above paragraphs tell how Canada has solved the problem of the idler. It was reported officially by U. S. Vice-Consul Sanford at Ottawa.

The preamble to the resolutions which constitute the official order set out that the need of men of military age in the army is equalled by the need for men in the production of food and other war essentials, and this necessitates that "all persons domiciled in Canada shall in the absence of reasonable cause to the contrary engage in useful occupations."

Labor Situation in Committees' Hands

Report Expected on Effect of Suspending
Public Work and Proselyting
Among Mechanics.

All matters involving the policy of the State Council of Defense, the War Industries Board and the Council of National Defense relative to public improvements and new building enterprises wherein no definite expression is available from county councils of defense, will be considered by a committee consisting of Evans Woolen, J. L. Keach, Charles Fox, George Ade and E. M. Wilson, on behalf of the state council. The appointment of this committee was announced at the meeting May 22d by Chairman Foley and approved by formal action of the council.

The question of completing road contracts made a year ago and for which bonds have been sold, in Jackson County, was presented by L. H. Wright of the State Highways Commission. Mr. Wright stated that the material and labor for the improvement are available, and that inasmuch as the bonds have been sold and interest is being paid on them, this work should go forward. Upon his statement, the council went on record as of the opinion that this work is not contrary to its policy.

To the Improvement Committee Chairman Foley referred the matter of the proposed construction of a new court house at Rockport and highway contracts in Clinton, Bartholomew and Decatur counties which are now pending.

The chairman reported a conference on the labor situation in Indiana as it is affected by a suspension of public work and also by alleged proselyting among skilled men already at work in factories holding war contracts. The conference included J. B. Larned, representing the U. S. Department of Labor; Charles Fox, of the Labor Committee; W. C. DeMiller, representing the Federal Department of Labor, and Labor Director for Indiana, and Ross Lockeridge, Associate Labor Director. This committee, the chairman reported, expects to have a report for the next meeting of the council.

R. E. Cavanaugh, on behalf of the Speakers' Bureau, submitted to the council a statement of the engagements in Indiana of William E. Bohn. Mr. Bohn, Mr. Cavanaugh said, came to Indiana indorsed by the Committee on Public Information for the purpose of promoting the organization in Indiana of the Society of Friends of German Democracy. He made a number of speaking engagements in the State and met with some obstacles in his mission, Mr. Cavanaugh said. It was the sense of the council that efforts to arrange meetings for Mr. Bohn in Indianapolis and Evansville be continued, and that a special effort be made to identify the source of any objections or obstructions placed in the way of his securing an audience.

John T. Rhinearson, in behalf of W. E. McCreery, the latter Secretary of the Indiana Brotherhood of Threshermen, asked the council to consider the exemption, or at least the deferred classification in the army draft, of "some 200 threshermen who own and operate their own machines." Mr. Rhinearson said that the men so identified are essential to a successful harvest in the State. The matter was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Dr. Charles P. Emerson reported satisfactory
(Continued on Page 7)

Patriotism in Indiana

(County Councils of Defense whose activities have not been noted in the INDIANA BULLETIN are urged to report them to the Publicity Bureau, Indiana State Council of Defense, Room 81 State House, Indianapolis, Ind. Every county council should charge its publicity committee with responsibility for seeing that the INDIANA BULLETIN has a full and complete record of all activities.—Editor.)

Allen County.—The Emmaus Lutheran Church, acting on a request from the federal government, made a canvass of its membership relative to subscriptions to the third Liberty Loan. Figures compiled by the committee show that 85 per cent of the membership of the parish bought bonds; 612 of a total of 720 members subscribed for an aggregate of $45,700 worth. In addition to this subscription the church bought $2,000 worth of Liberty Bonds which become a part of the permanent church fund....Under the auspices of the Allen County Council of Defense a meeting has been called for May 23 in Fort Wayne, for the purpose of forming an organization to keep tab on those young men who have been placed in a deferred classification by the local conscription board on their claim to being farmers. The local draft board has agreed to place in Class I all those exempted for agricultural reasons who are not now on the job, or who are without good reason for not being. There are between 800 and 900 men of this class in Allen County.

Bartholomew County.—Marshall Hacker, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has undertaken to organize a company of Home Guards from the membership of the degree teams of five fraternal organizations of Columbus. H. J. Tooley of the Red Men is assisting him. It is likely a meeting of representative lodge men will be called soon to perfect details of the organization....High school pupils are co-operating in a movement to eradicate the common and purple barberry under the leadership of Prof. W. G. Kitchen. The program includes a campaign for locating and identifying these bushes, to be followed up by destructive methods that will least interfere with surrounding vegetation.

Benton County.—All of the returns from the women's registration in Benton County have not yet been received, but so far as returned reflect credit upon the women of this county. Center township registered 577; Union, 194; Pine, 128; Bolivar, 331; York, 141; Hickory Grove, 331; Parish Grove, 196; Grant, 229; total, 2,128. Owing to the shortage of cards at Indianapolis, and an insufficient supply to meet the demand here, Oak Grove, Richland and Gilboa townships have not yet reported to the county chairman and the figures are not therefore available, but it is estimated that they will bring the total registration well up toward 3,000.

Cass County.—Mrs. John A. Lalry was made chairman, and Mrs. Wirt Lowther secretary, of the permanent organization of Fourteen-Minute Women in Cass County. The Fourteen-Minute Women have agreed to act as a publicity agency for all women's work in connection with the county council of defense. They will work through all women's societies, social, literary and religious, and make such public speeches as are requested. The Cass County committee includes the following: Mrs. A. A. Hedrick, Mrs. Frank Berry, Mrs. A. P. Flynn, Mrs. Frank Wiperman, Mrs. O. P. Smith, Mrs. D. C. Arthur, Mrs. Anna Nolan, Mrs. John S. Lalry, Mrs. Wirt Lowther and Miss Ora Cox....In making an appeal for enlistments by physicians of this community in the military service of the United States, Dr. C. H. McCully made public the following statement: "Indiana is behind her quota of doctors and members of the profession must come forward for service. We are now listed as the forty-second in the list of forty-nine states. While men have been reporting for examination in increasing numbers since the drive began, one week ago, not nearly enough have as yet enlisted. Every doctor between the ages of 21 and 54 not physically disqualified should be enrolled for service. The men asked for at this time are needed for the new national army about to be called into service, and if we are to be prepared to care for men doctors must be forthcoming. In the event that the army of three million men, contemplated by our Secretary of War, is to be raised, every doctor between the above ages physically qualified will have to enter the service."

Clay County.—Members of the Farmers' Club of the Barack School, south of Clay City, interested in securing a better grade of hogs, made a trip over the county last Friday. They wished to secure hogs of a high grade to improve their herds, realizing that by securing this stock a greater profit could be realized from hog raising. This club was organized by the farmers to better their farming conditions. They have taken up the subject of farm management and thirty men are keeping their records in books furnished them by Purdue University. When the records are complete each man will be shown what operations were profitable and those that were not. This will be of great value to anyone since the unprofitable parts of the business can be either eliminated or made profitable and the profitable enlarged upon.

Daviess County.—Stephen Salscup, who is in charge of the program to put 91 additional silos on the farms of this county, has enlisted the co-operation of the County Council of Defense and the U. S. Food Administration. Mr. Salscup will make a special drive among livestock growers, whom he believes will be easily convinced of the business sagacity as well as the patriotism of putting silos on their farms this year.

Decatur County.—The board of county commissioners have agreed to suspend all road improvements including a large contract proposed jointly with Bartholomew County, for the period of the war. This action is taken pursuant to the letter received from the Indiana State Council of Defense in which the policy of the state and national councils on such work was set forth. Except for necessary repairs, the board has decided to abandon all road work....Napoleon high school students at the close of the term collected all the German text books used in the building, marched to a commons near by, stacked the books and applied a match. While the books were being consumed a large crowd gathered and sang patriotic songs....Jackson township is thoroughly organized in the U. S. conservation food work, having four units with the following chairmen: Forest Hill, Mrs. E. F. Fraley; Sardinia, Mrs. Charles Deniston; Alert, Mrs. Addie Kelley; Waynesburg, Mrs. Harry Carr....The Greensburg Chautauqua, August 6-11, inclusive, will take the form of a big patriotic gathering. In arranging for the 1918 chautauqua the directors took into consideration a letter from President Woodrow Wilson on the subject, addressed to Montaville Flowers, president of the International Association, in which the chief executive of the nation said: "It has been on my mind for some time to thank your organization for the very real help it has given to America in the struggle that is concerned with every fundamental element of national life. Your speakers, going from community to community, meeting people in the friendly spirit engendered by years of intimate and understanding contact, have been effective messengers for the delivery and interpretation of democracy's meaning and imperative needs. The work that the chautauqua is doing has not lost importance because of war, but rather has gained new opportunities for service. Let me express the hope that you will let no discouragement weaken your activities, and that the people will not fail in the support of a patriotic institution that may be said to be an integral part of the national defense."

DeKalb County.—At a meeting of the DeKalb County Corn Growers Association held in the assembly room of the court house, the following officers were elected: Pres., Noah M. V. Gerig, Jackson township; Sec., George Borden, of Keyser township; Treas., Philip Cool, of Jackson township. A number of new members were added to the association and a vote was made to support (1) the county five-acre contest, (2) the boys' and girls' club work, (3) exhibits at the fall fair, and (4) the corn show to be held during the coming winter.

Fayette County.—A. E. Leiter is endeavoring to find a way of influencing housewives to the use of wheat flour substitutes. Mr. Leiter recently made a survey and declared that 50 per cent of the substitutes purchased in Fayette County are being fed to the chickens. Dealers in chicken feed report a marked decline in business during the last two months and Mr. Leiter believes this is the explanation. Through the instrumentality of food clubs he is trying to educate the housewives to a proper use of wheat flour substitutes....Fayette County has been guaranteed an ample supply of seed corn, it is announced by County Agent A. T. Morrison. A complete survey of seed stocks and requirements of the county was made by men exempted from military service. These men have a county organization pledged to co-operation with the county agricultural agent. This was their first assignment and the result is very satisfactory, Mr. Morrison states. As a result of this survey the exempted men are said to have become familiar with local conditions that will make them more valuable as the season progresses.

Franklin County.—Citizens of Laurel have organized what they call "The Patriotic Association." Members of the organization essayed to eliminate all idlers and non-producers. They have printed in bright colors the following warning: "The association is determined that idling, trespassing and petty thieving in this community shall cease. A word to the wise is sufficient. We are in dead earnest. For pilferers, petty thieves, trespassers, hunters and trappers, the general statutes provide adequate penalties. The Laurel Protective Association hereby notifies all persons in this community who violate any or all of these statutes that this organization will prosecute them to the full limit of the law. The grave situation brought about by war makes it necessary for every man to give his best efforts toward production and right living. We have in our community certain individuals who are habitual idlers. Men of family who are not even supporting themselves. Men who do nothing but odd jobs now and then and spend these small returns in recklessness. Men who steal their fuel from farms and coal cars, instead of earning it by honest labor. Men who spend their days in idleness and their nights hunting and trapping on the property of others. The laws of Indiana demand that each able-bodied man shall support himself and those dependent upon him and that he shall respect the rights and property of others."

Gibson County.—Mrs. C. O. Baltzell has reported a registration of 8,800 women and girls for emergency war work. She expects to increase this number and has secured an extension of time for completing the canvass of the county. Mrs. Baltzell reports a very loyal response from the colored women and a special effort will be made to have white women make an equally creditable showing.

Grant County.—Dr. Nettie Bainbridge Powell has enlisted the co-operation of the Grant County Nurses' Association, pledging their assistance in making the child welfare campaign in this county a complete success. Dr. Powell has also enlisted the support of the newspapers and Fourteen-Minute women, who will conduct an educational campaign beginning May 23d, making it clear that there is no purpose in this campaign of collecting money or otherwise obligating the parents of children....Mrs. G. A. Southall, woman member of the Grant County Council of Defense, plans to begin a county campaign as outlined by the child welfare program, beginning June 3. Mrs. Southall has announced her determination to save, if possible, "the seventh baby," every one of which has heretofore been permitted to die from a preventable cause. The children will be registered during the canvass for registration of women emergency war workers. Fourteen-minute women have agreed to tour the county, and doctors and nurses have enrolled to assist without cost to the organization.

Henry County.—An appropriation of $1,000 has been made by the county council for the use of the Henry County Council of Defense. This is the same amount that was appropriated for the first year's work, and is made with the understanding that it is to be increased if demands justify it. The County Council of Defense made no request for a specific sum.

Howard County.—Baby clinics are being held under the auspices of the child welfare department of the Howard County Council of Defense at the Kokomo Y. M. C. A. Mothers of children under six years of age are asked to bring their youngsters in to be weighed, measured and registered. Those unable to bring their children in are asked to notify a member of the local committee who will make arrangements to have the registration conducted at the home. The Howard County committee has made it clear this is a voluntary war work not intended to interfere with any one's ideas how to care for children, but simply to assist those who need and desire assistance in preventing the diseases which heretofore have resulted in the death of 100,000 babies every year from preventable causes. There has been little criticism or resentment here and the child welfare committee expects to accomplish a great good.

Huntington County.—Z. T. Dungan, the originator of the farm labor reserve plan, successfully adopted in this county; J. W. Caswell and C. B. Williams, both of whom are familiar with the scheme, have agreed to assist in organization work in Indiana. All three of the men will fill speaking engagements as arranged by N. E. Squibb, state director of the United States Public Service Reserve, who has recommended the Huntington plan for other agricultural communities in the State....The Huntington city council, by unanimous vote, appropriated from the public funds $500, which is to be used for the encouragement of war gardens.

Jasper County.—The taxpayers of this county have petitioned the members of the county council to appropriate $7,500 to the County Council of Defense. From this fund it is proposed the county's proportion of the second Red Cross fund will be paid. The county council has the matter under consideration.

Jay County.—It is predicted that Jay county will raise one of the largest wheat crops in its history. The wheat is in excellent condition, and farmers last fall sowed 80 per cent more than in any previous year.

Lagrange County.—Wolcottville, a town of 850 persons in Lagrange County, with more than 100 war gardens, is leading every other town and city in the State in the number of garden plots per capita, according to reports from Indiana received by F. C. Gaylord, state garden leader at Purdue University.

Lake County.—The Lake County Council of Defense has adopted a resolution favoring the passage of the McKeown bill now pending in congress which would confer the franking privilege on councils of defense. The Lake County Council has appealed to Congressman Will R. Wood to favor the bill....F. L. Evans, a member of the Chamber of Commerce of East Chicago, asked, and was assured of the co-operation of the County Council of Defense in a plan to exterminate the mosquitoes that make life about Lake Michigan burdensome. The council will appeal to the federal government to assign a specialist from the department of agriculture to this task....Township councils of defense have been nominated in every township of Lake county with the exception of Calumet, with membership as follows: Hanover—Emil Ruge, Otto Meyer, Frank Kretz, H. H. Wassman, Mrs. Emil Ruge, Adam Schafer, Ed. Meyer; Center—George Dye, A. Langan, John Wise, Phillip Mracek, Miss Stella Bregogle, Mrs. Ada Endress, John Perry; Ross—Alfred Nicholson, Fred Kreiter, Henry Kuehl, Sam B. Woods, William G. Woods, Robert Harper, Mrs. W. Blackley, Mrs. S. E. Zuvers; Winfield—J. Love, Mr. G. Clausen, William Smith, Charles Bacon, Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. J. Love, Chas. Simpson; Cedar Creek—V. N. Dyer, P. M. McKay, O. L. Rigg, Mrs. E. Lynch, Wm. Dickinson, Mrs. Carl Gragg; Eagle Creek—Mrs. O. G. Fifeled, J. M. Pearce, C. Benjamin, Mrs. B. Chip....Indiana Harbor has a patriotic building that will house all war activities, erected by volunteer labor out of material donated for the purpose in one day....The Lake County German Alliance has dissolved and turned its charter in to the governor. The alliance members had 127 sons in the service and each had from one $50 bond to a $5,000 Liberty bond, and have as a body tendered their services to A. M. Turner in the next Liberty loan drive....To the numerous agencies for the furtherance of war activities in Gary, has been added the Calumet township section of the County Council of Defense. Harvey J. Curtis is chairman, and the other members are C. M. Baker, Henry Vosler, Harry Sommers, Dr. Ernest Schable, Mrs. Ira Miltimore and Mrs. Henry R. Snyder. The township council will co-operate with the agencies of the department of justice already in Gary, the vigilance section of the patriotic committee and the secret service agents of the American Protective League....The County Council of Defense will investigate the reports of enormous waste of wheat flour substitutes said to have been discovered in Hammond. An expert demonstrator has been secured to teach the housewives of the community how to use these substitutes advantageously, and it is planned to have her give daily demonstrations in Liberty hall.

Miami County.—The Miami County Council of Defense has appointed a committee to investigate and organize a War Chest fund plan for this county. The committee includes O. F. Rhodes, W. W. Sullivan, Joseph H. Shirk, M. A. Edwards, Judge Charles A. Cole, Joseph Kennedy and C. Y. Andrews.

Parke County.—At the regular meeting of the Woman's Department club of Rockville Mrs. Hortense Tapp Moore explained the "Child Welfare" work and talked very interestingly upon different phases of the war. Miss Grace Rohm reported 20 pounds of tinfoil collected by the children of the grade school. The money received from the sale of this will be used for Red Cross work. Officers for the club year 1918-19 were elected: Mrs. William Pearce, Pres.; Mrs. Fred Testing, First Vice-Pres.; Mrs. Donald McMillin, Second Vice-Pres.; Mrs. Carl Davidson, Sec'y; Mrs. Brooks Collings, Treas.... By request of the State Council the Parke County Council of Defense has named the following township councils, for the War Aid Association: Reserve, John Doan, Bert Cornwell, Mrs. R. L. Dooley, Wabash, Frank Bradford, John Tucker, Mrs. J. D. Swaim, Howard, E. W. Thompson, E. J. Myers, Miss Mollie Garland, Sugar Creek, Ared Myers, W. H. Harrison, Mrs. Wm. Cates, Union, Earl Johnson, Walter Martin, Mrs. David Spencer, Penn, John Coffin, Wm. Flock, Mrs. Jas. Engle, Raccoon, Seha Case, Ben Remington, Mrs. J. R. Johns, Jackson, Perry Harmless, Henry White, Mrs. Wayne Day, Liberty, I. W. Pickard, Straud Swaim, Mrs. H. H. Isaacs, Florida, J. E. Harshbarger, Chas. Newton, Mrs. Ben Grimes, Greene, Alex McClain, John Strong, Mrs. Wm. Hazlet, Washington, Walter McMurtry, Omer Davies, Mrs. Thomas Trueman, Adams, C. Lee Overpeck, J. C. Morris, Mrs. Lucy Smith.

Posey County.—More than fifty retail grocers of Mt. Vernon have organized for the purpose of co-operating with the U. S. Food Administration and the Merchants' Economy Committee of the State Council of Defense, in effecting such economies as are recommended for war times. The organization will consider the cash and carry plan of retail merchandising. Mr. Lockwood is president and O. A. Wilbrenner, secretary of the organization.

Ripley County.—The women of this county are very proud of the showing they made during the third Liberty loan bond sale. Luella Fink Butler, county chairman of the women's sales committee, reports distribution of bonds by her committee, as follows: Brown, Martha Winkler, $9,100; Laughery, Mrs. N. McCallum, $27,500; Otter Creek, Mrs. D. C. Yater, $7,100; Shelby, Georgianna Spears, $20,650; Delaware, H. H. Menke, $5,850; Center, Mrs. V. Waser, $17,200; Franklin, Mrs. W. A. Beer, $35,900; Johnson, Mrs. Carl Smith, $4,900; Jackson, Mrs. E. Behlmer, $2,800; Adams, Mrs. W. McMullen, $15,000; total, $141,000.

Rush County.—Marion Detrick, county agricultural agent, has made a survey of the seed corn available in this county, and has agreed to assist any grower in securing his requirements. He will also hold an emergency supply in reserve in case replanting is found necessary. The farmers have recognized the importance of this work and assisted in the survey by reporting promptly and in detail the quantity and quality of the seed stocks on hand.... Persons representing themselves as authorized to take a "fuel census" have been canvassing Carthage and Ripley township. The state and county fuel administrators deny having authorized any such activity.

Stauben County.—The Stauben County Silo Campaign started in earnest this week. We are asked to put up not less than ninety-eight silos this summer. E. E. Spade of Angola, county chairman, and the list of township chairmen are as follows: Millgrove, Earl Salisbury; Jamestown, Glenn Brown; Fremont, A. L. Peach; Clear Lake, Warren Throop; York, Henry VanPelt; Scott, Warren Goddard; Pleasant, William Sulf; Jackson, Robert Warring; Salem, J. B. Hayward; Steuben, Earl Tuttle; Otego, George M. Brown; Richland, Nathan Metz. Each township chairman is organizing his own workers to get before the people the advantages of the silo. A recent survey of the conditions brought out the fact that around 175 men were keeping ten or more cattle without a silo, and nearly 600 men in the county who do not have silos have livestock enough to warrant having one. The silos have been apportioned to the number of livestock kept without silos. The apportionment for each township is as follows: Clear Lake, 3; Fremont, 9; Jamestown, 6; Millgrove, 7; Richland, 6; Otego, 14; Steuben, 15; Salem, 8; Jackson, 9; Scott, 14; York, 7; Pleasant, 9.

St. Joseph County.—More boys have enrolled in the Boys' Working Reserve in St. Joseph County than can be given positions on the farms of the county. A call to farmers, issued to place 331 young men, developed the fact that the farmers of the county are unable to give them positions. Two months ago conditions were reversed. Farmers pleaded for help and could not secure it.... A new Liberty guard unit has been organized here. The guard was planned largely as a means of extending to prospective conscripts the rudiments of military education. Special attention will be given to enrolling more young men awaiting call to service.... Mishawaka high school is proud of its record of patriotic activities. The school authorities have prepared the following summary of the school's accomplishments since the declaration of war: A 100 per cent Junior Red Cross. Almost $1,400 worth of Thrift and War Savings Stamps have been bought by the high school students and teachers. Nineteen hundred and fifty dollars was taken of the third Liberty Loan by twenty-three individuals. One hundred and fifty dollars' worth of bonds was bought by the students in a "loose change" contest and donated to a scholarship fund. Twenty boys have joined the home guards. About twenty-five boys joined the Working Reserve. Several pupils are working part time and going to school part time. The school closes this year May 21, instead of June 21, the time being made up by an hour each day and teaching Saturdays. Our reason for this was based upon a questionnaire, which showed that 70 per cent of all pupils in the high school would either work in the factories or on the farms during the summer vacation. The History Club put on a series of lectures dealing entirely with war topics. About $600 was given to the Y. M. C. A. by the high school students and teachers in their campaign last fall. Considerable money and books have been donated to the library fund for soldiers. A fair sum was given to the Knights of Columbus. Two boys have enlisted in the navy. Three teachers went into Y. M. C. A. service. The high school organized and led a parade to boost the third Liberty Loan. The domestic science department has been making layettes for Belgian relief. A surgical dressings room is run in connection with the domestic science department. The domestic science department also had charge of the food conservation campaign. The manual training department has been making different games to be sent to the soldiers for their amusement. The art department has made many posters for different campaigns. There is a war garden campaign on which has practically enrolled all the students of the high school and many outsiders. Refreshments are not served at any social functions. Elaborate dressing and entertainment for commencement are restricted.

Union County.—A war fund is being created here to take care of all calls for relief work growing out of the war. An effort will be made to secure $25,000, which in the light of last year's experience is expected to take care of every request made of the county. A week will be devoted to the campaign for funds.

Vanderburgh County.—Active work of registering, measuring and weighing babies has started in some local communities under the direction of Miss Grace Kiechle, chairman of the publicity committee of the child conservation movement. Active work of weighing babies in Evansville started May 21. Doctors, nurses and members of the Parent-Teacher clubs are stationed at various schools, or clinics. Miss Mary Keeney and Miss Jennie Sonntag, members of the Babies' Clinic, in charge of the weighing of babies at the Ingleside school Friday afternoon. Dr. C. F. Diefendorf will also be at Ingleside. Mrs. Harry Wartman has charge of the work at Blankenburg school Wednesday afternoon. Miss Emma Roach, principal, has sent invitations to all mothers of her community. Registration takes place at the West Heights school Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Dr. G. W. Varner will assist. The preliminary survey of babies in the city under the direction of Mrs. A. M. Dawson will be completed this week.... More than two hundred mothers responded to invitations to bring their children to the baby clinic, held in Evansville in connection with the child welfare work under the auspices of the Council of Defense. One hundred and sixty-nine children under 6 years were weighed, measured and registered. Thirty-one mothers sent letters expressing their regret that they could not attend. The reports of Drs. C. F. Diefendorf and J. M. Heberer, who were in charge, state that enlarged tonsils was found to be the most common trouble.

Vigo County.—Ben Blumberg, director of the Boys' Working Reserve in Terre Haute, has received notice that he has been appointed special chairman to secure recruits for the junior military training camp. The camp to which Terre Haute recruits will be sent is located at Lake Geneva, Wis., and will open June 17 and continue until August 12. High school boys are eligible, and will receive intensive military training. Recruits may remain during the entire period the camp is open, but are required to stay but two weeks. Twelve hundred boys can be taken care of at Lake Geneva. Four hundred reservations have already been made. A campaign to interest Terre Haute boys in the work will be launched at once by Mr. Blumberg. Boys may enter the camp on June 17, July 1, 15 and 29. Each boy attending the camp will be required to pay his own fare going and returning; an admission fee of $10 and $1 per day for maintenance. It is hoped to have admission fees for Terre Haute boys donated, and, as a starter, John Crawford, regular chairman of the camp's association here, gave $10 to the cause Wednesday.... "This is labor's war, and I have no use for the fellow who goes around spreading German propaganda that it is a capitalist war," said Charles Fox, labor member of the State Council of Defense, at a meeting of the Terre Haute labor union members, their families and friends in Normal Hall, Thursday night. Mr. Fox made a forcible plea for all loyal American citizens to exert themselves to the utmost in backing up the men who have gone to the front. William Mitch, representing the American Mine Workers, made the remark that he agreed with an evangelist who said if hell were to be turned upside down, stamped on the bottom of it would be found the words, "Made in Germany." He said that powerful forces are at work trying to fasten militarism on the United States. Labor, he said, has always taken a position against militarism in any form, and is behind this war because it is a war against militarism. He cited the Russian situation as proof that the time to make peace is when a victory has been won.... Carl A. Meder, publisher of the Journal, a weekly newspaper printed in the German language, has asked the county council to endorse his continuance of a German paper, for the reason, he says, that he can wield a greater influence among those who must be educated to the government's purposes in this war. The Council of Defense had asked him to suspend, and now has his request under consideration.... The County Council of Defense will deposit in a safety vault any papers, records or valuables left in its care by men going into military service. One soldier left $300 in Liberty bonds, War Savings stamps and insurance papers in the hands of the council.

Wayne County.—Richard Study, enrolling agent for the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve, reports 300 boys have signed for work on the farms of this community during the coming summer. Many of the boys have already engaged in their own neighborhoods, but a large number of them will not be available until the city schools close the latter part of June.... Exempted men are being organized by townships by the county agricultural agent. They are enthusiastically lined up for war work.... A company of Gasoline Rangers has been organized at Richmond. E. H. Harris is captain and volunteers have offered the use of their cars for any emergency that may require the presence of members of either of the militia companies in Wayne County. A local manufacturer has agreed to donate the use of trucks for transporting ammunition or supplies, should either be needed.

Wells County.—This county claims a 100 per cent. record in the number of physicians who have volunteered for war service. Fourteen doctors between 21 and 55 years of age have already enlisted, which is more than the county's quota in the Indiana allotment. A number of local physicians more than 55 years of age have asked to be assigned to such war work as may be found for them at home or near home.

White County.—J. S. Minch, silo leader for White County, has completed his organization for the campaign in this community. Township leaders have been appointed as follows: Cass township, Joseph M. McBeth; Liberty, John McBeth; Monon, Bruce Brown; Princeton, Stanton Spencer; Jackson, Homer Hanna; Union, Spencer Carson; Honey Creek, William Cooper & Son; West Point, Chester Watson; Big Creek, Albert Stephan; Prairie, Emory Brackney; Round Grove, Perry O'Connor. At the meeting in Monticello these township leaders apportioned the 144 silos allotted to White County, and determined upon a program of educational and advertising work that is expected to convince White County farmers of the wisdom of putting silos on their farms this year.

Whitley County.—Mrs. Henry Hayden of Larwill has registered in Richland township nearly 200 children under 6 years of age. She has received much encouragement from the mothers of the township who have agreed to assist in the weighing and measuring of the children in line with the child welfare program of the Council of National Defense.... Mrs. Fred Morsches reports a very encouraging response to the campaign for registration of women for voluntary war work.... Richland township women registered to the total of 90 per cent. for emergency war work, according to figures received by Mrs. Fred Morsches, who has had charge of the registration in this county. Mrs. Morsches expects a total registration of more than 2,000 for the county. The work is proving very popular at a booth established in Columbia City.

Thrift Stamp Week

Thrift Stamp week will be observed in Indiana from May 27th to June 3d, inclusive. It is desired that $7,500,000 worth of War Savings and Thrift Stamps be sold during that week. This is a per capita of $2.50.

The Indiana War Savings Committee in promoting this drive at this time has two purposes in view. By the sale of $7,500,000 of stamps during the week it is expected that Indiana's total sales will be brought up to the current quota by June 1st. From then on it will be easy, the committee believes, to keep Indiana's sales up to the quota. It is also expected during this first state-wide intensive drive for the sale of stamps that any weak spots in the organization will be brought to the front and remedied.

Two flags are to be awarded during the campaign. One of these flags will be sent in advance to every county chairman, and if the county reaches or exceeds its apportionment of the $7,500,000 quota, the flag is to become the property of the county and displayed. If for any reason the county fails to reach its apportioned quota for the week, the Indiana War Savings Committee has asked that the flag be returned to the Indiana headquarters wrapped in black, as "that will indeed be an occasion of mourning and regret," said State Director Joseph D. Oliver.

The second flag is to be given to the ten counties which in proportion to their population secure the largest number of purchasers of $25 worth of War Savings Stamps.

The Indiana War Savings Committee is now in the midst of a series of district conferences preliminary to the coming drive. State Director Joseph D. Oliver and Vice-Director Frank E. Hering and other members of the committee have been touring the State holding meetings with the district and county chairmen and their various committees, outlining the work of the campaign and laying emphasis upon its importance.

The war calls for the team work of soldier son and soldier father—the hero of the trenches and the hero of the furrow.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 41

Attention, County Councils

General Bulletin No. 144.

May 18, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Council of National Defense and its Advisory Commission adopted, on May 6th, the enclosed resolution urging an immediate and concerted effort on the part of all citizens for economy as an important step in the prosecution of the war. It was also agreed that the important work of making the campaign effective should be entrusted to the state councils.

It is of fundamental importance that this resolution be given immediate and widespread publicity in newspapers, posters, pamphlets, bulletin boards, etc., so that every man, woman and child in the country will at once begin to practice the utmost economy. Not everyone can fight at the front, but everyone can fight against Prussia by fighting against waste and extravagance at home.

We are looking to you to put this message before the individual citizens of your county and to do all that can be done to secure their effective co-operation. This is an opportunity for your newly organized township councils to prove their merit.

Please follow this matter vigorously to make sure that adequate action is taken in every community. We ask you to report to us within one week as to the steps you have taken.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

General Bulletin No. 145.

May 20, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The seriously congested condition of the railroads, upon which we are almost wholly dependent for the transportation of supplies in this State, makes it incumbent upon this council to give support to and devise means of relieving the situation, in so far as is possible under the very unusual existing conditions.

The solution in part to this great problem, which so thoroughly modified the effectiveness of our war program, is, we believe, the establishment of a widespread use of the motor truck as an inter-community transportation agency.

In the event of these conditions we propose to take such steps as may be necessary to the furtherance of a program to accomplish results along these lines.

At the request of the Highways Transport Committee of the Council of National Defense, the State Council of Defense urges prompt action looking to the establishment of rural motor express lines wherever they may be needed throughout your county. The Council of National Defense in a formal resolution has already approved the widest possible use of the motor truck as a transportation agency and requested that all steps be taken to facilitate such use. The investigations of the Highways Transport Committee upon the operations of the rural motor express lines over the main highways surrounding the population centers demonstrate the following important war advantages resulting from this service:

1. Production is stimulated. Farmers invariably increase the variety and quantity of their production when regular market facilities are made available. In every section studied, a great increase in the variety and the amount of production followed the establishment of the rural express.

2. The farmers are relieved of their task of hauling their products to market, and the existing farm labor supply is thereby greatly conserved. Some instances show that hauling done by five men with wagons can be done with one man and truck at greater speed.

3. Additional food is made available by tapping, the farm communities which have no other good shipping facilities. Much of this additional food is now either wasted or deteriorates because of poor shipping facilities.

Rural motor express is especially needed now when labor is scarce and food demands high. In many farm communities where extensive truck transportation is in general use the farmers state that an interference with this service would immediately result in reduced production.

You are urged in this respect to immediately appoint a County Highways Transport Committee with the following personnel:

Chairman County Council of Defense.
County Food Administrator.
County Fuel Administrator.
County Agricultural Agent.
County Surveyor.

As the first step in the establishment of this necessary service, we urge you to make a survey of your county and report the result thereof to the Highways Transport Committee of the State Council as promptly as possible, as follows:

1. That your committee make an investigation at an early date of the different highways throughout the county for the purpose of ascertaining which highways are in such physical condition as to render them available immediately for the use of motor transport. On a county road map, to be secured from your county highway superintendent or county surveyor, show in blue pencil roads in good condition which would be suitable for such service, and in red pencil roads in bad condition. (This particularly applies to highways in the county that are available for what might be termed truck service between commercial centers.)

2. That your committee submit to the Highways Transport Committee of the State Council of Defense any suggestions which will in their opinion advance the use of these highways for this purpose, and will accomplish the greatest relief possible either locally or between different commercial centers in different counties.

Prompt attention and serious consideration is essential in this matter, as it is our desire to effect a marked relief to the situation as it now exists.

Further bulletins and general information will be sent you as the occasion demands.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

General Bulletin No. 146.

May 20 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The U. S. Public Service Reserve is starting a Farm Labor Reserve in Indiana, which is to be a part of a campaign which is being waged in the United States upon similar lines. This reserve has been planned by the U. S. Public Service Reserve in Indiana, the Food Production Committee of the State Council of Defense, and the state farm labor help specialist, Mr. W. B. Brumfield of Purdue University.

You will find enclosed a bulletin of the U. S. Public Service Reserve which explains the plans which have been adopted, and you are requested to co-operate to the fullest degree with the head enrolling agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve in your county, and also with the County Agricultural Agent, who represents the Department of Agriculture.

The Farm Labor Reserve, while a national movement, is essentially a local community effort. The local harvest depends very largely upon the ability of the people in any community to respond to the farmer's call and give him proper aid in harvesting all the crops. The greatest measure of financial security of any community lies in a large production and an equal harvest.

The whole Farm Labor Reserve proposition is based upon good faith. Men who sign application cards are expected to respond to calls for help unless illness or urgent business arises. If men fail to respond when called upon and cannot offer reasonable or suitable excuses they should be severely criticized and censured by your board.

Speaking campaigns under the direction of the County Agricultural Agent and the U. S. Public Service Reserve Agent are to be held in each county to fully apprise the farmer of what is being done to safeguard his crops this season. We will be glad to have you co-operate in helping to arrange these meetings.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

Speakers' Bureau

Red Cross speaking engagements have occupied the attention of the Speakers' Bureau of the Indiana State Council of Defense during the past two weeks. A total of 221 engagements for Red Cross speakers has been made from May 12th to May 26th, inclusive. These engagements included 148 towns and cities. On Sunday, May 19th, alone, 42 cities and towns called for 53 engagements. In addition to the list of speakers on the bureau list, the Fourteen-Minute Women and Four-Minute Men are accepting assignments for the Red Cross drive for $2,300,000 in Indiana this week.

Thrift and Economy.

The Council of National Defense and the Advisory Commission of the council believe that a concerted effort for economy by the people of the nation will not only go far toward paying America's expense in the war, but will also reduce consumption of raw and manufactured materials essential to the conduct of the war.

The council urges all to refrain from unnecessary expenditures of every kind, and to bear constantly in mind that only one thing is now of real importance, and that is the winning of the war.

The nation's resources in man-power, money, transportation, foodstuffs, raw materials and fuel have already been subjected to heavy strain, and it is the clear duty of every citizen to guard against increasing this strain by a single wasteful act.

It is most creditable for everyone—man and woman, boy and girl—to be economical in dress, food and manner of living. Every evidence of helpful self-denial on the part of all in a time like this is most commendable.

This war is more than a conflict between armies; it is a contest in which every man, woman and child can and should render real assistance. Thrift and economy are not only a patriotic privilege, they are a duty.

COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE,

The Secretary of War, Chairman.
The Secretary of the Navy.
The Secretary of the Interior.
The Secretary of Agriculture.
The Secretary of Commerce.
The Secretary of Labor.

ADVISORY COMMISSION OF THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE,

Daniel Willard, Chairman.
Howard E. Coffin.
Julius Rosenwald.
Bernard M. Baruch.
Dr. Hollis Godfrey.
Samuel Gompers.
Dr. Franklin Martin.

May 6, 1918.

Three Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company stores have been closed for selling flour without substitutes. The Atlantic and Pacific Company operates one of the biggest chains of stores in the country.

U. S. Public Service Reserve

Bulletin No. 22.

To All Enrolling Agents of the U. S. Public Service Reserve:

The whole Farm Labor Reserve scheme can be divided into two sections. The first part is that which is interested in the problems connected with the solicitation of members of the reserve, and the second part is that which is interested in the problems connected with getting the farmers to use the Farm Labor Reserve, if it is needed. There is little doubt but that, with proper active organizations that in every community there will be a powerful reserve of competent men who are physically able to go out and render a good day's work in harvest fields, if it proves to be necessary; but there is a little doubt in the minds of several if the farmers will call upon this great potential army of laborers when they are needed in the field. The farmer is very apt to look upon this sort of movement with some suspicion, as he will not think, in many cases, that his town neighbor can render much service to him in the harvest field, consequently with this opinion in mind he is apt to try to get along without calling on his neighbor and the result will be that he will fail to make a satisfactory harvest. Therefore, it would follow that after the reserve has been organized and services of men have been promised, that the farmer should be fully apprised of this reserve and made to realize that it is there for him to use and that it will work satisfactorily.

The head enrolling agent of the U. S. Public Service Reserve in each county should assume an organization necessary to solicit completely the cities and towns of his county and get men to sign the reserve cards. He should make arrangements with factories to release their men at certain times if they are to be needed. He should build his organization so that he can see that men in every line of endeavor are apprised on the subject. We think that he should use the Huntington plan of organization and placement. This plan was outlined rather fully in Bulletin No. 20.

The county agricultural agent, who is a man that the farmers have confidence in, should have charge of getting the requisitions of the farmers for help. He should be given all the aid that is possible in arranging for meetings with the farmers on Saturdays and Sundays at central points in the counties where the whole plan of the Farm Labor Reserve can be unfolded and where the farmer must be encouraged to use it and be told that if he fails to harvest his crop because of lack of labor it is his fault.

The work of the county agricultural agent in this regard is very important and he should have all the co-operation that can possibly be given him.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, through W. B. Brumfiel, who is the state farm labor help specialist, had planned to organize some form of a labor reserve this summer in Indiana, but is now going to co-operate with the U. S. Public Service Reserve in this movement. Mr. Brumfiel and his department will pay particular attention towards getting the farmer to utilize the reserve wherever necessary and to have confidence in this as an emergency war labor program. At Mr. Brumfiel's direction and through the Speakers' Bureau of the State Council of Defense there will be sent speakers to every county in Indiana to address the farmers upon this subject. All food production committees and other committees should, and undoubtedly will, co-operate with Mr. Brumfiel in this matter, and the U. S. Public Service Reserve agents are requested to do anything they can towards helping Mr. Brumfiel in his campaign with the farmers. Mr. Brumfiel is stationed at Lafayette, with Purdue University.

One of the essential things aimed at in the solicitation of men to work on the farms through the Farm Labor Reserve is to get men of physical strength who can do a reasonable day's work for the farmer. If you can combine this strength with previous farm experience all the better, but if you cannot please lay stress upon the fact of getting men who are physically able to render good service in the field. Many will register who are really not capable of much hard work and great discretion will have to be used by the enrolling agents in sending the right kind of men to the farmers when the farmers call for help.

You may expect your cards in a little over a week now, as they are here in Indianapolis and the pledge is being printed on them; but before you launch your campaign be sure that you have prepared an organization which will actively solicit every available man in your county for this reserve. Bear in mind that it may be that many of these men will never be used in this reserve, but it would be folly for us if we were not prepared in all localities to harvest our crops when the whole world is close to starvation.

Respectfully yours,

N. E. SQUIBB,
State Director U. S. Public Service Reserve.

Opposes Gambling.

The American Red Cross definitely opposes any games, lotteries, raffles or any other form of appeal which possesses gambling features. This form of gambling is contrary to the laws of many States.

In a letter addressed to Division Headquarters, G. E. Scott, Assistant General Manager at Red Cross Headquarters at Washington, says the following:

"We believe that the appeal of the Red Cross is so great that the people of the country are so anxious to have it fulfill its obligations as interpreters of the nation's sentiments that it is unnecessary for any community to have to resort to such methods to raise funds."—Lake Division News.

Prices for Threshing.

Reports having come to the Indiana State Council of Defense that radical increases in the charge for threshing are contemplated by Indiana threshermen during the approaching harvest, a committee was named to co-operate with the United States Food Administration, to investigate. This committee reported to the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense, May 22d. The report, which was referred to Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, for further consideration, at the meeting of Indiana threshermen, May 27th, is as follows:

"Pursuant to your request, we have investigated the question of cost of threshing grain in Indiana this year.

"We find that the ordinary threshing outfit, consisting of a 20-horsepower engine and large sized separator, will cost about $4,000. This includes the entire investment for the threshing outfit.

"We further find that such an outfit, under average conditions, would thresh about 2,000 bushels of oats and 1,000 bushels of wheat per day. At the price of 3½ cents for oats and 7 cents for wheat, it would leave a net of about $58.00 per day as profit to the threshing outfit. And we find that in some localities where oats are raised largely, such as in Benton County, and counties that have soil of the same nature, that the daily average would be much larger.

"We, therefore, conclude that for the average conditions, as we find them in Indiana, around Marion County, and the South, that a fair price this year for threshing oats would be 4 cents and for wheat 7 cents. But in northern counties of the State, where fields are larger and where grain is raised more extensively, in larger acreage, we feel that 3 cents for oats and 6 cents for wheat would be a fair price for this year. We must keep in mind, however, that the price of wheat is limited in Chicago to $2.20 and that the local market will not be much above $2.00, if any.

"We therefore recommend that the price for threshing wheat and oats, above stated, be the price insisted upon by the State Council of Defense.

"Respectfully submitted, this 18th day of May, 1918.

(Signed) "W. J. BECKETT.
"JESS C. ANDREW.
"W. H. SILVER.
"CHAS. O. ABBOTT."

No Labor Shortage With Boys' Reserve

Estimated More Than Five Thousand
Have Enrolled for Productive
Work on Farms.

"There is no need of talking farm labor shortage," says Isaac D. Straus, State Director of the Boys' Working Reserve. "With 20,000 bright, red-blooded Hoosier young men, 16 to 21 years of age, enrolled in the reserve for patriotic service on Indiana farms, a plentiful supply of labor for the harvest season is assured. It is estimated that more than 5,000 of these young men are already at work on farms and the balance are ready at any time to accept employment for the remainder of the season. Farmers are urged to supply themselves with harvest labor in advance in order to give members of the reserve an opportunity to become hardened before the heavy midsummer work piles up.

Farmers Praise Reserve.

"At the beginning of the summer of 1917 many farmers said that an inexperienced city boy was of no use on the farm. At the end of the summer of 1917 hundreds of farmers wrote to officers of the reserve to say that their judgment of the boys had been mistaken, and that many of the young fellows did better work than the men they were accustomed to employ for the harvest season. As one farmer expressed it, 'You can teach one of them more in a day than you can teach to a loafer in a month.'

Men to Back up Boys' Reserve.

"To make doubly sure that there will be no lack of an abundance of labor during the harvest season, the U. S. Public Service Reserve is preparing to organize in every community in the State a Farm Labor Reserve composed of business and professional men and their employees who are willing to spend from one to four weeks on the farm. The plan proposes to give preference to men who were born and raised on farms because men who have had experience are always more desirable. This organization will be supplementary to the large force of boys who belong to the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve and will build up an emergency reserve of farm labor large enough to supply any possible demand."

APPROVED RELIEF WORK

A bulletin of approved relief organizations prepared by the Charity Organization Society of New York, with a supplement revised to May 5th, is in the hands of the Indiana State Council of Defense. Where any question exists as to the integrity of any war relief solicitation, the secretary would be pleased to answer any questions from the county councils. In conformity with the policy of the State Council of Defense, there should be a special committee in every county council charged with the responsibility of passing on all war relief solicitations. It is not expected that there be any modification of any existing agencies or policies within the State. However, many individual solicitations are being made by mail and otherwise, and it is upon such propositions that the State Council advises caution. The list of societies approved by the New York organization is a long one and covers practically every field of relief activity in connection with the war.

This Is Patriotic.

A "swat the fly and save the babies" campaign has been started in Hammond, Ind. School children are being instructed on the importance of relieving the community of these winged pests. Methods of arousing the people to preventing measures against the infections that are attributable to the fly are being discussed at meetings of educators, physicians, Red Cross workers and others. The city authorities are encouraging the campaign to make Hammond flyless this summer.

Woman's Section

Bulletin No. 61.

To the County Chairman of the Registration Committee:

My Dear Chairman of Registration—Now that the registration of women for war service is nearing completion in Indiana, I feel that I wish to reach every one of the women who have worked with such untiring zeal in this great patriotic service, and to express to them my gratitude for their assistance at this time.

I realize the great energy that it has taken to distribute hundreds of thousands of cards over this State, but I feel that when the records of the registration are compiled that you will realize with me the splendid showing that this registration will give of the patriotism of Indiana women, and will recompense enough for the many hours of labor that we have all spent in taking the registration, and in the years to come the women of Indiana will be very proud to have these service cards show that in the hour of their country's emergency they stood ready to back up their government to the limit.

I hope that you will give this note of appreciation publicity in your county through the newspapers, since it is the only way that I have of expressing my thanks personally to the thousands of women who helped in the registration.

Very truly yours,

JULIA E. LANDERS,

Chairman Registration for Woman's Service.

Bulletin No. 62.

To the Woman Member of the County Council of Defense and the County Chairman of the Registration Committee:

In accordance with instructions received from the Woman's Committee of the National Council of Defense, the women who have acted as chairmen of the Registration Committee in the different counties of the State will continue in that capacity and will have charge of the cards, and are expected to have a classified list of the services that women are willing to render to their government so that when industries wish to use the records on the cards in securing employees, or when any emergency arises where we want to call out the women of a county for loyal purposes, this whole matter will rest in the hands of the woman who had charge of the registration so that no delays may ever occur in getting some practical use out of these cards.

It is definitely understood that these cards are to be filed in the county seat of the county, and it is hoped that the custom that prevails in certain counties of Indiana of having the headquarters of the county council of defense in the court house will become a universal custom, and that these cards will be filed in that headquarters.

I might suggest that in some counties the county council of defense has secured a filing cabinet by putting notice in the papers asking whether business firms that have an extra filing cabinet would not donate this to the use of the registration committee. If you have not already provided for filing cabinet I suggest that before you go to the expense of buying a new one that you ascertain whether some business firm would not be glad of this opportunity to save the county money.

Very truly yours,

JULIA E. LANDERS,

Chairman Registration for Woman's Service.

To Encourage Training Of Young Men For Army

The Indiana State Council of Defense, upon receipt of the following communication, in recognition of the importance of the work in question, authorized Chairman Michael E. Foley, in behalf of the council, to call upon county councils of defense for the fullest measure of co-operation in effecting the training of young men, as desired by the federal government, for skilled services in connection with the army:

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20, 1918.

The Indiana State Board for Vocational Education has recently received two Emergency War Service Calls from the federal government asking that local school authorities throughout the State of Indiana make an immediate drive for promoting the training of conscripted men as radio and buzzer operators in evening schools, and the training of the young industrial workers from fourteen to eighteen years of age in part-time trade and continuation schools.

These emergency calls from the federal government were approved by the State Council of Defense at a recent meeting and the city school authorities throughout the State have been urged to undertake the immediate organization and promotion of this work. Many of the public schools of the State are now closed and the others will close in a few days. On this account you will readily realize that this is an extremely difficult task which the federal government has assigned to Indiana.

In order to insure the success of this emergency work in spite of the unusual difficulties, we wish to arrange with President Mackintosh of Wabash College, or some one equally patriotic and capable, to visit the industrial cities of the State within the next few weeks and assist the local authorities in the immediate promotion of this war service work, provided the State Council of Defense approves the plan and can arrange for the payment of the necessary traveling expenses (not to exceed $100.00) of such an agent while this work is being properly started.

We also wish to have the help of the State Council of Defense through the Speakers' Bureau in the promotion of these State War Service drives.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) J. G. COLLICOTT.

A Day and Its Significance

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Congress of the United States, on the second day of April last, passed the following resolution:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That, it being a duty peculiarly incumbent in a time of war humbly and devoutly to acknowledge our dependence on Almighty God and to implore His aid and protection, the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, respectfully requested to recommend a day of public humiliation, prayer, and fasting, to be observed by the people of the United States with religious solemnity and the offering of fervent supplications to Almighty God for the safety and welfare of our cause, His blessings on our arms, and a speedy restoration of an honorable and lasting peace to the nations of the earth;

And whereas it has always been the reverent habit of the people of the United States to turn in humble appeal to Almighty God for His guidance in the affairs of their common life;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the thirtieth day of May, a day already freighted with sacred and stimulating memories, a day of public humiliation, prayer, and fasting, and do exhort my fellow citizens of all faiths and creeds to assemble on that day in their several places of worship and there, as well as in their homes, to pray Almighty God that He may forgive our sins and shortcomings as a people and purify our hearts to see and love the truth, to accept and defend all things that are just and right, and to purpose only those righteous acts and judgments which are in conformity with His will; beseeching Him that He will give victory to our armies as they fight for freedom, wisdom to those who take counsel on our behalf in these days of dark struggle and perplexity, and steadfastness to our people to make sacrifice to the utmost in support of what is just and true, bringing us at last the peace in which men's hearts can be at rest because it is founded upon mercy, justice, and good will.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this eleventh day of May, in the year of our Lord Nineteen hundred and eighteen and of the independence of the United States the One hundred and forty-second.

WOODROW WILSON.

By the President:

ROBERT LANSING,

Secretary of State.

BY THE GOVERNOR OF INDIANA.

A PROCLAMATION.

The time of the year is again drawing near when the people of Indiana, according to a worthy and patriotic custom, set aside a day for the honoring of the nation's heroic dead.

This year Memorial day will come to us with an added significance and an added value.

For years it has been our wont on this day of sacred memories to deal principally with the past. Now, however, more than ever before we can dedicate the heroism of the past to the heroism that is to come.

The United States is now facing one of the cruelest, one of the deadliest enemies a civilized nation has ever been called upon to face. We have been forced to fight for American honor and American integrity, and for the future hope of our beloved country. More than a million young men have already answered the call to the colors and millions more are ready to go when duty summons them.

At this time, therefore, when the whole nation has girded itself for this titanic struggle against autocracy, we have a double duty to perform in honoring our heroes of the past. Let us honor them first because of the priceless service they have rendered us in giving up their lives that the nation might live, and let us honor them again, in order that in so doing we may receive inspiration for the sacrifices that are before us and our heroes of today be guided by the generous example of our forefathers.

Indiana is justly proud of its heroes of days gone by, is proud and serenely confident, too, of its heroes of today and of the heroes to be made tomorrow.

In order, therefore, that the people of the Hoosier commonwealth may pay tribute to the departed heroes and gain inspiration for the trials of today, I, James P. Goodrich, Governor of Indiana, in accordance with commendable custom, do hereby designate and proclaim Thursday, May 30th, 1918, Decoration and Memorial Day in the State of Indiana.

I earnestly recommend that the day be set apart for decorating the graves and holding appropriate memorials for our honored dead, and I suggest further that we offer prayer to that Almighty power who rules the destiny of all nations for courage and conviction like that of our forefathers, in order that we may successfully overcome the perils that beset us today.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Indiana to be affixed, at the Capitol, in the city of Indianapolis, this 16th day of May, 1918.

(Seal)

JAMES P. GOODRICH,

Governor.

By the Governor:

WILLIAM A. ROACH,

Secretary of State.

Red Cross Activities

A. F. Bentley, assistant manager of the Lake Division of the American Red Cross, in charge of Indianapolis headquarters, submits the following report of the workshop output of Indiana chapters for the month of April, 1918, and for the year ending April 30th:

Indiana Warehouse—American Red Cross, April, 1918.

Receipts from Indiana chapters:

Surgical dressings .....	737,722
Hospital garments .....	54,700
Hospital supplies .....	35,382
Refugee garments .....	2,655
Knitted goods .....	23,969
Sundry articles for soldiers....	23,452

Workshop Production Year Ending April 30th

(Goods shipped through warehouses only, not including social gifts by chapters.)

Surgical dressings .....	3,539,984
Hospital garments .....	362,153
Hospital supplies .....	277,761
Refugee garments .....	19,635
Articles for soldiers.....	298,713

Detail of Knitted Goods Included in Articles for Soldiers.

Sweaters .....	62,753
Socks (pairs) .....	93,248
Wristlets (pairs) .....	44,931
Mufflers .....	16,680
Helmets .....	15,676

President Vincent of the Rockefeller Institute, who has been making a careful study of the work of the Red Cross in Europe, has just cabled as follows: "My visits to France and Italy convince me that Red Cross work for families of soldiers, refugees and other citizens has immediate and vital bearing upon war efficiency. To limit its work to hospitals and other direct service to soldiers would seriously weaken America's aid to her Allies. The full program is essential."

Women's Red Cross work valued at $549,205.27 was shipped to the Lake Division warehouses during April by Red Cross Chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky. The total number of separate articles received during the month was 3,263,025, of which 2,826,734 were surgical dressings. Knitted goods and comfort kits for soldiers and sailors received in April were valued at $201,803.75. One of the objects of next week's second war fund drive for $100,000,000 is to provide funds for the support of chapter work-rooms. Red Cross chapters are to be permitted to retain 25 per cent. of the money raised by them in their local war fund campaigns.

"Life these days is just one campaign after another. You will agree with me in this statement when I tell you the Red Cross begins another campaign on June 10."

The above paragraph from an announcement by D. C. Dougherty, Director of Publicity, Lake Division, American Red Cross, to the Indiana State Council of Defense, is a preliminary statement of plans for the beginning of a drive to increase the number of enrollments of eligible registered nurses for military service.

Mr. Dougherty says further that the surgeons-general of the army and navy have asked for 25,000 nurses before January 1st next. Of these, he says, 5,000 were to be supplied by June 1st, and of the latter number 497 were to come from the Lake Divisions in the months of March, April and May, and with the third month more than half gone a few more than 200 nurses have been enrolled, leaving a considerable task to be performed to secure the other approximate 300.

It is reported by Mr. Dougherty that a similar condition obtains throughout the country. This campaign therefore will be not only to enroll but to persuade the public of the necessity of every one's assistance in helping to secure nurses for work at the front. Physicians, surgeons and hospitals in particular who have shown the most reluctance about letting nurses leave their home work must be convinced of the urgency of this call.

Reports on Disloyalty.

The Department of Justice authorizes the following:

The Attorney-General has issued a circular to district attorneys of the United States aimed to further facilitate the collection by his department of information regarding disloyalty cases and utterances. Under it the United States attorneys are instructed to co-operate with newspapers in their districts so that public notice can be given from time to time of the location of the nearest offices of the district attorney or the Bureau of Investigation, to which persons who have information which they think may be of value to the government conveniently can go.

The district attorneys are instructed to make it clear that complaints of even the most informal or confidential nature are always welcomed, and that citizens should feel free to bring their information or suspicions to the attention of the nearest representative of the Department of Justice, or, if that is not convenient, communicate with the department at Washington.

Labor Situation in Committees' Hands

(Continued from Page 1)

progress in the campaign to enlist Indiana physicians in military service.

In connection with the statement of W. D. Allison, a manufacturer of surgical instruments, that his skilled employes are being solicited by new firms, Mr. Fox said, "There is one way to make the workman stay on his job; it is simply a question of price." A. E. Reynolds, discussing the case, which he held identical with one reported from Terre Haute wherein inducements had been offered skilled mechanics to go to other cities to work, regardless of the war emergency, declared it to be a national question. "Labor must bring its price or we will have a serious upheaval," Mr. Reynolds said. The matter was referred to the Labor Committee.

The Drama of Food.

In rapid sequence the acts in the Drama of Food are presented by the Food Administration. Today it is a retrenchment of wheat; tomorrow of sugar; the next day of ice; and the day after fish. An abundance replaces a period of leanness; a shrinkage is suddenly supplemented by an expansion; and so the drama of food unwinds and unravels itself, ever keeping paramount the thought that lack of food breaks down a nation's morale; too much breaks down its stamina; and always that a winning army and a losing army travels on its stomach.

Inquiries as to Soldiers

The Post Office Department authorizes the following in the Official Bulletin:

Postmaster General Burleson announces that arrangement has been made for sending personal welfare inquiries and messages between persons in the United States and persons in enemy countries and in territory occupied by the enemy.

The inquiries and messages can be sent only through the American Red Cross in the manner, and on the blank forms prescribed for the purpose and must not be sent direct between individuals or accepted by post offices from individuals. Full details regarding the transmission of the messages may be obtained upon application to any Red Cross chapter.

The sending to enemy countries through the Red Cross of messages other than as above indicated, except prisoners of war mail, is forbidden by law, and will render the persons attempting to send them liable to prosecution.

On Public Improvements During Period of War

For the further guidance of county councils of defense, the following paragraphs from a communication received by the Indiana State Council of Defense from Charles K. Foster, of the Federal War Industries Board, are submitted. The communication in its entirety was referred, after reading, to the new Committee on Public Improvements, to which all such matters which cannot be adjudicated by county councils of defense, will be referred:

"We are in receipt of yours of April 23, addressed to the Chairman of the War Industries Board. We are pleased to receive your advice that you have given the resolution of the War Industries Board on the matter of Public Improvements wide publicity.

"Referring to the statement of the lumber dealers in Indiana that Secretary McAdoo desires that public improvements be continued, would say that we can find no authority for their statement. In fact, the resolution of the War Industries Board was passed after the matter had been very carefully and fully considered.

"We agree with you that there are instances where the building of homes and the improvements thereon should not be discouraged. However, such improvements should be kept down to the minimum, due to the congestion of traffic and the much-needed use of cars for transportation. There is also the question of fuel which has to be taken into consideration which must be used in the manufacture of building material.

"It was with this thought in mind that the board passed the resolution, and we trust that your State Council will do everything in its power to discourage all kinds of building projects which are not directly or indirectly connected with the winning of the war."

Each Click a Bullet.

(Prairie Farmer.)

The click of the planter is music in our ears. To the imaginative boy it might be the rattle of a machine gun that is blocking the Kaiser's road to Paris. The planter is slowly striping the fields with the straight lines that will soon be rows of corn. We watch the descending sun with regret, and begrudge the tired and dusty horses the few hours of rest that they must have in preparation for the next day's work.

The rush of the planting season appeals to red blood and calls for boundless energy. It is the season of hope and promise, the best time of all the year on the farm.

A Most Admirable Thing.

The American College Bulletin, published by the Council of Church Board of Education, Chicago, under date of May 18th, says:

"A most admirable thing has been done by the educational forces of Indiana. With the co-operation of Governor Goodrich of that State, Indiana's educators, working through the Speakers' Bureau of the State Council of Defense, observed the week of April 22-29 as Educational Week. The Governor's proclamation designating that week as educational week is a classic. In scores of cities and towns speakers sent out by the colleges and universities addressed high school students on the importance of their staying in school and finishing their courses of study. The State did itself honor in thus recognizing the schools as the formative centers of the democracy we are fighting to preserve."

Milk is one of the most important food sources the human race possesses. For the proper nourishment of the child, it is absolutely indispensable and its use should be kept up in the diet as long as possible. Not only does it contain all the essential food elements in the most available form for ready digestion, but the recent scientific discoveries show it to be especially rich in certain peculiar properties that are rendered possible.

Indiana Will Place 10,000 Silos in 1918

Reports from County Workers Encourage Belief That Campaign Is Succeeding.

Reports received from over the State indicate that Indiana will have little trouble in going "over the top" in the campaign to place 10,000 more silos in the State this year. In more than half the counties county-wide organizations have been perfected and township leaders have been named, and they have been assigned the number of silos to build.

Elkhart County has a quota of 139 silos, and Prof. C. B. Blosser, leader, says that he expects 175 or 200 silos to be built in that county this year.

In Laporte County the quota of 93 silos has been pledged already and indications are that the number will be doubled during the summer.

A county-wide meeting will be held June 6th in Whitley County as the sequel to a series of smaller meetings. It is aimed to have the quota of 145 pledged by that time.

Decatur County Farmers are well organized for the campaign which is being waged under the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation, and meetings will be held there the last week in May.

Montgomery County men will have a silo tour May 29th and 30th to inaugurate the drive formally, and State Food Director G. I. Christie and M. E. Foley will be on the program.

E. E. Luzadder, Jay County silo leader, has completed plans for a two days' silo tour between May 26th and 30th.

Dozens of other counties have arranged silo tours or silo weeks to launch or complete their drives. State leader Maurice Douglas says the State's quota will be reached, he feels positive.

W. H. Senour, President of the Indiana State Dairy Association, after using two silos for several years, says that he would not farm without livestock, and would not keep livestock without a silo.

Jess C. Andrew, President of the Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' Association, and President of the Livestock Breeders' Association, is enthusiastic over the campaign to build more silos in Indiana. In a letter to the Food Committee he says:

"The value of the silo in dollars and cents is very hard to figure. When it can be used as a feed for so many different kinds of livestock it seems to me that it is indispensable on a farm where livestock is kept.

"Using my own case as an example, we have wintered sheep and cattle on nothing but silage alone. They have held their flesh, and in the case of the sheep they have gained in flesh. They received nothing but silage alone. The only thing that you have to be careful of in feeding silage alone is the use of a laxative. It seems to me that as a war ration for livestock silage is by far the cheapest and best one that can be utilized. Every farmer that has enough livestock to keep one man busy feeding should consider it his patriotic duty to erect a silo this year."

Prospects for Bumper Apple Crop.

Indiana can expect an apple crop of 6,750,000 bushels, an increase of a million bushels over that of 1917, according to a letter received by the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation from H. H. Swaim, Secretary of the Indiana Horticultural Society. However, the peach crop will amount to practically nothing at all, says the letter, the long continued cold weather last winter killing most of the trees. Prospects now are for only a 3.3 per cent. crop.

Blackberries, raspberries and pears also suffered from the cold weather. Mr. Swaim's estimate says there will be only about a half crop of blackberries and three-fourths of the usual crop of raspberries. Pears have dropped to 57 per cent. of the usual crop, he estimates, under the present conditions of the fruit.

Grapes, plums and cherries also are slightly below the normal, due to the abnormal winter, in a large measure. Mr. Swaim's letter follows in part:

"Estimates made in all forecasts of fruit crops at this season are subject to material changes as the season advances. Estimating from reports received from fruit growers of the State in comparison with the former spring estimates and final yields, the apple crop for Indiana in 1918 will be 6,750,000 bushels, or nearly a million bushels greater than the crop of 1917. This is not taking in account the increased production of young orchards which are beginning to be of commercial importance and which will soon boost Indiana's apple production far beyond any previous records.

"The average of 3.3 per cent. of a crop of peaches for the State will probably be further reduced, as the weakened condition of the trees will prevent the maturing of the fruit. The same cause will probably increase the mortality of the peach trees, which the estimate places at 88 per cent."

Food Committee Chairman.

The Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation will meet May 24th to elect a new chairman, as a result of the resignation of Ralph W. Moss.

Sam George, of Franklin, has been appointed by Governor Goodrich to fill the vacancy on the committee made through Mr. Moss's resignation.

Food Administration

Ola Chambers, a flour and grain dealer of Anderson, and Froeschke & Broshear, retail grocers of Martinsville, admitted violations of the United States food regulations and, in the first instance, a week's suspension of business was ordered, and in the second the same penalty was suspended during good behavior. The Chambers violation was in the sale of wheat flour without an equal amount of substitute and the other the sale of 100 pounds of sugar to one consumer, at 10 cents per pound, an offense both as to the quantity sold and the price charged.

Poultry and egg dealers have been warned by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana, that they must have federal licenses by June 1, or quit business. This is in accordance with a recent proclamation of the President, under the provisions of the food control law.

Increased yield per acre, rather than an extended acreage, will be the slogan for 1918 by the Indiana Food Production and Conservation Committee. The committee already is making a program for the sowing of good seed and the use of fertilizer.

Retailers making only occasional sales to hotels and restaurants are not required to have a federal license. This ruling supersedes a recent order to the contrary.

College women are being registered by Miss Mable Wellman, state secretary, for voluntary work in connection with the United States Food Administration, during the production and conservation season.

Fair ground concessionaires in Indiana are expected to await developments before planning their season's menu. Dr. Barnard says their privileges in the use of staples will depend largely upon the wheat flour and sugar situation during July and August, which cannot be forecasted at this time.

Near-beer manufacturers must have secured a license by June 1, under the most recent proclamation of the President, in conformity with the food control law.

Production and self-denial are the guns that will get the Huns.

Perishable Crops Not Discouraged

Food Administration Says Their Continued Production Is Vital to Nation's Needs.

It has been reported to the State Council of Defense Food Committee that the growing of perishable crops is being discouraged in Indiana. These reports are without foundation, according to advices received by the Purdue University from the United States Food Administration. The Food Administration urges that the usual acreage of these crops be maintained.

"Foods of the perishable products group are essential to nutrition, and their continued production, distribution and consumption are vital in view of national and international necessities," reads a letter from the Food Administration. "The Food Administration desires to emphasize these facts and to assure all producers and handlers of milk products, poultry and eggs, fish, fruits, potatoes and vegetables, that no restrictions have been placed on such food materials or are liable to be.

"Not only are these foods of great use and value in supplying the ordinary basis of nutrition, but vary the diet and promise palatability of the foods used with them; most of them are succulent or supply necessary bulk in the ration which aids digestion, and some serve as efficient and necessary regulators of bodily functions, thus warding off ill health.

"Any movement which leads to substitute culture of one perishable for the other will be liable to cause economic loss. It would be unwise, therefore, to limit the area devoted to any class of perishable crops."

This attitude of the Food Administration does away with any question aroused by these untrue statements which have been spread in Indiana. It also indicates the desire of the food administrators that the truck gardening in northwestern Indiana and around the various large cities, that the onion growing business of the muck regions in northern Indiana, the melon industry of the southwestern and southern parts of the State, and the strawberry business of the southeastern section of the State be continued.

Send our boys the fuel and they will supply the steam.

"Gout and rheumatism and old age are disappearing right and left among people who used to eat and drink too much," declared a speaker at a recent medical convention in London.

United States Food Administration.

Washington, D. C., May 17, 1918.

Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator, Indianapolis, Indiana:

Dear Dr. Barnard—I have read with much interest your letter of May 7th in which you call to my attention the result of "Bring in the Wheat Week" in Indiana.

It is very gratifying to learn that Indiana has so well accomplished its task, and I should be glad if this were the case throughout the country. In this crisis it is not enough to do a part of what is asked. No one should be satisfied with less than full and complete compliance. When the bins throughout the country are swept clean, as they are in Indiana, then the farmer can feel that he has done his duty in so far as the 1917 wheat crop is concerned.

Mr. Hallowell brought back from his recent trip to your State a very interesting account of your activities and the results that have ensued. He was very much impressed with the splendid spirit that was so apparent among your county administrators and other workers, and I take this opportunity of congratulating you.

Faithfully yours,
(Signed) HERBERT HOOVER.

To prevent serious suffering at home it is imperative that all those whose circumstances permit shall abstain from wheat and wheat products in any form until the next harvest.—Herbert Hoover.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 31, 1918

Number 42

Thrift Stamp Lessons Patriots Must Learn

War Savings Committee Discusses Relation of Economy to Victory.

The national war-savings committee authorizes the following suggestions for use in classes in the upper grades of the elementary school, in domestic science, civics, and bookkeeping classes or in general assemblies in high schools:

Why should one save? In order to help win the war, of course; but saving pays you directly, for by giving up many things you do not need now you save and secure future goods that may a few years from now mean much for your success and happiness. What will a $5 war-saving stamp buy when it is paid back to you—or a number of such stamps? These stamps and the personal discipline secured by saving may make possible later a special course of training, or entrance into a skilled trade, or the opening of a store, or the securing of a farm; if you are a girl, war savings may help you to become a stenographer, a bookkeeper, a nurse, a teacher, instead of being poorly paid because you are an unskilled worker.

Don't forget that we must all save. If we go on buying as we did before the war our Government will not be able to get enough material to provide clothes, ammunition, guns, ships, food, and other necessary supplies for our Army and Navy. If we go on spending as usual our Government can not have enough men working to produce the things that are necessary to win the war. Men who work for you can not work for the Government.

How Much Should We Spend?

How much can you reasonably save and how much should you spend now? You should spend now whatever is necessary for health and for your present education, for without health and education you can not give full patriotic service later. You should certainly give some money to war relief and to other worthy causes. But can you not save for victory by spending less money for those things which are not necessary for your health or for your efficiency? Wherever you have been wasteful, whether in supplies for school work or by being careless with your clothes, or by spending for food you do not need, you can reduce your expenses and save something more.

Everyone should use the personal money plan or budget to plan ahead as to earnings and savings, and the personal account to keep a daily record of money received, saved, and spent. Such a budget and account will strengthen your will to save and the Nation's will to win.

As a patriotic service every boy and girl should learn to keep family expense accounts, so that they can help keep money records in their own families, and thus increase the family savings. Our families are already saving large sums for the Nation, but often we can save more if we keep written records of the necessary uses of money by the family, and then try to find out ways of economizing.

The Family Expenses.

What are the chief expenses of a family? First. Food, of course, meaning by that the cost of all food purchased.

Second. House expense, for the house or apartment where the family lives, whether the expense be for rent or, if the house be owned, the expense for taxes, insurance, and repairs.

Third. Housekeeping expenses or running expenses of the home, such as heat and light; supplies, like soap and brooms; wages for household help, if any; repairs to furniture, renewal of utensils, linen and the like.

Fourth. Clothing.

Fifth. Personal expenses of the individual members of the family, such as insurance, medical care, recreation, newspapers, school expenses, car fare, lunches, etc.

Sixth. Savings, including investments, new property.

Seventh. War-savings stamps.

Liberty Guard Gives Young Men Training

Which Is of Value When They Are Drafted Into the National Army.

The Military section of the State Council of Defense, of which E. M. Wilson is chairman, is now starting on the organization of its second hundred companies; the century mark having been passed last week. The section will continue the organization of companies until it is felt that the state is fully covered with this form of protection and education.

Paradoxical as it may seem the state of Indiana has no need for Liberty Guard companies, now that the state is so thoroughly covered with them. The more there are the less use is found for them on a strictly protection basis. But the development of this vast organization has revealed another and more valuable reason for the maintenance of these organizations in every community, i. e., that of educating the conscripted boys in military matters prior to his entry into the service. It has been conclusively shown that the boys who have been given preliminary training in health, disciplinary customs of the service, courtesy, school of the soldier and school of the squad are much better equipped for the rigors of camp life than the lad who has never had this preliminary insight into the game. The Military Section of the State Council is bending every effort now to extend the benefits of the Liberty Guard organization to all communities and especially invites the conscripted boy to join this semi-civic organization and get the benefit of the training that will be so useful to him in the near future.

It is hoped that the department may later on prevail upon the Government for the loan of guns in order that military training may be more completely given to the conscripted men as well as their associates in the ranks. More than 8,000 young men of Indiana are now receiving military training through this channel. They have already made the state unsafe for the disloyal man and seemingly safe for the patriot and if the conscripted youths can be advanced in their training even in the smallest way it is felt that the Liberty Guard will have accomplished great things.

Because they sold flour without requiring the purchase of an equivalent amount of wheat substitute, Luigi Viola and Francisco Ritollo, two Italian grocers at Rochester, N. Y., have been ordered to close their stores for two days.

McCray Chosen to Direct Committee

Expression Favors Compensating Farmers Who Must Store Their Wheat.

Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, Ind., was elected chairman of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation at a meeting May 24th.

Mr. McCray has been an active member of the Food Committee, and is one of the most distinguished farmers in the nation. His reputation as a breeder of Hereford cattle has given him distinction.

L. H. Wright, of Indianapolis, President of the State Grange, was elected vice-chairman.

The State Food Committee favored the idea of compensating the farmer for holding his wheat after threshing time. With the price of wheat remaining constant throughout the coming season there will undoubtedly be a large amount of wheat thrown on the market immediately following the threshing season. It is apparent that the elevator capacity of the country is not sufficient to handle the crop and the farmer who will therefore be compelled to store his wheat should be compensated for the shrinkage, insurance, interest on investment and extra labor in handling. As such a compensation is given the millers and grain dealers for holding wheat, the Food Committee believes that the farmer should be correspondingly compensated.

Silo Campaign Promises To Be Complete Success

Silo tours and meetings are being held in many Indiana counties in an effort to complete their quotas of silos before the rush of summer work. The following report has been received from Warrick County, the work being in charge of Henry Whittinghill, County Silo Leader:

"The conditions in this country are ripe for a successful campaign, since dairying is rapidly advancing and a keener interest is being shown in live stock work. In many parts of the county the pasture is not of the best quality and the need for a good feed to replace pasture in the spring and fall is being felt more keenly since the war has caused an increase in price of feed-stuffs and a spirit of conservation has been aroused.

"The quota of this county is 72, but it is our hopes that by hard work at least 100 silos can be erected. The townships are being carefully organized and a division made so that each township will receive its share of the quota."

Franklin and Johnson Counties completed their county organizations May 25th.

Silo tours were held the last week of May in Henry County, Jay County, Decatur County, and Montgomery County. A large booster meeting was held at Laporte, Indiana, May 28th. The meeting was followed by a banquet at the Rumely Hotel, with an attendance of one hundred and twenty-five. Maurice Douglass, state leader, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

Marshall County will hold a series of silo tours June 10th to 15th. Indications are that Indiana will have little difficulty in placing her quota of ten thousand silos in 1918.

I
355
I 385 cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Bartholomew County.—The Harrison Township Food Club has been completely organized under the direction of the President, Miss Jessie Rose, and the County Food Club President, Mrs. Franz Best. The meeting was held in the Central schoolhouse of Harrison Township, and much enthusiasm and interest was shown.

Cass County.—Mrs. D. C. Arthur, in completing her final report for the registration of women in Cass County, finds that a total of 10,197 women have registered. This represents an almost 100 per cent. county, a most remarkable showing.

Clinton County.—The Frankfort high schools will discontinue the teaching of German with the close of the school year. The action is in line with the Americanization program of the Indiana State Council of Defense educational section.

DeKalb County.—The complete elimination at Garrett of the study of German from the public schools was signaled by a parade of the pupils of the city schools who ended their march at the municipal flagpole, where a huge bonfire was made of the text-books. More than 1,000 books were consigned to the flames.

Fayette County.—The Fayette County Council of Defense has determined that their shall be no more loafing in Connersville. The manufacturers are taxed to capacity, and are employing every available hand, skilled men in particular being desired. So long as the press of war work is so insistent the police department has concurred in the suggestion from the County Council of Defense that every able-bodied man in Connersville must either be at work or have some reasonable excuse for not doing so. The Fayette County War Mothers held a parcel post show which netted about $60, and the money was applied to the yarn fund. Members of the organization are endeavoring to supply woolen garments for the Fayette County boys in service.

Gibson County.—Mrs. J. W. Cunningham, county leader in home demonstration work, has secured $200 by popular subscription, with which to equip and establish an office. She expects to begin the season's campaign early in June, and will devote special attention to the education of housewives in the proper conservation of perishable foodstuffs. In a meeting of the members of St. Paul's German Evangelical church, east of here, a resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote looking to the use of English in the regular services. The attendance at the meeting was the largest in the history of the church. The trustees were instructed to call a young preacher a tonce to conduct services in the English language. This congregation has been a leader in the community in Red Cross contributions, Thrift Stamp sales and Liberty Bond holdings. Its service flag already contains six stars, representing active members gone to the colors. The service flag is to be solemnly dedicated in the near future. Steps were also taken for an organization for the Red Cross drive next week.

Harrison County.—Charles L. Stevens, allo leader for Harrison County, in co-operation with the County Council of Defense, has named the following as township leaders in the campaign to increase the number of silos as a war measure: Heath, H. C. Kolb, Agriculture Superintendent, Mauckport; Blue River, R. H. Schreiber, Agriculture Superintendent, Depauw; Jackson, N. I. Chanie, Agriculture Superintendent, New Salisbury; Morgan, Clyde Martin, Palmyra; Spencer, Abe Sieg, Depauw; Franklin, John Lyskowski, Lanesville; Posey, Walter W. Clark, Elizabeth; Taylor, Clarence Colvin, Evans Landing; Boone, Harry Ashton, Davidson; Washington, R. H. Montgomery, New Amsterdam; Scott, Sam D. Breeden, Corydon, R. 4; Webster, A. L. Fogal, New Middletown.

Hendricks County.—On Monday, May 22, the barbers in the W. O. Timmons shop at Greencastle donated their proceeds to the Red Cross. Shaves ranged from $5.00 to 15 cents. Shines were from $1.00 to 10 cents. A total of $73.70 was realized.

Howard County.—Chief of Police Gross, of Kokomo, acting in response to public sentiment, has issued a decree forbidding the freedom of the streets to dogs and chickens, particularly dogs. Chief Gross has determined that war gardens shall be protected, and that the menace of the dog to the sheep industry shall be removed as far as possible from this community. People who value their dogs should keep them tied up or within bounds, the police say, as instructions have been issued to patrolmen to shoot stray dogs on sight, and especially where any risk to a war garden is involved. Al Deardorff, hotel and restaurant deputy food administrator for Howard County, has issued a warning to the proprietors of such institutions who have failed to live up to the regulations promulgated by his office. In the warning Mr. Deardorff says: "The administration has full authority to close such places indefinitely, and the deputy administrator trusts that he will not have to resort to drastic measures to effect a prompt compliance with the request." ...Thirty-six threatening outfits have been listed by Dr. J. R. Morgan, County Food Administrator. These men were called into a conference and informed of the plan of the food administration to co-operate in a wheat conservation campaign. The chairman will appoint a representative to serve with the food administrator and county agent on a committee whose business shall be to inspect all machinery, and secure replacements, where needed, of worn parts. The committee will continue its efforts in an attempt to prevent wastage of grain during the threshing season.

Jay County.—Notwithstanding the fact that Jay County was the last to "go over the top" in the third Liberty Loan campaign, the second Red Cross drive met with immediate and almost unanimous support. This county was the very first in the state to report its quota subscribed. Sunday school pupils and congregations of the several churches joined in the canvass on Sunday, and by Sunday evening had secured enough pledges to guarantee Jay County's support. On the same evening Jay County sent in its financial report on the third Liberty Loan drive showing that $500,000 worth of government securities had been distributed in this county.

Knox County.—In addition to the distinction of being the first county in the southern part of the state to distribute its full quota of the third Liberty Loan bonds—$900,000 in all—this county subscribed $56,000 against its quota of $45,000 in the Red Cross and Knights of Columbus drives on Monday, the first day of the campaign. Three thousand coal miners have agreed to contribute $1.00 a month as long as the war lasts, which means about $15,000 a month altogether from this county.

Kosciusko County.—The American Red Cross has established a training school at Winona Lake, Ind., where a complete course of instruction will be provided for students who wish to prepare themselves for either government or home work. The term will cover six weeks, July 8th to August 16th. Dr. Henry H. Everett of Chicago has been selected as president and he will also give the lectures in first aid.

Lake County.—Mayor Brown states that there will be a great many more war gardens in Hammond this year than last, as the city has already plowed over 80 lots and has requests to plow 50 more.

Newton County.—Twenty-eight names have been added to the enrollment of the United States Boys' Working Reserve since the publication of the last report. County Director W. O. Schanlaub announces that every request for farm labor has been met with promptness. Every member of the reserve reports promptly when he is out of employment, and is assigned to the first job open. Adults are also being assisted to find work in the country, and there is no serious labor shortage in this community as a consequence. Out of the total enrollment of 136 members in the various townships of this county, the records show that 118 are at present engaged in farm labor.

Noble County.—With the successful canvass of Wayne Township, Cecil Emerick, trustee, makes certain that Noble County will finally secure the services of an agricultural agent. Noble is the last county in the Twelfth District to secure the services of such an official. A demonstration efficiency agent has been at work here for some time, and the advance in increased food production and conservation made apparent the wisdom of securing an agricultural agent.

Parke County.—Excitement has prevailed in the Quaker village of Colma because of a division in the Friends Church over the right of the stars and stripes to be hung in the church. Mrs. Linus Woodward presented a silk flag to the church, which was hung, only to be taken down owing to objections of some of the congregation, who claim the religion of the church is against war. At the suggestion of the Sunshine Needle Club of the village to hang a service community flag in the church it was found impossible to do so without much contention. It is said the question will be further debated.

Scott County.—In support of J. T. Gardner, Federal Food Administrator for Scott County, the Council of Defense has issued a statement demanding that all antagonism to Mr. Gardner on account of his insistence that the food regulations be obeyed is evidence of disloyalty. The council's statement continues: "There is now no excuse for anyone being ignorant of the rulings of the Food Administration, nor the necessity for their enforcement. No one should be ignorant of the fact that Mr. Gardner, as a United States officer, is only doing his sworn duty in enforcing these rules. He has no choice, any more than a peace officer has a choice in the arrest of a murderer caught red-handed. Therefore the Scott County Council of Defense will deem any person guilty of disloyalty and of hindering the war efforts of the country, who objects to obeying the Food Administration rulings as issued by Mr. Gardner, who gives voice to personal criticism of Mr. Gardner and who boycotts, or influences others to boycott Mr. Gardner. All patriotic persons are instructed to promptly report to the defense council any violations of this order."

St. Joseph County.—At a meeting of the woman's section of the County Council of Defense in this county plans for future work were discussed, particularly as relates to child welfare work. Reports of the work accomplished were given by the following chairmen: Mrs. Thomas J. Olney, enrollment; Mrs. Amanda McCombs, food production; Miss Ada Hillier, home economics and food administration; Mrs. George O'Brien, child welfare, report given by Mrs. Forrest Hillier; Miss Lottie Peffly, women in industry; Mrs. Victor F. Jones, Liberty Loan; Mrs. George H. Mayr, home and foreign relief; Miss Maude Heath, education propaganda, and Mrs. A. J. Austin, maintaining existing social service agencies. The South Bend authorities are making a crusade on dogs and cats, in order to save war gardens. Any dog or cat, unattended by its owner, is shot by the police. Dogs and cats are held to be enemies of the war gardens and they must be exterminated as a result. Dogs with chains or straps, with the owner or keeper at the other end, are the only ones that are safe. Over 200 dogs have already been shot many cats have been killed. One day alone sixteen cats were shot by the police. The pet dog at one of the fire stations strayed away from the station and was industriously digging up a war garden when a policeman came along. A bullet put an end to the dog. ...The Child welfare campaign directed by the woman's section of the Indiana State Council of Defense was launched here May 27th to continue for a week. Nurses and physicians have offered their services free, and the directors of the Children's Dispensary will co-operate. Ward chairmen are making a house-to-house canvass for the registration and examination of children under the age of six. Ward chairmen and assistants who have charge of the work are: First Ward, Mrs. Charles Rosenbury and Mrs. H. E. Dalton; Second and Sixth wards, Mrs. Clement Smoger, Miss Rose Repczynski and Mrs. Lotens; Third Ward, Mrs. A. R. Erskine; Fourth Ward, Mrs. L. S. Fichenschier; Fifth Ward, Mrs. Herbert Smith; Seventh Ward, Mrs. Warren Studebaker, Mrs. Carl Ginz and Miss Sarah Witwer.

Sullivan County.—The County Council of Defense has called a pro-German lie to the effect that two young girls of Paxton, who registered for service under the woman's registration which has just been completed, had been ordered to France immediately as Red Cross nurses. The girls on their registration cards signified their desire of becoming nurses, but the cards have not yet been turned into state headquarters and the government could not possibly be aware of the desire expressed by the young women. The story was being widely circulated.

Tippecanoe County.—Mayor George R. Durgan, of Lafayette, has addressed a special communication to the people, urging that they support the campaign of the United States Food Administration and the Department of Agriculture for the eradication of the common and purple leaved barberry. "Every owner of these condemned plants should consider it his patriotic duty to have the same dug up and burned," the mayor says. The botany class of the Lafayette high school is making a survey of the city, assisted by the boy scouts, and are serving notice on property owners who unconsciously may be refraining from an attack on the barberry due to their ignorance of the wishes of the government or of the fact that this is the species which is outlawed.

Vanderburgh County.—The members of the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve are expected to save the local strawberry crop. Already many high school boys are engaged in this work. A request for $250 has been made to the Evansville city council for the purpose of paying necessary expenses in administering the reserves, and the request is now in the hands of the Finance Committee, with prospects of early favorable settlement.

Wabash County.—Carl Barnett, the stock dealer, residing north of the city, has made a proposition to the members of the local Red Cross and Council of Defense, which may net the Red Cross a tidy sum. Mr. Barnett agrees to pay the freight on a car of hogs, shipped from this point to Indianapolis, if the farmers of the county will contribute the porkers. Mr. Barnett will give a hog, pay the freight, arrange so that there will be no commissions to pay for their sale at the stock yards and personally attend to the shipment. His plan is to ask farmers to contribute one pig.

Warrick County.—George X. Reed, County Agricultural Agent, has arranged through his organization of exempted men for the construction of 100 large bulletin boards to be placed at advantageous points throughout the county. These boards are to be used for the dissemination of information on the production and conservation of food, and other war measures.

Wells County.—Ten district captains have supervision of the work of the Bluffton Liberty Garden Association. Acting under County Agent Harry Gray, they have located available lots and these have been assigned to citizens, who desire to cultivate their own gardens. A list of premiums has been offered by business men to be awarded at a liberty garden fair, to be held in the fall. Young men who work in factories and stores have been invited to cultivate gardens, and where they have no family to which to turn over their product, the same to be offered for the benefit of the Red Cross. W. H. Sawyer is organizing patriotic citizens into a war band. The idea is to furnish patriotic music for public gatherings during the period of the war. The use of the Elks Home has been extended to the Child Welfare Committee in its registration and examination of children under six years of age. Physicians of Bluffton have given their services free for clinics held at central points over the county.

COAL CONSUMERS MUST BUY WINTER SUPPLY NOW

Consumers must buy their winter supply of coal during the Spring and Summer for storage if production is to be maintained at a maximum and the country enabled to avoid a serious coal shortage this winter.

H. A. Garfield
U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATION

Failure to use the required amount of substitutes in bread and rolls has cost the Atlanta Baking Company, Atlanta, Georgia, $1,000. This amount has been donated to the Red Cross upon order of the Federal Food Administrator for Georgia.

Red Cross Activities

The following letter, addressed to Ambassador Page, and written by the Prime Minister of England, Lloyd George, has just been telegraphed to the Lake Division Headquarters of the American Red Cross:

"My Dear Ambassador—I feel sure that I am only echoing the thought of many in this country in writing you a word of grateful appreciation of what the American Red Cross has done in this war. Not only has it made most generous additions to funds of our own Red Cross but it is one of the first American organizations to begin to serve humanity in this war. The work it has done, not only in succoring the wounded, but in sheltering and saving women and children in all countries stricken by the war, is beyond all computation. From the moment of the massacre in Serbia its work has grown like the mustard seed until it is now one of the great humane institutions in the world. In now extending its operations to cover new responsibilities which will fall upon it through active participation of the American Army in the war, I wish it all possible success. I am sure that the resources of mercy and generosity will prove inexhaustible."

Nurses' Aids in France.

The following statement is authorized by the Red Cross:

It should be understood that the Nurses' Aids, requested from the Paris office of the Red Cross and now being sent as promptly as possible, will not be used in American army hospitals. The intention is to use them in civil work with the French population and the repatriates, and in French hospitals where Nurses' Aids have been employed since the beginning of the war. All Nurses' Aids that are to be sent over should be prepared to accept any assignment that is given them, as conditions change rapidly.

It should also be known that the women who have had only the short courses in Home Care of the Sick and First Aid, given by the Red Cross, are not eligible as Nurses' Aids without additional training. Exceptional women who meet all qualifications, especially those who speak French fluently, and who have had Elementary Hygiene and Home Care of the Sick without subsequent hospital experience, can occasionally be used by the Red Cross in rest stations, canteens, etc., as interpreters for the nurses.

Qualifications for this service follow:

- (1) Special training in hospitals recommended by the Red Cross.
- (2) Ability to speak French fluently.
- (3) Age not below twenty-five, and preferably not above thirty-five. (Passports will not be issued to women younger than twenty-five.)
- (4) Full volunteers are desired.
- (5) No brother, father, husband, or son in the service.
- (6) Good physical condition and willingness to serve wherever they may be placed for one year.

Women having all these qualifications should make application to the Department of Nursing, American Red Cross, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Owing to the unexpected demand for a large number of nurses, the enrollment campaign will begin June 3d. All plans must be hastened."

This telegram from Jane A. Delano, Director of Nursing, American Red Cross, Washington, to Miss Mary M. Roberts, Director of the Bureau of Nursing at Lake Division Headquarters, has advanced the Red Cross nurse enrolling campaign one week, as June 10th was the original date set for the campaign. Campaigns will be conducted in 160 of the Lake Division's 355 chapters. The chapters in communities with fewer than ten nurses will not be asked to campaign for nurses for the Red Cross, but they will be urged to get students for nurses' training schools. In Indiana and Kentucky all registered nurses are listed by county clerks. Miss Roberts is in communication with all county clerks in Indiana in order to tabulate all available material. Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are asked to furnish 1,700 nurses.

Committee on Construction

The following report was adopted, without debate, at the meeting of the Indiana State Council of Defense, May 29th:

Indianapolis, Indiana, May 29th, 1918.

State Council of Defense, State House, Indianapolis:

Your Committee on Proposed Construction submits the following report:

1. The committee recommends that the council approve the letter of May 27th from the council's chairman to Mr. Will F. White of Muncie, regarding four gravel roads in Delaware County.
2. The committee recommends that the council recommend that the construction by Vanderburgh County of a hospital for those afflicted with tuberculosis be postponed.
3. The committee recommends that the council concur in the recommendation of the Tipton County Council of Defense that a new school building at Kempton be not begun at this time.
4. The committee recommends that the council advise that the proposed Wallace road in Clinton County be not begun at this time, unless Mr. E. M. Wilson shall, after investigation of the road and conference with the Clinton County Council of Defense, wish that the subject be further considered by this committee.

5. The committee recommends that the council concur in the recommendation of the Bartholomew County Council of Defense that the construction of the Cooper-Fear Highways be deferred until after the war.

6. The committee, understanding that the advocacy of the construction of a new court house for Spencer County has been withdrawn, recommends that the subject be not given further consideration unless such consideration shall be asked by citizens of that county.

7. The committee recommends that the council concur in the recommendation of the Vermillion County Council of Defense that no objection be offered to the construction of an annex sufficient only to care adequately for the present high school population.

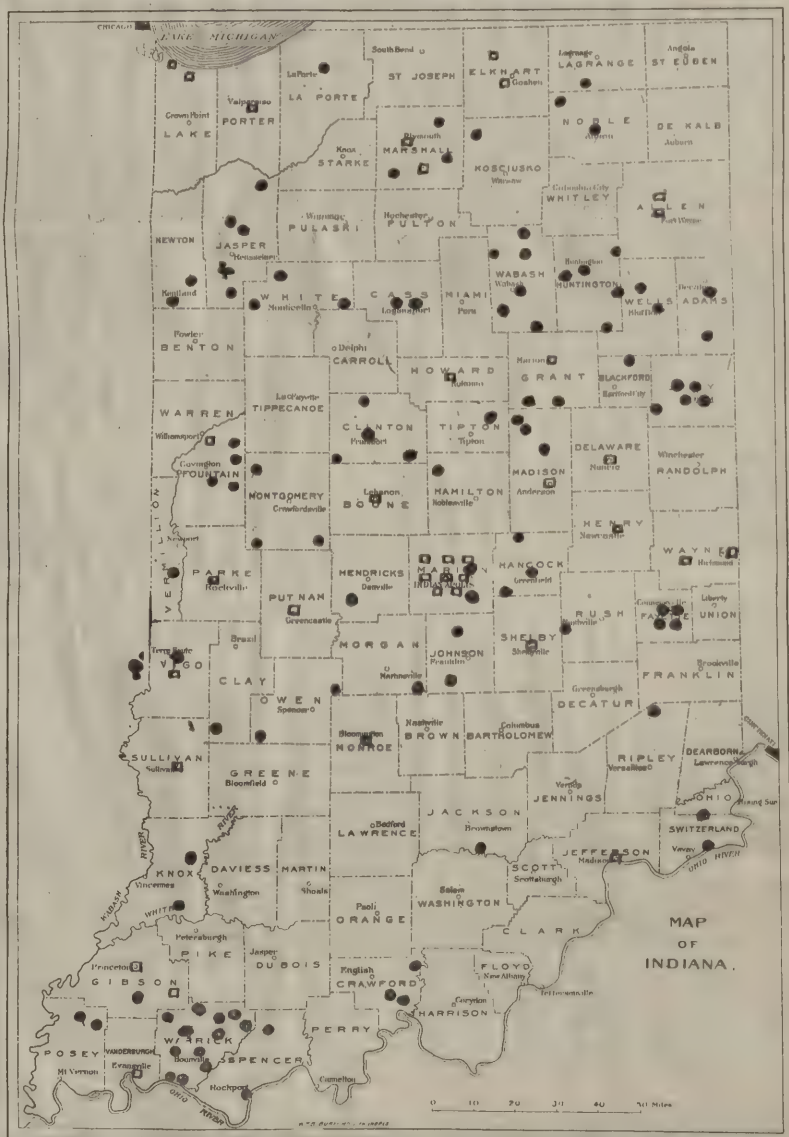

8. The committee recommends that the council, having already approved the construction of the Pendleton Pike in Marion County, take no action as to the means that should be adopted by the local authorities in securing the construction.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) EVANS WOOLLEN.
GEORGE ADE.
CHARLES FOX.
E. M. WILSON.
J. L. KEACH.

This is your first chance to defend the flag—go the limit.

Military Units in Indiana, May 30, 1918

The squares indicate the locations of the 36 military companies of the state; the round dots show the locations of the 100 Liberty Guard companies.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 42

Attention, County Councils

General Bulletin No. 148.

May 23, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

The Alien Property Custodian is endeavoring to locate all property in the United States owned by "enemies" or "allies of enemies" and is requesting the aid of the State, County and Township Councils in locating such property.

The term "enemy" as here used includes every person now living within, and every company incorporated within Germany, Austria-Hungary, and all territory occupied by the armed forces of the Central powers. Similarly the term "ally of enemy" includes every person now living within, and every company incorporated within any of the allies of Germany and Austria-Hungary. Residence, and not citizenship, is the determining factor. Germans, Austro-Hungarians, Turks, etc., residing in the United States are not by reason of their nationality considered "enemies" or "allies of enemies". Germans and Austro-Hungarians held in the custody of the War Department are included within the term "enemy". Americans residing in Germany or Austria-Hungary, or in the territory occupied by their forces, are included within the term "enemy"; and Americans in Bulgaria or Turkey or in territory occupied by their forces are included in the term "ally of enemy".

Enemy-owned property includes all kinds of property, tangible or intangible, money, chattels, securities, lands, accounts receivable, etc., belonging to an enemy. If the property is held in the name of another—by a dummy or in trust—it is enemy property, provided the beneficial interests belong to an enemy.

We therefore urge immediate action, as follows:

1. That you collect through your Township Councils and other agencies, the fullest possible information concerning all enemy-owned property within your County;
2. That as fast as information, even though unverified, concerning enemy property is received, you transmit it to the State Council of Defense.
3. That you notify us if you find no enemy property in your county.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

General Bulletin No. 147.

May 24, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

Indiana is one of the states in which the United States Food Administration is inaugurating a campaign to check the waste in wheat in threshing operations, chiefly through securing the repair and more careful use of threshing machinery. The State Council and its subsidiary organizations is asked to participate in the organization which will be created to conduct this campaign.

The campaign is an important one. The best estimates put the loss of wheat in threshing at 3 per cent.; sometimes it runs as high as 10 per cent. Always serious, this wastage becomes intolerable at a time when our wheat supply is a crucial factor in the war.

The plan of the United States Food Administration involves:

1. Intensive educational measures with farmers and threshermen;
2. Assistance to farmers in the repair and use of machinery, and where necessary, its purchase.

The organization through which the campaign will be conducted will be as follows:

1. Its general direction will be in the hands of the Grain Threshing Division of the Grain Corporation, U. S. Food Administration;
- a. This Division will act in the States through the Federal Food Administrators;
- b. For the purpose of the campaign, this Division will maintain several "deputies", each assigned to a group of States, who will act as advisors to the Federal Food Administrators of these States.
2. The Division will maintain several "threshermen's assistants" in each State, with practical knowledge of threshing machinery, who, at the call of the committees mentioned below, will travel about to consult with owners of machinery.
3. A Committee will be constituted in each wheat-growing county, to have the actual charge of an intensive campaign. Each Committee will consist of:
  - a. The County Agent (or other representative of the Agricultural Extension Service.)
  - b. The County representative of the U. S. Food Administration (if any).
  - c. A man designated by the County Council of Defense.

Will you therefore after consultation with your County Food administrator, appoint a retired farmer-thresherman, who will have practical knowledge and at the same time more leisure than an active farmer, to immediately get in touch with the other members of this committee and represent the County Council on it. The success of the campaign in your County will depend in a large part upon the person you select to represent the County Council.

Further details of this campaign will be forwarded to you later. In the meantime, please advise us of the action taken pursuant to this Bulletin.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

General Bulletin No. 150.

May 27, 1918.

To Council Councils of Defense:

The State Conscription Agent has requested us to ask the county councils of defense to assist in bringing to the attention of all young men who have become twenty-one years of age since June 5, 1917, the necessity for registering at the office of the Local Exemption Board having jurisdiction of the area wherein they permanently reside, or such other place as shall by public notice be designated by said board, between 7:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m. on June 5, next.

Those young men who are temporarily away from home should be advised to go to the nearest exemption board and there have their registration cards made out and certified. This should be done enough days in advance of June 5 to permit their registration cards to be mailed to their own local boards in time to reach such boards on or before June 5th.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

General Bulletin No. 153.

May 28, 1918.

To County Councils of Defense:

We enclose herewith a communication addressed to you by the State Librarian. You will agree that the program suggested in this communication is worthy of your best efforts, and we therefore urge you to take all necessary steps to collect and deliver to the libraries all available exhibits of your county's war activities.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE.

To the Chairman of the County Council of Defense:

As custodians of the archives and history of the State of Indiana, we have a very important request to make of you. Will you not save for your own county and for Indiana all material that relates to the part which your community is taking in this world crisis which is the most stupendous struggle in the history of mankind? Historical material for your county is lacking for the Civil War period. Now, while the struggle is on and before the material is lost is the time to collect for this war.

The State Library is saving all communications from the State Council of Defense and material of state-wide interest. We ask you simply to lay aside two copies of every communication, every poster, every program, every photograph, etc., which has any bearing upon your community and the war. Stack this material and from time to time turn it over to your local librarian who will send one set to the State Library and keep the other set for the local library. Where there is no library, please send the material directly to the State Library.

Kinds of Material to Be Saved.

ORGANIZATIONS.

Every record, official report, resolution, proclamation, absolutely every communication, relating in any way to the part your community is taking in the war, issued by the following organizations:

County council of defense.
Local governing boards (town, city, county).
Red Cross society (knitting clubs, relief clubs).
Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. committees.
Liberty Loan committees.
War chest committees.
"Library books for soldiers" committees.
Lodge (Masonic, Knights of Columbus, etc.).
Clubs and societies.
Labor unions.
Patriotic garden association.
Chamber of commerce.
Libraries.
Churches.
Schools, (different forms of war work and adaptation of curriculum to the war conditions, study of German, etc.).

Public meetings, (programs, handbills, resolutions, addresses, etc.).

MILITARY MATERIAL.

Keep the name and address with company, regiment, and rank of every man from your county or community who enters the military or naval service. (Note: The adjutant general's office is preparing an alphabetical list of Indiana's soldiers, but this list will not show the record of your community by itself.)

Keep the lists of registered men in your county. Keep the names and addresses of your Red Cross nurses.

Preserve the honor rolls kept by different organizations, such as churches, schools, etc.

Procure all the letters and diaries of local men and women in the service.

ECONOMIC AND INDUSTRIAL MATERIAL.

Price lists, advertisements, financial statements of local firms and factories.

PHOTOGRAPHIC MATERIAL.

Every picture connected in any way with your community and the war. (Caution: See that each picture is clearly marked as to subject and date.)

POSTERS.

Those of local interest whether done by hand or printed; placards used in street cars, handbills, etc.

DEMARCHUS C. BROWN,

Librarian.

HARLOW LINDLEY,

Director, Department of Indiana History and Archives.

If you live in a boarding house, why not beg or borrow a vacant lot and get up a team to dig up a garden instead of "knocking up flies." That would help you, help the landlady, and help win the war.

Exempted Men Join Patriotic Workers

Committee on Military Affairs Indorses Voluntary Organization Plan.

County councils of defense are urged by the Committee on Americanization, of the Indiana State Council of Defense, to make special preparations for an appropriate observance of Independence day, July 4. The address prepared by this committee, approved by the State Council, and distributed to the county councils, appears elsewhere in this Bulletin.

E. M. Wilson, reporting for the Committee on Military Affairs, approved the plan of organizing men of draft age who are exempted from service in the army, for the purpose of furthering patriotic agricultural work. Mr. Wilson said the project also had the indorsement of Major Robert Baltzell, state conscription agent, and Adjutant General Harry B. Smith. The approval of the council was given the plan of urging county councils to promote such organization, after an amendment offered by Evans Woollen that county councils be at pains to make it clear that this movement should be purely voluntary. T. A. Coleman, who with Earl Crawford, originally reported on the plan, informed the council there are now fifteen county wide organizations of exempted men, with twenty additional in process.

A resolution offered by J. L. Keach expressing the disapproval of the council in reference to charges for clerical services rendered soldiers' dependents, was adopted by the council. This appears elsewhere in the Bulletin. In this same connection, a motion was made by Charles Fox that it be the sense of the council that in all cases where members of the State Council or of the county councils are known to have accepted fees for services to soldiers' dependents, the judge, or responsible source of the appointment of such member, be requested to remove them. This motion prevailed after Mr. Irwin's motion to amend to make exception in cases where litigation actually may be necessary, was defeated.

W. C. DeMiller, State labor director, representing the United States employment service, and Ross Lockridge, associate director, the latter an appointee of the Council, expressed their appreciation of the sympathetic support that had been given, and stated their purpose to extend the employment service to include branches in the principal cities of the State, and later into the counties. Mr. DeMiller promised a more detailed statement of plans and policies at a later meeting.

The Council discussed the request of A. E. Reynolds for an expression of its attitude on the subject of providing storage facilities for the vast quantities of wheat that will be raised and harvested in Indiana this year. Mr. Reynolds stated that the total storage capacity of elevators in the State is approximately 8,000,000 bushels, and the prospects were for a yield of 50,000,000 bushels. He stated the railroad facilities would be entirely inadequate to take care of this surplus, and the farmer should not be discouraged after he has been induced to produce the grain. It was Mr. Reynold's opinion that the Council voice the position of the Indiana financial institutions and railroad representatives, upon whom, he said, the burden of responsibility probably will fall. The Council disposed of the suggestion by adopting a motion that county councils advise with farmers, that the latter prepare storage facilities in anticipation of the situation described.

Hays H. Buskirk, assistant State director of the United State Public Service Reserve, reported that the Federal Government survey had disclosed the need of 150,000 laborers. He said the situation in Indiana indicates that the counties probably will be able to care for themselves, but there is no surplus. He described the steps taken to form a farm labor reserve after the plan adopted and found successful in Huntington County.

At the suggestion of J. L. Keach, the Logal Committee of the State Council was authorized to act with similar committees of the county councils of the State in an effort to locate property owned by alien enemies. This is in conformity with a recent request made by the Council of National Defense, representing the Federal Custodian of Alien Property.

Mr. Reynold's suggestion that the county councils be urged to encourage wherever possible the use of motor trucks, was indorsed.

Profiteering

(By Herbert Hoover.)

No person in the United States has a right to make one cent more profit out of any employment than he would have made under pre-war conditions.

I do not care whether this refers to the farmer, to the laborer, to the manufacturer, to the middleman or to the retailer. Every cent taken beyond this standard is money abstracted from the blood and sacrifice of the American people.

Extortionate profits are not necessary to secure the maximum effort on the part of the American people in this war. If we are going to adopt that theory, we have admitted everything that has been charged against us of being the most materialistic, the most avaricious, and the most venal of people in this world.

If we are going to admit that the government, in order to secure the supreme effort of its citizens in production, must bribe them with money to this extra exertion, we have admitted a weakness of American character, of American civilization and of American ideals that puts us on a plane below German Kultur.

Do not mistake that I am saying that prices and wages should return to the pre-war normal, because the incidence of war before we joined in it had lifted our costs of operation, and there must be compensation in every direction.

Nevertheless, I hold that any man who has made more than his necessary living out of the cost this nation is giving in the blood of the boys we are sending to France, should not stand out as a benefactor to his community.

Third Rural Church Conference June 3, 4 and 5

The third rural church conference will be held June 3d, 4th and 5th at Lafayette, Ind., under the auspices of Purdue University, in co-operation with the Indiana Church Federation.

M. E. Foley, Chairman of the State Council of Defense, will speak on Indiana's part in the war. Rev. A. B. Philpott, member of the State Council, will speak on "The Church and War Time Morals and Religion." G. I. Christie, State Food Director, who is assisting Secretary Houston, will give an address entitled, "Enlisting the Church in the Drive for Food."

"The Church and the Boys' Working Reserve" will be discussed by Dr. G. L. McIntosh, President of Wabash College. Many other prominent speakers will take part in the three-day program. Advance reservations indicate the largest crowd in the history of the conference.

Food Administration

The United States Food Administration has prepared a statement showing the actual exports of wheat and wheat products from July 1, 1917, to May 1, 1918, to have been 110,000,000 bushels. The actual exportable surplus from the 1917 harvest had consumption been normal, is estimated at from 10,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels. In April 1918 there were 359,058,000 pounds of beef and pork products sent to the army and civilians in Europe. In April 1917 the exports of beef and pork products totaled 161,000,000 pounds. In April 1914 these figures totaled 43,700,000. The total exports of meat products therefore, in 1918, were 220 per cent. of those for the same month in 1917, and about 830 per cent. of April 1914, which was a normal year.

A discriminatory order has been issued against M. R. Kime & Co. of Pennville, Jay County, by the United States Food Administration. Kime & Company are hucksters, who have been violating the regulations requiring the sale of wheat flour substitutes on a fifty-fifty basis. They are also alleged to have sold sugar in violation of the food administration order.

A schedule of maximum margins of profit to be permitted on certain licensed articles, has been prepared by the division of enforcement of the U. S. food administration, and distributed among licensees.

The Wurz Grocery Company of Mishawaka, have been ordered to close their doors for the period of May 27 to June 1 inclusive, by Dr. Barnard. A hearing developed the confession from Frank Wurz, manager of the firm, that he had sold eight customers 100 pounds of sugar each, in violation of the food regulations.

Lay-in-the-Coal Week.

The Indiana county councils of defense have been notified of the proclamation of Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield making June 3-8 "Lay-in-the-Coal Week." Evans Woollen, Federal Fuel Administrator for Indiana, is appealing to all householders who have failed to make provision for their next winter's fuel supply, to do so within the period named.

For selling sugar and flour in excessive quantities and for violating the "50-50" rule, Max Awrach, proprietor of a cash grocery at San Antonio, Texas, has been made to donate $250 to the Red Cross Society.

The treatment of interned Germans in the United States is an effort being used by German propagandists in an effort to create unrest among the American people. The Food Administration, however, officially denies rumor that German prisoners are being prodigally fed on bread pastries and cakes made entirely of wheat. The Germans interned in American detention camps, while well fed, are being made to observe all rules and regulations of the Food Administration. The military prisoners—prisoners of war—receive the regular garrison ration of the United States Army. This is according to the Hague Convention.

Registration Day, June 5, 1918

Wednesday, June 5th, will be military registration day for all young men in the United States who have become of age since June 5th, 1917, or who will have attained their 21st birthday by June 5th, 1918.

The only men exempt from registration are the officers and enlisted men already in the Naval and Military service.

By order of the President all males, whether citizens or residents, of this country, must present themselves at the registration places designated in their community for registration.

Provisions are made for registration by mail for those who expect to be absent on registration day.

Those unable to present themselves on account of sickness should report this fact to their local draft board.

Woman's Section

Bulletin No. 63.

My Dear Child Welfare Chairmen:

It was a great joy to meet those of you who came to our unique and valuable conference. Miss Lathrop was delighted with it, and with the work in Indiana.

We planned to have as many experts, on different phases of child life, as possible at the conference. This took away our time of social meeting. I was sorry that my duties made it impossible for me to have a long personal talk with every chairman, and to have a longer joint meeting of chairmen.

I was delighted by the reports that were brought in. Our women are showing a splendid spirit, and if all of our counties go ahead, as some have done, I believe Indiana will lead the Union in this work.

The work already done in some counties, following up the examinations, to cure defects found, proves the value of the baby test. Without a doubt, it will mean the saving of many, many precious little lives.

I have been asked to issue a bulletin giving minute details of the baby tests, since we cannot get leaflets to give to each worker, or even to each team.

To those of you who have completed, or nearly completed your work, this will be unnecessary. But we have not yet had reports from the counties, and do not know all that have finished. Besides, I want to get this word to all: Before you make up your packages of cards to send to Washington, count them carefully, and send me the number of children you have registered. Also please separate the cards of the children that "pass" the test, and send me the number that pass.

If any chairman whose work has been delayed will hunt up my earlier bulletins they will be found to ask that the townships be organized, with a strong executive committee in each. Then that a team be appointed to do the actual work of the baby test, in each school district. Judge for yourself how many committees you need. Townships differ, as some have more schoolhouses than others. Only be sure that your township committee sees to it that the work is properly done in each school district.

While publicity is one of the first steps, to get the interest of the community, the preliminary steps can all be going forward while you do your publicity work. The first thing is to get strong, effective, interested committees who are anxious to save the lives of the children, anxious to serve their State and nation, anxious to have their county take a high rank. Then comes the enrollment of the children under six, preliminary to gathering them together for the test. Get the list any way you can, so that way is effective. In some counties the schoolship trustees enumerated and listed all children under six, as well as over six. In other counties the block system was used, taking the same machinery used for Liberty Loan, woman's registration, etc. In rural townships teachers gathered the names of younger children from their schools or from Sunday-schools. The only important thing is: see that no child is missed, for it may be the very child that needs help most, the child that would make the most valuable citizen.

The schoolhouse plan has worked finely in almost all of the counties. Many of them have already held schoolhouse clinics, with other features that instruct, interest and draw out the mothers. Whatever difficulties seem to loom up, the actual baby test seems to have worked out without any trouble, and is much simpler than it sounds.

Whatever means can be devised to make the women want to bring their children to be tested, and to arouse their enthusiasm, should be tried. If a picnic dinner will help, in the country, try that. If they can be gathered up in autos, or other vehicles, do that. Have music, recitations, or some treat. Perhaps a stereopticon can be used, or a band brought from the city. Perhaps a child welfare exhibit can be procured.

Announcements should be made in rural churches and Sunday-schools. Telephones should be used, dividing the work among many, to make it light.

The doctors and nurses of every community should be enlisted early in the campaign. As a rule the doctors of the State are responding nobly. Make them feel, if they say they are "too busy," that they are drafted, that life saving is their job, first of all. We do not want to appeal to any lower motive, but few doctors refuse medical or surgical cases, and they get many such cases as the result of the tests when defects are discovered. But we must give the doctors credit for being as patriotic as we are, and we acknowledge gladly the splendid work done by them in most of the counties.

When you are ready to begin the test be sure that the following things have been seen to:

1. All the township chairmen should have been called together and instructed as to how the clinic should be conducted.

2. The township chairmen should call their teams together, and see that they are instructed just how the test should be conducted.

3. The "team" for each school district (or testing district) should be completely organized. It should consist of a doctor, a nurse (both if possible), a clerical assistant, and five or six neighborhood women to assist.

4. The executive committee, or the manager of the team, should see that proper arrangements have been made to open the schoolhouse at the time set; that it shall be clean; that all necessary equipment is there. There should be a special committee to see to the equipment. The equipment found most satisfactory is a common deal table, on which the babies are measured. At one end is nailed a strip of wood, for a head board. A tape line is nailed to it, and when the baby is laid flat on the table, and his knees flattened out, the line can be quickly drawn down beside him. A book or block put against his feet will help to get his length. Be sure to put a folded quilt or pad on the table and a rubber or oilcloth piece over it, on which to lay the children. Then do not forget to lay a clean sheet of paper, or a towel, under each child. This is to prevent infection. All children should be measured without shoes. Children able to stand may be measured against the wall, standing on the floor. Children under five should be undressed and weighed without clothing or wrapped in a thin sheet or towel, the weight of which is deducted. Children over five should be weighed in their ordinary indoor clothing. Young babies, unable to stand, should be weighed, if possible, on scales equipped with a scale pan. A fresh paper towel should be laid in the pan and changed after each child is weighed. Older children should be weighed on platform scales.

The good judgment of the committee will show them whatever other equipment is needed. Screens may be needed to shut off a corner where children may be undressed. The children's throats should be examined, and tongue depressants cannot be used twice. It will do if every mother brings a big spoon and a towel, also a sheet or little blanket for her own baby. But some should be provided, so that none are lacking.

Water and towels will be needed, also a clinic thermometer. It should be cleaned each time it is used.

5. The executive committee should see to it that arrangements are made to bring mothers who have far to come and have no conveyance.

6. Have a committee to see that lunch is provided for any who will need it, and provision made for the children's wants.

7. Be sure that publicity has been given to the time and place of the clinic. A good publicity committee is valuable.

If all the above things have been seen to, if your list of children is complete, and you are ready to begin, see that the person to be held responsible for each clinic will be on hand with the entire team. Publish by papers, phone, announcement (depending on locality), the names of the children to be tested on a certain day. In rural school districts perhaps all the children under six may be tested on one day. If not, divide the families.

It is a good plan, in a city, to take all children whose names begin with the letters from A to E, etc., on one day. In cities six, ten or more schoolhouses may be open as testing places on one day. Two things are desirable in a clinic: to avoid contagion and to avoid confusion. The children should be handled as quietly as possible and as quickly. The more thorough examination the doctors can make of each child, the more valuable will be the test, and the more babies' lives you are apt to save. The weighing and measuring will show whether the child is of normal weight and height. If much below, the child's health needs careful attention. In clinics already held, grave spinal and other troubles have been discovered. To the doctor's eye the appearance of the breast bone, of skin, glands, abdomen, etc., each tells its story. That is why it is important to strip the child and that is why it is important to have a doctor. If the doctor will examine for bad tonsils, adenoids, bad teeth, etc., great good will be done. Irregular heart action should be noted, and all trouble and defects that are detected. Children that cannot be brought should be examined at home, or, later, at the doctor's office.

A talk on child hygiene, by the doctor or trained nurse, on baby food and infant care in general, would add greatly to the value of the clinic. Let me advise that all counties that have delayed this work make a strong effort to get it out of the way before hot weather comes. It may save many baby lives, for June is hard on babies. With concerted action, most of the townships can be finished in one week. Towns and cities will take longer. But you have helped with all the other campaigns, so now ask the help of all committees to finish this work, which has been pushed aside for everything else. Do not hesitate to ask help from other counties that have finished their work. Have a "Neighbor Day," and invite them over. This is our last lap. Let us give a hard pull and get it over.

The reason it has been necessary to write out all these instructions, at this time, is because I am told that our county chairmen have not received the leaflets I have repeatedly ordered from Washington. Some have received a limited number, none have enough, some have none. I have no way of learning who has any.

The failure to obtain baby blanks and leaflets has been a very distressing feature of our work, but in this we share alike with registration and other committees. No one is to blame. Washington is flooded with mail, the government presses are congested, and even army supplies are behind. We cannot, then, complain, but must patiently bear this as we do the other burdens of war. Again I want to commend the splendid spirit of our women, who have had to be held back, when ready to do their work. It has doubled my own work, to say the least.

Because of the uncertainty as to who has leaflets, I suggest that any county wishing to conduct a children's health conference shall write to the Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the pamphlet, "How to Conduct a Children's Health Conference."

It is our purpose to encourage health conferences in all the counties that will have them. A district conference would be valuable, in which any group of neighboring counties could hold such a conference together, bringing some of our state experts on various phases of child welfare. I will be glad to suggest or help arrange a program for such conferences. The best workers and experts of your district can be called in, or other speakers brought. County fairs might well have a child welfare feature.

Write to National Child Welfare Association, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, for exhibits, etc.

With sincere appreciation of all your difficulties, for I share them, and of your earnest efforts, I am,

Very cordially,
ALBION FELLOWS BACON,
Chairman Child Welfare, Indiana
State Council of Defense.

Raise a freight-saving, year-around, cellar-and-pit garden.

Don't worry about wheatless day and wheatless deals. Take the total abstainer's pledge and cut it out altogether, as thousands of patriotic Marylanders have already done.

Independence Day Newly Significant

Americanization Committee Would Have Every Community Make Proper Recognition.

The following resolution, calling attention to the enlarged significance of Independence Day, July 4th, 1918, prepared by the Americanization Committee, was adopted by the Indiana State Council of Defense May 29th. It is being distributed to county councils of the State, who are expected to see that its intent is translated into appropriate recognition of the occasion:

Whereas, Representatives of nearly every element of the foreign-born citizenship recently petitioned President Wilson asking the entire country to join with them in a great demonstration on the Fourth of July of loyalty to the United States and the causes for which it is fighting, and

Whereas, The President has made this reply addressed to "Our Citizens of Foreign Extraction,"

"I have read with great sympathy the petition addressed to me by your representative bodies regarding your proposed celebration of Independence Day, and I wish to convey to you, in reply, my heartfelt appreciation for its expressions of loyalty and good will.

"Nothing in this war has been more gratifying than the manner in which our foreign-born fellow citizens and the sons and daughters of the foreign-born have risen to this greatest of all national emergencies. You have shown where you stand not only by your eager response to calls for patriotic service, including the supreme service of offering life itself in battle for justice, freedom and democracy. Before such devotion as you have shown all distinctions of race vanish; and we feel ourselves citizens in a republic of free spirits.

"I, therefore, take pleasure in calling your petition with my hearty commendation, to the attention of all my fellow countrymen, and I ask that they unite with you in making the Independence day of this, the year when all the principles to which we stand pledged are on trial, the most significant in our national history.

"As July 4, 1776, was the dawn of democracy for this nation, let us on July 4, 1918, celebrate the birth of a new and greater spirit of democracy by whose influence we hope and believe, what the signers of the Declaration of Independence dreamed of for themselves and their fellow countrymen shall be fulfilled for all mankind."

Therefore in response to this appeal, the State Council of Defense calls the attention of the people of Indiana to this most important and patriotic duty and urges that every community make preparations at once for such an observance of our national anniversary as will arouse our patriotism and cement the ties of our common citizenship. Let there be no neglect at this critical period to take advantage of such an opportunity to show the world, especially the unscrupulous and brutal foe who tries to create the contrary impression, that America is wholehearted and in deadly earnest in waging war that German militarism may be wiped out and the rule of the people be established everywhere.

The State Council asks the members of the county councils of defense to take immediate charge of this work and form such organizations in their various districts as are necessary to securing great outpourings of the people on that day, with exercises that will stimulate patriotism and create a clearer understanding of the necessity for maintaining public opinion and universal action.

Especially do we emphasize the importance of the President's wish that this be done in thorough accord and co-operation with our foreign-born citizens, that they may realize as never before the one common bond and obligation of citizenship. Let it be a great day for all, a day in which all, native-born and foreign-born, may have a more vivid and enduring conception of what this great democratic country stands for and what it means for the poor and oppressed peoples of the earth.

Action must not be delayed if the accomplishment is to be worthy of the object. The time is short, and movement should be rapid.

Threshermen Will Help.

Resolutions pledging support to the conservation program of the Threshing Division of the United States Food Administration were adopted with enthusiasm by more than 500 representative threshermen and farmers, who gathered Monday in the House of Representatives, State House, to hear first-handed the federal plans.

The farmers and threshermen provided a census of their machinery and of the repairs needed for making the machine efficient. This census will be used by the inspection department of the Threshing Division, to secure the repair and replacement of worn and defective machinery, preliminary to the opening of the threshing season.

The meeting also agreed to co-operate in the furtherance of the educational campaign which has for its object the saving of the vast quantities of wheat lost through careless handling, untimely threshing, etc.

Conservation of Wheat Still More Imperative

Reports which have in the last few days gained wide circulation to the effect that there is no necessity for further conservation of wheat even with the United States supplying the demands of the Allies of Europe are given an emphatic denial by Herbert Hoover in a telegram received today by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana. Mr. Hoover states very insistently that no statement of an official character has ever been issued or authorized that would indicate there has been even the slightest justification for abandoning any further effort toward conserving wheat. "The actual position is that our supplies until the next harvest allow for home consumption of approximately one-third of normal if we are to maintain the Allies' supply," said Mr. Hoover's wire. Continuing, it says, "In the hands of the farmers and in storage we had at the beginning of May 75,000,000 bushels of wheat to carry us for approximately three months, or with an early harvest for perhaps two weeks shorter period. Our normal consumption for three months would be 120,000,000 bushels, not allowing anything for the Allies."

Why Labor Backs This War.

(By George W. Perkins, President Cigar Makers' International Union.)

Why is American organized labor so unanimously supporting the Government in its war to a finish against autocracy?

If all of you who read this article had been with me in Germany the year before the great war broke out you would have no need to ask. You would have seen, as I saw, autocracy at work, intimidating and coercing labor, spying on it, policing its meetings, suppressing free speech. When all these methods failed, you would have seen, as I saw, autocracy trying to corrupt labor, misleading it by insidious propaganda, seeking to raise up false leaders, and using the power of money and influence to debauch those who seek to mitigate the condition of the workers.

You would have returned, as I did, thankful to be permitted to live in a land of freedom and democracy, and resolved, as I was, if ever our liberties were menaced by the powers of autocracy, to fight to the death; to work to the limit; to make every sacrifice, and to accept no compromise until autocracy, such as is typified by the present German government, is defeated in a finish fight and the militarism which keeps it in power is crushed forever from the face of the earth.

Woman Power of Cass Shown in Registration

Many Skilled Workers Listed Who Are Willing to Do Nation's Bidding.

Cass County's report of the registration of women, just filed with the Woman's Section of the Indiana State Council of Defense at the State House, shows two hundred and twenty-two trained women workers in dairying, with eighteen untrained; four hundred and ninety trained in gardening, six hundred and fifty-four office assistants, registered as trained workers, with a scattering of trained workers in such varied employments as stock raising, shipping clerk, practical nurse, factory workers in many lines, basket makers, chemists, dietitians, laboratory workers, photographers, pharmacists, one X-Ray operator, six trained railroad workers, many trained in social service to offset six thousand five hundred and twenty-three women who declare themselves trained housekeepers and one hundred and twelve untrained housekeepers.

The X-Ray operator, it is interesting to note, is a colored woman, a doctor's assistant, whom the doctor has recommended for service in France.

Twenty-eight different employments are listed. Ten thousand two hundred women registered in this county, seventy-one refused to register, and thirty failed to register on account of illness or other reasons.

The registration card offered a list of contributions, and to these, the women of Cass County responded with an offer of one ambulance, six drivers for car, one duplicating machine, thirty-six offers of funds, two offers of homes for convalescent hospitals, and twenty-three offers to share home with war widows and children.

Women Wanted For Sixty Different Tasks

The United States Civil Service Commission has issued the following:

More and more, as the war program progresses, is the government depending upon women to perform the tremendously increased volume of work in the civil branches. The force of civilian employes in Washington, D. C., increased from 30,000 to approximately 70,000 during the first year of our participation in the war. Of this increase of 40,000 more than 25,000 are women. Women make up the increase in government offices and establishments outside of Washington in less proportion, for the reason that the greatest expansion in the field has been in the large manufacturing plants of the War and Navy Departments, where thousands of mechanics and laborers are employed in shipbuilding and in manufacturing ordnance and other war material. Women are not available for employment in trades positions to any great extent, but their services are being utilized in every way that is practicable.

The United States Civil Service Commission is calling for women for government work of not less than sixty different kinds. The list includes stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, other clerks of a score or more of classifications which require training in some special or technical line, statisticians, operators of various kinds of calculating, addressing, and duplicating machines, proofreaders, law clerks, welfare executive secretaries, draftsmen of a dozen kinds, telegraph and telephone operators, trained nurses, chemists, physicists, library assistants, inspectors of undergarments, finger-print classifiers, and many others.

The commission urges women to offer their services to the government at this time of great need. As men are called to the colors, women must take their places and keep the machinery behind the armed forces moving at the maximum of efficiency. Representatives of the Civil Service Commission at the postoffices in all important cities are prepared to furnish finite information and application blanks.

More and Better Crop Of Wheat in Indiana

Program Includes Concerted Effort by Organization Covering Entire State.

Plans for a gigantic campaign for "More and Better Wheat" in Indiana were formulated May 24th by the Wheat division of the State Food committee, at the Board of Trade Building, Indianapolis. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation and was attended by representatives of Purdue university, the State Food committee, Indiana Grand Dealers' association, Millers' association, Bankers' association, and fertilizer manufacturers. Three to five delegates from each of these organizations constituted the permanent wheat committee appointed at the outbreak of the war.

The appointment of D. S. Myer, as State leader of the Wheat campaign was approved, and the various organizations, through their representatives, pledged their unqualified support to the State Food Committee and Purdue university in carrying out the program.

The State Leader outlined in detail plans for saving the wheat grown in 1918, and for increasing the production with the present acreage. The plan provides for a division of the State into ten districts with a district leader in charge of each. County leaders, under this plan, may be county agents, emergency demonstration agents, the chairman of the county council of defense, or any other local leader. Following this appointment the county leader will appoint a township head. It is suggested that the local threshing ring be the local community organization aiding the plans, and that the captain of each ring be the leader. Purdue will provide speakers through the State Food Committee to local community meetings where possible and will further assist by publishing a revision of the pamphlet entitled "More and Better Wheat for Indiana" in addition to timely articles and publicity material, until every wheat producer is supplied with information showing the advantage of greater production both to himself and to the State.

The storage of wheat after threshing demanded considerable attention. C. B. Riley was asked by the committee to prepare a resolution covering the sense of their discussion, copies of which should go to the Food Administration and the United States Grand Corporations. This resolution follows:

Whereas, The farmers of the United States have responded to the request of the Government and increased their wheat acreage and will shortly harvest a very promising crop, and

Whereas, The Government as a war measure has, by Act of Congress and the President's Proclamation, fixed the maximum price to be paid for the 1918 crop at certain basic points, which will preclude the possibility of any advance in price and likely cause universal selling or tendering the same for sale at threshing time, and

Whereas, The prospects for an extra large crop were never better, and the storage capacity of elevators, warehouses and mills of the State is limited, and the railroad transportation of the country is seriously embarrassed by want of sufficient cars and equipment, that it will be impossible to promptly ship the same, hence impossible for elevators and mills to receive, store, transport, finance and handle more than a small per cent of this wheat direct from the threshing fields, and

Whereas, It has always been the custom for a large per cent of the farmers to store at home and otherwise provide for and carry a very large per cent of each crop until they could be absorbed by the markets, and this has been accomplished only in anticipation of advancing prices to be paid by the consumers when they were ready and able to receive and appropriate the same.

Therefore be it Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that some provision should be made by the Government to compensate the farmers for storage in carrying this wheat, subject to the order of the Government, and that such compensation should be sufficient in amount to cover interest, insurance, shrinkage and reasonable compensation for extra trouble of binning and withdrawing same when required to make delivery thereof, and

Be it Further Resolved, That each producer, voluntarily or otherwise, storing or binning his wheat and retaining jurisdiction over the same, who desires to avail himself of the compensation suggested, shall within ten days from the date of threshing so notify his county food administrator, in such manner as may be prescribed, and such notice shall, in effect constitute a contract with the Government, whereby the producer agrees, in consideration of the compensation provided, to deliver said wheat to the market within thirty days from date of the order so to do.

A Statement of Policy.

The Indiana State Council of Defense at its meeting May 29th unanimously adopted the following resolution and directed the secretary to notify county councils of the action, for their guidance:

Whereas, Our attention has been called to the charge that fees are being exacted for clerical services in assisting wives of soldiers to secure their rights under the Allotment and Insurance Laws enacted for their benefit;

Be it resolved, That the Indiana State Council of Defense disapprove of any one, especially members of war councils, charging fees for clerical services in securing delinquent allotments or insurance to the wives, widows or children of soldiers, or accepting compensation in such cases, unless the claims are denied or disputed by the government and the taking of proof or institution of suit be thereby rendered necessary, in which event a limited compensation is allowed by law.

Indiana Tomato Pack Guaranteed by Reserve

Indiana farmers have gone over the top again in another food production campaign, one to increase the contracted tomato acreage from the 36,000 of last year to 52,000 this season. As reports from the Indiana Canners' Association to the Horticulture Department of Purdue University show. This amount was obtained by a concerted effort of the canners throughout the State and the patriotic attitude of the tomato growers.

Several months ago the Indiana Canners' Association, realizing that there would be some shortage of farm labor this season, addressed a communication to the Boys' Working Reserve asking if that organization would be able to furnish boys to help during the tomato harvest season between August 15th and October 15th. The Federal State Director of the Reserve assured Indiana canners in positive terms that the required amount of labor would be forthcoming when and where needed provided proper housing facilities and supervision were furnished at the expense of the canners. Attention was also called to the ruling of the State Board of Education last year permitting boys to be released from school to harvest perishable crops, which ruling will undoubtedly prevail again this year.

Since that time a number of canning companies have agreed to furnish a tent camping outfit for boys who engage in tomato harvest and a competent supervisor who safeguards the physical and moral welfare of the boys and directs their energies. Harry McCartney, President of the Indiana Canners' Association, says that the availability of harvest labor from the Boys' Working Reserve has been a very strong factor in influencing growers to increase their acreage. Fifty per cent or more of the tomato pack will be commandeered by the government for the army and navy.

Motor Corps Arouses Interest of Women

Captain Helen Dean Heads State Organization for Emergency Duty.

To organize a motor corps and to have it at work within the first week, to have it in uniform and in working order within two weeks after its organization, is the achievement of Captain Helen Dean, 1136 N. Meridian street, Indianapolis. Announcement of this work first appeared just two weeks ago.

That the government realizes the usefulness of the corps is evidenced by the fact that Captain Lawrence Barrett of Fort Benjamin Harrison is giving two afternoons a week, Wednesdays and Saturdays, to drilling the twenty-seven young matrons and maids. The body is to be increased gradually, many other names being now under consideration—who are divided into two squads and put through a grilling infantry drill regardless of feelings, weather or what not.

The service of this corps, as previously announced, falls under five heads, carrying dispatches for the government, working at Liberty Bond sales, doing canteen work, serving as escort for speakers, officers, and government officials, and ambulance work.

Already the Indianapolis corps has done War Chest work and has had several important emergency calls, government errands, concerning which secrecy prevails. All of which makes the work more interesting.

The school for the teaching the care of the machines, the repairing of the engines, etc., offered the corps by Carl Fisher, will be opened in a week or ten days, at 612 N. Capitol avenue. The instructors will be experts in their kinds of work, and the young women are displaying a surprising proficiency in this branch of their training.

Later will come the ambulance drill, with machines in ambulance formation, which must be perfected until the members of the corps are able to handle an ambulance or a truck under any circumstances.

The Woman's Motor Corps of Indiana, as previously announced, is a state organization. Captain Dean is captain of the State; the heads of the corps in the different counties are her lieutenants. All the other members of the corps are privates.

From the inquiries that have already come from over the State, the indications are that Indiana will soon have a number of organizations. To Terre Haute goes the honor of being the second place in the State to organize. Last week came the call of Captain Dean to go to Terre Haute to inspect and pass upon the corps that had volunteered for service. As she was on an emergency call, Private Mary Powell went in her place, inspected and passed upon the applicants. She found a most enthusiastic organization of forty members under the leadership of Mrs. Ray Jenckes, who has become Lieutenant Jenckes, and has taken the federal oath to serve under Captain Dean.

South Bend, home of the Chairman of the Woman's Section of the State Council of Defense, has also perfected an organization, and the uniforms for this corps have already been ordered.

The costume of the corps, as finally decided on, is an olive drab cloth, with the same style coat as the Canadian uniform. Privates wear the leather belt; officers, the Sam Brown belt and shoulder bars. The cap is the overseas style. The Indiana Motor Corps members display four-in-hand ties and yellow silk shirts.

Yes, they are holding the line, but the folks back home must bring up the reserves.

In France fifty percent of the total energy of the people is said to go into military effort. Hardships, hunger, sorrow—all suffering is excused with the explanation, "It is the war." This is the kind of spirit needed in every American home.

Our answer to the challenge of Germany shall appear in the utter sacrifice and self-forgetfulness with which we shall give all that we love and all that we have to redeem the world and make it fit for free men like ourselves to live in. This now is the meaning of all that we do.—Woodrow Wilson.

Indiana Bulletin

Published Every Friday by the
Indiana State Council of Defense

Volume I

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., JUNE 7, 1918

Number 43

Best Wheat Fields Selected for Seed

Six Special Agents of Food Committee Touring Counties of South- ern Indiana.

Six special representatives from Purdue University started this week in counties along the Ohio River, helping county agents locate best fields of wheat so they may be used for seed this fall. This is the first step in the wheat production drive which will be waged the next few months under the auspices of the Indiana Food Production and Conservation Committee.

Before the men started on their first work of the campaign, botanists from Purdue met with them and a standard was set regarding selection of fields which are free from smut and other diseases. Only disease-free fields will be chosen.

Following this seed selection work, which will extend to every county in the State, from six to a dozen fields being chosen in each county, a campaign will be waged for early plowing and better tillage methods, D. S. Myer, state leader, said in outlining plans for the campaign which is being backed by the Indiana Grain Dealers' Association, Indiana Bankers' Association, Indiana Millers' Association and fertilizer manufacturers. Use of fertilizers containing large amounts of phosphates will be advocated.

The aims of the government in the matter of wheat production this year were set forth by Prof. G. I. Christie, State Food Director, in an address before a conference of the ten district leaders, who will have charge of the wheat work in their individual districts. He said the hope of the campaign is to maintain the present acreage, which is 25 per cent above normal, and increase the yield as much as possible. Seed selection and better cultural methods are factors to be applied in bringing about the desired results.

The ten districts and leaders in each are as follows:

No. 1—J. D. Harper, Laporte, leader. Counties: Lake, Porter, Laporte, St. Joseph, Starke, Pulaski, Elkhart, Marshall.

No. 2—W. K. Gast, Logansport, leader. Counties: Kosciusko, Fulton, Wabash, Miami, Cass, Howard, Grant, and Tipton.

No. 3—H. R. Smalley, Ft. Wayne, leader. Counties: Lagrange, Steuben, Noble, Dekalb, Whitley, Allen, Huntington, Wells, and Adams.

No. 4—Stewart Leaming, Rensselaer, leader. Counties: Newton, Jasper, Benton, White, Carroll, Tippecanoe, Warren, Fountain, Montgomery, Boone and Clinton.

No. 5—A. T. Morrison, Connersville, leader. Counties: Blackford, Jay, Madison, Delaware, Randolph, Henry, Wayne, Fayette, Union, Franklin.

No. 6—B. B. Adams, Rockville, leader. Counties: Vermillion, Parke, Clay, Putnam, Vigo, Owen, Sullivan, Greene.

No. 7—R. G. East, Shelbyville, leader. Counties: Hamilton, Marion, Hendricks, Shelby, Johnson, Hancock, Morgan, Bartholomew, Decatur, Rush.

No. 8—T. S. McCulloch, Mt. Vernon, leader. Counties: Knox, Daviess, Gibson, Pike, Dubois, Posey, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Spencer.

No. 9—C. A. Richards, North Vernon, leader. Counties: Monroe, Brown, Jackson, Jennings, Jefferson, Ripley, Dearborn, Ohio, Switzerland.

A Tribute

The Indiana State Council of Defense, of which Charles Warren Fairbanks was an active and valued member, desires to join in the general tribute to the memory of the deceased publicist and statesman, and places on record this estimate of his character and services.

Mr. Fairbanks' identity with public affairs and his long career of usefulness in the field of politics and government doubtless will be recognized by other bodies cognizant of their value. The Indiana State Council of Defense, while leaving the recital of his public services to other bodies, gratefully and earnestly bears witness to the fidelity and value of the services which he has rendered, in this connection, from its initial organization. His counsels were always sound. His patriotism and devotion to country were strikingly in evidence at all times. His place in this community will stand a monumental evidence to his leadership, his intellectual dignity, kindly disposition and associations.

It is ordered by the council that this resolution be spread upon its minutes and a copy communicated to the family of Mr. Fairbanks.

Signed: WILL IRWIN.
ALLAN G. PHILPOTT.
FRANK WAMPLER.
E. M. WILSON.

Following a tribute to the memory of Charles W. Fairbanks, by Ele Stansbury, attorney general of Indiana, in behalf of Governor James P. Goodrich, every member of the Indiana State Council of Defense present at the meeting June 5th added a personal expression of appreciation and esteem, in connection with the unanimous adoption of the above resolution.

The council then adjourned out of respect for Mr. Fairbanks' memory.

No. 10—H. A. Stevens, Jeffersonville, leader. Counties—Lawrence, Martin, Orange, Crawford, Perry, Harrison, Floyd, Washington, Scott, Clark.

The following men were reappointed on the State Wheat Committee at the meeting of the Indiana Committee on Food Production and Conservation—millers, bankers, and fertilizer manufacturers—on May 24th. The wheat campaign was organized, outlined and launched through this body:

Edgar H. Evans, Chairman, Indianapolis.
D. S. Myer, State Campaign Leader, Lafayette.
J. S. Hazlerigg, Cambridge City.
C. B. Riley, Board of Trade Building, Indianapolis.

Elmer Hutchinson, Arlington.
W. H. Aiman, Pendleton.
Chas. A. Ashbaugh, Frankfort.
A. B. Cohee, Frankfort.
George Rohm, Rockville.
W. W. Suckow, Franklin.
C. B. Jenkins, Noblesville.
Cloyd Loughry, Monticello.
A. E. Kalter, care E. Rauh & Sons, Indianapolis.

R. C. Ellis, New Albany.
C. L. Goodbar, Crawfordsville.
A. G. Lupton, Hartford City.
Ralph Payne, Rushville.
G. I. Christie, Lafayette.
A. T. Wiancko, Lafayette.
J. N. McMahan, Liberty.

Demand for Boys to Do Productive Labor

Indicates Importance of United States Re- serve With Its 19,619 Members.

The demand for boys to work on Indiana farms promises to exceed the supply. Twenty-seven counties out of ninety-two report that all local boys are already at work and that other assistance must be secured during the harvest season. T. S. McCulloch, county agent for Posey county, writes: "We have an enormous wheat crop in this country and will need a great deal of help from the outside if it is taken care of as it should be. We are in position now to use about twenty-five boys in addition to those enrolled in the Reserve in this county."

Edgar N. Haskins, Knox County director of the Boys' Reserve, writes: "We have no available boys to fill the applications from farmers we now have on file. Must have seven boys this week. The hay crop must be cut." John B. Reed, Warrick County director, wires, "Send six boys at once, good pay, good farms."

Location of Shortage.

According to replies received this week by the Federal State Director from a farm labor questionnaire sent to each county director and agent in the State, the following counties will need outside help from now on until after harvest season: Adams, Bartholomew, Benton, Clay, Clinton, Dearborn, Dubois, Elkhart, Fayette, Fulton, Greene, Hamilton, Hendricks, Jasper, Johnson, Knox, Kosciusko, Newton, Posey, Whitley, Pulaski, Putnam, Shelby, Union, Wabash, Warrick, Wells.

Michigan Asks for Help.

C. C. Parcells, state director of the Boys' Working Reserve in Michigan, has called on Indiana for help in the sugar beet district of that State. He advises that hundreds of boys will be needed in addition to those he has available. Boys are paid $22.00 per acre for the season, which lasts until the first part of October, one boy being able to take care of six or seven acres. In addition there is regular farm work to do for which the boys are paid extra. Board costs $5.00 per week. Competent supervision by high school teachers, housing, cook and railroad fare both ways is furnished by the sugar companies. The Mount Clemmons Sugar Company of Durand, Mich., needs twenty boys at once and the Michigan Sugar Company of Greenleaf, Mich., will need thirty-five boys next week. Boys are asked to pay their own railroad fare to place of employment and are reimbursed on the first pay day. County directors of Indiana who have boys who desire employment outside of the State will please communicate with Isaac D. Straus, 83 State House, Indianapolis, before advising them to go.

Enrollment Grows.

Boys continue to join the Reserve, the enrollment on June 1st being 19,619. Of this number it is estimated that 7,000 are already employed on farms and 5,000 in industries. With the closing of high schools it is estimated that 5,000 more will immediately find productive employment either on farms or in factories. Very few will be content to accept some soft job in an office or

(Continued on Page 8)

I
355
I 385cd

Patriotism in Indiana

Allen County.—Nineteen out of 20 townships in the county were represented at a meeting of the farmers who organized the Allen County Liberty Farmers. The objects of this club are to assist in the production and conservation of food; to assist in the spreading of patriotic sentiment, and giving out information to the public concerning the policies of the government in the prosecution of the war, and to bring about a closer relation between men in the military service and those who are temporarily exempted from such service. Membership is open to all men living in Allen County who have registered and received a deferred classification for agricultural reasons. Meetings have been arranged for every township. The club will be composed of two units, the county or head unit, and the township unit. The pledge taken by every man who becomes a member is as follows: "Believing it to be our patriotic duty to do whatever is within our power to aid in this war, and believing that an organization of men of military age will be highly beneficial in not only preventing disloyal acts and atrocities, but also in creating a better patriotic sentiment throughout Allen County, we, the liberty farmers of Allen County, do bind ourselves to stand together in this crisis, and do solemnly promise to uphold the constitution of the United States and the State of Indiana, to support the rulers of this nation in every call for service here at home, and to abide by the constitution and by-laws of this organization. . . . Fort Wayne county did not wait for General Crowder's order, but passed an ordinance of their own with the view of driving out all loafers or make them work. Its rigid enforcement has been directed by Chief Abbott, and the courthouse corridors, heretofore full of idle men, are now empty. . . . Arrangements have been made by Superintendent R. W. Himmelick, for a special vocational course in the city schools during the summer, for the training of radio and buzzer operators desired by the government for service in the signal corps. Louis Deal, United Press telegraph operator on one of the local newspapers, who has knowledge of the international code, will be instructor. . . . The County Council of Defense has been given an appropriation of $5,000 at the solicitation of William Seelman. None of the local members receive any pay for their services, and the appropriation will be applied entirely to paying for the necessary office help, printing bills, light, rent, etc. . . . The war industries board has named Fort Wayne as distributing center for fleece wool for the States of Indiana and Ohio.

Blackford County.—In Blackford County a successful child registration campaign has been carried on, much assistance being rendered by the merchants who advertised Child Registration Day by decorating their windows with clothing, toys, remedies for diseases of children, etc. The newspapers also published reports and lists of children registered. . . . In this county the Health and Recreation committee reports 562 books sent to camp libraries; all garden and poultry work increased as a war measure; 34 patriotic speeches made during May by the Fourteen-Minute women, and 28 organizations of the city doing Red Cross and surgical dressing work.

Boone County.—The Boone County Council of Defense has completed its organization and is functioning promptly and actively in response to every call that comes from the State and National Councils of Defense. The county organization consists of J. A. Hogshire, Lebanon, chairman; Miss Mayme E. Sheridan, Lebanon, secretary; Rev. Homer Dale, Lebanon; Wm. C. Jaques, Thorntown; David M. Clark, Jamestown; Dr. E. D. Johns, Zionsville, and Charles B. Adair, Lebanon. The township organizations, working in harmony with the county organization, have but recently been completed, except Marion and Union, and are as follows: Clinton—Miss Edith Wiley, Lebanon, R. R. 8, chairman; Alva D. Swope, H. C. Powell, A. G. Neal, Z. N. Morton, Washington—Jesse Blubaugh, Lebanon, R. R. 9, chairman; Miss Ruth Fall, Watson Masters, Omer Beck, Harry Henry, Sugar Creek—Nathan Riley, Thorntown, chairman; C. C. LaFollette, Richard Beesley, M. S. Barker and Miss Margaret Loveless, Jefferson—Milt Smith, Advance, chairman; Val Riggins, Austin Madison, Vesper, Etherington, Clara Cain, Genzer—E. O. Rogers, Lebanon, chairman; Urban Weitzell, William H. Orer, Jr., John Huber and Miss Ruth Campbell, Eagle—Jesse E. Philippi, Zionsville, chairman; Helen Nell Lemon, Perry Moore, W. M. Baldock, Ed Brouhard, George Rader, Perry—John Herr, Lebanon, R. R. 3, chairman; Rev. E. A. Williams, James Farrell, Miss Emma Everett, Riley Hauser, Harrison—S. W. Wiley, Lebanon, R. R. 2, chairman; Ovid Knowlton, Lora Edlin, Mrs. Lora Edlin, E. D. Worrell, Jackson—Rev. W. K. Ingalls, Jamestown, chairman; Mrs. Carrie Beaver, Carl Bowman, Charles McClain, John W. Scott, Worth—J. T. Frank Laughner, Whitestown, chairman; Mrs. Roscoe Livengood, Walter Schooler, Alex Hull and Charles Livengood. . . . Work of organizing the U. S. Food Clubs of the women of every township has begun. Mrs. J. T. Frank Laughner as township chairman has appointed several of her residents, others will be appointed in a few days, and it is hoped that all the women of Worth township will become members of the food club. Sugar Creek is the first township in Boone County to organize with eight clubs. Perry is almost through with the organization and will have fourteen clubs. Worth will have ten or twelve clubs.

Carroll County.—A tag day contribution in this county was sufficient to provide funds for the office equipment of a woman demonstrator, and as a result Mrs. Maud Hiner Ellis, a Purdue graduate, will on June 10 assume her duties in Delphi. She will have an office at the court house with the county agricultural agent, and will visit every section of the county as desired, driving her own automobile.

Clark County.—Farmers in Clark County are anxious over the labor situation. Threshing will start about July 1, and the present situation is not very encouraging. Last year a crew of men from the Indiana Reformatory assisted in Utica township, greatly expediting the harvest. As announced this year, no such crew will be available and there is no other source of labor supply to which the farmers can look. The assistance of the County Council of Defense of Clark County and neighboring counties is promised wheat growers in this extremity. . . . J. E. Taggart, chairman of the Council of Defense, county food administrator Helmkamp, county fuel administrator Wilson, county agricultural agent Stevens and county surveyor Spurgeon constitute the Highway Transport committee, which is preparing a map of the roads of the county in compliance with suggestions from the State and National Councils of Defense.

Clay County.—Mrs. Samuel J. Lewis, chairman for Clay County in the Child's Welfare movement, announces that the drive for the weighing and measuring of each Clay County child from birth to the age of six is now nearing completion. This is a gigantic task and the county chairman is being aided by a corps of energetic workers and the mothers are lending the utmost co-operation. The county has been thoroughly organized and the work is well under way.

Crawford County.—Thirty of the leading merchants of Crawford County met in the Opera House at English pursuant to the call of J. H. Luckett, federal food administrator. A permanent organization was formed and the following officers elected: C. M. Baker, chairman; U. G. Balthis, secretary, and W. T. Pearson, treasurer. An executive committee of one merchant for each of the towns will be appointed. By unanimous vote, the merchants present expressed their willingness to voluntarily stop the purchase of candy, and will continue selling only so long as their present supply lasts. This is for the conservation of sugar. The organization will, in every other possible way, co-operate with the food administration.

Dearborn County.—To keep pace with the increasing demand, the Dearborn County Council of Defense has reorganized as follows: W. H. O'Brien, chairman, Lawrenceburg; George M. Stedman, secretary, Aurora; V. M. O'Shaughnessy, Lawrenceburg; J. J. Backman, Aurora; Robert L. Johnston, Aurora; Ray F. Sopher, Lawrenceburg; Mrs. W. T. Burkam, Lawrenceburg, R. 1. Special work assigned to members of the council is as here given: Director of Four-Minute Men, V. M. O'Shaughnessy; protection and home defense, Major John J. Backman; food production and conservation, Robert L. Johnston; Boys' Working Reserve, Ray F. Sopher; League for Women's Service, Mrs. W. T. Burkam; to keep in touch with soldiers and sailors from Dearborn County, W. H. O'Brien; public morals, George M. Stedman; sanitation and medicine, Dr. O. S. Jacquith; educational, George C. Cole; fuel administrator, George H. Lewis; food director, V. M. O'Shaughnessy; war mother for Dearborn County, Mrs. J. H. Stier; United States Public Service Reserve, George L. F. Squibb; newspaper publicity, Edward S. Smashey; United States explosive inspector, Clifford Diehl; legal, Thomas S. Gravens; civilian relief, Cornelius O'Brien; employers' co-operation, Frank Gould; co-ordination of societies, E. G. Bielby. . . . Especially good work in food production is reported from this county. Interest in potato week was increased by window displays and by potato stories told at the library. Different potato recipes were given out in the schools, and a home demonstration agent was engaged to tour the county for a week. But perhaps the most valuable piece of work accomplished in the county was a notice inserted in the papers stating that as so many women are having trouble in using substitutes, any one so desiring should apply to the Chairman of the Home Economics Committee for recipes and aids. A call was also made for domestic science volunteers, who will be listed and called on for assistance in carrying on the Home Economics work.

Decatur County.—The graduating class of the Greensburg high school realized $96 on two shows given at the K. of P. theatre and the sum has been turned over to the Red Cross. Because of war conditions it was deemed best to dispense with the annual class play and the "movies" were substituted.

DeKalb County.—The Spencerville Junior Red Cross is making 100 property tags for the hospital at Camp Mead, Md. The action is in response to the request of Dr. Carey, a former resident of this place. The Spencerville high school has a Red Cross chapter that has already raised a considerable sum of money, doing sewing, transported sewing machines to and from Red Cross rooms, and otherwise made itself very useful. The organization is under the direction of Miss Thornburg.

Delaware County.—The Woman's Franchise League of Washington township, co-operating with the Woman's section of the County Council of Defense, held a food meeting at the home of Mrs. D. S. Maynard. The invitation was accompanied by the suggestion that every woman bring recipes wherein substitutes for wheat flour are used. Mrs. Fletcher Meeks of Muncie gave an interesting talk on food problems and the need for conserving wheat.

Elkhart County.—Twenty-one members of the Elkhart County Hotel and Restaurant Keepers' Association, meeting in Goshen, voted unanimously to co-operate with the government food administration in the conservation of ice as well as all other things of similar nature. It was voted to eliminate cracked ice from the tumblers of water served to patrons. Most of the ice used for table purposes is artificial, ammonia being a prime ingredient in its manufacture, and the government requires large quantities of ammonia in the manufacture of munitions.

Fountain County.—The Liberty Guards of Covington contributed $50 to the Red Cross fund.

Franklin County.—The County Council of Defense is co-operating with the Franklin County Farm Production Association in furthering the silo campaign, which has for its object 119 new silos in this county this year. Maurice Thompson is county leader. . . . The same organizations are endeavoring to secure a supply of farm labor which will be required to save the crops in this county. The need of labor on Franklin County farms is not restricted to field hands. The farmers' wives are endeavoring to secure help, particularly cooks.

Fulton County.—The Fulton County Council of Defense and its various committees have addressed the following appeal to the citizens of Fulton County: "We take this occasion to remind each household that every little economy or substitution, when multiplied by the millions of households that constitute our great and glorious republic, means an immense total difference in the consumption of wheat and of certain kinds of meats, fats and sugars. So many millions in Europe have been taken from food production that it actually is necessary for us of America, and therefore us of Fulton County, to feed our allies and their starving people. If we help them through food to fight our battles, then we help them by means of food to bring an end to this conflict with Germany cruelly, so that our own great country can return to its ordinary channels of work and peaceful purpose. We take this occasion, too, to thank all those residents of Fulton County whose homes have made quick response to each call of the County Council of Defense. A great change has come over us within a year. Most of us are learning more clearly the lesson of pulling together in a common effort for the common good. So let us hang up the Hoover card and cheerfully follow its every request."

Grant County.—The War Mothers of Grant County are co-operating in the child welfare work which is being conducted by the Woman's section of the County Council of Defense. A campaign for membership in the War Mothers organization has been made by Mrs. Mallot, the county war mother. Mrs. George Southall, the woman member of the County Council of Defense, made a talk to the war mothers at their recent meeting, pointing out their opportunities for service, and she met with a very enthusiastic response.

Hendricks County.—Danville banks have offered gratuitously to beneficiaries living in the vicinity the use of their safety deposit vaults for soldiers' insurance papers, and other valuable documents. . . . The Hendricks County Council of Defense is urging the people to economies consistent with the advice of the Commercial Economy section of the Council of National Defense and other governmental agencies. Man-power, money, transportation, food stuffs, raw materials and fuel which heretofore have been wasted, must be definitely conserved if every citizen does his duty, the local war board asserts. Greater economies in dress especially are recommended. The purchase of Thrift Stamps with money which heretofore has been used for surplus clothing and personal adornment, is pointed out as a duty. . . . The information has come to the Council of Defense that farmers have been told that unless they are willing to sell their walnut trees, the government will commandeer them and pay them an arbitrary price. This is not the case. The timber agents are said to be private individuals, working for private concerns who, notwithstanding the fact that they have war contracts, are in no wise authorized by the government to set aside due processes provided by law for the acquisition of such timber. There are many fine walnut trees in Hendricks county.

Henry County.—The registration of women in this county, which was deferred on account of a lack of coal and supplies, has been resumed, and it is believed will soon reach 100 per cent completion. Mrs. Jesse Kirkwood, who has been assisting Mrs. Stanley in the work of registration, is now classifying the cards in anticipation of a report to the woman's section of the State Council of Defense.

Howard County.—County surveyor Ellsworth Hunt has been authorized by the Highway Transport committee of Howard County, named by the County Council of Defense, to prepare a complete highway map as a preliminary step for the activities of the local organization. The Highway Transport committee is to have as the chief purpose of its organization the selection, repair and maintenance of the highways available for the most direct and economical system of motor transportation, in order to relieve the strain and burden upon railways and numerous lines during the period of the war emergency. . . . Interurban inquiries have of late been put before Food Administrator J. R. Morgan concerning permission to serve lunches in soft drink parlors. The local administrator holds that any such service is under the ban and such information as he has received from headquarters justifies him in his position. . . . Mrs. Anna Harris, house-maid at the home of Mrs. Harry Draper, 604 North Main street, is the only colored woman in Kokomo to have been registered for foreign service. She states that she is willing to go across the water any time as cook or kitchen helper. Her example will probably be followed by others, but she has the distinction of being the first.

Huntington County.—The Huntington County Council of Defense, by Peter Martin, chairman, has taken official notice of the action of R. P. Knisely, a fireman on the Erie railroad, who deserted his engine while on duty, without giving notice in sufficient time for a substitute to be obtained. "The County Council of Defense regards such action as unpatriotic and calculated to give aid and comfort to the enemies of the United States," says the Council's statement to the public. It further points out that such action is in violation of the regulations prescribed by the director general of railroads. Knisely is alleged to have left the community....Indicating the thoroughness of the Huntington plan of war time organization, 378 of the 379 workers appointed for the county war chest drive reported for work on the opening morning, and contributed freely of their time and energy in making the effort successful.

Jasper County.—Jasper County reports nearly a hundred per cent woman registration, assisted no doubt by the activity of the publicity chairman, food demonstrations nearly every day by the federal agent, with special demonstrations on cottage cheese by two Purdue demonstrators, and also helped by thirty-one speeches made during the Liberty Loan drive by the Fourteen-Minute women....The sum of $40 was raised by the Home and Foreign Relief committee in aid of soldiers' dependents.

Jay County.—The Better Farming Association in Jay County, arranged at its meeting May 28-29, to get behind the silo campaign which is intended to increase the number of silos in Jay County by 118. A speaking tour of the county, intended to educate the farmers to the advantages resulting from the use of the silo, has been planned by E. E. Lutzader, county silo leader; M. E. Scandrett, county agricultural agent, and J. F. Treasurer, county agent of Delaware County....Portland is to have a battalion of Liberty Guards. Already one company of guards exists there, and three more with a membership of fifty each will be undertaken by the following commissioned officers: Major, M. V. Skinner; captains, James R. Fleming, James L. Grissell, O. C. Ruley and Mayor C. O. Mitchell; first lieutenants, E. A. McKee, Paul C. Jaqua, William Wright and Herbert Maiden; second lieutenants, C. M. Nichols, William Kirkpatrick, George Roush and Homer Teeters.

Knox County.—For the purpose of encouraging students in vocational work, the school board of Vincennes has established the part-time day school in the business section of the city. Merchants of the city are co-operating by giving each pupil four hours per week with pay, for the purpose of attending school. The action was taken in response to the suggestion of the Federal Government, and its purpose is outlined as follows:

- (a) To increase skill or knowledge in the occupation which the worker is following.
- (b) Skill or knowledge leading to promotion in the industry or calling in which the worker is engaged.
- (c) Improvement in the knowledge of regular subjects which were not completed in school.
- (d) Increased civic or vocational intelligence.

Lake County.—Activities of Lake County women in all phases of war work, were reviewed at a meeting in Liberty Hall, Hammond. Mrs. Anne Studebaker Carlisle, woman member of the Indiana State Council of Defense, was present. The work of the Red Cross, registration, child welfare, food conservation, Fourteen-Minute women, Liberty gardens, commercial economies (eliminating the unnecessary deliveries of merchandise, restricting credits, etc.), home and foreign relief work, and other war time subjects were discussed by authorities in the several lines....The Lake County war organization is vigorous and complete. The records of the Third Liberty Loan drive and the second Red Cross campaign, both of which brought in far beyond the county's allotment, are offered in proof. The Woman's Section has been very influential and conspicuous in both these movements.

Laporte County.—130 farmers of this county attended a dinner at the Rumely Hotel, Laporte, at which time an apportionment was made of the 93 silos it was proposed to build in this county this year. County agent J. D. Harper and A. E. Watson of Scipio township, head of the silo campaign, called the meeting and arranged for the dinner. Silo manufacturers were present with catalogues and quotations. It is expected that Cass township will take at least 29 of the county's apportionment of silos....St. John's Lutheran Church subscribed to war funds and Liberty Bonds a total of $100,000, according to figures compiled by a committee consisting of C. A. Simon, Albert Brinkman and H. W. Sallwaser....The Laporte chamber of commerce is working on a plan for helping farmers during the harvest. It is expected the labor supply necessary to harvest the season's crops will be guaranteed by volunteers from business houses and manufacturers of the cities, plans for which are now being worked out by a committee of representative merchants.

Marion County.—An appropriation of $9,000 to the Marion County Council of Defense was authorized at a meeting of the county council. The money is for the expenses of the defense body. To date the council has spent $2,100 for war activities work. The appropriation is to cover office and general expenses. The amount covers the year's expenses.

Montgomery County.—Fifty-one people in 14 automobiles headed by Jess Canine, county silo chairman, made a two-day tour of Montgomery county in promoting the use of silos as recommended by the Indiana State Council of Defense. Maurice Douglas, State silo leader, joined the party, and inspected and discussed the various types of silos. Farmers showed keen interest and indicated their purpose to comply with the recommendations of those anxious to increase the food supply....Three wagon-loads of wheat were commandeered by food administrator Endicott on the farm of Jacob Elmore, living about three and one-half miles from Alamo. He claimed he was too busy to comply with the government's request that all wheat be sold. Notice has been given by the food administrator that such explanations will not be accepted hereafter. Mr. Endicott also proposes a rigid enforcement of the regulations in regard to the distribution of wheat flour and sugar.

Pike County.—Patoka township raised $1,710 in 30 minutes in the second Red Cross campaign. Their quota was $1,650. The Ingalls system of coal mines has agreed to give one day's business to the Red Cross; the men giving their day's work, and the company the output of the mines. This will mean from $7,000 to $9,000 for succeeding Red Cross campaigns in this township.

Posey County.—A. C. Thomas resigned as chairman of the County Council of Defense, and Mayor A. K. Grant of Mt. Vernon was named as his successor. Mr. Thomas is the democratic nominee for joint senator from Gibson and Posey Counties, which fact prompted his action....E. J. Kelley, county chairman of the Red Cross campaign drive, received the proceeds of a sale, conducted by the Red Cross chapter in Point township, on the public square at Mt. Vernon. A dozen coops of chickens, a coop of geese, several cases of eggs, a fat pig, a Hereford bull, all donated by citizens of the township, were auctioned successfully.

Ripley County.—The Ripley County Council of Defense has called a meeting of all persons who intend to engage in threshing in Ripley County this year. These men will be organized and registered, and each will be asked to join the United States Food Administration and secure therefrom a license. The men were informed the government will furnish an expert without cost to the owner, to go over each machine, and after a careful inspection recommend such repairs and improvements as will help save the vast quantities of grain which heretofore have been wasted. The Ripley County Council of Defense has served notice that "all persons expecting to operate threshing machines must register or they will not be permitted to do so"....Minnie E. Wycoff, supervisor of women's work of the Ripley County chapter of the Red Cross, has issued the following statement to the public: "I wish to emphatically correct a false and malicious statement that is being circulated in parts of Ripley County as to salaries received by Red Cross officials. No salaries whatever are paid or received. The officers throughout the entire organization are volunteers and many of them are serving full time. No one in Ripley County receives any pay whatever. Every cent of money received by the Red Cross is used for the hospital service and the comfort and welfare of the soldiers. Every effort is made to save the funds and use them to the best advantage."

Rush County.—"Egg drives" are becoming a popular as well as profitable enterprise among township auxiliaries of the Rush County chapter of the American Red Cross. Women of the units call at all of the farms in their townships on a given day and collect all the eggs that are contributed. They are then sold and the money given to the Red Cross. One of these drives by the Plum Creek auxiliary yielded $102, and one by the Washington township auxiliary made $170 for the war relief organization. One has been arranged by the Jackson township auxiliary, and another held by the Mothers' Club here made $25.

Shelby County.—The directors of the County War Chest will hereafter operate from the office of the County Council of Defense. George H. Meiks, president of the board of governors of the War Chest, has approved a bond of $20,000 given by John R. Messick, treasurer of the War Chest fund. The War Chest organization will employ permanently a competent person to direct its affairs in conjunction with the Shelby County Council of Defense.

Spencer County.—War Mothers have sent away $20 to be applied on a Liberty Bond purchased by the war mothers of the State....The war kitchen at Rockport has sent to Camp Taylor one barrel of apples, one of catsup, one of grape juice and four barrels of canned fruit.

St. Joseph County.—The first day of the children's registration showed more than 250 children at the clinics at various points in South Bend. They came notwithstanding a heavy downpour of rain in the afternoon. Dr. G. B. Allen and Dr. Helen Murray were in charge, assisted by Miss Mary Comboy, nurse of the children's dispensary. Ailments most common among the children were said to be adenoids, resulting largely from the use of pacifiers; infected tonsils, tubercular glands and rickets. In each case parents were given advice gratuitously for the correction of the trouble.

Switzerland County.—Threshermen have been called to meet in the office of the mayor in Vevey on Wednesday, June 5, for the purpose of receiving information as to the government's plan for threshing and handling the 1918 wheat crop. The inspection of machinery and replacement of defective parts will be discussed, and threshermen informed as to how they can secure prompt service on all such orders placed. The meeting was called by Dr. H. M. Thiebaud, federal food administrator for Switzerland County, who will shortly announce a threshing committee for the county.

Tippecanoe County.—J. O. Beck, who has administered the affairs of the Tippecanoe County Council of Defense very successfully, has been forced by the press of his duties to resign. The local organization is complete and in good working order, thanks to Mr. Beck's efforts.

Vanderburgh County.—Evansville industries have agreed to pledge themselves to release men during the press of the harvest season, as they are needed in this locality. Dr. P. L. Prentiss, superintendent of the United States Employment Service of the department of labor, for this district, is expected here shortly as one of the missionaries in support of the movement. Evansville manufacturers have taken kindly to the suggestion, and it is believed they will co-operate in making the plan successful....The Pocket registered men's organization was formed at a meeting of representatives from six counties, held in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of furthering the scope and usefulness of the work of registered men in the district. The meeting had been called at the instance of the Indiana State Council of Defense and is the first of a series that will be held in all parts of the State. The officers of the county organizations of registered men, members of local boards, county agricultural agents and representatives from each County Council of Defense were present. The six counties represented were Dubois, Spencer, Warrick, Posey, Knox and Vanderburgh, Pike and Gibson were not represented. A constitution and by-laws, which had been drawn up by a committee consisting of E. S. McCollough of Posey County, L. M. Butler of Knox and Joe Van Winkle of Vanderburgh, were adopted. The following officers were elected: President, George X. Reed of Warrick County; secretary, Fred Stimpson of Dubois County. Resolutions addressed to the State Council of Defense were adopted, expressing approval of the district organizations and summarizing, in detail, the plan of the organization in these counties. Knox County has no registered men's organization, but Mr. Butler told the meeting that he would organize the men of his county immediately on his return. The organization will meet on the fourth Friday of every month.

Vermillion County.—Boy scouts of Clinton sold 105 bonds aggregating $9,050 in the recent Liberty Loan campaign. Six of the boys sold ten or more bonds, and will receive government medals as follows: John Holvey, Raymond Shew, Morris Agnew, William Krekler, Byron Lloyd, George Warden....Vermillion County has organized a War Fund Association. Every section of the county was represented at the organization meeting; a constitution was adopted and 24 directors were named to have control of the budget.

Wabash County.—To the end that farm labor shortage, which has been a hindrance in former years, but which is too vital this year to not be coped with successfully, shall not be a difficulty during the months of June, July and August of the present year, the Commercial Club has named a new committee, the emergency farm labor committee, to take charge of the situation. The purpose is to secure volunteers during harvest to help care for the immense amount of produce that will be garnered at that time. The plan the committee will follow will be to give cards to factories and to business houses and have the employers and business men sign them themselves as well as have the employers sign them. Farmers are asked to apply to secretary Guy L. Baker of the Wabash Commercial Club and he in turn will designate such men as can conveniently go on the time specified by the farmer making the request. H. C. Coate has been named chairman of the emergency committee with I. W. Lutz, Sam Renner, Tom Christman and Gus Daseke the other members.

Warrick County.—The Skelton township draft men's organization has found a new way in which the exempted men of that township can help win the war. After a discussion at the last meeting regarding the waste and damage caused by rats, a week was set aside to be known as "rat killing week." The township was divided and captains appointed for each division....The First regiment of the Liberty Guard (as it will be known shortly), made up of twelve Warrick County companies, is preparing for a parade and review in Boonville on July 4 as a part of the celebration being arranged by the Exempted (registered) Men's Organization. This will be the biggest military function in the history of the county. A Spencer County battalion of the Guard, made up of Dale, Rockport, Chianey and other companies, will be invited to participate; also a battalion consisting of companies at Mackey, Cythiana and Poseyville, and any other units that may be organized meanwhile. Governor Goodrich and staff will be here. The Governor will deliver an address to the public at the fairground in the forenoon and review the Liberty Guard in the afternoon.

Wayne County.—Mrs. Nels Carlson is in charge of the child welfare work in Center township, which is proceeding very successfully with the assistance of the following committee: Mesdames Isaac Burris, Milo Harris, Gear Eliason and John Jackson, S. P. Pike and Oscar Hurst, Misses Callie Tremps and Neva Kellam. Registration of the babies has already started. The township is divided into sections, and a day is being taken for each section. A house to house canvass is expected to guarantee that every child under six years of age will be registered and examined....Between 25 and 30 children are actively at work under Mrs. Alice Wright, Center township chairman of the Liberty Garden committee. An exhibit will be held later, and prizes awarded to the most successful of the youthful gardeners.

Wells County.—John F. Decker, campaign manager of the war savings organization, is conducting a drive for the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps, with the aid of the following executive committee: City School Superintendent P. A. Allen, County School Superintendent A. R. Huyette, Chairman of the County Council of Defense C. E. Sturgis, County Agent Harry Gray, County Thrift Chairman O. E. Leah, Postmaster B. A. Batson and R. S. Todd.

Whitley County.—The registration of the women has closed with 3,200 registering. The oldest woman registering is Mrs. Sarah Ireland, aged 89 years. She registered for war knitting. Two blind girls registered, one is a graduate of the college for the blind at Indianapolis and the other is now a student there.

Plant an acre for the shell-hounded farmers of "No Man's Land."

Meet the wheat crisis by recognizing it—join the "wheatless-till-harvest" club.

Stand behind the boys at the front—but not too far behind.

INDIANA BULLETIN

Published by the

Indiana State Council of Defense

The Bulletin is intended altogether as a disseminator of public information and is in no sense a newspaper. Through its publication the State Council of Defense of Indiana seeks to further the organization of the men and materials of the commonwealth on a war basis; to uphold the federal and state governments and generally serve the cause of the nation in its prosecution of the war with Germany.

Vol. I INDIANAPOLIS, IND. No. 43

Speakers' Bureau

A report of the Speakers' Bureau for May, 1918, follows:

FINANCIAL.

Paid by Indiana University Extension Division—

Salaries:
Mr. Cavanaugh .....	$165 00
Miss Evans .....	67 50
Miss Siegel .....	72 00
Mr. Pettijohn (¾ time) .....	65 00
Traveling expenses:
Mr. Cavanaugh and Mr. Pettijohn...	12 00
Total .....	$381 50

Paid by the Indiana State Council of Defense—

Salaries .....	$7 15
Postage .....	52 30
Telephone and telegraph .....	184 21
Stationery, printing and supplies .....	8 20
Traveling expense .....	517 26

Total .....

Note: The $7.15 is a per cent of the telephone operator's salary that was formerly charged to the administration, but is now pro rated among all departments. Traveling expenses include expenses of speakers.

SPEAKING ACTIVITIES.

Miscellaneous dates .....	111
Speakers .....	97
Calls not filled .....	6
Cancellations .....	5
Red Cross dates, May 12 to 26 and after .....	151
Total number Red Cross addresses .....	224
Cancellations .....	10
Total number addresses made .....	335

OUT-OF-STATE SPEAKERS.

Rep. Chas. B. Timberlake.
Hon. Albert C. Moulart.
Private Thomas C. Henry (Canadian army).
Private Harry Wickey (Canadian army).
Lieutenant Lait (Canadian army).
Private Harry Novak (Pershing's army).
Private Louis P. Bonee (Pershing's army).
Private Schuyler Mowrer (Pershing's army).
Private Pearce (Canadian army).
Private Maunders (Canadian army).
Private Button (Canadian army).
Lieutenant R. Renard (French army).
Dr. A. W. Wishart.
Miss Kathleen Burke.
Congressman C. C. Dill.

Submitted by R. E. Cavanaugh, acting director.

Food Administration

Clark County retail grocers have organized to co-operate with the Food Administration and as evidence of their sincerity agreed to buy no more candy containing sugar and to sell no more after their present stock is exhausted.

The American Hay Company, of Goshen, contracted to sell hay in South Carolina, last fall at $26 per ton. In eight months it tried to fulfill these deferred contracts at an advance of $8 per ton. The result is that for six months the firm will be without the federal license to enable them to continue business.

Food Administrator A. F. Helkamp, of Clark County, took over the ice manufacturing business of Timothy Asberry who refused to make and deliver ice to a sweltering public for 50 cents per 100 pounds. The food administrator was commended for his action by Dr. Harry E. Barnard, federal food administrator for Indiana. Asberry will conform to the 50 cents a 100 price or quit business permanently, Dr. Barnard says.

The Lincoln Way Brass Foundry Company of South Bend must find a substitute for the edible wheat flour it holds necessary for fulfilling government war contracts, or give up the contracts. Food comes before brass, Dr. Barnard says.

There should be no relaxation whatever in the conservation of wheat, Dr. Barnard announces following a conference with the federal food administrators in Washington. Herbert Hoover advises patriotic people to help store up the harvest that may be needed to tide the world over the periods of lean crops which must inevitably follow.

Poultry and egg dealers including all retail grocers and all hucksters who buy eggs from farmers for sale to shippers or commission men must secure federal license without delay, or quit business. This is in accord with the president's proclamation of May 14th. The sale of bad eggs will be the basis for proceedings to suspend license and also is a violation of the state pure food laws, making it a particularly dangerous offense.

Inspectors of weights and measures have been directed to examine all grain scales before the wheat harvest, to insure the producer and buyer a square deal. This order is from the office of the state inspector who is a part of the staff of the federal food administrator for Indiana.

Woman's Section

The Home Conservation Division for the Woman's Committee, National Council of Defense, is sending out an urgent plea to the women of the country to use milk and cheese as meat substitutes. It has become necessary to send an increasing amount of meat to the Allies, but fortunately this shortage of meat occurs when there is a surplus of milk and milk products.

Children and adults are urged strongly to use milk, a pint a day for each adult, when the meat consumption is low; a quart a day for each child. Economy along other lines and the use of plenty of butter because of the need of butter fat in the system, is also urged.

As the work for her health and recreation committee in the various counties of the state Mrs. George Hitt has suggested the collection of books for soldiers' libraries and for the collection of sums of money for the purchase of the much needed scientific books for camp libraries. The response has been large and immediate. Dearborn County reports the collection of a thousand volumes. Lagrange County raised the sum of $68.00 which was sent to Paul O. Roden, chairman of the American Library Association for the purchase of scientific books. In the department of Health, Mrs. Hitt notes the Articles of Incorporation recently filed by "The Woman's Civic Bureau of Indianapolis" for the purpose of looking after the protection of young women and girls. "Now that thousands of soldiers are stationed in Indianapolis," says her report, "the lure of the uniform is a dangerous influence to many girls in the community which must be taken into consideration and guarded against." She notes that Miss Clara Burnside, an experienced social worker has been appointed a police woman with the rank of Sergeant, and ten or eleven other able women are to be made policewomen as soon as places are found for them in the service. Mrs. Hitt announces as part of the work of her department the opening on May 11th, of the Indianapolis Propylaeum as a Recreation House for Soldiers and Sailors to be used for that purpose until September, 1918.

Substitute for Mourning.

The Woman's Committee, Council of National Defense, authorizes the following:

The Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense at its monthly meeting held this week in Washington, recommended that as a substitute for mourning there should be worn upon the left arm a three-inch black band, upon which a gilt star should be placed for each member of a family whose life has been lost in the service.

This resolution was laid before President Wilson for his approval. The President has sent the following letter to Dr. Shaw, chairman of the committee:

THE WHITE HOUSE,

Washington, 22 May, 1918.

My Dear Doctor Shaw:

Thank you for your letter of yesterday. I do entirely approve of the action taken by the Woman's Committee in executive session, namely, that instead of the usual mourning a three-inch black band should be worn upon which a gilt star may be placed for each member of the family whose life is lost in the service, and that the band shall be worn on the left arm. I hope and believe that thoughtful people everywhere will approve of this action, and I hope that you will be kind enough to make the suggestion of the committee public with the statement that it has my cordial endorsement.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw,
Council of National Defense.

Motor Corps of America.

The committee on public information, Division on Woman's War Work, issues the following:

The Motor Corps of America, an organization of women, has been officially recognized by the Army Medical Department and will be under the jurisdiction of the Surgeon General.

Capt. Helen Bastedo is commandant of the corps, which includes volunteer uniformed workers in all parts of the country. Besides ambulance service and transportation of sick and wounded to hospitals they also search women on incoming vessels. All are expert drivers and mechanics.

The American Red Cross Motor Corps of Washington, D. C., has also been called upon for co-operation in the work in the War Department Emergency Division for civilian employees and for other emergency work.

Registration Notes.

Howard County reports one hundred and thirty trained dairy workers, four hundred and three trained poultry raisers, four thousand nine hundred and ninety-four trained housekeepers, one minister and one undertaker among its registered women.

In Newton County, only five refused to sign the Registration cards. Newton County has the astonishing number of eleven hundred and sixty-seven trained poultry raisers, ten hundred and forty-four gardeners, and one hundred and thirteen stock raisers. Out of the three thousand three hundred and fifty-two registered, two thousand five hundred and thirty-seven report themselves trained housekeepers. This county claims two women pharmacists, and four lecturers.

Sixty-seven women in Newton County offered to share their homes with war widows and children.

Dearborn County registered six thousand women, a hundred percent.

Vermillion County's registration report disclosed the fact that seven women offered funds; three homes for convalescent hospitals, and ten who will share homes with war widows and children.

The prize registration story is that of Clay County, where 8,000 women were all registered in one day, the last of the eleven townships being heard from by nine o'clock at night.

St. Joseph County reports that it is continuing to supply women munition workers through the medium of the Registration cards. Their next problem is to establish another day nursery, as many mothers are found who can work if a convenient place can be arranged for the babies.

Registration has shown St. Joseph county that committees should be appointed for organizing classes for the special training of registrants to utilize the women who can sew only at home, by collecting, cleaning, and repairing woolen garments which can be made available for civilian use overseas; also, work on the conservation of the important metals and the collection of unused or discarded copper. This Registration has shown that it would be a valuable addition to the Red Cross to have some units established in outlying foreign districts. One Belgian section has been found to be especially eager to work if some one will organize them. These are some of the ways, just superficially apparent, in which the registration could be used advantageously. In other words St. Joseph's County realizes that it must "set up a program for the purpose of providing the fullest utilization of registration."

Jefferson County reports that during February and March meetings were held for the study and interpretation of the general purposes and plans of registration, and that one result of value of these classes is the promotion of county unity by better acquaintance of town and country women met for a common purpose.

In Delaware County an active publicity committee saw to it that news stories on Registration ran every day for two weeks. The Ad Club had advertisers insert short notices about registration in their ad columns.

Bulletin No. 67.

EVANSVILLE, IND., May 30, 1918.

My Dear Child Welfare Chairman:

We are rounding up the biggest job given the State Council of Defense—the weighing, measuring and registering of all children under six.

I must send in a report of progress, although the necessary delay of the government in furnishing cards releases us from the time limit for finishing our work. Let no one stop till she is finished, if possible. In order to give me data for my monthly report, will the counties that have finished please send to me, as soon as possible, answers to the following questions:

1. How many children were registered in your county?
2. How many "passed" in height and weight? (If you have noted the number.)
3. Did all of your townships assist in the work?
4. What were principal defects and diseases found?
5. Did you make out separate cards to keep for "follow-up" work? Remember, the cards are sent to Washington, and can be mailed free by putting one of the blanks on the outside of the package.

Will the counties that have not finished please notify me if they have not sufficient cards, at once? All that I can do is to telegraph and write to Washington, but it will hasten our allotment. And will the chairman of such counties see that each township chairman has all the instructions sent her (the county chairman) about the weighing, measuring, etc. I find some who do not fully understand.

We have had a terrible time to get cards and literature, owing to congestion of government presses and delays of second-class mail. It has quadrupled my own work. As the cards are expected to be sent direct to the counties, not to me, I have no way of knowing when you have your quota, except by your report.

It has distressed me greatly that our splendid, self-sacrificing women have had to be delayed, and you deserve double credit for the patriotism that has to be made up so largely of patience.

If this bulletin goes to a county that is having a hard time to get public interest, or local assistance, let me suggest that you call on any neighboring county that may have finished to come over and have a "Neighbor Day" to arouse interest. On this day you can do any of several things:

1. You can have a patriotic meeting, with music, talks, and perhaps a picnic, at which the neighboring chairmen will tell their experiences, how their doctors helped, the defects found, the good resulting, etc.
2. Or, you can have a health conference, with a baby clinic and demonstration, a lecture on baby hygiene by the best doctor you can get in your own or nearby towns. This can be a real "health conference," with exhibits, discussion, instruction, etc., if you like. I will help with suggestions for speakers, topics, etc., if desired.
3. If any county fair or circus day is at hand, be sure to have a child welfare feature, with some novel attraction, at which the mothers who will bring babies can be gathered in. A simple lunch, a slide for the children old enough, or some pretty dog or calf exhibit would draw the children. But as you know, many mothers insist on taking children to fairs, etc., and this is meant to save and take advantage of such children's presence.

In this connection the Child Welfare Committee will find it in its province to provide, in any way it may, for the babies brought to parades and to other congested street shows, and public gatherings. If a rest room could be arranged in the public building used as a center (a school or church in a rural place, a court house at the county seat) it would mean much for the mothers and much for the babies.

Each township should use its influence to have a room set aside in the court house in such counties as have not provided a rest room for women. Each township can contribute one or more pieces of furniture. The county should keep it clean. It should have toilet facilities, drinking water, easy chairs, a rattan couch, tables, etc., be screened and shaded. The Child Welfare Committee should provide posters, made up of instructions for care of children, feeding, dressing, etc., in large print. They should visit it occasionally to see it is kept properly.

The County Council of Defense will aid in this. It may be possible to hold a regular clinic, on market days, etc., in this place, or have lectures on child hygiene, discussions, etc., for mothers of the county who will "neighbor" for the welfare of the county.

Will you please write soon, with a report, or let me know if you need help?

Indiana is one of the leading States. Let us put our State at the head of the list. Let me urge again that you seek the co-operation of your local divisions of Civilian Relief. The national head, Mr. Frank Persons, and our late division head, Mr. Fieser, both express their desire for our co-operation.

Very cordially,

ALBION FELLOWS BACON.

Carrying Out the Children's Year Tests.

To Child Welfare Committees:

The following is an outline of methods used in Monroe County and elsewhere to weigh and measure the children under six, according to instructions from Washington.

- I. Conduct an educational campaign explaining the Child Welfare program as a war measure.
1. Hold a series of public meetings in county seat. Discussions of Children's Year, The Children's Bureau, The Program, War and Delinquency, Home Service, etc.

2. Hold a series of instructional meetings for the women and girls who volunteer for the work of the test.
3. Publicity—newspaper articles about meetings, reports of plans, items about volunteers, local adaptations of leaflets and press notices from the Children's Bureau. Home-made posters, posters and charts from Extension Division of Indiana University, from State Board of Health and Board of State Charities.
4. Announce meetings and purpose of tests in churches, lodges, library, motion picture shows (lantern slides and four-minute talks).

II. Enlist volunteers for tests, clinics, and children's health conferences.

1. List of physicians, nurses, women who have had first aid courses.
2. Hostesses, clerks, women detailed from clubs to assist in tests, also volunteer social (charity) workers.

III. Register all children in county.

1. Regular school census takers obtain name, address, age and telephone of children under six.
2. Women's registration workers obtain name, etc., of children.
3. Superintendent of schools asks each teacher in county to obtain names through cards taken home by school children.

IV. Township trustees instructed to form child welfare committees of women and teachers in every school district, co-operating with township councils of defense.

1. Instructed to register children and to arrange for physicians and women to make tests.
2. Schoolhouses used as centers, also physicians' offices.

V. Center for weighing and measuring tests.

1. Public health station at county seat, office hours 2 to 5 each day, parents bring children after appointment by phone.
2. Children's health conferences arranged once a week according to instructions in Bulletin No. 23 of the Children's Bureau.
3. Weighing and measuring of children by committees of parent-teacher associations in school buildings.
4. Tests by teams taking scales in automobiles to children's homes.

VI. Safeguarding the children at the tests.

1. These tests and the children's health conferences are not clinics; they are not for sick children, but for well children—to determine the state of their health, to discover defects, to suggest better care when needed. Children with rash, colds, contagious disease, etc., must not be admitted to the examination centers.
2. Parents may not come to centers with children, except by appointment; no waiting in a room full of people.

VII. Public taught to consider tests not as a device for accomplishing immediate results in remedying defects, but a device to center attention of the nation on the child in war time.

For further suggestions address
PUBLIC WELFARE SERVICE,
Extension Division, Indiana University,
Bloomington, Indiana.

Grub-stake your home from the farm and garden; the railroads must carry food and munitions for soldiers.

When the war is over there will be only two kinds of men left—the men who did and the men who didn't.

Food control in North America today means chiefly getting the food across the Atlantic at all costs.

Fourth of July Program Should Be Peculiarly Appropriate in 1918

Council of National Defense Proposes That the Nation's Birthday Be Celebrated in a Manner Fitting the New Spirit of Devotion

The following communication from the Council of National Defense has been received by the Indiana State Council and is being distributed to the county councils. The attention of township and community councils is herewith directed to the very timely and pertinent recommendations:

Each County Council of Defense is responsible for the observance of the Fourth of July in each of its communities.

America is for the first time fighting shoulder to shoulder with nations of Europe and Asia in the cause of liberty and justice, and it is fitting that our day of Independence should be made a day for the expression of the unity of purpose which is welding nations together in the present struggle.

Our citizens of foreign extraction have petitioned the President for an opportunity to manifest on the Fourth of July their loyalty to the United States and the cause for which it is fighting. In response to this petition the President asks all citizens of America to join with them in commemorating this as the anniversary not only of national freedom but of universal freedom.

The Council of National Defense urges each County Council of Defense to provide for a celebration of the Fourth of July in each of its communities which will fulfill this purpose. We suggest the following procedure for the organization of such a celebration in each community.

Organization.

Bring the whole community together, merging into one the celebrations of all societies and organizations. Get the whole community into your program, and it will bring the whole community into your council.

Delegate the direct responsibility for carrying out the plans of the community celebration to one person, as Chairman of the Celebration Committee. Include on this committee a representative from each foreign-born group of considerable size in the community. Make simplicity the keynote of the program. Don't spend a great amount of money, nor undertake any plans that will interfere with the regular local war activities.

Give wide publicity to all plans for the community celebration through postcard notices, posters, hand bills, and the local newspapers. No person should fail to attend through lack of notice.

Hold the celebration out of doors if possible, but arrange that all features of the program may be given indoors in case of rain. The program might effectively be followed by a simple community supper or picnic, which would prove an attractive feature of the day's celebration.

If a parade is thought advisable, the carrying of flags of the 21 Allies would be found effective. A delegation of any foreign-born group desiring to take part in the community celebration should be included.

The following program of patriotic exercises is suggested as a model after which each community may shape its plans. The celebration may be simple or complex as local conditions determine.

Program.

1. "America" sung by the whole audience, and led by a well-trained community chorus. (Song sheets containing words and music of patriotic songs should be distributed.)

2. A dramatic pledging of allegiance to the flag by local boy and girl scouts.

3. The reading of the Declaration of Independence.

4. Patriotic selections by the local band. This should include the national airs of our allies.

A short speech—not longer than 15 minutes—bringing out the aims of the United States and all free nations in the war of 1917. (The services of the State Speakers' Bureau, and the organization of Four-Minute Men may be of assistance in procuring this speaker.)

6. Community singing of patriotic anthems led by a community chorus. One or more of the new war songs would also be appropriate.

7. Reading of a message from President Wilson to the people of the United States. If a special Fourth of July message is sent out by President Wilson this, of course, should be read.

8. A short play, tableau, or pageant depicting the unity of all people in the cause of freedom for which the United States is fighting. (A plan for a simple pageant follows.)

In the Cause of Freedom.

Fourth of July Pageant.

PLACE.

The pageant should be held out of doors upon a sloping hillside, with a background of trees, or on the steps of some imposing public building.

MUSIC.

As there is no dialogue throughout the pageant, music plays an important part. The best band or orchestra which the community affords should be secured, and the singing should be led by the community chorus.

Synopsis of the Pageant.

(This should be printed in the program or read to the audience before the opening of the pageant.)

Independence Day dawns with all right-thinking nations united in a common struggle for the freedom of humanity. The picture that we would present symbolizes the triumph of Freedom in this cause. At the opening, Humanity and her Happy Children dance upon the scene. They meet a group of refugees fleeing from the ravages of barbarian militarism. Humanity contrasts the unhappy children of the refugees with her joyous little ones. She summons Justice to her aid, who calls upon the nations of the world to enlist in the cause of Humanity and Freedom. The nations rally to the support of Right. The symbols of war, the Warrior, the Red Cross, the War Loan, and Food Supply are brought forward, and Freedom appears, welding all right-thinking nations together in a common cause.

Outline of the Pageant.

